Reds Nix JFK Plan

U. S. to Remain Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's first move to relax tensions with Red China, President Kennedy said Wednesday, as his hopes are dimmed. He declared America will not surrender to get better relations with Peking.

Kennedy spoke at a news conference shortly after the State Department rejected Communist China's proposal for a Kennedy administration's initial attempt to narrow the gulf between the two countries.

AT A MEETING of ambassadors in Warsaw Tuesday, the State Department reported, the Chinese Reds squashed a fresh proposal for an exchange of prisoners by demanding as a condition that this country hand over Chiang Kai-Shek's nationalist regime on Formosa.

The Reds also rejected U.S. proposals for freeing the five Americans held in Red Chinese jails, and they declined to renounce use of force against Formosa. Asked if he had hoped to move toward more harmonious relations with Communist China, Kennedy replied: "That was our hope. They are unwilling to do that."

THEY (the Red Chinese) have been, as we know, extremely belligerent toward us and they have been unflinching in their attacks upon the United States.

Faculty Advises Peace Corps

University faculty members have made policy recommendations to the Peace Corps. Joseph H. Smuckler, associate dean of international programs, recently advised the Peace Corps.

The Peace Corps was initiated by President Kennedy to provide a pool of Americans to help foreign countries. Dr. Maurice Albers, director of the research institute at Colorado State University, headed a study for the Peace Corps, invited the faculty to make recommendations on selection, training, and orientation of students.

Suggestions were contributed to the unofficially organized program by Smuckler, William T. Ross, assistant to the dean of university colleges, and other members of the committee preparing students for overseas service.

DR. ALBERTSON was interested in MSU because of its well known international work, Smuckler said.

The group recommended that the Peace Corps be limited to 500 for specific assignments abroad.

Selected students will probably get intensive training in language, culture, and U.S. foreign policy toward their assigned country, Smuckler said. They will be trained three months here and three months in the foreign country, he added.

STUDENT assignments will range from secondary school teaching to laboratory work with living conditions varying with each assignment.

"Peace corps members will be doing specialized work, but will be in non-supervisory positions," Smuckler said. Local draft boards may follow some policy, he said, but certainly no official order extending corps members from the draft will be issued.

Need for smallness and careful planning with attention on countries' needs would lead to the success, Smuckler emphasized.

"The Peace Corps has a great potential if treated seriously with careful arrangements in the field."

If done in a hurry as a big splash with a naive assumption of foreign problems, it will be a flop," he said.

States. Of course, I think part of that has been because they recognize that the United States is committed to maintaining its connections with other countries committed to its own defense and the defense of freedom.

"They have been extremely harsh in their attacks upon us. I would like to see a lessening of that tension. That was our hope from the beginning."

But we are not prepared to surrender in order to get a relaxation of that.

THE RESULT occurred Tuesday in Warsaw where U.S. ambassador Jacob D. Beam met with Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping Nan. This was the 103rd ambassadorial meeting between the two red war foes since the end of the Korean War, but was the first parley since President Kennedy took office.

Mr. Kennedy has made a point of trying to seek areas of agreement with the Reds in order to move out of what he terms a dangerous deadlock with the Communist world.

Ambassador Wang, however, refused even to receive a list of 32 U.S. newsmen handed him by Beam with a promise that the United States would promptly consider a similar list of applications by Chinese Communist newsmen to enter the United States.

Wang said "it would be difficult to settle the question of newsmen while the United States continued to occupy Taiwan (Formosa)." State Department press officer Joseph W. Reap reported.

When the United States last made a similar proposal for exchange of newsmen under the Eisenhower administration, Wang spurned it at a Warsaw meeting last Sept. 6. He then insisted on other conditions unacceptable to Washington, including a requirement that the American newsmen admitted to Red China write nothing contrary to Chinese Communist objectives.

Peking still has submitted no applications for Chinese newsmen to come to the United States.

The State Department said that despite Tuesday's turn-down, the United States will continue to push what Reap termed "reasonable proposals" in hopes of a more favorable response from the Reds. The next Warsaw meeting is set for April 14.

OFFICIALS said the atmosphere at Tuesday's ambassadorial parley was courteous, but that Wang fudged not one iota from the Communists.

No Dems At Forum Tonight

The Democratic nominees for the Board of Trustees, C. Allen Harlan and Connor Smith, will not participate at the Student Government forum at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Young Republican Club leaders have accused the nominees of "running out" on the forum.

BOTH REPUBLICAN nominees, John S. Pingell and Fred England Jr., will appear.

The date for this forum was agreed on by Young Republicans, Young Democrats and Student Government in order to give students and faculty members an opportunity to hear and question all candidates for the board, said Jack Knirk, Goldwater junior chairman of the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans.

THE FACT that the Democrats' refusal to appear amounts to a run-out on the students and faculty vitally interested in the policies and programs of the candidates," Knirk said.

The Democratic nominees declined the invitation to the forum from the beginning; they did not change their minds after the other candidates said they would attend, Knirk said.

previous line and added a new condition.

State Department press officer Lincoln White declined comment on the substance of Tuesday's meeting, except on the newsmen question, which he termed of the most vital interest to reporters.

He said there was a gentleman's agreement that nothing else be given out about the talks. He said he did not know, however, whether the Reds had agreed to this "gentlemen's agreement."

Development Fund to Honor Martin Soria

The MSU Development Fund is establishing a fund to honor the memory of the late Dr. Martin Soria, associate professor of art.

Dr. Soria died in an airplane crash Feb. 14 in Belgium. The same crash that wiped out the U.S. skating team.

Fund contributions will be used to purchase an art work in his name for the art department's permanent collection. A special memorial service to honor Dr. Soria will be held 8 p.m. Sunday in the university music auditorium.

Air Force Finance Head To Speak

Brig. Gen. Paul W. Schaecker, head of the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center (AFAFC) Denver, Colo., will speak Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Heritage room, Kellogg Center.

Schaecker will speak to a group of military personnel enrolled in business administration courses.

THE SEMINAR will feature a discussion of current accounting problems relating to Air Force operations, said Capt. Robert Swett, AFAFC information services officer.

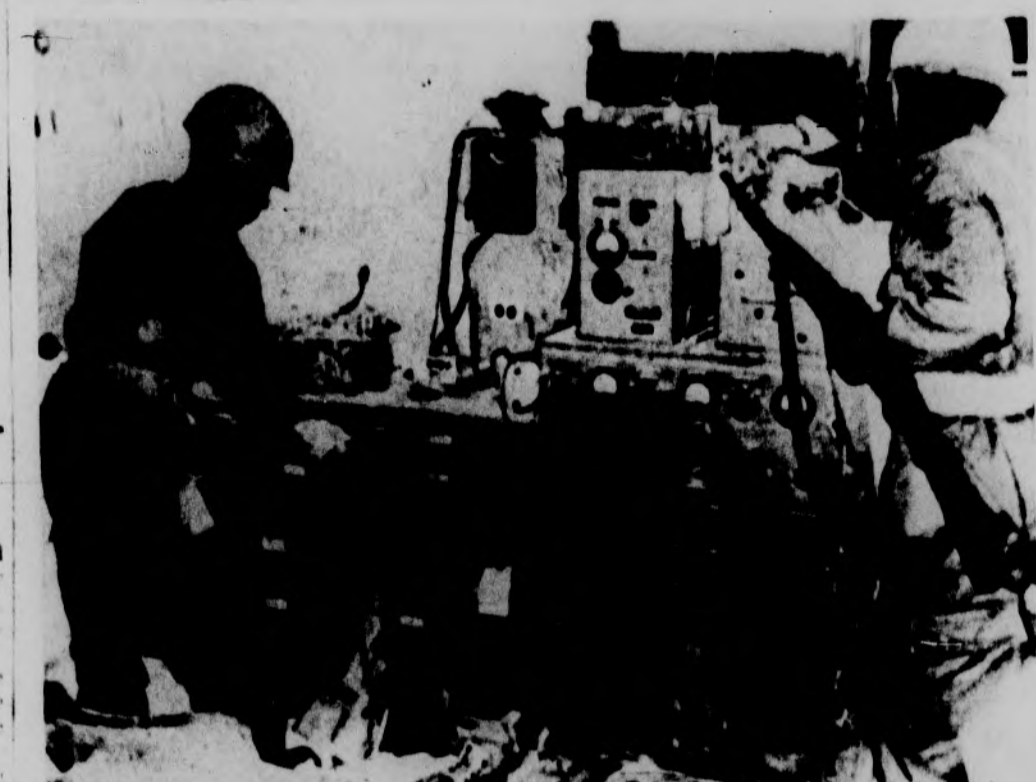

The military audience will include USAF officers, an Army officer and an officer of the RCAF who are enrolled in finance courses here under the Armed Forces Institute of Technology (AFIT) program.

The AFAFC in Denver handles all accounting and finance functions of the Air Force. In overseeing payment for USAF equipment and material and pay for Air Force personnel, more than 24 million separate transactions are performed annually by the center's 325 field finance offices.

CONGOLESE CHECK CAPTURED MATADI RADIO—Congolese soldiers look over Canadian radiotransmitting equipment in the Congo port city of Matadi Tuesday after driving the defending United Nations force of Canadians and Sudanese out of the city over the weekend. Urge No Arguments On School Aid Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff, in separate forums, urged Congress Wednesday not to entangle the administration's $2.3 billion school aid program in arguments over integration and aid to parochial schools.

Ribicoff made his plea in telling a Senate Education subcommittee that Congress must act quickly if the nation is to provide classrooms and teachers needed to handle sky rocketing public school enrollments.

AS THE leadoff witness in four days of subcommittee hearings on the administration bill to provide assistance for public elementary and high schools, Ribicoff said the main purpose of the measure must not be sidetracked.

Kennedy, in making his plea at a news conference, said he considers loans as well as grants to parochial and other private schools unconstitutional.

But he said there is obviously room for debate about loans, since the question hasn't been tested in the courts. And if Congress wants to consider voting loans to private schools, Mr. Kennedy said, then I am hopeful that it will be considered as a separate matter.

MEANWHILE, Mr. Kennedy said, "I am hopeful that while consideration is being given, we will move ahead with the grant program for the public schools."

The President had said in his news conference last week that bringing private schools into the grants program would be clearly unconstitutional.

Since then spokesmen for the Roman Catholic Church have opened a fight to be long-term, low-interest loans for parochial schools into the program.

MR. KENNEDY declined to indicate whether he would veto any separate legislation to provide private loans for private schools, but added "it is very clear about what my view is of grants and loans across the board to non-public schools."

Private School Aid Unlawful

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pleading that religious and desegregation interests not kill his education bill, President Kennedy said Wednesday federal loans to private secondary schools, just like grants, are unconstitutional.

At the same time, the President told his news conference that the question of loans, unlike the question of grants, is open to debate.

ASKED WHETHER he would veto such a separate bill, Mr. Kennedy replied:

"I think it is always a mistake before we even have legislation to talk about what I am going to do, but I think it is very clear about what my view is of grants and loans across the board to non-public schools."

Mr. Kennedy's $2.3-billion bill, under consideration by Congress, would provide federal grants to public schools, scholarships to college students and loans to colleges.

Spokesmen for the country's Roman Catholic Bishops' Conference announced opposition to the bill unless it is revised to include a program of low-interest loans to private and parochial secondary schools.

THE PRESIDENT spent much of his 30-minute conference with 300 newsmen discussing the question of grants and loans to private schools. At several points, however, he turned to foreign affairs and commented on U.S. relations with Communist countries.

AGAIN AND AGAIN in reply to questions, the President returned to the problem of education aid.

A newsmen recalled Mr. Kennedy's statement last week that "there is no debate" about the unconstitutionality of aid to

Spring Term Registration

The Men's Intramural Building will be the site of registration for spring term.

Registration has been held in the Auditorium since the late 1940's. Before that it was held in Jensen Field House.

The actual registration procedure however will be much the same, according to the registrar's office.

The schedule will begin at the middle of the alphabet. Those students with names starting with N will register first.

Registration begins Monday, March 13, and will continue through Wednesday, March 29.

In his speech, Goldwater said that the type of liberalism used in the thirties did not work then, and that it doesn't work now.

The government in the thirties tried to apply economic control instead of the free enterprise system, according to Goldwater.

OUR COUNTRY had the worst record of any country in the world coming out of a depression of the thirties," he said.

Goldwater said other countries have come out of depression faster using the free enterprise system.

We see the liberal mind—the radical mind as I call it—applying the same politics now as in the thirties," he said.

On foreign policy, Goldwater said that we're going to have to show our strength without being a "bully" if we want to remain our freedoms. He added that foreign countries have always gone with the country that they thought was going to be the winner.

Alpha Sigma Phi Elects Officers

Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity elected officers for next year Monday night.

Elected were: Dan Woodruff, Detroit junior, president, Tom Abramczyk, Detroit sophomore, vice president, Jerry Seaman, Farmington sophomore, treasurer, and Chuck Hawley, Paw Paw sophomore, secretary.

Mr. Kennedy continually stressed that if Congress wants to take up the matter of loans to private secondary schools it should do so in a separate bill. He said he does not want it attached to the administration bill.

This was Mr. Kennedy's sixth news conference.

AMONG OTHER matters, Mr. Kennedy touched on the Missile Gap—Mr. Kennedy said he looks for completion in the next few days of a Defense Department study which will indicate whether Russia has a missile advantage over the United States. A reporter reminded the President that he said some time ago that he expected to have an answer from the Pentagon by this time.

Predicting the completion of the study shortly, Mr. Kennedy added:

At that time we will indicate what I believe to be the relative defensive position of the United States and other countries, and what needs to be done to improve it.

ECONOMY—as a result of a review of purchasing and construction plans in the federal government, $600 million more will be spent before June 30 than had been planned originally. The speedup is an effort to spur the lagging economy.

If this acceleration proceeds as planned by the agencies," Mr. Kennedy said, "direct federal purchases of goods and services will be increased by the January-March quarter by an annual rate of about one-quarter of a billion dollars, and in the April-June quarter by an annual rate of about three-quarters of a billion dollars."

We see the liberal mind—the radical mind as I call it—applying the same politics now as in the thirties," he said.

On foreign policy, Goldwater said that we're going to have to show our strength without being a "bully" if we want to remain our freedoms. He added that foreign countries have always gone with the country that they thought was going to be the winner.

High Hopes Ride on Taro But It Lacks Material

By DONALD A. VALES
Instructor in Foreign Languages

The publication of a college magazine is an important step in the development of a college. The magazine is a reflection of the college's culture and its students. The magazine 'Taro' is a good example of this. It is a well-written and interesting publication. However, it lacks material. The magazine is too short and does not cover enough ground. It is a pity that the magazine is not longer and more comprehensive.

Faculty Folk Meet to Talk On Theatre Director of African Studies At Northwestern Will Speak

Theatre Men will be the topic of the Faculty Folk meeting at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the Union Ballroom.

The meeting is being presented for Faculty Folk by the Newcomers' Club of the organization.

Dr. John F. Dietrich of the speech department will present an illustrated discussion of the University Theatre program.

Linda Kohliet, Birmingham senior, and Charles Coffin, East Lansing senior, will recreate their roles as Lady Macbeth and Macbeth.

Director of the program of African studies at Northwestern university, Dr. Melville J. Herskovits, will speak on "Africa and America" at 3 p.m. today in Kellogg Center auditorium.

Herskovits is the principal author of a recent report on American foreign policy related to Africa, which is presented to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

He is the third speaker sponsored this year by the African Language and Area Center (ALAC) and the department of sociology and anthropology.

Since 1951 he has headed the program of African studies at Northwestern, which is the pioneer program in American universities.

He is truly a very distinguished person," said Dean Glen E. Taggert of international programs, who will introduce the speaker.

He is probably one of the first scholars in our universities to become interested in conducting research on Africa," Taggert said.

The center presents distinguished people to speak on Africa and through the speakers inform themselves, the staff, and the student body on problems existing in that area, he said.

Taggert said he hopes the University will significantly develop information on Nigeria and West Africa in particular.

After receiving a Ph.D. at Columbia and Howard universities, in 1927 he joined Northwestern's anthropology department.

Herskovits is writing a book on African Negro culture based on research conducted in sub-Saharan Africa in 1932, 1937, and 1959. It will be published next summer.

He is the author of 15 volumes he wrote after studying in Dutch Guinea, Haiti, Brazil, and Trinidad. He has been in Nigeria twice during the past six months.

The ALAC was established in July 1960, under provisions of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

"Most African programs are recent developments," said Eugene H. Jacobson, assistant dean of the College of Science and Arts.

Jacobson, administrative director of ALAC, said similar programs exist at UCLA, Boston, John Hopkins, and Howard universities.

"Even though MSU's center is very new, we are probably the fourth strongest program in the country, after Northwestern, UCLA, and Boston," he said.

The primary reason for the center's strength is that MSU has on its staff two ethnologists—Dr. Roger Wescott and Dr. Hans Wolff, who have done other West African countries, field research in Nigeria and Jacobson said.

Jacobson said not more than 15 anthropologists in the country have been trained as linguists and studied in Africa within five years.

The ALAC will present two speakers next term. They are Dr. Robert Baum, from the State Department, in charge of research on African matters, and Dr. Gwendolyn Carter, from the department of government at South Carolina, who has written two books on South Africa.

A chapter of the Junior Academy of Science, Arts and Letters will be organized this spring, according to Dr. Wayne Taylor, associate professor of the Science and Math Teaching center.
Taylor, who is originally from Texas, where the academy has had great success, feels that it will be of great benefit to MSU and Michigan.
Taylor was born in Texas and received three degrees from North Texas State College. He spent much of his early career in Texas, doing working and with the academy.

He was state chairman there and also president of the National Academy Conference in 1955. He has been here two years and is one of Michigan's delegates to the national conference.
He is presently director of the Visiting Scientist program in Michigan and is advisor to general statewide structure of the Junior Academy.
The Junior Academy is the college and secondary level of the Senior Academy of Science, Arts and Letters. The academies are dedicated to the advancement of the above field, by means of interrelations of ideas, thoughts and works of each member.
The organizations are unique in this form as they encompass more than one field, thereby permitting ideas to be exchanged across barriers that have hitherto stopped this by the lack of communication among different groups.
The major difference between the senior and junior branches is that of membership.
Membership in the junior branch is derived by educational status. It is open to any college student in science, arts or letters. Senior status is gained when one graduates and continues in these fields.

Buckeyes Drop Records

COLUMBUS, Ill.—Ohio State lead in rebounding averages, withstood determined challenges to its undefeated record, and has taken its toll upon the Buckeyes' domination of the Big Ten basketball statistics. Whereas until last week the Buckeyes were Conference leaders in all major statistical departments, they now rank at the top only in offense and shooting averages. Iowa, which topped a one-point lead in the Big Ten, has taken over the lead in defense with an average of 26.7 points per game for the Buckeyes' 62 points. Indiana resumed its early-season

Michigan Tournaments Start

Professional tennis tournaments are under way in Michigan. The state's 200 best schools are engaged in district tournaments this week. In Class A there are 100 schools in teams capable of going all the way. Saginaw State, ranked first in the state, will be considered the favorite. Still, challenges are expected from Jackson, Kalamazoo and Lansing schools. In Class B, Catholic Central (14-1), Grand Rapids (13-2), and Highland Park (14-2) are the top teams. In Class C, River Rouge (12-2) won't be a stiff competitor in its district when it meets Leoni (12-3). Leoni's only three losses have been at the hands of Rouge, by only one point. Top-ranked Vanar (16-0), East Grand Rapids (14-1), Elkhart (14-2), and Sturgis (14-1) head the list of challengers. Class C's top team, Three Oaks (19-0), faces the 16-1 and Grand Rapids (15-1) teams from the list of challengers. Marquette (14-2) and Iron Mountain (11-1) are the top teams in Class D. The defending champions are in Class D. The defending champions are in Class D. The defending champions are in Class D.

Bearcats Hope For Reversal

CINCINNATI—The Cincinnati Bearcats are hoping basketball history repeats itself in the coming NCAA tournament. And that doesn't mean they want Ohio State to repeat as champ. Last year the final Associated Press poll showed Cincinnati as the No. 1 team in the nation. When the NCAA tournament was completed, Ohio State was the champ and Cincinnati had finished third for a second straight year. This year's final poll had Ohio State as No. 1 and Cincinnati No. 2. Under the current format, the Bearcats can't possibly meet Ohio State before the final game and coach Ed Jucker says, "I don't know just how well we'll do on a year and how sure like to reverse that trend. Actually, no one, except possibly Jucker himself, expected

LUCKY STRIKE PRESENTS: DEAR DR. FROOD:
DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: In college, it isn't who you know that counts, it's whom you...
Dear Dr. Frood: I got an "F" on my paper. I get in deep with the best of the students here. They enjoy parties, dancing, talk, singing and dating. None of these things interests me at all. Am I behind the times or what?
Dear Dr. Frood: I have a confession. All my life I have been trying to learn how to whistle. I just can't. Please, will you tell me how to whistle?
Dear Dr. Frood: Hamlet killed Polonius. Macbeth stabbed Duncan. Richard murdered his little nephews. Othello strangled Desdemona, and Titus served Tamora her two sons in a pie before killing her. Don't you think this obsession with violence would make an excellent subject for a term paper?
Dear Dr. Frood: What do you think counts for the fact that college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular?
Dear Dr. Frood: My coach is writing this letter for me because I am illiterate. We want to know if I got to learn how to read to get into college. I am the best football player in the state.
Dear Dr. Frood: Every college today will insist that you meet certain basic entrance requirements. I'm afraid you're just out of luck, X, unless you learn how to read diagrams and count to eleven.
