Negro Problem All Pervasive

Justice Notes Progress At Heritage Program

Many people feel that attempts at easing the Negro problem in this country have moved too rapidly in the past few years, a Negro justice of the Michigan Supreme Court said Wednesday night.

Justice Otis M. Smith spoke to over 100 people during a program entitled "Free and Unusual: The American Heritage and the Negro."

The program, sponsored by the American thought and language department, dealt with the problems of the American Negro from the days of slavery to the present.

"Every facet of American life is touched in some way by the Negro problem," Smith said.

And almost no progress was made in solving the problem from the passage of the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments to the constitution.

Civil War years until the historic integration decision of the Supreme Court in 1954, Smith said.

Smith said that court decisions are rendered not only to prevent racial conditions, but also to deal with future problems.

"These laws are passed to protect the essential value of human dignity against the passing whim of the community that wants to infringe on them," he said.

Smith also said "We don't know how the situation will be 10 or 15 years from now. It might be unpopular to be a Mission, Lutheran or anything else."

Also included in the evening's program were excerpts from books and speeches by individuals involved in the Negro problem, such as Rev. Martin Luther King, Malcolm X, Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, and President John F. Kennedy.

Army Stills Rumors Of Guerrillas

OTIS M. SMITH

WASHINGTON, F. - The Army says it has at least rumors of a guerrilla force in the mountains of Cuba. The rumors are being amplified by a routine training maneuver in which a mysteriously planned force of 100 men, some of them from the United States, are being held in a mountainous area of the island.

Team Ranks Tenth In Math Competition

For the third straight year an MSU mathematics team ranking the top 10 in the United States and Canada.

The team, which ranked 10th in the competition, was composed of 15 members from 15 different MSU departments.

The team was coached by Leroy M. Kelly, with the aid of Fritz Herzog, both professors of mathematics.

The top five teams, announced by the Mathematical Association of America last California Institute of Technology, Dartmouth College, Harvard University, Queens University (Ontario, Canada), and the University of Michigan.

Undergraduate students interested in competing in the competition meet weekly throughout the school year for problem-solving sessions with Kelly.

Warn Girls Not To Jilt Red Soldiers

BERLIN (UPI) - Communist leaders appealed to East German girls last night not to jilt sweethearts during their military service, promising they will be "better men with better character" when they come home.

Gen. Heinz Hoffman, defense minister of the Soviet-sector regime, said in a telecast the Red Army is concerned about a reported feminine boycott of draftees.

Hoffmann said it was "wrong" for girls to write off their soldier sweethearts because if they did so they were "placing their private desires above the needs of the community."

He was commenting specifically on one Berlin border guard's complaint, printed last month by the women's publication Fuer Dich, that he and many of his companions have received "dear John" letters from the girls they left behind.

Other border guards who have fled to the West in recent weeks say many East German girls refuse to go out with soldiers, especially those assigned to patrol the Berlin wall.

AUSG Reorganization Knocked By Opposition

Opposition to the formation of a student Senate is brewing.

The bill forming the Senate passed rather easily over House opposition.

East Shaw, in general council Tuesday night, came out in open opposition to the amendment.

"We not only oppose the way the bill was presented in Congress, but also certain parts of it," Rich Handlan, (East Shaw), said.

The executive council of West Shaw has voted to advocate the reintroduction of the amendment to Congress to facilitate more adequate discussion and amendment.

Ken Madejczyk, president of West Shaw and Frenville junior said.

Handlan said the appointment spelled out by the amendment would swing in favor of the off-campus students.

"The men of East Shaw are advocating the defeat of the referendum on these grounds," he noted.

Nancy Webster, (North Campbell) Alexandria, W. Va., sophomore, said she opposed the amendment because the present Congress was the "last large democratic body" to which the student body could speak.

With the expansion of districts, more politics would become involved, she said.

"The added competition would tend to elect persons on the basis of personality or political gimmicks. This sort of selection does not necessarily result in higher qualifications."

Participation for offices in the Senate could become meaningless because of its already widespread use, she added.

Jennie Lynn Bayak, (West Yakeley) Baldwin junior, said her constituents felt the change in representation in the Mayo-Yakeley - Gilchrist - Campbell-Williams district would lead to difficulties in communication and result in non-effective representation.

Weather Conscious Tot Dials Stormy Phone Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - See George, he is six. He can dial the telephone. His parents are proud that he can dial the telephone and get the weather. They encouraged him to dial the weather here in Washington which is WE 6-1212.

Now look at George. He is dialing the weather like this: 212 WE 6-1212. He is getting the weather all right--the New York weather.

Look at George's father, George A. Basle. He has a bill from the telephone company. It wants him to pay $33. George's father is upset. George is upset. He doesn't eat any supper. He goes to bed with his clothes on.

The telephone company reneges and cancels the bill. How is the weather? It is fine.

Solid Front Maintained By Remaining Papers

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Mrs. Dorothy Schiff, owner of the New York Post, dramatically bolted the ranks of major New York publishers Thursday and announced she is reopening her paper on Monday.

The 181-year-old afternoon tabloid is one of nine major New York dailies which have been blacked out since a strike of union printers began Dec. 8. No immediate end of the strike was in sight, although renewed peace talks were scheduled for today.

"I think the strike has gone on long enough," Mrs. Schiff told a news conference. "I see no evidence of a settlement."

Mrs. Schiff, who is publisher and editor-in-chief of the Post, added that she felt New York should have at least one newspaper to lighten the costly black-out. The city has been without mass circulation papers for 83 days.

In breaking with fellow publishers, Mrs. Schiff also resigned from the publishers' association of New York, the central agency through which the newspaper executives hitherto have maintained a solid front against the striking AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

In a statement, the publishers' association said Mrs. Schiff's defection "does not alter the firm determination of the other publishers in the association to continue to press for a satisfactory agreement to end the current strike."

Earlier in the day, Mayor Robert F. Wagner had shelved plans to act as umpire in the strike.

Munch Ants During Lunch

KETTERING, Ohio (AP) - The menu for "lunch" at Fairmont High School Thursday read: Exotic foods: grasshoppers, ants, caterpillars.

And nobody complained.

It was all part of a lesson in biology. Milburn Hinds, a science teacher at the school, suggested that his biology students sample some of the insects they had been studying that are exotic foods in some parts of the world.

So the students prepared their own meal. For example, they dipped ants in chocolate.

There were no complaints, but one student, John De Haven, ate one caterpillar, grimaced, and remarked: "One is enough."

Will Not Admit Interference

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday the United States would not stand idly by if Russian troops in Cuba were used to suppress a popular uprising there.

"We will not accept combat operations in this hemisphere by Soviet personnel," McNamara replied when asked what the United States would do in such a circumstance.

He said it was "much too early" to say anything about the movement of Soviet military personnel out of Cuba.

Kennedy Asks Referees For Civil Rights

WASHINGTON, D.C. - President Kennedy asked Congress Thursday for unprecedented powers to safeguard Negro voting rights, including referees named to rule on voter qualifications as soon as a registrar's impartiality is challenged in Federal Court.

Other Federal action, no matter how speedy and how drastic, Kennedy said, can never correct abuses of local and state power to curtail Negro civil rights.

The President, spelling out his first civil rights program to Congress, added:

"It is necessary instead to free the forces of our democratic system within these areas by promptly insuring the franchise to all citizens, making it possible for their elected officials to be truly responsible to all their constituents."

The President also called for Federal help in ending school segregation and requested a four-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission with expanded duties.

Civil rights advocates in Congress generally hailed the program as a step to the right direction. Many said it didn't go far enough.

The defeat of an effort to make it easier to end filibusters in the Senate will make passage of civil rights bills more difficult, a number of civil rights supporters said.

Test Ban Needed Before Treaty Is Too Late

...pointing to a compromise somewhere between three and seven.

In the United States there is talk of cancelling the talks, but President Kennedy has pretty well squashed this with a "let's wait and be hopeful" policy toward the Geneva conference.

The old western philosophy of "as long as you can keep the enemy talking he isn't likely to start shooting" appears to be leading at least some value to the talks.

There is a definite need for a test ban. However, the prospect of one coming about this year is dim.

France, under the leadership of Charles de Gaulle, is at odds with the United Kingdom on economic fronts and quite probably would take a similar attitude about test ban agreements.

World politics are stopping the test ban talks from proceeding rationally and quickly to a solution. However, there is a growing awareness, at least in this country, that test bans are necessary and urgently needed now.

A test ban treaty would be the first step in controlling the upward spiral of the arms race. Home pressure in the United States can make our diplomats increasingly aware of the test ban necessity.

Let's hope that negotiators around the world will respond with intelligence to the need for test bans and before a treaty is beyond reach.

Russia has countered with a "no more than three inspections a year" policy. The Brazilian representative at the talks was

Freshmen Untouchables In MSU's Caste System

All of a sudden I dawned on me, I mean, I just figured out that around this campus a number of upperclassmen, some of them so far advanced as to be called first term Juniors, look upon the first year students as a lower form of life, comparable to Lassie, the Marquis Chimps or Beer Parks.

Case For The Constitution: Both Sides Should Be Heard

Democratic State Chairman Nathan A. Ferency claimed there is a "paper curtain" surrounding the news coverage of the proposed Michigan constitution. At a recent meeting here.

Democrats are in a difficult disadvantage," Ferency said. "We have no funds, no newspapers, and the people are being snowed by a mass advertising campaign to bamboozle them."

Ferency has a point.

Many Republican editors are being partisan in their approach to the new constitution. The editors tend to judge Democratic documents in the light of their personal political beliefs.

This isn't right. The editors have a responsibility to present both sides of the issue. The Democratic viewpoint deserves as much coverage as the Republican side.

However, the editors have a legitimate point when they say the Democrats are attempting to turn the proposed document into a purely partisan political issue. This type of emotional approach has little news value and gets sparse coverage.

Just as the editors have a responsibility to present both sides of the constitutional issue, the Democrats have a responsibility to approach the issue on rational rather than emotional grounds.

There is no mention of the labor press in Ferency's attack on Michigan editors. It is questionable whether these strongly Democratic papers present any opposing opinion. The fact that the Democratic party has no funds has little bearing on the issue.

Apparently, both parties are doing a little "bamboozling."

The people of Michigan deserve to learn the real truth about the proposed constitution--from both sides. And mud-slinging politicians and prejudiced editors should consider the people's right to know before taking pokes at the document or suppressing comments by the opposition.

U.P. Plan Urges JC's, Research

MARQUETTE (UPI) — A wide-ranging program to get the Upper Peninsula back on its economic feet, relying on minimum wage jobs, was a major recommendation of the first meeting of "Operation Action-U.P."

Among the major recommendations in a 17-page study, made by Ebasco Service Inc. of New York at the request of the Michigan Economic Development Commission:

- Movements to establish junior colleges in communities which could "logically" support them and expanded research at Michigan Tech, Northern Michigan College and Suomi College.
- Emphasis on development of existing industries in the area, rather than a reliance on trying to attract retail and other services in order to attract more tourists.
- Multiple use of public lands, matching state funds for general programs, taxation of reserves and forest lands, and a study of Mackinac Strait Bridge tolls.
- Formulation of local zoning ordinances and developments of "master plans" for cooperative building programs among counties and even larger areas.
- Creation of "one strong organization" to coordinate and implement all facets of the economic plan.

The Ebasco study, submitted to the group made in 1952-53, said U.P. business, education and civic leaders should not hesitate to take advantage of any outside assistance available, including Federal aid.

It urged that area leaders seek out the help of the federal government to achieve the "greatest good for the greatest number."

Reaction Favors Meyer Over Challenger Garrett

By GERRY HINKLEY
Of The State News

What happens when a professor and a student match wits in a public debate on Leninism and Stalinism?

Audience reaction showed that the listeners favored Alfred G. Meyer, professor of political science. It was Meyer who drew the audience's applause for his rebuttal and closing statement.

Challenger Jan Garrett, president of the Young Socialists, was willing to concede the debate to Meyer.

Garrett challenged Meyer to the debate Feb. 11 in Meyer's class in International Communism.

The topic of the debate was that Stalinism does not stem directly from Leninism and is in fact its negation. Garrett took the affirmative with Meyer supporting the statement in his book, "Leninism," that "Stalinism must be considered as a pattern of thought and action that flows directly from Leninism."

Garrett based his argument on the idea that Lenin supported the world revolution and was working for the betterment of the workers.

Under Stalin the International changed from world revolution for the workers to suppression of the workers, he said. Stalin betrayed the workers to the capitalists. He sold out to the bourgeoisie in China represented by Chiang Kai-Shek.

Garrett further argued that before Lenin's death in 1922, Lenin himself wanted to oust Stalin, A year before Lenin's death, he said, there was talk of Lenin and Trotsky forming a block against Stalin.

"If Lenin had absolute control of the party as Stalin later did, why was there a need for a block?" Garrett asked.

"The Stalin of 1938 who drowned the state in a sea of blood was different from the Lenin of 1917," Meyer said, "but the Lenin of 1922 was almost as conservative as the Stalin of 1938."

Stalin had risen to a position of power before Lenin's death being the only man in the party to sit on all the important committees, and it was Lenin who put him in power, Meyer said.

When Lenin in his dying days wanted to get rid of Stalin, it was Stalin's person rather than Stalin's methods, Meyer said.

Meyer amended the statement in his book by saying that perhaps Stalinism comes even more from Trotsky.

Delta May Get 4-Year Plan

The governing boards of the two schools unveiled a plan Wednesday that would add a junior year to the present two-year program next September and a senior year in September 1964.

Delta would furnish physical facilities while Michigan would pay operating expenses including faculty salaries and maintenance for third and fourth-year courses.

Leaders of other state schools approved the proposed alliance during a closed session of the Coordinating Council for Michigan Public Higher Education last month.

Indonesian Hunger Result Of Customs

Takeover of the department of agriculture told a world food group here recently that Indonesia's main causes of hunger are its customs.

Indonesia seems to have many problems and they keep on multiplying, the group said. "The problem is how to stabilize population and reform some of its habits."

More than 10 million Indonesians are living from agriculture and little land is left for raising livestock.

"Rice is their main food," the group said. "Even if we developed the production of other foods with more money, the people would still need rice because they are used to it."

Deaths through beet cattle are the answer to the food problem, the group said, however, it is not enough food, transportation or existing facilities to make this possible, which is easy to raise.

was also considered, but later rejected because of disease possibilities.

Cuban Youths Tour Capitol

Some 15 Cuban youths toured Michigan's capitol Thursday.

The boys, aged 15 to 18, met with George Romney, Lt. Gov. John L. Levenski, Sen. Paul Wayne (D-Lansing) and Lemuel W. Van Dyke, chief justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

They asked questions about Michigan's history from voting requirements to the outcome of the election.

The two-day tour provided a lesson in comparative government. Each of the youths accompanied with such an analysis of how their parents are still in Cuba.

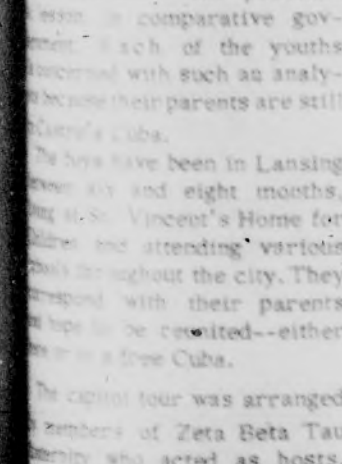

The boys have been in Lansing since six and eight months, staying at St. Vincent's Home for Children and attending vocational schools throughout the city. They correspond with their parents and hope to be repatriated—either to Cuba or to a free Cuba.

The capitol tour was arranged by members of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity who acted as hosts.

settlement through mediation and negotiations rather than have the make a proposal at this time.

The IU's New York Local Six last December struck the Morning Times and the Daily News, and the afternoon Journal-American and the World Telegram and Sun in a deadlock over wages, hours and fringe benefits.

The union sought a reduction in its 36 1/4 hour work week to 35 hours, plus an $15 a week wage increase spread over two years. It estimated the total cost with fringe benefits of a new contract at $76.42 per man per week.

However, the publishers estimated the total cost of the IU package at $37 per man per week. They offered the union a two-year $10 package.

If the union had been averaging $15 a week in wages,

Track Coach Favors Badgers

Michigan State's chances for a Big Ten indoor track title this weekend depend upon an outstanding team performance by the Spartans themselves and then weaker squads in curbing the top three contenders.

Starting today and finishing up tomorrow, the Big Ten meet features a battle between defending champ Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and the Spartans for the top spot with Wisconsin being the favorite, according to NSU Coach Fran Dittreich.

Illinois Coach Leo Johnson has different views from Coach Dittreich and other Big Ten coaches. He sees the Wolverines as the team to beat and only rates State in a battle for fourth with his Illinois.

Out to prove Coach Dittreich's prediction, the Spartans have a strong 17-man squad for competition at Madison, Wisconsin. MSU's strongest efforts in the Big Ten meet should come in the sprinters. In the 60-yard dash, the Spartans claim an uncomparable team, Sherm Lewis, Bob Moreland, and Ron Watkins.

Moreland, who has equaled the Big Ten 60-yard dash record twice this year, has run defeated in five meets, beating already most of his Big Ten Challengers. He has topped Purdue's speedy Nate Adams twice.

Who has not been defeated yet, may be a threat, having run 6.2 in the 60, Jackson could also challenge defending champ Sherm Lewis in the 300-yard dash and broad jump.

Watkins and Lewis both placed in the 1961 in the 1962 indoor meet. Watkins has consistently run fine performances this season for the Spartans and could take one of the top five places again.

Co-captain Lewis put in his best 60-yard dash effort last Saturday, placing second to Moreland, in State's triangular meet.

Lewis is State's top contender in the 300 and broad jump. Moreland or Hulet Edwards will run with him in the 300 and quarter-mile John Parker is MSU's other entry in the broad jump. In defending his 300 title Lewis will have to out-sprint Illinois' Jackson and Wisconsin's Elzie Higginbottom, who have turned in better times than Lewis's 31.2. Higginbottom has run the event in 30.9.

State's two quarter-milers, Parker and Walker Beverly, may have a victory with Higginbottom still running their event. Parker's best time (49.6) was recorded last Saturday, but both followed Higginbottom across the finish line.

MSU's Ron Horning and Chester Harris face the task of defeating Iowa's defending champ Bill Frazier in the 600-yard run. Horning, in winning the 600 in last Saturday's triangular, turned in a better time than Frazier's title performance.

Co-captain Don Castle and Bob Fulcher are State's hopes in the 880 and 1000-yard runs. Castle placed fifth in the 1000 in the 1962 meet. Top competitors in the events are Minnesota's Ray Miller in the 880 and Michigan's Charles Adams in the defending 1000 champ.

Castle also will compete. Kaines has won his last two running 4:16.8 last Saturday. State's prospects in the mile event, sophomore Jack and Roger Humberger, placed first and second in last two meets. Both will have difficult task of keeping pace defending champ Al Caron, Illinois and top contender Murray of Michigan.

Tom Peckham and Agostini will represent State in the hurdles. Azikwe, who will run only the low hurdles, finished second Saturday in the 200-yard hurdle. Peckham recorded the best Big Ten time date this season.

Seven Pucksters End State Career

By GARY RONBERG
Of The State News

Seven senior players their Spartan hockey careers here Friday and Saturday night as Michigan State battles Minnesota for the Big Ten ice crown.

Face-off time for both games is 8 p.m. at the MSU ice arena. State's two wins over Michigan here last weekend made it possible for the Spartans to complete a successful season by knocking off Minnesota which State can win the Big Ten championship, complete the second straight winning season with a 21-11 record, and pick up some career earnings for the Gophers.

"We skate like we did last week we can stay with any team in the league," MSU Coach Sam Harrison declared.

"We're anxious to meet Minnesota again. With our steady playing they have a chance at the Big Ten title, we won't have any trouble getting up for them," MSU, Minnesota, and Michigan are the only three schools that play hockey in the Big Ten conference.

The winner of the ice championship picks up valuable points toward the Conference's all-sports title and a lot depends upon the Spartan-Gopher series. At present, Minnesota is 4-0-2 in its scrags with State and the Wolverines, MSU is 4-2-0, and Michigan is 0-4-2.

State must sweep the Gopher net to win the title.

The Spartans were licked 7-4 and 6-1 at Minneapolis two weeks ago, but they feel they can take the Gophers here.

"They're nearly the same team we beat three out of four last year—and so are we," one Spartan snapped at a practice session this week. "There's no reason why they should handle us like that this year."

Swanne optimistically said: "We'll let all along that if our third line started scoring, we'd be tough. They did the job last week."

John Chvalik was his old self in the net, and I thought Nick Mason did a tremendous job as defense.

"In fact, the whole team started clicking as a unit." In addition to previewing the third line of Pat Baitson, Mac Orm and Tony Elliot, Swanne singled out Rick Hargreaves, Doug Roberts and Jack Ford for outstanding contributions against U-M.

Senior making three full appearances for State are centers Dick Jamieson and Bob Doyle, wing Art Thomas, Tom Lackey, and defenseman Dan Daves and goalie Chvalik.

Swimmers Close Against U. of M.

PHIL PIERSON
Of The State News

Michigan State's smallest swimming team will meet this Saturday at the University of Michigan. Coach Charles McCarty said the Spartans will depend on their diving. The first place points will be strongly contested for by Pete Cox and Ed Boothman of Michigan against the State combination of Van Lowe and Jim McCormick. Boothman is a prodigy of assistant Spartan Coach Richard Fetters. Fetters was Boothman's coach at Royal Oak Kimball High School.

"If we are to beat Michigan, we must win our events, but they must win their's if they want to beat us," says McCarty. "That is why the diving and breaststroke will be so important. If either of us are able to score high in both events, it will decide the winner of the meet."

Saturday's meet will honor the seniors on the Spartan team. It is the last meet in the IM pool for State seniors Mike Corrigan, Paul Johnson, Jeff Mattson, Bill Wood and Mike Wood.

"I hope announcing these boys (seniors) at the meet will give them the same lift it gave the Ohio State swimmers down there."

The strengths of the Spartans show an advantage in the short distance freestyle. Wood and Dick Gretzinger are the edge in the 200-yard freestyle. Jeff Mattson is the Wolverine entrant in the 50-yard freestyle. Wood should be better than the Wolverines can provide in the individual medley. Bill Wood should make a strong showing in the 100-yard butterfly. Gretzinger's edge will come in the 100-yard butterfly, backed by the 500-yard freestyle.

Michigan's edge in manpower is a comparative times of 10 to 1 and Richard Nelso's close to Bill Driver.

The second place will be all important in the 100-yard butterfly. Michigan's edge will be forced to use their strength in the 100-yard butterfly. They usually beat Michigan. It is uncertain whether Michigan will be forced to use their strength in the 100-yard butterfly.

'S' Loss Streak At Six Frustrated Cagers Meet

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Of The State News

A pair of basketball teams whose Big Ten aspirations have been frustrated all season will be matched Saturday at Jenison Fieldhouse when the Spartans meet the Badgers of Wisconsin. Wisconsin was the second place team in the Conference last season and figured to be a contender again this year, but the Badgers have slumped off to a 5-6 mark and seventh place in league standings.

State, with six losses in a row, is even lower with a 3-8 record and eighth place standing. Last season the Spartans tied for the cellar with a 3-11 record -- one they had hoped to improve on this season.

With one victory this season coming over the Badgers, State has reason to think that this may be the fourth Conference win they have been hunting for the past four weeks.

In the earlier game at Madison, State used a combination of zone and man-to-man defense to pin a 75-68 loss on Wisconsin. At the time it appeared to be one of the upsets of the season, but later games proved the Badgers to be weaker than had been expected.

The first meeting of the teams was the occasion of Ted Williams' return to the lineup after he missed the pre-Conference games because of ineligibility. He celebrated with 14 points.

Pete Gent led the Spartans that night with 19. He currently is the second leading team scorer with 273 points for a 16-point average.

Marcus Sanders is a single point ahead with 274. Williams has totaled 275 points since he has been eligible to average 16.1.

Bill Henry of Bill Schwartz being the other two spots. Fred Thomson will continue his role as the first or second alternate in Coach Forbky Anderson's attack.

Wisconsin will be led by 6-foot-8 center Jack Bruns, 6-6 forward Tom Gwyn and 6-4 forward Ken Siebel, a trio that will give the Badgers a decided height advantage.

The guard positions for Wisconsin will be manned by 6-1 Dave Grams and 5-10 Mike O'Melia. Don Hearden, who has been displaced by Grams, scored 17 in the first meeting of the teams and should see lots of action Saturday.

Wisconsin had success in one area which the Spartans have been unable to match -- they have knocked off a couple of the Big Ten's top teams. The Badgers were the first Conference team to beat Illinois, and they almost repeated in last Saturday's game with the Illini.

The Badgers hit a remarkable 74 per cent from the field in the first half at Champaign, but lost their touch in the second half and dropped the ball game. Monday the Badgers came back strong to dump Indiana, 102-96, and knock the Hoosiers out of the race for league honors.

After the battle with the Badgers, State has one home contest remaining. The Spartans will close their home season at Jenison on Monday against Purdue. The final game of the season is at Northwestern on March 9.

Minnesota Final Dual Mat Meet

By RON SOLOVE
Of The State News

by Okla Johnson in the 130-pound class.

Peninger expressed hope that Holgren will be ready for the championship meet next weekend.

Gary Smith (123) will attempt to continue his undefeated Big Ten streak for the Spartans. Smith has registered five wins and one draw. He is considered a strong contender for Conference laurels.

Alex Valcaroff (177) has compiled a 10-1 overall record and is 5-1 in the Conference and is a prime contender for a championship crown.

Rounding out the squad for the Spartans will be David James (137), Muntz Byington (147), Happy Fry (157), Bob Archer (167) and Homer McClure (heavyweight). McClure is also unbeaten in Conference dual meet action with a 3-0-3 record.

Competition for Smith will be provided by an outstanding Minnesota sophomore, Don Henry. Henry is a native of Cresco, Iowa, and packs his 123 pounds into a compact 5-foot-4 frame. grapplers, Cecil Holmes. Senior Lennie Rubin is un-Holmes, who has been sidelined defeated at 157-pounds for the with the "flu," will be replaced Gophers.

Fencing Coaches Laud Opposition

Spartan fencing Coach Charles Schmitter and Illini head "Mac" Garret each tags the other's team as being the chief threat for the 1963 conference title.

State will be gunning for their first championship crown Saturday when the IM sports arena becomes the scene of the 35th annual Big Ten fencing meet. Illinois will try to repeat its winning performance of the past three years.

Preliminary bouts start at 9:30 a.m. and run until 2:30 p.m. Finals are slated to follow immediately and continue until 5 p.m. General admission is 50 cents for students and $1 for all other persons.

Wisconsin, Ohio State, Iowa and Indiana round out a six-team field. Each team will be allowed a maximum entry of two men each in sabre, epee and foil.

There will be two pools in each weapon class. Fencers with the best records will be seeded in these pools. The three fencers winning the most bouts in each pool advance to the finals, qualifying a field of six for the championship bouts.

Competition in each weapon class finals shall consist of a six man round robin. After 15 hours, the fencer winning the most bouts is declared the individual champion.

Team winner is determined by the number of bouts won. Each bout won in both preliminary and final rounds is counted.

The Spartan and Illini will be pluming their hopes on several outstanding stalwarts:

FOIL--MSU: Dick Schloemer (24-3) and Nels Marin (13-15); Ill.: Bill McDevitt (30-2) and Bill Olson (30-6).

EPEE--MSU: Bob Brooks (22-7) and John Pelletier (20-7); Ill.: Larry Knauft (24-5) and Dan Kennedy (24-5).

SABRE--MSU: Phil Slayton (22-8) and Lou Salamone (17-11); Ill.: Dick Leiken (19-5) and Craig Bell (20-4).

U.S. Draining British Brains

LONDON (AP) - Lord Hallsham, Britain's Minister of Science, said Wednesday the U.S. high school system is unable to turn out first-rate scientific talent. He asserted that American recruiters have turned to Britain in a high-pressure campaign to lure British scientists.

Speaking in the House of Lords debate on what has come to be known as the "Brain Drain," Hallsham charged that "business, universities and government have embarked on a systematic drive, 'often initiated by talent scouts specially sent over here to buy British brains and pre-empt them for service of the U.S.A.'"

Hallsham was promptly challenged by Lord Shackleton, a Labor peer, and several peers connected with universities and scientific groups. They said government and industry must give more aid to research and the British economy must open up for technological advance.

Shackleton scoffed at what Hallsham called "the deficiencies of the American High School."

"America has more resources and is prepared to go out and buy the brains," Shackleton said. "Fortunately some of their wives do not follow them to America, so they can be lured back here."

Hallsham cited statements by U.S. Adm. Hyman Rickover in criticizing U.S. education. The Science Minister added:

"I look forward earnestly to the day when some reform of the American School System enables them to produce their own scientists so that, in an amiable free trade of talent, there may be an adequate interchange between our country and theirs, and not a one-way traffic."

Refreshments were banned from the Circus Maximus, Imperial Rome's municipal stadium, which on Feb. 28 held a "day of a million spectators at chariot races."

AUSG Allows Group To Solicit Relief Funds

AUSG passed a bill Wednesday night allowing the Mississippi Emergency Relief Committee (MERC) to solicit funds from students.

Campus Chest had vetoed the group's request to collect money during their food and clothing drive March 4-6.

Bob Hencken, Huntington Woods Junior, proposed the bill. He said he did not think letting the committee solicit funds would set a bad precedent or open the door to other charities not in Campus Chest.

"I would doubt the wisdom of conducting a charity drive on campus after the recent Campus Chest campaign," President Jim Barnes said. He is a member of MERC.

"I believe students should not be badgered by charities when they have to pay for an education."

Robert Hackenbruch, (Emerson) Grand Rapids' sophomore, said, "If we open this rule to one charity, we would have to open it to all charities."

Campus Chest stated earlier this week that since MERC does not stress either campus charity or educational charity, it could not approve its application to solicit funds.

"We feel that you should realize that Campus Chest exists to protect the student against the many charities that attempt to raise money at Michigan State," director Douglas Linder said.

Linder said the relief group could have a jazz benefit in the Union March 4 from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. The committee may collect clothing, food, and money in the form of contributions, but cannot sell tickets to the benefit.

In other action, Tom Partridge, (East Wilson) Swartz Creek sophomore, proposed that AUSG study college finances to determine if costs are denying eligible students a college education. The study would be sent to Gov. George Romney and the state legislature. No action was taken.

Amendment #32 which stipulates the time of elections and election procedures, candidate eligibility and methods of petitioning, and terms of office was unanimously passed.

It includes many provisions in the reform amendment #30 to be voted on March 7 in a student referendum. If bill #30 is passed, this bill will be invalidated.

A bill to create a student legal aid fund was referred back to the Student Rights and Welfare Committee for revision. The bill would set aside amounts up to $2,000 to help students with legal problems of a University nature.

A bill granting a temporary charter to the Spartan Counter-Guerrilla Company was passed.

Appeal To Friends Committee Mayer Describes 'Naked Man' more than a perversion of the social order of Christ's own congregation in Jerusalem after Pentecost, Milton Mayer told the American Friends Service Committee Thursday.

Former director of the Voices of Europe radio program of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, Mayer spoke to an audience at Peoples Church an understanding what he termed "the naked man."

"Plato tells us that every city is really two cities, one of the rich and one of the poor," he said. "And that they are always at war with one another."

"America is the city of the rich, and her position is not entirely enviable in a world that is poor and starving."

"We can't imagine the naked man who seems to feel that the tyranny of hunger is harder to endure than the political one," Mayer said. "We have had neither."

"Our inability to come to grips with the fact that the world is poor and that most people have lived all of their lives under some form of oppression compels us to construct a picture of current history that squares with our morally-weak view of the world."

Mayer has taught at Frankfurt land's Ecole d'Humanisme as guest professor at the Comenius Theological faculty in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and lectured in Protestant Churches in Europe and behind the Iron Curtain.

"In the city of the poor I still have not known what it is to be hungry, to have been hungry all my life, to have had parents and grandparents that have always been hungry, and to know my children and grandchildren will also be hungry."

To this man Marx made his appeal. He introduced a theory similar to that of Christ's own congregation after the Pentecost in which none lacked and distribution was made to every man according to need, Mayer explained.

"We ought to be able to imagine this man who has found something to believe in fervently. When he has had bread enough long enough he will want liberty."

"At present, our foreign aid is 90 per cent military related. In a world crying for bread, we are compelled to hand out iron, he said."

"When I see my own mistakes, I can understand and even love my fellow sinner. Whenever I can love, I can probably live with."

Pastor Serves Area Churches Bed-ridden Observe Lent

United Campus Ministry has extended its services to include the medical field at MSU. A university hospital chaplain has been appointed to aid students in the hospital.

It is possible for administering religious counseling to patients with preferences for United Church of Christ, Congregational, Methodist, Evangelical United Brethren, Protestant Episcopal, Presbyterian and Lutheran faiths.

United Campus Ministry is seeking an effective way to relate to both the hospital staff and patients, said the Rev. Mr. Kania. He expressed a need for staff chaplains with the prospect of a medical school under consideration.

With the advent of the Lenten season Ash Wednesday, area churches are participating in a Lenten observance.

Special communion services were held Wednesday to begin the season, which terminates Easter Sunday, April 14.

Fellowship Studies Sex

"Sex in the Christian Life" will be studied spring term in a seminar sponsored by United Campus Christian Fellowship.

A basic book will be assigned to participants as a guide for discussion. All interested may take part in the program.

Meetings will be held Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the College House next to East Lansing Peoples Church.

Faith On Campus I Believe In God And Evolution

By Linda Miller

The Bible is generally accepted as the word of God by believers. They also define nature as the work of God. Correctly interpreted, I think that these two beliefs fully agree with the theory of evolution.

There is no difficulty in believing both science and the scriptures. But to hold this theory, it is necessary to reject that of the conformists, who believe that the Bible anticipates and contains contemporary scientific discoveries. They are doing great harm to the meaning of the scriptures. It is a book of religion, not a book of science.

The Bible did serve as a manual of science until the 16th century when modern science began. Now it must be taken figuratively rather than literally. It is a myth, but even myths contain a certain amount of truth.

The Bible is the most important written work in the life of faith. It should be taken as a revealer of God. An inspiration of faith, it is the most precious guide for conduct, love, hope and humility.

I believe that man's creation was a gradual process, starting from a simple cell and increasing in complexity until the human body evolved. The theory of evolution cannot be directly proven because all the facts are in the past, and scientists cannot call the past into light. But all evidence today points to evolution as a plausible concept of the stages of creation.

Evolution does not contradict the belief that God was the first cause, the eternal being who created matter. Nor does it cause rejection of the universe as a creation of divine order and design.

There is one stage, however, in the development of man, that the science of evolution does not solve. This is often termed the missing link.

What about the intellect of man? It would be difficult to follow the theory of evolution up to the apes, then discard it and say God created an entirely new structure called the human being. Yet it seems clear that God intervenes in the course of evolution to infuse the soul in His image. The flesh of man, like that of the animal, returns to dust. But the destiny of the human mind is eternity. It surpasses the cycle of physical life.

Perhaps someday modern science, like the scientific age of the Bible, will be considered a myth, exemplifying the beliefs of its time. But the Bible has and will remain a source of hope for all who believe.

NEXT WEEK: An agnostic presents another view of faith on campus.

Lutherans Read Shaw Sunday

MSU members of Lutheran Student Association invite resident members of University Lutheran Church and interested students to a reading of George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell" Sunday.

A play within a play, being a part of "Man and Superman", it epitomizes Shaw's conception of the Life Force. The reading is directed by Mrs. Joyce Rouse.

Sandra Hukonen, Hasslet Junior, John Baldwin, Union, Missouri, freshman, Bill Butts, Detroit, freshman, George Strungren, Grand Forks, North Dakota, graduate student and Kathie Fisher, Flint junior will take part.

Supper will precede the program at 5:30 p.m. (50¢). The reading will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the church fellowship hall.

The dance Saturday from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight will cost 50¢ for singles and 75¢ for couples. Entertainment will also be provided.

Other fun-raising projects for the Peruvian trip are being handled by the student parish.

UCCF Retreats To North

United Campus Christian Fellowship members will leave for a fellowship retreat in Frankfort Saturday following breakfast at the College House.

Hosted by a church in the area, UCCF will study the migrant worker problem. Because this is a fellowship rather than study retreat, students will take part in winter sports Saturday afternoon.

The group, traveling in private cars, will return Sunday following church services. Cost is $5.50. Students may still register by calling 332-0861.

Seek Funds For Project

Proceeds from an all-university dance at St. John's Student Center this weekend will help finance a pioneer project to Peru.

The student parish hopes to send volunteers who will deal with problems of sanitation, health, community planning and agriculture. Cost for the ten-week work project is estimated at $400 per person.

The dance Saturday from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight will cost 50¢ for singles and 75¢ for couples. Entertainment will also be provided.

Other fun-raising projects for the Peruvian trip are being handled by the student parish.

Prof Guides Future Ministers

Dr. George A. F. Knight, professor of the Old Testament at McCormick Seminary, spoke with prospective theological students at MSU Tuesday. He described the education required for church vocations.

Knight was associated with the University at St. Andrews in Scotland until 1960 when he joined the faculty at McCormick.
