'Creator of Mood Music' Melachrino Strings Plan Lecture-Concert Appearance

By ANNETTE KRAUSE
George Melachrino, "the man who created mood music," and his orchestra of 50 will be featured at the Lecture-Concert Nov. 13 at 8:15 p.m. in the Aud.
"The Melachrino Strings" has been one of the best known musical groups in Great Britain as well as that of Mr. Melachrino himself.
Melachrino, born in London in 1898, started his musical career on the violin, tutored by his grandfather. His ambition was to attain a concert career but to earn a living he worked as a theater musician.
At 18 he became a "handyman" musician at the Savoy Hotel in London. There he played with many of England's top orchestras and became familiar with the many instruments.
In 1935, Melachrino formed an orchestra of his own to play at the Cafe de Paris. He also gave broadcasts over BBC.
During World War II, Melachrino served as a cook until his talents were discovered. He has been touring Army camps with concert parties, and was appointed musical director of the British band of the allied expeditionary forces.
In order to relieve the tension of the times, Melachrino experimented with a sweet melodic sound rather than the loud brassy one usually associated with bands. His name became synonymous with relaxed music in every theater of operation during the war.
At the end of the war many of his AEF musicians became the famous "Melachrino Strings".
Playing every kind of music from light novelties to familiar semi-classics, the group became popular through the BBC, English films and RCA recordings.
Today Melachrino has become one of RCA's top artists, selling over 3,000,000 records albums. He is now making a North American tour.
The program Nov. 13 will feature such pieces as "Italian Fantasy," "Autumn Leaves," "Strauss Waltz," "Starlight Fantasy," "South Pacific Selection" and "Oranges and Lemons" by George Melachrino.

Tunisia Charges French Troops Invade Territory

TUNIS (AP)—Tunisia Wednesday complained that French troops and tanks have invaded Tunisian territory along the Algerian frontier and refused to withdraw.
The secretary of state for foreign affairs, Laidk Mokkadem, delivered a sharp protest to the French ambassador.
A communique from the ministry of information said:
"On the morning of Nov. 5 French forces estimated at two regiments supported by 42 tanks penetrated Tunisian territory in the region of Bou Jabeur. Supported by mortar fire, these forces then moved north in the direction of Kalast Senar. According to the latest information, they are still three kilometers (1.86 miles) inside Tunisian territory."
The village of Sidi Sakiet Youssel was bombed by French planes last Feb. 8, taking a toll of 78 killed and 84 wounded, according to Tunisian figures.

Democrats Dominate Senate; Exceed Previous Records

Ike Undiscouraged By Dem. Landslide

'High Spenders' in Congress Given Notice by President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday people he classes as spenders have been elected to the new, Democratic-controlled Congress. He served notice on them that he will fight higher spending as hard as he can.
There will be no basic changes in administration policy as a result of the Democratic sweep in Tuesday's Congressional elections, the President made clear at a "morning after" news conference.
Will the Democratic victories discourage him in his task of molding his party in the pattern of what he calls modern Republicanism? Not for a minute, the President maintained stoutly.
"I don't believe that anyone who has such strong convictions as I do about certain things can afford to be discouraged," he said.
Recalling the tough German counterattacks he had to face in North Africa and in the battle of the bulge during World War II, Eisenhower added:
"If you get discouraged and saw in those things nothing but defeat and pessimism and didn't have the strength, really, to look upon them as opportunities of some kind, then, indeed, you would be rather futile."
He said his administration would continue to plow the same furrow on farm policy, struggling "right square along the lines we've laid out." Eisenhower advocates reduced price supports and fewer planting controls for major crops and more dependence on a competitive, expanding market.
"So far as I know, I don't know of any way in which I would change the general lines of our foreign policy," he continued.
On taxes, Eisenhower said, he and his advisers haven't decided yet what to do about meeting a looming federal deficit. "And I don't think we should talk yet about raising taxes," he added.

AIR FORCE and Army ROTC honorary corps sponsors were wined and dined Wednesday evening at the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity house. The coeds will be capped at the Coronation Ball Friday night in the Aud. Ralph Marterie's orchestra will play for the dance which will last from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

E. Lansing Voters Say 'No Spirits'

Liquors Banned In College Town

Sale of liquor by-the-glass was solidly opposed by East Lansing voters Tuesday and a prohibition chapter in the city charter was upheld by a lesser plurality.
Six of the city's seven precincts voted to stop the sale of liquor-by-the-glass in the Marble district of East Lansing.
Five precincts voted to keep the 37-year-old prohibition chapter in the charter.
Fate of the one liquor (Class C license) establishment, the Deer Head Inn, was sealed but it was not discussed Wednesday when Blanche Everts would have to close the doors to the bar.
Even less definite is the future of the one tavern which has a beer and wine by-the-glass license (Gayest Bar) and the one retail beer and wine store (Tom's Market).
But voters opposed liquor by-the-glass 3,407-2,198 and favored the prohibition chapter 3,147-2,351.
Only the seventh (MSU) precinct voted in favor of liquor by-the-glass, 260-214.
The MSU precinct favored the repeal proposal 270 to 194.
In one other precinct—number six in the Marble district—voters favored repeal 496-486 but that precinct opposed liquor by-the-glass 539-447.
E. F. Maloney, director of the license division of the state Liquor Control Commission, said Wednesday morning he is not sure how soon the Deer Head Inn license will be invalidated.

'Tattle-Tale' Section AUSG Passes Bill Advising Canoers

By LYNN SHEPARD
Resolution 12, a controversial bit of legislation on campus canoeing practices, passed Student Congress Wednesday night, highlighting an otherwise lackluster session.
The resolution offered a number of suggestions for ending "certain undesirable conditions" regarding student canoe rental.
"People witnessing undesirable behavior or destructive activities are urged to report the canoe number of those involved to the Dean of Students office," suggested the Student Rights and Welfare Committee in the only section arousing debate.
Committee Chairman Dave Barrell (Fraternities) urged passage of the resolution, pointing out the embarrassment some students experience while paddling down the Red Cedar, seeing other students engaged in "undesirable behavior" on the river banks.
Speaker Pro Tem Lyle Sumner (Married Housing) with Rep. Jerry Perry (Butterfield) and Rep. Orrin Butterfield (Bailey) led the fight to defeat the "tattle-tale" section, but could muster only a few supporters.
The matter finally became ensnarled in parliamentary procedure as even Perry, the parliamentarian, was ruled out of order by Speaker Lowell Brigham, Sumner, calling for a division, finally saw his effort fail, 21-11.
In other Congress business, Bill granting a one-year provisional charter to the Geomorphs, was passed, and Ron Math, Dearborn junior, was approved as an associate justice on the AUSG Judiciary.
Herb Ashley, MSU National Student Assn. co-ordinator, also reported on AUSG's role as a member of NSA.

Ike Terms Democrats 'Spenders'

Voices Pleasure Over N.Y. Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats battered down a final Republican bastion in the West and produced their biggest U. S. Senate gain in history from belated returns straggling in from Tuesday's election.
The 13-seat gain surpassed by one the previous Democratic record of 12 seats in 1932.
The dwindling trickle of ballots from the hinterlands merely enlarged the dimensions of the most spectacular Democratic political triumph since the New Deal heydays. Late results tightened an already strengthened Democratic control of both Senate and House and tossed more Republican governors out of office.
And, with an assist they didn't want from Nelson Rockefeller in New York, the Democrats brought about a sizable reshuffling of 1960 political prospects.
President Eisenhower told an election post-mortem news conference he wasn't even thinking about 1960 at this point. But to a question whether he thought the people Tuesday "chose left-wing government rather than sensible government"—terms he used in campaign oratory—the President replied:
"I don't know whether they did this thing deliberately. I know this, that they obviously voted for people that I would class among the spenders, and that is what I say is going to be the real trouble."
The President labeled a trend toward higher spending as a dangerous thing and promised to fight it. But he said he thought he would get along with the new Congress. In a situation without political precedent, this is the third time he has been confronted with an opposition Congress.
Eisenhower voiced delight at Rockefeller's election but declined to rub the crystal ball for a sighting on Rockefeller's future.
In an election that had many elements of the fantastic, it was Republican Rockefeller who turned in the greatest single victory. In the battle of the bucks, one millionaire against another, Rockefeller pushed Democrat Averell Harriman out of the New York governorship.
At the same time, Rockefeller shoved himself in and Harriman out of the 1960 presidential picture and cast a shadow of uncertainty over the ambitions of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. Until Rockefeller skyrocketed across the political firmament, Nixon apparently was coasting smoothly along toward the GOP presidential nomination two years hence.
Rockefeller insisted again that he has no interest in the 1960 GOP presidential nomination.
"I honestly doesn't enter my mind except when you fellows ask me about it," he said. "I have a tremendous job ahead of me."
It was an election in which see DEMOCRATS, Page 6.

Dems Swamp GOP; Hold Wide Margin

WITH THE BALLOTS counted and the shouting all but over, the Democrats hold a commanding margin in both Houses of Congress. Across the nation party workers, both Democratic and Republican, got eligible voters to the polls.

NOW PRESIDENT EISENHOWER must work along with a Democratic Congress during perilous times. What really caused the sharp turnover from Republican to Democratic candidates? Maybe it was the Adams incident. Or was it the economic recession? Or again was it the "brink of war" antics of the administration?

IF THE REPUBLICANS turned up their nose in their humiliating defeat, that is only the backing of the party of its candidates and the organization of workers are the keys to success. Taking a glance at the effect the Democratic victory will have on the national political scene in the next two years.

WHAT IF ANOTHER Hoffa scandal is exposed? Will the Congress be able to provide adequate measures to regulate and eliminate the menace of "party unionism"? Will any major changes occur in our foreign appropriations? With a strong majority the Democrats are in an advantageous position to pass more welfare provisions for the people. Is it really needed?

These are some of the problems facing the Democrats. The decision has been rendered. Both parties must work together if America is to benefit.

Students admitted to MSU are supposed to be capable of doing college work. It is presumed that they have the requisite intelligence. If they don't, they can't do it.

Check again Mr. Cobodes. Although they don't make a big thing of it, Honors College students participate more in extracurricular activities than the average student with average grades. How can this be if they are all knee deep in the life of textbooks?

Even when I grant the importance of extra-curricular activities, it is true that the main purpose of college is not to become social butterflies. What is the main purpose of being in college, if it is not learning? Is learning such an impossible thing to be interested in?

What Happens Now?

On Honors College Student Answers Challenge

Mr. Cobodes, in his letter of Oct. 31, challenging the existence of the Honors College says "Placing the achievement is not only undemocratic but in many cases somewhat inhumane."

Mr. Cobodes, your statements are not controlled by facts. They seem to be a general mix-up of unrelated incidents. You seem to be a general mix-up of unrelated incidents.

When Providence smiles, get ready to take it. In a way, the Honors College is a great thing. It is a way of giving the best to the best.

Richard Kerwin, a student veterinarian student who died unexpectedly Saturday, was possessed of genuine intellectual curiosity and a concern for other human beings.

Richard Kerwin, a student veterinarian student who died unexpectedly Saturday, was possessed of genuine intellectual curiosity and a concern for other human beings.

But his most constant hate was the American press. He directed many diatribes against U.S. newspapers and radio and TV networks.

But if David Zaslavsky was bitter in language this probably reflected an even greater bitterness in his soul. For Zaslavsky, like Vishinsky, was a turncoat, and of 70 he remains just that.

Letters Backs Honor College Ideal

Mr. Cobodes commented: "Placing students according to IQ or achievement is not only undemocratic but, in many cases, somewhat inhumane." I fail to see how the Honors College system is undemocratic. I have always been led to believe that it's the democratic way to give every individual an even break.

Turkey Trot Prize-Live Turkeys?

By DARWIN BENNETT

Turkey for Thanksgiving. That will be the prize given to the winners of today's 15th annual Turkey Trot to be held at 5 p.m. on Old College Field. Sponsored by Michigan State's Intramural department, this event will offer a live turkey for the winning team and the first three individual runners to cross the finish line.

For the team finishing second, a live goose will be given and the third place team will receive a duck. So that the last runner to finish doesn't feel left out, he will carry the traditional trophy for his feat—a goose egg!

Introduced to Michigan State in 1941 by former cross country and track coach, Karl Schludeman, the Turkey Trot originally was included in the All-College Fall-Indoor Track Meet. Under Schludeman's plan, the Trot was two and one-half miles long and began at the south goal post of Macklin Stadium.

However, times change and so has the Turkey Trot. Now the race is staged on Old College Field and only covers a mile and a quarter, beginning and ending at the east end of the field.

The originator of the race itself was a nearly anonymous man named Watkins, who wanted to celebrate Thanksgiving Day in a different way—and thus the creation of the Turkey Trot. During World War II the race was discontinued, but in 1948 Michigan State's Intramural Director, Harris F. Boyman, revamped the Trot and moved it to its present location on Old College Field.

In addition to the live prizes, medals will be awarded to the members of first and second-place teams.

Did You Know That...

The 1958-59 schedule for Michigan State's basketball squad includes an appearance at the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C.

Although many of the runners will not be running for the prizes awarded, there will be plenty of excitement for spectators. The variety and range of costumes worn by the contestants would put a circus show to shame.

The race itself will begin at the east end of Old College Field and head west to the goal green near the Red Cedar River. From the golf green the course will turn south toward Johnson then circle around the baseball bleachers and return to course back to the golf green.

Just past the golf green, two red flags are located. At the point the race heads east towards the finish line.

But standing in the way of the hopeful winner stands two hurdles. The first must be jumped over while the second is under. From there on it is the runner is on his own.

Spartans Morale Booming

Duffy Daugherty has had some bleak afternoons as Michigan State football coach this season—but while his team is not winning games it does offer him some satisfaction.

When a team loses three straight games such as the Spartans have done, it is hard to keep morale booming. Daugherty at least has been proud of the spirit of the squad.

"There has never been anything wrong with the spirit of this team," he observed as the Spartans hustled through some plays in preparation for Saturday's clash with Indiana.

"There is never any bickering," he added. "We haven't had any problem with the morale of the team all season. The fans don't all seem to be aware of the fine effort the team has made at all times."

Duffy had more words of praise for the Spartans.

"We're getting better every day," he said. "We're finally in good shape physically. Against Purdue, for instance, four of our five guards were out with injuries. We just haven't had the depth we've had in recent years."

"Daugherty also praised the work of John Middleton who is hustling to retain his starting guard position from Micho Walker. Tackle Larry Cundiff, who will replace injured George Perles, also drew Daugherty's satisfaction.

The Spartans moved over to the practice field adjacent to Jensen Fieldhouse in case of threatening rain. They worked on defense against Indiana's single wing variations and polished up their own offense which has scored only 19 points in the last three games.

General Assembly Abandons Ike Plan

UN Standby Forces Out Until Warranted Situation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A plan for standby UN forces to meet international emergencies, put forward by President Eisenhower, was shelved Wednesday in the General Assembly's special political committee.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld also abandoned his suggestion of last month that the Assembly endorse principles under which he could get troops from member governments quickly for use in emergencies. He said his report on the UN's experience with its modest emergency force, which set forth the principles, was merely informative. He added that the best time to consider the principles would be when a situation arose calling for UN troops.

He concluded: "I feel no need for the General Assembly to take any action at the present time."

The committee dropped the subject without further comment.

Eisenhower had proposed a "United Nations peace force." Secretary of State John Foster Dulles later withdrew this down to "a small planning staff" in the UN Secretariat to develop standby plans for getting up a peace force.

Hammarskjöld's report, published Oct. 18, thinned out the plan still further. He merely set out principles to facilitate his getting forces when he needed them.

Diplomatic sources said Canada and Norway had dropped the idea of introducing a resolution to approve the principles. They gave up the idea, sources said, on finding that many delegations would not agree without reservations or further study.

The Soviet bloc holds the Assembly has no authority to create UN forces. Latin American countries in large part refuse to pay for such forces.

One western diplomat said that despite the committee's inaction, Hammarskjöld would set up a planning staff on UN terms.

Democrats

The Democrats refused to yield a single Senate seat while topping 18 Republicans. The last GOP seat tumbled in the last Senate race to be settled in Wyoming. Sen. Frank A. Barrett, a conservative Republican, was sound out by Democrat Gale McKee, a young history professor.

With the outcome of governorship races undecided only in Nebraska, Democrats had lost four of their own governorships and taken eight places from the Republicans.

In all the scores of Senate and House contests, the GOP managed to unseat one lone Democrat. They judged a house former schoolmate, Rep. Cera Knutson, out of politics—something her husband couldn't do in a widely advertised family squabble.

One other Democrat fell in the balloting, but not at Republican hands. Rep. Brooks Rice, of Arkansas, a lay leader of the Baptist Church and eight-term veteran in Congress, lost to a powerful within campaign based on the racial issue. Dr. Dale Alfred, a former congressman on the Little Rock school board, ran as an independent and took Rice's measure with an approval from Gov. Orval Faubus. Rice has tried to follow a middle course on the school segregation problem.
