

Call It Machiavellian, We Like the Ending

Taking advantage of hindsight and looking back upon the speakers controversy which so dominated the campus news scene fall term, we can not help taking cognizance of one of its stranger aspects.

That is, we find ourselves admitting that the Campus Club Conference was really the most significant chapter in the epic; that it was this illegal act which proved to be an angel in disguise.

After all, it was the open defiance by those students participating in the CCC which led to strong Administration retaliation -- placing "sufficiently involved" leaders in the rebellion on strict disciplinary probation.

From there the students and many faculty members (not, of course, those on the Faculty Committee on Student Conduct) reacted with equal vehemence through protest marches, petitions. Letters to the Editor and editorial comment in the State News.

Then at the beginning of this week, the Speakers Committee, in its other function as a study group to set up ground rules for a future speakers policy, made its recommendations public.

The degree of liberalization which the Committee suggested came as a pleasant surprise to all save a few absolutists.

In effect, the study group recommended its own dissolution and the establishment of the Michigan State University Forum Committee to act in an advisory rather screening capacity. There were a few stipulations as expected:

A speaker advocating the violent overthrow of our form of government or advocating obscene behavior will not be permitted to speak on this campus. Moreover, prospective speakers must be informed of these prohibitions -- perhaps the most embarrassing clause.

Over all, however, we feel the Committee's suggestions are, indeed, a considerable liberalization.

Another pleasing surprise was the haste with which the Committee reached its decision. The State News suggested 30 days but was not optimistic, knowing that procrastination is a valuable and often-used tactic in such circumstances.

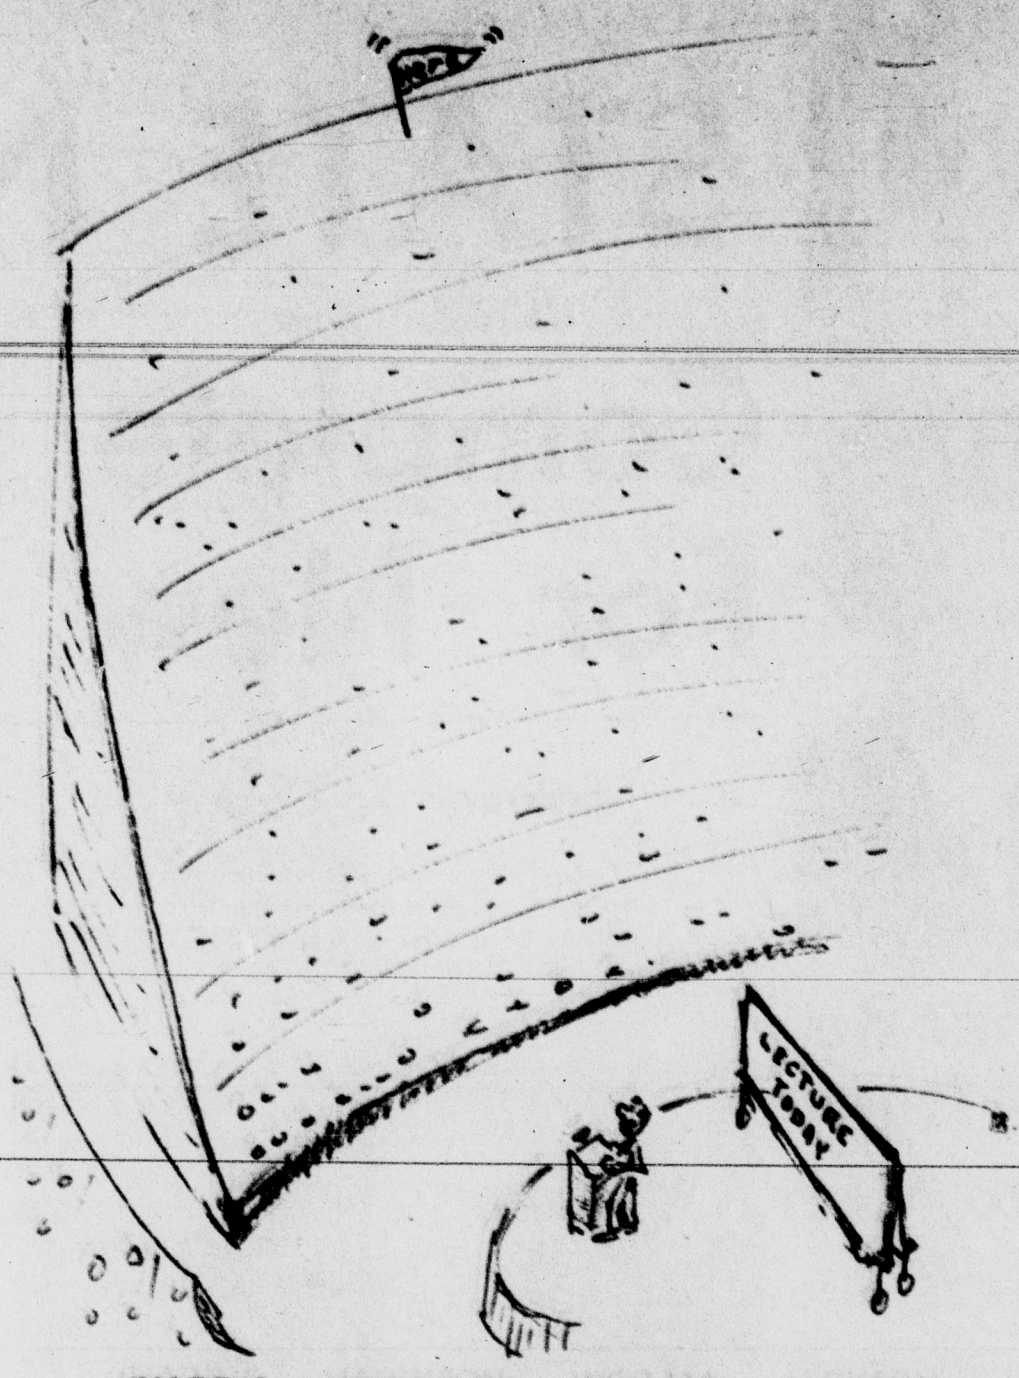

But the Committee moved swiftly.

The point is this: We can conclude that the strong protests by the students through the various channels actually pushed the study group in its deliberation.

And, we can conclude that, indirectly, the CCC meeting was the spark which initially led to the punishment followed by student and faculty anger over the punitive action.

Ironically enough, it seems that it was an unlawful act which played a dominant role in bringing about an acceptable result.

We must admit that in this case, the end justifies the means.

Letters to the Editor

Arabs and Jews, Constitution

To the Editor: It seems that Prof. Herbert Weisinger and Assoc. Prof. Adrian Jaffe of the English Department misinterpreted my letter to the State News, Nov. 9, where I agreed (and I know some Jews who also agreed) with a statement by an American Jewish leader clarifying the definition of Judaism and Zionism (State News Nov. 1), and that letter had nothing to do with the issue of semitism which Prof. Weisinger and Assoc. Prof. Jaffe raised.

ing the preceding week I did not see one poster with the word couples on it or the figure $1. None of the radio ads or the announcements at the game carried this VALUABLE information. What's with this university? What does a student have to do to get valid information around here?

As for the shut-outs--isn't our tuition enough or do we have to spend more of our "rare" money and live on campus to become a member of the obvious "in-group"?

What have we got to show for our tuition fees besides an activity book that sometimes doesn't mean a thing, i.e., the Michigan - Michigan State game, the Sound of Music, and the Leningrad Philharmonic.

What (and I use the term loosely) "legal channels" are we to go through to gain admission to the "closed" functions of this university?

I was under the impression that the university was an equal society.

How about the rest of you off campus students, are you as fed up as I am?

David E. Lindow

Anti-Semitic

To the Editor: How could an Arab be anti-semitic if the Semite races are now chiefly represented by the Jews and Arabs? The Arabs are and always have been semites. The accusation made by Prof. Herbert Weisinger and Assoc. Prof. Adrian Jaffe of English (State News Nov. 13) against Khalaf Al-Delaimy are untrue and misleading. I would like to refer to any dictionary which states clearly the definition of the Semite race: Race of mankind represented chiefly by Jews and Arabs, but in ancient times including the Babylonian, Assyrian, Aramaean, Phoenician, etc. Adnan Badran, Graduate Student

Who Wrote It?

To the Editor: Concerning Miss Scott's recent letter to your column; she states that many students are yelling "Freedom, Freedom, Freedom," without ever reading our Constitution that Jefferson wrote. Well, I'm yelling "freedom" and I have read enough of the Constitution to know that Jefferson had nothing to do with the writing of it, Miss Scott. As a matter of fact, Jefferson wouldn't even come and sit in on the proceedings. Rather, he stayed home and said, "I smell a rat" while Franklin, Hamilton, Washington, and others wrote our Constitution. This particular example is typical of the thinking and knowledge of the people who today believe Democracy can and should be maintained through ignorance. We as Americans should be curious. We should think about all possible issues, and learn more about these issues if only to strengthen our beliefs. The non-thinking apathetic stand Miss Scott not only takes, but brags of, is exactly the stuff upon which America's real danger of collapsing rests.

'Fed Up'

To the Editor: As an off-campus student I have been continually "stuck out" of university functions, i.e. the dorm dances. This in itself is bad enough, but the blue ribbon ought to go to the advertising committee for the Union Board dances. After the shine, shave, and shower hit I am greeted at the door with $1 PER COUPLE. Dur-

AUSG Performs

To the Editor: Have you noticed the drama which has been haunting MSU? It seems that we have projected the proverbial playhouse that children indulge in on the campus. Only the names have been changed--our reasonable facade on campus goes under the guise of AUSG. This is the voice of the students to which the faculty and administration listen with a ready ear to suggestions as to the bettering of the university, feelings of the students, new ideas and etc.

Football Strategy

To the Editor: Open Letter to Biggie Munn: I have lived in Lansing most of my life and have been an avid Spartan football fan, since I was a boy. I vividly remember when small, quick backs were skipping through holes your quick, aggressive line was making to rack up one of the most fantastic winning records any college football coach has ever had. Since the time you retired from active coaching I have witnessed another fantastic record established by your successor Duffy Daugherty and his recruiting staff. Duffy Daugherty has sent more football players on to the pro ranks in the past six or seven years than any other coach in the country. Each year he fields a team of fantastically talented individuals; much bigger and much faster than the personnel of your old championship teams. These men go on to be stars in the national football league.

I have further observed that every year these talented individuals get pushed around by a lot of "seam" players from other schools. We are beaten on Saturday afternoon when we don't have to be beaten. Our men, but they don't appear to have the insight or technical strategy. If pro plays don't work to one side of the line, the only solution that Daugherty can come up with is power to the other side. One Minnesota player interviewed after the game, I think quite aptly explained our loss to them two Saturdays ago. "We knew what they were going to do right up and down the line, and they did it."

This does not have to be true. We have talent. One year, our men will be pushed around on

The Editor Says ----- Gleason As Gigot:

Ben Burns

Have you seen the movie, Gigot, pronounced Zhe-got? It is the portly Jackie Gleason, who first showed his screen as a fat pool shark in "The Hustlers." Gleason also wrote script and music for Gigot.

Gleason plays the part of a mute French janitor, who through life as a happy incompetent, Gigot has a morbid habit of attending funerals and in the finale attends his own. He has a menagerie of pets, which includes an orange car, several dogs, a horse and a mouse.

Two health department officials are checking into the life of Gigot because neighbors consider him simple and unfit for public life. Meanwhile his French compatriots go through life abusing and making the agreeable janitor the butt of their stupid humor. Gigot discovers a prostitute and her little girl in the rain evening and takes them home to the shelter of his grubby basement.

The happiness of the little girl becomes a primary interest acting when he attempts to explain God to the little girl. The prostitute decides to rejoin a former friend and please him. She takes the little girl with her unless Gigot comes up with money.

Gigot goes out and lifts the savings of a penurious baker, has been gyping him on cookie sales for years. The show comes to a rushing climax when the prostitute, turning for her girl, finds her gone. Gigot is entertaining in a tumble down room, down the sewer a short distance.

The roof of the room caves in and Gigot hauls the injured to the church where the priest cares for her. The baker discovers that Gigot took his money, the health inspectors come to take Gigot to a home and the prostitute takes a hue and cry for her missing daughter.

The townspeople chase the fat Gleason up and down the French streets until he goes through a coal washing machine and falls in a river. A tugboat comes down the river and the townspeople think they have driven him to his death.

They are extremely sorrowful and repentive and plan a funeral for the porcine janitor. It turns out that Gigot was a little sharper than they believe and managed to get out of the way of the tug.

He attends his own funeral and listens to his abusers tearfully murmur nice things about him. After the funeral show, Gigot comes down from the cover of a nearby tree and attempts to call to the townspeople, but course can't.

He turns and starts to shuffle out the far end of the grave when one of the townsfolk looks back and spies Gigot. The movie ends with the chase in full swing again.

The movie is funny, yet it is also a subtle, searing critique of humanity of people and their treatment of each other. The movie is excellent, but whether it accomplishes anything in regard to making humans face the reality of themselves, debatable.

The following statement by the above persons appeared in the State News November 13, 1962. . . and the community as a whole, have treated racial and religious groups with such fairness, and with such genuine tolerance, that the question of prejudice has not arisen."

I would ask Mr. Jaffe and Professor Weisinger to talk to a number of Negro students who have tried to obtain off-campus housing in East Lansing, and then ask themselves how much prejudice exists in the East Lansing community. They will be appalled at its abundance. East Lansing is hardly a place in which Mr. Al-Delaimy can learn that "all men are created equal."

Any member of the Negro race who has any illusions that the United States is a land of equal opportunity for all can easily have them shattered after traversing across East Lansing looking for a place to live. I did.

Campus Bus Service

Lansing Suburban Bus Lines, the company which provides bus "service" on campus, should review its schedules and routes. At present, the bus service is highly inadequate and undependable.

Buses are chronically late, overcrowded, and inconsistent in their scheduling. Riders and potential riders have complained about waiting 20 minutes for a bus at stops where buses should be arriving every five or ten minutes.

We understand that the bus company is faced with the same traffic complications on campus as private motorists. We realize that buses are often pushed off schedule while waiting for trains at the Harrison railroad crossings.

But we don't understand why two buses are scheduled for the same place at the same time. This happens when the bus from downtown Lansing arrives on campus, following a few feet behind the regular campus bus. On-campus buses often arrive at the same place in rapid succession, and disappear for a half hour or longer.

The bus company would also do well to examine its routes and alter them with the ever-changing student population. For example, it seems sensible to send a bus past Wilson Hall and across the old Chestnut Road through Cherry Lane Village. That would save valuable walking time for the many Wilson residents who could ride the buses.

We know that the University does not have direct control over the bus system, but we suspect that it could effectively urge the bus line management to rework schedules and routes for better service to student riders.

We are glad to have the buses on campus, but we want to remind mind its operators that the company is a public service.

Inter-racial Couple Discovers Reaction To Renting Varies

JOYCE BUCHHOLZ is the second in a series.

"Colored only." "We protect your investment by insuring desirable neighborhoods."

Advertisers who use these words and phrases make the message clear.

Some landlords who don't want to be labeled, what do they do? They rent property to inter-racial couples.

At that moment another woman arrived in a car.

"I'm Mrs. D.--," she said. "The apartment is back here."

Unlike the landlady in the Washington St. apartment, Mrs. D.-- did not show us around. She waited in the living room while we examined the other rooms. Only once did she speak to us.

"Are you newlyweds?" she asked.

"Yes," Ron answered. "We live out at the university right now, but we want a place for the summer."

"Perhaps I could take your name," she said. "My husband showed the apartment this afternoon and I haven't seen him so I don't know if he rented it or not." (Her husband had been at home earlier in the evening when I called.) "If he didn't rent it, I'll call you. What is the name?"

Ron gave her his name and we started toward the door.

"Oh, did you give her the phone number, dear?" I asked.

"Oh, yes," she said quickly. "The number."

Ron gave the phone number and we left.

Not satisfied with the reactions we received from going to apartments, I called several landlords and owners who advertised in the local papers. I began the conversations by inquiring about the apartment or house, its location, the size of rooms and cost of utilities.

"There is one thing I suppose I should tell you," I said. "My husband is a Negro. Does that make any difference?"

"No," said a man with an accent who had an apartment for rent in East Lansing. "That doesn't make any difference at all."

A woman told me when I inquired about her $30,000 English manor house in Okemos:

"I'm not the type who's concerned with that sort of thing. I haven't given it much thought really. Why don't you come out this afternoon and we'll talk it over?"

"No," another woman in East Lansing said. "It doesn't make any difference to me. You're buying property. I'm not buying the color of anybody's skin."

I called several apartments in Lansing listed in the State Journal for "colored only."

"Just one thing," I said. "My husband is colored and I'm white."

"Are you married?" she asked.

"Yes," she said. "It's all right."

The landlady of another apartment listed for "colored only" was not quite so willing.

"I don't quite know how to answer that," she said. "We had a couple like you here a while ago and when they brought their friends in we had some trouble so we decided not to rent to mixed couples any more."

Many of the white landlords did not want to rent either.

"Yes," one in Washington St. said, "that would make a big difference."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because of the other tenants."

"Do you live in the apartment house?" I asked.

"No, but the other tenants wouldn't like it."

"Have you refused Negroes or mixed couples before?"

"Yes."

A woman on Michigan, near downtown Lansing, asked if we had any children. Then she asked: "Are you white?"

"I am, but my husband isn't."

"What nationality is he?" she asked.

"He's an American and he's Negro."

"Well, I don't have nothing against colored people myself, but I'm not the renter. I just live here and I know they don't want colored people."

On West Main, a landlady was emphatically unwilling to rent to us.

"Would you mind renting to an inter-racial couple?" I asked.

"I certainly would," she said. "Why?"

"Well, we just wouldn't have it."

Cuba To Shoot Debates At U.S. Planes

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Reliable sources said Thursday Prime Minister Fidel Castro had sent a blunt warning through Acting Secretary-General U Thant that Cuba would shoot down any U.S. planes flying reconnaissance missions over Cuban territory.

The warning was contained in a letter given to Thant by a Cuban representative. Its contents were made known later to U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson by secretary-general.

States to take action against Cuba, McDonnell contended.

Weapons are offensive or defensive on the basis of which is fired first, he quipped.

McDonnell accused the United States of believing with Red China "the worn-out doctrine that socialism and capitalism can't coexist."

The British contended that action in Cuba would force the United States into the "humiliating" position of bowing to adverse world opinion or the equally impossible position of defying world opinion.

The MSU debaters said action in Cuba should be the beginning of a true Western offensive against Communism throughout the world.

A short period during the debate was open to questions from the audience.

State Must Stop Passing, Flatley

The action continued in IM football as twenty teams competed for the final 10 spots in the playoff finals.

Stigma Nu looked like a sure winner last night as they led LCA by 15 points late in the third quarter on touchdowns by Mike Crow. LCA then scored a TD on a pass from Jeff Back to Gary Anderson to close the gap 15-7.

ATU surprised everyone as they completely outplayed highly favored TET to beat them 27-6. Marty Cicchetti led the victor's attack by throwing 3 three TD passes and running for another.

Roger Webb once again played a spectacular game as he had a hand in all six touchdowns as Wilson eight killed the Argonauts, 50-7.

Jerry Taylor threw three TD's and John Stomachille ran forty yards for another as East Shaw four whipped Carriage 25-0.

In the fourth quarter when East Shaw's Larry Cummings threw to Paul Cheng for the only score of the game and the victory.

East Shaw six scored two TD's on passes from Bill Shawwood to Tom Kramer in the fourth quarter to give them a come-from-behind victory over the Dimpsters 18-12.

East Shaw became the third team from their residence to go into the finals as Jim Berger completed five passes for TD's and a 3-27 victory over Casopolis.

At three again led the Sallies three back by scoring for two touchdowns and throwing for four more. It was completely a team effort however as superb blocking prevented the 4-28 romp over West Shaw six.

It took an overtime and a long pass from Jim Planted to Doug Smith before East Shaw could finally squeeze past the Wilson motor team 12-6.

Wilson two had little trouble with West Shaw three as Don Wray passed for three TD's, two to Bill Holland, to romp 28-0.

In its first three football games this season, Mississippi's Rebels defeated a Tiger (Ontonagon State, 21-7), a Minut (Keweenaw, 24-0) and a Cougar (Houston, 40-7).

EVANSTON, Ill., (AP) - Like any bona fide football buff, Paul Flatley keeps his eye on more than the ball carrier when he gets a chance to be a spectator.

Flatley spends his autumn Saturdays as a pass-catching flanker back on Northwestern's Big Ten Football team. On Sundays he can usually be found at Chicago's Wrigley Field watching the

Drum Majors Lead Band At Evanston

A football game isn't a football game without a marching band, and a marching band isn't complete without its drum majors.

Leading the MSU marching band this year are drum majors Paul Olin and Mike Fellabum.

Paul Olin has been with the band for two years. Previously, he was drum major and featured twirler at his hometown high school. For his 12 years of twirling experience, Paul is sporting 55 medals and 80 trophies.

He was Minnesota State Champion Twirler from 1952 through 1957, and Senior Boys National Champion in 1960. He won the Kenosha Wis. Twirling Round-up title in 1956 and the Chicago Band Music Festival title in 1958.

During the summer, Olin travels to college campuses and teaches high school students in twirling workshops. He is majoring in business administration.

Mike Fellabum, Vanadilla, Ohio, is the senior member of the twirling trio. He has four years of performance with State's marching band.

Fellabum has 13 years of twirling experience and also has been drum major of his hometown high school. He won the Ohio State Boys Championship for seven consecutive years and the Senior Boys National Championship in 1958, when he also won the Junior World Championship.

Fellabum spends his summers teaching twirling lessons and tutoring twirling contestants in a business education major.

Miss Hoover, Lansing sophomore, is spending his second year with the MSU marching band. He has 25 trophies and 35 medals to show for his years of competition, and has won the Michigan State championship and the Elkhart, Indiana contest.

He also placed second in the National Drum Major Contest. Hoover is a registered judge with the United States Twirling Association and also teaches twirling lessons and tutoring twirling contestants in a business education major.

There's a lot underneath the beauty of the '63 Chevrolet. Its rooky, comfortable body by Fisher screens out noise and shock. There's instant response in a choice of 6- or 8-cylinder engines, a host of refinements to make it run and look like new longer, and plenty more that make it hard to believe it's a low-priced car. But your Chevrolet dealer can prove it!

He also keeps a sharp eye peeled for the little guys. "Those players under 190 pounds or so," who are making good.

Although Flatley is six-foot-one, at 165 pounds he is a little guy by pro football standards.

This is what worries him because his future as a law student depends on it.

"I realize I'm not the biggest guy in the world, but I think I have a chance to make it with the pros," Flatley said. "I watch them just about every Sunday and I see other guys about my size who are going all right."

"I don't know which team I'll hook up with, if I get any offers at all, but wherever it is, I plan to go to law school in that city," he said.

Flatley is optimistic because he already has had a good hint of future pro offers. This came at last year's National Football League draft when the Cleveland Browns picked him in the mistaken belief that he was a senior.

"If they wanted me last year, it would figure that they'd want me this year, too," Flatley said.

Flatley doesn't devote all his time to thinking of his possible future as a pro player. Besides the daily practice grind and the Saturday afternoon games, the Northwestern senior carries a full scholastic workload.

He was named to the "All-American eleven" last year and thus far has maintained a 2.75 average on a 4-point scale, which comes out a B average.

As an all-Indiana halfback Richmond High School, Flatley selected Northwestern out of football scholarship offers because it "stood high scholastically and because Partridge is the coach."

"I like his style of football. It is dynamic and experimental," Flatley said.

Flatley lives at the Delta Psi fraternity house and spends most of his leisure time "Busman's Holiday" activities. He plays touch football, basketball and engages in a rock-and-roll bowling feud with his roommate, Don Jondolen of Richmond, N.J.

Tourney Pits Booters, Howard

State's tournament bound booter aggregation will stride into the limelight of big-time soccer Monday, when they host Howard University of Washington, D.C., in the opening quarter final round of the NCAA soccer tourney.

Coupled with basking in the limelight, however, is the mounting pressure of playing in a sudden-death tourney, when one loss means elimination. Looming over booter boss, Gene Kenney's thoughts will be both obstacles, as the Spartans will be making their debut in post-season play.

The vital tilt will start at 3:30 and be played on the soccer field south of Spartan stadium.

The eight-team field for the tournament has been completed except for one position.

Berths have already been clinched by Springfield of the New England area, Hartwick of New York State, Pittsburgh of New Jersey-Delaware-Pennsylvania, St. Louis of the Midwest, Standford of the Far West, besides the two "at-large" selections of State and Howard.

As yet undecided is the southern berth, where Miami of Florida and Maryland are the leading contenders.

Saturday games will pit Stanford at St. Louis and Hartwick at Springfield. On Monday State faces Howard and Pittsburgh will journey to the south to play the southern club.

Cross Country IC4A Champions to Defend Crown In New York

JOHN VAN GIESON
The State News

For the State's cross country express is the IC4A championship meet in New York's West Point Park Monday.

The Spartans, who got off to a slow start, are expected to be a full head of steam when they meet the Big Ten meet.

Defending champions, Michigan, will be Penn State, Villanova, and Cornell.

Michigan's season, which began in a five-mile race at the IC4A meet in October, will be at University Park, Oct. 22.

Penn State Captain, Howie Dgardorf, finished first in that meet. Last year he was 48th in the IC4A meet.

Other Lions who scored against State include Lionel Bassett, Dick Lampman and Colin Grant. Bassett was 26th in the IC4A last year, while sophomores Lampman and Grant were sixth and seventh in the 1961 freshmen race.

Perennial Eastern track power Villanova has two of the first ten men in last year's meet returning. Vic Zwolak was fifth last year, and Pat Traynor came in tenth.

Brightening the picture for the Wildcats is the presence of the first three finishers in last year's freshman race. They are Tom Sullivan, Dave Hyland and Marty Ferko, who finished in that order.

No matter which team takes the title, there will be a new individual champion this season. Last year Cornell sophomore Steve Machooka, from Kenya, triumphed with a time of 26:02.9. But this season he has been declared scholastically ineligible.

Runners competing for Machooka's crown, other than those on the Spartan, Nittany Lion and Wildcat squads, include Frank Carver of Notre Dame, James Tucker of Georgetown and John Geraghty of Manhattan.

Sophomores who would possibly break through are Joseph Lynch, Georgetown and Bill Clark, Notre Dame.

Spartan Coach Fran Dittrich plans nothing new for this meet. He said that his squad should be at its peak and, if they run up to the capabilities they showed in the Big Ten race, should win.

State has three men returning who scored in last fall's meet: Don Castle, 12th; Bob Fulcher, 15th; and Ron Berby 39th. Ron Humberger, usually a Spartan standout, had a bad day last year and finished 72nd.

Dittrich said that the IC4A has been something of a jinx for Humberger, but the coach added that he feels this is the year for the Spartan senior to break it.

State's sophomores, Jan Bowen and Mike Kaines, add to the team's balance and should hold their own against the best of the other soph running. Bowen with a third and Kaines with an eighth were instrumental in bringing the Spartans the Big Ten decision.

Rounding out the team is Curt Larson who had an off day in the conference meet but should be ready for this one.

Dittrich pointed out the 1962 championship squad is unique among Spartan barrier teams. All its members are Michigan natives. In fact, all come from within a 100 mile radius of East Lansing.

In the past barrier squads have always gone into the championship season with a number of out-of-staters and often foreign students on the team. Previous teams had runners from such diverse places as California, Canada and Australia.

Science Depends On Weights, Measures

There is no duller concept than the system of weights and measures, yet, all of science depends on it, Chauncey D. Leake, National Science Foundation Visiting Lecturer, told a group of students and faculty in the Nat. Sci. building Wednesday night.

Speaking on the topic, "Standards of Measurement and Nursery Rhymes," Leake, professor of pharmacology at the University of California Medical School, told a story of the evolution of weights and measures "not usually found in history books."

Recalling the system of linear and volume measurements used by the ancient Egyptians, especially by their physicians, Leake said that today we still use essentially the same standards of measurement that the Egyptians used about 5,000 years ago.

Turning to nursery rhymes in relation to weights and measures, Leake told an amused audience that the familiar Jack and Jill rhyme, for instance, is really nothing more than "a record of depreciation of standards in 17th century England."

It seems that Charles I of England was not only an absolute monarch but also a fast spender, when his treasury ran low, his advisers suggested that he levy a sales tax on it, item that people bought every day.

In this case, that item was a "quack" or pitcher of honey or liquor, or whatever else a Jack might contain. Since the English people were afraid to voice their disapproval directly, they sang little rhymes, much like the nursery rhymes today, Leake said.

A more recent example of depreciation of standards is our tax on a fifth of liquor, Leake said. Before prohibition the government levied a sales tax on a quart bottle. The same tax was retained after the repeal of prohibition, only now it applies to a fifth.

have prohibition repealed, they didn't even notice the standard depreciation," Leake said.

Throughout history traders have always wanted to maintain a great deal of confusion around weights and measures. In order to "buy long and sell short," Leake said.

"I suspect that it is no accident that the two greatest trading nations of the world, the United States and Great Britain, have opposed the metric system," he chuckled.

Leake said he believes that the problem of standardizing weights and measures might have had something to do with the cause of the French Revolution. The people of France were very dissatisfied with the irregular interpretation of weights and measures throughout the country, and one of the first acts of the revolutionary commission was to standardize weights and measures on the basis of the metric system.

Leake said that when the metric system was first established in 1805, Benjamin Franklin was in France and knew all about it, but he did not advocate its use in America.

Thomas Jefferson was also familiar with the system, but he also refused to endorse it in America. The reasons for this will probably remain a historical puzzle, Leake said.

Leake said that absolutes in measurement are nothing but ideals, and that agreement on a given standard is the only important thing in a workable system of measurement.

HOT CAT

MIAMI (AP) — Mrs. Sigma Roper started her car and switched on the air conditioner. But instead of cool air, she got the sound of a hot cat.

Mrs. Roper turned off the engine and looked under the hood. She found a cat, slightly the worse for wear, tangled in the fan belt.

Seniors of the Week Council Picks First 'Seniors of Week'

Senior Council has picked Pat Dumas, Midland senior and Bob Andringa, Wayland senior as "Seniors of the Week."

Senior Council recognizes seniors each week who have outstanding records of leadership and scholastic achievement.

Pat, a speech education major, and Bob, a marketing major, are both winners of the Outstanding Junior Award.

In spite of their numerous campus activities, each found time to devote to their studies. Pat has a 3.5 and Bob a 3.4 all-university point average.

Maintaining above a 3.0 since their freshman year, both have qualified for several honoraries.

Pat has been a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, president of Tower Guard, Phi Kappa Phi, and is presently a member of Mortar Board. Bob was selected for Blue Key, Scabbard and Blade, Excelsior and Omicron Delta Kappa.

Holiday Fashion Show Scheduled

Gun, Fire, Accident Keep Police Busy

Careless use of firearms, a fire and a classroom accident kept East Lansing police busy Wednesday.

A railroad brakeman was almost struck by a bullet fired from a gun by James Dixon Rooks, 1435 A. Sparan Village, late last week.

Arrested for careless use of firearms by University police, Rooks stated that he had fired at a bird and that the railroad train just happened to be passing in line with his field of fire.

Rooks pleaded guilty to a charge of careless use of fire arms.

He appeared in Lansing Township Justice Court Wednesday, and was fined $35, $4.50 court costs, $10 county costs and placed on six months probation by Justice George Hutter.

Reports of a fire in 911 Cherry Lane brought East Lansing firemen to the scene Wednesday afternoon, but the firefighters could find no fire.

Fire safety officer, Brian Langley, discovered the answer to the questionable alarm, however, when he located a smoky incinerator fire in 917 Cherry Lane.

Beal House Elects New Officers

Duane Stout, Stanwood sophomore was elected president of Beal House, a men's cooperative, Monday night.

phoric conditions that caused the smoke from the incinerator at 917 to settle in the area behind 911.

No damage was caused to either living unit.

A woodworking class student lost the tips of two fingers during class Wednesday, when the safety block on a jointer he was using slipped.

Stephen Chizmar, 214 Charles, evening college student, was working with a small piece of wood on the machine, when the safety device gave way and his fingers slipped into the jointer.

The right index and middle finger of his hand were mangled to the first joint, and the right thumb severely lacerated.

Professor Ashley Wiley, instructor of the class, attributed the accident to the fact that Chizmar was working on too small a piece of wood for the machine.

University police transported Chizmar to Sparrow hospital where he received treatment.

Calendar of Coming Events

Union Board Open House To Feature Music Groups

The second annual Union Board musical open house will be highlighted by the Bamboushly Steel Band, which uses specially-treated 33-gallon oil drums, tonight at 7:30 on the second floor Union.

One of the main instruments of the West Indies, the oil drums became popular in Trinidad after World War II.

Hal Smith and his dixie-band will begin the musical evening, Nap Dunn, Birmingham sophomore, will follow Dunn specialties in folk singing and playing.

Ron Gibbs, Elmira, N.Y., junior, will lead his combo through several jazz selections. Gibbs will be joined by singer Carl Sande, Syracuse, N.Y., senior.

The NSU Folk Music Society will also perform. No admission will be charged for the open house.

Following the open house will be an informal dance at 10 p.m. in the parlors. Admission for dance will be 25 cents a person.

Library Expansion Of Books, Usage Brings Many Problems

By JANET WELLMAN
Of The State News

180,000 books have been added to the University Library in the past three years, according to Richard E. Chapin, director of libraries.

This year another 80,000 books will be purchased, showing a startling growth. This growth is bringing problems however.

"The real problem is that everything that has happened to the University in the past three years indicates more library use," said Chapin.

"We have more students and they are better students than we used to have. This means they use the library more.

Chapin said other problems were due to the great increase in the graduate enrollment.

"All of a sudden Michigan State has become one of the biggest graduate schools in the country. The graduate student wants different books and different use of them than the undergraduate student. This results in conflicts between graduates and undergraduates."

The increase in research grants awarded to the University also means more library use.

Actual physical space is another problem confronting the library. The building has a seating capacity of 2,000, less than one-tenth of the student body. When the library is 80 per cent full it becomes almost impossible to find a seat.

"We are caught in a squeeze," Chapin said. "We need more books and we need more seats. We order new stacks every year for our new books. This means that some seats go out. As the library grows, seating decreases."

Every week the library circulates 15,000 books and 40,000 students use the building. In addition, the library estimates that there are two room uses of a book for every circulation.

Assigned reading materials are another big problem for the library staff.

"Faculty members often don't get lists in on time," Chapin said. "In the quarter system we must have full faculty co-operation. Faculty members often don't know what courses they will be teaching or the size of their classes. We do everything we can to get books for assigned reading. We order them by air mail to get them here on time."

"The purpose of the library is to serve the students and faculty of the University. The rules and regulations are only to further that purpose. The fines, for instance, are used to get the books back for others."

Thefts are a constant problem for the library.

"It's not just our library," Chapin said. "This is a problem all over the country. The turnstile system has cut down thefts but it's not perfect. We don't know how many books are stolen or defaced a year because it is impossible to do a complete inventory.

"I don't understand why people tear our pages when we have the copying machine. The service is heavily subsidized by the library and we make 150,000 copies a year," he said.

The open stack system used by the library is unusual for a library of its size.

"The system is both good and bad," Chapin said. "Probably more books are lost off the open shelves, but the books are also more available for use by the student. The graduate students would prefer closed stacks. For the undergraduate, however, the books must be available."

"We plan to build a graduate research library somewhere near this library. This building would then be turned into an undergraduate library of somewhere around 50,000 volumes with five to ten copies of each book."

Food Manager Outlines Menu Problems

Other area in which problems arise because of individual preference.

"We try to hit a happy medium in our cooking here," Schmidt said that one of the problems his staff is working on now is eliminating food waste. He said that this is partly accomplished by limiting the choice on a wide selection of items such as salads and desserts.

"Portions are served in amounts that provide adequate nutrition and will satisfy the student's," he said. "However, a student who has a larger capacity than his fellows is free to come back for more on selected items."

"Many times a student rushes back from class to the meal line and takes all that he is offered," Schmidt said. "He gets out into the dining room and before he's through, finds that he can't finish everything so he leaves it."

Schmidt explained that the amount prepared of one particular item is determined strictly by the amount consumed by the students the last time the item was served.

He said his assistants try to offer a variety of foods to satisfy the tastes of all students.

Committee Hearings Continues

The faculty-student speaker committee continued hearings Wednesday afternoon with student organizations.

The Young Republicans questioned the future role of the committee. Fletcher Monning, Ionia Junior said, "The purpose of the Young Republicans' hearing with the committee was to determine whether or not the committee was restricting, to any degree, freedom of speech."

He said the committee told him that they did not have the power to disapprove of a speaker. They have only the power to approve. He said they stated that they sought to inform the University.

Eldon Nonnamaker, chairman of the committee said that the recommendations made by the speaker committee Monday would need approval of the Academic Council and various other administrative bodies before their adoption as a University policy.

He said the committee would remain in existence until the University policy on speakers is changed.

According to Joy Sokolitus, Philadelphia Junior and a Young Republican, the committee told her that if a speaker is allowed to speak anywhere else in Michigan he should be allowed to speak on campus. It doesn't matter which side of Grand River he speaks on.

The purpose of the proposed Forum Committee would be to inform the University Administration so they would know who was speaking on campus and also to identify speakers properly," said Miss Sokolitus.

She said the speaker committee told her that they had no desire to disapprove of any speaker.

Ferris Sends 8 To Visit Pan Hel

Ferris Institute sent an eight-woman delegation to observe an MSU Panhellenic Council meeting Wednesday night at the invitation of Miss Mabel Peterson, MSU Panhel faculty adviser.

Miss Peterson said the Ferris delegation hoped to "obtain new ideas from the active Panhel Council here."

The rapid expansion of Ferris during the past two years necessitated a change in Greek housing policies there, Miss Nancy Donoh, Ferris adviser, said.

J D's Hear Pope's Plea

ROME (AP) - Pope John XXIII tearfully appealed Monday to the young inmates of a Rome reformatory to look to the future - one he brightened with a special Sunday dinner and gifts of cash.

"If you want to succeed," the Pope told 240 juvenile delinquents, "you must also know how to obey."

Forget the past and present, and have confidence in the Lord, he said during a visit to 200-year-old Cabelli Institute in a back section of Rome near the Tiber.

The boys had gone all out to prepare for the Pope, scrubbing floors, painting walls, and improving a throne—a gilded arm chair placed on a carpet.

Pope John paid for a Sunday dinner—complete with cake and wine. It was served after he left. He also gave an unspecified amount of money for every boy, suggesting they could buy shoes or whatever they wanted.

Mormon Beliefs To Be Aired

Discussing "What the Mormons Believe" in the third public lecture-discussion Sunday will be Martin T. Pond, doctoral candidate at MSU in agricultural economics. He is presently a counselor to Bishop Pearson of the local Mormon Church.

Pond will explain that the Book of Mormon is a religious record of a remnant of the house of Israel, which left Jerusalem around 600 B.C. and came to South America. These people are the ancestors of the American Indians. He will also explain that the Mormons believe the Book of Mormon is the word of God and a record witness to the divinity of Jesus Christ. How the record came into existence will also be discussed.

The series is held in Room 33 of the Union at 8 p.m. and is sponsored by the Deseret Club.

WARRENSVILLE BRIGHTS, Ohio (AP) - Aldersgate Methodist Church has opened a storefront "outpost" in Cleveland as a bridge between the suburbs and downtown.

Faith on Campus

By Linda Miller

The Bible as an essential for worship and theology is a conviction commonly shared by many of us. We often turn to the Scriptures for an understanding of our calling and destiny within the perspective of God's historical purpose.

Continuing our search for faith on campus, we must come in contact with the Bible, even if we later decide to reject its significance in our lives. As the church determines the meanings of faith, its theology is basically Biblical.

How do we interpret the Bible today? Because its anchorage is in the past, how can the sacred history pertain to our contemporary lives? In the light of scientific progress, does the Bible hold truths relevant to our own search for meaning?

To understand the meaning originally intended by Biblical writers of the time, we need to employ a most careful critical procedure. We must open the Bible so it speaks its original.

It is vital to remember that the Bible is not man's ideas about God, but God's ideas about man. This is difficult to comprehend, when we know that the Scriptures were composed by human beings.

The Bible does not focus primarily on man's values, but on the gracious and redemptive activity of God. We can come closer to realizing this if we think in terms of the Holy Spirit.

Mediated historically through the church, the Word of God is an inward testimony of the Holy Spirit. It illuminates the mind of man and convinces his heart that God speaks to him and acts for him.

"We may question the Bible as being the 'word of God.' This means that the Scriptures are a living communication of Himself to us. If we read the Bible with open eyes, we can see that because it relates this, it is the word of God.

There are many methods of interpreting the Bible employed today—literally, allegorically and doctrinally. Is any certain way the best?

Fundamentalists believe that the Bible is literally the word of God. God's revelation is given in actual sentences that a writer has merely transcribed. Objectively, it is His direct word to us. But this is a difficult view to maintain when we study history.

Modernists extract only the timeless context of the Bible, rejecting everything else. They place it in a new framework of scientific thought. Although this view opposes that of the fundamentalists, it is just as detrimental to a clear understanding of the Bible.

We need to look subjectively for the truth in the Bible. It is found in our whole approach to the recognition of God in our lives.

But we are perplexed by the historical character of the Bible. We know that it is a written witness of the revelation of God to the people of Israel. Does it refer to people of today?

The Bible must be accepted in its historical context as relevant to us today, for this is the way God makes Himself known through events toward the fulfillment of His purpose. The Biblical writers interpreted these events as the action of God.

In studying the Bible, we cannot hope to apply it significantly to our life goals if we do not accept it as a contemporary medium through which God reveals Himself to man.

Now then, do we dismiss the doubts posed by scientific discoveries? Is the Bible meaningful to our advanced existence? If we can convince ourselves that the Bible is a means of communication between God and men of any time, then science is not really relevant to its main point.

Even if the Bible were completely true in a scientific analysis, it could still fail to confront us with God. The Bible is personal, written in terms that people of any culture can understand.

At some time in our lives, we all must defend or challenge the soundness of the Bible. But this is unfair, because it was not written to bolster or deny arguments, but to serve as a means of revelation.

And, remember . . . "Many have quarreled about the Bible that have never opened it."

Sabbath To Be Safety Day

Traffic Safety Sabbath will be observed this weekend in Michigan.

This annual inter-faith safety program, developed by a state-wide committee of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergy, is intended to focus attention on the moral responsibility of the individual driver.

According to James M. Hare, Chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, the two-day observance was adopted to make it possible for those who observe Sabbath on Saturday to join in calling attention to the moral implications of observing traffic rules.

"Sponsors of the Traffic Safety Sabbath crusade believe that an understanding of the moral responsibility of drivers is needed as much as or more than comprehension of the legal or technical responsibilities," Hare said.

When times were hard, Jabez had become discouraged and, in a fit of temper, said he would sell his soul to the Devil. Mr. Scratch (the Devil) appeared and Jabez made a deal with him and immediately began to prosper.

Ten years later, on Jabez's wedding day, Mr. Scratch comes to collect. Mr. Scratch intercedes for Jabez, and it is an exciting battle of wits between Mr. Webster and Mr. Scratch when they argue for a man's soul.

This production presents the situation of Daniel Webster, great American statesman and lawyer, who attends the wedding of Mary and Jabez Stone and finds himself defending Jabez against the Devil.

Lutherans Chose New Minister

Rev. Walter R. Wietzke will become pastor of University Lutheran Church on December 2, the East Lansing congregation announces.

Presently the pastor of St. James Lutheran Church in Detroit, the Rev. Mr. Wietzke will succeed Rev. Donald W. Herb and the Rev. Charles T. Klinkstick.

Pastor Klinkstick will head the Clinton Heights Lutheran Church in Columbus, Ohio. Pastor Herb was called to Chapel Hill, North Carolina, to become a regional secretary for the Division of College and University Work of the National Lutheran Council.

The Rev. Mr. Wietzke, 40, served as president of the American Lutheran Pastors Association in Detroit and Chicago and the Southern Michigan Conference of the American Lutheran Church.

He is also engaged in writing church educational material and will be one of the translators of the forthcoming book, "Karl Holl's Collected Essays."

A special music program featuring vocal and instrumental student talent will be presented by the Baptist Student Foundation at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

WHAT THEN ARE WE TO DO?
This question is asked every Sunday in the worship service of Central Methodist Church, Lansing, in fact, "What Then Are We To Do?" Sheets are prepared for every sermon. The minister offers five or six suggestions for study and application during the week. Approximately half the congregation takes a sheet home.

If you wish to worship where persons desire to "Apply Christianity," we invite you to worship with us next Sunday.
