

Kresge Exhibits Slated

Professor Charles Meyer, director of Kresge exhibits, announces the following tentative schedule for the school year:

Sept. 23-24: Michigan Art Education association exhibition.

Sept. 23-Oct. 2: Leelanau Summer student show.

Oct. 5-Nov. 6: Staff exhibition.

Oct. 11-21: "Our Town" children's art.

Nov. 8-20: Allen Dow architecture show.

Nov. 8-20: Religious subjects in modern graphics.

Dec. 1-22: A child looks at the museum (children's art).

Jan.-Feb.: Purchase show.

Mar. 1-Apr. 2: American art nouveau posters.

Apr. 5-17: Michigan Watercolor society.

Apr. 5-May 7: French prints.

May 11-20: Graduate student show.

June 2-12: Undergraduate student show.

The Leelanau show is composed of work done by students in this past summer's session at the Leelanau Summer Art school, a continuing education program of the art department of the university. The six-week school directed by Professor Erling Brauner of the Kresge staff, is attended by graduates and undergraduates in Michigan schools, and by teachers and hobbyists seeking professional criticism.

THE BULK OF THE coming exhibit will be the work of graduate students. This exhibit is a selected portion of a larger exhibit held at the Leelanau studio during the last days of the session.

With the exception of one of the November shows, all the exhibits will be held in the Kresge gallery. Hours for the gallery are 9-4 Monday through Friday, 10-4 Saturday, and 2-5 Sunday.

THE KRESGE ART center building, which was completed in December 1958, was designed by Ralph Calder and built at a cost of 1 1/2 million dollars, a gift from the S.S. Kresge foundation.

Correct Address Must Be Listed With University

A new university regulation will penalize students who do not report their correct address to the housing office.

UNDER THE new regulation students must keep the university informed of their correct East Lansing address at all times.

FAILURE to register correct address or to notify the university of a change of address is cause for cancellation of a student's registration, the housing office said.

AT REGISTRATION students will be required to report their local address on a housing card. Changes of address later in the year are to be reported on forms available at room 113, Administration building.

Frank Nulf's "Man" greets Kresge visitors.

Replacements On Art Faculty

THREE REPLACEMENTS for art faculty on leave have joined the Kresge staff.

Frank Bedogne, who will instruct art education, holds a BS from Edinburgh, a M Ed. and MA from Colorado State, and is soon to be granted his doctorate from Penn. State. An accomplished ceramist and painter, he has exhibited widely. Bedogne will hold the rank of assistant professor.

CLIFTON MCCHESNEY, who will also be an assistant professor, comes to the university from Cranbrook Academy. After studying three years at professional schools in Chicago, McChesney went to Indiana university where he completed his BS in education.

At Cranbrook, where he earned his MFA, McChesney was technical director for the Cranbrook Summer Theatre. His teaching experience includes art instruction at the Detroit Community Jewish Center. A painter and metal sculptor, McChesney has exhibited nationally.

MRS. NORMA STUCK, assistant instructor, will teach jewelry making on a part-time basis. Mrs. Stuck holds an MA from MSU.

Murray Jones, associate professor, has been granted a renewal of his Fulbright fellowship enabling him to study in Japan for another year.

Assistant instructor Donna Diamond, who was awarded a Fulbright to study painting in Italy, will not be the sole representative of the Kresge staff in that country.

MISS MARGARET YULL, associate professor, and Grant Swayze, assistant professor, will be on sabbatical leave in Italy during the coming academic year.

Two From Faculty Granted Fellowships

Two MSU faculty members have been granted fellowships for study in the behavioral sciences at Stanford, Calif.

They are Dr. Abba P. Lerner, professor economics, and Dr. Glendon A. Schubert, professor of political science.

They will study at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford during the 1960-61 school year.

New Art Degrees

The department of art announces the addition to the curriculum of programs leading to conferral of the professional degrees in art, bachelor of fine arts (BFA), and master of fine arts (MFA).

These programs are designed to prepare students for careers as professional artists, or as art teachers on the university or professional school level.

THE BFA CURRICULUM requires 80 to 90 hours of art, as opposed to 60 to 70 for the BA, with required courses in art history composing the bulk of the additional hours. Acceptance to the program is made at the third-year level to students with 2.5 all college, and 3.0 in art courses.

The MFA degree is granted for work beyond the MA to a total of 90 hours, or double the MA requirement. Admission will be made only to the most outstanding students, according to Dr. Howard Church, head of the art department.

State's Permanent Art Collection Shown at Kresge

A small exhibit from the university's permanent collection is hanging in the Kresge gallery through today.

Composed of nine oils, eight lithographs, three works of metal sculpture, and one oriental lacquer on silk, the exhibit represents a cross section of the small, but discriminate permanent collection.

ALTHOUGH THIS particular exhibit contains works by immortals such as Picasso and Braque, it is dominated by lesser known artists.

The most recent acquisition of any known stature, a large oil by a 17th century Spanish painter, Francisco Zurbarán, is now part of the collection.

THIS PAINTING, purchased at a cost of $24,000, was acquired last spring. It had been part of a private collection in Texas.

Emphasize Critical Language

MSU is placing new emphasis on four foreign languages in the coming year on the cold-war fronts list. Courses will be offered this fall in Chinese, Portuguese, Japanese, and Yoruba, a West African language.

New faculty members have been added to the foreign language department to teach these languages, according to Dr. Stanley R. Townsend, head of the department.

Chinese, Japanese, and Portuguese are on the critical language list of the U. S. Office of Education, which sponsors a Special Language Development program.

YORUBA will be taught here as part of the language program of the African Language and Area Center. The center, which began operation here this year, is operated by MSU under a contract with the U. S. Office of Education.

With the establishment of the center, MSU becomes one of the few places in this country where African languages can be learned under the direction of linguistic experts.

Language experts at the West African center are Prof. Roger W. Wescott, academic director of the center, and Prof. Hans Wolff, who comes to MSU this fall from the University of Puerto Rico.

Prof. Wescott has been making a special study of West African languages and is preparing a grammar of Bini, one of the languages of Nigeria.

Prof. Wolff has served as advisor to the Nigerian Education department where he studied the problem of writing formal grammars of various African languages.

Chinese will be taught by a new appointee to the MSU staff, James P. Wang, of the department of foreign languages.

At the U. S. Army Language school in Monterey, Calif., Wang was instructor of Chinese, assistant chairman of the Chinese de-

University of Air Offers Algebra, African Studies

Africa, algebra and education are subjects of three Michigan State University telecourses to be offered this fall over WMSB-TV and WILX-TV, Channel 16.

"The Africans and Their Cultures" will be televised over WMSB-TV on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 6 to 6:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 27.

"THE HISTORY of the dark continent and important developments of recent months as the restless African people struggle for independence will be brought vividly to light by Dr. Ram Desai, an authority on African affairs from the department of foreign studies.

The course carries three credits, although it may be taken on a noncredit basis.

"Concepts in Algebra and Mathematical Problems" will be televised over WILX-TV Monday through Friday from 6:30 to 7 a.m. beginning Sept. 26. The course carries four credits, although residents may enroll either on a credit or non-credit basis.

THE CLASS, part of the coast-to-coast "Continental Classroom" series, will be taught by Dr. John L. Kelley, chairman of the mathematics department at the University of California, Berkeley. Dr. Howard E. Campbell, of the department of mathematics, will conduct the required laboratory sessions here on alternate weeks for course enrollees.

A non-credit course, "Crucial Issues in Education," will be broadcast over WMSB-TV on Monday from 6 to 6:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 26.

Outstanding authorities will attack issues and suggest solutions in the interest of better education in better schools.

REGISTRATION materials or additional information on the two telecourses, which carry credit can be obtained by contacting The University of the Air, Continuing Education Service, Kellogg Center, or by calling ED 2-1511, Ext. 3089.

Band to Make 3 Football Trips This Fall

The MSU marching band, 135 members strong, will make three out-of-town trips this fall.

THE BAND will play at football games at South Bend, Ind., Evansville, Ind., and Bloomington, Ind., according to Leonard Falcone, director.

The band will go to South Bend for the Notre Dame game Oct. 15. This will be a one-day trip by chartered bus.

For the trip to Evansville for the Northwestern game on Nov. 12 the band will travel by train. The band will leave Friday and return Sunday.

THE TRIP to Bloomington on Oct. 22 for the Indiana game will be a one-day affair.

All three trips will be sponsored by Oldsmobile division of General Motors.

For Foreign Study Fulbright Grants Available

Only two months remain to apply for some 800 Fulbright scholarships for graduate study or research in 30 countries, according to the Institute of International Education.

Applications are being accepted until November 1.

Inter-American Cultural Convention awards for study in 17 Latin American countries have the same filing deadline.

RECIPIENTS of Fulbright awards for study in Europe, Latin America, and the Asia-Pacific area will receive tuition, maintenance and round-trip travel. IACE administrators both of these student programs for the U. S. Department of State.

General eligibility requirements for both categories of awards are:

- 1—U. S. citizenship at time of application.
- 2—a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by 1961.
- 3—knowledge of the language of the host country.
- 4—good health.

A demonstrated capacity for independent study and a good academic record are also expected. Preference is given to applicants under 35 years of age who have not previously lived or studied abroad.

APPLICANTS will be required to submit a plan of proposed study that can be carried out profitably within the year abroad. Successful candidates are required to be affiliated with approved institutions of higher learning abroad.

MSU students should consult Dr. Allan Tucker, campus Fulbright advisor. His office is in the graduate school office building, the former International house across from the Union.

OR WRITE to the Information and Counseling Division, Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, New York.

Competitions for the 1961-62 academic year close Nov. 1, 1960. Completed applications must be submitted by November 1.

The Institute of International Education, founded in 1919, seeks to foster international understanding through exchange of students and scholars, and to further the exchange of ideas and knowledge among all nations.

IT ADMINISTERS two-way scholarship programs between the United States and 83 foreign countries, and is an information center on all aspects of international education.

Open Season Saturday Spartans to Play Pitt

"Pitt stacks up as the strongest opening foe we've had since I've been head coach."

Those were the words of Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State head football coach, talking about the Spartans' opening football game Saturday at Pittsburgh.

WE'LL HAVE to be at our absolute best to contain the club that Pitt coach John Michelson has put together," Duffy continued.

And the smiling Irishman has every right to fear the Pitt Panthers in the nationally televised "Game of the Week."

Pittsburgh has had nine days of practice more than the Spartans. Because Pitt begins classes earlier they are allowed to begin workouts in August.

THE PANTHERS already have one game "under their belts." They opened the season Saturday against UCLA.

A strong All-American end candidate, Mike Ditka, holds forth on the Panther roster. Professional football sources consider him the best college player in the country.

Pittsburgh is all set with the powerful "C" boys. Halfbacks Bob Clemens and Fred Cox and fullback Jim Cunningham gained 744 yards rushing and scored nine touchdowns in Pitt's three games last fall.

And Pitt has no problems at center. Carroll Cook, Pittsburgh sportscaster, sums his team's prospects like this:

THE OUTLOOK for the Pitt team in 1960 is questionable. A murderous schedule (10 games, all with major grid powers) and two big question marks, the passing game and tackle, could spell disaster for the Panthers. In every respect the Spartans are similar to their opening game opponents.

Michigan State has some All-American candidates including end Fred Arbanas. Certainly the backfield is strong with Herb Adderley, Gary Ballman and Ron Hatcher romping on the first team. The Spartan centers are strong three deep.

AND MICHIGAN State has a murderous schedule, a questionable inner-line and a doubtful passing attack.

The two teams will be evenly matched, except for Pitt's game and extra practice.

The game will have a definite Pennsylvania flavor. Only 12 members of the Pitt roster hail from outside of Pennsylvania. Ten Spartans are Pennsylvanians, including five from the Pittsburgh area. And of course the contest is being played on Pennsylvania turf.

From the Pittsburgh neighborhood are LeRoy Lodermeier, quarterback; Herb Paterra, guard; Ron Hatcher, fullback; Don Richmond, tackle; and Dick Oxendine, end.

THE SPARTANS have been preparing for their first clash since Sept. 1 at Secret Practice Field, which is behind the tennis courts on Shaw Lane.

Workouts began at a two-day clinic for the 78 gridders until Sept. 13.

Coach Daugherty slowed the pace of his training routine to allow members of a long injury list to heal. At one time no less than 13 Spartans were kept from workouts because of injuries.

Starting halfbacks Herb Adderley and Gary Ballman were among the walking injured along with other first stringers, sophomore guard Howard Mudd, end Fred Arbanas, guard George Azar and center Dave Behrman.

ALL WERE back in action last week.

"This is a lean ball club," said Daugherty after the team's official weigh-in last week. There is not a fat man on the team.

Sophomore Behrman is still the big man on the team despite a 33-pound loss from last spring. He now weighs 241 pounds, coming from 280.

THE SQUAD has no breather after the Pitt game as traditional rival Michigan moves into East Lansing to help the Spartans open their home season.

BY JIM WALLINGTON
State News Staff Writer

A group of 23 sports writers from the so-called "Big Ten" met in the city of Chicago, completing a plane tour of all Big Ten football teams, picked the Spartans to finish atop the conference standings.

MICHIGAN STATE suffered its two worst campaigns in recent history, 1954 and 1958, after the flying writers picked them to take all the honors in those seasons.

Following the Spartans the scribes saw Northwestern second, followed by Illinois, Iowa, Ohio State, Minnesota, Purdue, Michigan and Wisconsin. (Indiana is not eligible for the championship.)

How do the other teams stack up? Why did the writers pick them as they did? Here is a quick glance at the Big Ten teams.

ILLINOIS, which does not appear on the Spartan schedule, has many supporters who believe the Illini, with new coach Pete Elliott, will win the Big Ten title.

Elliott himself is very optimistic, which is unusual for football coaches.

"We have some good veteran players returning," Elliott says. "I feel sure that tackle Joe Rutgens is one of the finest linemen in America. And our captain, fullback Bill Brown, is outstanding."

THE SUBSTITUTE for Bill Brown is brother Jim Brown. And another act develops when Illinois battles Michigan Nov. 5. The Wolverine mentor is Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, Pete's brother.

Northwestern, which has come far along the comeback trail under Coach Ara Parasekian, faces some sizeable roadblocks in 1960, including the rebuilding of its interior line.

What tempted the writers in voting for the Wildcats is the return of star quarterback Dick Thornton, who was out of action last year because of injuries.

Veterans Al Kimbrough and Mike Stock also return.

MICHIGAN MUST replace its entire backfield and fill both first string guard positions before it can become a real threat in the conference title chase.

A large group of lettermen returning, 29, and an interesting array of sophomores gives the Wolverines hopes.

Don't count them out of the traditional clash here Oct. 1. Iowa figures 1960 to be its rebuilding year. From 1958 eight starters are gone, including the backfield which was the most explosive in the Big Ten.

A FAST, but inexperienced backfield is Iowa's greatest asset. It will be handled by junior Wilburn Hollis, Capt. Jerry Mauren runs from right halfback.

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes has thrown away tradition in order to take advantage of youthful talent. He has adopted the multi-team system in favor of iron man tactics he preached previously.

Reasoning behind the change is that the Buckeyes figure to have about 30 players of near-equal ability with an accent on sophomores.

THE BOLLERMAKERS say they are patching up the works left over from last season. But the patches are few. Only 18 letterwinners of 41 return from last fall.

With the exceptions of tackle and quarterback, Purdue are thin at most positions. Two veterans return at quarterback—Bernie Allen and Co-capt. Maury Guttman.

Wisconsin, the conference champion in 1959, is scraping the bottom in 1960. Only nine

Meeting Collegiate Goals

MICHIGAN STATE University this week is welcoming its largest freshman class in history. The class is also one of the top scholastically.

As a student enters Michigan State, he must realize that the major part of his college career is academic. But college offers more than just books and learning, and it is up to the individual student to take advantage of all MSU has to offer.

It is unfortunate that too many students feel that they have come to college merely to gain a diploma and to say that they attended college. The obtaining of a diploma is not a complete education.

UNTIL a student learns to utilize his intellectual curiosity to the utmost, he will remain a mediocre student. And by a mediocre student we do not mean a person who gets poor or average grades. Grades are not necessarily a measure of success. A mediocre student is one who does not strive to achieve all of which he is capable.

The student can profit from his education at Michigan State in many ways outside the classroom. First, the library is not a glass and brick building to be used merely for outside reading and completing term papers. There are many books, papers and pamphlets inside the library that are rarely opened. These are just waiting for the student who wishes to satiate his intellectual appetite.

THE LECTURE-CONCERT series, the travelogues and special lectures sponsored by student groups, and the nine colleges are another means of growing intellectually. The student may also gain by joining organizations and participating in activities.

The university offers a great deal to every student. As a student enters MSU he must think with an eye to the future and make the best of his education.

The Rising Cost of Education

THE COST of education at Michigan State is on the rise, as shown by the necessary raise in fees and out-of-state tuition. Michigan State is not alone in finding it necessary to raise its fees. In the past six years, the cost of higher education has risen to its greatest heights. It has been rising faster than the average cost of living.

Why has the cost for education gone up so quickly? To some extent it is due to inflation; to a greater extent it is because colleges were underpriced six years ago. Students were, in short, not paying a large part of their education.

THE UNDERPRICE of education was felt at Michigan State. Faculty salaries lagged behind and were just recently increased. As more students enroll the university needs more equipment, more classroom space, more dormitory space. To give the student the education he deserves, Michigan State has had to raise its tuition and fees 50 percent since 1951.

When a Michigan resident pays $93 a term and an out-of-state student approximately $215 a term, the student is paying barely 20 percent of the cost of his education. The remainder must come from state appropriations and other sources. This is indeed a small price to ask the student to contribute.

THUS, THE raise in tuition and fees at Michigan State is very necessary. While some students may find the increase a hardship, in the long run each student will find increased benefits resulting from a higher cost. Education is costly, but it is a definite necessity in the present world.

The Benefits of University Life

Living at a university is a unique experience. It is like living in a world separate from the rest of the community. It is a world in which the student sets the norms, fads, the trends. It is world which can belong to the college student.

MICHIGAN State University is typical of all large institutes of higher education. Its students come from almost every state in the Union and from many foreign countries. And these people bring with them many of the traits of their particular localities. It is this blending that makes the cultural life of the university.

Whether a student lives in a dorm, a sorority or fraternity house, a cooperative, off-campus housing or at-home, he becomes a part of Michigan State. He is conscious that he is part of the image of the university that is presented to the people who live across Grand River avenue.

THE COLLEGE student tends to conform with his contemporaries and at the same time wants to remain an individual. This is one of the most difficult problems faced by the college student — if he conforms he is like the others, if he does not conform he remains an individual but risks having people look at him as "different." Many times he will have to conform but to succeed in many other things he will have to be an individual.

The problems faced by the college student, the enjoyment he receives from his college years, the people he meets and the disappointments that come his way are all a part of college living.

Foreign Languages Vital Study

The need for instruction in foreign languages has been realized by Michigan State, as shown by the expansion of the foreign language department. Students, too, have indicated a strong interest in learning foreign tongues; enrollment in languages, particularly Russian, substantially increased last year.

THIS FALL, four additional languages, Chinese, Portuguese, Japanese and Yoruba, will be included in the curriculum.

It is vitally important in the world today that people of many nationalities learn to cooperate with each other, and to fully understand a nationality an outsider must be familiar with its language. For this reason, the study of foreign languages is almost a necessity for every college student.

TOO MANY of our statesmen are unable to communicate easily or effectively at international meetings because they have very little or no knowledge of a language other than English.

For these reasons we urge all students to accept the opportunity to enroll in foreign language courses.

Career Carnival Beneficial

Career Carnival is a unique characteristic of Michigan State; it is a characteristic that has received national acclaim. Each year the Placement Bureau sponsors Career Carnival, at which time representatives of more than a hundred companies come to MSU to tell the students of the job opportunities available.

Career Carnival is not just for seniors. It is for freshmen, sophomores and juniors as well. It is an experience from which all students will benefit. This year Career Carnival will be held Oct. 3 and 4 in the Union. Plan to attend.

Career Carnival Time Nears

This fall for the 12th time, a Career Carnival will be held at Michigan State.

The Carnival which is sponsored by the Placement Bureau will be staged on the first and second floors of the Union on Monday and Tuesday, October 3 and 4.

REPRESENTATIVES of business, industry, education, state and federal agencies will explain informally the opportunities available in their organizations and the qualifications needed for the positions.

Approximately 70 organizations will be represented and the student can get information on choosing a career first hand. This year's theme is "Success in the Sixties" and is centered around the belief that the student must plan now for the future.

SOME OF THE companies which will be represented are Standard Oil, General Motors, Boeing Aircraft, Michigan Bell, Burroughs, Dow Chemical, RCA Whirlpool and the Ford Motor Company.

In 1949, Ed Pino, president of the senior class, approached Dean Tom King with an idea. He wanted to invite a group of employers to MSU to discuss career opportunities with the students.

Dean King arranged for 23 organizations to come and this was the first Career Carnival.

Since You Went Away

Lots Happened This Summer

Lots happened on campus while you were away for the summer — or in case of you freshmen, before you arrived for orientation week.

Summer school opened June 23 with a record enrollment of 9,302 students. This figure represented an increase of 750 over the 1959 summer session, previous high point for summer enrollment.

At their June 16 meeting the trustees approved higher tuition fees for out-of-state students and a record $63 million budget to operate the university during the coming year.

In the budget is $30 million for the East Lansing campus, $1 million for MSU-Oakland, $3 million for the Agricultural Experiment station, and $4 million for cooperative extension work.

Nearly half a million in gifts and grants to the university were accepted by the trustees at the June meeting. Grants included $190,000 from the International Cooperation Administration for seminars for foreign trainees under the direction of the College of Communication Arts.

At the end of June the university changed the name of the Basic college to University college. The new title, the university said, will be more in keeping with the function and philosophy of the program established here in 1944 as the Basic college.

Karl H. McDonel, secretary of the board of trustees, retired at the end of June after 44 years of service to the university. He was succeeded by Dr. James W. Miller, state controller and former head of the department of teacher education at MSU.

In early July, Dr. Fred J. Vescolani, associate professor of education, became the new president of the Michigan Education Assn.

Eight MSU museum staff members went to Mexico in July to collect material for desert life habitat displays. The College of Communication Arts brought nearly 500 high school students to the campus in June and July for summer courses in journalism, radio and television, theater and forensics.

The first Fine Arts festival was held on campus in July. Robert Shaw, conductor of the famous Robert Shaw chorus, came to conduct a university chorus of 200 voices in Brahms "Requiem." Other music, art and theatre presentations rounded out the week long festival.

In mid-July the 1960 MSU catalog came off the presses newly designed and re-written.

Swimmers trying out for the 1960 Olympic teams spent part of July on campus practicing in the outdoor pool. In August after the team was selected others came here to train before leaving for Rome.

East Lansing began construction of new parking lots in the downtown area of Grand River. The lots will add 248 parking spaces, bringing East Lansing's total off-street parking spaces to 960.

The State News on July 21 announced a $1 million grant by the Ford Foundation to enable the university to undertake international studies of underdeveloped societies. Under the direction of Dr. Glen L. Taggart, dean of international programs, emphasis will be placed on areas where MSU has major overseas programs.

Keillogg Center's State dining room was the scene of a series of international dinners on Wednesday nights during the summer. Foreign menus, prepared under the direction of students and faculty members from European countries, the Middle East, Asia, and India, attracted overflow crowds of diners.

President Hannah flew to Zurich, Switzerland, in late July to speak before the ninth international conference of the Cooperative Institute of the Green Meadow foundation.

Knapps in mid-summer began construction of a $1 million dollar, three-story store in East Lansing. The building, with 30,000 square feet of floor space, will open in February or early March.

A new, more academic, less traditional ROTC program was announced by the Army ROTC in late July.

MSU's school of nursing graduated 23 nurses in special ceremonies in the Alumni chapel at the end of July. Pins were presented to the graduates by Miss Florence C. Kempf, director of the school.

WKAR, the university's AM-FM radio station, celebrated its 33rd birthday in August. The station was first licensed August 18, 1922.

In August Dr. Leonard Price joined the medical staff of Olin Health center. He formerly practiced general medicine in Muskegon.

Dr. Ernest Wolff, 70, head of piano in the school of music, died late in August. Dr. Wolff came to MSU in 1947. Last spring he was one of four faculty members to receive a distinguished teacher award.

More than 1,000 mathematicians met on campus Aug. 29 to Sept. 2.

President's Welcome

Spartans in Spirit As Well As in Name

I am grateful to the STATE NEWS for the privilege of using its columns to extend a cordial greeting to the incoming students of Michigan State University. As you will soon learn, the STATE NEWS is a major medium of communication on this campus, and I can think of no better way than this of bringing to your attention certain aspects of the University as you begin your careers on this campus.

AS A GROUP, you are welcomed as another contingent being accepted into a community of scholars having as its objectives those held in common with other colleges and universities. You are here primarily because you are interested in pursuing your studies, and because you have proved by your academic records to date that you are qualified to become citizens of the academic community.

It follows that your success here will be judged primarily upon the manner in which you treat the privileges of scholarship extended to you by the faculty, which is at the heart of the educational enterprise called Michigan State University.

As individuals, we welcome you as friends and associates with whom warm relationships have already been established through the admissions procedures, through publications designed for your use, and through personal letters. We have looked forward to your joining us here at East Lansing, and sincerely hope that the years immediately ahead of you will be interesting and exciting. This is what college experience is intended to be.

THERE EXISTS an unwritten but valid compact between the University and those who come here as students.

On its part, Michigan State promises to provide good facilities for study and for living, a faculty of exceptional quality, good teaching, intellectual stimulation, and an atmosphere conducive to personal development.

You agree, on your part, to take full advantage of the educational opportunities offered to you, to abide by the rules and regulations established for the community of which you become a part, and to contribute as best you can of your personal resources of intelligence, enthusiasm, and energy.

All of this may sound most formidable, but it actually is nothing of the sort. Michigan State is a friendly university, and you will find everyone ready to help you adjust yourselves to the new life upon which you are entering. You can quickly make friends among faculty members and other students, if you will but make some effort in that direction.

I WOULD urge you to make that effort, for you will find that those who derive the most benefit from college experience are those who have a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, who participate with enthusiasm in student activities, who become Spartans in spirit as well as in name.

A great storehouse of scholarly riches and opportunities for personal development is open to you. You are welcome to enter and to take as much as you like.

John A. Hannah

The Editorial Page

State News Features

Editorials on campus events, letters to the editor, Herb Block's cartoons and, of course, Charley Brown and the Peanuts crowd are all a part of the State News editorial page.

THE EDITORIAL page, which appears twice weekly, is the medium through which the State News staff expresses its views. These views are the opinion of the staff at large unless they are signed, in which case they are the opinion only of the individual writer.

STATE NEWS readers are encouraged to participate in the letters to the editor column. Letters must be limited to 300 words and must be signed by the writer. Letters which do not meet these qualifications will not be considered for publication. The editor also reserves the privilege to edit all letters before publication.

HERBLOCK, well-known Pulitzer prize winning cartoonist, is a regular feature in the State News. The cartoonist, whose real name is Herbert Block, has caused numerous angry subjects to jump without joy. He has drawn Eisenhower, Krushchev and many other political figures.

Humor is injected into the State News each day by the crowd of little people who are better known as Charley Brown, Linus, Lucy, Pigpen and their friends. This comic strip features children but contains some of the most adult words ever heard.

You'll meet Charley Brown, the inveterate worrier; Lucy, the world's top fuss-budget; Snoopy, the dog who wants to be like humans; Beethoven - loving Schroeder; Linus who finds security in a blanket; and Sally Brown, Charley's baby sister, who is presently in love with Linus.

The State News is a member of the Associated Press, and uses this service to present up-to-the-minute coverage of national and international news.

Revised Catalog Presents New Course Numbers

MSU's new 1960-61 catalog is different, too. The catalog has been completely revised for easier reading.

The new catalog has been in preparation since early last fall, according to Kermit H. Smith, MSU registrar, whose office is responsible for the catalog.

THE 1960-61 catalog is the first catalog issued since 1958-59 and represents the first major revision in the catalog since 1953.

Some 35,000 catalogs have been printed, Smith said.

The catalog goes to a general mailing list to faculty and staff, and to students, but distribution is far from hit or miss, according to the registrar.

THE MAILING list includes other colleges and universities, industry, libraries, and high schools get copies for their principal, library, and counselors.

Students who want a catalog must ask for one, the registrar said. There will be no general distribution to students already enrolled nor to incoming freshmen.

The catalog is divided into two sections. The first 251 pages contain general information about the university and general course information about the various colleges.

THE SECOND part of the catalog, pages A-1 to A-212, lists all courses alphabetically, beginning with Accounting 205 and ending with Zoology 999.

For the first time MSU students will find courses listed under the new course numbering system approved by the faculty last year.

COURSES in the new catalog are broken down into five categories:

1-Non-credit courses are numbered 0 to 699.

2-Undergraduate courses are numbered 100 to 299.

3-Advanced undergraduate courses are numbered from 300 to 499.

4-Graduate courses are numbered from 500 to 899.

5-Advanced graduate courses are numbered from 900 to 999.

FOR THOSE whose MSU careers are well underway and who have taken coursework under the old numbering system, the former number of each renumbered course is listed in the catalog.

The new numbering system does away with the asterisk that formerly marked 300 and 400 courses that carried graduate credit.

NOW GRADUATE students may take only courses numbered 400 and higher. Many courses formerly in the 300 bracket were renumbered as 400 courses by faculty action during the past year.

Graduate students will concentrate on 800 level courses. Advanced undergraduates, however, if they have a 3.00 or better grade point average may be permitted to take 800 level courses.

COURSES NUMBERED 900 to 999 are primarily for doctoral candidates, but masters degree candidates may take these courses with approval of the department.

Students will find the alphabetical listing of courses on pages A-1 to A-212 easier to use than were the listings in the old catalog. Formerly courses were listed by college and department.

In the back of the catalog, following the alphabetical listing of courses, are sections giving faculty organization, financial aids for students, information on student housing, and an index of faculty and staff members.

RANK AND DEGREES held by faculty members is not listed here as in previous catalogs, but faculty members are listed by rank, and the degrees they hold are identified as part of the general information about their college or department.

The new catalog is eight and a quarter inches by 10 and three-quarter inches. It is printed in a most readable type face and the text is in double columns on each page.

THE FOUR-color photograph which graced the cover of the last catalog is missing. Instead the 1960-61 MSU catalog has a tasteful, but plain, green cover.

Divider pages between sections in the catalog are decorated with story-telling pictures of university life and with pictures of deans and other major faculty figures.

ON PAGE SEVEN of the catalog is reprinted President Hammar's statement of the purpose of the university, titled simply "We Believe . . ."

The new catalog carries the academic calendar for the school year 1960-61 and for the 1961-62 year.
