Nixon Angrily Defends Civil Rights Program

Ike Raps Split Dems In Speech

No Boondoggling During Recession

PITTSBURGH (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday night challenged voters balloting Nov. 4 to choose between what he called feuding, futile, deadlocked government under the Democrats and the promise of unlimited progress under the Republicans.

He declared his administration achieved an economic resurgence from the business recession without flooding the economy into inflation.

Maintaining in his prepared text the hard-hitting tempo of his campaign for a Republican Congress, he said, in biting words:

"The formula of the radical wing of the opposition was a resort to panic and a raid on the taxpayers' dollar."

Eisenhower spoke scornfully of what he said were hair-brained spending schemes of some Democrats and said he was conservative in his choice of words when he called them "irresponsible and radical."

He spoke out in an address prepared for delivery at a party rally at the Syria Mosque Auditorium.

In his Pittsburgh address, over an 18-state television hook-up, the President said Democrats had advocated a frenzy of spending and fat federal hand-outs as the only cure for economic downfalls.

And he again said Democrats have sharp division within their ranks.

He again attributed to the Truman administration... without mentioning it by name, neglect of the missile program.

Jobs, he said, "are not provided by hair-brained schemes that undermine the economy and thus jeopardize jobs of 64 million Americans already employed."

On the other hand, Eisenhower said:

"Clearly, sensible Republican policies have brought the workingman more dollars than all the boondoggles ever conceived by the opposition."

NATO Official Calls Alliance Total Success

LONDON (AP) — Paul Henri Spaak, secretary general of NATO, declared Monday night the North Atlantic alliance has been 100 percent successful.

Spaak spoke while leaders of many NATO powers were studying the controversial call by Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery, NATO's former deputy supreme commander, for a drastic shakeup of the alliance.

Addressing the British Atlantic Committee in Leeds, Spaak said:

"The Atlantic treaty was signed to put a stop to communist expansion in Europe. No one can believe that it is merely a coincidence that communism after its many spectacular successes between 1939 and 1948, has made no further progress in Europe in 10 years since the western powers joined forces."

Spaak said the credit "must be given to NATO, and particularly to the NATO members who have served the cause of freedom so well, and for having successfully defended the independence of the democratic countries of Europe."

Spaak, of Belgium, did not directly refer to Montgomery's assertion that NATO is over-loaded by bureaucracy and its strategy is muddled.

Flint Speech Upholds Ike Republicans

State Campaign Aids Local GOP

FLINT (AP) — Vice President Nixon angrily rejected Monday a suggestion that that Eisenhower administration is not moving forward on civil rights.

Nixon campaigned across Michigan for hard pressed Republican candidates after a blowup at a Minneapolis, Minn., news conference in which he covered a broad range of political issues.

Asked by a reporter why the administration had not responded to demands made by a youth march group in Washington for civil rights action.

Nixon flared back, eyes flashing and chin jutting:

"I am not going to stand here and take an insinuation that I have refused to discuss civil rights in this campaign. I have made the same speeches in the South that I have in the North."

"If the Democrats do a little job with Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas and Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia, it would be better for all concerned."

The youth marchers, who failed to see President Eisenhower, asked the withholding of federal funds from states which flaunt the Supreme Court's integration decision, an end to Senate filibusters, federal funds to keep open integrated schools and a law making dynamiting of public buildings a federal offense.

Nixon dismissed the news conference with an emphatic "Thank you, gentlemen, that is all," without mentioning those demands.

In a much more affable mood, the Vice President answered questions on this broad range of topics:

GOP control — he was not consulted about a statement of Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.) an old friend, that Nixon will take over control of the Republican Party immediately after the November election.

He doesn't subscribe to that idea, Nixon said. He believes in development of new leaders — an obvious reference to Nelson Rockefeller, GOP new-face candidate for Governor of New York.

The news agency Tass said the credit to Argentina is repayable through deliveries of other goods over a seven year period.

Plans for Change In Comm Skills Told

MUCH TALK HAS BEEN circulating recently in the South Campus barracks, the "temporary" home of the department of communication skills...

NOT ALL, OF COURSE, have found fault. Many students have pointed out that their ability to organize and deliver speeches was improved by the practice gained in Comm. Skills...

As the course syllabus points out in its introduction, the progress of humanity clearly depends upon man's ability to communicate effectively.

IN ANSWER TO THE QUERY. "Why must I study four skills in one course?" the syllabus continues that "learning to communicate effectively means using all four skills..."

THE SPEAKING PHASE of the course has been guilty of increasing demands upon class time as sections become larger. It now consumes one-third of class hours...

There is really not enough time, in the limited number of class hours, to teach all four skills of communication adequately. The student gains a little proficiency in each, perhaps, but cannot be called "skilled" in any one.

And, given the proper time in which to teach communication, or a part thereof, that curriculum must be made truly a challenge for the university student.

The first term Joe College may know well enough whether or not Ma Brody is serving good meals, but we doubt if he is a qualified enough connoisseur to pick his own intellectual menu.

Potter vs. Hart in Senate Race Know Your Political Candidates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Senator Charles Potter Newspapers several times have carried stories about how Senator Charles Potter broke a leg during his strenuous campaign for re-election to the U. S. Senate.

Potter, a legless war veteran, merely has the artificial limb repaired and continues to stump the state. This is typical of Potter's record of perseverance under adversity.

Diagnosed With UAW A former auto plant worker, Potter has declared himself a friend of the working man but he disagrees with many union leaders, particularly in the United Auto Workers.

"The main thing is how to better the condition of the most people," he has said. "Unfortunately, some programs advocated for that purpose do just the opposite."

Potter enlisted in the Army as a private in the Second World War, and rose to the rank of Captain during some of the heaviest European fighting. He was wounded in action three times.

Potter has been known as a conservative liberal and an ardent supporter of President Eisenhower. He has broken with the President on only a few issues. Lt. Gov. Philip Hart is making a bid to become a political figure on his own in his challenge of Senator Charles Potter for the Senate seat at stake Nov. 4.

Democrat Hart's chief assets are his record of hard work on a succession of elective and appointive jobs, and his friendliness in informal gatherings and persuasiveness on the political pulpit.

Hart put in long hours on the job during his two terms as Lieutenant Governor. Before his first election in 1954, he filled various appointive jobs.

General Rules in Pakistan

Mirza Steps Out, Ayub Moves Up

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—President Iskander Mirza stepped aside Monday night and, as expected, Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan emerged as Pakistan's strong man.

Mirza said he was handing over all powers to Ayub. He quit only a few hours after a new martial law cabinet was sworn in with Ayub as Premier.

Mirza and Ayub had been ruling with a two-man revolutionary government since Mirza junked the constitution and dissolved the National Assembly Oct. 7.

Gen Ayub Moves Ayub, the British-trained army chief, actually motivated the seizure of power. After Mirza ousted the old government of Premier Feroz Khan Noon, reporters—in Mirza's presence—gave this account of his role in the takeover:

"We both came to the conclusion that the country was going to the dogs. I said to the president, 'Are you going to act or are you not going to act?' It is your responsibility to bring about a change, and if you do not, which heaven forbid, we shall force a change."

Mirza had said two days after he canceled the constitution that he had no intention of remaining as President.

Monday night he gave these two reasons for stepping out:

"Any semblance of dual control is likely to hamper the effective performance of the immense task of evolving an effective structure for the future administration of the country."

"An unfortunate impression exists in the minds of a great many people, both at home and abroad, that Gen. Ayub Khan and I may not always act in unison. Such an impression, I cannot help feeling, if allowed to continue, would be most damaging to our cause."

Mirza wished Ayub and his colleagues good luck. Explains in Press Ayub, in a statement to reporters, said the decision contained in Mirza's declaration was taken in the larger interest of our country.

"I would like to emphasize that this change will in no way affect my policies," he added.

Ayub said machinery for carrying out the administration of the country for the immediate future already has been set up and would start functioning shortly.

Let us know resolve to face the tasks ahead of us as a nation and get down to solid and honest hard work without indulging in any speculation," he said.

Ward Worker Hart put in long hours on the job during his two terms as Lieutenant Governor. Before his first election in 1954, he filled various appointive jobs.

A campus acquaintance with Gov. Williams at the University of Michigan Law School threw Hart into Williams' orbit.

A graduate of Georgetown University, Hart practiced law in Detroit before being appointed by Williams as Michigan Commissioner and Securities Commissioner in 1949.

He later successively held posts as Michigan Director of the Office of Price Stabilization and U.S. District Attorney for the Eastern Michigan district.

Hart was legal aide to Williams when he was picked to run for Lieutenant Governor after an unsuccessful try for Secretary of State.

Does China Want to Get Off a Hook?

By J. M. ROBERTS AP News Analyst

The every-other-day war now proclaimed by the Chinese Reds against the offshore islands looks very much like the tactic of a regime which has failed in a major effort and wants to get off the hook without too much loss of face.

The Reds already had admitted after a fashion that the original Quemoy cease-fire was broken at the time of the Dulles visit to Formosa to keep him from claiming a victory.

"Peiping radio said last Thursday the Republics had been clamoring that the two orders for the temporary suspension of the bombardment of Quemoy were the result of the 'firm policy' followed by the United States and a 'victory' of its policy of 'no appeasement'."

Now the victory of the Republics has vanished into the air. Thus it may have been that the original bombardments were designed to see whether the Nationalist garrisons would crack up in the face of an actual assault threat, while the United States stood idle. Neither thing happened.

Even Chinese Nationalists, who might be expected to understand the Red psychology better than Westerners, don't profess to know just what motivates the various maneuvers.

Businesses Demanding More Cash

Financial Status Reported Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business demands for capital seem to be strengthening. These demands had fallen during the recession.

The Commerce Department reported the developments Monday. It attributed the recession drop in need for capital funds to inventory liquidation and a marked slowdown in spending for new plant and equipment.

As a result, it said, corporations liquidated a substantial portion of their outstanding short term debt, offsetting a steady and near-record expansion of long term liabilities. Bank borrowing was curtailed and proceeds from sales of stock were lower.

Corporations improved their financial position in terms of liquidity, or cash, the report said. The ratio of cash assets to short term liabilities was called noticeably higher at the end of June than a year earlier.

The department's survey of current business said most of the firms needed to finance the long term capital needs of corporations were generated by economy operations.

Funds from operations — retained earnings plus depreciation — totalled about 12 1/2 billion dollars in the first six months of 1958. This was about two billion less than a year earlier.

A 60 percent drop in retained earnings, which totalled two billion dollars for the six months, was more than offset by continued expansion of depreciation allowances.

LaPalombara Given High MSU Position

Dr. Joseph G. LaPalombara, a member of MSU faculty since 1953, has been appointed professor and head of the department of political science.

The appointment, effective Oct. 1, was approved Friday by the State Board of Agriculture.

LaPalombara succeeds Dr. Guy H. Fox who has served as acting head of the political science department since Sept. 1, 1957.

LaPalombara served briefly as acting head of the department before going to Italy last year under research and lecture grants. He was on leave from MSU between Sept. 1, 1957 and Aug. 31, 1958.

The new department head holds degrees from the University of Illinois and Princeton University. He joined the MSU staff in September 1953 after serving on the faculties of Oregon State College and Princeton.

He is the author of a book, "The Initiative and Referendum in Oregon: 1938-1948," published in 1950, and a number of magazine and journal articles.

Ex-Chem Prof Lectures

MAC Grad Returns To Talk at Kedzie

Professor Bert Peete, class of 1892, talked Friday at Kedzie about his experiences as a student at MSU when it was Michigan Agricultural College and as a teacher of chemistry in Michigan.

Peete spoke of the great changes that have made in the school. When he graduated there were approximately 300 students at State. He had professors of such caliber as R. C. Kedzie, Frank Kedzie, and W. J. Fial. He worked his way through college for 18 an hour.

In his senior year, he was editor-in-chief of a monthly campus magazine and a member of an honor society.

After graduating second in his class, Peete taught chemistry, botany, and zoology for five years in Grand Rapids high school. He then went to the U of M for graduate work and after that to a teaching post at Michigan State Normal College, now Eastern Michigan.

After he retired in 1941, Eastern dedicated a scholarship fund for outstanding chemistry students in his name.

When the war started, Peete volunteered to work at the Willow Run Lab in Detroit and worked there from 1942 to 1945. Due to the shortage of teachers, he returned to his profession at the end of the war to teach chemistry to returning GIs.

Peete now spends his summers at a cottage that he built at Crystal Lake and his winters in Florida. He still does a good deal of lecturing and some writing.

Peete also has the distinction of not having missed a MSU-U of M football game in years.

Mobilization Plan Okayed Over Ike

Document Lists Defense Duties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Government issued over President Eisenhower's signature Monday its first national plan for civil and defense mobilization.

The 32-page document sets forth in general terms the responsibilities of governments, industries and the public in non-military fields in situations of international tension, limited war or general war. This last situation includes massive nuclear or other attack on the U. S.

Eisenhower said in an introductory statement that so long as direct or indirect aggression is used as an instrument of policy, common sense and prudence require that every effort be made to protect the people of the U. S. by both active and passive means of defense.

The President directed all federal agencies to prepare for carrying out the national plan. He told them to submit realistic reports to the director of the office of civilian defense, a post now held by Lew A. Hearn.

The plan is limited to a statement of principles, responsibilities, requirements and broad courses of action.

International Drama To Grace MSU Stage

"The Diary of Anne Frank," winner of the Pulitzer and New York Drama Critics Awards, will be presented at the Aud Wednesday at 8:15.

A serious drama with a generous sprinkling of humor, this play was hailed by critics and audiences alike during its 90 days on Broadway. Its swarming account of a group of people in a Nazi concentration camp swept Europe's Eastern Asia, appearing in more than 30 countries.

The coveted role of Otto, Ann's father, is played by Francis Lederer, international actor who speaks six languages fluently and has played in all of them.

Pauline Hahn is unique among actresses who have played Anne Frank. Others have hailed from Australia, Germany, Holland, Italy, Japan, South Africa, Spain, and the Scandinavian nations while Miss Hahn is from New York's East Side.

Pauline Hahn, not quite 18, will play the teenage role of Anne, acting since she was 21. Miss Hahn has performed in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Thunder on the Left" and in the movie version of "Bell, Book and Candle." Recently she appeared in several Alfred Hitchcock shows and in "Picnic" and Kraft hour presentation.

U.K. OK's Independence For Nigeria Next October

LONDON (AP) — Britain Monday night agreed to grant full independence to Nigeria on Oct. 1, 1960.

Nigeria is Negro Africa's biggest nation, Britain's largest colonial holding and a near neighbor of independent Ghana, the first Negro Commonwealth member.

The announcement was made after a month-long Nigerian constitutional conference at Lancaster House, where 160 Nigerian leaders have worked out the future of the country with colonial secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd.

Thus a land larger than Texas will join the nations that make up the British Commonwealth.

Nigeria will add to the roll of former British possessions: India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaya, Ghana and Burma — to receive independence since the end of World War II.

The previous target date for Nigerian independence had been April 2, 1960.

Nigeria, on the West coast of Africa and in the tropics, has grown since Britain took full control in 1884 into a land of 35 million people. It covers 373,000 square miles.

Its federal capital is Lagos. Nigeria is a land of oil, iron, manganese and other raw materials. It grows cocoa, coffee, rubber and groundnuts.

Obafemi Awolowo, Premier of Western Nigeria, hailed the conference decision.

"Rarely in the course of human history has a nation come to the eve of independence without a shot being fired, without a drop of revolutionary blood being spilled, with hardly a word spoken in anger."

Teddy Having Centennial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of all our presidents, none matched Theodore Roosevelt in zest for living.

Even today, when the nation is observing the 100th anniversary of his birth, the mental image that arises is a little blurred, possibly because it's hard to think of Teddy except full steam ahead.

It's appropriate that even criticism of the great man by his contemporaries takes on a lively, robust air.

"That Damned Cowboy," the political boss, Mark Hanna, once called him.

A smart aleck, a rough and unrough person," said William McKinley, who had to take Roosevelt as his vice presidential running mate.

"What will happen to the country," Prof. Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, wondered after McKinley's assassination, "with that Mountebank as President?"

St. Louis Cardinals Defeated By Japanese All-Stars, 6-3

SENDAL, Japan (AP) — Sam (Toothpick) Jones, the major league's strikeout king, lost his cool during a four-run seventh-inning rally by the Japan All-Stars Monday and the St. Louis Cardinals were beaten for the first time in Japan, 6-3.

Gene Green homered for the Cardinals, who now have a 2-1 record in their 16-game tour of Japan.

The winning pitcher was Kazuhisa (The Rhino) Inao. He took over from Atsushi Aramaki in the seventh and gave up the third St. Louis run in the eight. Inao recently won four games as he led Nishitetsu Lions to victory in the Japan World Series.

"I couldn't throw the ball where I wanted to," said Jones. "It was the first time I faced a batter in four weeks." Jones struck out 225 and won 14 games last season.

Solly Hemus, the Cards' new manager, made no excuses for his team's defeat.

"The Japanese played a very fine ball game," he said. "I never thought they could play that well."

SAM WILLIAMS ... All-American end ...

After Serving Navy Hitch Williams Stars for Spartans

By LARRY WROBLEWICKI
Am's Staff Writer

It took a four-year hitch in the Navy to bring MSU's "greatest end in history" back to play in Spartan Stadium.

Sam Williams, current football captain, found the Navy could solve his personal problems.

When Sam came to MSU in 1949, he was completely "lost" in the multitude of students. He came from Dansville, a small town, with a population of 350, 25 miles southeast of Lansing. After a few weeks the lanky athlete decided he wasn't prepared for college.

Not satisfied with working at the Ordnance plant in Lansing, Williams enlisted in the Navy. While in the service, Williams developed into an exceptional football player. In 1953-54, Sam was chosen on the All-Sec-Svc squads.

Pro scouts became interested in Williams. But Sam still had an ambition to obtain a college education. So he returned to MSU in 1955.

"The training I received in the Navy helped me settle my problems and broaden my outlook on life. Now I was ready and willing to sacrifice anything because I wanted a college education," Williams remarked.

Immediately, the 6'2", 215-pound end attracted the attention of the Spartan coaching staff with his polished play as a freshman.

Gradually, Williams was drilled on the fundamentals which eventually distinguishes a mediocre performer from an All-American. He learned the intricate pass pattern, how to block, and how to disengage the opponent's plan of attack.

In his sophomore year, Sam finally made the starting team. At the National Football League draft in 1956, Williams was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams. He was eligible for the pre draft because his class of 1949 had graduated.

Last year, the 27-year-old end proved the Rams' gamble wasn't a fluke, but a profitable venture.

Sam teamed with Dave Kaiser to give State a potent pass-catching threat. But Williams really started on defense. He caused havoc by trapping enemy backs for considerable losses. On many occasions when the opposition was threatening, Williams would individually stall the drive with a key tackle.

Some sportswriters tabbed the "blond giant" as the most-valuable player in the Big 10. However, this honor went to Michigan's Jim Pace. At the conclusion of the football season, Sam was elected captain.

This fall Williams was picked on various All-American teams. In the five games played, Sam has filled all the requirements for All-American recognition. Although MSU's record is not impressive Williams' has been an inspirational leader.

Williams sized up the troubles of this year's team:

"The coaches are trying to find the right combination. Our defense has been outstanding, but the offense hasn't lived up to expectations.

"Don't forget this team has defeated some tough opponents. We beat California, 32-13. Presently Cal is the best Pacific Coast Conference team. We beat Pittsburgh, 16-8. Pitt tied Army, the No. 1 team in the nation Saturday, 14-14."

However, Williams is optimistic of the team's chances in the four remaining games.

"For the first time since probably 1954 we will be the underdogs for Saturday's homecoming game with Wisconsin. However, the players showed more hustle and determination Saturday and we could explode against Wisconsin," Sam said.

Coach Duffy Daugherty has continually praised Williams on his outstanding leadership.

Sam is the greatest captain I've had the pleasure to work with in my years as coach.

This indeed is a high compliment developing All-American merit. For MSU has pride itself on such great leaders as Bob Carey, Don Dohoney, Don Kautz, Bob Jewett and Kaiser have starred MSU to greatness.

Sportstalk Offense??

By HARDY CHRIST State News Sports Editor

What's happened to the famed Michigan State multiple offense, so well known since the Spartans have risen to prominence among the nation's elite football powers?

This formula for scoring touchdowns, first devised by Clarence "Biggie" Munn, then head coach and now athletic director, and present coach Duffy Daugherty, has been effective for only 11 touchdowns in the first five Spartan contests.

And in the last two games, the Spartans have been able to amass only a single touchdown, that coming against Purdue.

AT ANY RATE, the Spartan offensive machine has become more sluggish with each game. Last week Daugherty gave it a complete overhaul, but the result was worse, as all the sparkplugs were missing Saturday and the Spartans couldn't roll it into paydirt, namely the Illinois end zone.

The engine started well, but it kept stalling just short of its destination. Many times the Spartans were able to move into touchdown territory, but the final surge of power was missing.

EXHIBITING SEVERAL "novel" plays, such as faked punts, halfback passes and the like, State moved the ball down the field well—until a stout Illini defense smothered its attack when it got close to the goal line.

The main cause of the offensive machine to function seems to stem from inadequate drivers—the quarterbacks. In past weeks, Daugherty had high hopes for Mike Panitch to lead the team.

Many Spartan followers were blaming Panitch for the team's lack of offensive punch, but he held no responsibility for the worst showing in three years Saturday.

PANITCH, WHO SUSTAINED a sprained ankle against Purdue, wasn't in uniform against the Illini.

Even with Panitch at the helm, Daugherty shuffled his quarterbacks frequently during the games. Last week, however, the mentor called upon Greg Montgomery to do the signal-calling, and announced that he'd stick with the red head.

But once the pressures of the game began, the steady stream of substitutes occurred again, with Daugherty alternating Montgomery, Larry Bielak and Ike Grimaier.

MONTGOMERY SEEMS to have the necessary tools to make a top-flight quarterback, the kind which has been a trademark of past Michigan State teams.

It takes time and experience to adjust to a quarterbacking role, however, and Daugherty hasn't given Montgomery the time.

Instead of using three and sometimes four quarterbacks in a single game, it would be better if one man were able to play long enough to become acquainted with his teammates before being lifted for a substitute.

ALTHOUGH THE SPARTANS' overall performance Saturday was as drab as the dark clouds and threats of rain overhead at Memorial Stadium on the Illinois campus, two players turned in all-American performances.

Capt. Sam Williams continued his masterful work at his left end position. He showed the same brilliant play against Illinois that he had shown all season, and he's all but clinched an all-American berth.

Dean Look, playing although handicapped by a back injury, also kept the score close for most of the game. The fleet halfback, who suffered a badly-bruised back against Purdue, made several key tackles and halted one Illinois uprising with an intercepted pass in the second quarter.

But it was in the offensive department that Look excelled. Twice in punt formation, he faked punts and reeled for first downs. On the first one, he stood in his own end zone but sped to the 39-yard line, a play which started the Spartans on an 81-yard march before being halted.

Indians Trade Porter to Nats

CLEVELAND (AP) — Catcher J. W. Porter of the Cleveland Indians was traded to the Washington Senators Monday by shortstop Oswaldo Alvarez.

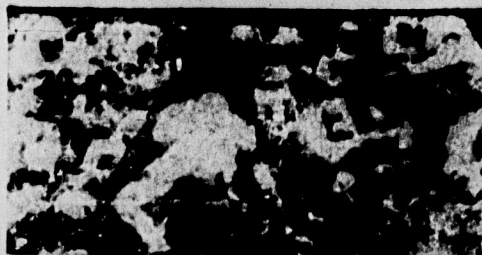

Porter, 35, came to the Indians from the Detroit Tigers last February. He appeared in 46 games for Cleveland, mostly as a pinch hitter, and batted .300 in 85 at bats.

Alvarez, who hit .209 for the Senators, replaced Rocky Bridges as the Washington shortstop after Bridges suffered a broken jaw.

Cagers Work For Dec. Start Smoothing Rough Edges Anderson's Present Job

The round-ball sport is making its appearance on the sports scene. Approximately a month from now, college sports fans will congregate in fieldhouses across the nation to watch basketball.

On the second floor of Jenison Gym, Coach Florida Anderson is smoothing the "rough edges" of the Spartan basketball team in preparation of the opener in late December.

We got a break in the weather and our running program has completed to my satisfaction," Anderson said.

Already Anderson is in the process of "getting the fundamentals down."

Wearing his familiar Bermuda shorts, Anderson shouts directions to his players to follow a

One of the shortcomings last season was State's foul shooting accuracy. Statistics reveal State was hitting at a 58.7 clip while the opposition was hitting at a 43.4 rate.

"We plan to really concentrate on foul shooting. Sometimes a free throw is a crucial part of a game and the difference between winning and losing," Anderson commented.

Although the first contest is a month away, Anderson is closely watching his charts to insure the tempo coincides with theirs.

"It's early in the season and we don't want to rush things. We figure a positive short scrimmage will be conducted Friday. For certain, Monday will be the first day of full-scale scrimmaging," Anderson concluded.

Duffy Promotes O'Brien Back to Tackle Position

Left tackle Fran O'Brien was the only so-called regular Spartan grinder to earn back his first-string position after the loss to Illinois last Saturday.

That was the only change Coach Daugherty made in the Spartans' lineup. O'Brien moved back in his regular job during Monday's practice, taking over for Paul Rochester.

The big tackle, starter in every game except against the Illini, was one of the seven regulars demoted after the Spartans were handed a 14-6 loss by Purdue.

Coach Daugherty ran most of the team through a one and a half hour scrimmage against the freshman team Monday.

Unbeaten Louisiana State took over the number one spot in the Associated Press college football poll Monday. Army leader the past two weeks, dropped to third place as a result of its 14-14 tie with the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Iowa, which is making a habit of knocking off previously unbeaten eleven, took over second place. Ohio State, in that position last week, dropped to fifth as it was held to a tie by Wisconsin.

Auburn, the poll leader until it was tied by Georgia Tech two weeks ago, moved up a notch this week to fourth place, edging Ohio State for the position by 26 points.

Behind the Buckeyes, the other teams voted into the top 10 by the sportswriters and sportscasters participating in the poll are, in order, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Colorado and Purdue.

The list includes four Big 10 teams in the top 10 — Iowa, Ohio State, Wisconsin and Purdue.

22 Miners Die In Mine Blast

166 Escape Disaster In Virginia Explosion

BISHOP, Va. (AP)—Twenty-two coal miners died Monday in an explosion in the Pocahontas Fuel Co.'s Bishop Mine where 37 men met a similar fate early in 1957.

Death was caused by a gas explosion, but it was not known whether or not the men had survived the explosion and died later of fumes.

The news was announced to hundreds of relatives and others who had waited anxiously for hours for some word of the miners' fate.

Relatives and miners had stood about in a chill rain as the rescue efforts got under way. Doctors, nurses and ambulances were on the scene.

The first indication of the fate of the men came when rescue teams reported bodies of eight victims had been found.

Seven of the bodies were found piled at the loading point where the men were working when the explosion came shortly after the new shift went to work. Another body was found nearer the mine's entrance.

Company officials said 188 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion. Two were trapped and the 166 others made their way safely from the mine.

Among the trapped men were eight miners who had worked the previous shift and had not left the mine. The others had come into the mine minutes earlier.

Four rescue teams worked in relays of two each in their slow and tedious job. They had to combat smoke and gas. Disruption of the mine's ventilating system slowed their progress, too.

Working with rescue teams were four company officials, West Virginia Mine Bureau chief and the safety director for the United Mine Workers of America.

"Do you really want your pension," the post office pay lady asked.

"I certainly do," said the Field Marshal. And he got it—50 shillings ($7).

Auditions will be held tonight and Wednesday night from 6:30-8:30 in room 43 Union for the Touring Talent Show sponsored by Senior Council.

East Lansing Residents to Vote On November Annexation Proposal

The residents of Lansing Township and the city of Lansing will again have the chance to vote on the proposal to annex the Lansing Township portion of the East Lansing school district to the city of East Lansing at the Nov. 4 election.

The question was defeated last year because under state law the votes of Lansing Township at a whole are counted with the votes of East Lansing and the township area proposing to annex are counted separately and must show a majority of yes votes in order for annexation to take place.

In the 1957 election the township area proposing annexation showed a majority favorable to annexation. When the votes of the township at large were counted in with the East Lansing votes, the heavier no vote in the township outweighed the yes votes in East Lansing, thus the proposal lost.

The proposed annexation area includes part of the MSU campus and is of particular interest to married students living in Spartan and University Villages having school age children.

Any registered voter in East Lansing or in Lansing Township may vote on this proposal.

Spartan Spirit Director Wayne Reganall saw his homecoming pep rally plans grow a little shakier Monday when MSU's Men's Glee Club warned him to pay for its appearance or it just plain wouldn't appear.

Glee Club representative Jon Schuster told Reganall his singing group would expect a $50 payment since it already was booked for another conflicting appearance Friday night.

Reganall's bureau is already under fire for alleged extravagance in pep rally planning from those who oppose using professional performers for entertainment.

"I'd like to pay you, but I just can't do it on my budget," Reganall told the Glee Club agent.

"We'd like to buy some new blazers," continued Schuster, "but if you can't pay, I guess we just won't be able to come."

As things stand now, Glee Club or no Glee Club, the pep rally will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in Jenison Fieldhouse and will feature the DeJohn Sisters, Duffy Daugherty and the football team and the MSU Activity Band.
