McNamara Discloses 25 Red Ships Moving To Cuba

Washington - President Kennedy signed Tuesday night a formal proclamation of an arms blockade around Cuba and an armada of U.S. ships will start halting all ships--both Communist and non-Communist--in that area at 10 a.m. (EDT) tomorrow.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Tuesday ordered all Navy and Marine enlistments and duty tours extended for up to one year to support the arms blockade of Cuba.

The Pentagon chief announced at a news conference that all enlistments and duty tours will be prolonged, except for hardship cases.

He said the action was necessary to provide the manpower to sustain the naval blockade of offensive weapons moving into Cuba and to reinforce the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

There were no immediate estimates on the number of men affected. As of last month, the Navy numbered 661,294 and the Marine Corps 192,311, but there was no way to tell immediately how many of these men were in the period where their service obligations was running out.

McNamara acted under an executive order signed by President Kennedy. Congress had authorized Kennedy, at the president's request to extend military enlistments and to call up as many as 150,000 reservists if necessary to cope with crises while the Senate and House are in adjournment.

The Defense Secretary said no steps are being taken to call up any reservists now.

There have been indications that reservists assigned to some 40 destroyer-type vessels, and possibly some Air National Guard fighter-pilots, might be mustered into Federal service later, depending on the international situation.

McNamara, at a news conference held soon after Kennedy issued the proclamation authorizing the quarantine, estimated that about 25 Russian ships are moving toward Cuba, some of them close to Cuban ports.

Another 10 or 12 are in port, he said, and about 25 are moving away from Cuban ports.

To a question, McNamara said there will be no discussion by him about the movements of any Naval ships of the Soviet Union.

McNamara said he had no knowledge of the specific cargoes of the ships now heading for Cuba, but that it would be a "fair presumption" that some of the ships have offensive weapons in their cargo.

Asked if some ships might reach port before the deadline tomorrow morning, McNamara said that it was possible that perhaps one might get into port by that time.

McNamara announced these plans to implement the proclamation shortly after Kennedy had signed it and authorized the Defense Department to take appropriate means--including the use of force if need be--to enforce it.

Adenauer Backs America

BONN, GERMANY--Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Tuesday West Germany is ready to share all risks arising out of the U.S. stand on Cuba. He was addressing a committee of his ruling coalition parties. He said he and his government stood solidly behind the United States in the Cuban crisis.

Latins Back U.S. Embargo

Overwhelming Vote Given Kennedy Move

WASHINGTON, (AP)--President Kennedy's all-out effort to shut off the flow of Soviet nuclear weapons into Cuba won the solid approval today of 19 Latin-American nations as the United States battled for a similar endorsement in the United Nations.

Men and women around the world waited anxiously for the showdown, whether it will mean just more words or shooting. The answer may come soon, when U.S. Ships try to search Soviet ships headed for Cuba.

In the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson urged the U.N. Security Council to halt the Communist arms buildup in the heart of the Americas. He said it is part of a vast plan by Soviet Communism to win world domination by "piecemeal aggression."

Speaking somberly to the 11-nation council, Stevenson said the shipment of missiles and bombs into Cuba poses "a grave threat to the Western Hemisphere and the peace."

The overwhelming approval of Kennedy's decision by Latin American nations was gained in an extraordinary meeting of the Organization of American States.

Speaker after speaker endorsed the President's vow to keep Cuba from developing into a Communist nuclear arsenal that will threaten the hemisphere singly or together, including the use of military force, to stem the flow of arms to Fidel Castro's island empire.

Of the 20 member nations, only Uruguay abstained because communications difficulties prevented that nation's representative from getting instructions from his government.

Although the Latin American nations were joined in their strong support of Kennedy by Great Britain and other free world nations, there were rumblings of protest even on allied soil.

In London, more than 2,000 demonstrators smashed police lines and stormed the American Embassy screaming, "Viva Fidel, Kennedy to Hell." Helmeted police managed to keep the mob out of the shining new Grosvenor Square building.

Kennedy Move Gains Support on Campus

MSU administration officials, students and local military personnel strongly backed President Kennedy's announcement of a U.S. naval blockade of Cuba Monday.

President John Hannah said: "I am satisfied that the President has taken the appropriate course of action. Assuming that the action is based on fact, there was no other alternative. There comes a time, like the Berlin blockade, when we have to take a stand--and there is no backing out."

MSU students from Latin America approved the U.S. stand. Edvarado Granda, Ecuador senior said Kennedy had done a fine thing by taking a definite stand.

Granda added that "the problem would probably not have developed if the United States had taken a stronger stand before."

Kennedy's speech will be understood by the Latin American people, Granda said. "Naturally, the Communist minority and Cuban supporters will oppose it."

Col. James Skells, head of the MSU Army ROTC, said Kennedy's speech had precipitated no unusual activity in the ROTC program.

Recruiting offices and Selective Service Boards had recorded no noticeable increase in activity following the President's speech Monday night, according to Skells.

Deferment of draft for college students has not been affected by the President's decision to call up troops in readiness for a possible incident in Cuba.

Col. Arthur Holmes, director of the state Selective Service

Board, said no change was anticipated unless the government decided to drastically increase its manpower in arms.

Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine recruiting offices noted a greater calm than usual in recruitments Tuesday.

Over 4,000 telegrams poured into the White House on the Cuban situation by noon Tuesday. Press secretary Pierre Salinger said the messages were running 12 to 1 in favor of the President's action.

Peace Corps Rep Explains Projects

By DICK MIDDLETON Of The State News Staff

Opportunities for young men and women in the Peace Corps are virtually unlimited, Rogers B. Finch, permanent representative of the Corps' Division of University Relations, told a group of 30 prospective volunteers at a question-answer session Tuesday in the Union.

Finch, who also supervises 18 different Corps projects in Africa and Latin America, is in the middle of a three-day visit to campus in connection with "Peace Corps Days at MSU."

He will wind-up his stay tomorrow. The Corps currently has 3,000 volunteers working on more than 100 projects in 40 countries. Another 1,000 volunteers are in training.

Williams Back In Washington

Former Michigan governor G. Memon Williams will not attend the United Nations Day luncheon in the Big Tea room of Kellogg today as scheduled.

Williams was recalled to Washington early Tuesday by President Kennedy because of the Cuban crisis.

The luncheon will still be held at 12:30 p.m. Students are invited to attend a reception at 1:15 p.m.

Men outnumber women in the Corps 19 to one. But the situation is changing.

The bulk of college applicants for the Peace Corps come from the social sciences, Finch said, refuting the widespread notion that most Corpsmen are trained in the technological fields or skilled trades.

Given birth in the first year of the Kennedy administration, in the interests of world peace, the Peace Corps has a two-fold purpose:

--To furnish skilled men and women to countries which request their services and,

--To promote mutual understanding between peoples of the countries served and the people of the United States.

Corps volunteers serve two years, all expenses paid, and receive a month's annual vacation. For every month of service, $75 is deposited in an American bank to be withdrawn by the volunteer upon completion of his assignment.

The volunteer is not required to sign a contract. He may ask to return home any time.

Finch will meet with faculty and education majors at 2:30 p.m. today in the Education building lounge. At 8 p.m. he will narrate a movie on the Peace Corps at St. John's student center.

Views Aired at Luncheon

By STEVE COLE Of The State News

Paul Younger, Republican candidate for the 14th district State Senate seat, attacked Democratic handling of the State's unemployment problem in a brief talk at the MSU Men's Club luncheon Tuesday.

He called the unemployment problem "the main issue facing the state at the present time." Governor Swainson has vetoed a number of bills passed by the legislature designed to correct the situation he said.

Don Hayworth, 6th district Democratic Congressional candidate, remarked that if Younger ever read Democratic literature he would know that the Democrats consider unemployment a key issue.

Commenting on American foreign policy, Hayworth said "The men in Congress don't know any more about foreign policy than you people sitting here."

"The President is the only one who really knows what foreign situations are and he should be supported in his foreign policy whatever it may be."

Hayworth said he favored Medicare, a $1.25 minimum wage and housing loans to veterans.

Younger's opponent, James McClure, and Hayworth's opponent, Charles E. Chamberlain, were unable to attend the luncheon due to previous engagements. However, six other candidates representing both parties were present to answer questions.

They were: Harold Hungerford, Marie Hayer and Charles Davis, Republican state representative candidates and Bruce King, Manfred Lilliefors and James Cavanaugh, the Democratic candidates.

Younger was asked why it is so hard to get appropriations for education. He replied that there is great competition among groups needing money.

Directory Dilemma

Why can't the student directories come out earlier? Well, it's pretty simple, as we discovered by checking with Registrar Kermit H. Smith.

The registrar's office is working full speed--nights and weekends--to get this important publication ready. But no matter how it's organized, apparently, it takes five weeks. Smith explained it this way:

All the wheels and gears on the registrar's IBM machines are kept busy turning out class lists the first week of school. They do manage to spit out the telephone numbers of off-campus students by the Friday following registration.

It takes two weeks to organize all the home addresses of the 25,000 MSU students. Then the changes in local residence hall addresses are reported, which means more checking and changing--at least a week's worth.

Then they put all the information together and send it to the printer. It takes the printer two weeks to roll the new directories off the presses.

The new directories are to appear Nov. 1. The registrar's office is trying. "We're doing the best we can," said Smith. "And MSU's directory comes out earlier than most school directories. It takes time to do the job."

We wish the process could be speeded up. But we sympathize with Mr. Smith's dilemma.

"YOU'VE FOUND A KEG OF WHAT IN MY TRUNK, OFFICER?"

Unnecessary Disturbances

There are two practices in which some students indulge that are plainly and simply acts of discourtesy and disrespect:

In every class, there are always a handful of students who find it impossible to be in their seats at 10 minutes past the hour.

Granted, students often have a legitimate excuse. Sometimes the professor from the previous class lectures past the hour. In many cases, the distance between classes requires a brisk pace of which we are not all capable. And almost always the Berkey Hall congestion brings travel to a momentary standstill.

But some students seem to be driven by a passion for tardiness. That grand entrance has to be inexorably quarter past the hour. And in the process, the professor is interrupted and the class disturbed.

The other practice in which the students engage comes toward the end of the session. Usually with three or four minutes remaining in the hour, students begin to snap their notebooks shut, click their ball point pens and wiggle into their coats.

It must be terribly embarrassing to the instructor to have his concluding words drowned out by extraneous noise. And yet it happens often in many classrooms.

As mature young adults, students should not have to be told when they are committing an act of disrespect and discourtesy.

From Congressional Frying Pan To Homeland Fires

By Jack Shea

From the frying pan into the fire... what better way could there be to describe the flight of congressmen from Capitol Hill back to their respective home fronts? The second session of the 87th Congress has been hot enough to bring even those half-baked representatives of our national legislature to a boil. And now they head home to what promises to be one of the hottest off-year elections in recent years.

Wherefore all this hustle and bustle... to what or to whom do we attribute the fact that the 87th Congress boomed with activity; and that this fall's election has filled the air with a fervor and intensity usually reserved for a presidential election year?

From this point of view it can all be traced back to "that man in the White House," John F. Kennedy. With the enthusiasm he has for every phase of his presidential life, he has set a pace -- not only for Congress, but for every area of our society -- that has left us wanting to learn more and do more about a great many things.

Consequently, this fall we find Americans everywhere turning out in record numbers to participate in their country's decision-making process. Whether you are a Democrat or Republican, if you are a believer in democracy this has got to meet with your approval. Be they excited for or against is not the important thing, but rather that they are just plain excited.

To those of you, thankfully few in number, who answered to a young lady canvassing door to door for her party that this is a democracy and you don't have to vote if you don't want to... you don't have to eat either if you don't want to, but if you don't you'll die. The fact that this kind of an answer came from students living in Spartan Village is as much a disgrace to the University as it is to them personally. What more important thing can a student learn in his pursuit of higher education than his responsibility to God and to his country? If he has not learned this, then either his University is failing him or he is failing himself.

Every privilege, every freedom has its limitations, its "framework." In the case of political freedom, the framework within which it must operate consists in each individual participating in those practices which keep him politically free. Voting is an example... think it over.

President John A. Hannah would certainly have left himself open to criticism if he had not extended a public apology to Governor John Swainson on the University's failure to announce the Governor's attendance at the MSU -- Michigan football game. President Hannah cannot claim to be non-partisan. He campaigned and was elected to the Constitutional Convention on the Republican ticket. This would give a Democratic partisan sufficient support for his feelings that Hannah knew of Mr. Romney's "unscheduled" tour of the stadium. This point of view, however, gives Dr. Hannah the benefit of the doubt because of a job well done at the convention. His plan for reapportionment submitted to the committee, which he himself chaired, was not acceptable to the Republican party. The mere fact that they did not accept it, has to mark it as a much better program than the one the convention adopted.

The President of our University has an outstanding record of service to the community, state, nation, and world. This record should serve as an inspiration to those "I don't have to vote" students in Spartan Village.

Letters to the Editor

On Women's Rules, Security, Etc.

To the Editor: We are writing in protest to living conditions forced on the women students of this university living in residence halls. The facts are:

1. Women pay rent on overcrowded rooms in which they are forced to live. Are we women or children? We are expected to behave as adults in a social structure constructed on a prison basis. Certainly, for many, university living is the first experience away from the protective eye of parents and guardians; but for many more it is the first encounter with such strict and irrational laws. It is strange to be so restricted at a modern university after a life of adult freedom at home.

2. The rooms for which we pay are inspected weekly by our overseers. When one pays rent on a room, one expects personal freedom at least in that room. In Spartan Village does the university employ inspectors to scrutinize the neatness of the apartments down to the wastebaskets? Many of the women living in residence halls are old, if not older than women living in Spartan Village. Is marriage the only path to private living conditions?

3. Women are forced to talk in whispers in the rooms they rent. Because of strict rules called "quiet hours," and poor insulation of the rooms, it is impossible to talk in a normal voice without being heard in the adjoining rooms and the halls. Is freedom of speech to be stifled in our rented rooms as well as on campus?

For those who need complete silence, libraries and study rooms are available at no extra cost. Of course, consideration for our neighbors should be foremost, but penalties for talking and opening doors for a period of more than five seconds at a time are outrageous!

Sarcasm is not the aim of this letter. We are simply trying to point out some of the ridiculous extremes to which we are being driven. We are not advocating anarchy in our residence halls; rules are necessary and needed, but is it the function of a university to be a moral baby sitter for adult women?

The university is certainly becoming personalized; we aren't just numbers any more. Roll call is being taken nightly besides at such special events as floor meetings, fire drills, party raids and riots.

Our new merit system now under consideration is also aimed at bringing women closer together by allowing them to sit in the halls for periods of two to five hours per night and watch their comrades come and go. But, communication is not permissible; only to submit recommendations for future guardians of our "Quiet" are they permitted to talk. This honor will be available to all at the low cost of two demerits. Any takers, women?

University living has been full of surprises. We left home as adults and entered our residence halls as children. 16 Snyder Hall Women, Precinct 10

Security Seekers

To the Editor: Recently your newspaper published an article by Miss Sally Derrickson regarding charges leveled against this generation; charges of "security seekers" and a "generation without a cause." Therein seven students replied to those charges with statements ranging from denial to affirmative acknowledgement.

Those who answered affirmatively cited various reasons for their choice: (1) the handicaps of "these times" (2) prior generations' greater advantage of "having a cause", and (3) our own ineptitudes. In my experience, although proportionately limited, I have found what appears to be the basic cause for the aforementioned criticisms: that is, the success with which the members of our generation fix blame for their shortcomings on anything or anyone but themselves. Perhaps your readers would be well advised to consider the point that they alone are morally responsible for their own plight, be that what it may.

Could it be that the University, for one, would respect recent cries for abolishment of present speaker censorship, if it were confronted with substantiation of the fact that we are, as individuals, capable of maintaining moral responsibility for ourselves?

Could it be that we are a sheltered generation for the sole reason that all others look upon us as a group of individuals who do not consider ourselves morally responsible for our actions? If so, cannot we correct the situation simply, among ourselves? Or do we, in fact, require paternalism for an internally lacking defense against personal irresponsibility?

Romney Man

To the Editor: I'd like to explain that I have "Romney" bumper stickers all over my car, and that I feel undressed when I'm not wearing a "Romney" pin. And when I George made the rounds at the Michigan game I yelled and applauded, and showed as much "disrespect" for the U of M band as everyone else did.

I do these things for a good reason. I feel that Mr. Romney has made an exceptional public record for himself, and has proven himself to be of the highest caliber of morality and leadership. When anyone displays these qualities I will applaud him, whether it be during a lynching, a dog fight or--least of all--a song by the U of M band.

If the pride of Harvard, Jack Kennedy, had taken the same actions that Mr. Romney did, there would probably be charges that the band was being disrespectful for playing the Wolvetein fight song. Some people will gripe about anything! I have a limited number of

Non-Partisan

To the Editor: After reading the "State News" of Wednesday, October 17, 1962, I am beginning to wonder if it too has gone Democratic. No less than six articles, all against Mr. George Romney, confronted me on page two. Although I am non-partisan, I find it necessary, sometimes, to stand up for one or the other to keep the sides even.

Does everyone at M.S.U. feel that Mr. Romney did the wrong thing or is it just because he is a Republican? Would six articles have appeared if Governor Swainson had walked around the football field? Although I agree that Mr. Romney has been very bold in campaigning around the state, I think it's going to take a brave Republican to get into office in this ardent Democratic state of Michigan.

I am glad to see someone interested enough in Michigan to buck its labor unions and Democratic leaders.

I should also like to mention that the University of Michigan band was performing for the audience and the audience should be the judge as to where the applause goes. Romney walked all around the stadium facing all the people, while the band only faced the press box to make sure the TV cameras would get good coverage. Yet Mr. Romney didn't even get mentioned on TV, let alone have his picture on.

I regret that the U of M band was interrupted by Romney's walking behind them and getting more attention than the backs of the band members. It will be two more years before another political campaign, but the band plays the show next year?

Larry C. Hofmeister 15292 Pinehurst Drive

Editor's note: The State News is non-partisan in this political campaign. We felt Romney deserved the treatment he got. As governor of Michigan Swainson had more right to be on the field.

Ticketless

To the Editor: There have been few events during my life which have disgusted me to the degree as that of the "ticketless student" policy practiced at the Michigan-Michigan State game.

We students who were unable to procure tickets were informed that if we would be at the gate between 12 p.m. and 12:30 p.m., seats would be provided. At exactly 12 p.m. I arrived at the stadium, only to find a line of approximately 1,500 fellow students ahead of me. I was still standing in this line at 2 p.m. when we were told that there would be no more admittance. However, after being presented with the sight of a potential riot upon the part of those students being turned away, the police and

WALLY SEZ Everything's Upside Down

Let's play a little corny game today to help ease the national tension. It's making puns out of person's names for fun--turning name around to read opposite of what really is. For example I used to call a friend Levi New Chevy, although his real name was Gene Oldford. Of course, Tennessee Ernie Ford is always Kentucky Er Nash. The opposite of my name--Jim Wallington--would be Fish house Ceiling Ounce. The famous orchestra leader Hugo Winterhalter would "I Went Summer Go," or if you want to be a little risque, Went Summer Bra. Football player George Salmes would be George Differ. Then there is "Smally" Munn, the athletic director. His assistant Gale Mikies would be "Windstorm" or "Breeze" Mike State News IM writer Ed Bloom is Ed Wilted. Ben Brown Green. Phil May, the school treasurer, would be "Empty No," who seems to describe his answers to financial requests by the State News. Back to football team. It is hard to change Matt Shorton's name because he is always snortin' on the gridiron. The way Rubick has been carrying the football for Duffy's Tuffies, should be called Run Rubick. Ed Budde, the tough tackle, sure is no buddy to opposing linemen. He is really Ed Enemy. BITS AND FITS--It's like going from the age of Lincoln to the period of Orwell when you leave the hard-seated classroom the Conservation Building and go to the new, deluxe engineering Building auditorium. Those cushioned seats are better than subway for sleeping. I remember when the fire station on Shaw Lane was way in nowhere. And not 10 or 20 years ago. Just four years ago Bet those firemen are just itching to use their fire hoses in case of a student riot at Wilson-Case-Wonders. I understand that the price of nose plugs at Brody dorms gone sky-high. Wonder--if it would nose-dive when and if the same problem is taken care of. Believe it or not, it took two college researchers to find it out--"Most big cities have severe rush hour traffic problems. This congestion is due mainly to an incomplete and inadequate inefficient use of the existing street system." The reason? "Too many people use the freeways." I don't have a college degree, yet I know that all the traffic I have driven on Detroit's expressways.

gate attendants retained and admittance was reopened. By this time the first quarter (the best part of the game) was completely over. By all standards, the students should have been admitted first, and the remaining seats given to those holding guest tickets. Instead, the guests were admitted first and what was left was given to the students. Speaking for myself and my fellow ticketline waiters, I believe that we deserve a deep apology and honest explanation from whoever is responsible for this gross act of neglect and incompetence. When the outsiders of an organization are placed before the members, this organization is certainly in a sad state of affairs.

University Law

To the Editor: Bruce Fabricant may preach "discretion is the better part of valor" if he likes, but when he has no more perception than to link us with the Mississippi rioters, his ignorance and complacency make a pen too dangerous a toy to play with. Gov. Barnett defied the law of the land; we of the Campus Club Conference, in defying the Speakers' committee, are defending the laws upheld by our courts and our constitution. If there is a comparison to be made--well, I leave it to you to make it.

If laws are to be challenged through constitutional and legal process, as Fabricant says, let us where in this University student can find such a procedure. I'm afraid it does not exist. "If civil law," wrote Thomas, "be not derived from natural law of just and reasonable behavior, written in human heart, then it is unjust and we are not obliged to obey it... Sedition is, of course, sin, but to disobey a tyrant is defined from Aristotle as one rules in his own interest, not addition, for his rule is just." Our curriculum includes writings of Locke, Jefferson, John Stuart Mill, and Thoreau. Do they not condone a little rebellion, now and then, as efficiency and unendurable? We have learned from him that by the time tyranny is enduring, it is too late to do it without loss of life. Freedom is lost a little at a time. Perhaps this administration will never use the speaker platform unreasonably, but someday, under circumstances are more pressing, (as in Iraq), another administration may thoroughly abuse the time to challenge an unjust law is before it is entrenched. A policy that inhibits the right to free assembly and free speech on state property is intolerable. A committee that discriminates against certain groups in implementing this policy deserves nothing but scorn.

As for administrative retaliation, we stand with Thoreau. "Under a government which imprisons any unjustly, the true place for a just man is in a prison." Alan McKinnis

Harriers in Last Attempt To Avoid Winless Mark

By JOHN VANGIESON
Of The State News

Only the contest with Notre Dame at Forest Akers Golf Course Saturday stands between the Spartan harriers and a disastrous dual meet record.

The cross country squad, which had never lost more than one meet a season under Coach Fran Dittrich, has yet to win, and a loss to the Irish would end the Spartans' dual meet season with an 0-4 record.

The squad still has three championship meets after its duals are over, but in each one it will have to face at least one team it has already lost to.

In the Big Ten it is the Wisconsin Badgers, in the IC4A Penn State will challenge the defending champion Spartans, and both teams, plus Ohio University which holds a victory over State, will be here for the NCAA championships Nov. 26. The harriers have shown improvement from week to week.

As a team, the harriers have lowered their total score from 51 at Ohio to 30 against Penn State.

As far as position goes, all of State's point scorers in the opening meet have improved their finishing positions in later meets.

The biggest improvement has been by co-captain Roger Humbarger. He went from seventh in the Ohio meet to first against Wisconsin and second at Penn State.

Sophomores Orlin Larson and Mike Kaines have exhibited rapid improvement and have become two of State's mainstays. Larson has gone from ninth to third in three meets, and Kaines went from 12th to seventh, after slipping off to a 14th in the Wisconsin contest.

Coach Dittrich is counting on continued improvement from this trio, along with co-captain Don Castle and Ron Berby.

MSU Gridders Now Face Five Straight Conference Elevens

It's all Big Ten competition for the Spartans now. After a three victory comeback from their opening loss to Stanford, coach Duffy Daugherty's forces must now show whether they are to be a threat in the Big Ten race.

Presently in a four way tie with Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Purdue for the conference lead, the MSU gridders finish out their schedule with five straight conference games. They travel to Indiana this week before taking on Minnesota and Purdue in home games. The Green and White then take the road for games with Northwestern and Illinois.

Northwestern appears to be the big threat for the title at present. The Wildcats, behind the passing of sophomore Tom Myers, have victories over Illinois, Minnesota, and Ohio State.

Although the Indiana game cannot be taken lightly, the Spartans probably will face their first big test for contention when they take on Minnesota in a big if.

That Northwestern game is a long way off when you note that Minnesota and Purdue are on the schedule. And let's not forget that Wisconsin team. Although they don't play MSU they do play Northwestern and must be considered contenders.

MONTREAL (UPI) - Montreal's Henri Richard, the younger brother of hockey's greatest goal scorer, and Boston's Cliff Pennington shared the National Hockey League's scoring leadership today with nine points each.

Richard has five goals and four assists and Pennington, playing his second season in the NHL, has three goals and six assists. One point behind is another Boston player, Murray Oliver, with eight points.

Detroit's Terry Sawchuk leads the goalies. In five games to date he has allowed six goals for a 1.20 average. Glenn Hall of Chicago is next with 12 goals in six games with a 2.00 average.

NEW YORK (UPI) - The World Champion Green Bay Packers dominate the National Football League team statistics released by the NFL today, with the Detroit Lions virtually blanked in all offensive and defensive categories.

The Lions, who led in many team categories at the start of the season, were able to lead in only one of the 40 offensive categories. The Lions have fumbled only four times, less than half as many times as the runnerup team.

On defense, the Lions have limited opponents to 31 first downs by rushing, the least in the League. The Packers lead or are tied in 11 of the 16 defensive team statistics and also dominate the offensive statistics.

CLEVELAND (UPI) - Former Ohio State basketball star Jerry Lucas now is incorporated.

Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown issued a corporation charter Tuesday to Jerry Lucas, Incorporated--"seeking to promote the athletic prowess ability and career of Jerry Lucas through athletic appearances and performances." Incorporators are Hugh Jenkins, chairman of the Ohio Tax Appeals Board, James Booker and Howard Murray.

Undeclared Spartan Booter Face Strong Ball State

By LARRY MOGG
Of The State News

Soccer Coach Gene Kenney will once again level the barrel of his game-winning gun on a target, but in his sights for the second successive game will be a dangerous, untried foe.

Coach Kenney, who has hit the victory bullseye with flawless accuracy in the previous five tilts, will try to continue his pin-point marksmanship Thursday by zeroing in on the Ball State Cardinals.

The MSU mentor will long remember last week's contest, which saw his fine booter machine sputter agonizingly for three periods in the rain, then storm back from a three goal deficit to trip Akron in a double overtime thriller. Like the Akron game, it will mark the first meeting of the two squads in history.

In the Cardinals brief two year history they have lost only one decision, while winning nine and tying two. Sporting a 3-1-1 record this season, the menacing Cardinals have Coach Kenney warily looking ahead to the upcoming game.

Under the first year reign of Joe Brownholtz, who starred on last year's NCCA champions, West Chester, the Cardinals have exhibited a strong defense allowing four goals to go to a near veteran offensive line. Homey Vaziri, a native of Switzerland, once again topped State's scoring. Last year a sophomore, he netted 14 in seven tilts.

The boys from Muncie, Ind. have been particularly troublesome on the road. They will be seen in their seventh straight road without defeat.

'Midwest Back of Week' First Rubick, Now Saimes

CHICAGO (UPI)—He's small in size and stature for a big Ten fullback, but big enough to be an All-Conference halfback, and he saves his best performances for Michigan State's annual game against Notre Dame.

That's why George Saimes, a 186-pound back of the Spartans, is this week's "midwest back of the week."

Saimes was the second Michigan State back in two weeks to receive this award. Ron Rubick received the same award for his performance against North Carolina.

Saimes Saturday against Notre Dame rushed for 153 yards in 13 carries, his best performance of the season, including touchdown jumps of 54, 49 and 15 yards.

Equally important, he intercepted one Notre Dame pass to set up a Michigan State score, he was a strong point on defense, participating in numerous tackles from sideline to sideline, and he rarely was far out of a play.

Saimes' performance was enough to draw praise even from losing Coach Joe Kuharich. "He's a fine football player," Kuharich said. "I'd have to say he's All-American potential. He has good speed and strength and overall ability."

"He was tremendous against us," he added. "A good solid all-around football player."

Kuharich's opinion was no surprise to Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty particularly since it coincided with his own rating. "Saimes is the complete football player," Daugherty said. "He's our bread and butter player. He can do anything. Carry the ball, block, tackle and everything else. Anything you ask him to do, he'll do."

Saimes got Daugherty's greatest compliment when he was authorized to play "rover" on defense. He is the one player on the team not tied down to a certain area, but instead is permitted to make his own analysis of the opponent's play and put himself in the best position to stop it.

Saimes, a 21-year-old senior who is 5 feet 10 inches tall, last year scored two touchdowns against Notre Dame on runs of 25 and 24 yards and gained 142 yards on 14 carries to give him a two year record against the Irish of five touchdowns and 295 yards in 27 rushes.

He might be Kuharich's choice as back of the year.

State Sailing Club Hosts Big Ten Championships

Michigan State Sailing Club will host the Big Ten Championship regatta of the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association Saturday and Sunday on Lake Lansing.

Sailing teams from Purdue, Indiana, Northwestern and Michigan State will challenge the defending champion, Michigan, in 12-foot Penguin dinghies.

Entrants will sail ten races, five A division and five B division, under the rules set down by the International Yacht Racing Union.

Three trophies, for first, second and third places will be presented, according to Andrew Campbell, Grosse Pointe Junior, who is regatta chairman.

Final plans for the regatta will be made at the Sailing Club's meeting Thursday, at 7:30 in the Union ballroom.

Bob Reynolds, former Detroit Lion tackle from Stanford, is part owner of the Los Angeles Angels in the American League.

State Picked Over Indiana By 15 Points

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Michigan Wolverines have been picked as 7-point underdogs in Saturday's game with Minnesota.

Michigan State, however, is a 15-point favorite to win over hapless Indiana and run its record to 4-1.

The oddsmakers installed Ohio State, a two-time loser, as a surprising 5-point choice over unbeaten (4-0) Wisconsin.

Here's how they saw other top Midwestern Games: Purdue over Iowa by 6; Northwestern over Notre Dame by 20 and Southern California over Illinois by 21.

NW Excursion In the Making

Spartan Spirit has announced that it will sponsor an excursion to the MSU-Northwestern game in Evanston, Ill., if there are enough students interested.

All students interested in going on Nov. 17 should call 355-8283 from 2-5 p.m. today.

Tentatively, the fare will be about $10, round-trip, not including a ticket. Tickets for the Northwestern game can still be purchased at the Jenison ticket office.

Zeta Beta Tau took all the honors in Fraternity bowling Monday night.

Tied for first place in their block with Alpha Gamma Rho, they have scored all eight possible points.

Steve Haberman holds the individual high series with a 585 total. He surpassed his 553 to break a tie with Jim Leahy of S.A.E.

Sam Bernstein, also of Z.B.T., holds the season high with a 222 game.

Z.B.T. also holds the team high with 2666.

U Ground Back Tops

WORK (UPI)—The NCAA Bureau Tuesday listed Michigan State as the nation's top rushing offense, statistics released by the MSU. It is so far ahead of Ohio State its lead is at least another week.

Michigan has rolled 1,451 in 245 rushes for a per-centage of 362.5 yards, rolling to a 3-1 record. State has averaged 314.3 per game on the ground.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO GROW IN THE HIGHEST PROFESSIONAL WORKING ENVIRONMENT

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS PHYSICISTS MATHEMATICIANS

Technical representatives of the MITRE Corporation will be conducting interviews on campus

OCTOBER 29, 1962

MITRE designs and develops systems that enable our military commanders to detect attack and retaliate instantly. Typical systems include Nuclear Detection and Reporting Systems; North American Air Defense Combat Operations Center, and Back Up Interceptor Center. MITRE is also experimenting with techniques for future air traffic control systems.

For the young systems engineer there is no more rewarding work. You associate with the top men in your field. You work in an atmosphere that allows you to extend your capabilities professionally and academically.

At MITRE, men trained in single disciplines are encouraged to grow beyond their original fields of interest. Systems designers learn to work from an increasingly broad base.

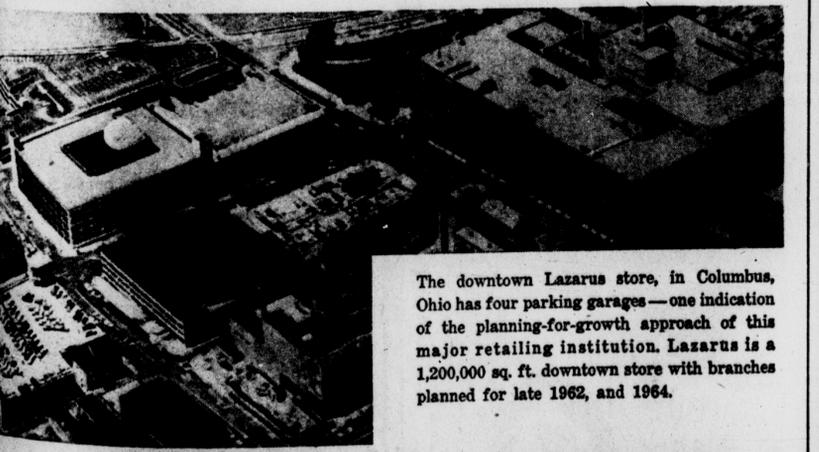

You may work in such diverse areas as information theory, computer design, display techniques, propagation, or human engineering. You may analyze. You may synthesize. You may deal with systems or individual components. At the highest levels, you may have to consider political, economic and social factors... as well as the available and predictable technology.

Requirements, B.S., M.S., or Ph.D. in these disciplines — electronics, physics, and mathematics. MITRE is located in pleasant, suburban Boston. If an interview will be inconvenient, inquiries may be directed in confidence to Vice President — Technical Operations, The MITRE Corporation, Box 208, Dept MSN0 Bedford, Mass.

MITRE, an independent nonprofit corporation, working with — not in competition with — industry, serves as technical advisor to the Air Force Electronic Systems Division, and is chartered to work for such other Government agencies as the Federal Aviation Agency.

U.S. Answers Tricky Missile Base Question

WASHINGTON, 17-The United States has an answer to the question: Are the Soviets in Cuba doing any more, in establishing missile bases, than the U.S. has done around the perimeters of Russia? The answer, in substance, is that the United States deployed inter-mediate-range missile bases, to protect nations threatened by Russia and that Cuba has been under no such threat of attack.

The question was raised at a Pentagon briefing last night. An official spokesman gave this reply: "There is no similarity between the arming of nations under that threat, on the one hand, versus the arming of Cuba on the other—which obviously was not under the threat of nuclear attack by the Soviet Union. There is no similarity between the arming of nations under that threat, on the one hand, versus the arming of Cuba on the other—which obviously was not under the threat of nuclear attack from this country."

President Kennedy said somewhat the same thing, although in more general terms, in his television address Monday. He declared that the transformation of Cuba into a strategic base, with "clearly offensive weapons," constitutes an explicit threat to the peace and security of the Western Hemisphere.

Kennedy also said that for many years Russia and the United States had deployed strategic nuclear weapons "with great care, never upsetting the precarious status quo which insured

Educators To Talk On General Studies

DIET RIGHT--Keeping health up is just as important as keeping weight down. Kay Plumtree, Bloomfield Hills junior, shows coeds the kind of low calorie diet which is not nutritional, due to no lunch or breakfast.

Diet? Heck, No-Starve

Don't diet like an amateur. Use your professional know-how. "Nutrition educators across the country must have cringed to read the new Miss America's widely publicized formula for weight reduction," said Anita Dean, University foods and nutrition specialist.

Although Miss America of 1963 is to be complimented for recognizing her weight problem and for her will power, Mrs. Dean said, her manner of dieting leaves much to be desired. The new Miss America said she used to skip breakfast and lunch to shed pounds. Today's teenage girls, Mrs. Dean contends, have access to more reliable nutrition information and can plan their diets accordingly.

"Being overweight is a common problem among teenage girls, especially the 15- and 16-year-olds," the specialist points out. "Too often mothers try to discourage their daughters by

EAST LANSING -- Some 300 top liberal arts educators from colleges and universities coast to coast will meet Thursday through Saturday at Kellogg Center to ponder the role of general studies in a specialized society.

The occasion will be the first annual meeting of the Association for General and Liberal Studies.

University Women To Hold Book Sale

The local chapter of the American Association of University Women will hold its seventh annual used book sale today through Saturday at Federal Store in Frandor, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. except on Friday and Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Profits from the sale will be used for scholarships for graduate women students. Used books including paperbacks and magazines can still be donated to the Federal Store.

Honors College Director Elected To Engineering Grants Committee

Stanley J. Idzerda, director of the University's Honors College, has been elected to the American Society of Toll and Manufacturing Engineers' Research and Educational Grants Committee.

The committee will administer all Society grants for research in tool and manufacturing engineering. It will also be responsible for initiating and developing special research projects of benefit to various segments of the manufacturing industry and for developing these special project proposals and providing the necessary funds for their completion.

tion for General and Liberal Studies.

Formed one year ago at a MSU conference on general education, the association seeks to help effect a closer integration and understanding between the various educational disciplines.

Educators note that the trend toward a greater emphasis on general education is a reaction to past years of emphasis on specialized education, resulting in highly trained scientists and historians, for example, who were relatively unschooled outside their own field.

Joining the new association in sponsoring the seminar is the MSU University College.

ment is owned in partnership with the department of foods and nutrition.

"Our study with the rats infected with pneumonia was in effect a failure," he explained. The lab wanted to study the effects of exercise but the rats broke down because of the disease.

This experiment was part of the lab's study to determine the effects of exercise on man and animals. More rats will be brought in and the tests will start over again.

"Three groups of rats were used," Van Huss explained.

Rats Used in Energy Research

By PAT SISKO Of the State News

More rats will soon be brought in to occupy the empty cages in the basement of the Women's Intramural building.

The Human Energy Research laboratory in the basement of the building uses the rats in pilot studies related to exercise.

If an experiment is successful with the rats, it is then tried with man.

The lab builds its own cages and equipment as well as studying the effects of exercise. The cages are empty now because the lab had to get rid of 120 pneumonia infected rats.

Wayne D. Van Huss is the director of the loosely organized lab which is part of the department of recreation. Much of the equipment is owned in partnership with the department of foods and nutrition.

"Their exercise program continued for 35 days, and then all the rats were allowed to exercise as they pleased.

"Those that had been forced to exercise, exercised a lot more and quite vigorously," Van Huss reported. "We have no answer for the results, however."

Strangely enough the rats exercising more ate less than the other rats.

Rats, rather than any other animal, are used for experiments because rats are good swimmers and swimming is the exercise used in most of the experiments.

Eventually a study such as this will be made on human beings. "No one really knows much to exercise children," Huss said.

The relative longevity morbidity in athletes and athletes is also being studied, though no conclusions have reached yet.

The lab keeps track of athletes and non athletic individuals five or ten years.
