Is Center Pro-Labor?

By LOWELL KINNEY
State News Staff Writer

The question of whether the MSU labor - industrial relations center is pro-labor or not was brought up in a question-answer session following the showing of the movie "A State Labor Body" before the AUSG summer interim committee last week.

The movie, a controversial feature in the dismissal of Charles A. Rogers as associate director of the labor-industrial relations center, was shown to thirty-five members of the committee and student public.

Producers of the film, Jack Stieber, director of the center, Prof. Fred Hoehler, associate director, and Edward McCoy, head of film productions of the audio visual center, answered students questions after the showing.

ACCORDING to Dale Warner, speaker of congress, the meeting was held to inform the students of the matter, not to take a stand.

Car Light Trips Up 5 Minors

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of five Lansing minors apprehended on campus in possession of alcoholic beverages at 12:15 a.m. Tuesday. None were MSU students.

The youths, all 19 and 20 years old, were stopped by a Department of Public Safety patrol car because the car they were driving had a missing head lamp.

Upon further investigation the officer found 20 full or partially full bottles of beer in the car.

The incident occurred near Landon Hall on West Circle Drive near the Abbott Rd. entrance.

MSU Gets Beauty

It's official! Nancy Anne Fleming, Miss America 1960, will be a freshman at Michigan State next fall.

Miss Fleming applied for admission to the university last fall, but when she won the Miss America pageant, the admission had to be postponed for a year.

She is scheduled to arrive this fall in time for the Welcome Week activities.

The former honor student at Montague high will major in home economics and minor in communication arts.

The film is built around the question, "What is a state labor body?" asked of a teacher by a student. The teacher attempts to find the answer by talking with neighbors who are members of unions, August "Gus" Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, and management representative.

"We met as a public forum. We wanted to get answers to our own individual questions," Warner said.

"IT WAS AN informative meeting and I'm satisfied with the cooperation and forthrightness with which the gentlemen answered our questions," he said.

Julie Bock, secretary of congress, said that most of the questions asked were similar to or stimulated by the recent newspaper publicity on the movie.

Orchestra Opens Fine Arts Festival

By ELLEN JENKS
State News Staff Writer

Distinguished music conductor Thor Johnson, conducting the American String Congress Orchestra, will open the 1961 Fine Arts Festival at 11 a.m. Monday in the Auditorium.

The Festival will run through July 21, and is open to the public.

Several of the visiting talents include Conductor Robert Shaw, dance artist Erick Hawkins, and folk singer Leon Bibb.

The String Congress will play the world premiere performance of Dr. H. Owen Reed's "Overture for Strings." It was written expressly for the Festival and was dedicated to Johnson by the composer.

"THE STYLE of the composition is that of the traditional French overture of the 18th century," said Dr. Johnson. "Its major borrowings include the use of many short, decorative notes, reminiscent of the French classical tradition as exemplified by Couperin and Rameau.

"Melodically the work is strictly contemporary; harmonically, the idiom is advanced," he added.

Johnson, who has a reputation for encouraging modern music and rarely performed classics, was the director of the Cincinnati Symphony for eleven seasons. He has been the music director of the Ann Arbor May Festival since 1939.

This summer he is conducting the American String Congress—a group of 98 winners of auditions for the American Federation of Musicians scholarship program. They are participating in eight weeks of concentrated study at MSU under the direction of the countries' eminent musicians.

DR. REED is a professor and chairman of theory and composition in MSU's music department. He has published a variety of compositions for orchestra, band, chorus, and solo instruments.

Reed's "Concerto for Cello and Orchestra" has recently been released by Dorian Records.

A convocation address, "Art and Life," will be given by Dr. Harold Taylor, author of "Art and Intellect." He is the former president of Sarah Lawrence College and is now doing research and writing. He is a popular lecturer throughout the U. S.

Renowned Artists' Works On Exhibition at Kresge

By ELLEN JENKS
State News Staff Writer

Picasso, Renoir, Gauguin, and Degas are but a few of the renowned artists whose works are on display until July 31, at Kresge Art Center.

They are part of the Aldrich collection of paintings and sculpture.

The collection was compiled by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Aldrich and is being circulated by the American Federation of Arts. This will be its only showing in Michigan.

"This is one of the finest and broadest collections we have ever had," said Charles E. Meyer, head of the art department. "Every piece is a monument to its particular type of art. You rarely run across anything as complete and qualitative as this."

THE COLLECTION is composed of the work of artists in three broad categories. The first are the early masters of modern art. Some works are typical examples while others illustrate some of the less familiar aspects of the artist.

The second group is of the acknowledged leaders of the first half of the twentieth century. They are leaders of modern art in Europe.

The third and largest group is composed of items by younger artists of this country as well as Europe. A large number were produced within the last 10 years. These artists have national reputations and a few have attained international acclaim.

Aldrich began to collect their works before they were well known and he has followed their development and acquired examples of their successive phases.

THE THREE-DIMENSIONAL aspect of sculpture adds to the collection. Twelve carefully chosen pieces are included. The bronzes of the early modern art masters are supplemented by works of the leaders of the twentieth century. The emphasis is on the younger sculptors and on recent work.

The collection is open to the public free of charge. The gallery is open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

On July 19, at 4 p.m., the art center will have an open house as a part of the Fine Arts Festival program. A reception with coffee and cookies will be held. People will have an opportunity to meet and talk to the staff besides seeing the collection.

Berlin Crisis: U.S. vs. Mr. K

As in most lengthy battles, the real issue of the Berlin "crisis" has been lost amid the thunder of the controversy.

Why does Khrushchev want Berlin? Why must we stand fast?

We seem to have forgotten that Berlin is important to Khrushchev for one simple reason above all—because it is important to the West.

THE PRIMARY importance of the city is that it is our most accessible entrance through the Iron Curtain. The intelligence operations of the Western countries depend on the ease of getting spies in and out via the Berlin subways.

The second most important factor is the ease of defection through Berlin. Every day, thousands of Soviet satellite citizens ride the Berlin subways to freedom.

The word gets around, even behind the Iron Curtain. And as long as defections continue at such a rate, the Soviets have to contend with a morale problem.

As long as there is a divided Berlin, the defections will continue. Why? The route must remain open because East Berlin is economically dependent upon West Berlin. The Reds cannot afford to stem the flow of East Germans to their jobs in West Berlin.

WOULD Senate Majority Leader Mansfield's proposal for a UN-controlled Berlin work to the benefit of the West? Not likely. The UN would be bound to curtail Western intelligence activities. And secondly, would Russia permit the UN to grant asylum to refugees from the East?

Certainly the other considerations are of some importance. Berlin is a symbol of the strength of our convictions, and it is a powerful propaganda agent as a peninsula of successful private enterprise in a sea of captive labor.

But the war in which the world is now engaged is as vicious and critical as any war ever joined, and in no war does victory fall to those who permit political considerations to outweigh strategic importance. JOK

"Bone In The Soviet Throat"

City Editor Says:

Birch Society, Tax Cutters No Laughing Matter

By CHARLES RICHARDS
State News City Editor

Clearly analyzing the position of such groups as the John Birch Society and the Tax Cut for God and America party would tickle your funny bone in tranquil moments.

But it is no laughing matter in July, 1961.

These are just two of the groups in the U. S. today which represent, at least in part, the views of millions of American citizens:

REDUCE TAXES, eliminate the bureaucracy, stamp out Big Government!

This we hear when Soviet Russia is flexing its military muscles, attempting to shoulder the allies out of West Berlin, South America is making Communist rumbling, and Fidel Castro is shouting "Imperialist" from his Cuban hideout.

Whether or not the Russians are the strongest military power in history is not as important as the fact that they are capable of flattening the U. S. just as fast as we are able to retaliate.

Clearly, the only way to insure that the Soviets won't decide to test its military might against the bulwark of the capitalist world is that potent U. S. nuclear power which both nations fear so deeply.

IT WOULD be nice to cut taxes again and again as Calvin Coolidge did four times in the 1920s—but where can we cut?

The portion of our fiscal budget which is not military is so small in relation to the whole that it is not a prominent figure.

In addition, there is the not unimportant domestic remainder of the budget which must build roads, further our educational processes, and furnish social security and relief benefits which we have proven we cannot go without (i.e., Eisenhower ran in 1952 on the promise to cut social security; he boosted its benefits and widened its coverage).

Consider the position of the Birch group. They denounce Communism and Communist "sympathizers" with a vehemence that is frightening. They even look behind the desk of the President of the U. S. in search for "infiltrators" (Eisenhower was accused of Red learnings).

Then, in almost the same breath, we hear the cry for the elimination of big government and the abolition of the income tax.

Maybe we do have an internal problem with Communists but the shadow of Russia's rockets, nuclear bombs, and satellites seems somewhat more ominous.

Columnist Walter Lippmann certainly has never been called a radical advocate of government spending. But this is what he said recently about the need for spending billions of dollars.

"This is the cold war against the most formidable adversary that ever challenged us," he pointed out, "and it is a daydream to suppose that we can have the better of this powerful and purposeful government by making our own government less powerful and less purposeful."

"powers" like Mexico and may again be possible in the future—but there is no indication of a pacifist world ahead.

It is a disturbing thought to digest but the road to annihilation is possible and it is most likely that we will reach the end if we are timid and unprepared.

We can't have small government—and a free capitalist system.

Recalls MSU

To the Editor:

I am now teaching in Kenneth Mackenzie school, a church-related school under the United Church of Christ in Thailand, as a head-teacher (principal).

Yes, it is wonderful to be back again to meet the ones who always love me. Of course, it is very hard indeed to do everything at the same time and in a situation like Thailand. We lack personnel as well as materials.

Whenever I recall the happy days in MSU I want to be back there again to study and to be among you who were kind to me. I owe you a lot of experiences and knowledge.

I would like to express my gratitude to MSU, my alma mater. Please remember me to my beloved professors and my friends. I will never forget their kindness, friendliness and their helpfulness.

This is a very short letter, but what is in my heart is so great. I hope to see you even not on earth but also in heaven where our Father is waiting for us.

Reconsider The Facts Business Dream Can Be Nightmare

If you've been dreaming of running a motel, spending seven months in Michigan and the other five in Florida, and doing your traveling in a shiny new Caddy, Robert McIntosh has news for you. Forget it.

Or, at least, reconsider the facts, said the MSU tourist and resort extension specialist.

This dream is becoming more common, especially to the people retired and 65 or older, McIntosh said.

MOST OF these people have worked for others and like the idea of owning a small business so they can "be their own boss," he said.

Others want to return to the peace and quiet of their native country environment and a motel may seem to fill the bill, he said.

McIntosh conceded that the motel business has its rewards. But there are also plenty of pitfalls, he added.

ROUGHLY $80,000 to $100,000 is needed to build a 10-room motel, about the smallest size necessary to provide a minimum living, and banks seldom lend more than half the capital, McIntosh said.

The cost is broken down into three major categories, according to McIntosh. Approximately $60,000 is required for construction, $15,000 for land and $5,000 for furnishings.

In addition, the owner would have no income for several months while the motel is in construction, he said.

"THESE figures are conservative. Many customers demand swimming pools and other embellishments," McIntosh said.

Some folks have simpler tastes but about 2,600 motels in Michigan already meet these needs, he pointed out.

In a recent motel survey, McIntosh found that expenses take up about 80 per cent of the total income and that motel owners do well to average half of their rooms occupied.

"TEN ROOMS occupied 175 days a year at seven dollars a night brings in $12,250 and one-fifth of that, the net income, is a shade under $2,500," he said.

The work involved in taking care of a motel must also be taken into consideration. It is often too much for older folks. Larger motels hire outsiders to do housekeeping and laundry but smaller operators often must do the work themselves to cut costs, he said.

Owners have found a ready market for their motels up to now but this is changing, Mc-Intosh said. One of the reasons is the new super highway system which leaves many motels stranded with few potential customers.

Some owners are converting their motels to retirement homes, McIntosh said. They add a kitchen, dining room and glass-enclosed porches. This type of stairless living appeals to the older folks who don't want to live with their children.

Little Men Battle Little Women

When eight or 10 male and female contestants engage in a domestic squabble there's bound to be action. And there was in Spartan Village this week.

A plainclothed officer from the Department of Public Safety investigated the scene at the farm house on Harrison Rd. in Spartan Village.

IT SEEMS THAT the ladies were peacefully going about their household chores on the screened-in porch of the building when the men invaded their domestic tranquility.

The ladies left the room under protest when the men entered. But upon leaving, they locked the menfolk in!

One of the irate males kicked out the screen. At this point the officer came on the scene and the contestants dispersed.

After a short wait they returned—one little lady with her mother in tow! They returned to retrieve baby carriages, dolls, miniature table place settings and the like.

YOU SEE, ALL of the "brawlers" were between five and 10 years old.

The mother? She was brought to investigate the "strange man" on the premises. There were no arrests.

Youth Injured at MSU Ice Arena

For Richard H. Jury, part time employee of the MSU Ice Arena, Sparrow Hospital is becoming a familiar sight.

The 16-year-old East Lansing youth made his second appearance of the month in the Sparrow emergency ward Wednesday night for treatment of an arm gash. He was cut when his hand went through the window on an Ice Arena door when he was leaving the building. He was not working at the time.

The four-inch gash required several stitches.

A MSU Department of Public Safety car was dispatched to assist the injured youth. He was first taken to Olin Memorial but was further transferred to Sparrow when it was discovered that he was not a student.

Earlier this month Richard was treated in the Sparrow emergency ward for contusions and abrasions of the left hip suffered when his motor scooter slid into the side of an automobile.

Last year he made two trips to Sparrow. In two football accidents he suffered a broken leg and a broken ankle.

Fine Arts Festival Begins Monday

will direct the Festival and Chorus and Orchestra in Verdi's "Requiem Mass," at 8:15 p.m., July 20, in the Auditorium.

The "Requiem Mass" was composed by Verdi in 1873 in memory of poet Alessandro Manzoni. It achieved immediate success after it was first performed in 1874. The Latin text is the liturgical Mass for the Dead. A dramatic portion of it is a rhymed poem, "Dies irae," dealing with the Last Judgment.

Shaw, who is also associate conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, is familiar throughout the country as the director and founder of the famed Robert Shaw Chorale and for his many best-selling records and annual concert tours.

SPECIAL soloists for the concert include contralto Florence Kopleff, soprano Saramae Endrich, tenor Carl Kaiser and bass David Ford.

Kopleff, who was named by the New York Herald-Tribune as, "One of the great voices America has produced," has appeared as soloist in Boston, New York, Chicago, Cleveland and San Francisco.

Endrich started her career at the Berkshire Festival in Tanglewood where she appeared with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. She appeared with the Robert Shaw Chorale in its tour in 1960 of Bach's, "Mass in B Minor," and also recorded the work.

KAISER has appeared in principal and supporting roles with the Opera Society of Washington, D. C., the Experimental Opera Theatre of America, and the Washington Civic Opera Association.

Ford has appeared in operas by Mozart, Smetana, and others. He was acclaimed for his voice and style in Verdi's "Don Carlo."

The festival chorus of over 100 voices was prepared for Shaw by Dr. Howard Swan of Occidental College, Los Angeles.

The congress of Strings will supply the strings for the orchestra.

DANCE ARTIST Erick Hawkins and Company from New York will be seen in a concert of contemporary dance at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Fairchild Auditorium.

Hawkins came to the dance world from his native Colorado. He was trained in Salzburg, Austria and New York. For a number of years, he was a member of Martha Graham's dance troupe and was her partner in a number of works.

Hawkins toured the country in such works as "Appalachian Spring," "American Document," and "Every Soul is a Circus."

IN TUESDAY'S concert, three dances will be featured, "8 Clear Places," "Sudden Snake-Bird," and a group work. The first two were premiered and received with enthusiasm last October at Hunter Playhouse in New York City.

A series of solos and duets for two male dancers comprise "8 Clear Places." It is performed by Hawkins and Kenneth LaVrack.

In "Sudden Snake - Bird," Hawkins dances in the costume and mask of a bird. The en-foot snake is danced by LaVrack and Kelly Holt.

The third dance is a group work. It is danced by Hawkins, LaVrack, Holt, and Ruth Paxon. It explores the essence of pure movement and features a new piano score by Detroit-born Lucia Dlugoszewska.

THE MUSIC for the program is composed and played by Miss Dlugoszewska. She has collaborated with Hawkins for the past 10 years.

Sculptor, Ralph Dorazio, another ex-Detroiter is responsible for the extraordinary designs in the dances.

Many other personalities are part of the Festival.

Director of the National Park Service, Washington, D. C., Conrad L. Wirth will lecture on Landscape Architecture, at 8:15 p.m. Monday in Fairchild Theater.

TEACHER and artist, Edward Corbett will appear on an art panel at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Kresge Art Center Gallery. Corbett's works have been exhibited nationally and internationally. They are in public and private collections. Among them are the collections of John D. Rockefeller II, and the Art Museum of Chicago.

Appearing with him on the panel are Owen Brainard, See FESTIVAL Page 5

X-Country, Soccer Expect Good Year

If the Michigan State cross country and soccer teams live up to the preseason expectations of their coaches, the 1961 season should be another successful one for each team.

Coach Fran Dittrich and his assistant Jim Gibbard believe that their 1961 cross country team will be as good as last year's Big Ten Champions. That was the sixth consecutive year that the Spartans had won that title.

In 1960 Michigan State placed second to Houston in the NCAA meet. Houston is considered the strongest again this year by most coaches.

However, Gibbard stated that with the right breaks the Spartans could win the NCAA title, one which they have already won seven times since 1948.

THE TEAM'S runners will be led by Captain Gerald Young, a senior. Other leading carriers are senior Clayton Ward, juniors Roger Humbarger and Orlen Larsen, and sophomores Alvin Duncan, George Thomson and Bill Stewart.

The team lost two runners by graduation this spring. One was the 1960 captain Billy Reynolds.

Soccer Coach Gene Kenney expects that the 1961 soccer squad will win their third straight Eastern Division title since they joined the Midwest Soccer Conference in 1959.

HOWEVER, THE Spartans have yet to defeat the perennial winner of the league and Western Division titles, St. Louis university. The collegiate soccer experts predict St. Louis will repeat as champions next fall.

Purdue and Earham are the strongest challengers for Michigan State's Eastern Division crown. Washington University of St. Louis is the leading challenger in the Western Division.

The Spartan boosters lost three seniors from last year's team, including Cecil Heron, Bernie Cook and Gerhard Grents. This season they will

Arbanas and Adderly Report for All-Star Game

Two former Michigan State football players were among 56 who reported Thursday July 13, at Northwestern university to begin a three week training period for the 1961 Pro-College All-Star game.

Former All-American back Herb Adderly and end Fred Arbanas, will be on the college team when it meets the Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions, at Soldiers Field August 4 in the 28th annual game.

Coaching the All-Stars will be Otto Graham, the former great quarterback of the Cleveland Browns and now head coach of the U. S. Coast Guard Academy.

This year's contest will mark

Philadelphia's third appearance in the All-Star series. The Eagles defeated the All-Stars in 1949 but lost, 17 to 7, to the 1950 team.

Circle Presents 'Tartuffe'

"Tartuffe," the Summer Circle theatre production of a modern version of Moliere's satire will be a featured event of the 1961 MSU Fine Arts Festival which runs July 17-21.

The play satirizes the religious hypocrite and the docile dupe. Its action centers in the home of one Mr. Orgon who has adopted a religious zellot, Tartuffe, as a brother.

Tartuffe becomes a leach and when he attempts to share Orgon's wife with him the family tries to get rid of him.

Play Is Equal to Challenge

By FRED BRACK
State News Staff Writer

The cast of the Summer Circle's production of "The Skin of Our Teeth" faced a real challenge. They were following an excellent production of a fine drama, "Rain."

Happily, they proved equal to the challenge. The central characters of the play gave fine performances with the single exception of Harriot Geier as the fortune teller. Her voice lacked the necessary strength and diversity of tone that the role demanded.

BOB WINTERS and Lois Martin as the heroic Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus fully lived up to their advance billing. Mr. Winters may get another Theta Alpha Phi (theatre honorary) oscar for his performance. He blended a perfect combination of enthusiasm, confidence and doubt into the role of a modern everyman.

Miss Martin gave a heart-warming performance as the mother of the sometimes trying Antrobus family.

Labor Center Movie

(continued from page 1) the movie as being conceived as either pro-labor or pro-management, Miss Bock said Koehler answered that it "was not pro anything" but sympathetic to labor. Miss Bock said Koehler explained that the movie shows an objective set of facts as to what a state labor body does.

MCCOY AGREED and said it was "highly sympathetic" to labor but that it had to be to present a point of view, Miss Bock said.

Miss Bock said that McCoy went on to explain that nothing in the film was intended to be negative toward management and the movie did not try to gain ground for labor at the expense of management.

The longest point of discussion in the one and a half hour session was centered around a scene showing the management man with a martini, Miss Bock said.

In response to a question of misrepresentation of management, the center representatives said that no one thought this scene was derogatory until it was brought out in the newspapers, Miss Bock said.

THE DISCUSSION went on until a student said that the point was relatively minor and the discussion was closed, she said.

In response to the martini question, Miss Bock said, one of the center representatives told the group that, in previewing the movie, a different point of view had developed.

One of the groups that previewed the movie objected to labor (Gus Scholle) being shown in shirt sleeves while management was portrayed in a suit, she said.

The discussion went on until a student pointed out that the point was a relatively minor one and the question was closed, she said.

IN RESPONSE to a question of why Rogers was not now with the center, Stieber gave three reasons. According to Miss Bock they were:

1) Rogers' idea of the center was inconsistent with that of the university. The purpose of the center is to use the resources of the university to serve the community and Rogers disagreed. Rogers felt that MSU professors had little to offer labor and management and he wanted to use management people from sources outside MSU.

2) Rogers could not work well with people. This problem hadn't just cropped up but had been developing for a period of time.

3) The management program under Roger's leadership had deteriorated and it was thought that a new management director would be able to give management in Michigan a better representation.

According to Warner, no other action by AUSG is planned at this time.
