MSU TV Station Meets Obstacle

Jackson Firm Files Injunction

First Court Airing Slated for Monday

By SANDRA DOLLAHAN

An injunction filed against MSU to prevent construction of the television station on channel 10 will come up for hearing Monday — the same day construction was slated to begin.

A Jackson television firm filed the injunction with the circuit court of Jackson county, which in turn issued it Friday to university officials. According to MSU legal authorities, the Jackson Broadcasting and Television Company filed the injunction last week, halting construction operations.

The Jackson television firm was one of the unsuccessful applicants for channel 10 in the five-year-long hearings before the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

With a goal and the FCC provision in mind, MSU officials set May 1, 1959, as the deadline for completion of the television station and transmitted at Oronoco.

Operations were already planned for the very near future as the court order following action by the MSU governing board approving the bid of General Electric Corporation of $347,760 for equipment and construction of facilities for channel 10. The Jackson firm's objection is based on the same principal they used for argument during the FCC proceedings. They propose that MSU lacks the authority to finance the channel as planned. The technicality on which the Jackson firm is basing its argument concerns the proposition that the university has not the authority to complete a project which is self-liquidating.

Leahd Carr, MSU attorney, contends that the television operation would not be a self-liquidating project under the definition of the legislature's word in the appropriation act.

The university is not borrowing funds to build the transmitter and tower and is not using currently appropriated funds, he said. Money for the construction is from the Jenison fund which is privately entrusted to the MSU governing board, Carr added.

Carr contends that the MSU governing board, as a constitutional body, has authority to utilize the funds given it in the ways which the board deems advisable as long as they coincide with the aims of the university.

Channel 10 was awarded to MSU on a unique short-time basis with the Television Corporation of Michigan. The university planned to use 20 hours-per-week for educational and

Applications Set For Fellowships

Applications are open for Science Fellowships to graduate students who will not receive their Ph.D. degree before 1959, but who are graduate students in the Fall of 1958. The National Science Foundation offers each year about 1000 postdoctoral fellowships in the sciences to students who are U.S. citizens. Additional information may be obtained from Dean Osgood's office, 118 Merrill.

STUDENTS SEARCHED their copies of Spartan magazine Wednesday, trying to find Jim Douglas' autograph among the pages. The signature, although not particularly sought after in autograph-collecting ranks, will win one lucky purchaser a free 1959 Wolverine, hence the search.

But Congress Will Foot Bill Conference Meets Opposition

By LYNN SHEPARD

Peace and harmony were once again the main order of business when Student Congress met Wednesday night.

The only skirmish resulted from a Finance Committee bill calling for a $15 appropriation to help two Congress members attend a Human Relations Conference in Battle Creek Oct. 31-Nov. 1.

Rep. Dave Barrell (Fraternities) objected to the appropriation on grounds that such conferences usually accomplish little apart from the socializing that takes place.

His views were supported by Rep. Lyle Brown (Married Housing) who remarked that though individuals may profit from such conferences, the contribution to Student Government would be nil.

Defending the expenditure, Rep. Joe Hudanish (Emmons) replied that he and Rep. Eileen Strong (Gilchrist) were only two of six MSU students planning to attend the conference.

The meeting, he added, was supported in part by a department of the university.

AUSG President Chuck Walters told Congress the helium-filled balloons sold the past two years at football games by Campus Chest weren't being sold at home games this year because of a U. S. government-imposed control on helium.

Rep. Barrell reported his Student Rights and Welfare Committee work on the Red Cedar canoe service was progressing favorably in the opinion of Emery Foster, manager of the dormitory and food service, who requested study of the matter.

Barrell's committee has been collecting petitions and letters from students asking that the canoe service be continued.

Director of Organizations Don Brungard reminded Congress members of the National Student Assn. regional convention at MSU Nov. 14-16.

Rep. George Archuleta (Lansing) was appointed argument-at-arms by Speaker Lowell Brigham to replace Rep. Brown.

Elections Commissioner Reinhard Schumann made a behind-the-scenes request for student voting participation in today's final elections for freshman class, Congress and Fresh-Soph Council positions.

Lit Prize Rejected By Russian Author

Nobel Award Winner Refuses In Wake of Red Disapproval

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Russian author Boris Pasternak turned down the $41,420 Nobel Literature Prize Wednesday. The writer who dared criticize life under Communist rule has been under almost ceaseless Soviet press attack since the prize was announced Saturday.

"Because of the meaning attributed to this award in the society I live in I ought to say no thanks to the undeserved prize awarded me," he messaged. "Do not take my voluntary refusal with any ill will."

This cable to the Swedish Royal Academy was a switch for the 68-year-old author of the novel, "Doctor Zhivago." Last Saturday he called the academy: "Intensely thankful, touched, proud, astonished, abashed."

The attack on him was taken up Wednesday by a leader of the Soviet youth organization, Komsomol. He demanded Pasternak get out of Russia because he "has defiled those by whose toil he lives and breathes."

Pasternak's book was ignored in the Soviet Union after its completion in 1956. It was rejected for publication there, but got into print in the West and is being widely read.

Not until the Nobel Literature Committee announced last week that Pasternak was its 1958 winner was there any Soviet reaction.

Soviet newspapers charged that the award was a Western trick to lure the cold war, that political implications were involved. The Nobel Literature Committee was censured.

Then the Nobel Physics Award was made Monday to three top Soviet scientists whose achievement in nuclear physics has excited Soviet pride.

This award put the Russians in an awkward position. Could they denounce the literature prize and accept proudly the physics prize? The answer from Moscow today was yes.

An article in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda called the physics award fitting because it reflected the opinion of the scientific world.

The scientists—Pavel Cherenkov, Igor Tamm and Ilya Frank—were expected to come to Stockholm Dec. 12 to accept the award of $41,420 and split it three ways.

Slated for Coronation Ball Appearance

Marterie Band Boasts Long Hit List

By MONTE STUCE

Ralph Marterie, whose band will be the featured entertainment at Coronation Ball Nov. 7, boasts the distinction, despite his youth, of being a top band leader with more hit records behind him than any band active in America today.

These Marterie hits first began with a version of "Frenchie" that overnight made his name nationally known. Soon after came "Caravan," followed by a joyous version of "Crazy, Man, Crazy" — all of which sold enough copies to zoom into the hallowed "hit" class.

To top it off, Ralph dipped into the world variety of repertoire to find a Zulu drinking song, "Shokian," and poured it generously over the nation's ears for still another hit.

Marterie started his career as a band leader during his tour in the Navy during World War II, when asked by the Navy to organize a band to play at military installations and civilian band rallies. Playing to thousands of servicemen throughout the nation started him on his way, and when he was discharged, his first civilian band became a reality.

Following his discharge from the Navy after the war, the American Broadcasting Company offered to get Marterie up with his own network orchestra. His trumpet also was featured on other shows from the same Chicago network studios.

Thus began the process of building his name into national significance. To many Americans, particularly those with an ear for the musical extraordinary, Marterie began to be known as "the Caruso of the trumpet."

Debaters to Host Oxford U. Team At Meet Tonight

Two MSU debaters will be teamed with partners from Oxford (England) University tonight at 8:15 in the Union Ballroom.

Charles Herbert and Steve Gronner, both Lansing sophomores, will take part in the international debate. Stuart Griffiths and Brian Walden will comprise the Oxford team.

Topic for the debate is: "That an extension of the Socialist concept of equality can only be at the expense of the rights of the individual."

The English students will not debate as a team. Griffiths is scheduled to side with Herbert to champion the topic, while Walden and Gronner form the opposition.

Dr. Thomas Osgood, dean of the School for Advanced Graduate Studies, will moderate the debate which is open to the public.

Coal Miners Still Trapped Under Debris

SPRINGHILL, N. S.P.—The faint cry came from men trapped 2 1/2 miles inside a wrecked coal mine.

"There are 12 of us here. Come and get us."

Mine rescue workers inched Wednesday night through 60 feet of debris trying to reach the 12 found entombed alive after all hope for them had been abandoned.

Minor Gortley Kempt, in a group of 18 among 174 miners trapped last Thursday night, whispered the dramatic words through a six-inch broken air line to the rescue crews . . . "Come and get us."

Percy Weatherbee, one of the rescue team, recognized the voice as his uncle's.

"I asked him how many were in there and Gortley said there were 12 of them," Weatherbee recounted.

"I asked 'How are you?' and Gortley answered 'We're good but we need water badly.' Then he called out the names of the 12 men.

Arrangements were made to send hot liquids through the line to the trapped men.

Dr. J. G. B. Lynch, 74-year-old chief medical officer of the Jenison Coal Co., said the men were being given black coffee containing sugar and vitamins in small quantities.

Campus Charity Sets Fund Drive For Next Week

"Let This Cause Be Your Cause Because..." will be this year's slogan for the Campus Chest Fund Drive Nov. 5-8.

Symbolizing the only charity drive on campus this year will be the "Black Knight," a champion of the people from medieval times. His red plume is reproduced in the red feather traditionally connected with Campus Chest.

The Campus Chest shield will also be seen for the first time during the drive this year. It shows two hands clasped with the initials CC (Campus Chest) written on them.

Among the organizations supported by funds from Campus Chest are: World University Service; National Scholarship Service; Muscular Dystrophy Association; American Cancer Society; United Community Chest; Spartan Nursery; United Negro College Fund; Save the Children Federation; and the University Y.

Gambling Blackens Big 10 Sport Scene

COLLEGE FOOTBALL and in particular Big 10 athletics received a definite setback Tuesday when the Ann Arbor police arrested two University of Michigan athletes for selling football "spot cards."

Although there may be some people who say this type of gambling is wide spread throughout the nation, this attitude, however, doesn't erase the stigma of "crookedness in athletics."

For those concerned with trying to keep these "fringe operators" from carrying on their illegal occupations, it means a diligent job has been wasted.

IN A STATE NEWS editorial of Oct. 15, we explained that college athletics need rigid control in order to keep the professional gamblers and crooks from influencing and dictating policy.

With the gambling probe at Ann Arbor, athletics nationally get a bad name. But who really profits from this dirty business? Unfortunately, the gambling syndicates profit immensely in terms of money while athletics are being slapped with a stigma.

Being athletes, Tony Rio and Jack Lewis are fully responsible for their actions. If found guilty these two will have given athletics in general a bad name.

Currently, when collegiate athletics are being "blasted" by newspapers and magazines for their "underhanded approach" this sort of scandal deepens the wound.

IT'S UNFORTUNATE that these two athletes have to be the "scapegoat" for such an evil practice.

The blame and eventually the punishment for gambling should be leveled at the public. If the public wouldn't partake in the game of chance gamblers wouldn't be able to make a substantial profit.

It seems ridiculous for the people to waste their money so foolishly. When one is aware of the odds involved, he will think before paying a dollar for a chance to "play the cards."

FOOTBALL SPOT CARDS are used entirely for gambling purposes by purchasers who select from four to 10 of the nation's top games. The buyer picks a team, either giving or receiving a number of points—the spot—and collects at odds generally around 9-1 up to 100-1 if all his selections are correct. In many cases, the odds are 500-1.

This episode certainly will raise doubt in the minds of many. "Just what is the purpose of athletics?" Some people who followed sports for many years feel that the prime idea of athletics is being abused by "hungry recruiters" and gamblers. There has also been a noticeable decline in recent years of attendance at college sporting events. People are getting fed up with the pure and innocent approach college officials are trying to paint.

LET'S NOT BE hypocrites. Let's view the problem and form some constructive legislation. Passing measures with loop-holes only causes confusion and disorder and nothing is really accomplished.

Therefore, the Big 10 must fully face its role in making athletics a clean and decent part of the university. Definite legislation outlining penalties for gambling infractions should be proposed and passed.

In the Dog House! AND DON'T DRAG THAT IN HERE AGAIN!!!

Student Defends Williams

Ministers Against Going Wet

To the Editor: At a meeting of the East Lansing-Meridian Township Ministerial Association, held on Wednesday, Oct. 22, the East Lansing ministers adopted the following resolution:

As ministers of East Lansing we are deeply concerned about the personal needs and problems of our community. We all stand ready to minister to and counsel with all who are in need of aid because of the problem and use of alcoholic beverages.

Coed Defends Gov. Williams

To the Editor: I find it difficult to rationalize a purpose for the attack on Gov. Williams in Monday's State News. The only purpose I can see for this attack is that it is an effort on the part of the State News to join in political mud throwing.

Pope's Talk Mixes Hope and Force

By J. M. ROBERTS AP News Analyst
In his first message to the world the new Pope has asked why the resources devoted to arms should not be used to "increase the well-being of all citizens, especially of the needy?"

The difficulties in the way, he said, must be overcome "even if by force." Strong words for an apostle of peace.
Oddly enough, his question had been answered by Dulles only a matter of hours before it was uttered.

Pope Slates Nov. 4 Coronation

John XXIII Issues Call For Peace

World Anticipates Energetic Reign

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII Wednesday designated next Tuesday as his coronation day and called upon the world's leaders to channel man's desires into paths of peace.

The new spiritual sovereign of the Roman Catholic Church publicly demonstrated his intention of being a vigorous leader, the first full day of his 76-year-old Pontiff in a series of decisions indicating his reign will be a dynamic one.

He decided that his coronation, the most colorful of all Catholic ceremonies, will be held on Nov. 4 rather than Nov. 3 as had been forecast in some quarters. This will be exactly a year after his election.

It is the feast day of St. John the Baptist, whom the pope has long admired. More than 50,000 persons will crowd St. Peter's Basilica for the ceremony, which likely will be televised.

In his speech Wednesday, the pope took up the cause of world unity championed nearly 20 years ago by Pius XII, his predecessor.

John XXIII, the former Archbishop of Genoa, issued a challenge to "leaders of all nations."

He told them their people do not want "those monstrous wars discovered in our history which can cause fraternal hate and universal slaughter."

He asked, instead, for "peace in virtue in which human family can live free, fruitful and prosper."

He said: "The use of man's power for 'pernicious instruments of death and destruction,' as the pope said, is a crime. He urged the world's leaders to find a way in which the wealth now poured into the arms race should be turned to the good of all people. He said: 'We know, it is true, that in the arms race, so laudable, so worthy a proposition, and so worthy the differences, there are grave and intricate difficulties in the way.'

Siebert Says in France

Journalists Need Protection

"The relationship between the journalist and his sources is of such importance to our society that it should be protected by law," Dr. Fred Siebert, internationally-known authority on press law from MSU, said Wednesday at Strasbourg, France.

Speaking at a meeting of the International Association for Research in Mass Communications, Siebert said, "It is the duty of all professional organizations in the field of journalism to agitate for the enactment of protective legislation to protect the journalist from compulsion to reveal his sources."

Siebert, U. S. representative on the executive council of the International Association, is director of the school of Journalism and heads the division of mass communications.

"The right of the journalist to withhold the source of his news has not been generally recognized by law in most countries," Siebert pointed out, adding that "this is particularly true in the United States."

He explained that bills to protect the journalist's privilege of secrecy have been introduced in the Congress at least 12 times but none of the bills was ever reported out of committee.

"Attempts have been made at one time or another to pass such a law in most of the states of the United States," said Siebert, "but such attempts have been successful in only 12 states."

What the journalist is concealing is not information but the source of information, the name or names of his informants. He pointed out that all information which the journalist has gathered is available in published form to everyone, including the legislature, the courts and the public.

He said it is "naive and specious" to argue that "no source or informant need fear reprisal if his information is accurate and complete. No police force in the world can guarantee complete protection from organized criminal elements. The only method by which a journalist can protect his source is to keep it secret."

Band Men To Relive Memories

In Halftime Show At Homecoming

Not that the marching band questions anybody's memory, but a special show entitled "Do You Remember?" has been planned for halftime at Saturday's Homecoming football game with Wisconsin.

Director Leonard Falcone has indicated the band will do its part to honor the returning alumni by reviewing a few musical memories of the past 30 years.

To open the show, the 125-piece group will form an old MSC pennant and play "Varsity Drag," reminiscent of the era of raccoon coats and flapper boots.

For the benefit of the alumni of 1928, the band will next form a juke box flipping records and play one of Benny Goodman's all-time classics, "Sing, Sing, Sing."

The third formation of the show will be a palm tree and moon, symbolic of the Broadway musical hit of 1948, "South Pacific," and the band will play one of the show's top tunes, "Ball Hall."

Television is today's chief medium of entertainment as either alumnus or student can attest. To show what can happen by watching too much TV, the band will form a face of a fellow whose eyes have been "over-exposed" to television. Accompanying the formation will be the tune "Everybody Loves a Lover."

RICHARD ARMOUR

LC Series To Present Noted Writer

Richard Armour, author and humorist, will appear at 8:15 tonight in the Aud as a feature of the Lecture-Concert Series.

A professor of English at Scripps College and the Claremont Graduate School in California, Armour received his PhD from Harvard and studied under fellowships in France and England. He has taught at seven colleges and universities in Europe and the United States.

Most widely known for his light verse, he has published over 5,000 pieces in such magazines as "The New Yorker" and "The Saturday Evening Post."

His books, several of which have been national best sellers, number 18. Among them are "It All Started With Columbus," "It All Started With Eve" and "Twisted Tales From Shakespeare."

His latest works include "Nights with Armour," a collection of light verse, and "It All Started With Marx," a satire on Russia and communism. He has also written books of biography and literary criticism and book reviews for various newspapers. Holders of Lecture-Concert Series tickets will be admitted upon presentation of their tickets. Armour will be autographing his books at Campus Book Store from 4-8 p.m.

Traditional Torch Runners To Brighten Up Pep Rally

A tradition in its second year at MSU will open the Homecoming weekend again Friday night at 7:30.

It is a torch run from the Capitol to the pep rally in Jensen by 35 fraternity men.

Seven groups of five men each will carry lighted torches in relay teams, each team being relieved after 7/10 of a mile. The last relay including five IFC members will carry the torches into the pep rally. The run is 35 miles long and takes about 30 minutes.

The torches will be of a new genre this year. Sixteen inches long and 3/4-inch square, they will be wrapped in kerosene-soaked burlap. This is expected to be an improvement over last year's flares which ruined many of the runners' togas, according to David Rendel, torch run chairman of Spartan Assembly.

The togas, which are replicas of those worn in the ancient Olympic games, are the property of the University. Women's dorms are making new togas this year to replace those destroyed last year.

President John A. Hannah will send the runners off from the Capitol steps. Donald Leu, deputy school superintendent, will represent Governor G. Mennen Williams at the ceremony.

The tradition of torch runners symbolized the beginning of the Olympic games in ancient Greece. In the same tradition, the MSU runners will open the Homecoming festivities.

Twenty scholarships will be awarded to 20 high school or college students who give the best answers to what can be done to assure greater highway safety in the United States. The scholarships have been donated by The General Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, William O'Neil, president, announced.

Rules of the contest specify that each candidate write, in 200 words or less, what he thinks could be done to assure greater highway safety. Originality and practicality of ideas will be the basis for judgment of best answers.

The prize scholarships to be awarded range from $1,000 first prize to $300, 14th prize. Entries will be accepted until December 1 and should be addressed to College Scholarship Contest, The General Tire & Rubber Company, 1708 Englewood Avenue, Akron 9, Ohio.

To Coordinate Activities AUSG Org Bureau Sets New Program

Organizations Bureau, a branch of Student Government, is launching a program this year designed to help all organizations on campus become aware of their part in the educational community.

The bureau's goals may be summed up as stated in the AUSG constitution: "To promote all things of value and of general welfare to the students and university; and to assist in the integration and co-ordination of the activities of all student organizations."

The program will be aimed at informing the entire student body of the fact that there are nearly 200 student organizations in all fields of study and interest on campus which might aid the students in accomplishing his individual goal of a well-rounded college education.

It is pointed out that student organizations at MSU play an important part in helping the individual make the best adjustment to his experience in and out of the university.

Under the direction of Don Brangan, the Organizations Bureau is mapping out tentative projects which would enable them to achieve their goals. The program will basically fall into several areas with individual objectives as follows:

Through the departments of publications and printing it will seek to offer all information concerning organizations in the form of a directory. The department of publicity will attempt through the student government representatives, to make every student aware of the organizations on campus and their activities.

The Organization Bureau as a whole will seek to build the philosophy that an education does not consist merely of academic achievements, but also of the ability to associate and work with people.

Anyone interested in taking out more about Organization Bureau or wanting to obtain information at 325 Student Services.

THOUGHT I'D get on the stick and wish you all a happy Halloween. Because Friday, besides being the first day of the homecoming weekend, is also the day we stir up the witches brew and dust off the cobwebs.

Did you ever wonder where the annual holiday came from? All kinds of customs and superstitions gathered through the ages go into our celebration of Halloween or "Holy Eve" on October 31. The day got its name because it falls on the eve of the festival of All Saints, but many of the beliefs and observances connected with it arose long before the Christian era, in the autumn festivals of the pagan peoples.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, had a three day festival at the beginning of November. Their celebration, called Samhain—or summer's end—was held after the night they believed that spirits of the dead roamed abroad. To drive these spirits, witches and elves away they built huge bonfires. From these Druidic beliefs and customs comes the modern use of witches and ghosts in Halloween festivities.

IN ANCIENT Rome the festival of Pomona, goddess of fruits and gardens, occurred about this time of year. This was an occasion of rejoicing associated with the harvest, and nuts and apples, symbols of the winter store of fruit, were roasted before blazing bonfires.

The modern custom of decorating for Halloween parties with pumpkins, leaves and cornstalks comes from this ancient custom.

Divination and auguries for the new year were also practiced at Samhain. These magical practices concerned such questions as who would die during the next year, the identity of future marriage partners and the chances of good fortune.

POPULAR belief ascribed to children born on Halloween the faculty of perceiving and conversing with supernatural beings.

Even after November 1 became a Christian feast day honoring all saints, the peasants clung to the old pagan beliefs and customs that had grown up about Halloween.

The contemporary "trick or treat" custom resembles an ancient Irish practice associated with All Hallow's Eve. Groups of peasants went from house to house demanding food and other gifts in preparation for the evening's festivities.

PROSPERITY WAS supposedly yours if you were liberal but threats were made against stingy donors.

Today, Halloween celebrations keep many of these early customs unchanged. Young and old still give parties in the traditional setting of witches, ghosts and mystery. And there are even contemporary cards with sentiments like "pretty ghoul, you're like a melody."

Happy Halloween, dear friends!

Personality Important In Driving

If you always "put your best foot forward" when driving, you won't have to slam your foot on the brake to avoid an accident.

According to psychologists, a pleasant personality is just as important when you're behind the wheel as it is in business or social life.

Substantiating this research, MSU's Highway Traffic Center has found it's the motorist's emotional and intellectual characteristics which determine how safely he or she drives—not reaction time, physical strength or coordination.

"Many traits," says Dr. William Mann of the Safety Center, "are copied from parents and friends. If dad makes a practice of running stop signs, speeding when no police officers are around, or bragging that he can drive better after a few drinks, son and daughter are apt to copy him."

The solution to this lack of understanding of good driving practices and attitudes must come through better education of the driver, Mann believes. He points, as an illustration, to the success of his school's education courses and traffic safety schools for repeat violators.

Drivers' education is offered in many high schools all over the United States and has recently been introduced in colleges.

Emotional characteristics of drivers are more complex and difficult to alter, Mann believes. "Most of us," he says, "are familiar with the 'hostile' driver who isn't going to let anyone push him around, and the 'inadequate' person who is so afraid that he will do something wrong that he fouls up the smooth flow of traffic."

Angry and impatient drivers who don't wait for others to get out of the way and aggressive drivers who pass on hills and curves are all showing symptoms of frustration and inferiority complexes.

Even normal drivers who are facing serious problems may react temporarily in the same manner as the chronically disturbed individual. A family quarrel or reprimand by the boss may make the driver less aware of what is going on around him and therefore much more susceptible to an accident.

SOME LIKE THEM SHORT, some like them long... You can be a femme fatale in a long, slinky evening gown. You can be a sensation in a glittering sequined sheath that just covers your knees.

Holiday formal fashions permit you to take your choice this year. Girls who like full skirts and a froth of petticoats will find plenty of party dresses made for their hearts' desire. Women who yearn for drama may choose from a wide assortment of full-length, skillfully draped gowns. And those who want to glitter in the Jazz Age manner will have their pick of jeweled, beaded or sequined sheaths.

Whatever the mood, it's a year when women will dress to the teeth after dark, and when holiday festivities will be more brilliant than in many seasons.

'Too Defense Minded' Says Auburn Coach

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Sometimes, says Coach Ralph (Shug) Jordan, Auburn seems a trifle too defense-minded.

And that pretty well sums up what some eager Auburn enthusiasts have had to say about the failure of the nation's No. 4 football team to mount a high-scoring offense.

Says Spartans Over-Rated

Feurig Cures State Athletes

Doctor James Feurig knows his way around a football field as well as an operating table.

"That's why Feurig is qualified to comment on the current plight of Michigan State's football team.

The tall friendly veteran doctor and former professional football player, who is in charge of the well-being of some 2,000 State athletes, blames much of the Spartan woes on too much pre-season publicity.

"There simply was too much build-up before the season ever started," Feurig observes. "Paper-wise we were just over-rated."

Feurig does feel, however, that it is a better team than the results indicate.

"Some of the players just aren't measuring up to their potential," he points out. "A football team is like a synchronized

"It's the same way with a football team—and that's why we haven't been winning. Football requires 100 percent effort."

Feurig's qualification to talk football is based on a three-year period, (1933-35) in which he played both ways at end for the Green Bay Packers in the tough National Football league.

What changes have occurred in football — medicine-wise — since that time?

"The big difference is that we didn't have the care in those days," he says. "We had a part-time physician who just showed up for games. Now, at State, for instance, there are four of us always available to treat injuries."

The three who assist Feurig, Jack Heppinstall, Gayle Robinson and Duke LaRue, are at every practice.

"This way if someone is injured," Feurig says, "we can treat him instantly. In the old days many athletes did not receive adequate attention."

watch; all the parts must function well for the watch to operate efficiently.

Feurig, who performs all operations on injured athletes with the help of a specialist, points to two advancements as the best in the care of athletes:

"Equally important are the much better equipment and more knowledge on how to perform knee operation. Both have helped very much in holding serious injuries to a minimum."

The 14 inter-collegiate sports at MSU keep Feurig a busy man. He is probably the most popular doctor at Olin Health Center, at least in number of patients.

Michigan State athletics owe a great deal to this man.

Hockey Squad Opens Drills

Return of 16 Lettermen Boost Spartan Chances

By BARRY FUTTERSAK

With 16 returning lettermen and 10 newcomers to the ice lanes, MSU hockey coach Arno Besonne is looking forward to bettering last year's .500 mark.

The team, which began its preliminary workout last week, will be without the assistance of last year's Spartan leading scorer Ross Parke and Capt. Bob Jasson. Both players have been graduated.

However, Besonne believes he has found adequate replacements for the two starters with the return of Regina, Saskatchewan senior Elwood (Butch) Miller and Sudbury, Ontario junior Terry Moroney. Miller, a regular defenseman two seasons ago, was out of school last year. Moroney, who plays forward, was the second top team scorer during the 1957-58 campaign.

Joe Sellinger will once again be the goalie for the Spartans. Sellinger, missing last year's all-American team by one vote, had 3.01 goal average per game.

Other returning veterans are defenseman Bob Armstrong, Bob Orman, and Ed and Bruno Olesel along with forwards Jackie Hamilton, Bill McKenzie and Fred Devono.

Besonne cites Eddie Ozybko and Bob Kempf, both defensemen, and forwards Andre Lacoste, Al Checok, Tom Mustonen, Jim Attack, and Herb Brodsky as the most promising newcomers to the squad.

When regular hockey season practice begins during the week of Nov. 3, Besonne will be stressing offense. The coach explained that he is looking for a scoring punch.

"Defense will be pretty good," he said, "with the return of some veteran defensemen."

Practice, according to the coach will consist of set drills for offense and defense, along with scrimmages. Team organization, he said, will be stressed during the first week.

The Spartans will play a home exhibition game against the Detroit Red Wings on Dec. 1 and will then begin their regular season Dec. 5, playing host to N. Dakota, the western sector champion.

The team will later move East and participate in the Boston and Rensselaer Polytechnic Invitational tournaments. This will be the first eastern swing in MSU hockey history and will involve strong competition.

This year hockey will be recognized for the first time at a Big 10 sport. Minnesota, Michigan, and Michigan State are the only conference schools with varsity hockey squads.

Besonne will begin his seventh year as hockey mentor at State. He coached three seasons at Michigan Tech, and played defense for Illinois before coming to MSU.

Baltimore's Veep Resigns Position

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles baseball club announced Wednesday the resignation of William (Bill) Wainwright Jr., as executive vice-president.

Wainwright's formal resignation will be presented to the board of directors Nov. 21. In a letter he said that he was quitting to "consider other opportunities offered me."

There was no indication what job offers Wainwright had in mind.

MSU Reports No Gambling; 'M' Students Set for Trial

LARRY WRUBLEWSKI
 There have been no reports of gambling on campus, Arthur Beeman, MSU's director of athletics, said Wednesday. "The past when we've heard of gambling activities we've been out there," he said. "There hasn't been a rumble this fall," he said. "The student body has declined to give any statement that there is gambling on the campus, but if there were any syndicates operating on the U of M campus or East Lansing, we would have heard of them."

Seven U of M students, including Tony Rio, first-string football fullback, and Jack Lewis, basketball captain, stood mute Wednesday morning in Ann Arbor Municipal Court on charges of football gambling on campus. Municipal Judge Francis O'Brien set trial dates starting Nov. 12 and continuing through Nov. 22. The seven students are charged with engaging in an illegal occupation. Conviction would mean 90 days in jail and fines of $100. They are accused of handling football spot cards. Ann Arbor police said $10,000 a week was involved in the wagering. Campus authorities said it was closer to $3,500 and one police officer thought $2,000 would be more accurate. Rio and Lewis were suspended from their respective athletic teams Tuesday when their arrests were announced. U of M's Athletic Director H. O. "Fritz" Crisler, who announced the suspensions, said, "The most unfortunate thing about the thing is that the people who got the students into trouble are safe and sound. I'm not excusing anyone, but it's too bad the people behind this couldn't have been apprehended."

James Lewis, U of M vice president for student affairs, said the university would handle the end of the case like any other misdemeanor involving students. The Associated Press reported Wednesday night that Detroit police have investigated reports of football spot card gambling at Wayne State University and Denby High School on Detroit's East Side. An undisclosed source said that the Big 10 conference would conduct an investigation of the U of M situation. Kenneth "Tug" Wilson, commissioner of the Big 10, couldn't be reached for verification.

Women's Intramurals IM Swimming Featured In Women's New Pool

The women's intramural program is making good use of the facilities in the new WI building. The program includes swimming, volleyball and field hockey.

IM swimming is held at 7 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays in the newly opened pool. Thirteen dorm teams and one off campus team compete on Monday night and 12 sororities use the pool on Wednesdays. The finals are held after three meets. The two top teams from the dorms and sororities compete and a trophy is awarded to the first place team in the finals.

Volleyball meets are at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Nine teams are played each night. There are six blocks with six teams in each block. The top team from each block will compete for a trophy in the finals which will be held after Nov. 18. The games are held in the new Women's Gym.

Booters Break Spell Unusual Goals End Famine

By CAROLYN VALONE
 Two unusual goals broke a three year scoring famine for Neil Butler and George Sepetya as each scored in Saturday's soccer game at Illinois.

Butler, a left fullback, got his point on a freak shot which bounced off an Illinois fullback's head. Sepetya's kick was a penalty kick from 12 yards out. Butler took the free kick for the Spartans after Illinois sent the ball out of bounds. He got off a good 60 yard kick which was an attempted pass to an offensive man. However, the receiver wasn't there, but the Illinois defense man was, and his head played an important part in the score. Ordinarily, the ball would have been headed in by a MSU offensive player who would receive the ball, but in this case the ball went to Butler.

"It was a once in a lifetime thing," Butler said. "I never Bruins, Rangers Tie even got near having a goal before. It's hard to express the feeling you get about it. People dream about it and think about it, and when it does happen, it's a stunning feeling."
 NEW YORK (AP) — Fleming MacKell's goal with only nine seconds left gave the Boston Bruins a 3-1 tie with the New York Rangers Wednesday night.

Sepetya, a fullback transplanted to the center half spot, scored his first goal with seconds left in the game. "The guys always kid me about being hungry for a goal," he said, "so they called me in to take the penalty shot, and there it was."

Sepetya, who was born in Lithuania and now lives in Detroit, has played soccer almost all his life. He grew up with it and played for a German Club when he was a youngster. He came to this country in 1949. For the past five years he has played Detroit First Division soccer.

Before coming to MSU, Butler had never played soccer. He had been acquainted with the game in high school, but did not play until the summer of 1956 when he was attending summer school at MSU. He became friends with Al Sarrisa, another outstanding booter, and began practicing every afternoon.

Sarrisa urged him to go out for the team in the fall, which he did. This is Butler's third varsity year and he has played all of every game since joining the team except for three minutes in the Illinois game two years ago.

Butler, who is from Mt. Clemens, was voted the most improved player by the team last year. He played last summer in Canada to gain more experience and to learn the international way of playing soccer.

Sepetya, a junior, is a commercial art major. He had no definite future soccer plans, but expects to continue playing after college. Butler, a residential building major, will graduate at the end of this term. He is going to further his study of architecture and has no pro soccer plans. One of his major interests now is the victory string of the booters. He echoed the thoughts of Sepetya and the whole team as he said, "I'd like to finish the season unbeaten."

Seven Units at MSU Men's Co-ops Offer Economical Living

By JIM NYPPA

Are college expenses getting you down? Well, if you're a male student interested in cutting living costs and gaining valuable experience in living and working with others, co-operative houses are the place for you.

Presently there are seven co-op living units with a combined capacity for 307 members at MSU.

Active participation in the running of these units saved its members over $300 per man in room and board costs last year.

Membership is open to any male student at MSU accepted by the members of the house.

In order to be eligible the prospective member must have a 2.0 grade point average and meet the university's housing requirements.

Co-ops are non-profit, non-stock organizations, administered under democratic rule with one vote per member.

The governing body is the Inter Co-op Council (ICC) which was founded in 1946. Each member house has one vote.

An ICC Judiciary Council has been organized to settle any differences that should arise between the member houses.

The Co-op movement began at MSU with the opening of Hedrick House in winter term, 1946. Hedrick is presently located at 160 Washten.

Other houses presently in existence include Elsworth, 711 W. Grand River; Urey, 532 Abbott Rd.; Bower, 636 Abbott Rd. More are: Motta, 413 Hill-great; Howland, 308 Ann; and Beal, 308 Beal.

A recent survey conducted by Dr. O. Urey, professor of agricultural economics, and one of the original founders of the co-op movement at MSU, reveals that:

1. A majority of students living in co-ops come from farm and skilled labor families with incomes of less than $6,000 per year.

2. They come from farms and villages.

3. Members are 20-25 average years of age.

4. 76 percent of members hold part time jobs.

5. A majority of members finance their education from their own savings and money earned during the year.

Additional financial advantages of co-op living can be found in the form of savings on soap, laundry facilities and kitchen privileges.

Lower costs enable students to work less part time, reduce borrowing and even save.

Even household skills like cooking and the operation of a business can be acquired.

And finally, social values are obtained through interaction with others in work, sports, business and group living.

Finishing Touches Ready For Homecoming Festivities

With the finishing touches ready to go on living unit displays and students washing paper mache off their hands, final preparations are underway for the annual Homecoming week-end festivities.

The DeJohn sisters, nationally known recording artists, will be featured at the rally. Duffy Dougherty, the football team and the Activities Band will also be on hand.

Judging of Homecoming displays begins at 8:30 Saturday morning. The general theme of 1958 Homecoming is "Over Wisconsin." Variations of this will highlight displays all over campus.

Criteria for judging will be general appearance, originality, theme and composition. The words "Welcome Alumni" must appear either in the display or on the grounds to make the entry eligible for judging.

The Jackson firm claims that it would be injured as a taxpayer in the state of Michigan — not as a losing applicant to FCC for channel 10 — if the construction were completed, according to Carr.

Monday the case will be argued orally in Jackson County circuit court as to its merits.

MSU still has until May 1 to display the finished proposal as proof to the FCC that the action was valid.
