NY Strike May Close 3 Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Kennedy said Thursday two or three New York City newspapers may have to close down permanently because of the continuing two-month strike there. "I don't think the bargaining has been particularly responsible," he said. The president expressed doubts that the Taft-Hartley law's emergency provisions should be expanded to include a wider variety of disputes. He said it would put the government into hundreds of labor disputes involving local disruptions rather than the national economy.

Debate Erupts Over Judiciary Seating Rule

Student Committee Examines Facts Regarding Squabble

Harvey Elliott, chief justice of AUSG Judiciary Committee, and Rackline J. Perry were questioned about Miss Perry's illegal presence at a Political Affairs Committee meeting Thursday.

Miss Perry, Detroit sophomore, said, "I sat on judiciary committee for four or five meetings, not thinking that anything was wrong." She added that she knew she was unapproved, but that Elliott had asked her to come back.

Elliott, Centerville senior, said that no one else was available to sit on judiciary, so he asked her back on a week-to-week basis.

AUSG Bill May Void Court Acts

In reaction to the illegal seating of Rackline Perry on the AUSG judiciary committee, a bill was proposed to nullify all action taken by the student court from Oct. 24 to Jan. 24, at AUSG meeting Wednesday night.

The bill, proposed by Bailey representative John Dellers, Huntington, N.Y., sophomore, stated, "All proceedings before AUSG judiciary from Oct. 24, 1962, to Jan. 24, 1963, in which Rackline Perry officially engaged herself, be declared unconstitutional."

It continued, "All trials under said circumstances be judged mistrials and all decisions pronounced null and void."

The bill, assigned to the Political Affairs Committee, may die in committee. Speaker Dennis McGinty, Lansing junior, said, "It is an irresponsible bill-an extreme measure which is not warranted because the matter was already being investigated."

If the bill is reported out of committee and passed, it cannot affect the legality of decisions made during Miss Perry's presence on judiciary.

Dean of Students John A. Fuzak has the final decision on matters concerning judiciary action. The student court can only recommend action to him.

Prof With Singers For 18 Seasons

A long-time member of the State Singers, George P. Steinmetz, sings along with his German classes in traditional German songs.

Steinmetz, assistant professor of foreign languages, is the sole faculty member with the State Singers. He has sung with the group for 18 seasons under five conductors, accompanying the group on every tour from coast to coast.

"Singing keeps me in good health and in good spirits," he said. "I think it helps me pray, young too."

Steinmetz said the State Singers are the University's most representative group because members come from nearly every department.

Steinmetz said he especially enjoyed singing three years ago at a concert in London, Ontario. "The Canadians appreciate good music," he said. "Their applause was so enthusiastic we had to sing six encores."

"Miss Perry's presence on judiciary helped to make a quorum," he added. "The judiciary committee never intended to over-rule the AUSG decision to leave Miss Perry unapproved."

He said that she was not given the power to vote after her veto in congress. "She already had that power as a petitioner," he also indicated that new petitioners of judiciary are given the right to vote for experience.

He indicated that her voting record showed that she was interested in student welfare and added, "She abstained from voting when she was not sure of herself."

AUSG Speaker Dennis McGinty, Lansing junior, commented that Elliott had presented a good case for keeping Miss Perry on judiciary and then asked, "Why was she kept on ten weeks when the constitution stipulates a five-week training period?"

Elliott answered, "It is not unusual about her going over the stipulated time because other judiciary petitioners have gone over five weeks." He said that she planned to leave as soon as another member was approved to fill her vacancy.

The Political Affairs Committee has concluded gathering information and will give a decision early next week.

Junior College Deans Confer With Romney

Governor George Romney met with two Michigan junior college deans Thursday to discuss the growing pains of the community college movement.

James C. Browning of Port Huron Junior College and Philip Gannon of Lansing Community College talked with Romney after asking the Senate Appropriations Committee for $6.5 million in state matching funds for community college construction projects.

Romney told the deans of his plan to create a "Blue Ribbon" committee of lay leaders to study the future of higher education in the state and recommend measures to be taken.

U.N. Lounge Becomes Card-Playing Center

It looks as if the Americans have taken over the U.N. Lounge in the basement of the Union Building in their typical "Yankee Imperialist" style.

Although not provided exclusively for Michigan State's foreign students, the lounge has traditionally been a gathering place for these students. Of course, Americans have always been welcomed there, to meet and talk with foreign students.

However, it is a different type of American students who have taken over.

Nearly every day from 12 noon until 7 p.m. between 10 and 30 American students converge upon the U.N. Lounge -- not to discuss international problems or converse with the foreign students -- but to play cards, using from two to five tables.

Foreign students are quite upset about the arrangement. They have no place to sit. They can't even listen to the news on television because of the shouting card players.

Apparently, the U.N. Lounge is the only room in the Union with supervision. And no card playing can take place without a supervisor to make sure that the students are not gambling away their father's money.

The Union management recognizes the problem. At the moment, however, they don't seem to have any solutions.

We feel that the present arrangement is most unfortunate. Something should be done.

We hate to see the U.N. Lounge turned into a University card playing center -- even if it's Bridge or Hearts.

There must be some other place in the Union or on campus where students can play cards.

Let's not send these foreign students back to their countries with this kind of impression of America.

Psst Dave! Can we please take them off during intermission!

The Editor Says Presidential Power And P.T. Boats

Ben Burns

Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a recent speech here that information on the Cuban missile crisis was withheld for reasons of national security.

Pivotal final responsibility for news censorship decisions, Salinger said, "it would rest with the President."

On another aspect of the American scene, final responsibility for firing our intercontinental ballistic missiles also rests with the President.

In my opinion there is a dangerous trend toward concentrating national power in the hands of one man--the U.S. President. It has been traditional in times of crisis to allow the President unusual and extraordinary powers.

This happened during the Civil War with Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln's acts and decisions did much to increase the power and prestige of the presidential office.

During the depression President Roosevelt was given a "mandate from the people" to attempt to put the American economy back on its feet.

The United States Congress asked the President what they could pass to help the situation.

The prestige and power of the office was increased. Roosevelt had strange and extraordinary powers. Roosevelt passed through Congress a record amount of legislation during those first 100 days in office.

Anti-Roosevelt authors have since severely criticized his role in regard to the supreme court packing, the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the Yalta Conference.

Critics have accused Roosevelt of manipulation to attempt to concentrate all power in the presidential office. They stress undercover actions during the Second World War in general.

During the Little Rock integration crisis President Eisenhower was able to take the bounds of actual authority, also.

Most of these cases of Presidential leadership were considered necessary for the maintenance of national security. Few persons dispute that a crisis calls for quick and decisive action of the type seldom get from Congress.

President Kennedy has carried power consolidation a step further. During the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion, information was controlled to the extent that the nation's press was unable to report what was happening to the public.

President Kennedy has a large number of instant missile ready-to-fire at his order.

He is able to act with more authority than Eisenhower in integration crises like the Mississippi affair.

The President's control of information, rockets and troops has spiraled upward parallel to the East-West arms buildup.

The amount of fire power under the President's control is beyond normal comprehension. Yet, according to the rules of the game the President must have Congressional approval to declare war.

What difference does it make, who can declare war, if an individual can plunge the world into total destruction.

I am afraid that the President might make a mistake that could mean disaster. No one man should be in a position from which he can control the outcome of the nation or the world. If he is, it is a far cry from a democratic society.

If I remember correctly, President Kennedy made a mistake during World War II and got his P.T. boat sunk from under him. He is not playing with P.T. boats or rubber waxes, today.

Oh, I don't ski, I just collect tags.

Four Little Words

Since the State News printed a four-word letter from Bob Nadell, "There is no God", we have received a total of 40 letters--some philosophical, some humorous--from people trying to prove whether the statement is true or false.

The score tallies up like this: Letters printed: seven pro-God, seven anti-God, four philosophical and miscellaneous.

Letters not printed: six pro, three con, 12 philosophical.

The philosophical comments ranged from "We can never solve the mystery of the origin of the universe" and lengthy Bible quotations to statements like "Let's take a vote on it."

And then there were the short ones--there is no reality, no State News, no Bob Nadell, no Santa Claus, and no Virginia.

Most of the philosophical dissertations boiled the problem down to the contention that the question of God is largely a matter of individual interpretation.

The letter triggered plenty of discussion on campus--among students and in religious centers.

Let someone say we are turning the letters column into a theological forum, we say (in four words): This is the end.

Letters To The Editor

On Snyder Hall, The Bible, Math

To the Editor: At a university the size of Michigan State, it seems to me, that the officials and campus leaders should take steps to reduce the growth of a machine-like atmosphere, instead of knocking themselves out to encourage it.

The girls of Snyder Hall have just been told that they will all have to pack up and leave at the end of this spring term. There has been a slight change in plans, Snyder, (for some obscure reason--we can't imagine why), has been chosen as the one dorm, in our group of four, to house men next year.

Many Snyder girls take a certain pride in the fact that they are Snyder girls--and they hate to see the grand old notorious tradition of the whole thing go. They will miss the bad, good or indifferent influence of their cronies here. Only a few of them, (the ones with six credits or less), will find time to run from Case, to Wilson, to Wonders, to Rather, to Butterfield, to who-knows-where, in order to see their old friends of one, two, or three years in Snyder. It is hard enough to achieve a sense of belonging and of unity here, without being shuffled out of quasi-homes into mass living-study-ing-eating-sleeping factories. I imagine that in a few years from now a student will be able to live for a whole term without leaving the confines of his good old Univac Dormitory, except maybe to walk downtown and buy a contemporary card or stamp.

How can these people judge a God whom they know nothing about?

There is a hymn which says in part, "...you ask me how I know He lives, He lives within my heart." God reveals Himself to those who will come to Him and accept Him by faith. I have yet to meet anyone who has accepted Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord and yet cannot say that he or she knows the Living God.

The Bible says that God is Love. Love is real. We can't sense it with the five senses yet we know it, is real. It has manifestations, but we can see and so it is with God. He is manifest in all His wonderful miracles such as the order in the universe, the functions of plant and animal life, and through His greatest of miracles, the redemption of man through Jesus Christ.

To those who say "there is no God," I say, open your eyes because if you are walking through life and can't see God, then you either have your eyes closed or you are blind. May God help you to see.

no God" letter presents to MSU students a very controversial question: the existence of a God. Since this letter appeared the number of discussions I have been involved in about God have sharply increased. I hope this continues, for sometimes out of controversy progress comes.

Adding my bit to the discussion: Since man first began to use his reason he has attributed divinity to all he has not understood. In the beginning all the phenomena of nature were feared and respected as the possessors of spirits. As knowledge grew, the realm of the supernatural grew smaller and smaller.

Now, it seems to me, the concept of a divine and supernatural creator is the last great stronghold of superstition in our culture. Few people now throw salt over their left shoulder when they spill it. It is to be hoped that one day an enlightened humanity will place God on the same level as this type of superstition.

Can't Divide

To the Editor: Last Tuesday, Jan. 29, it was claimed in your editorials that Michigan citizens are finishing off 3.6 billion bottles of beer annually. When you said you weren't a math major you weren't kidding!

According to my calculations 27 million dollars divided by 2 cents equals 1,350,000,000 or 1.35 billion and therefore Michigan citizens don't drink nearly as much as you stated. This low figure is probably due to the fact that East Lansing is dry!

"Where Have All the Humorists Gone?"

What I'd like to know is--what happened to the college humor magazines?

Last term, one issue of a publication named "Chaff" hit the newsstands. From a literary standpoint it was not very good, but it was an attempt to keep the humor magazine alive on this campus.

"Chaff" has not appeared since, and its future is as doubtful as a space-suit with a slow leak.

The failure of "Chaff" can be explained simply enough. "Chaff" is published in Illinois for five Big Ten colleges, with regional editors filling in editorial and some local material. The publisher refuses to pay for contributions. This lack of remuneration means that "Chaff" cannot be choosy in the material it accepts and continually ends up with second best.

Humor magazines have been disappearing from campuses all over the nation, either from lack of funds, lack of material, or because of administrative difficulties. Only a few are left that have any merit at all. "The Florida Orange Peel", "The Princeton Tiger", and "The Yale Record" are three campus humor magazines that have survived so far.

Students of Michigan State University, hear my passionate plea: If Florida, Princeton, and Yale can do it, so can we. SOMEBODY, be funny. "Games for Masochists!"

There is a new version of Russian Roulette going around. You take five chicklets and a teen-a-mint, shake well, and take your pick.

"Intercepted Letters"

Dear Dean, I have warned you repeatedly about the grave consequences of your rash actions, and now I feel that I must take severe measures.

As if your interference in our affairs was not enough, you repeatedly make further intrusions on the happiness of my country.

I mean, rockets are fine, but Polaris subs in Lake Victoria I just can't see.

You realize, of course, that I have my country behind me and I shall strive to repay their confidence in me. In that light I shall make a proposal.

Look Dean, we've been friends for a long time, right? Just send back my golf balls and all is forgiven. OK?

Sincerely yours,
John D.

Dearest Comrade Fidel, Caught your last speech and thought it was a gas. I was disappointed that you didn't get your shoes worked in like I told you to. It's a real attention-getter. I was a hit at the U.N. with it.

Is there anything you need, Comrade? Perhaps another load of those fake cardboard rockets? They don't work, but they sure scare hell out of those Yankees. Besides, I have another summit meeting coming up and I need an international incident, just for old time's sake.

Am sending another load of chickens as requested plus three tons of Borscht as a gesture of our alliance.

Love and kisses,
Nikki

Defender

To the Editor: In reply to the gentleman who says, "there is no God", I would like to add a few words to the many fine words which have already been offered in defense of the existence of God.

I have known several people who do not believe in the existence of God and they seem to share several things in common.

First, they have never read the Bible (the word of God) in its entirety and with a sincere attitude of learning about God. They can only quote seeming "contradictions" that some other unbeliever has told them about. (Actually they would find that no "contradiction" exists if they

Second, these people have never tried approaching God through sincere prayer. It is through prayer that man can commune with God and thereby come to know Him. The Bible teaches that we can come boldly to God in prayer through Jesus Christ.

Leontyne Price Prefers Opera Faith Vital, She Says

"Faith is yours and in God is the best place for a young artist," said Leontyne Price, Metropolitan Opera soprano, in an interview Thursday afternoon.

Plenty of hard work is involved, she said, but more than that, the novice should have a belief in his own ability. A "sense of direction" such as provided by the Juilliard School of Music in New York can give valuable advice to an aspiring artist helping him make up his mind.

Most of the singing Miss Price did from 1952 to 1955 was in recitals where she played 11 or 12 characters in one night. She said nearly one half of her singing career has been recitals. "I don't really care for recitals, though," she said. "It involves too much traveling and I hate to travel."

She said that when she finishes her present tour, she will concentrate on opera and recordings. "Opera is my firm love," she said. "All my life I have been involved in some type of music, but it wasn't till I went to Juilliard that I really got the 'opera bug.'"

On March 8, Miss Price will be returning to La Scala, the top opera house in Italy, for a three-week tour.

Asked if European opera fans Americans, she replied that "Operatic audiences are all enthusiastic--at least they have been so in my case."

After her debut at the Met on Jan. 27, 1961, she was given a 42 minute ovation--the most prolonged demonstration of enthusiasm ever seen in the history of the opera house.

"I particularly enjoy singing before a college audience, I'm not so old, that I don't remember their wide-eyed enthusiasm," she said. "Like most opera singers, Miss Price likes to sing in Italian best. She also said that it is the language, besides English, that she speaks most fluently, although she can also speak German and French."

Miss Price is originally from Laurel, Miss., and now is a permanent resident of New York City. She also keeps a small apartment in Rome for her engagements at La Scala.

After her appearance at MSU, Miss Price is scheduled for a concert in Cleveland.

The President deplored what he described as "rumors and speculation" which made it necessary for defense secretary Robert McNamara to appear on radio and television Wednesday to report on the Cuban situation.

He said some information was presented that the government was "rather reticent to make public."

The President said he did not know what more the administration could do to convince some members of Congress that the Soviet offensive threat has been removed from Cuba. Noting that the U.S. keeps a constant eye on Cuba through aerial surveillance, Kennedy said: "Russia would have to take the chance of another great encounter"--far more grave than during the missile crisis of last fall if it ever again raised offensive missiles on the island.

"I hope that Union Board continues this original program, so students in the future can have an outlet for original works," Grow said.

Now hear this from the bottom hinge of the store with the red door-- ARE YOUR HANDS CLEAN?

If so--feel free to stop by and handle some of our merchandise, but please don't become a "Fingers English". This is the name one of our regular customers has come to be known by. He's the only one who ever wore out one of our sport sleeves without having had it out of the store--in fact, without even leaving it on.

For those with clean hands, there are some new denim and searsucker sport coats in for Spring--just the thing for sub-zero weather! Keep that soap handy, because new things will be coming in daily!

Don't forget the Union Board Style Show, Tuesday night, February 12th--Men's clothes by us, naturally. Whether you look at our clothes or not, it's worth it just to see the male models walk down that long long runway--run would be a better word for it. Check the knees on the boys with the bermudas.

I hate to keep harping on the subject, but there are still some sale items left. I know darned well you are, but no guess needed! We'll even put them in the bag for you and gladly shove them across the counter. Please don't ask to have them wrapped because if Jake wraps the package for you, the one to receive it will undoubtedly have outgrown it by the time

P.S. Amy can hardly wait to see you at the J-Hop in one of the tie and cummerbund sets we still have left for three dollars. So you can't use a cummerbund--throw it away--the tie's worth three bucks (it says here in fine print).

Department Of Music Plans Concert

The Collegium Musicum concert will be given in the Music Aud. Sunday at 4 p.m.

Murray Barbour, professor and commentator, has chosen four pairs of compositions by Bach, which will be performed as "Arrangements of Bach by Bach."

The last movement of a sonata for two flutes and keyboard will be played by Dorothy Hodell and Lenee Kowalski, with Rita Fuzek on piano.

The same movement will be performed by Amy Margolis on viola and Miss Fuzek in Bach's own transcription.

Next the aria, "Ach, bleibe doch," from Cantata No. 11 will be played, followed by its counterpart, the "Agnus Dei" of the B minor Mass.

Drinking Not Major Problem Say Officials

This is the last of a four-part series dealing with University drinking regulations.

By SALLY DERRICKSON Of The State News

Drinking is not a major problem at MSU, according to administrative officials.

"Not that it doesn't go on," Frances DeLisle, director of Women's Division, said, "but it doesn't get to us. It would be almost impossible for us to watch 25,000 students."

"We regard discipline as this University as another part of the educational process," Eldon A. Nonnemaker, director of Men's Division, said, "and discipline can be exceedingly educational."

The University's attitude toward violation of drinking regulations or any other rule seems to be this: "Students know the rules. They know if they drink on or off campus, especially if they are under 21, they are breaking both a State law and a University rule. If they are caught, they will be punished." "It is a calculated risk, and the decision is up to the student," Miss DeLisle said.

"No one follows you around, but let it be evident that you're breaking the rules," she said, "and we are forced to deal with the problem."

The majority of students caught drinking are men.

Out of 25 students brought before Student Judiciary fall term for violating drinking and housing regulations, only two were women.

"Women often get involved in drinking situations without realizing what they are getting into," Miss DeLisle said.

"Many are naive, and don't want to ask their dates where they are going. When they get to a drinking party, it's hard to get out of the situation without causing embarrassment."

"Many students think all the rules and regulations are evidence of persecution," Miss DeLisle said.

"But they are primarily aware of the student's education. For the University to take a 'no tolerance' attitude would be complete callousness, because many students just aren't mature enough to make decisions on their own."

When students are called before Student Judiciary for drinking at parties or "grassers," the student court tends to give the student the benefit of doubt, Nonnemaker said.

"Unless there is specific evidence that the student was drinking at the time he was arrested," he said "the Judiciary has to take the student's word."

Students picked up at "grassers" are especially hard to pin down, he admitted. "The Judiciary tries to determine who furnished the liquor," he said. "Judiciary usually is lighter on those who attend than on those who planned the party and furnished the liquor."

"It was decided long, long ago, when this University was first founded," Miss DeLisle said, "that education and alcohol should be forever separated. The wisdom of the decision is periodically reaffirmed."

Wrestlers Set To Take Fight Out Of Fighting Illini Team

By CARL PERIN
Of The State News

The Spartan wrestling team will meet to take some of the fight out of the fighting Illini this Saturday afternoon at Champaign.

To date, the grapplers have posted a 3-2 dual meet record and lost their only quadrangular meet to Northwestern on a questionable decision in the heavyweight class. In the Big Ten they have downed Purdue, Minnesota, in the quadrangular meet and then pinned Ohio State and the Boilermakers by identical 19-8 scores.

Outside the Conference the Spartans are not doing as well with defeats from Oklahoma and Pittsburgh and an easy win over State College of Iowa.

Saturday the Oklahoma-dominated Spartan squad will journey to Champaign to take on an Illinois squad that has also had its troubles outside the conference.

The Illini come into the meet with a 4-4 record. They have beaten Ohio State, 21-11; Indiana, 20-10; Eastern Illinois, 17-16; and Missouri, 23-3.

In the course of winning these four, Illinois also took it on the chin from Kansas State, 16-10;

Oklahoma State, 17-11; Iowa, 14-12, and the same Iowa State that the Spartans beat handily, 23-3.

During their semester break, the Illini took a swing down through Big Eight territory and lost three of four meets. Coach Pat Patterson felt that the trip was very helpful even though the record was discouraging.

"We were meeting the best, and I think we learned from it." One promising sophomore in Coach Patterson's pack is out for the season with a knee injury.

Clayton Beattie from Ferguson, Mo., had been pressing contender Gary Vogt for the 157-pound spot before leaving the squad for a knee operation.

The Spartans will go into the match in good physical shape Saturday. The only possible exception is Cecil Holmes in the 130 class. Holmes, a Ponca City, Okla. sophomore, went into the hospital last Sunday morning with influenza, following his first defeat.

Against Pittsburgh Holmes lost to Mike Johnson, 11-3. Previously Holmes had been undefeated. Coach Grady Peninger said that Holmes is coming along fine after his release from the hospital and is expected to be ready for the Illini Saturday.

Holmes has a 5-1, season record before missing the Iowa State meet. State's only undefeated grappler is Alex Valcanoff, Lansing senior. A graduate of Lansing Eastern in 1959, Valcanoff, two-time state champion took over where he left off when he came to State. This year he boasts a record of 7-0, in the 177-pound class.

With Valcanoff and Holmes will go a group of Oklahoma's finest, including Gary Smith at 123, Dave James at 137, Bob Archer at 167 and Homer McClure in the heavyweight division.

Last year the Spartans easily handled the Illini, 22-8. The overall record of the Spartans and the Illini is a respectable 11-3-2.

Bradds Tops Scorers

Guards Hold Next 3 Spots

In two less games, has 149 points but matches Garland's 24.8 average, and Lamers is scoring at an 11.3 clip. The Spartan duo will match their talents against Illinois' pair of Small and Jankovic in a meeting between the two teams at Champaign Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Basketball fans who continue to insist that the big men have taken the excitement out of the game by dominating it ought to take a look at the latest Big Ten scoring statistics.

The little men with the hot shots from the outside have captured three of the top four spots in individual scoring and five of the top 10. Last year Jimmy Rayl was the only guard to crack the top 10 when he scored 454 points to finish second to Terry Dischinger.

Gary Bradds, who looks down on the backcourt men from both his 6-8 height and his number one scoring position, replaced Rayl this past week as the individual leader. He has 192 points in six games for a 32-point average.

Rayl is second to the Buckeye ace with a 29.2 average in five games. He is a slender 6-2 performer with the second best free throw percentage in the Conference. Rayl has converted 36 of 40 attempts for 90 per cent.

Sensational shooting in their last two or three games has carried Purdue's Mel Garland and Northwestern's Rich Falk into the number three and four spots. Garland with three 30-point games in a row, including a 34 point output against Michigan State, has 198 total points for the lead in that category. Falk, ILLINOIS SCORING ACE--Dave Downey paces his Fighting Illini five into action against the Spartans Saturday afternoon. He leads his team in scoring and is seventh in the conference.

Bladesmen 'On Guard'

There'll be no lull in the Spartan fencing front Saturday as highly-rated Wisconsin and winless Iowa flash blades with State in Madison.

Coach Archie Simonson's Badgers have compiled a 3-3 record thus far in Conference play and have hopes of extending the number of victories to five. Spearheading pursuit will be fencer Jerry Wiviott and Ed Anderson.

Wiviott, a senior letterman, sports a 19-5 won-lost mark and Anderson, a sophomore, boasts an 18-6 record. Epee fencer Bill Gee and Sabreman Forrest Nielsen are 14-10, while Wayne Hanson is 12-12 in sabre. All records include two meets with a non-collegiate team.

Badger wins have come over Wayne State, Ohio State and University of Detroit. Simonson's outfit bowed to Illinois by the identical count as MSU, 19-8. Co-captains Lance Hellman and John Anderson head a frustrated Hawkeye squad. The Iowans have been defeated by Notre Dame and Indiana.

Spartan Coach Charles Schmitter will stick with the same line-up as previous Saturdays. Sophomore Dave Simmons however, is expected to see more action in sabre.

The big guns for State are Dick Schloemer, John Pelletier, Phil Slayton and Lou Salamone. Schloemer will put an undefeated record of five foil victories on the line. Pelletier is 5-1 in epee and Salamone is 3-1 and 4-1, respectively.

Daugherty Heads Coaches Clinic

Football Coach Duffy Daugherty will headline the "Coach of the Year" football coaches clinic at Grand Rapids Saturday and Sunday.

Joining Daugherty on Saturday morning at 9 a.m. will be Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson. They will speak on the "Use of Films as a Coaching Aid" and then they will hold an open forum session on "Back to Fundamentals."

Daugherty and Wilkinson will fly to St. Louis Sunday for another such program, while the St. Louis speakers--Milt Bruhn and John McKay--will come to Grand Rapids Sunday.

Also on the Saturday's Grand Rapids program will be Gayle Robinson, MSU varsity trainer.

Daugherty said the program gives him a chance to meet nearly every high school football coach in the country. This is essential when trying to recruit the top athletes from the country.

McKay, Southern California coach, was voted the Nation's No. 1 leader of major college teams at the convention in January, while Wittenburg's Bill Edwards was named the top small-college coach.

Others on the two day program include Bob Devaney of Missouri and Gus Mertes of Drake.

Spartan Thinclads Top Competition For Broncos

By JERRY GARNOLL
Of The State News

Host Michigan State may provide some of the top competition to challenge the strong Western Michigan Broncos in Saturday's MSU relays.

Besides their standouts in the sprints and broad jump, the Spartans will have some good talent in the relays and five other individual events. State's best relay squad is the mile relay team, which finished fourth in the 1962 Relays.

The mile relay team has won both meets this year. The four man team, which will challenge Purdue's defending mile relay team, will be chosen by coach Fran Dittrich from James Beard, Walker Beverly, Hulert Edwards, Ron Horning and John Parker.

Middle-distant men, Parker and Beverly, combine with co-captain Don Castle, Roger Hamburger and Mike Kalnes to make up the distance medley relay team. In the Michigan Relays, State's distance relay team was leading before being disqualified.

The Spartans sprint medley relay with the top State runners--co-captains Lewis and Castle and Bob Moreland, Ron Watkins and Parker--will have to really scot to top Loyola and Michigan.

In the individual events, MSU has good talent in the hurdles, the high jump, the mile and the two mile.

Star hurdler Herman Johnson, who placed second in both the high and low hurdles in the 1962

JOHN PARKER

Relays, is the man to beat if he is ready to go. Johnson had the flu and has been practicing only during the past week.

Backing Johnson are Tom Peckham and Bill Mann. Peckham took second in the 70-yard high hurdles against Ohio State.

Peckham is also one of State's three returning scorers in the high jump from the 1962 Relays. Wilmer Johnson and James Roe are the other two. Johnson, who tied for third last spring in the Big Ten outdoor meet, is the Spartans top challenger to returning champion Alonzo Littlejohn of Western Michigan.

In the mile and two mile events, sophomore Jan Bowen will attempt to dethrone defending champs Jerry McFadden of Missouri and Frank Carver of Notre Dame.

Right Winger Thomas Skates Into Spotlight

GARY RONBERG

With teammates Dick Johnson and Bob Dwyer among the leading scorers and goalkeepers in the WCHA, the less spectacular—but consistent—work of Thomas is easily overlooked. Thomas suffered a severe charley horse in his left thigh in the final minutes of State's second game with Michigan Tech two weeks ago, and didn't make last week's game.

Although the Spartans swept the Duluth series, Bessone said, Art was missed.

"You lose a player like that for any length of time and you're in trouble," Bessone said. "But he skated very well today (Wednesday) and we're mighty glad he'll be back when we play Minnesota next week."

So far this year Thomas has scored five goals and assisted on seven for 12 points in 15 games. Last winter he tallied eight times and registered 15 assists in 23 games.

He began this year at right wing on the Johnstone-Tom Lackey line, but just before the Tech series Bessone had him switch wings with Lackey.

"I had Art at right wing to take advantage of his experience," Bessone explains, "but he seems more at home on the left side and gets his shot away better."

The switch perked up Lackey's scoring as he bigged three goals in State's last four games, Thomas, on the other hand, got off some blazers against Tech, but each time Huskie goalie Gary Bauman came up with a save.

A Dearborn senior, Art stands six-feet and weighs 175 pounds. He's a physical education major. Thomas isn't the type to shy away from contact and has never failed to charge into the corners to dig for the puck. But he doubles his value by spending a minimum of time in the penalty box.

Last winter, Art was whistled down only twice for four minutes, and has yet to get his first penalty this year.

Thus, State's hockey outlook seems improved—a valuable performer is back in action. And maybe the spotlight's circle should be enlarged a little. You never can tell what's there in the shadows.

SWITCHES WINGS—Art Thomas took the advice of Coach Amo Bessone and switched sides of the line with Tom Lackey. Thomas has scored a trio of goals in four games since the change.

Swimmers Have Eye on Record

At Saturday's swim meet, the Spartans will get a chance to break the fastest collegiate freestyle relay teams record.

Michigan, Gretzinger, Wood and Mike Wood comprise the Spartan squad that will attempt to break the record.

The record is 3:15.8, set by the Spartans last year. The Spartans will be the new boys in the pool.

The competition will not be held until the 11th of the month. The Spartans will be the new boys in the pool.

Ken Lutz and Randy Dan teamed up for 20 and 16 points for the Aristocrats to provide a close 46-45 victory over the Argonauts.

Gymnasts On Road

Wisconsin To Be Tough Test

By MIKE-JASENAK

Of The State News

If the gymnasts are looking for a breather following Saturday's defeat at the hands of the Iowa Hawkeyes, they will have to postpone their wish for another week.

Wisconsin provides the competition Saturday, and Badger Coach George Bauer has what he considers to be the finest squad in his coaching career. Thus far Wisconsin has made Bauer seem like a prophet as the gymnasts from Madison sport an unblemished 8-0 slate in overall dual meet competition.

In Big Ten action the Badgers are 3-0, with their latest victims being Ohio State and Minnesota.

The Spartans will be out to continue a string of victories.

MSU's undefeated still ring artist, Dale Cooper, who escaped state and the Badgers have faced each other 12 times and each himself facing another tough opponent in the past.

Hopper, is undefeated on still rings this year and plans to give Cooper a run for his money.

Problems in the trampoline and tumbling events continue to plague Coach George Szypula in his effort to mold the Spartans into Big Ten champs.

Again this week the Spartans will face stiff competition in both of these events. On the trampoline Wisconsin boasts Pete Bauer, who has yet to be defeated this year.

Bauer, the coach's son, ranks third in individual scoring behind Roethlisberger and Hopper.

Coach Szypula will once again be counting on Hopper to lead from camp. Jerry George and senior Tom Carman. Szypula is especially pleased with Carman's performance on the horizontal bar.

Against Iowa, Carman completed a difficult routine by executing a double flip dismount, which earned him 93 1/2 points and first place.

George, once more, will be expected to lead the team in overall scoring and increase his total of 63 team points.

The two rivals will square off at 2 p.m. at the Armory in Madison.

Seniors Of The Week Active

Campus leadership was the basis for Senior Council's choice of Betty Jayne Hughes, Spring City, Pa., and Richard Reisberg, Long Beach, N.Y., as "Seniors of the Week."

Betty's campus activities center around her sorority, Pi Beta Phi, of which she has been scholarship chairman and rush counselor.

Her other interests include Activities Carnival, Block "S," J-Hop programs committee and theme continuity and publicity for last year's Water Carnival. In line with her double major, Betty is president of the Home Economics-Foods and Nutrition Club. Her average is 2.8.

Richard, a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity, also is very active in Greek events. He has been IFC Homecoming chairman and IFC member-at-large. Elected to Blue Key honorary, Richard also served on both Junior and Senior Councils, as general chairman of last year's Water Carnival.

Chairman of Water Carnival. He has a 2.5 average.

Though their campus activities are similar, both seniors expressed individuality in summer jobs. Betty, who has worked as a laboratory technician and personnel secretary, took last summer off and spent three months traveling through Europe.

Richard bought a string of parking lots on Long Island last summer, paid a net fee to beach clubs whose members utilize them and hired attendants to give car owners proper service.

has decided to serve an internship at either Duke or Vanderbilt University for one year. Richard's post-graduation aims are directed toward law school, preferably at Fordham.

Religion Prof Tours Orient

Robert T. Anderson, associate professor of religion, has announced plans for a sabbatical trip to Japan, India and the Middle East.

In Japan and India, Anderson will tour temples and theological schools and talk with sociologists and theologians.

He believes the archeological disclosures of the middle East will be valuable research for his position at the State. He also plans to visit the Fertile Crescent.

Baptist Urges Reform

Hometown Church Isolates Youth

If a university student's hometown church would let him take off his mask and see himself as he really is, chances are he wouldn't lose his interest in religion.

This is the opinion of the Rev. James W. Didier, University Baptist chaplain. In today's world, he said, churches cannot isolate their youth.

REV. J.W. DIDIER

The areas most challenging to the Christian faith are the social sciences, he believes. College students many times see their professors as amoral, but this is not true.

"Professors feel it would not be part of their role as educators if they put religion in the classroom," the Rev. Didier said.

"But we need a more candid approach by the professor. If he would exercise more freedom in the classroom, he would be able to place more emphasis on basic values. This would help eliminate indifference.

Faith on Campus

By Linda Miller

Tension has mounted on campus concerning belief in God since a letter to the editor denied His existence. Angry comments refuting and supporting his statement have appeared in The State News.

Last week we examined logical proofs for the existence of God. But they do not complete the picture. Some people understand and accept these proofs in all their validity, but they are still unconvinced of God's presence in their lives.

Perhaps we can find God's nature by doing His will. Living in accordance with what He has thus far revealed to us is the important step toward knowing God. His revelation demands a human response in an act of faith.

"Patience is a tree whose root is bitter, but its fruit is very sweet."

Theologian Calls For Commitment To Christ

"The Gospel is the power of God unto salvation," emphasized Robert Smith, dean of philosophy at Bethel College Seminary, St. Paul, Minn., Sunday in Bryan Hall.

Smith believes that only those who are transformed by Christ will be saved. If people were not lost and under the judgment of God, they would not need to be saved.
