Loyola TV Held Legal By Court

'Alien' Complaint Judged Invalid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that a Jesuit-operated educational institution does not fall within the ban on alien control of communications facilities.

The unanimous decision by three judges who heard the case rejected contentions that Loyola University of New Orleans is a representative of an alien and thus ineligible under U. S. law to hold a television permit.

These contentions were advanced by James Noe & Co., which sought the channel 4 permit awarded by the Federal Communications Commission to Loyola.

Protestants and other Americans United for Separation of Church and State (POAU), a predominantly Protestant organization, filed a friend-of-the-court brief in which it contended Loyola is an "instrumentality of the Holy Roman Pontificate," a foreign sovereignty and "the true beneficiary of the proposed grant."

Speaking for the court, Judge George Washington said Loyola "seems to us to fall neither within the letter nor the spirit of the statute" barring broadcast licenses to aliens.

Washington said this provision of the communications act was directed primarily at preventing alien activities against the government in time of war, adding:

"The relationship of Loyola to the Society of Jesus hardly seems to endanger our national security. Certainly the mere fact that the rector is appointed by an ecclesiastical superior who is an alien, is not enough to bring Loyola within the interdiction of the cited statute."

Takes Internal Risks

Tunisian President Gives West Support

TUNIS (AP)—President Bourguiba of Tunisia Thursday gave the West the strongest pledge of support yet made by any leader of an Arab state.

With a blistering attack on President Nasser's United Arab Republic, Bourguiba told Tunisia's Constituent Assembly:

"Yes, I am Western, and I will remain so."

Outlining his reasons for breaking diplomatic relations with the UAR, Bourguiba declared the Egyptians had worked with those who plotted to assassinate him.

In thus burning his bridges behind him, Bourguiba took plenty of risks in his newly independent nation, where poverty and economic woes feed discontented nationalists who are anti-Western.

Although Bourguiba's influence remains overwhelming, he has been facing rising criticism in his country where French aid has been all but cut off and U.S. aid [illegible] is hardly more than a trickle.

Bourguiba said, in effect, that from his experience he found that Tunisia could not do business with the UAR so long as Nasser was in control.

By aligning himself with the West Bourguiba said he was serving the cause of his people and even of the nationalists in neighboring Algeria, who have been fighting France for independence.

Bourguiba's statement joining the Western powers improves his chances as a mediator between the Algerian nationalists and Premier Charles de Gaulle.

However, the Algerian nationalists first face a moment of decision since they maintain headquarters in Cairo and Tunis. If the Algerians choose Tunis, Bourguiba's role would be strengthened.

Bourguiba's stand caused soul searching in Morocco. Bourguiba's special envoy, Abdallah Farhat, reported to Morocco's King Mohamed V Wednesday night and came away saying the king expressed the feeling that Tunisia and Morocco must remain side-by-side. However, no official Moroccan comment has yet been made on the Tunisian break with Cairo.

Liberality In Algeria Irks Group

Premier Uses Army Threat to Halt Strike

ALGIERS (AP)—A French Rightist attempt to buck Premier Charles de Gaulle's liberal policies in Algeria collapsed Thursday. De Gaulle remained victor in the field, free to run Algeria his own way.

The civilians of the badly divided Public Safety Committee called off their general strike and demonstrations under direct orders from the Army. And the Army got its orders from De Gaulle in Paris.

The embittered extremists had rocketed De Gaulle to power last May but soured on him. They hoped by a display of strength in Algeria's streets to rally support against the premier's plan to give the Arab-Berber population a stronger role in Algerian affairs.

The forums in front of the Algiers government building was empty at the hour appointed for the demonstration. The Army, following De Gaulle's orders to ban demonstrations, surrounded the area just in case.

The extremists were aroused by De Gaulle's orders for the Army in Algeria to quit politics and for freely run elections here on Nov. 23. Those orders went out Tuesday.

For the hard-core Army leaders in Algerian, De Gaulle's orders meant they had to resign from the Public Safety Committee born out of the May 13 revolt against the weak French Fourth Republic.

The Army men followed De Gaulle's orders, some bitterly. But many of the civilian extremist members of the committee tried to hang on and press their case for Algeria.

Thus, it boiled down to this: would the Army support the extremists or obey De Gaulle? The collapse of the extremist plan showed that the Army is loyal to De Gaulle.

Pool Stands Out as Unusual Architectural Display

Recreation Galore Now Available in New IM Building

By SUZETTE RAMSEY
State News Night Editor

The spotlight turns on a poised figure on the high board. She gracefully leaps and lands in the deep water as the underwater lights dramatize the dive.

This effect couldn't happen in the Women's Gym, but it can and will happen in the new Women's Intramural Building.

Among other new facilities, the pool stands out as an unusual architectural feature. It is one and a half times as wide as the old one, though five yards shorter, being 75 feet long and 44 feet wide, the official length. There is more shallow area, but the deepest part reaches to 13 feet, whereas the old one only goes to 10.

The pool has six lanes for intramural meets, compared to the previous number of four. Five hundred spectators may be seated for intramurals and special events such as the annual Green Splash show.

Underwater lights and spotlights may be employed for shows. Dorothy Kerth, chairman of the women's instructional program, calls the design around the wall of the pool, made to represent waves, "controversial, but many like it."

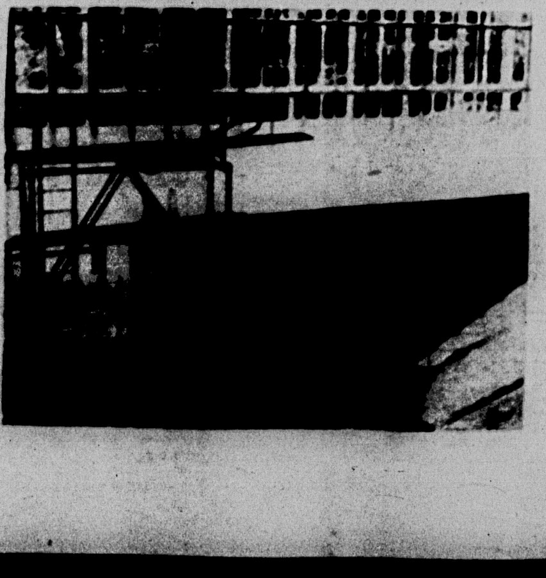
Also included in the building is a locker room for men. Miss Kerth hinted that in the future, co-educational swimming classes will be held.



The gym can be divided into two teaching areas. Folding bleachers for intramural games seat 250 on each side. Built-in speakers and record-players are also in the gym.

Each instructor has a small office of her own, enabling students to feel more free in consulting their teachers and enrollment officers.

The main locker in the addition has lockers for 5,000 girls, the first time in 40 years that all have been accommodated, according to Miss Kerth. Physical education majors and swimmers have their own lockers.

Space in the old section has been converted in one part to a lounge for physical education majors. An adjoining kitchenette makes it possible to serve coffee, making this an ideal room for teas, high school playdays, meetings for WAA, HPR, Green Splash and Promenaders, seminars and social activities.

The various multipurpose rooms are equipped with bright colors. Tables and chairs in these rooms may be stacked on top of each other.

The older part of the building is being rejuvenated. Probably the most outstanding redecoration here is the room where many seminars will be held. The venetian blinds are tinted blue to blend with the blue print drapes. The furniture is in a striking combination of blue and white.

Understanding that physical education plays an important role in university education, MSU has given its students the very best of facilities in an attractive setting.

Quantity vs. Quality Confronts Colleges

ONE OF THE REAL problems facing higher education is the rapid increase in enrollment and whether or not universities can efficiently handle the multitude of students.

With the influx of war veterans since World War II and the Korean conflict, the general economic improvement of the public, students flood the campus in search of attaining a higher education.

Confronted by this immensely profound problem, universities must provide adequate housing, classrooms, and, most important, the faculty to indoctrinate the students. Last year, the Michigan Legislature slashed $1 million from the MSU appropriation and nearly a million off the U of M budget.

This action by the politicians provided $20 million for MSU's operating costs, but no money was assigned for building construction or capital outlay. So the administration placed a ceiling on enrollment this year.

In this complex world, with its changing day-to-day problems, a higher education becomes a necessary commodity and no deserving student should be short-changed.

LAST WEEK, John Dale Russell, an educational expert, submitted to the public a two-year survey on higher education. In his analysis, Russell points out that the state's two major institutions, MSU and U of M "are probably nearing their maximum size."

He also opposes the idea of letting either university create new branches. It would be against state policy to permit establishment of more branches of the State-controlled institutions. "Instead, the communities where additional educational opportunities are needed should be encouraged to set up community colleges," Russell said.

He further suggested 23 locations where serious local consideration should be given to the establishment of community and junior colleges offering two-year curriculums.

RUSSELL URGED that one more state-supported college in Grand Rapids be started. He also advised Michigan to set up a coordinating board to be in all of the state supported institutions.

Russell's final conclusion implored the Legislature to appropriate an annual $29 million for the maintenance of existing physical facilities and the construction of new buildings.

Presently, MSU and the U of M are engaged in establishing new branches in Oakland and Dearborn respectively. Russell feels that when these two schools are "firmly on their feet" the parent institutions should give them autonomous status with their own control boards and administrative staffs.

Durward Varner, vice-president for off-campus education, didn't agree with the view that MSU has reached "maximum size."

"THERE IS NO EVIDENCE to indicate that quantity is synonymous with lack of quality in education," Varner said. "In a larger institution you're able to have more distinguished people in special areas as instructors which is not clearly possible for small colleges.

"Furthermore, a larger institution provides more resources, so the student can acquire a total education. It doesn't really matter if a person comes from a farm or a metropolis. At a larger institution a student learns to adapt himself to a larger, complex society."

With Russell's report now available, Michigan citizens should take careful note that larger appropriations must be granted if higher education is to expand and fulfill its obligation of instructing students efficiently.

Age of 'Package-Man'?

Students View 'Packaging'

To the Editor:

It has recently come to our attention that the university is ever ready to raise the doubt in the minds of those who question the existence of a truly great educational institution here at MSU.

Those who believe that MSU is outstanding only in the football field we refer to the October issue of "University Magazine." There the reader will find a magnificent example of how the University not only keeps pace with the urgent demands of a troubled world but also how it eagerly searches the leadership which many so-called universities lack. The case in point is the new and greatly needed field of packaging.

Where would we be without the science, the art, the profession of packaging? Without packaging our entire system of economic distribution would break down or, put it [illegible], we would all perish for want of food.

Where would we be today without such [illegible] of this industry as the flip-top cigarette box and pop-up boxes, the [illegible] squeeze-bottle shampoos, ketchup and toothpaste to cite but a few of the more magnificent packaging achievements?

Role Is Obvious

The part the university must play [illegible] of industry's great undertakings is obvious. It provides the education of the packaging experts.

It offers such specific courses as Principles of Packaging 205, Packaging Materials 320, Industrial Packaging 325, Packaging Materials 375, Consumer Packaging 422, Packaging Problems 426, Packaging Operations Analysis 427, Wood Containers 436, Seminar 465, Special Investigations in Packaging 500 and Research 527.

This exhausts the list at the present time, but we are sure that new courses will soon be added. Then, it is hoped, the university will confer the Ph.D. as well as the M.S.

We have little doubt indeed that the packaging program will expand and expand, for not only does our modern, complex society demand it, but industry itself has expressed its support in terms varying from advice to direct financial aid, and this month marks the beginning of a $1 million drive for a new building for the School of Packaging.

Studies Save Society

At first glance this might seem like a startling sum, but it [illegible] the greater the savings passed on to the consumer. As pointed out in "University Magazine," recent studies, investigations and research in packaging brought forth the radically new way of saving the [illegible] of cabbages and lettuce.

Multiply the weight of these wasted [illegible] by the number of people who consume lettuce and you come up with the tremendous saving of time and tons of lettuce.

Think of the potential of these leaps as possible weapons in the international struggle. After all, we must keep up with the Russians who were the first to package a dog and dispatch it on a [illegible] assignment.

It was gratifying to learn from the article that packaging majors today command salaries comparable to those of other products of MSU education, business administrators, hotel managers, restaurant [illegible], public relations men, agricultural scientists, football coaches, police chiefs, etc.

"Package-Man"

It is only through the efforts of our university that the "package man," the [illegible] of our society, can now claim his rightful place along side the other intellectuals and champions of our culture.

Let us, however, not pause in self-congratulatory praise, but hope that this marks merely the beginning of a trend. Let us hope that this beacon of MSU will not be the only one to shine out so brightly in the academic darkness around us.

More specifically, we propose that curricula of other industries be approached with a view of outlining their needs so that we may immediately set to fulfill them in the same splendid manner.

Let universities throughout this land emulate our noble example, let them shake loose the chains of traditional dogmatism in education, their slowly petrifying curricula which have changed little since the days of ancient Greece.

Fat Man's Story Carries Weight

LONDON (AP)—Timothy Melton, 18, a small fellow, went on trial Monday charged with obstructing the law—namely Police Constable Leonard Long, who weighs 238 pounds.

Timothy pleaded innocent and said since he was much smaller than Long he could not possibly obstruct him.

The Constable said Timothy refused to move when told to do so during a disturbance in nearby Wimbledon.

It wasn't that way, said Timothy.

"The Constable kept pushing me with his stomach," Timothy said. "I was trying to get around him to get away but he was always there."

The court found that Timothy's story didn't carry any weight and fined him four pounds (about $12).

Atlanta's Jewish Temple Case

FBI Seeks Expert in Bombing

ATLANTA (AP)—A heavy force of FBI agents and police concentrated their search Thursday for a central figure in the bombing of Atlanta's Jewish temple.

Officers did not disclose the name of the individual sought but indicated he is an expert on dynamiting.

Meanwhile, action to free five men already held in the case was started in court. Attorneys for the five sought their release on grounds that they are being detained illegally. A hearing on the writs was set for 10 a.m. today.

Scores of FBI agents are believed to be aiding Atlanta police in a search for the man who set off a big bundle of dynamite that ripped a hole in the Temple early Sunday.

Police believe solution of the Atlanta bombing also will clear up a Southwide wave of church and school dynamitings.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said this belief prompted him to ask for FBI help in the case. The pattern of similarity in the Southern dynamitings led to the conclusion that they are directed and financed centrally.

The investigators declined to comment on identity of a man reported to be financing anti-Semitic activity in this area. The man was identified only as a "fat cat" in a letter found in the home of one of the five men now in custody.

Attorneys for the five who [illegible] of court action to gain their release issued a statement emphasizing that they did not condone "this deplorable act of bombing the Temple."

James Venable and Essley Burdine, hired by families of the men held, said they were exercising the right of the five to have a charge placed against them or be released from jail.

Four of the five are charged with suspicion of vagrancy. They are listed as George Bright, 35, Luther King Corley, 26, Robert Bowling, 25 and Kenneth Chester Griffin, 32. The fifth man, Wallace Allen, 32, is charged with suspicion of dynamiting, a felony which can carry the death sentence.

Burdine represented Corley, Griffin and Bright when they were convicted on disorderly conduct charges and given 30-day sentences for picketing the Atlanta Journal - Constitution building with anti-Semitic signs earlier this year. Those sentences have been appealed.

The contagious fashion borrowed from the ballet is worn on campus at football games (better than a raccoon coat for warmth) for class (handy because of the new shorter skirt length) and for casual dates and dances. To Write or Draw?

Mademoiselle Opens Contest

Coeds — have you ever had a surpressed desire to write or draw what you have to say and gain recognition for your efforts in a national magazine? If so, the Mademoiselle College Board contest is right up your alley.

The only requirements are you must be an undergraduate, under 26 and won't be graduated before June. To be a Guest Editor you must be available to work in New York in June.

College Board offers not only recognition and publication of your work, but also an opportunity to be a Guest Editor of Mademoiselle's 1959 College Issue. This means a salaried month in New York, transportation paid.

If you are selected one of 20 guest editors, you'll be shown New York — the bright lights, theatre, high spots, and interview a celebrity of your choice.

For your tryout, you submit one of the many suggestions. For instance, if you write: What you consider to be a great cause of our times? A sketch of a college town, campus, student tradition. A critique of Mademoiselle as a magazine for the coed.

Or, draw your thoughts. Interpret a short story or article from any issue of Mademoiselle in any way you desire. Or show how you would redecorate your room if a rich relative left you $100 to spend any way your little heart desires.

Is promotion or designing your line? Then show through photos, clippings, sketches, etc., the fashion fantasies of your world. Or outline a campaign to promote studying or discourage marriage during college. Or plan the introduction of a new fall wardrobe line.

More suggestions will be found on posters in the Journalism building.

All entries must be no larger than 8½" by 11". Copy must be double spaced and typed. Put name, class and college address on each sheet of copy or art. On a separate page list name, class, college, home address, major, activities, summer jobs.

Newcomers Club Has Open House Thursday

Newcomers Club presented an open house at the President and Mrs. Hannah's home Thursday evening as their first meeting. Faculty members are eligible for membership during their first two years at MSU as the club's purpose is to acquaint newcomers to the campus.

Among its diverse activities the Newcomers plan bridge parties, dances, dinners and exhibitions highlighted by a house and garden tour.

Mrs. James Fisher is finding her second year in East Lansing a busy one. Last spring she was elected president of Newcomers Club of Faculty Folk.

Late summer of 1957 Mrs. Fisher and her husband, who is an assistant professor of geology, came to East Lansing from the University of Nebraska. Both are graduates of the University of Illinois.

In addition to being the mother of three children, Mrs. Fisher finds time for membership at the Edgewood Church, Congregational PTA and a member of the Newcomers' bridge group.

Assisting Mrs. Fisher at the opening reception for the Newcomers Thursday night and the coming academic year were Mrs. Theodore Forbes, vice president; Mrs. Ralph LeFevre, secretary, and Mrs. John Bakarus, treasurer.

Mobile Home, Trailer Show Scheduled

Units on Display In Parking Lot

The first educational mobile home and travel trailer exhibit is taking shape on the south campus.

For the last two days students in the Mobile Home curriculum at the university have been moving, cleaning and setting up the units that will be displayed today and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The exhibit will be held on parking lot Y, Shaw Lane, next to the fire station.

Among the units the students have obtained for the exhibit are a folding camp trailer, a travel trailer low enough to put in a garage.

Each of the units to be exhibited has been chosen as a representative of one type in the full range of travel and living facilities available. Special attractions at the show are an ambitious model and a 1924 unique original to depict the progress of mobile home manufacture and design.

Accident Witnesses Sought by Police

The two students who saw the accident Wednesday morning at Kensington Road and Grand River are asked to report to Corporal John Plume of the East Lansing Police Force immediately.

Tribe to Remain in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' front office Thursday put to rest speculation that the Tribe will fold up its teepee and move this year.

"We're here to stay," William Daley, chairman of the board of the baseball club, told a group of civic leaders who are part of a back the Indians group.

The group went into action last summer after Daley first hinted that because of dwindling attendance the Tribe management was beginning to listen to tempting offers from other parts of the country.

Daley picked world series week, while he was at Milwaukee, to announce that a final decision would be made soon by the directors on whether or not to move.

"In spite of some very attractive offers we think the baseball club is a good thing for Cleveland and we think we can restore Cleveland to where it is again a leading baseball city," Daley declared at a news conference following the meeting with the civic group.

He did not say where the offers came from, but Houston, Tex., and Minneapolis, Minn., had been mentioned prominently in speculation whenever an Indian move was rumored.

Daley said the decision to remain was unanimous in a poll of the directors. Previously, it was reported reliably that a group of directors, including Hank Greenberg, who control about 30 percent of the stock wanted to move. Daley, who holds 33 percent of the stock, has never said he wanted to move but said recently he might listen to the faction which was in favor of finding a new location.

"After all baseball is a sport as well as a business and we felt a certain civic responsibility to the city," he said.

Booters' Next Foe Is Purdue

Can Purdue's "spoiler" tradition be transferred to soccer?

But it is important to Coach Gene Kenney and his Spartan booters on the eve of their battle with the Boilermakers at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday (10 a.m.). There is a 16-game unbeaten string, seven-game winning streak and five-game shutout string to extend. And Spartan hopes to enter a possible national tournament at the end of the season hinge on a victory in this one.

This will be the third meeting of the two squads since the MSU soccer team reached varsity status in 1956. The series has not been a savory one. In 1956, State won, 5-4, in a snowy, wind-swept season finale. The game was marked by fights and nearly ended in a riot.

Last year, the Spartans again won by one goal, 3-2. There was a little less trouble that time, until the Purdue Exponent came out with the game story. There the Spartans were accused of dirty tactics, the refereeing was described as "bush," and the loss was excused because of Purdue injuries.

Kenney says he has little information on this year's Purdue team, but believes it is about the same as last year.

Purdue has a 1-1 record this year. The Boilermakers lost to powerful Illinois, 4-2, but defeated defending Midwest Conference champion Navy Pier, 3-2. State, which does not play Navy Pier this year, had to settle for two ties in the [illegible] games between the two.

Kenney has worries with his own team. He had indicated a "shakeup" of his forward line after last week's 1-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Still listed as doubtful starters are Eric Streder and Art Southan, key men in the Spartan scoring attack. Streder, who scored twice against Illinois Tech in his first varsity game, was sidelined last week with a leg injury. Kenney says Streder will see some action and may start.

Southan, co-captain and last year's top scorer, has been hampered all year by leg injuries. He has concentrated on running during practice this week and Kenney hopes his star center forward will be starting Saturday's contest.

SIDELIGHTS: Should State tie any games this season, a [illegible] minute overtime will be played. Each team will get the ball at the start of five-minute segments. If there is no score in overtime, the game will remain deadlocked.

State has had three ties in its two-year varsity history, but none have gone into overtime. Purdue defeated Navy Pier in a double overtime, since sudden overtime is required by Midwestern Conference rules. MSU is not a member of the conference and does not intend to [illegible]

Injured Spartans Engage Spoilers

Johnson, Kelly May Not Start

Donnahoo, LaRose Ready to Fill Posts

By HARDY CHRIST
State News Sports Editor

ART JOHNSON

CLIFF LAROSE

A sub-par Michigan State football squad leaves today via chartered airlines for a meeting with the Purdue Boilermakers Saturday. It's the first road trip for the Spartans this year.

The meeting place—Ross Ade Stadium—a place that the Spartans have been looking forward to ever since the Boilermakers spoiled their perfect record in 1957.

Last year at East Lansing, Purdue upset State, 20-13.

The Boilermakers have beaten State three times in the past five years and handed the Spartans their only defeat last season.

Ten fumbles, one on a touchdown run, and a penalty on another scoring play was the difference in last year's contest.

Both teams will be seeking their first Big 10 victory of the season in the twelfth renewal of an upset marked series that is expected to attract a capacity Homecoming crowd of 53,000.

Purdue holds a slim one game edge in the all-time series standing, having won six games from the Spartans while losing five and tying one.

This year it's another showdown game between the two teams. Although not having a loss to their record, the Spartans have one tie game, and a loss to Purdue would all but eliminate them from title contention.

Purdue is also gasping for breath in the Big 10. The Boilermakers, selected by many preseason forecasters to rank as one of the top teams in the conference, proved easy prey for the University of Wisconsin last weekend, 31-6.

Halfback Art Johnson, rushing leader of the Spartans with a 4.0 average, sustained a broken nose and a knee injury against the University of Pittsburgh last weekend.

The speedy halfback was alternating with Roger Donnahoo in Thursday's practice session, and he's a doubtful starter.

Another worry for Daugherty is Arch Matsos, who suffered a sprained knee against Pittsburgh and will be out for two weeks. Matsos is the second-string center.

Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf, providing his players are all healthy, plans no significant changes in the alignment of his starting and alternate units.

Mollenkopf has assembled a powerful 1-2 punch at each of his backfield positions. He can call on quarterbacks Bob Spoo and Ross Fichtner; fullbacks Bob Jarus and Jim Redinger; and halfbacks Leonard Wilson, Tom Barnett, Clyde Washington and Dick Stillwagon.

From Strangers, Too!

Army's Lonesome End Gets Friendly Ribbing

"Before this, nobody knew I was around," Carpenter said Thursday while preparing for Saturday's game with Virginia. "Now I'm a marked man. I have to take a lot of ribbing. And I've started getting letters from strange people."

"Carpenter, a towering 205-pounder from Springfield, Pa., is the key man in Coach Earl Blaik's new offense which has captured the imagination of the country.

He lines up 18 to 25 yards wide of the rest of his team, and just parks there as a pass-receiving threat and decoy. He never even goes into the huddle.

To the rival football coach, he poses a menace. He must be defensed. But to his classmates and outsiders he is fair game for some friendly jibes.

"What's the matter, lonesome George," they'll say. "Won't your best friends tell you?"

"Why don't you use a man's deodorant?"

"Don't be half-safe."

These jests follow him on and off the field, Carpenter said, and they've even started coming through the mail. He must be the No. 1 pinup boy of the lonely hearts club. His fan mail is the heaviest on the team.

"Last week I got several letters from South Bend," he said. "They kidded me I wouldn't be lonesome there. There would be plenty of Fighting Irish to keep me company."

Carpenter said he is constantly being asked what he thinks about while out in the flats all alone. Does he dream about the evening date? Does he gaze at the spectators in the grandstand?

"The odd thing," Bill said, "is that with this formation I have to concentrate more than I ever did before. Because I don't get in the huddle, I must concentrate on the signals. I can't make a mistake.

"And it's tougher to catch a pass, too. They know I'm out there and they're always covering me 'Lonesome.' Heck, I never have time to get lonesome. The name is a big mistake."

Yanks Split Series Loot 32 Ways

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees cut their World Series shares into 32 full slices with each worth $8,759, Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick revealed Thursday.

Each full losing share for 31 Milwaukee Braves amounted to $5,896. So, Bob Turley's fine relief job and the four-run rally in the eighth inning of the seventh game meant $2,863 for most members of the Yankees.

Frick fined 22 Milwaukee players $50 each last Monday for the premature disclosure of their financial breakdown.

"I fined only 22 because they were the only ones eligible to vote on the Series' cuts," Frick explained. "A player must be on the roster June 1 and remain until the end of the season to be permitted to be at the meeting."

The Yanks cut Virgil Trucks in for a full share. The veteran reliever joined the club in mid-June. Murry Dickson, who was acquired from Kansas City Aug. 26, received a three-fourths share worth $6,569.33.

Sal Maglie, released by New York June 14, was given a half share totaling $4,379.54. One-fourth shares were awarded to infielder Fritz Brickell, outfielder Bobby Del Greco and pitcher John James.

Actually, each winning share was worth $8,759.10 for 10 Yankees and $.01 less for 22 others. This was because the total distribution to the Yankees of $304,938.71 could not be divided evenly. The Yanks who wound up a penny richer started with Hank Bauer and ended with Tony Kubek in an alphabetical breakdown.

Midwest Newsmen Rate Williams High

Screening Board Issues Call For All-America Candidates

CHICAGO (AP)—The first call for all-American candidates from the Midwest spotlights three quarterbacks who hold the key to their clubs' bids for the Big 10 football championship.

SAMMY WILLIAMS
. . . all-America prospect . . .

High praise went to Michigan State's 225-pound, 6-5 end, Sam Williams. "He has amazing agility for a big man and is the heart of the Spartan team," said George Alderton of the Lansing State Journal. Eddie Hayes of the Detroit Times declared "Williams is one of the best of all time."

The nine-man regional screening board Thursday cited quarterbacks Frank Kremblas of Ohio State, Dale Hackbart of Wisconsin and Randy Duncan of Iowa as exceptional All-America candidates.

Hackbart and Duncan have a personal showdown Saturday as Iowa invades Wisconsin for an important conference struggle. Kremblas hooks up with Hackbart in their Oct. 25 Wisconsin at Ohio State game and faces Duncan Nov. 15 as Ohio State invades Iowa.

The first board "reading," surprisingly, offered more linemen than backs for special consideration. Fullback Nick Pietrosante of Notre Dame and halfback Don Clark of Ohio State were the only other backs mentioned.

On the other hand, five ends, four guards and two tackles were tabbed for notice. Among the standout wingmen named were Williams, Gary Prahst of Michigan, Earl Hill of Wisconsin, Tom Franckhauser of Purdue and Ron Hill of Illinois.

Well regarded at guards were Al Ecuyer of Notre Dame, Ron Maltony of Purdue, Bill Kerr of Indiana and Gary Grouwinkel of Iowa. Wisconsin's fine tackle pair of Jim Heineke and Dan Lanphear was cited.

The Midwest's 1958 screening board is composed of Bill Fox of the Indianapolis News, Hayes, Sid Hartman of the Minneapolis Tribune, Bill Jauss of the Chicago Daily News, Johnny O'Dell of the Davenport, Iowa, Democrat, Earl Flora of the Columbus, Ohio, Journal, Hank McCormick of the Wisconsin State Journal at Madison, Alderton, and sportscaster Don Wells of Chicago station WCFL.

Of Ohio State's Kremblas, Flora commented "his running, passing and strategical game against Illinois last Saturday was the outstanding individual performance I've seen thus far."

Jauss said "generalship, and running make Kremblas the top player I've seen in three games."

Iowa's Duncan handles nine-tenths of the Hawkeye offense, reported O'Donnell, "and he can throw with the best of them."

Frosh Eleven Meets Varsity Subs Today

By JIM WALLINGTON

Three weeks of practice will end this afternoon for the freshman football squad when it will clash with varsity team members who failed to make the Purdue game traveling squad.

The scrimmage will begin at 4 p.m. at the Secret Practice field.

The squad is preparing for the annual Green and White series of games with the "big one" Nov. 19 in Spartan Stadium. Others will be played Nov. 6 and Nov. 13.

Today's scrimmage and others throughout the year are scheduled for incentive purposes by Coaches Gordon Serr and Carl "Buck" Nystrom.

Big 10 rules prohibit freshmen teams playing an interscholastic schedule. The conference feels that the men should concentrate on their studies in the first year, Coach Serr explained.

In the freshman year, the players are taught the complicated Michigan State multiple offense. They must make the adjustment from high school football to college style, Nystrom pointed out.

Even though the squad size has diminished from 150 the first day to a present total of 75, the coaches are unable to name a group of the top players.

Several former high school stars are on the freshman team. In this group are Gary Ballman, East Detroit, Art Brandstetter, East Lansing, Larry Hudas, Detroit, Carl Charon, Boyne City, and Leroy Miller, Midland.

As Major's Gopher Ball King

Robin Roberts Loses Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Robin Roberts of Philadelphia allowed 10 fewer homers in 1958 than last year and relinquished the undesired gopher ball title he held since 1954 to Don Newcombe and Johnny Antonelli.

Roberts gave up 30 home runs. Newcombe, who was traded from Los Angeles to Cincinnati last June, and Antonelli of the San Francisco Giants shared the National League lead with 31.

Figures compiled by the Associated Press also disclosed Thursday that Pedro Ramos of Washington led American League pitchers for the second consecutive season. He yielded 38 gophers. Ramos set the league record in 1957 by permitting 43 to be hit off his serves.

Newcombe, whose pitching has been declining steadily since winning 27 games two years ago, was touched for eight homers by Pittsburgh and six by San Francisco the past season. St. Louis and Los Angeles each had five off his pitches. Philadelphia and Chicago three each and Milwaukee one.

Antonelli gave up only 19 homers in 1957. In 1958, the veteran lefthander served up seven homers to Milwaukee, five each to Los Angeles and Chicago, four to Cincinnati and St. Louis and three each to Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Antonelli won 16 games and dropped 13.

Ramos had a most difficult time with Jackie Jensen of Boston, who tagged him for five homers. The Red Sox and Detroit each walloped nine off the Senators' righthander, who compiled a 14-18 record.

Billy Pierce of Chicago was second to Ramos with 33 gopher balls. He was followed by Ralph Terry of Kansas City with 29 and Jim Bunning of Detroit, 28.

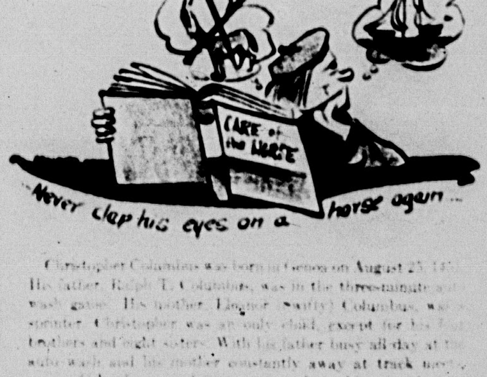
SAIL ON, SAIL ON!

I suppose October 12 is just another day to you. You get up in the ordinary way and do all the ordinary things you ordinarily do. You have your breakfast, you walk your ocelot, you go to classes, you write home for money, you burn the dean in effigy, you watch Disneyland, and you go to bed. And do you give one little thought to the fact that October 12 is Columbus Day? No, you do not.

Nobody thinks about Columbus these days. Let us, therefore, pause for a moment and retell his ever-glorious, endlessly stirring saga.



CARE of the HORSE
Never clap his eyes on a horse again...

Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa on August 25, 14[illegible]. His father, Ralph T. Columbus, was in the three-minute auto wash game. His mother, Eleanor (Swifty) Columbus, was a sprinter. Christopher was an only child, except for his four brothers and eight sisters. With his father busy all day at the auto wash and his mother constantly away at track meets, young Columbus was left pretty much to his own devices. However, the lad did not sulk or brood. He was an avid reader and spent all his waking hours immersed in a book. Unfortunately, there was only one book in Genoa at the time—Care of the Horse by Aristotle—and after several years of reading Care of the Horse, Columbus grew restless. So when rumor reached him that there was another book in Barcelona, off he ran as fast as his fat little legs would carry him.

The rumor, alas, proved false. The only book in Barcelona was Cuidar un Caballo by Aristotle, which proved to be nothing more than a Spanish translation of Care of the Horse.

Bitterly disappointed, Columbus began to dream of going to India where, according to legend, there were thousands of books. But the only way to go to India was on horseback, and after so many years of reading Care of the Horse, Columbus never wanted to clap eyes on a horse again. Then a new thought struck him: perhaps it was possible to get to India by sea!

Fired with his revolutionary new idea, Columbus raced to the court of Ferdinand and Isabella on his little fat legs (Columbus was plagued with little fat legs all his life) and pleaded his case with such fervor that the rulers were persuaded.

On October 12, 1492, Columbus set foot on the New World. The following year he returned to Spain with a cargo of wonders never before seen in Europe—spices and metals and plants and flowers and—most wondrous of all—tobacco! Oh, what a sensation tobacco caused in Europe! The filter had long since been invented (by Aristotle, curiously enough) but nobody knew what to do with it. Now Columbus, the Great Discoverer, made still another great discovery: he took a filter, put tobacco in front of it, and invented the world's first filter cigarette!

Through the centuries filters have been steadily improved and so has tobacco, until today we have achieved the ultimate in the filter cigarette—Marlboro, of course! Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! Great tobacco, great filter, great smoke! And so, good friends, when next you enjoy a fine Marlboro Cigarette, give a thought to the plucky Genoese, Christopher Columbus, whose vision and perseverance made the whole lovely thing possible.

And thank Columbus too for Philip Morris Cigarettes, for those who want the best in non-filter smoking. Philip Morris joins Marlboro in bringing you these columns throughout the school year.
