

Delta Senior College Proposal Passes House

A proposal to create a state-supported senior college in the Saginaw Valley area was passed by the House Wednesday on an 86-40 vote.

The bill would have immediate effect if passed in the Senate session and signed by the governor.

Rep. Raymond Wurzel, Port Huron Republican who chairs the House Education Committee, introduced the bill. It was the result of a study last year of higher education needs in the valley area.

The senior college proposed would supplement the two-year program now offered Saginaw Valley University at Delta College, a private institution.

Under the bill, local officials would require to raise $1 million initially before any state funds would be appropriated for the institution. This was the same procedure required two years ago for the creation of Grand Valley College in Western Michigan.

Cherry Blossom Princess Names

WASHINGTON UPI -- Gayle Frances Blotnik, Grosse Pointe Farms, has been selected by the Michigan State Society in Washington as Michigan's princess for the Annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

Society President Lawrence E. Hartwig, Chairman of the Negotiation Board, said the 18-year-old junior college freshman will be honored at a society reception April 3. She will be the Michigan entry in the April 5 contest for Festival Queen.

there can't be a blockade of Cuba because it would be an act of war," he said. "Yet on last Oct. 22, during the missile crisis, Secretary of Defense McNamara told newsmen that any ship approaching Cuba which did not stop on U.S. orders, would be shot out of the water. That is a blockade."

Halleck said that despite the fact the administration told the American people the removal of missiles from Cuba would be internationally supervised, "an estimated 42 missiles were removed under a window-peeping inspection program operated by our own ships and planes that leaves unanswered to this day whether all the missiles were removed."

News Briefs

Dunes Park

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Michigan Democratic Senator Phil Hart Thursday urged a senate committee to act with all possible haste on the establishment of a national park for the Sleeping Bear Dunes.

One senator on the committee said he has received over 300 letters opposing the establishment of the park—and only two in favor of it.

Republican Senator Milward Simpson advised Hart to line up the best legal talent available to make sure that the Interior Department and the Park Service live up to their promises.

Hart said the two agencies have promised to protect private property rights in Western Michigan.

Kelley Miffed Over ADC Plan

WASHINGTON UPI—Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley, after a Washington meeting with federal officials Thursday, says he expects to issue an opinion within ten days on the legality of Michigan's new aid to dependent children law.

Kelley, a Democrat, was miffed at Republican Governor Romney for not consulting with him Wednesday before signing the bill into law.

Kelley in these words says—"He issued statements on the legality of the bill without checking with me. I had to come to Washington to get information on this matter."

Kelley said an opinion by his office on the ADC-U bill had been requested by State Senator Philip Rahol.

Worker Hurt

A construction employee working at Wesley Foundation, 11205 Harrison Road, was severely injured Wednesday when he fell from a ladder.

Joseph B. Wrzesinski, 1609 Vermont St., Lansing, was working 30 to 35 feet from the floor when he fell. Whether the ladder broke or Wrzesinski lost his balance is still unknown, police said.

He is in serious condition at St. Lawrence Hospital. His injuries include a fractured upper left arm, a broken nose, multiple skull fractures, fractured face bones and the loss of several teeth.

Quits Brandeis In Row

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—A British woman anthropologist, accused of voicing hope for American defeat—in the event of nuclear war—on the day the United States began its quarantine of Cuba last October, has resigned from Brandeis University, charging infringement of academic freedom.

Announcing his resignation simultaneously, Wednesday, was David F. Aberle, head of the university's department of anthropology in which his wife, Kathleen Aberle, was an assistant professor. Brandeis says David Aberle is an American citizen.

Brandeis president, Abram L. Sachar, had twice reprimanded Mrs. Aberle.

The first occasion was when he said she dismissed her classes to participate 18 months ago in a so-called peace march on the Army's Watertown Arsenal.

The second occasion was after Sachar said she had addressed a student audience "in a manner which, in my judgement, was dangerous, reckless and undisciplined."

wives whose husbands are now in Nepal.

"Jake's (Breitenbach) death must have been a blow to everyone in the party," Mrs. Miller said. "It was really unexpected because the expedition can't be very far out of Katmandu now. It would have been more understandable later in the climb."

Mrs. Miller said she felt the death of the climber could possibly have a negative effect on the morale of the other members of the group, but that the men should take it in stride.

"It's just one of the things that can happen," she said. "Jake could have been killed in an automobile accident. There's a risk involved in everything."

While her husband is away, Mrs. Miller is not just sitting waiting for his return, however. Each minute of her day is devoted to the expedition.

The Millers have two children, 9-year-old Ross and 20-month-old Lance.

"When I'm not busy with the boys, I'm working on material my husband left to be typed," she said, "and I'm helping organize this summer's glaciological institute in Alaska."

"The boys miss their father, of course, but they are excited about his expedition," she said. Ross has helped his little brother learn a new song, and each morning finds the toddler crooning happily, "Daddy's gone to Katmandu. Katmandu, Katmandu," to the tune of "The Muffin Man."

Lance doesn't know what Katmandu is, or where it is, but as Mrs. Miller puts it, "He knows his daddy is climbing rocks, so he climbs rocks too."

Outside the Miller home is a rock garden, with "peaks" just the right size for the mountain climber-to-be.

Ross, a fourth-grade student in East Lansing, does understand why his father is not at home.

"He's thrilled about his father's expedition," said Mrs. Miller. "He loves all the attention and the idea of his father climbing Mt. Everest."

Last week, Ross and his neighbor, 10-year-old James, mailed a three-page "newspaper," Mrs. Miller said. The paper is called "Hobby Shop News" and the first edition contains information for young stamp collectors.

"Next week Ross plans to start a series on his father's Mt. Everest climb," Mrs. Miller said.

Miller and the other members of the expedition are expected back in this country around July 11, after a planned two-week trip through Europe. They will land in New York City and then continue on to their separate destinations.

Will Mrs. Miller meet her husband in New York?

"I hope to meet him in Europe!" she exclaimed. "The trip will be quite an experience if the expedition is successful," she said, "and we are all counting on it being a success."

The Faculty Folk painting class will meet Thursday mornings at the Faculty Folk Quonset 75. Interested persons should call Mrs. R. L. Bateman at ED 2-5178.

2 Profs Named To State Panel

Two University faculty members were named Tuesday to Gov. George Romney's committee to study activities of Michigan's conservation department.

Paul A. Herbert, professor emeritus and chief of economic development research in Michigan, and Christopher Sower, professor of sociology and anthropology, will join 19 other committee members.

Neville came to Michigan State in 1952 as a graduate assistant economics working on his D. In 1954 he was appointed instructor in the department general business.

He became an assistant professor of Continuing Education two years later and was appointed acting director of Continuing Education in 1956. In 1958 he was appointed a professor of Continuing Education. Neville did his under-graduate work at the University of Ohio, earned a masters degree in business administration at Louisiana State University, and received his Ph.D. from Michigan State in 1956.

In 1960 he was a visiting professor of economics at Louisiana State.

Herman L. King, who was named assistant provost March 1, will be Neville's associate. King had been assistant dean of the College of Natural Science since July, 1962, and before that been director of the Division of biological sciences and assistant dean for graduate programs at the former College of Science and Arts. He is a professor of entomology and has been a member of the faculty since 1944.

"King's appointment was very fortunate, and he will be a great asset," Neville said.

Kennedy Plans Tennessee Trip

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Nashville Tennessean said Wednesday that President Kennedy will come to Nashville May 18 and deliver a major address at Vanderbilt University.

The President is coming here, the story said, to participate in ceremonies celebrating the 90th anniversary of the founding of Vanderbilt University and observing the 30th anniversary of the signing of the congressional act creating the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The story said the President will dedicate the new $17 million Veterans Administration Hospital, which has been constructed on the University Complex and, pushing a button, initiate construction work on TVA's Percy Forester Dam and the Cordell Hull Dam.

Expect Aid Bill to Pass House

President Kennedy's $2.7 billion college construction and student aid bill was expected to be passed in the House this week.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Edith Green (D-Ore.), would provide $1.1 billion in five years for direct grants to public, private and church-related colleges.

It would be used for construction of libraries, science and engineering classrooms, and laboratories. Grants probably would exceed one-third of the total.

Campus Marred By Trash, Trustees Ok Faculty Realignment

By CHARLES C. WELLS
State News Staff Writer

Michigan State has one of the most beautiful campuses in America, but its beauty is being marred by trash and debris. Candy wrappers, cigarette butts, orange peels, and even beer cans -- all add up to a tremendous clean-up job with a $16,000 price tag.

"The litter problem is caused by students who don't think before they drop their trash," said Gilbert A. Lloyd, assistant superintendent of grounds maintenance.

Lack of trash containers adds to the problem. There are 30 closed containers, 12 wire baskets, and eight 50-gallon drums provided for 25,000 students.

Lloyd said that there were not enough containers, but that his department did not have enough money to provide more. He said that 12 will be added this year.

He indicated that he did not think that students were more careless now than they were five years ago, but that there were more of them. In three years, the cost has risen $1,000.

He said that some students have been dumping trash out of their dorm windows. The Red Cedar is another popular place where rubbish is thrown.

"Building entrances are particularly bad," he said.

Cement urns are provided for cigarette butts, but many students throw them on the ground or stomp them out on the sidewalk.

"Spring clean-up campaigns are a good idea, but I would like to see these campaigns a year-around effort here on campus," he added.

The problem is so serious that it was the first item of business at the Spartan Round Table meeting March 11.

Representatives decided that the Men's Hall Association carry out an educational program, working through the hall governments. An AUSG anti-litter campaign was also proposed.

There have been plans to ac-

36 DAYS THAT CHANGED THE PERFORMANCE PICTURE IN AMERICA

In 36 days, starting with the Monte Carlo Rallye in January of this year, our products have posted a series of competition wins that have made performance history. Here's what has happened:

Three V-8 Falcon Sprints were entered in the Monte Carlo Rallye. This is not a race. It is a trial of a car's total capabilities. We did it (nervously) for the experience and with practically no sense of expectation, because we had not entered an event like this before. One Sprint ended the experiment in a snow-bank. But the others finished 1-2 in their class with such authority that they moved the good, grey London Times to say: "The Falcons are part of a power and performance plan that will shake up motoring in every country in the world." That was Number One.

Number Two was a double win in the Pure Oil Performance Trials. Fords captured Class 1 and Class 2 (for high performance and large V-8's). Both of these trials were for over-all points rolled up in economy, acceleration and braking tests.

Then, at Riverside in California, in America's only long-distance stock car event that is run on a road course (as opposed to closed circuit, banked tracks such as the track at Daytona), Dan Gurney pushed a Ford to first place.

The latest news comes north from Daytona. There in the open test that tears cars apart—the Daytona 500—Ford durability conquered the field. Fords swept the first 5 places... something no one else had equaled in the history of the event. In a competition — which anyone can enter—designed to prove how well a car hangs together, 9 Fords finished out of 12 entered... a truly remarkable record considering that over 50% of all cars entered failed to finish.

Why do we keep such an interested eye on competitions such as these? Is speed important to us? Frankly, no. The speed capabilities of the leading American cars are now grouped so closely together that the differences have no real meaning. To us, who are building cars, success in this kind of competition means just one thing: the car is strong. This kind of performance capability means that the car is so well built that it can stand up to normal driving—the kind of day-in, day-out demands you put your own car through—for thousands of miles longer than less capable cars.

In tests like the Daytona 500 and Riverside, we find out in an afternoon what might take us 100,000 test-track miles to discover. We learn how to build superior strength into suspension systems, steering systems, drive train, body, tires. Anyone can build a fast car. What we're interested in is the concept of "total" performance.

We believe in this kind of total performance because the search for performance made the automobile the wonderfully efficient and pleasurable instrument it is today—and will make it better tomorrow.

American Indeed, most cars fear cars!

Bridge Plans Almost Final

Final drawings and right-of-way negotiations for the Bogue Street bridge are now being made, according to Robert M. Bruce, East Lansing city engineer.

Problems should be eased with the construction of the bridge. The bridge, it is hoped, will be completed this coming fall, says Robert M. Bruce, East Lansing city engineer.

Connecting north and south campus on the east end of the University, the four-lane traffic bridge over the Red Cedar will have two eight-foot sidewalks. With the planned divided extension of Shaw Lane to Bogue Street, there will be four traffic lanes around the major part of the present campus.

Recent expansion on south campus has created an urgent need for the bridge, according to Harold W. Lautner of the University department of planning and development.

Food Waste At Minimum Says Foster

Food waste is at a minimum on campus, as far as we are concerned, said Emery Foster, Manager of Dorm and Food Services. "Out rates are the lowest in the Big Ten," he said, "and over-production of food is very small. There is little or no waste of government funds, Foster explained, the only money spent on food is paid by students living in the dormitories.

35,000 meals a day are served in the Michigan State dormitories, Kellogg Center, and Olin Hospital.

"We try to give students the best bargain we can," he said, "within the limits of food costs."

Regarding actual production of meals, careful planning and experienced personnel help keep food waste to a minimum. "All affairs, events on campus such as basketball, football games, number of students here on weekends, time and even the weather is recorded and used by the food managers to determine amounts of food prepared," Foster stated. "If there are any specific instances of food waste we would be glad to investigate."

Family Finance Workshop Slated

Educators will take part in a family finance workshop for the seventh consecutive year July 28-29.

MSU is one of 17 universities offering this summer course. Qualified teachers and administrators will receive scholarships covering tuition. Credit toward a graduate degree will be offered.

Applications and information may be obtained by writing Russell Kleis, associate professor of education.

Stereomen Hunting For Musical Talent

If you are a horn player or a drummer and are a freshman or sophomore Army ROTC cadet, the Stereomen Drum and Bugle Corps needs you, Cadet Sgt. David Cuttner, Corps Commander, said.

The unusual marching musical unit is filling its ranks for its annual spring concert. The Stereomen are a part of the University's spring traditions, playing weekly at cadet parades.

This year, the exhibition schedule of the corps has been expanded, and will include performances at the Blossomtime Festival at Benton Harbor, Armed Forces Day in Lansing, the Spartan Invitational Drill Meet plus weekly performances at the dormitory areas.

"Exhibitions, other than at weekly parades, are something new at the University," Cuttner said. "This year we will perform at the various dormitories as a part of the weekly parades. We also have several trips planned, and are representing

Students 'Vacation' In Schools

Nineteen foreign and Puerto Rican students have gone on vacation of their spring vacation to help students in Michigan schools learn about foreign countries and their people.

The 19 students visited four schools. They were used as resource persons to supplement the knowledge and understanding provided by text books and teachers.

The programs were arranged by Homer D. Higbee, assistant dean of International Programs.

"The contracted nature of today's world," said Higbee, "has forced citizens of the U.S. to pay increasing attention to people and events beyond the boundaries of their cities, states and nation."

"As a nation there is much we need to know about the people and institutions of other nations. We must become familiar with their basic institutions of religion, family, economics, education and politics."

"We must try to learn why they view the world as they do and why their view is often at variance with our own."

"Political maps of the world have been redrawn several times in the past decade. School systems at all educational levels find it difficult to keep their textbooks, teaching aids and reference materials up-to-date."

Using University students from foreign countries as resource persons in elementary and secondary schools is designed to answer these problems.

Foreign Students Sound Off Too Much Pressure To Study

Too much pressure is exerted upon American students to study, according to a graduate student in psychology from Guatemala.

"The emphasis upon continual study is linked to the tremendous success complex and materialistic nature of our society," said Aida Gonzalez, Guatemala City graduate student.

She recently explained her views before the special projects committee of J-Council. The committee has been interviewing foreign students from various countries in an effort to put American college life into its international perspective.

Miss Gonzalez referred to Michigan State as a "brain factory." She feels that Guatemalan students live and learn in a much more relaxed atmosphere than American students.

"High school students in Guatemala are much better prepared for college work than students in the United States," she said.

In contrasting the social aspects of Guatemala and the United States, Miss Gonzalez said that a date in her country includes a boy, a girl and a duena or chaperone.

"There is a definite lack of spiritual cognisance at State," she said, "whereas, in Latin American students feel that religion is an important part of university life."

High Court To Hear Negro Pilot's Case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court has been asked to consider the problems of former Air Force pilot Marlon D. Green of Lansing, who wants to be a commercial pilot. He is a Negro. Green's cause was taken up by the Colorado Anti-Discrimination Commission after Continental Airlines, headquartered in Denver, turned him down for a job.

You're Wearing Out Nose

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—On top of your other worries you may as well know that every breath you take helps wear out your nose.

Fortunately it is a slow process. Trouble doesn't start to develop until one is in the 50's or early 60's, Dr. Kenneth H. Hinderer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said Thursday.

Justice Douglas Decries Bias In American Education System

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice William O. Douglas described American education Thursday night as blemished by "more propaganda, than we appreciate"—some of it racial, some religious, some ideological.

WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS - foreign policy may be in effect, no matter how defeating it may be," the U.S. Supreme Court Justice said in a speech prepared for the National Civil Liberties Clearing House.

"Teaching Communism is becoming a fad," Douglas continued. "Moreover, the tendency has been to serve a political rather than an educational need. Those who travel in Communist lands... know that a Communist regime is not all black, while we are all white... is there enough courage and independence left to disclose what features of the Soviet system are not evil?"

Douglas, in his sharp criticism of American education, enumerated several cases of censorship by school boards of school libraries. He included the case of a California school board he said banned "A brochure 'The Rule of Law in World Affairs,' by a Justice Douglas."

his zealous defense of civil liberties -- focused on the problem of education, he did not ignore other areas of American life where he feels civil liberties need guarding.

"The power of the bureaucracy is crushing. Only the expert can find his way. One not flanked by lawyers has little chance to enjoy his rights. That problem promises to get more serious..."

self and who do not have the prestige, courage or resources to vindicate their rights through suits for false arrest."

"Some cities--and I speak principally of northern ones--have a widening river of hate... we know that when racial bias is indoctrinated into the police or when the police are allowed to treat a Negro or a member of another minority as a second-class citizen, the river of hate widens."

2 Crash Victims Continue Recovery

Two victims of the fatal crash at College and Cavanaugh Roads winter term were reported in good condition at Sparrow Hospital Thursday.

Evelyn Storm, Dearborn sophomore, and Constance Taylor, Lansing sophomore, have both been moved to the rehabilitation center of the hospital. They are receiving physical therapy and are doing well, a hospital spokesman said.

Map Base Minutes, Not Miles

A new concept in road maps is being developed by two University researchers. They are developing a map in time rather than in distance. The two men have developed a map designed to enable Lansing residents to get an extra forty weeks in the year.

Set up on a five minute interval system, the map uses the State as a starting point, and measured over the shortest fastest routes.

Donald A. Blome, 30, assistant professor in the Institute of Community Development and Geography, and Carlton S. VanDoren, graduate assistant in the institute, made the map.

The time map is completely different from the ones measuring distance in miles. It shows that the distance from the city and Lansing and East Lansing as much longer.

Straight roads on regular maps appear distorted bent and twisted in the time chart because of their intersections with high-speed highways serving the core of the Driving times for the map are made during weekdays of 9:30 and 10 a.m., which was considered normal shopping hours.

Mapping of peak rush hours would be too difficult and too expensive at the present, Blome said.

The Institute for Community Development plans to publish the map in booklet explaining how it was derived and its purpose.

The study was intended essentially for the tri-county Greater Lansing area, but extended into parts of Shiawassee and Ingham counties that were inside a 40-minute circle used as a maximum time zone.

Time maps, Blome said, could be used by police to determine the amount of time required to reach certain points within certain districts.

30 Days In 29 Ft. Freezer

Human Ice Cubes Emerge

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) -- Air Force scientists released their "three-men-in-a-hub" Thursday. For 30 days, almost to the minute, the three volunteers have been sealed in a 29-foot-long capsule resembling a huge freezer.

They breathed the same air over and over during those 720 hours, helping to evaluate an oxygen recovery system developed by the Boeing Co. of Seattle.

Students Aim For Summer Aiding Peru

Kuipa, Peru is the target for about 30 University students this summer who plan to foster understanding between Peruvians and Americans.

Nearly 50 students are already working on the World Campus Overseas project out of the St. John's Student Parish which plans to send a team of volunteers to Peru.

The Michigan State group, the first to participate in the WCO project that was initiated in 1961 will serve on programs selected by Peruvian officials.

David V. Walsh, East Lansing junior and a member of the project's steering committee, said about $350 per student will be needed to carry out the program.

"We'll stake anyone who is really willing to go," he said. "The final say on how many will go to Peru depends on the amount of money we collect."

The project is open to students of all religious affiliations, he explained.

A fund raising rummage sale will be held in downtown Lansing April 5 and a dinner April 7. The trip is planned to run from June 15 to September 1.

Queen Has Skeleton In Closet

LONDON (AP) -- Queen Elizabeth II is going to be asked for permission to publish a document in which one of her royal ancestors allegedly confessed to murder.

The ancestor was the disolute Duke of Cumberland, who died in 1851. The Duke was Queen Victoria's Uncle. Queen Victoria was Queen Elizabeth's great-grandmother.

In the document, said to be secreted in the royal archives at Windsor Castle, the Duke confessed to killing his valet.

The valet, named Sellis, was found with his throat cut in a locked room, not far from St. James' Palace in 1810.

The document is said to have been written in 1827 by the Duke's private secretary, Capt. Charles Jones.

For years, the document is said to have been filed under a tag that warned: "not to be shown to research students without permission."

But one researcher, according to the Spectator magazine, took a peek at the ancient document, and talked.

Orchestra To Defend Title

The MSU Television Lab Orchestra will participate in the Collegiate Jazz Festival at Notre Dame this weekend.

The orchestra under the direction of Gene Hale, won first place in the large orchestra category last year.

Hale came to State two years ago and formed the orchestra with interested students. He arranged for regularly scheduled rehearsal periods to develop the orchestra.

Hale left State this year to accept a position as head of a college in the California system. He was replaced by George West, a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music.

The orchestra, under the leadership of West, is competing against a number of top college bands throughout the nation, including the University of Florida, Denver University, University of Michigan, and the Air Force Academy.

The group selected as the Finest Jazz Group will receive the traveling trophy from the Associated Booking Corporation and a permanent plaque, in addition to their awards as either Finest Big Band or Finest Combo.

The Finest Big Band will receive a set of Selmer Porta-Decks and its members will receive subscriptions to Down-Beat magazine, and scholarships to the National Stage Band Camp.

Several musical instrument manufacturers will present instruments to the individuals selected as outstanding soloists by the judges, in addition to scholarships to the Berkeley School of Music.

The outstanding original composition will be published by the School.

Selection of the 22 groups to participate in the Festival was based on taped performances sent to the Festival committee.

Bookstore Halts For Present

The continuation of the AUSG student bookstore project rests with the next administration.

"The brunt of the program will fall on new people in the government elected next month," said Executive Vice President Jim Morton, East Lansing Junior.

"The trouble with the special projects being initiated is that members of AUSG are spreading themselves pretty thin," said Morton. "We can find enough people to work on committees, but no one who can take over as president."

Morton said some of the more able people work on Pan Hel or organizations promising more prestige than the student discount or student bookstore programs.

Besides organization leadership, problems of finance have held back launching of the student bookstore, said Morton.

"The Luau took most of the money available for the purchase of books. We wanted to start with $2,000, which we don't have yet. It would be tough to compete even with that amount."

The original plan was to buy used humanities books at higher prices than book stores and sell them cheaper to students than the book stores do.

"We'd like to give the student more money back and possibly force the book stores to give them a better deal," said Morton.

Help might be furnished by service honoraries except where trained buyers are needed, and overhead costs could be kept to a minimum.

Purchasing agencies would be established in the Student Services building, the Brody group, and in the Case-Wilson area, Morton said.

He said he sometimes wonders if the bookstore is what the students really want.

"Many students like to buy all their books in one store at one time, while we can start with only a few courses," he said.

Insurance Adds 10% To GNP

Insurance accounted for 10 per cent of the Gross National Product (GNP) in 1961 and made a significant contribution to Michigan's economy, according to a current article by two members of the College of Business.

Thomas L. Wenck, assistant professor, and Alvin G. Becker, assistant instructor, report there were about 4,800 insurance companies in the country in 1961. Of these, 781 conducted business in Michigan; 103 of these were domestic Michigan companies.

The article, "Michigan's Insurance Industry," appears in the March issue of "Michigan Economic Record," published by the MSU Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

"Our nation's citizens and businesses," said the authors, "paid approximately $33.6 billion in premiums in 1961. When state and federal government insurance activity is added, the total premium volume was over $53 billion, about 10 per cent of the GNP."

talk is still there, even if it does sound like gobbledygook to the doubledomes and eggheads.

And all perfectly good English, too, according to Webster's seventh New Collegiate Dictionary, the first edition in a decade.

Its publisher said it follows the pattern of its recent parent, the unabridged Webster's International, whose elevation of once-slang terms to good usage aroused outcries from some literati.

Concerning reports that the new desk dictionary represented a retreat to older forms, he said: "Tommyrot."

Which, in the New Collegiate, is first-class English, meaning: "rank foolishness and nonsense."

He added: "The Webster editors are not admitting defeat in any way whatsoever."

However, the new dictionary does back away from some Third International, itself the first complete such revision in half a century.

For instance, "square," the hipster term meaning an unsophisticated person, is classified slang in the new desk-size edition, but was given full respectability in the larger version.

Also, "yeah," billed as good English for "yes" in the International, is missing in the new book, as are some of the other late idioms, such as "pricewise."

But generally, the newly spawned terms are included with the full stamp of approval—such words and phrases as carry, stickup, on the lam, yacking, swell, hotrod, yahoo.

Also recognized as legitimate is the modern practice of turning adjectives into verbs, such as "finalize" and "particularize."

Prof Says Marketing Economic Growth Key

Marketing, not production, is the key to economic growth in the United States, according to William Lazer, professor of marketing.

"Physical production," said Lazer, "is limited by the quantity that the market can absorb."

"When abundance prevails," Lazer said, "increased productive capacity no longer assures growth. The limitation has shifted from the productive plant and the physical facility to the market place."

"Because of our production orientation we have underemphasized the relative significance of consumers and consumption in our economy. Previously, only business investment received attention as a significant factor in influencing business conditions."

Examining the substantial investments of consumers in such durables as houses, automobiles, and refrigerators, Lazer said, "If our economy is to grow at a faster rate," he said, "we shall require not only business investments, but also consumer investments."

"The role of consumers and hence marketing as the focal point of economic and business action becomes evident."

Marketing, according to Lazer, is the institution most closely identified with an economy of abundance.

"It is," he said, "the institution which distinguishes the American economy from other economies."

"Marketing is responsible to a very large extent for our efficient productive systems, for the implementation of our technology."

"It is impossible to understand our culture without some understanding of marketing."

"In an economy of abundance, industrial systems become more mature, manufacturing capacity is expanded far beyond the existing demand, and because of specialization and the nature of organizations, a gap exists between producers and consumers. Under such conditions, marketing becomes a very significant institution."

Lazer, a member of the MSU staff since 1955, is co-author of "Marketing in a Consumer Economy," published by McGraw-Hill.

TOUSH Young Men During Brief Campus Visit

BY LESLEY KLEIN
State News Staff Writer

All boys love cookies and punch and the boys of the Poznan Choir of Poland were no exception.

Dressed in cherry-red jackets and black shorts 38 youngsters between nine and fourteen wandered round the Union reception room, munching cookies and having pictures taken before their performance last night at the Auditorium.

This is the Choir's first tour of America. They were scheduled to come to the U.S. in 1939 but the war interrupted carefully laid plans," said Kurt Newmann who is with the Hurck office in charge of the choir while it is in this country.

According to Newmann the choir arrived Feb. 14 and will leave April 3 from Canada.

The choir, he continued, is composed of boys and men. The boys go to many different schools and the men are in a variety of professions.

Mrs Horodecka, traveling house mother to the boys, introduced a group of six men, giving their professions which ranged from doctor and clerk to economist and engineer.

Both boys and men train three times a week for two hour periods, she said.

According to Mrs Horodecka, the boys have been busy but are also a bit home sick.

First Inning Spree Marks Spartan Win

John Kobs' baseballers added another victory on their pre-season southern swing with a 16-5 romp over Fort Lee on Wednesday.

The victory over the soldiers brought the Spartans' record to 4-1 in their tune-up series.

Thursday the MSU diamondmen moved on to the University of Virginia. Today and Saturday visits to the University of Richmond and George Washington University will wind up the prep session.

In an explosive first inning against Fort Lee, 13 Spartans were on base before the service men's pitching for eight runs on eight hits.

Bob Maniere and Mal Chiljean both had two hits in the first inning surge. First baseman Jerry Sutton slammed a home run in the fifth for the Spartans. The four bagger came with the bases empty.

Regular season play opens with a double-header against Albion at home, April 13.

Sixteen of the Spartans' 25 ball games this spring will be played at MSU's Old College Field.

Late Inning Homers Halt Tiger Hopes

Two eighth inning home runs gave the Washington Senators a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers in Grapefruit League exhibition baseball Thursday.

Trailing 3-2 going into the eighth, Washington got round trippers from Tom Brown and Jim King. Brown's homer came with one on and King's was a solo blast.

Detroit came up with one run in the bottom of the eighth. Winning pitcher for the Senators was starter Don Rudolph.

BI, Local Police Seek Racketeer Palermo's Son

son of a Philadelphia box-racketeer figure was named in two FBI warrants issued in conjunction with a felony flight to avoid prosecution. One of the warrants was for no account checks cashed by University police.

Dennis Palermo, 29, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, promoter and racketeer being sought by University police for passing several checks of $50 apiece in the Lansing area.

University police said the Palermo apparently moves from country stopping in colleges, drinking with college boys and passing bad checks for the liquor.

FBI is following up two warrants on Palermo. A warrant supplementing University police warrants is being sought by University police in the million dollar racket at a Youngstown, Ohio gambling Club on February 2. Authorities have been trying to link the fire, which followed a hold-up at the club, with Youngstown's lethal warfare for control of gambling rackets.

Many members of the Youngstown club have been sponsoring a "Ban the Bomb" campaign to rid the racketeers blamed for 10 deaths and unsolved killings in the last four years.

Deputy U.S. Commissioner Henry C. Robinson issued the arson warrant for Palermo, whose father's sports betting activities caused his questioning by the Senate Rackets Committee.

The break in the mysterious fire in the Youngstown club came in Cleveland where Thomas Boswell, 38, told Cleveland detectives that he had been hired, along with a relative he had recruited, to help Palermo set the fire.

FRANK PALERMO

Boswell said Palermo had reneged on paying a promised $500, Cleveland police said.

Boswell, arrested in Beaver Falls, Penn., is under indictment on a second degree murder charge in the rope slashing of David Loufborow, 19, a Cleveland playhouse student.

Palermo is described by University police as 5 feet 8 and one half inches tall, 125 pounds, with dark brown hair and brown eyes.

Palermo's police record dates back to 1957.

Thesis Compares Negro Motivation

By GALE MC ELRATH
State News Staff Writer

Students at two Detroit high schools, predominantly Negro, rated just as high on academic motivation ratings as youths in most other Michigan high schools, yet their grade point averages were consistently lower.

Robert L. Green, of the Education Department, made the study and listed the findings in his doctoral dissertation in December.

A comparison was made between Negro and Caucasian high school students on achievement and motivation. A surprising finding was that Negro high school students received higher average motivational test scores than their Caucasian counterparts, according to Green.

"However, they failed to achieve the grade points white students did," he said.

Green said possibly Negro youths know how they should behave when placed in an academic setting. They set long-term goals and compete with prevalent standards of excellence, as evidenced by the tests. But when placed in real academic settings their motivation tended to drop.

Green said environmental conditions are important in terms of scholastic attainment. A youth may be favorably endowed at birth, but when placed in a non-stimulating environment such as many lower income students grow up in, this works against academic motivation and achievement, he said.

"A student's academic self-concept was found crucial in these lower socio-economic areas, such as the two Detroit schools, when predicting academic achievement," he said. "Students receiving higher grades tend to have higher academic self-concepts."

When he presented the Detroit students with the alternative of whether they would rather have a new car today, or a college degree tomorrow, they invariably chose the college degree.

Obsolete Buildings Bring Urban Decay

Buildings becoming obsolete at a faster rate than ever before and a floating population of unskilled workers are two big causes of decay in today's cities.

Though there are many other factors contributing to the decay of city cores, these are two major ones, indicates Myles G. Boylan, director of the School of Urban Planning and Landscape Architecture.

"Cities tend to replace themselves every forty years or so," said Boylan. "The heightened pace of technology is rendering our city structure obsolete at a faster rate."

"Buildings become obsolete, too outdated to be suitable for use, and there's a tendency to replace them but the rate of obsolescence is increasing faster than the rate of replacement."

If the core areas don't replace buildings faster than in the city as a whole, these areas decay, Boylan said. "In such cases the core area captures decreases" added Carl Goldschmidt, associate professor of urban planning. Businesses may move out, he said.

Migration of people from less privileged areas to the city also has a decaying effect, indicated Boylan.

"Since the Second World War industrial cities have imported labor from such areas," he said. "These people go to whatever part of the city where housing is cheap and they can afford it."

These areas are already on the decline when the people move in. "And for every one person who leaves the city, five such persons move in."

When obsolete buildings are replaced, it adds to the traffic problem, Boylan added.

New buildings have more floor space and this means more vehicles have to come to them.

"Many larger cities just can't handle any more cars downtown."

What cities have to face is mass rapid transit.

Pet Clinic Scheduled For April, May

The grooming, bathing, combing, brushing, and feeding of animals will be studied by more than 100 children in April and May at the second annual Pet Clinic for children at Gilmer Hall and at the Judging Pavilion.

The clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on April 13 and 20 at Gilmer and April 27 and May 4 at the Pavilion.

The clinic is open to all children between the fifth and eighth grades in the Lansing area, according to Mrs. David Johnson, publicity chairman.

The clinic is being conducted by 40 veterinary students and their wives, she said.

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—The pastor of Clemson's First Baptist Church said he was fired recently because of his contacts with Clemson College's only Negro student, Harvey B. Gantt.

The church officials voted overwhelmingly to accept the minister's resignation, a move advocated earlier by the board of deacons.

Webster said that in June, 1962, he directed Gantt and another Negro to the office of the Clemson registrar where they attempted to enroll.

Book Stirs Debate Over God

LONDON (AP) -- An Anglican bishop has called on Christians to stop thinking of God as being "up there" or "our there" or anywhere.

Dr. John A. T. Robinson's suggestion, put forth in a 70-cent paper-back book, "Honest To God," has stirred a nationwide religious controversy in Britain.

The 43-year-old Robinson, Suffragan Bishop of Woolwich, says Christians must go through "the agonizing process of re-teaching themselves" from a traditional image of God. He says that God should be perceived as the ultimate reality.

"If Christianity is to survive," he argues, "it must be relevant to modern secular man, not to the dwindling number of the religious."
