3,000 Students Stage Pep Rally

Campus police described a Thursday night student demonstration as a spontaneous pep rally generated by mounting spirit over Saturday's Michigan State-University of Michigan football game.

Officers said late Thursday they had an estimated 3,000 strong student group under control and were herding it toward Jenison Fieldhouse where an impromptu pep rally would be held.

Rumors spread over campus about a thunderous student demonstration which caused several injuries, but police said there was only one reported injured coed and they were not sure it was connected with the demonstration.

There was one reported student apprehension by police.

The rally started about 8:30 p.m. at Sparty where a group of girls gathered to lead cheers, it was reported. Part of the group left the statue and went to Brody and picked up more

Gala Traditional Weekend Planned

By DICK MIDDLETON
Of The State News

That inexplicable fervor that began mounting at mid-week held the campus firmly in its grip today as game time approached for the 83rd renewal of the Michigan State-Michigan football rivalry.

The game was sold out months ago ensuring a capacity crowd of more than 76,000 persons.

Ticket scalpers have been plying their trade for weeks, selling the valuable ducats at several times their purchase price. Officials have warned, however, that gatekeepers are under orders to tighten restrictions at the gate and to scrutinize all identification cards.

Part of the traditional rivalry between the two schools will take place at half-time when the marching bands take the field.

The MSU band will march 153 strong, the largest in its history. Included in its now-famous "Patterns in Motion" half-time routine will be special arrangements of such all-time favorites as Gershwin's Swanee, Porter's I Love Paris, and a concert-band arrangement of Lara's Granada.

But the game is just one segment of the activity that will make up the weekend's bill of fare.

Thousands of students are expected to turn out for a pep rally at 7:30 tonight at Jenison Field. Preceding the rally will be a dance from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Union ballroom.

Shortly after sundown, groups of students and police at both campuses will begin their all-night patrols to guard against the "paint-brush" forays which students inevitably make. The damages accruing from these escapades generally cause more hard feelings (and arrests) than any 10 football contests.

Two events are planned for Saturday's post-game festivities. The MSU-Michigan men's glee clubs will join in concert at Kellogg Center Saturday night. Programs at 7:15 and 9 p.m. will feature Negro spirituals, a Gershwin medley, operatic selections and school fight songs.

And the annual MSU-U of M Mixer will be held from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m. Saturday in the Brody multi-purpose room. The dance is open, free of charge, to students and alumni of both schools.

Accompanying all this will be the tremendous traffic problems created by the 19,000 spectator-filled cars expected to jam campus beginning Saturday morning. More than 75 additional policemen are being called in to supple-

To Seize Loaned IDs at 'M' Game

"Student ID cards that do not belong to persons using them to enter Saturdays football game with a student ticket will be confiscated," said William Beardsley, head of the athletic department ticket office.

Extra police have been hired as additional gate keepers and ticket tenders to prevent students from passing ID's through the fence for re-use, he said.

"We are going to beat down a little harder to enforce the University policies that have been in effect for years so that transfer of ID cards will certainly not be a good thing for students to do," said Beardsley.

Persons caught will be treated as University disciplinary cases which are under jurisdiction of the Dean of Students office.

However anybody that has a ticket that they aren't using, or that they intended to give to someone without an ID can certainly give it to another student of MSU as long as they use it with their own ID card said Beardsley.

Bentley Calls for Federal Loan Fund for Students

Democrat candidate for congress, Alvin Bentley, Thursday night recommended establishment of a federal loan fund for college students who have sufficient finances to pay their education.

Every single young man and woman in this country who is going to college and deserving has a right to higher education," he said in a talk at the Union sponsored by the MSU Young Republicans Club. And if economic conditions do not permit this should receive assistance from the federal government.

As would be a standardized minimum-standard requirement and standard conditions of payment, said Bentley. Students would repay the loans in five or ten years at a low interest rate.

The Republican candidate said that his opponent adopted the same type program recently.

Turning to primary and secondary education, Bentley said that where local government or state government or a combination of both cannot provide education for all children, then the federal government should give financial aid.

3 Groups Refuse Speaker Screening

The presidents of three campus student organizations say they will refuse to allow the speaker screening committee to pass judgement on their speakers.

Taking the stand are the Humanists Club, the Socialists Club and the Young Democrats.

The presidents of all three groups announced their decision at Wednesday night's Student Congress meeting where they lobbied for the adoption of a resolution expressing AUSG opposition to the committee.

The resolution cleared Congress easily by a vote of 17-0, with five abstentions. With its adoption, Congress followed the lead of AUSG President Bob Howard, Elmhurst, Ill., senior, who last week refused to accept his appointment to the committee.

Humanist Club president Peter Werbe, Detroit senior, told Congress his group "under no conditions" would submit the names of speakers to the committee.

The Humanists' position was echoed by Socialist Club President Jan Garrett, Gainesville, Fla., sophomore. Garrett said his organization would notify the committee of the appearance of their speakers but "under no circumstances would we recognize the committee's right to veto our speaker."

The president of the Young Democrats, Robert Hencken, Huntington Woods junior, said his organization is taking a stand similar to the others.

Hencken, who also is an East Lansing representative to Congress, was one of the sponsors of the resolution.

A resolution urging Board of Trustees approval for changes in the University's housing policy was introduced and referred to the Student Rights and Welfare Committee. The resolution proposes a rebate for men assigned to rooms designed for a fewer number of persons and recommends that men placed in overcrowded rooms be allowed to break their contract at the end of a term.

And Finance Committee Chairman John Noud, Stanwood junior, reported that AUSG's fall term budget will be submitted for congressional approval at next week's meeting.

Noud said the budget will total about $3,700.

All Students May Now See U of M Game

All University students can go to the MSU-University of Michigan football game Saturday.

Students who found Thursday that student tickets are all gone, and there are no reserved seats for them, will be admitted to Spartan Stadium at noon Saturday and assigned to chairs on the gridiron level. They are to enter the park through the North End Booth 2 at 12 or 12:30 p.m. Saturday, and must show their activity book and student identification.

Biggie Munn, MSU athletic director, explained the lack of reserved seats for students by saying there had been a "fabulous increase in enrollment this year."

Student activity books guarantee each student admission to all athletic events covered by the books, but do not insure reserved seats.

Faculty Members Accept Speaker Committee Posts

All five faculty members appointed to the student faculty committee on outside speakers accepted their positions and will attend the committee's first meeting early next week.

Madison Kuhn, MSU historian and professor of history, Leonard Rall, professor of economics, and John Useem, professor and head of sociology and anthropology joined two other faculty members of the committee, accepting President John A. Hannah's appointments Thursday.

F. M. Donahue, associate professor of humanities and religion, and Paul Varg, dean of the College of Arts and Letters, said Wednesday that they would serve on the committee.

Hannah selected these five members from a list of 10 faculty names submitted by the Committee on Committee. He announced his choices Wednesday. At least three of the students appointed as presidents of the major student governing bodies will attend the first meeting.

Women's Inter-residence Council president Nancy Jelinek, Three Oaks senior, and Men's Hall Association president James L. Chandler, Ann Arbor senior, told the State News that they will attend the first meeting.

A spokesman for Patricia Dumas, Pan Hellenic Council president and Midland senior, said she would attend.

Interfraternity Council president Robert Andringa, Wayland senior, could not be reached Thursday, but he had not said publicly that he would join All-University Student Government president Bob Howard in refusing to sit on the committee.

Committee chairman Eldon Nonnamaker, dean of men, said the committee probably will meet early next week.

Youth Affairs Corps Urged

PORT HURON (UPI) — Democratic candidate for congress-at-large Neil Staebler said Thursday he would urge the President to establish a permanent commission on youth affairs if elected in the Nov. 6 election.

Staebler, addressing a Rotary Club luncheon, said his program would include a broad "youth opportunities" plan and the creation of a domestic Peace Corps.

He also said he would work for passage of a youth employment opportunities act.

"More than one million of our youth in the 16-21 age bracket are unemployed, including some 60,000 here in Michigan," Staebler said.

900 Year Rift Healed

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Russian Orthodoxy agreed Thursday to its first formal contact with Roman Catholicism in more than nine centuries, and Vatican sources promptly expressed enthusiasm.

The Russian Orthodox Church in Moscow announced it was sending two observers to the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council which opened Thursday. It is the first formal Vatican-Moscow contact since the 11th century.

"I think there is a good chance other Orthodox Churches will now come too," said a member of the Vatican's Secretariat for Christian Unity.

The Russian Church was the first major Orthodox body to accept a Vatican invitation to send observers to the Council.

Over-Liberal Election Write-Ins Swamp AUSG Tellers

A flood of write-in candidates and the failure of one dormitory to turn in its ballot boxes made it impossible for the State News to report the congressional replacement election returns before press time late Thursday night.

Of the 42 Student Congress vacancies to be filled, at least 10 were decided by write-ins.

An hour after the ballots from all other precincts had been counted, Elections Chairman Jim Billings, East Lansing senior, was still waiting for Bailey to bring in his ballot boxes for tallying.

Voter turnout was spotty, ranging from the abnormal in some dormitories to the negligible off campus.

South Cade reported the heaviest vote with 275 ballots cast for three candidates. The fraternities recorded five votes, and the men's co-operatives none.

Total vote cast was estimated at more than 1600.

It is expected to take many hours for the tellers to decide who some of the write-in candidates are so they can tabulate the votes.

Suspend Publication Of a Student Paper

By suddenly and unilaterally suspending publication of Flint Community Junior College's student paper, the College Clamor, the Dean's office carried administration control over this student activity to its ugliest possible extremity. It had the power and it used it.

The State News is shocked at the action which at best is a clear breach of freedom of the press.

According to the official Flint College Student Government report, Dean Lewis R. Fibel asked the editor of the Clamor on Tuesday for a copy of the forthcoming paper. In compliance, the editor submitted the articles.

Later that afternoon the Dean's office announced that publication of the student paper was suspended.

The following day, Dean Fibel announced the completion of a new policy toward the paper:

"1. The student newspaper is a student activity and is published for the information of students and faculty of Flint Community Junior College and as a means of giving training and experience in newspaper publication to student staff members.

"2. The newspaper shall present to its readers an accurate and comprehensive image of the college.

"3. The newspaper shall not print articles or editorials which are libelous, obscene, or which advocate breaking of the law.

"4. The paper should always publish the truth, have a sense of fair play, uphold the rights of privacy of all individuals, and write articles uncolored by bias or prejudice.

"5. The paper should show a high moral purpose, avoid inflammatory material, and maintain the the highest standards to truth, honesty, and decency.

Welcome, U of M

"6. The Dean of Flint Community Junior College shall have the responsibility to administer this policy."

Needless to say, the student reaction to both the suspension and the new policy was united and sharp.

Thursday evening the student government passed a resolution condemning the Dean's action and expressing its view of the October 3rd policy:

"1. We find the present policy in need of clarification.

"2. We acknowledge the need for a policy.

"3. We feel that the policy should be authored with the joint cooperation of the students, faculty, and administration."

The crux of the resolution lies in the "need for clarification" phrase.

For example, what does Dean Fibel mean when he says that the paper should write articles "uncolored by bias and prejudice"? Will that policy cover editorials and feature stories which, by definition, are not objective? This is what the students really fear. Besides there has never been an editorial written that was free from bias and prejudice.

Perhaps Dean Fibel should return to college as a student and take a few courses in journalism and communication.

Also, the new policy demands "an accurate and comprehensive image of the college." Does that mean no editorials criticizing the wrong people?

And can the phrase "avoiding inflammatory material" be interpreted as insisting that no more articles be written which may touch upon the sensitivities of General Motors or which call the Flint Journal a tool of the locally-omnipotent automotive giant.

According to the president of Flint's student government, the Dean admitted there was pressure from influential outside elements.

Meanwhile, the students still have not accepted the new policy. And the publication of the Clamor remains suspended.

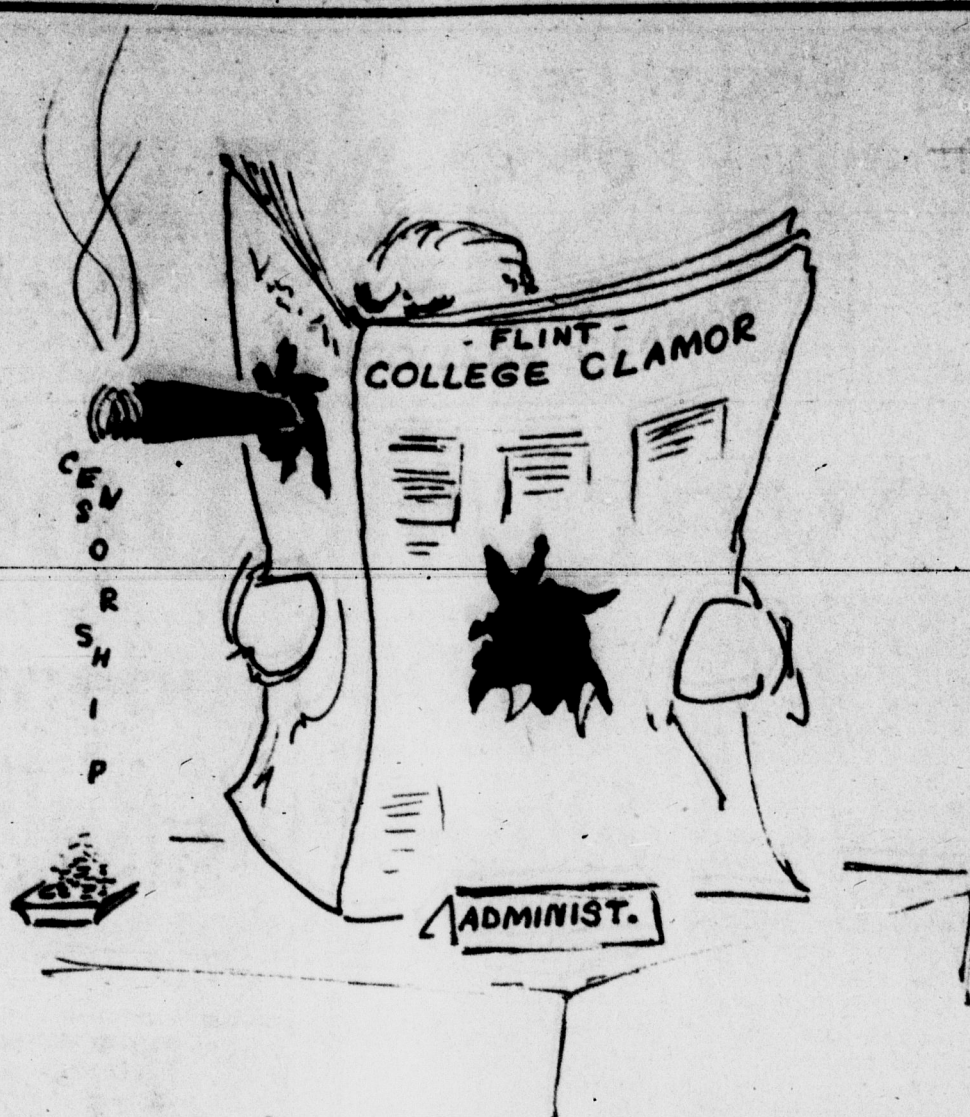

Perhaps the students of Michigan State should be more appreciative of their administration if the Flint student administration relationship is any yardstick for making a judgment.

At least the State News is allowed to write articles colored by bias and prejudice -- articles such as this one which is, indeed colored by a distinct bias and prejudice against the Dean's action and subsequent policy.

Senator Barry Goldwater is being hailed as a true middle-of-the-roader, to the Right of McKinley -- and to the Left of General Walker.

Letters to The Editor

Bikes, I.D. Cards, Policy, etc.

To the Editor:

Let's wage open war on pedestrians! Rally to the cause, fellows. Well, on second thought, perhaps the annihilative movement is so well established and manned that progress is sufficient without our support. The men in the front lines? Bicyclists.

I realize that because of intense eye-strain, caused by many hours with the books, Michigan State students generally don't bother to read anything besides books. But really now, when the campus bicycle regulations are posted at virtually every bicycle rack, one must be blind in one eye and can't see out the other in order to miss the notices. Or are the regulations so scanned, then apathetically relegated to the mental file of useless information?

"The Michigan Motor Vehicle Code requires that bicycles be operated as if they were motor vehicles. . . . Riding on sidewalks or footpaths, riding more than two abreast, and riding against traffic is (sic) prohibited."

So read the regulations. With our now well established system of cycle paths there can be no reasonable excuse for the use of our crowded sidewalks as bicycle speedways. (Incidentally, there is a $2.00 fine for riding on sidewalks.)

I therefore propose BIKE week--Ban Inconsiderate Kinetic Energy. Or we can ignore this senseless appeal of mine. I don't really mean it. Let's keep on wreaking havoc on the sidewalks, fellows. I'm a bicycle rider myself.

Inflexibility

To the Editor:

My wife and I experienced a rather unpleasant situation, at the World Travel Series last Saturday. We presented our I.D. cards at the door, but the ticket taker informed us that my wife did not have the proper I.D. card.

She is taking a 3 credit course and was issued an I.D. card at registration. We were informed that she needed a spouse I.D. card. We were referred to the supervisor. I explained that I had purchased an activity book for my wife but that we were unaware the I.D. she had was not sufficient to allow her admittance to the program.

He asked if I had the activity books with me. I told him I did not. He then informed me that my wife would not be allowed admittance unless she purchased a ticket.

In my thinking, that was a boorish example of inflexible bureaucracy in action.

The World Travel Series is a service paid for, at least partially, by the students of Michigan State. As a service, its primary purpose should be to serve those on whom it relies for its very existence.

I do not like to think that Michigan State has grown so large that it must turn to inflexible rules to implement its various services, for when this happens to an institution, or any part of it, it is in a state of decay.

I like to think of Michigan State as Dr. Hannah described it when I arrived on campus over 4 years ago. He said it was a friendly campus where they gave personal attention to every individual student and his needs.

Let us hope that in the future there will be more flexibility in the exercising of the regulations.

Certainly from the standpoint of goodwill, it is much better to have flexibility and allow a few people to sneak in illegally, than to have inflexibility and turn away people who have a right to be there. After all, what better criterion is there for measuring the satisfaction of a service, than customer goodwill?

Minnesota Parallel

To the Editor:

It is refreshing to note that the head of Student Government has refused to participate on the new speaker censorship committee not only because of the high-handed way in which it was set up but, because its intent is to violate academic freedom and the right to know of students and faculty alike. Before Mr. Howard's actions are dismissed as an example of youthful immaturity, the reaction of another great university to a similar situation should be examined.

At about the same time Michigan State last spring was going through its traumatic experience with Robert Thompson, the University of Minnesota was likewise confronted by Ben Davis, an equally prominent member of the Communist Party. The response by President O. Meredith Wilson on April 26, 1962 was as follows:

"The University of Minnesota has a stated policy that regularly approved student organizations can sponsor speakers before their membership and friends. Among such organizations are the Socialist Club as well as the more generally supported Republican and Democratic Clubs.

Ben Davis was invited to the campus by the Socialist Club, a student organization. He will be presented by this group in the ballroom of the Coffman Memorial Student Union. It should be clear that his appearance or the appearance of any other person in these circumstances does not represent endorsement by the University of the views the speaker may express. It is, rather, an expression of the principle of free speech which is a very precious principle in a truly free society; and which, by the way, is a part of the American way of life explicitly guaranteed by the federal constitution.

The objections that are advanced to Ben Davis' appearance on our campus arise either from a lack of confidence in our students or from a lack of faith in our free institutions. We have confidence in both. We believe it would be a disservice to our students and an insult to our nation's maturity if we were to deny Mr. Davis an opportunity to speak. Over-protected students might at once assume that Davis had something to say which was too strong for our reason and our convictions. The University is the product of a free society. It is neither afraid of freedom, nor can it serve society well if it casts doubts on the

Armstrong Togetherness

Ben Burns

Dorm spirit is a curious thing. Several years ago Michigan State dormitories were noted for their lack of spirit and their general disunity of feeling. Dorm administrators and enthusiastic students kicked off a big push to increase the spirit of the dormitory residents. The most effective example of this turned out to be Bryan Hall.

Men from this dorm sat in their own end zone block at football games, and pitched in and bailed out a sadly sagging Block on several occasions where the Block had more directors than participants.

Other dorms followed Bryan's early lead and the dorms developed names for each precinct to increase the feeling of loyalty in the students.

Dormitory spirit is good for the particular unit, good for the living unit system and good for the University.

However, recent examples indicate that spirit is being carried too far.

Directors of Armstrong Hall packed 230 spirited students in a dormitory room to set a world record in dormitory occupancy--or so they claim. It is hard to ascertain exactly how the rules for a packing record are set up. Extensive investigation into Olympic rules has shed little light on the subject other than the fact that telephone booth and dorm room packing are unlikely to make the 1964 games at Tokyo.

Getting factual, the cram directors at Armstrong Hall piled up a mere 230 men because they ran out of raw material and the room packed into the closet of the room were beginning to run out of air.

The event may have perked up Armstrong Hall spirit as desired, but I feel it was foolish and not in keeping with an academic atmosphere. It could have been dangerous if anyone with a head condition had been inadvertently stuffed into the 9 by 13 room.

Other fads have swept the country and Michigan State. Ed has left its mark.

Five of nine Michigan State students, who participated in telephone talkathon here last year, have since flunked out of school.

The big pull for most students taking part in such creative activities as packing, bed pushing or even stuffing a dorm room full of newspapers, is publicity.

This is the only possible accomplishment served by the energy expended.

There are probably better ways to inspire spirit in Armstrong Hall than packing. The dorm supervisors should consider the carefully before they put their stamp of approval on another spirit-builder.

MSU's academic 'mage has had enough mud slung on it in recent weeks without having the newspapers of the nation play up the fact that we hold the world dorm packing record.

Raids Endanger Property - Police

Last of a Series
By DAVE JAEHNIG
Of The State News

Why do the campus police get excited about student demonstrations? Why are they a pain to the police force?

"We have to protect personal and University property," is the answer from the Department of Public Safety. "We have no desire to restrain the high spirits of the students, but if force is necessary to protect that property, we are prepared to use force."

The police are also expected to protect the women dorm residents, the target of spring term raids.

"If all student demonstrations were as orderly as last fall's pep rallies," said another officer, "our job would be easy."

"The trouble is the coeds start the boys going by calling them up and saying 'Let's have a party raid.' If those girls had ever seen a real party raid, they wouldn't ask for it."

When the students break loose on a raid, the campus police don't have the time to ask if certain students are watching or participating.

"We have to control them, he said.

Lt. Allen H. Andrews elaborated on the officers' statements. "There is no such thing as a by-stander and a participant," he said. "Anyone who is watching is actually egging the demonstrators on. Therefore, we don't intend to worry at the time of a party raid who is watching and who is demonstrating. One is as bad as the other to police trying to bring a crowd under control."

The East Lansing police have a different attitude from the University police about such raids.

"We can't take the time to try and control them," said one of the East Lansing patrolmen. "We have to break them up, and break them up fast."

"Once they get across Grand River, they hit the stores. Several years ago, one of our officers was thrown into a store window. Lieutenant Stephen Naert was thrown under a bus and had his leg broken. This won't happen again."

In the same riot in which the Lieutenant broke his leg, the students tried to tip over a loaded bus, the officer said. Then they stopped an ambulance speeding to Sparrow Hospital, and tried to tip it over.

"There was a pregnant woman in labor inside that ambulance," he said.

"No, they won't get across Grand River again."

For those who have never seen a party-raid, Lt. Andrews suggested they read the account of the Oklahoma University riot on May 25th of this year.

The popular boy-coat, modeled by Diane Crowder has been restyled with more feminine lines.

The belt in the back is substituted by a line in the material to suggest its absence, and the collar is wider and slightly rounded.

The dress has a new loosely fitted variation called the shift. Suits, this year, will feature the over blouse look. To wear with the suit or coat, fur hats of any kind from mink to skunk, are the style.

For the ecstasy of earth's evening out, Sandie Cornell wore a brocade jacketed sheath dress in the candlelight shade. The color complimented her high styled winged-look platinum wig adorned by a veiled variation of the pith helmet.

Cindy Notaranni wore a green and gold block print metallic scooped-neck sheath for her party night, sparked by long gold chandelier earrings.

The finale of the show was entitled "His Christmas Bell." Jean Summers, in a two piece floor length pink and muted red hostess dress, carried a real pink poodle wearing, of course, his Christmas bell.

MSU Running Aims For Title Rates Second

NEW YORK (UPI)—Michigan State's Spartans have the second best ground offense in the nation according to football statistics released by the NCAA today.

The Spartans have averaged 324 1/2 yards on the ground in their first two games. Relatively unknown West Texas leads with an average of 348 1/2 yards.

Most of the offense titles, however, are owned by two other Big Ten schools, undefeated Northwestern and Wisconsin.

The Wildcats are leading the nation's major college football teams in total offense with 497 yards a game and in forward passing with 246.5 yards a contest. The Badgers have the best scoring average, 49 1/2 points a game. Wisconsin is second in total offense and third in rushing.

Gross Tries Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry Gross of Detroit, the leader in total offense and passing offense until he was injured last season, is making another bid to claim those titles this year.

Statistics released Thursday by the NCAA service bureau show Gross leading all major college football players in passing yardage and is second to Eldon Fortie of Brigham Young in total offense.

Although Detroit has lost all three games it has played, Gross appears to be growing stronger as the season progresses. The crafty senior handled 48 offense plays against New Mexico State last Friday night and 43 of them were aerials good for 265 yards. Although he lost 20 yards on running plays, his total of 245 yards was the highest run-pass production of the week.

Lion GM Strikes at WJIM

Detroit Lion General Manager Edwin J. Anderson said Thursday that he was more convinced than ever that "bootleg" television must go.

The Lions boss said telecasts by WJIM (Channel 6) are being piped into the Detroit area at a faster rate than ever with the aid of specially designed booster antennas.

Anderson added that the antennas are being installed by Detroit viewers and is convinced that this is responsible for the Lions' skidding home attendance.

He said: "It is clear the penetration in our area is much stronger than four years ago."

Harold F. Gross owner of WJIM was very unhappy with Anderson's comments. In rebuttal he said:

"The statements (made by Anderson) are fantastic with no truth in them whatsoever."

One thing the local television station owner resented was the use of the word "bootlegger" when all the Detroit people are doing is installing aerials for Channel 6.

Gross said over the telephone that he felt the general manager and he had an understanding last year and that there would be no questions asked this season. They had settled on the Lions running a survey.

The survey has been conducted, but a Detroit newspaper Wednesday night said no survey would be run this weekend, because the game at Tiger Stadium with the Los Angeles Rams is a sellout.

Gross also presented figures that the Lions home and road attendance both increased in 1961.

Faculty Sets Gridiron Fire

EAU CLAIRE, (UPI)—City of thing named the four teachers pondering what to do about four teachers who set fire to their high school football field.

The faculty members, including school Principal Robert Youngren admitted burning the letters F-O-N-Y into the field grass. The Ponies is the nickname for St. Joseph Catholic High School, Eau Claire's football opponents last weekend.

It was believed at first that St. Joseph students were responsible for the deed, but an Eau Claire student who saw the whole thing named the four teachers as the culprits. They were football coach Dick Brame; assistant Donald Brame and Basketball coach Art Keil besides Youngren.

They explained they wanted to give the team added "stimulus" in the big game. Eau Claire lost 66-6.

George Kell, Detroit Tiger broadcaster, has two silver bats, emblematic of hitting titles. He led the Interstate League with Lancaster, Pa., in 1943 and paced the American League with the 1949 Tigers.

Our future is in the hands of men not yet hired

At Western Electric we play a vital role in helping meet the complex needs of America's vast communications networks. And a career at Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of the nation-wide Bell Telephone System, offers young men the exciting opportunity to help us meet these important needs.

Today, Western Electric equipment reduces thousands of miles to fractions of seconds. Even so, we know that our present communications systems will be inadequate tomorrow; and we are seeking ways to keep up with—and anticipate—the future. For instance, right now Western Electric engineers are working on various phases of solar cell manufacture, miniaturization, data transmission, futuristic telephones, electronic central offices, and computer-controlled production lines—to name just a few.

To perfect the work now in progress and launch many new communications products, projects, procedures, and processes not yet in the mind of man—we need quality-minded engineers. If you feel that you can meet our standards, consider the opportunities offered by working with our company. In a few short years, you will be Western Electric.

Challenging opportunities exist now at Western Electric for electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. All qualified applicants will receive careful consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. For more information about Western Electric, write College Relations, Western Electric Company, Room 6206, 222 Broadway, New York 36, New York. And be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when our college representatives visit your campus.

Project Receives Donation

A donation of $825.61 from last year's Rather Hall residents will aid the MSU Pakistan Project this year.

Formerly a men's residence hall, Rather was taken over by coeds this year. The men of Rather decided to donate money left from last year's operating expenses to the Pakistan Project.

The money was turned over to the University Sept. 10.

Richard Niehoff, assistant dean in the College of Education and coordinator of the Pakistan Project, is now spending a month in Pakistan where he will investigate uses for the Rather donation.

The money may be used for a grainery surplus building in East Pakistan or repairing damages from fire in the East Pakistan Academy.

Andes to Amazon'

John M. Goddard, appearing on the Travel Series in Aud. at 8 p.m. Saturday, was the third to visit the village of these saucerclipped Suya Indians in Brazil's wild Mato Grosso area.

Goddard, explorer, writer, and presenter of "Andes to Amazon," on the University Travel Series at 8 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium, first gained international recognition with his expedition to the 4,000 mile Nile River from source to sea.

His explorations have taken him through some 84 countries and over 400,000 miles. "Andes to Amazon" includes the famous saucer-tipped Suya Indians of Brazil's wild Mato Grosso area.

Reader's Club To Meet Tonight

The Reader's Club will hold its first meeting of the term tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the fourth floor lounge of the library.

Years In 'Knives'

SU Prof Enjoys Dual Role Political Science, Drama

Students may find themselves surprised by their professor's term. The Mitch of Berkeley Hall will most be Carol Hawkins, professor of political science and drama.

Hawkins discounted the apparent strangeness of the combination of political science and drama. "I realize and know the importance of political science, I have always been interested in its relation to the arts and humanities. A man as a moral being, a value-building person, is as a mechanism, as me."

Interest in humanities has centered around theatre. "I received my masters degree in journalism from the University of Minnesota," Hawkins said. He worked briefly as a reporter for the St. Paul

Engineering Reunion at Kellogg Today

Former U.S. Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller will speak at the Engineering Alumni Reunion this weekend in Kellogg Center.

Mueller, commerce secretary under Eisenhower and a Michigan State graduate, was also prominent in Michigan's furniture manufacturing history. He is now director of numerous industries.

A tour of the New Engineering Building and a banquet at 6:30 p.m. today in the Big Ten Room, during which Mueller will speak, are also included in the activities.

J.D. Ryder, dean of the college of engineering and Jack Breslin, secretary of the university are also scheduled to speak.

The reunion will begin at 10 a.m. today with registration at the Kellogg Center conference desk.

Iraqi Senior Elected Secretary of Arab Group

WALID J. KHADDURI
Walid J. Khadduri, a Baghdad, Iraq, senior, has been elected secretary of the Organization of Arab Students in the United States by the organization's General Assembly in New York City.

The Organization of Arab Students represents 82 chapters and 5,000 students in the U.S.

Khadduri's secretarial job will consist of contacting various Arabian student groups throughout the U.S. He served as program chairman of the organization last year.

Projects of the Organization of Arab Students include sending volunteer Arab students to Algeria for one year to teach. Another activity begun by the organization is a collection of money and clothes for the Iranians caught in last month's earthquake in Iran.

Japan has banned the building of hotels in the area of the country's 72-inch telescope atop Mt. Chikurin. Only lodges and youth hostels are permitted.

Who, me?

I've had three interviews
already!

But your fourth interview might be the most important. Especially if it's with the man from JPL.

That's right, Jet Propulsion Laboratory. Caltech operates JPL for NASA. Gives the place a campus atmosphere. 3500 people there. Eleven hundred of them are scientists and engineers. The rest are technicians, secretaries, librarians - all kinds of people to back up these scientists and engineers.

JPL's job? Space exploration. Designing the spacecraft and instrumentation that'll explore the moon and planets. They want to find out what the moon is made of and if there's life on other planets. And they will. They're a dedicated bunch. And they like their work. After all, what could be more fascinating and more challenging than the work they do?

Take a half hour or so to talk to the man from JPL. Make an appointment now. It could be the most important 30 minutes in your life.

Pope Travels To Meditate

Pope John XXIII traveled across Italy recently on the longest pilgrimage by a pope in nearly 100 years. He went to pray for the success of his Ecumenical Council now in progress at Vatican City.

The journey took the 80-year-old Pope 200 miles across Italy to a shrine at Loreto. Popular legend says the house was the Virgin Mary's birthplace in Palestine, and that angels carried it across the Mediterranean to Italy.

Vatican City Faith Center

Vatican City, 44 - The Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council has focused world attention on Vatican City, one of the most unique states on earth.

To the world's half billion Catholics Vatican City is the head-quarters of the faith.

It also is a font of information for historians, a curiosity for political scientists, a repository of ancient documents, a breathtaking art center and a must for tourists.

"Vatican comes from the ancient name of the area where the city is located in northwest Rome. Origin of the name is uncertain, but some believe it comes from a vanished Etruscan city called Vaticanum."

For centuries the Vatican was part of church holdings in central Italy called the Papal States. These states reached across the Italian Boot, comprising some 16,000 square miles with population of more than three million.

Italian nationalists, fighting in the 19th century to unify Italy into the mold of a modern state, ended that control. The final blow came in 1870 when they seized Rome.

Papal sovereignty was confined to Vatican City, an area of 108.7 acres with a population of about 1,000.

The independent city state includes St. Peter's Basilica, setting of the Ecumenical Council, the Vatican Palace and museum covering more than 13 acres, gardens and other buildings.

Thirteen buildings in Rome plus the papal summer retreat at Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles outside Rome, enjoy extraterritorial rights as part of the Vatican.

Vatican City has its own postage stamps, mint, radio and newspaper. It has its own army (a guard of 500 volunteer soldiers), own police force (a 150-man gendarmarie in uniforms of the 1850s) plus a 100-man Swiss guard.

There is a one-room jail at the gendarmarie's barracks, but it is never occupied. Anyone arrested in the Vatican is turned over to Italian authorities to be treated under civil law. The Vatican's legal system is based on Canon law.

Though it is territorially little more than a speck on the face of the earth, the Vatican conducts extensive diplomatic relations. About 50 nations maintain representatives here. The United States does not.

Under the 1929 Lateran Treaty with Italy formalizing the Vatican's status, the Pope is pledged to perpetual neutrality. But he may be asked by both sides to mediate in a political dispute.

Vatican libraries contain some of the rarest documents in the western world, collected by church scholars through 20 centuries.

The city state's world of art includes the Renaissance dome of St. Peter's, the Michelangelo frescoes of the Sistine Chapel, the Raphael rooms, the Egyptian and Etruscan museums, a gallery of modern art and painted miniatures on clocks inside the papal apartments.

MUSICAL EVANGELISTS
WHEATON, Ill. (AP) - A teenage musical group made up of 30 college students from across the nation plans a year-long "show business" type evangelistic tour of 100 American cities, beginning with a Sept. 28 concert in Chicago's McCormick palace. "Our purpose is using a show business approach to an evangelistic effort to capture the heart and mind of today's teen-ager in the language he understands best," says the founder of the group, Thurlow Spurr, former music director of Youth for Christ International.

Examining the curriculum for clergymen working on graduate degrees in the counseling department is Rev. Ralph L. Miller, in charge of much pastoral program at Michigan State.

Unitarian-Universalists Plan Search for Meaning

An experimental series of services entitled "My Search for Meaning" by the Lansing Unitarian-Universalist Church began Sunday.

Ideas of Darwin, Huxley, Eiseley, Sartre, Camus, Niebuhr, Tillich and Fromm are keystones in the program.

The questions, "What do I believe? What do others believe? How do I act? Do I stand for freedom and democracy?" will be explored in conjunction with the beliefs of great thinkers. The Unitarian-Universalist Church is in its second year of experimentation with worship forms. Group discussions will play an important part in extended services.

Plans for discussions with leaders of other religions, including Judaism, Islam, Buddhism, Zen and Bahai are underway. Guest speakers from MSU are also on the agenda.

Ministers Seek Counsel In MSU Pastoral Program

Clergymen attending graduate school at Michigan State University, study pastoral counseling under the largest program of its kind in a state institution.

"MSU has pioneered the study of pastoral counseling in the secular university," says the Rev. Ralph L. Miller, doctoral candidate who supervises much of the program. It started five years ago at the request of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders.

Dr. John E. Jordan, associate professor of education, began the program, which now boasts over 50 members working toward master's or doctor's degrees. The Rev. Mr. Miller defines pastoral counseling as "the relationship in which a 'religious worker' attempts to use professional counseling methods to assist individuals in situations to regain direction and purpose. 'Ministers want to be with' their congregation, not just on Sunday morning. They want to understand the human needs of their people in a close and personal way."

Counseling, according to Dr. Jordan, is emphasized rather than religion. Aside from requirements for a guidance degree, ministers must enroll in a pastoral counseling seminar instructed by Dr. Jordan, take a counseling practicum taught by the Rev. Mr. Miller and complete a 300 hour internship off campus. "Candidates for degrees must get actual experience in counseling as ministers in internship at a prison, mental hospital or church mental health center," explains the Rev. Mr. Miller. He has opened 12 institutions for this training. He cited Ypsilanti State Hospital and Jackson Prison as examples.

"Most of the candidates possess both B.A. and B.D. degrees before coming to MSU," he remarked. "We probably have some of the longest and master candidates in the
