

Expected Enrollment Topped By 1,600--27,669 Register

By CHARLES C. WELLS
State News Staff Writer

This year's campus enrollment hit an all-time record figure of 27,669 topping the estimated figure of 26,000 by more than 1,600.

Registrar Horace C. King released the total Thursday. Enrollment continues to grow in most divisions at Michigan State, he said. The total compares to last year's campus enrollment of 25,014.

"The additional students were accommodated because classroom space was changed to fit them in and because all departments gave us excellent cooperation."

Total resident credit enrollment is 29,094 compared to 26,472 for last year. This figure includes the campus total and totals at the seven resident centers around the state. Resident center totals are 1,425, down 33 from last year.

Resident centers are located in Benton Harbor, Grand Rapids, Traverse City, Pontiac, Saginaw, Marquette and the South Central Office here on campus. Many of the courses offered at the resident centers are afternoon and evening classes for credit.

Oakland University, MSU's affiliate near Pontiac, recorded 1,481, which is up from 1,255 in 1962.

Credit extension course students numbered 963. This figure compares to 1,098 for 1962. Credit extension courses are offered to off-campus students not enrolled in the resident center program.

Both the resident center program and the credit extension program are taught by MSU instructors who travel over the state to teach in the program.

Of the students studying on the East Lansing campus, about 13,500 live in Michigan State's 34 residence halls. Some 10 per cent or 1,300 students are living three to a room. Most of the overassignment is in the men's dormitories.

"In general, I would say registration in the Intramural Building went smoothly, but the overall effect will not be known until the assistant deans for student affairs and the registrar's staff appraise all factors," said Registrar Horace C. King.

Early registration of freshmen and graduate students made registration much easier than in the past. The plan may be extended to include more students in the future.

The registrar said class lists were distributed to instructors before 8 a.m. Thursday. The Data Processing Department worked until 6:30 a.m. before all the work was completed, he added.

Senate Approves Pay Increase

WASHINGTON—The Senate passed 79 to 0 Thursday a bill providing a $1 billion, 200 million a year pay increase for most persons in the nation's fighting forces.

The compromise measure to boost military pay for the first time since 1958 now goes to the House for expected speedy approval.

Committees Discuss Wheat Sales

WASHINGTON—Foreign Affairs and Agriculture committees of the House meet in joint session Thursday afternoon to discuss the possibility of the United States selling some of its vast wheat surplus to Russia.

The development followed reports that a group of American businessmen have been meeting in Canada with a Soviet delegation to discuss a wheat deal. Earlier, Russian officials signed a half-billion dollar wheat deal with Canada to fill gaps left by crop failures in Russia.

Two Men, Body, Found in Gulf

ST. PETERSBURG, Florida—Two men, one of them incoherent, and the body of a pregnant woman have been found floating in the Gulf of Mexico, some 80 miles southwest of St. Petersburg.

The Coast Guard said the three were aboard a 38-foot pleasure boat, the "Ev-Ann" which disappeared in the stormy gulf Tuesday.

Hurricane Approaching Hispaniola

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—Hurricane Edith was last reported moving toward the island of Hispaniola with winds of 100 miles an hour. Gale warnings were sent out for southern Haiti and the southwestern Dominican Republic, and Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands have warned against possible floods.

Pope's Nephew Marries

BRESCIA, Italy.—A nephew of Pope Paul VI and an Italian countess were married Thursday at Capodimonte near this northern city. The Pontiff sent a personal message and his apostolic blessing to Giovanni Bosco Montini, an engineer, and Countess Marzia Provaglio.

Damaged Plane Lands Safely

NORTH ANDOVER, Mass.—A Cessna 310 plane with two men aboard flew over the Lawrence Municipal Airport Thursday burning up gasoline before attempting a landing with a damaged link in the front wheel.

Airport Manager Melvin S. Kirkman was in touch with the pilot, James Jackson, by radio. He estimated the plane, which was in the air about an hour shortly before 11:30 a.m., had enough fuel for three or four hours.

The plane had taken off from the airport for a short ride over the area. Jackson is an instructor for Four Star Aviation, a fixed base operator at the airport.

Murrow Deplores Racial Problems

PHILADELPHIA.—Edward R. Murrow, U.S. Information Agency director, said Thursday racial problems in the United States create daily difficulties for American diplomats abroad.

"There is no other single subject, month in and month out, that so consistently occupies the cares and curiosities of other people about the United States," Murrow said in a speech prepared for the Federal Bar Association National Convention.

"Putting John Glenn into orbit puts his name in every headline in the world. But James Meredith may be as well known around the world, and while America's space sensations rise and fall in world attention, America's race relations seem to remain in the undiminished spotlight."

Admission of Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi under a court order was accompanied by rioting.

Murrow said his agency has "greatest difficulties" in explaining civil rights and racial relations to foreign peoples. "Events here plague us over there," he said.

Gals Save Day In Rent Delay

"Honey, did you pay the rent?" About four or five students living in married housing asked their wives that question during registration. They were held up during registration for not paying their rent on time.

After consulting with the "better half," the students found their rent had been paid. They were permitted to continue registration after explaining the situation to registration officials.

Paul Rumpas, University Business Office, explained that rent cards are pulled out of a file when rent is paid. Those left after the rent deadline show to the office staff those married students who have not paid.

It seems that through a clerical error, cards for four or five married students who had paid, were not pulled. It doesn't happen very often, he said.

"This situation is an unfortunate thing that we try to guard against," added Rumpas. "We are trying to improve the system so that this doesn't happen again."

Scholars Pix Set

All Merit Scholars will meet at 9 a.m. Saturday in the ballroom of the Student Union for the annual picture.

The group picture will be used in various University publications and will form the permanent record of the Merit Scholars on the State campus this year.

Dr. Stanley Idzerda, director of The Honors College, will meet with the scholarship students, who number about 225, freshmen through seniors.

Romney Predicts Tax Win

Talks To Livestock Experts

Governor Calls For Legislative Action This Fall

Governor George Romney continued to battle for support for his tax reform program here Wednesday.

Speaking at the kickoff dinner for Michigan Meat Week, sponsored by the Michigan Livestock Improvement Association, Romney indicated he wants action when the legislature is called back into session later this fall. "Experts from the fields of business, finance and government have studied Michigan's fiscal problems and they came up with the following recommendations," he said.

--Michigan has to get the business tax structure in line with competing states.

--There must be greater justice in business taxes. Now the least able to pay, have to pay the largest percentage of our business taxes.

--We must eliminate the injustice in taxation of families. Today the poorer families pay the largest percentage of state and local taxes.

--Local property taxes are too high to be equitable.

He predicted passage of the tax reform plan and cited that the Michigan Farm Bureau now views it with favor. The Farm Bureau is the largest Michigan farm organization.

Governor Romney advocated spending reductions in Michigan government, but said his administration would not take a "meat ax" approach to cutting appropriations.

He also said the idea of an income tax is not a partisan one.

"Every Republican since Lincoln has recommended an income tax is favored by only one party is a bunch of baloney."

Later, in an indirect way, the governor criticized organizations like the John Birch Society.

"America today is threatened by people who cannot distinguish between an Eisenhower and a communist subversive," he said. "And this hemisphere will not last if people will not begin to recognize the lord of this land."

We have got to become less materialistic and realize that the Ten Commandments have not been repealed, he added. If we can reverse these trends, which otherwise will destroy us, then we'll pull through.

AUSG Meeting

All University Student Government will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday in 328 Student Services Building. Bob Henckes, president of the Congress, has urged all congressmen to attend the meeting which will start at 7 p.m.

Biology Institute Director Heads Medical Program

Dr. William H. Knisely, former chairman of the department of anatomy at the University of Kentucky, begins work this week as director of MSU's two-year medical program.

Knisely is also director of the Institute of Biology and Medicine, which was established by the Board of Trustees in 1961. Its purpose is to implement a two-year pre-clinical program in human medicine closely coordinated with strengthened programs in the biological sciences, veterinary medicine, nursing and medical technology.

Knisely will work in planning the two-year medical school, carry out extensive curriculum research on courses in biological sciences and human and veterinary medicine and aid in planning a life sciences building.

The 41-year-old native of Michigan was the first chairman of the anatomy department when the University of Kentucky established its medical center in 1959. He was responsible for building

Grad Student Heads Off-Campus Housing

Patrick Smith, new director of off-campus housing, is "completely sold on MSU"—as a student and an administrator.

The 25-year-old graduate student who replaces Jack Seibold in the off-campus housing position this fall has been at MSU since 1958 and says he has "enjoyed every minute of it."

He received his B.A. in history education here in 1961 and is now working on his master's degree in student personnel administration. He hopes to begin work on his doctorate this year.

"I like working with students, and it's right in my field," he said. "This job is wonderful and I'm glad to be here."

Smith has participated in a wide variety of activities as an undergraduate and as a graduate student. A former member of Motts Co-op, he served as president of the Inter-Cooperative Council. He is affiliated with Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He has been a graduate resident adviser in Rafter and Armstrong Halls. Smith worked with the Student Education Corps last year and went to Peru last summer as director of "Project Peru," sponsored by St. John's Student Parish.

The off-campus housing operations are demanding, particularly during the first weeks of the term.

"We don't have any way of knowing right now how many students will be living in off-campus housing," Smith said.

Osteopaths May Hurt Med School Chances

An all-out bid by Lansing for a proposed $30 million College of Osteopathic Medicine could result in expansion of area medical facilities if the city receives a favorable recommendation next month by the site committee of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

If Lansing does win the bid it could set back Michigan State's hope of becoming the site of the state's third four-year medical school, Albert O. Boyd, executive vice-president of the Greater Lansing Chamber of Commerce, said.

Boyd said that he felt the Lansing area would not be able to support two medical programs such as the osteopathic college and the proposed four-year medical school.

"This osteopathic college is something definite," Boyd said. "The four-year medical school is not. Before it could be established, the legislature would have to allot funds for it. In view of this, we decided to make an all-out bid for the new osteopathic college for the City of Lansing."

William H. Knisely, director of the two-year preclinical medical program now being established here, however, was more optimistic about the affects of a Lansing osteopathic college.

A new osteopathic school will not necessarily have any effect on MSU's efforts to be recommended as the site for a new four-year medical school, Knisely said.

"The need for more physicians in the State of Michigan would still exist, regardless of any other facilities which might be established in this area," Knisely said. "As I understand it, the recommendation of the Michigan Coordinating Council for Higher Education that a third four-year medical school be established was prompted by the increasing need for doctors throughout the state."

He added that there are unmet medical needs in the Lansing area as well.

The Chamber of Commerce recently revealed results of a survey showing that three of every five Michigan osteopaths prefer a central location like Lansing for the new college.

Boyd said there are 18 available sites in the Lansing metropolitan area for the new osteopathic college. This factor, coupled with the professional preference for a Lansing campus, was a major point in the city's presentation of its bid to the four-man site committee of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

Meanwhile, MSU's hopes of becoming the site of the state's third four-year medical school received three boosts.

The Ingham County delegation to the Michigan State Medical Society presented a resolution to MSMS that the new medical school be established through expansion of MSU's planned two-year program.

The two-year program is scheduled to begin in 1964. Knisely's main responsibilities are aiding in the appointment of a medical doctor as dean of the program, planning of a life sciences building to provide instruction and research for the biological sciences, and doing extensive research on MSU graduate courses in the biological sciences, human medicine and veterinary medicine.

Another boost came when President Kennedy signed a $236.4 million medical education bill which could provide money for the two-year program. Richard U. Byerrum, dean of the College of Natural Science, called the aid bill a favorable development and said he assumed MSU would seek funds under it.

A third boost for MSU's medical school hopes was received Tuesday when a survey presented to the Ingham County Board of Supervisors indicated the need for expanding the Ingham County Medical Hospital from 180 to 500 beds.

Byerrum said any expansion of clinical facilities in the Lansing area would help in planning for the two-year school and possible acceptance of the four-year school.

Hannah Makes Plea For Rights Group

The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights should be continued, said President John A. Hannah.

Hannah, who serves as chairman, urged congressional action on the matter after his return from Washington Thursday. The commission is scheduled to lose its legal status Monday.

"In my view the commission has made a very real contribution to progress in the civil rights field," he said. "In its six years of existence, no one has questioned the validity of its findings."

President Hannah has been chairman of the commission since its inception.

Spartans Could Surprise

Improving on a 5-4 record can be easy for some football teams. It can be hard for others. MSU's '63 squad seems to fall into the latter category.

When a team loses 18 lettermen, including an All-American fullback things can look pretty black.

Yet the time to push the old panic button doesn't appear to be around the corner.

The Spartans attack, even with the loss of George Saimes, should be stronger this fall. And the forward pass isn't the only reason.

Improved punts and kickoffs, along with field goals, should do much to change losses to wins. The line is lighter, yet quicker. The backs display a combination of experience and talent that should mean improvement.

How much improvement nobody knows.

Those who attend Saturday's opener will find out some of the answers.

Saturday afternoon the stadium will be crowded with people. People who want to judge the '63 Spartans for themselves.

And there's nothing like getting the news first hand--

Innovation Aids Registration

Michigan State people have never been known for sitting back and letting the world go by. They have gone out to solve problems from labor relations to hog cholera. Many here thought they were trying to do the impossible when they set out to solve the problems of a chaotic registration program.

For nearly every American university the job of getting students, classrooms, and hours to jibe is tremendous.

This year at registration, not all were satisfied. Yet the situation was a great improvement. A majority of the freshmen pre-registered while some other students received class cards early.

Perhaps in future years, today's students will reminisce about the so called "good old days" when you had to be a real man to go through registration.

Motel, Nina, And A New Hazard

By JACK SHEA

What's the first day of fall term like? It's like living in a motel, Nina Khrushchev, and encountering a new hazard to your education.

The motel is the Inn America, and the reason you're living there is because your new apartment in Cedar Village doesn't have a floor yet. Life in a motel room with a year's worth of supplies can leave you a little pressed for space, but it has its advantages.

A swimming pool, continental breakfast served until 11 a.m., and real Kookey coeds just a short way down the balcony, give one of the illusion that the whole year is just going to be one great big "spring term vacation."

But this impression only lasts until the first class. It's a 10 a.m. history course for pre-law students and along with about 250 others your wondering just what she's like. You know the teacher is a woman because she has a reputation for giving tough tests and reputations like this spread fast -- real fast.

Then in walks Nina Khrushchev. Well she looks like Nina anyway. A kind, weathered face, and a healthy physique, makes you think that maybe she moonlights on her job by working for the television program "Wagon Train."

With great verve she introduces the course and the text. She needs every bit of verve she has because outside the window workman are constructing what sounds like three Grand Coulee Dams at once.

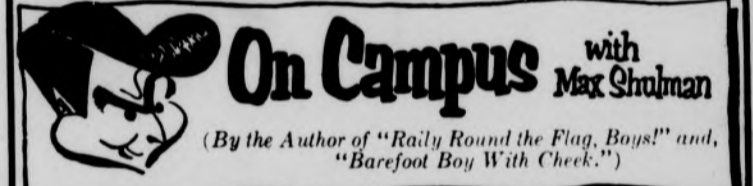

After all is said and done, you leave the class with the impression that Madame is a good teacher and has the get-up and go quality that is such a necessary ingredient to an interesting class.

On you go to your second class of the day and an encounter with the above-mentioned "new hazard to your education."

The hazard isn't very big; in fact she's only about five feet tall. She's your French teacher!

Now a girl like this shouldn't be teaching French. With eyes like Eddie Cantor and a personality like Connie Francis, how are you ever going to concentrate on la French!

After learning how to say goodbye in French, the class is over. You walk away trying to figure out whether you should drop French and ask her to the football game, or remember that you're supposed to be in love with "a girl back home" and concentrate on getting an "A."

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Check.")

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH, DEAR FRIENDS

Today I begin my tenth year of writing this column in your campus newspaper. Ten years is a long time; it is, in fact, what some scholarly people like to call a decade—from the Latin word decum, meaning the floor of a ship. It is, to my mind, remarkable that the Romans had such a word as decum when you consider that ships did not exist until 1620 when John Alden invented the Mayflower. Alden, a prodigiously ingenious man, also invented the ear lobe and Pocahontas.

Ships were a very popular mode of travel—especially over water—until 1912 when the Swede, Ivar Krueger, invented the iceberg. Krueger also invented the match, which is a good thing, because without the match, how would you light your Marlboro Cigarettes? I cannot overstress the importance of lighting your Marlboro Cigarettes, for Marlboro Cigarettes, unlighted, provide, at best, only limited smoking pleasure.

You might even call it the limp or Spongy sell.

I mention Marlboros because this column is an advertisement, brought to you through the school year by the makers of Marlboros. Marlboros come in soft pack or Flip-Top box. The makers of Marlboros come in dark suits with thin lapels—except on weekends when they come in yoke-neck jerseys and white duck trousers. White ducks come in flocks. They are primarily fresh water dwellers, although they have been successfully raised in salt water too. Another salt water denizen I'm sure you will find enjoyable is plankton—a mess of tiny organisms like diatoms and algae and like that which float sluggishly near the surface of the sea. It is ironic that these creatures, microscopic in size, should supply the principal source of food for the earth's largest animal, the whale. Whales, I must say, are not at all pleased with this arrangement, because it takes the average whale, eating steadily, 48 hours to gather a day's meal. This leaves them almost no time for water sports or reading Melville. It is a lucky thing for all of us that whales are unaware they are mammals, not fish, and could, if they tried, live just as well on land as in water. I mean, you add ten or twelve million whales to our Sunday traffic and you would have congestion that makes the mind boggle.

But I digress. Today, I was saying, I begin my tenth year of writing this column for Marlboro Cigarettes in your campus newspaper. I will, in each column, say a few kind words about Marlboros—just as you will, once you try that fine tobacco flavor, that pristine white filter, that supple soft pack, that infrangible Flip-Top box. These references to Marlboro will be brief and unobtrusive, for I do not believe in the hard sell. What I favor is the soft sell—you might even call it the limp or spongy sell. I hasten to state that the makers of Marlboro in ten full years have not once complained about my desultory sales approach. Neither have they paid me.

But that is of small consequence. Aside from fleeting mentions of Marlboro, this column has another, and more urgent, mission: to cast the hot white light of free inquiry upon the vexing questions that trouble college America—questions like "Should the Student Council have the power to levy tariffs?" and "Are roommates sanitary?" and "Should housemothers be compelled to retire upon reaching the age of 26?"

Perhaps, reasoning together, we can find the answers. Perhaps not. But if we fail, let it never be said that it was for want of trying.

I thank you.

© 1963 Max Shulman

The makers of Marlboro are happy to bring you another year of Max Shulman's unpredictable and uncensored column—and also happy to bring you new Nicorette Marlboros, available in pack or box, wherever cigarettes are sold in all 50 states.

Baptists Try New Method

A new experiment in Christian education will begin Sunday at the American Legion Memorial Hall on Valley Court, East Lansing.

The University Baptist Church, meeting at the Hall until the construction of a new church, will have a guest minister every Sunday. Following the 10 a.m. worship service, college students will meet to discuss the sermon theme.

A bus will provide transportation for college students to the hall each Sunday.

The name atonement explains the significance of Yom Kippur. On the day of "at-one-ment," Jewish people seek to be "at-one" in harmony with God.

Rabbi Phillip Frankel of the Shaarey Zedek congregation said that Yom Kippur is a day of fasting, prayer and meditation, an acknowledgement of sin and a plea for forgiveness.

Judaism teaches that one cannot ask God's forgiveness for wrong-doing unless he has asked others to forgive him for any wrong he may have done to them during the year.

The principal ceremony of Rosh Hashana is the blowing of the shofar, a ram's horn which recalls Abraham's willingness to sacrifice Isaac and God's acceptance of the ram instead.

Religion Major New Benefit

Students who desire to emphasize the study of religion may now take a major in this field.

Until last winter, each department of the College of Arts and Letters offered a major with the exception of the department of religion. Because there are a number of students who would benefit from the availability of a major in this field, the religion major was added to the college program.

Students who plan to enter a theological seminary after graduation are advised to take such a major, according to Harry Kimber, head of the department.

The area of professional lay church work is expanding and there are a number of students who wish to make religion the focus of their liberal arts studies.

The religion major includes a wide range of courses in the particular field and other social science and humanistic areas.

A candidate for the bachelor of arts degree in religion will take not less than 40 nor more than 70 hours of religion, 24 of which must be upperclass courses. All religion majors are required to take Old and New Testament, Christian Thought and Comparative Religion.

In addition, 18 credits must be earned from a list of specific allied credits. Greek will ordinarily be taken to satisfy the language requirement of the college. Arts and Letters requires one year of a college foreign language.

In addition to introductory courses in Protestantism, Roman Catholicism and Judaism, the department of religion offering several upperclass courses of special interest this term. A few of these are the Life of Christ, Christian Ethics, Religion in American Culture, the Protestant Reformation and Christian Thought.

Faith On Campus

Godless U. Mistaken

By LINDA MILLER

Pack away those Bibles, freshmen. If you desire the standing of a true intellectual, you must join the agnostic ranks and conform to the spirit of a godless university.

When your dormitory or coffee break sessions venture into the realm of religious discussions, someone may very likely infer that you adopt this behavior. There are many agnostics and atheists enrolled at State, who invariably make themselves known.

"Welcome to the Godless University" could have been a headline in the Welcome Week edition of the State News. I know of many students who would count these letters in all sincerity. But I doubt if they are in the majority.

Perhaps I am an incurable optimist, but I like to think this campus offers more than a godless concept. Religion is being made a reality at State.

If you have been raised in a church-going family, you probably have retained a belief in the existence of God. If you discuss this belief with an agnostic, you may find yourself caught in a snare of unanswerable questions.

If your faith has been an important part of your life, you may become upset and begin to question its validity. Yet I contend that there is nothing better for the freshman than to be backed into a corner where he must raise his arms in despair and admit, "I just don't know."

I can never advocate a blind, pious faith that dresses in Sunday-best with no questions asked. By doubting, we come to believe.

People are so different that I doubt if a common belief will be shared by the world in this generation. The imperfections of human beings lead me to believe that the spiritual unity of mankind will come with He who is perfect.

Many people look upon religion as a very negative way of life composed of a lot of "Thou shalt nots," including "Thou shalt not have a good time." What this world needs is a people who will face life positively and enjoy that which is good. We only need to say "no" to self-love, says J.B. Phillips in Is God At Home?

I cannot prove the existence of God. The Bible does not have all the answers. It has value only when it is viewed in the light of history and ancient cultures.

This column is entitled, "Faith on Campus." To have faith means to believe in something you cannot prove. Yet I do not term this blind, any more than I do Jesus' statement, "Blessed are they who have not seen and yet have believed."

It is nonsense to expect to see everything before we can admit it exists. I cannot see truth, love or happiness, but I know they exist. What makes us think we are so special that God will peek from behind the clouds in a human form and say "see and believe."

A minister once wrote about a denomination that spiritualizes the lyrics of pop tunes and commercials for religious advertising. The feature was headed, "For Fast, Fast Relief...Try God...G-O-D!"

These two quotes have some merit. God is there; it is finding him that is difficult.

Orthodox Parish Open To Public

The new Eastern St. Andrew Orthodox Catholic Church will open its doors to the public Sunday from 3 to 6:30 p.m.

Members and non-members of the Orthodox faith will see the interior of the first Eastern Orthodox Church constructed in the Lansing area. A Vespers service to acquaint visitors with the ritual and music of Orthodoxy will conclude the openhouse.

This year the local congregation completed the construction of its new $125,000 church and student center. The building provides a nave seating 220 persons, an organ and choir loft, "cry room" and a large aspe-in the traditional direction of East.

Several stained glass windows have already been installed. The auditorium contains four classrooms for over 100 children in the parish school. Eleven catechists form the faculty of the school.

The parish, located at the corner of Greencrest and Haslett Roads in East Lansing, is unique within the Orthodox Church. It is essentially a pan-Orthodox congregation using the English language as the liturgical norm for services rather than the ancient Greek, Arabic or Slavonic still generally used by Russian, Greek and Surian Orthodox Churches.

The local parish constitutes what might be termed a small United Nations since its membership includes Serbians, Syrians, Lebanese Greeks, Russians Ukrainians, Bulgarians, Macedonians and others.

The Vespers service at 6 p.m. will be celebrated by several priests and the deacon attached to the parish. The choral responses for this service will be under the direction of Subdeacon Theodore Lopushinsky. The vespers will give visitors an opportunity to see and hear an Orthodox Catholic service for the first time.

Smokers Puff Death Rate

DETROIT UPI--The direct of a six-year cancer prevention study says the risk of lung cancer from pipe or cigar smoking is extremely small.

Doctor E. Cuyler Hammond who made the study for the American Cancer Society said in Detroit Wednesday night that there are at least 12 known causes of cancer.

He said cigarettes were on the list, plus coal soot, arsenic, pure nickel dust, radioactive material and asbestos dust.

Hammond noted that lung cancer does not occur in people who breathe pure air.

He said--"If you live and work in uncontaminated conditions, your chances of getting lung cancer are practically zero unless you smoke cigarettes."

A person who smokes one pack a day has a death rate roughly 80 per cent higher than non-smokers, with variations depending on age.

He added that at 40, those who smoke two or more packs of cigarettes a day have a death rate about three times that of non-smokers.

He also said smoking increases the frequency of heart disease.

Working With Reds No Space Roadblock

WASHINGTON (AP)-- President Kennedy said Thursday his offer to cooperate with the Soviet Union in reaching the moon enhances the need for a strong national space program and is not a signal to slacken U.S. efforts.

In a letter to Rep. Albert Thomas, D-Tex., Kennedy reaffirmed the Government's intention of cooperating in space with the Russians "if cooperation is possible."

He emphasized there is no conflict with the need for "energetic continuation of our strong space effort," which he called essential and added:

"So far from offering any excuse for slackening or weakness in our space effort (it) is one reason more for moving ahead with the great program to which we have been committed as a country for more than two years."

Kennedy made his proposal of cooperation in an address before the United Nations last Friday, suggesting joint space exploration.

"The idea of cooperation in space is not new," the President's letter said, but is "an extension of a policy developed as long ago as 1958 on a bipartisan basis."

AWS Exec Board Decentralized

All Women Students, governing body for coeds, is currently being decentralized.

One of the first steps was to change the executive board set up. Previously, AWS activities and AWS judiciary were separate units functioning with separate officers. Activities and judiciary are now one unit with one set of officers.

The present system has co-presidents and two vice presidents, one in charge of judiciary and the other for activities.

Because the new executive structure had not been formulated before spring elections, when the revision of AWS was approved by women students, one vice president remains to be elected.

Another new feature of AWS is the formation of living unit complexes. The six complexes are comprised of representatives from the living units of an area.

The complexes are Butterfield-Rather, Mason-Abbott-Phillips, Circle (Campbell-Mayo, Landon, Gilchrist-Williams-Yakeley), Wilson-Case-Wonders, McDonel-Van Hoosen, and Panhellenic and off-campus commuters.

These complexes meet once a week to discuss activities and handle judiciary cases within the complex area. All cases were previously tried with all dorm representatives present.

The complex system saves time in handling judiciary cases and now handles problems according to the situation of the particular complex living units. Through this centralization of power, the less serious problems are now brought back to the dorms.

"Punishment will now fit the crime," Sue Kobel, Detroit, sophomore, and Circle complex representative said.

Standards Board, comprised of floor representatives in each dorm, will now have more power deciding punishments for individual cases. Instead of camping a girl for continually having a messy room, standards board will decide a punishment which will aid the girl in becoming neater rather than penalizing her.

Aside from the individual complex meetings, the executive board will meet once a week with a complex representative to handle more serious judiciary problems and discuss activities.

The outstanding rule change in AWS this year, is the discontinuing of 10:30 p.m., and 11:30 p.m. hours for freshmen and upper classmen, respectively. All coeds now have 11:30 p.m. hours, Monday through Thursday.

U-M Humor Mag To Be Sold Here

The "friendly rivalry" between State and the University of Michigan will take a friendly turn Oct. 8, when a joint issue of Michigan's "Gargoyle" goes on sale at both campuses.

The U-M humor magazine will aim its wit at both universities, illustrated by snapshots and cartoons, according to editor John Doubbertin.

"Gargoyle" will be sold here through Campus Chest, for 25¢ a copy.

The chest will receive 5% of the first 1,000 retail sales, and 10% of everything over 1,000.

Lansing senior Ben Taylor, Campus Chest director, said that the money raised will support Spartan Nursery, aid blind students, and the AUSG scholarship fund.

Gemini Flight Due In 1964

WASHINGTON (AP)--The first manned flight of the Gemini spacecraft may come late next year, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the crew for that flight will not be selected until shortly beforehand.

In answer to a report by CBS' news commentator Charles Von Fremd that Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. had been chosen as one member of the flight team, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said: "No selection of a Gemini crew member has been made, and there will not be any until shortly before the flight."

Prof In 'Dilemma'

Don Hamachek, assistant professor of educational psychology and child development, will serve as the moderator of a new television public information series this fall.

Hamachek will be featured on "Dilemma!", a half hour panel discussion dealing with the problems and mutual concerns of parents and children of all ages. The show will be seen on channel 6, Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m.

Each week a different panel will participate and topics will be examined not only from the so-called experts point of view, but from the point of view of persons who have had actual experience with the topic under discussion. Teenagers, parents, professional persons and clergymen will take part in the discussions.

Lebanese Checks Turnstile

Library's Tobia Loves Books

"My lot is watching books," says Rajee Tobia, 62, who spends his days at the entrance to the University library checking books for students on their way out. Born and educated in Lebanon, where library work is a popular occupation, he is seen daily inspecting books and reading Arabic books of his own during slow periods.

"The Lebanese heritage for books and libraries is natural, for Lebanon is a country with many ancient monasteries which have preserved old manuscripts and early printed books," he explained.

"At least one or two members of a Lebanese family usually work in these monasteries," he said. "A Lebanese child grows up believing that he has much to learn. He has an inherent love for books."

Over 6000 students pass Rajee Tobia daily during the school year. They stack their books on the counter for his perusal. A nod and a soft "thank you" sends the students through the turnstiles and on their way.

The turnstile system was installed three years ago when a central check-out desk was organized to provide greater efficiency in handling books. At that time, lost books cost an estimated $40,000 a year. Today, although books are still lost, the number lost has decreased considerably.

Tobia did not sponsor the turnstile system, as many students seem to think. He was employed by the university when the new system was first effect. "Many students thought I was the salesman checking the equipment for a few days," he recalls.

Library books are easily spotted by the book-checker, who has two major clues to help him spot them quickly. Many library books are rebound and their binding is a give-away.

If a student attempted to cover a library book, Tobia claims he would still recognize it from the condition of the pages.

The deep respect Tobia holds for books began in his early childhood, when his father presented him with his first book. In it was written, "To my son to dedicate his life to knowledge."

"In each book I ever received from my father," he says, "there was written in Arabic a saying to the effect that he who borrows this book and does not return it, is a traitor of Dante's Inferno."

"I am protecting the students who borrow books by seeing to it that they are properly checked out."

Rajee Tobia is a philosophical man. He compares a library to a fountain of knowledge, and feels strongly that the world will be brought together in peace through the education of all peoples.

Forty-three years ago, his own education in Lebanon was interrupted by a civil war, and, at 19, he was forced to leave his country. He came to the United States and worked here first as a secretary to a Lebanese businessman in Sault Ste. Marie.

He also tutored his employer's children in the Arabic language. Arriving in Lansing in 1933, Tobia worked for the Michigan State Highway Department until 1938, when he went into his own catering business. For the next six years he held voluntary night classes in Arabic and English through the Lansing Board of Education.

He has assisted many Lebanese people in Lansing in taking out citizenship papers, having become a U.S. citizen himself in 1927. Today he serves as vice president and chairman of the program committee for the Historical Society of Greater Lansing.

Rejoice for books has never stopped. His own library contains a vast collection of Arabic works which he makes available to the Arabian students attending the University. A particularly rare book in his collection is a prayer book dated 1816, one of the first books printed in Lebanon.

Following his father's dictum to "dedicate his life to knowledge," Tobia has continued his pursuit of knowledge through extensive reading.

He recently completed a study on the history of the Byzantine Empire. In his three years at the library here, he has studied the library cataloguing system, and familiarized himself with many facets of library work.

"There is one thought," he said, "that goes through my mind every day as I sit here. These devoted librarians serve all professions in their vigil over the resources of knowledge for the future professionals."

The librarian's profession is a mother to them all, for while the doctor thinks of his patients, the lawyer of his clients, the engineer of his projects, the teacher of his pupils, and the artist of his creations, the librarian must think of them all and serve them all through the great medium of books.

"I am very much at home here," he added. "To watch so many students and instructors using this wonderful library gives me a feeling of great satisfaction. I only check their books, but I feel this is part of my heritage."

WKAR To Hold Auditions

Auditions for student announcer positions will be held at the WKAR studios in the Auditorium on Tuesday starting at 7 p.m.

There are at least five openings for agricultural, classical music, news and general staff announcing, according to WKAR station manager Richard Estell.

The 10-minute auditions will be to test voice quality and pronunciation of the specialized vocabulary in each area.

Any interested student can make an audition appointment by calling the WKAR studios 5-6540.

Fans Serviced By Kid-sitters

MSU Quonset Cooperative Nursery School will sponsor a baby-sitting service for children aged 2 1/2 to 6 during the football game Saturday. Hours will be 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.

A fee of $2 for the first child and $1 for each additional child in a family will be charged. Interested parents may obtain reservations by calling Mrs. Stanley Stark at 332-6715.

The nursery also announced that it has a few openings left for fall term for children in the 2 1/2 to 5 age group. Information may be obtained from Mrs. Stark.

Coffee Honors Foreign Students

New foreign students will be honored at an international coffee hour Friday at 8 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. The International Cooperation Committee of All-University Student Government, sponsor of the program, invites all foreign students, interested American students, and faculty to attend.

AUSG Slates Open House

All-University Student Government (AUSG) will sponsor an open house Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Student Services Faculty Lounge.

The open house is designed to give freshmen and all other interested students the opportunity to meet the members of AUSG and learn the function of student government on the campus, said Sandy Henry, AUSG public relations director.

SANE Head Here Tuesday

Sanford Gottlieb, political action director of the National Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy, (SANE), will talk to the Lansing-East Lansing SANE on "Next Steps to Peace." The organization will meet at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday in the Edgewood Peoples Church.

Gottlieb, a graduate of Dartmouth College, received his doctorate in Labor Studies from the University of Paris in 1952, and later worked as a labor organizer and editor in New York state. He has contributed articles to numerous journals, including The Reporter, The Nation, and the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists.

Tuesday's meeting is open to the public.

Free Day Set For November

The final section of the Ohio-to-Soo Freeway will be opened to traffic on November 1. Connecting with I-96 east of the University at Brighton, the new road is Michigan's third cross-state freeway.

It starts at the Michigan-Ohio line west of Toledo and extends north to Bay City on US-23 and I-75, then follows US-10 to Clare where it heads up the center of the state on US-27 and I-75 to the $100 million Mackinac Bridge.

The section from the state line to the Mackinac Bridge—a distance of 330 miles—is the nation's longest toll-free super-highway.

The freeway passes through 16 Michigan counties between the Ohio line and Sault Ste. Marie.

Lettermen At Aud Wednesday Russians Relax Tensions

The Lettermen, one of the most diversified vocal trios in the country today, will appear in the Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday for a Frosh-Soph Council-sponsored concert.

This performance marks the third consecutive year in which the Council has sponsored the appearance of a popular singing group on campus.

Last spring the Four Preps sang in concert and the Brothers Four appeared here the previous year. With the announcement of the Four Preps performance, the Frosh-Soph Council also announced plans to bring one such "popular entertainment" group to campus each year for a fund-raising project.

Proceeds from the evening's performance will be used to supplement the Council's budget, according to John Miller, Frosh-Soph Council president and chairman.

Previously the concerts were held in the spring, but this year the Council decided to hold the program in the fall in hopes students will not yet be tied down by studies and will have time to attend.

This year's performers, the Lettermen, have been involved in the music world since childhood. The three young men were all interested in singing and performed while in college.

Ever since their college years, Jim Pike, Tony Butala and Bob Engemann have been vocalizing together with a repertoire aimed at adults and the younger music-loving set. The Lettermen blend their voices on the old, standard ballads in combination with today's new instrumentation.

Tickets for the Wednesday evening program are now on sale in the Union Ticket Office for $1.50, $2 and $2.50.

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The head of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said Thursday Soviet approval of international safeguards against military misuse of peaceful nuclear power is "a hopeful sign" for future East-West cooperation.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chief U.S. delegate to the General Conference of the International Atomic Energy Agency, told newsmen that while the Soviets had basically agreed to extension of safeguards from small to big nuclear reactors, they avoided committing themselves to letting the agency control their own reactors.

Seaborg said that, whereas the United States had thrown open its reactors to control, "the Russians had made no such promise."

"But there is hope," he said, that the Russians will eventually admit inspectors to their territory and to other East bloc countries.

The new safeguard scheme, recently approved by the agency's board of governors, will be applied to reactors producing 100 or more thermal megawatts. These reactors yield plutonium in quantities big enough to be used for nuclear weapons. The Russians, after opposing safeguards for years, agreed to it in line with policies that resulted in the limited test ban treaty.

MSU Press Cited

Outstanding publishing efforts in the field of state and local history brought an award of merit to the Michigan State University Press Saturday.

The Historical Society of Michigan presented the award to Lyle Blair, director of the MSU Press during its annual meeting in Grand Rapids last weekend.

The MSU Press received a citation for its long-standing program of published books in the field of Michigan state and local history. The citation praised the Press for its distribution of works of lasting significance throughout the state and nation, "reflecting the many facets of our Michigan heritage."

Not only has the MSU Press sought completed manuscripts on the state and local level, but it has also encouraged authors with skill and understanding through "that trying period of preparation," the citation said. Recent historical works published by the MSU Press scan the nation's development from Revolutionary War days to the mid-20th century.

Current titles cited by Blair include: "Joseph Brant: Mohawk," a biographical account dating back to the War for independence; two studies of the War of 1812, "After Tippecanoe: Some Aspects of the War of 1812" and "The War of 1812 in the Old Northwest"; several works dealing with Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, his expedition to Lake Itasca and his Indian legends; an account of the Beaver Island Mormon colony of the mid-1800's entitled "The Diary of James J. Strang"; and "Mid-western Progressive Politics" from 1870 to 1958.

Bids Open Fellowship

Dr. Allan Tucker, assistant dean for advanced graduate students, has announced that male college seniors or recent graduates preparing for a career in teaching, counseling, or administrative work at the college level may now apply for Danforth Graduate Fellowships.

Applicants plan to major in any field of study common to the undergraduate liberal arts and sciences curriculum, but may not have already undertaken graduate work. Nominations close November 1, 1963.

A hundred fellowships will be awarded to outstanding candidates. Nominees will be judged on intellectual promise and personality, integrity, genuine interest in religion, and high potential for effective college teaching.

Winners will be eligible for up to four years of financial assistance with an annual maximum of $1,500 for single men and $2,000 for married men plus dependency allowances for up to three children. Students may hold a Danforth Fellowship concurrently with other appointments but do not receive stipends until these others elapse.

Foreign Wives To Take English

The English language class for foreign students' wives will begin Thursday and continue through November 21. Classes will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the social room of the Married Housing Building, 1205 South Harrison Road.

The Lansing YWCA will furnish textbooks. Anyone having questions should call Mrs. Abu-Gheida, International Programs, at 5-2350.

Prof Directs School Boards

Julius E. Barbour, associate professor of education, was recently re-elected executive director of the Michigan Association of School Boards.

As executive director, Barbour meets with Michigan school boards, puts out the "Michigan School Board Journal," summarizes bills in the Legislature, writes the "Legislation Bulletin."

Execs Must Be Good Listeners

women executives must become better listeners if they are to be better managers, says a University of Michigan authority.

"The ability to listen—to be sensitive to what we hear—cannot be overemphasized in the management of people," according to Clark C. Caskey, program director of the U-M Bureau of Industrial Relations.

Caskey reported that studies indicate managers devote about 70 per cent of their working hours communicating in one way or another, and that most executives listen at only a 25 per cent level of retentive efficiency.

"Listening, or lack of it," he said, "causes many breakdowns in accurate, complete and timely exchanges of information."

Bus Stops Changed

A change in campus driving regulations has forced Lansing Suburban Lines to reroute its west bound buses on Shaw Lane.

Buses now continue west on Shaw Lane to Harrison Road rather than turning down Chesnut Road by Case Hall. The new route will eliminate stops at Case and Wilson Halls.

The change is necessary because a campus police regulation prohibits left turns by west bound traffic from Shaw Lane onto Chesnut Road. A stop for students in the Case-Wilson-Wonders complex is planned for the west corner of the Shaw Lane-Chesnut Road intersection.

Spartans, Edge Ready for Opener

NC Quarterback Fully Recovered

When a group of farm boys from Michigan Agricultural College decided to play a game of football against Lansing High School back in 1896, they really started something.

Only a few curious spectators watched the birth of MSU football that autumn afternoon, but 65,000 fans are expected to be on hand tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in Spartan Stadium for the season opener against the North Carolina Tar Heels.

Sixty-seven years have passed since that first contest, which the Aggies won 10-0, and tomorrow's match marks the 55th in Spartan grid history.

The year should prove to be an interesting one since the schedule includes such distinguished foes as Southern California, Michigan, Northwestern, Wisconsin, Purdue, and Notre Dame.

North Carolina has been given the "dark horse" label in most grid circles, but some experts feel they have the potential to develop into a national power.

MSU coach Duffy Daugherty is aware that the Carolinians could pack a wallop. "We're looking forward to a real good game," he said. "They have an experienced team and had one of the nation's best passing attacks toward the end of last season."

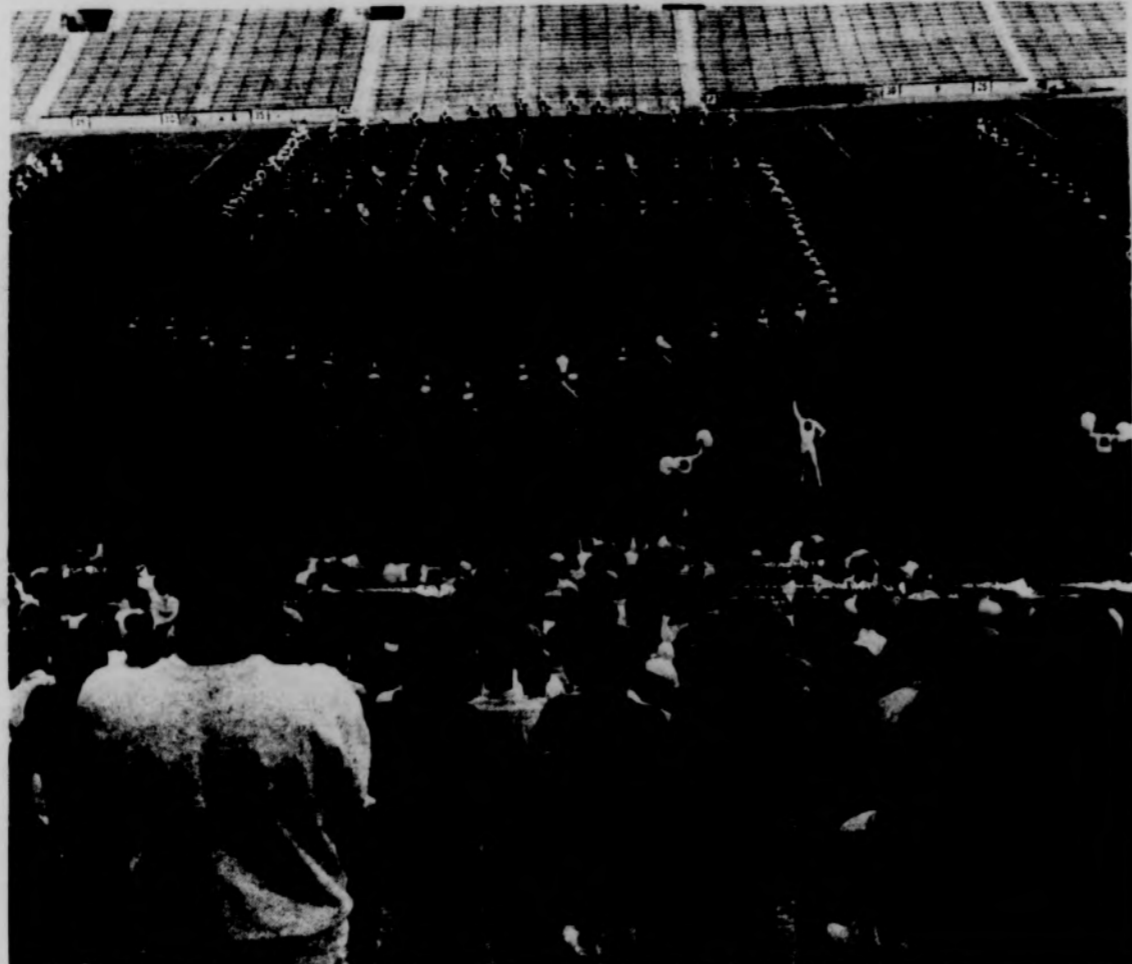

The Tar Heel squad boasts 29 monogram winners including quarterback Junior Edge, eighth among the nation's passers last year, and end Bob Lacey who ranked number seven in the country in pass receiving.

Edge completed 19 of 27 passes in Carolina's 38-6 loss to MSU last season, and the effort accounted for 244 yards. Lacey snared 10 of the aeriels, and one of them was good for a touchdown.

Lacey, Edge, and left halfback Ken Willard led the Tar Heels to an 11-7 win over Virginia in the opener last week.

The Tar Heel quarterback injured during last week's opening day victory over Virginia, is reported back in condition and has been working out since Tuesday.

Also recovering from an opening day injury is fullback Ed Kesler. (continued on page 9)

Students Greet The Spartans

The program was given added color by the appearance of MSU's snappy marching band which paraded through a marching routine and then gave the student body a chance to sing "The MSU Fight Song" and "MSU Shadows" for the first time this season.

Coach Daugherty was introduced by his former coach at Syracuse, Clarence "Biggie" Munn, who took over as athletic director in 1954 after coaching the great Spartan teams of the early fifties.

The largest crowd ever to attend an MSU pre-season pep rally met the Spartans Wednesday afternoon at the stadium.

Seven-thousand students watched enthusiastically while Duffy Daugherty's eleven gave a glimpse of what to expect in tomorrow afternoon's clash with North Carolina. The squad ran through a series of plays after the student body had been officially introduced to co-captains Dan Underwood and Sherman Lewis.

Tickets Available

USED THE WRONG CLUB MEMPHIS (AP) — A novice Memphis golfer has discovered a new way to get knocked out on a golf course. The 12-year-old swinger stepped up to his ball, delivered a great roundhouse swing, and smacked himself on the head with his own two-iron.

There are plenty of tickets available for tomorrow's opening grid contest, Bill Beardsley, ticket manager, announced late yesterday afternoon.

To secure seats students must present their activity books at the ticket booths in the outer areas at the northern and southern ends of Jenison Field House. The areas will be open until 4:30 this afternoon.

Adjacent seats can also be purchased today upon payment of the regular seat prices.

On Saturday tickets will be available for students after 9 a.m. at Booth No. 2 in the northeast end of the stadium.

Regular ticket purchasing procedures will go into effect for the next home game on Oct. 19 with Indiana. Senior and graduate students will be able to redeem activity coupons upon presentation of their ID cards on Mondays; juniors on Tuesdays; sophomores on Wednesdays, and freshmen on Thursdays.

Tired Kaline Will Enter Mayo Clinic

The Detroit Tigers have ordered a physical checkup for star outfielder Al Kaline to be sure he's in top condition when spring training starts in February. Kaline will check into the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minnesota, next Wednesday and will stay at Rochester for at least three days.

He has been hampered this season by a knee injury and occasionally has complained of being tired.

Kesler received a hard knock on the nose, but like Edge has been working out with the squad. Should Kesler be unable to start junior Hank Barden would take over the fullback slot.

Edge's substitute's Gary Black who played three-quarters of the opening game and connected on 11 of 20 passes. Handling the punting chores for the visitors will be sophomore Bill Edwards who averaged 45 yards for 5 punts in the Virginia game.

MSU's starting line will outweigh the visitors' by about five pounds per man, with 22 pound tackles Gene Sigmon and Vic Esposito serving as Carolina's big men.

The Spartans have spent the past few practice sessions polishing their offense for the North Carolina invasion. Daugherty feels that the squad is in better physical condition than it was before last year's opener. The only fall practice casualty was veteran guard Steve Mellinger who sprained a knee and ankle, but should be ready for USC next Friday.

Daugherty has also been pleased by the fine attitude and spirit displayed by the Spartans during fall drills.

A rugged schedule, coupled with the presence of an abundance of youth on the squad, has prompted most pre-season pollsters to list MSU somewhere in the middle of the Big-Ten race.

The Spartan coach gave the MSU side of the story at Wednesday's giant pep rally when he said, "Nobody expects much of us—but ourselves."

An added sidelight to tomorrow's game will be the appearance of 2,800 high school musicians from 36 schools for annual Band Day festivities, which honor composer, arranger Paul Yoder.

Coed Club Welcomes Swimmers

Women swimmers interested in joining the MSU squad should report to the new pool in the Women's gym on Monday at 4 p.m. Tryouts for team places will be given during the first two weeks of the term.

Those unable to get to the pool on Monday are still welcome to tryout for the team any other weekday, except Friday.

Practices will be twice weekly for team members. Swimmers will have their choice of attending two 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. practice sessions Monday through Thursday.

The first meet of the season will be held on Oct. 12 at Ann Arbor against the University of Michigan.

Rally Slated In Engineering

All freshman and sophomore engineering students, mechanical engineering upperclassmen and faculty are invited to attend the opening rally of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Tuesday, Oct. 1 at 7:00 p.m. in Room 146 Engineering Building.

Dr. C. R. St. Clair Jr. will speak on "Mechanical Engineering" and Mr. Ed Fitzpatrick will talk on "The Engineers' Use of the Placement Bureau."

Confidence will take a back seat to caution when Michigan State's soccer team opens against Earlham College on the Quaker's turf Saturday.

The fact that Earlham is yet to defeat a Spartan outfit weighs little in the minds of Coach Gene Kenney and company.

Although two years have passed since the Quakers last put a goal past State nets, the State booters anticipate a strong bid by the host school.

"Earlham has won our division three times," explained Kenney.

"We and Purdue also have won three times each. So that puts us on an equal footing."

Earlham's team from last year remains almost intact. What should make it a much tougher game is the fact that we will

Tests Needed 'Buck Day' Special For Athletes

All new students interested in participating in inter-collegiate sports are required to take the American College Testing series of tests on Oct. 4.

The tests will be given at 6:30 p.m. in C110, Anthony Hall. The costs of the tests, $4, must be paid upon entrance. All those interested in varsity sports must have on record a college board or ACT score.

Boston University's backfield speed lies with Bob Horton, a 220-pound fullback from White Plains, N.Y. He runs 100 yards in 9.9 seconds.

Tests Needed 'Buck Day' Special For Athletes

said of State's prospects. "We have scrimmaged just a few times so far and because of injuries we have only three substitutes. "Nothing can be forecast now. I just hope we can jell into a good team by mid-season but the first games will be a trial period," he concluded.

The Spartans, traditionally the top-heavy favorite in the Eastern Division, will be fighting a manpower shortage. At best, three reserves will be available to spell the starting eleven.

Captain Sam Donnelly, a center half ailing from a reagravated knee injury, may be sidelined along with another walking wounded, Jean Diane. That would leave eight returning lettermen in the fold for the opener.

State can be expected to employ a four man offensive line while defense will take a standard three back alignment.

Lacrosse

There will be a meeting for all those interested in lacrosse tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the Men's IM Building conference room. All are invited to attend.

Wrestling

All wrestling candidates should report to Coach Grady Peninger in 208 Men's IM Building at 4:30 p.m., Oct. 2.

Radio Europe Hurts Reds

Radio Free Europe has helped to undermine the Kremlin's hold on the satellite nations of eastern Europe, according to Arthur Adams, professor of Russian history.

Adams recently returned from a two-year assignment with Radio Free Europe, a privately financed organization that beams radio broadcasts into the five Russian satellite countries.

He served as director of research on communist countries and as a member of Radio Free Europe's policy board.

Adams credits the organization with a direct influence on the social and political changes that have occurred in eastern Europe since the Hungarian revolt of 1956.

"The history of the last seven years," he said, "has shown that the satellite communist countries are successfully diverging from Moscow.

Today, Poland enjoys a large measure of independence in its domestic affairs, although it is still subject to Soviet foreign policy."

Even the rulers of Czechoslovakia and Rumania, he points out, have taken the liberty of espousing policies at variance with those of Moscow.

As a result, Adams said, the danger of a monolithic communist bloc of nations that existed 15 years ago has been considerably weakened.

Radio Free Europe broadcasts daily programs of news, political comment and cultural affairs by short wave to the peoples of Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Rumania.

No Waiting For Gate Crasher

WASHINGTON (AP)—A North Carolinian insisted upon seeing President Kennedy about Communism in his home state smashed through the gates of a main entrance to the White House grounds in a small truck Thursday.

The truck barreled up almost to the north portico—the main entrance to the White House—before guards got it stopped and hauled out the driver who was kicking and screaming, "I want to see the President."

Officers told reporters later that the man had been identified as Doyle Allen Hicks, 39, of Wayneville, N.C. His truck, with North Carolina license plates, bore the designation, Hicks Heating and Plumbing Contractor.

Officers said the man insisted upon seeing President Kennedy because "Communists are going to take over the state and we need his help."

They described the man as "very sick." He was taken to the District of Columbia General Hospital for observation.

The truck narrowly missed a pedestrian in front of the White House gate, forced open the half of the iron gate that normally is kept closed, and proceeded up the main driveway.

Soon after the incident, the truck was removed and workmen set about repairing the gate, which had been knocked out of alignment and had some of its bars torn loose.

The gate is one on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Actually, this was a poor day to come calling on the President. He is away on a cross-country speaking trip. However, Mrs. Kennedy and the two children are at the White House.

Unkefer Plans For Music Meet

Robert F. Unkefer, assistant professor of music and psychology and president of the National Association for Music Therapy, attended a meeting at the University of Indiana recently to make plans for the association's 14th annual conference.

Over 250 music therapists, music educators, psychiatrists and others are expected to attend the conference at the Hoosier university Oct. 16 to 19. The topic of study will be music in therapy, with special emphasis on the use of music with exceptional children.

Contracts Let By Trustees

Construction will begin soon on four University projects costing $66,731.28.

The contracts were awarded Friday at the Board of Trustees meeting.

A $20,928 contract was given to the P & S, Construction Company, East Lansing, for a 14-inch water main between two of MSU's wells.

Also a 16-inch water transmission will be built from the Grand Trunk Western tracks to the reservoir. It will cost $14,925 and work will be done by Dunnigan Construction, Jackson.

The Beal Street entrance to campus will be resurfaced by Crandell Trenching, East Lansing, for $11,835.

A new pole barn will be built at the Kellogg Feed Research Project for $19,033.28. J. Hamilton, Kalamazoo, was low bidder on the job.

The objective, said Adams, is to loosen the tight Soviet control of these countries. He emphasized, however, that Radio Free Europe was in business not "to foster revolution" but "to stimulate evolutionary divergence from Moscow controlled communism."

In working to this end, Radio Free Europe has been most effective, he said. The Sino-Soviet rift has been widely publicized in eastern Europe and the organization has broadcast praise of the Polish people for the changes and successes of Poland's national agricultural programs.

"Of course these countries are not suddenly going to become capitalist or join the West," he said. "But as they become increasingly independent of Moscow in their national politics, they become less of a threat to the West and more of an asset to the world community of nations."

Beef Cattle Center Ground Breaking Set

Ground breaking for Michigan State University's new $330,000 beef cattle research center will take place Wednesday.

The new facility will provide one of the most modern livestock test centers in the nation. President John A. Hannah and Dean T.K. Cowden of the College of Agriculture will take part in the 2 p.m. ceremonies at the site of the new center. It will be located at the corner of Bennett and Beaumont roads on the University farm.

A special program will follow the ground breaking. In the Kiva of Erickson Hall, Charles F. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation will speak on the topic, "Beef Cattle in the Agricultural Economy." His address is scheduled for 2:45 p.m.

Chairman for the day's program is Blaque Knirk, Quincy farmer and president of the Michigan Livestock Improvement Association. The event is sponsored as one of the activities in observance of "Michigan Meat Week." Ernest Girbach of Saline, president of the Michigan Agricultural Conference will also appear on the special program.

Arrangements for the day are under the direction of a committee headed by William Newland of the Animal Husbandry department.

Construction for the new facility is expected to get under way this fall to be open for feeding trials next year.
