88th Congress Opens; JFK Scores Victory

Rules Committee Remains At 15; Shatter's Conservative Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 88th Congress opened for business today with a sudden death to conservative member's hopes of retaining control of the key House committee.

The victory for President Kennedy had been expected, but a size of his margin was a surprise. On the decisive vote to open the House, his supporters won by a 366-186 vote.

The very kept the size of the House Committee at 15 members. Kennedy's forces had failed, however, to reduce the number of members to 12.

Remains in a coalition of conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats opposed to major parts of Kennedy's legislative program.

The committee, which controls the flow of most legislation to the Senate.

Kennedy was described as "most gratified" by the outcome.

While the House opened its new session with a vital and decisive battle, the Senate contented itself with a ceremonial goodwill, and a postponement of real business until after Kennedy delivers his State-of-the-Union address to Congress Monday.

The familiar new faces in the Senate included Edward M. Kennedy, (D.Mass.), the President's.

When Do We Stop?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress had barely opened a new session Wednesday when one of its members started worrying about when it is going to stop.

Among the first bills introduced in the new session was one by Rep. Thomas B. Lucas, R-Mo., calling for a halt to the process of government expansion.

Under the terms of this coalition unit two years ago. Then the late Sen. Sam Rayburn, eked out the 217-215 vote victory that increased the size of the committee from 12 to 15 members.

With the help of Georgia Democrats and some new Republicans, Kennedy increased that 5-5 margin to 39 votes Wednesday—a boost that may buoy up hopes for another sitting through Congress this year.

Empire State Blaze Blamed On Cigarette

NEW YORK (AP)—A smoldering pipe which rose to the 85th floor of the building.

The fire apparently smoldered for hours, silently eating its way up the shaft, growing in intensity and sending off unheeded wisps of warning smoke.

Surprisingly, superb protective facilities within the 1,472 foot building, in the words of fire officials, made the fire-fighting "much easier than would ordinarily be supposed by the public."

Damage to the 31-year-old skyscraper, queen of the New York skyline, was minor compared to that of July 28, 1945, when an Army bomber crashed into the 79th floor and exploded. Thirteen persons died in that unique disaster.

U.N. Gets Tough

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. announced last night instructions have been given to the U.N. force in the Congo to put Katanga President Moïse Tshombe under house arrest.

The announcement was made by a spokesman for Secretary-General U. Thant.

It said the only way Tshombe can prove his good faith is to permit peaceful entry of the U.N. force into Katanga.

He said that unless such proof is given "there can be no more question of contact with Mr. Tshombe on other matters."

Court OK's 'White Collar' Ship Unloading

STREIT

NEW YORK—A state supreme court justice Wednesday upheld the right of supervisory employees to load ships during the current strike and court action.

Justice Streit ruled that the delay of the walkout, the ruling by Justice Streit was a setback to the striking International Longshoremen's Association (ILA). The ILA had sought a restraining order to prevent the bi-state waterfront commission from allowing the New York Shipping Association and eight steamship companies from using office help, pier superintendents and other supervisory employees from loading outgoing vessels.

Hopes Brighten in News Paper Strike

NEW YORK—Federal mediators suddenly and surprisingly revived peace talks Wednesday in New York's 33-day newspaper blackout. Both sides were summoned to night negotiations. "The service has decided that it would be useful to have a joint meeting," said mediator Stephen Schlossberg, without further explanation. Peace talks were broken off indefinitely Jan. 3 after the Federal Mediation Service despaired of any progress in a strike of 3,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union that led to the closing Dec. 8 of New York's nine major newspapers.

Castro Receives Another Prisoner Payment

MIAMI—Fidel Castro received another payment Wednesday on the $53 million promised him for release of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners—$290,000 worth of drugs, medical supplies and dental equipment. A Pan American Airways DC6B carried the 15,600-pound cargo to Havana under charter to the American Red Cross. A second airlift of medical cargo is scheduled Friday, Red Cross officials said. The flights presumably are being made to keep a supply of goods flowing to Cuba until a second large steamship load can be delivered. The freighter Shirley Lykes, made available to the Red Cross by the committee of American Steamship Lines, is expected to begin taking on a 6,000-ton cargo in Baltimore this weekend.

Nasser Launches Aswan Dam Project

ASWAN, U.A.R.—A signal from President Gamal Abdel Nasser launched the start of work Wednesday on the main body of the Aswan High Dam, an official of the Soviet Union, which is helping build the dam, stood at Nasser's side. At Nasser's signal, 200,000 tons of granite into the river bed, marking the start of the next stage of the project. "This high dam symbolizes the decisive stage of our nation's struggle against internal corruption and foreign domination," Nasser told a crowd of thousands later. "Had we not drove the British out of Egypt in 1956, we could never have been able to start building this dam."

NSA To Clarify Its Activities

National Head Plans Visit To Dispel Student Fear Of Organization's Policies

National Student Association head Dennis Shaub is coming to MSU Tuesday to attempt to dispel some student organization fear of NSA policies.

The Conservative club and several other student organizations have petitioned All University Student Government to leave the college's federation.

They are opposed to NSA's liberal policies.

They also contend that AUSG is wasting student money by sending representatives to NSA regional conferences and by paying membership dues in the organization.

Yearly membership in NSA costs $260. MSU sends eight representatives to NSA regional conferences and gives them $110 each for expenses.

AUSG president Jim Barnes replied to NSA opposition. He said that much of the association's activity is behind the scenes.

NSA actively campaigns for higher teacher pay, better university salaries, and support of federal aid to education.

"Those opposing NSA do not see the results of its activity and therefore, they oppose it," said Barnes.

Shaub plans to meet with AUSG members and explain how MSU can receive more benefit from NSA activities.

He hopes to improve relations between the university and NSA and wants to initiate a civil rights commission here. It would be similar to those of several eastern universities.

To assume the presidency of NSA, Shaub has taken a year off from his law study at Harvard.

Hannak Keynotes Plan To Speak On Future Direction

Fuzak Notes Import Of Special Address

Police Abuse Claimed In Southern Arrest

WILLIAM COMBS

Prominent campus figures agreed Wednesday that President John A. Hannak's first "State of the University" address Monday night will be of great significance to the future of MSU.

The address will be delivered at a convocation of faculty members and their wives, leaders of student organizations, and officials of nearby communities.

Dean of students John A. Fuzak said: "In view of the tremendous growth of the University, it can be assumed that President Hannak's speech will have significant bearing on the direction MSU will take during the coming years."

Paul Varg, dean of the College of Arts and Letters, said MSU faces "a kind of crisis in terms of its ever-growing enrollment."

Varg pointed out that there is a "tremendous demand for enrollment."

"MSU and all state universities will have to accept an increasing number of students," Varg said. "We have to be sure that our academic and teaching standards aren't lowered as a result of increasing enrollment."

Varg said Hannak's address would undoubtedly be of serious concern in light of the University's rapid growth.

Dean Edward Carlin of the University College agreed that the address would be significant. He said President Hannak had spoken of the address "very seriously" to the Council of Deans.

Hannak said he had spent over two weeks in preparing the address.

Students Consider Charges

Police Abuse Claimed In Southern Arrest

The two claimed they were treated abusively after their arrest Dec. 27 at Clarksdale. Donaldson said they were forced to stand in the middle of a cell, not permitted to talk, and were not fed during the first day of their 11 days in jail.

He and Taylor also asserted that police arrested them before they searched their truck and did not search it for 24 hours after they were picked up.

The truck and supplies, collected in Louisville, were returned to the pair Tuesday, but about a fourth of the food was missing, Taylor said. He claimed that all had been doused over much of the clothing.

"It looked like a couple of vandals had gotten into the truck and had a good old time," he said.

The youths were released Monday under $1,500 bond each.

A Coahoma county grand jury which meets next week is expected to consider the charges against them.

The pair said they would attend a rally at Clarksdale Jan. 16, and would make another trip to Mississippi if their attorneys decided to press charges against Clarksdale police Chief Ben Collins and other officers.

Taylor and Donaldson were arrested as they slept in their truck which was parked in front of a drugstore owned by Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Police claimed they discovered barbiturates among the supplies. Dr. Marshall King, a Louisville veterinarian, and Dr. Doxie Green, a Louisville physician, have forwarded affidavits to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights which deny that the medical supplies they collected for the drive contained barbiturates.

The Louisville Dispatch, a Negro newspaper, announced it would conduct another drive for food, clothing and money to be sent into the Clarksdale area, and Taylor and Donaldson said they would carry food with them to Clarksdale next week.

Initial Faculty Confab

Convocation Replaces Winter Assembly

President John A. Hannak's "State of the University" message Monday night will culminate plans laid more than a year ago with the adoption of new faculty bylaws.

The annual faculty convocation was devised to bring the faculty up to date on important events, according to William H. Combs, dean of university services and faculty secretary.

The convocation will replace the winter term assembly of the Faculty Senate, which will continue to meet fall and spring terms.

The assembly didn't prove to be as successful as we thought it might," Combs said. He noted that the organization, composed of 1,000 to 1,100 members, was "large and unwieldy."

"Because of the hour and the nature of their work, many people didn't attend," Combs said. "Of course, the faculty can still be called anytime if emergency problems arise."

The 59 member Academic Council now makes many of the decisions which formerly fell on the Senate, Combs said.

Council members include the president, vice president

Waldron Accuses Walton

Claims by party members that the 1963 Legislative session would be one of cooperation were shattered less than five minutes after the House was called to order for Michigan's 72nd Legislature.

Norman E. Philleo, House clerk, had called for the swearing in of the new legislators, when Robert E. Waldron, Grosse Pointe, Republican, and party floor leader, moved that the oath of office not be administered to Leonard S. Walton, Detroit Democrat.

Walton moved that the Democratic representative not be seated until further investigation can be made on claims that the word "re-elect" on Walton's campaign literature, was a misrepresentation.

Walton is accused of violating an election law that has a direct bearing on the election and because of this, he should not be seated until further investigations can be made, Waldron said. The Legislature should wait until the investigation is concluded on January 24, he said.

The situation seemed defused, when the Democrats called for a 30 minute recess to enable party leaders to confer. A formal vote to re-seat Walton with the Democrats voting for and the Republicans against. Floor leader Waldron then said that a recess would be acceptable to the Republicans.

Walton cited a 1959 Legislative Act which stated that any candidate who advertizes or uses incumbent, re-elect, or

State Dems Draft New Floor Leader

Floor Leader Claims Literature Falsified

LANSING — State Senate Democrats today drafted a new minority floor leader. He is Charles S. Blundy of Detroit.

The senior Democrat in the Senate deposed last year's floor leader, Raymond Dzendzel, by a 5-5 vote. Dzendzel also from Detroit. Dzendzel took over last year when Harold M. Ryan of Detroit was elected to Congress.

Blundy is serving his 11th term in the Senate and was minority leader in the 1953-54 sessions. Dzendzel's ouster has been rumored for several weeks. It is considered by most members to be the result of a personality squabble with Stanley Novak and Basil Brown of Detroit and Philip Rahol of Iron Mountain.

The Democrats also named Rahol as assistant floor leader. He is serving his sixth term and held the job last year. Also supporting Blundy and Rahol in the caucus vote were Charles Youngblood and Stanley Rozycki.

Blundy says he was surprised by the vote. He said he would like to see his life count for something."

Mom's Plea Frees Death Car Driver

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—A motorist who killed a college student in a traffic accident won leniency in court Wednesday in keeping with the wishes of the victim's mother.

The ruling came in a probation hearing for Theodore Garcia, 21, of Milan in Rock Island County Court.

Garcia ignored a red signal light while driving his wife to a hospital Nov. 15. A collision occurred and it brought death to Kenneth R. Smith, 28, of East Moline, a Black Hawk College student.

Book Conflicts With History

A conflict with "The Michigan Poor Law," a book on the history of social welfare in Michigan has been revealed.

The book refers to Michigan when the British flag still flew over the Indians and the French. There were no active welfare programs at the time.

"The first organized effort to care for the afflicted came about 135 years after the settling of Detroit, and this was not tax supported," Lyons explained that it wasn't until 1828 that the law was passed.

Richard Lyons, author of the book, said it was understood by those who lived on the river banks of the village of Detroit. "Another generation passed before a poor house was erected," according to Lyons.

Tachometer Thief Nets $65 Device In Auto Break-In

A thief caused an estimated $125 worth of damage to a 1962 convertible while stealing a $65 tachometer from the car, according to campus police.

The damage and theft were discovered about 8:30 Tuesday evening when James L. Dingwall, III, an Owosso resident, returned to his car in the parking area behind Wells Hall.

The thief cut through the convertible top of the car to release the lock after which he removed the tachometer.

Poet Plans Appearances In Detroit

A.J.M. Smith, Michigan State poet in residence, will deliver several lectures and participate in a panel discussion in Detroit next week.

Monday Smith will lecture on the topic, "The Nature of Comic Poetry," at the Dearborn center of the University of Michigan.

Later he will join Pulitzer Prize-winning poet W.D. Snodgrass, and Robert Peters, both of Wayne State University, to discuss "What Does Modern Poetry Mean?" The program will be presented at the Detroit Public Library.

Tuesday Smith will lecture on "Aspects of Wit and Humor in Poetry" at the University of Detroit.

Smith is a professor in the department of English. His recent publications include "Collected Poems," published in 1962 by the Oxford University Press, and "The Oxford Book of Canadian Verse," published in 1960.

Cleveland Fires Coach Brown

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Paul Brown, former coach and manager of the Cleveland Browns, will no longer serve the team in those capacities.

Club President Arthur B. Modell announced "Paul E. Brown, head coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns, will no longer serve the team in those capacities."

"Brown will remain as a vice president of the Browns and will assume other duties," Modell said. "He will finish out the balance of his six-year contract with the same compensation and will continue to be a stockholder."

Modell made the announcement at a news conference on Wednesday.

The action brings to at least a temporary end one of the most colorful coaching careers in pro history. Brown was head coach of the Browns since they first started operation in the old All-American Conference in 1946. For four years, his team ruled that circuit, winning 52 games and losing only four.

When the All-American Conference folded, Brown and the Browns moved into the National Football League and won six straight Eastern division titles. However, the past season was one of the team's poorest.

BOB DOYLE (51)

The Spartans were edged by Colorado College in a wild third period to fall to sixth in the league.

State almost pulled it out by scoring twice in the last minute of play, but Art Berglund's shot into the open net with 40 seconds remaining proved to be the winner.

After the Spartans had blown a 3-2 lead at the end of two periods, Doyle teamed with Art Thomas and Captain Dick Johnson to spark a last-ditch Green flurry.

CC tallied three times in a little over two minutes midway through the final period to lead 5-3 at 8:24.

Doyle's second score made it 5-4 at 8:43. But Tiger Warren scored on a breakaway to again put State down by two.

Doyle got his third from close in at 10:02, but this was offset by John Simon's solo effort.

Thomas made it 7-0 with a minute to go and MSU pulled goalie John Chandra in favor of the extra forward, Berglund, that hit the open cage to tally Johnston's tally with four seconds to go.

Chandra was busy in the net as he has been throughout the trip—making 41 saves.

Injuries Hurt Squad Matters On Road

Ask Michigan State wrestling coach, Coach Patterson why couldn't you win. He'll be glad to tell you.

State's wrestlers, just that most competitive Friday afternoon at Purdue. The Spartans slipped Purdue last weekend in a quadrangular meet. But this weekend three State wrestlers will be watching instead of wrestling.

Tom McElroy, 157-pounder, has a knee operation and will be out for the rest of the year. Bill Sims, an exceptional 150-pound sophomore prospect is out for the year with a severe muscle injury. Bob Kocourek, 177-pounder, is sidelined indefinitely with a strained knee ligament.

Patterson will look another year of eligibility for them and McElroy.

"This really hurt us," admits Patterson. "Especially losing McElroy. He was fourth in the Big Ten last season in a quadrangular. These losses are really hurting. They were really surprising and really unexpected."

But the ever-going coach managed a smile when he began talking about Joe Guin, a sophomore from Dawson.

"Joe is probably the most improved boy in the team," Patterson says.

Guin won an Intersquad match

Wednesday to determine who will replace McElroy, and will travel to Purdue as first man in the 157-pound class.

YOUNG MAN AND THE SEA
INDIAN ROCKS BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A George Winson goes through life with an ardently toward pleasure boatmen. We understand.

The 17-year-old lanky boy, tubing from a boat into the water, looks like one recent fight, hooked into a big fish, probably a great grouper.

The fish returned to him, George fought him through the night. Only a Bahamas brought him coffee, the fight came, and with the fight continued. It went on through the morning.

A few minutes past noon, a pleasure boat came along, the operator oblivious to the fighting duel. Spectators on the pier yelled and waved their arms, but the boatmen ignored them.

The boat's motor stalled, and the fish began to jump. He hit his fish after battling it for 11 1/2 hours.

State Back With Old Gang
BALTIMORE (UPI)—Doc Shula, the 55-year-old defensive backfield specialist named to succeed Wash Edmark as head coach of the Baltimore Colts, faces at least one potential psychological hurdle in his new job.

The man who coached the Detroit Lions' defensive backfield before being elevated to his first head-coaching job by Colt owner Carroll Rosenbloom Tuesday will be joining a club that still has 11 players who were his teammates when he played with the Colts from 1953 to 1957.

The question, cropped up in Baltimore earlier this week when Shula was reported the likely successor, "How will these veterans accept taking orders from a former teammate, one who was on the field while many of them remained with the club?"

The answer, of course, remains to be seen. Nonetheless, this could be a source of friction in a sport known for trading nerves.

Detroit Gamblers Traced To Miami

Typed off by Detroit police, Miami police observed the actions of four Detroit gamblers at Sunland's Detroit Lions training camp.

The gamblers were identified as Vito (Billy Jack) Giacalone, Mike (The Engineer) Rubino, Anthony Zerilli and Anthony J. Corrado.

Detroit Police Commissioner Edwards said that Giacalone "continuously sought association with some Lion players."

Detroit police notified Miami police on January 2, that three of the four were flying to Miami. The Miami police traced the trio from the Miami airport to a motel. All three of the men registered under false names.

They told the hotel clerk that they would be staying until January 12. When the trio showed up at the Sunland camp, the officers, who described the three as "unemotional spectators."

Detroit Lion's president William Clay says he is convinced all the players are in the clear though some may have used "poor judgment" in associating with gamblers.

League Commissioner Paul Roubelle says four Lion's with questionnaires. All-Pro tackle Jim Linder, linebacker Wayne Macker and offensive lineman Jack Gandy.

Pete Retzlaff, the NFL Player's Association president, says he doesn't believe any player guilty of shoving politics. He says, however, he would "arrange" certain players if necessary.

BRINGING HOME THE SALMON
NEAH BAY, Wash. (UPI)—Hooknose salmon still last good, even if caught in the middle of the highway.

Mrs. Bernabel Mayes and Max Lyle Dupree, wives of servicemen stationed at the 70th Bomb Squadron at the Naval Air Station, were on their way home from a fishing trip in a single-deck water over a road near the mouth of the Neah River, after a high tide and heavy rain.

They stopped their car and killed it with a club.

The 14-pound fish made good dinner for both families.

SCIENTISTS, ENGINEERS—GIVE YOUR FUTURE A FINAL EXAM

Put AC to the test, and you'll come up with the right answer to your future. AC Spark Plug, the Electronic's Division of General Motors, is one of the leaders in the field of design, development and production of inertial guidance and navigation systems. Current projects include the APOLLO Navigation-Guidance System, TITAN I and THOR Inertial Guidance Systems, B-52 (C&D) Bombing Navigation System, POLARIS gyros and accelerometers.

Challenging projects are available in Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Boston for MS and PhD candidates with graduate navigation titles.

Milwaukee—Recent technical graduates joining AC are offered a 32-week Career Acceleration Program which moves them rapidly into an actively productive position. The two-phase program consists of:

PHASE I... Eight weeks of formal engineering classes in the areas of: Servo-Mechanisms • Semi-Conductor Technology • Theory of Inertial Guidance • Related Inertial Navigation Topics.

PHASE II... 24 weeks of on-the-job training in three technical areas: Engineering • Reliability • Operations. Following this training period you will be reassigned to an open position in the Electronics Division of General Motors.

CONTACT your College Placement Officer regarding a General Motors-AC campus interview, and send for the informative brochure. "At AC, Navigation is Our Business."

Luckless Cagers Meet Wisconsin

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Of The State News

"It is probable we will start Williams, if he shows he is ready in practice," Coach Ferdie Anderson said. The Spartan coach is counting on the 6-foot-7 player to lead...

hoping that Williams can help to tighten up the Spartan defense. If Anderson decides not to start Williams he said that he will go with his "small" lineup of Bill Barry, Pete Grant, Marvin...

Sanders, Jack Lamers and Bill Schwalt. Spartan junior Ron Divjak, who figured to fill in at the center will not make the Wisconsin trip.

Wisconsin's tall front line may force the Spartans to counter with either Williams or 6-9 Fred Thomann; if he does go with the "small" lineup.

The outstanding performer on the Badger front line is 6-8 center Jack Brens who has an 18.2 average. Also in double figures are forwards Ken Siebel at 17.2 and Tom Gwyn at 10.8.

Backcourtmen Don Hearden and Jim Bohan round out the starting five. They help make Wisconsin, "probably the fastest team we'll meet", in the words of Anderson. They can also score as Hearden's 29 points in last year's upset of Ohio State testify.

Reserves who are likely to see action against the Spartans are Mike O'Moalia, Bob Johnson and Lonnie Ostrom. The Badgers won their Big Ten opener, 74-66, over Purdue to bring their record for the season to 7-3. Last year State dropped a pair to Wisconsin. The Badgers won 83-78 at East Lansing and 77-72 at Madison.

Intramural News

Another surprise entry sophomore Bill Buntin of Michigan, is third with 252 points. However, he leads in field goals with 104 to Bradd's 100. Rayl is tops in free throws with 83.

All three men have played in 11 games which gives them per game averages of 24.9 for Bradd's, 24.8 for Rayl and 23.8 for Buntin.

MSU's duo of Marcus Sanders and Pete Gent hold down ninth and tenth spots respectively. Sanders has 175 points for a 17.5 average, and Gent has 173 points for a 17.3 average. These figures include the three games the Spartans played in Hawaii over Christmas vacation.

One other conference netter has a better than 20 point average. The 18 "Eric" Maganz of Minnesota who has scored 229 points for a 20.8 average.

The deadline for all basketball and volley ball rosters due in the Men's IM office is Friday at noon. All managers should take note, since the regular play starts next week.

The hockey deadline is a week away and all teams are urged to turn rosters in early. Because of limited ice time, there will be 20 teams. The first to submit rosters in will be accepted.

There will be an open basketball league for faculty, staff and students if a sufficient number of teams enter. The program will be held in the gymnasium of the department. Faculty or staff members interested in entering a team should contact the IM office.

Ski Lifts
CONCORD, N. H. (UPI) — The first ski tow in New Hampshire was built by Charles Proctor at Malbox Hill, Bristol, N. H., in 1835. First overhead cable type of lift was built by Dartmouth College that same year. Today New Hampshire has hundreds of lifts of all types to help the skier up the hill.

Fire Hits Selfridge Air Base

SELFLEDGE AFB -- A $2.5 million F106 Delta Dart jet fighter was destroyed and another severely damaged early Wednesday in a hangar fire here. An Air Force spokesman placed the damage at "about $5 million." There were no injuries. Six other planes were evacuated from the shaken hangar without damage. The fire started while the super sonic jets were being mended.

Black River Dredge Project Approved

SOUTH HAVEN--The Army Corps of Engineers has notified the city commission that $5,000 has been allocated for a study of navigation improvement needs on Black River here. The engineers estimated at $100,000 the cost of dredging a mile-long channel eight feet deep and 50 feet wide and said half the cost would have to be borne locally.

Immigration Can Be Funny

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) -- Andrew Kvist can recite the citizenship oath without batting an eyelash. "It comes pretty easy after 40,000 times," he says. That's the number of immigrants he guided toward citizenship in 35 years of naturalization work.

At 70, Kvist has retired as chief of the Middlesex County Naturalization Bureau. He was known as a gentle man, always ready to offer a smile and a friendly word to bewildered youngsters and frightened oldsters going through the naturalization process.

One of the best rewards he got from his work was laughter. He remembers an old woman who came to his office with her small grandson. "Mother," he asked, "what color is the flag?" She didn't answer, so he led her to a window and pointed to the flag over city hall.

"What flag over the city hall?" he asked. "Pigeons," she said. Kvist, a native of South Amboy who lives in New Brunswick with his wife Gertrude, says his favorite story is about the flag and Tony, an old vendor.

The presiding judge asked Tony, before the oath taking, the number of stars in the flag. Tony addressed him respectfully: "Mr. Judge, your business—judge. My business—bananas. How many stars—your business. How many bananas—my business."

Dormitory Population Decreases

Although the total number of students housed in dormitories decreased this term, more new students applied for residence hall assignments than any previous winter.

Lecture Series Topics Released

Five speakers will discuss "Social Change in Latin America: The Roles of Labor and Management," during the seventh annual Industrial Relations Lecture Series, beginning Monday at Kellogg Center. The first lecture will be delivered by Wilbert E. Moore, professor of sociology at Princeton University.

The series is sponsored in cooperation with the Office of International Programs. Lectures begin at 8 p.m. and are open to public. Other lectures will include: "The Latin American Labor Leader," Robert J. Alexander, professor of economics at Rutgers University, Feb. 4; "Management Elite and Industrial Relations in Latin America," William F. Whyte, professor of industrial sociology at Cornell University, March 6; "The Role of Government and Social Change in Latin America," K.H. Silvert, professor in the Department of Government at Dartmouth College, April 10; and "United States Foreign Policy and Social Change in Latin America," Richard Goodwin, deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs and former special assistant to President Kennedy, April 29.

Prof Elected Head Of Council

Arthur E. Warner is the 1963 president of the Council for Professional Education for Business.

Business Council Elects Warner

The council includes 11 associations directly related to higher education for business. About 50,000 individuals are represented. The purpose of the council is to complement and serve the individual member associations who have as their purpose the promotion and improvement of higher education for business. Warner, a staff member since 1953, is the author of numerous business journal articles and monographs.

housing office was divided last term. The main housing office was split into three divisions with married housing and off-campus housing offices set up to handle housing assignments. Ray Lamphar, director of married housing, and Jack Seibold, head of off-campus housing, both said the reorganization had been accomplished smoothly and had contributed to greater efficiency in the housing offices.

Fendley Collins, who retired after 32 years as Michigan State's wrestling coach, will serve as manager of the U.S. mat squad at the 1964 Olympic Games.

The certified public accountant profession is the most rapidly growing profession in our country today, according to James D. Edwards, chairman of financial administration. "In most states," said Edwards, "The number of licenses to practice public accounting exceeds those of lawyers or doctors."

In the light of this, he added, the opportunities are excellent for both accounting and financial majors. The department holds a strong interest in undergraduate education and this is indicated by having full professors teaching the basic courses, along with the implementation of the most modern teaching devices.

Fear Stalks Streets In Beaten Kolwezi

Editor's note: The U.N. has ordered the arrest of Katanga President Moïse Tshombe and demanded that he let U.N. troops peacefully enter his stronghold at Kolwezi. Here is a vivid description of Kolwezi from an Associated Press correspondent on the spot.

By Adrian Porter

Kolwezi, Katanga, B. — This town acts as if it is sitting on dynamite now fused and ready to destroy Katanga's power.

People are afraid. White civilians, most of them American, are fleeing. There may be American troops; foreign mercenaries fear African troops; African troops fear the United Nations and almost everything else but unarmed people unable to fight back.

A small spark—a bar brawl—would be enough to erupt panic and shooting.

The bitter taste of defeat is sensed since President Tshombe left here for Elisabethville and toward U.N. pressures for Katanga's reunion with the rest of the Congo.

Africans are looking for a scapegoat.

White mining men and mercenaries could be the choice for scapegoats. Whites and mercenaries know this but while the whites have to stay here, mercenaries are looking for an escape route.

They're sticking close together for mutual protection.

Most of them are expected to pull back west of Kolwezi to Kitale and then to Portuguese Angola, but at least 17 of them have crossed into Northern Rhodesia at the frontier post of Newbellings, where they were detained and detained until cleared by Rhodesian immigration authorities.

There are about 200 white mercenaries left in Katanga. A handful or so with some of the hardened Africans are with units out in the front line near Jadoville, where is Kolwezi's Dikolo.

A few forward troops are with African troops in the big copper and cobalt plant of Union Mine and Nello have electricity since the last Katanga's $12 million yearly mineral output and most of Katanga's power.

They've placed explosives and given their orders. Even without them they can paralyze the country by blowing the dam wall they could start flood waters rolling north into the rest of Katanga and a wave of water rolling down the Congo River.

Explosives experts among the mercenaries moved in a couple of days ago after Katanga troops occupied at gunpoint the Union Miniere plant and hydroelectric headquarters and placed huge quantities of dynamite at places where maximum damage can be done.

The thick dam at Nello, according to the mercenaries, can be cracked by a shock wave caused by an underwater explosion of some type.

The order for destruction is supposed to rest only with Tshombe. But Union Miniere officials who are hanging idly around the headquarters building but of their plants are worried that the army may go ahead with demolition out of sheer madness at losing the war or out of panic if U.N. troops should suddenly arrive.

With Tshombe's departure for Elisabethville, Kolwezi is being run by Foreign Minister Evaresto Kimba and Finance Minister Jean Katwe but they're little control and the town, as whites put it, is like the old American Wild West, with drunken troops strolling around commandeering cars and behaving much as they please.

Outside one local troops full of simba beer, a local brew, roar about in armed trucks shouting and yelling while worried whites watch silently.

In an attempt to stop too many disorders bars now are closed after 5 p.m. and a notice signed by a captain orders soldiers to deposit their arms before entering hotels and restaurants.

Civil-military administration is loitering and doesn't need much of a push for African troops to disregard it completely.

Gen. Norbert Moke, commander of the Katanga army, who up to a year or so ago was a sergeant, looks like a man completely lost. He tells newsmen he is too busy to talk to them because he doesn't want them wandering about the place seeing "secret places."

However, the second in command of the mercenaries, "Commandant Jean Marie," who was wounded fighting U.N. troops at Jadoville Sept. 1961, warned "passes won't do you any good. We are armed and we have trouble looking after ourselves."

He said there are 800 African troops "at the front" while another 2,000 lifted around Kolwezi, he indicated with a typical French gesture what he thought of African troops.

Another mercenary, called Moreau, said white troops now are completely independent of the main Katanga army.

"General Moke is an idiot," he said, "and behaved more like a raw recruit than commander. And one place he never goes is near the fighting."

Few mercenaries have any faith now in Katanga or their African colleagues in arms.

A Belgian mercenary driving an armed jeep was more concerned about how the United Nations was treating prisoners and if Rhodesia is letting former mercenaries in.

Few still talk of fighting on, and one of the most colorful is "Madame Yvette," a striking blonde of about 30 who is the sensation of Kolwezi at the moment.

Heavily made up, she wears a camouflage uniform, big rubber-soled paratrooper boots, and a bush hat trailing two pony tails.

An ambulance driver, she has a Red Cross armband—and a nine mm. Italian automatic in a shoulder holster.

Her husband, "Captain Alex," is a mercenary who saw service at Dien Bien Phu in Indochina. Like all mercenaries, he remains anonymous and refuses to allow photographs to be taken. In fact it is suicidal in Katanga at the moment to point a camera anywhere.

Doctors Say 'Get Polio Shots'

CHICAGO, I.P.—The American Medical Association urged Wednesday that there be no letup in the program for immunizing all Americans against polio even though the number of cases dropped to its lowest level of less than 100 last year.

"Polio still can strike the unvaccinated," said Dr. F.J.L. Blasingame, executive vice president of the AMA.

He pointed out that the U.S. Public Health Service recently lifted a precautionary warning against the use of type III Sabin oral vaccine for adults and now recommends that all types of Sabin vaccine be given to persons of all ages.

Saga Of World

By P. J. CHARUSOFSKY
Oak Park Sophomore

Nothing...
And God will rock the world and crown and cry over the world's death. God's baby.

God's experiment. And He'll leave the world alone. He'll put it in the corner of the Universe where no one will find it.

He'll tell His wife He was right and she was wrong. He'll analyze what He did wrong; why the world fostered and spun wide; why His people couldn't be happy as they were.

His wife will sweep the Universe clean. She'll find our world and bring it home. And God will smile and smoke His pipe.

And leave No Man's Family. The tears will be Big and black and roar like anything. First a whistle, then a blast, then a roar, then fire and black.

And one birthday when everyone is mourning, the tears will come again and wash world clean.

And leave No Man's Family. The tears will be Big and black and roar like anything. First a whistle, then a blast, then a roar, then fire and black.

Signs of the Zodiac are generally composed of stars, but those on Emmons and Butterfield dormitories are built of copper and clay.

Many observers have thought they were Christmas decorations that never were taken down. They aren't really.

But the ceramic over metal murals which adorn the walls of these two Brody group dorms do resemble holiday ornaments.

since they were first displayed around Christmas time the year after the dorms were built many East Lansing residents driving by thought this was their purpose.

The two ornaments on Butterfield are Aquarius, the water bearer, and Pisces, the fish. Emmons' lone mural is of Aries, the ram.

The three represent only a part of a series which was commissioned to decorate the buildings by their architect. The plaques are enameled per, and were first installed

Artists chosen for the murals were Miss Doris Hall and her husband, Kalman Kibony of Boston, who are art directors of Bettinger Corporation at Woburn, Mass. Miss Hall received an honorable mention award in the Architectural League of New York for her work on the murals and they were discussed in ceramics magazine several years ago.
