World News at a Glance

Algerian Forces Meet Rebel Opposition

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Government forces have seized two gateways to the rebellious Grand Kabylia district in Algeria where opposition factions have defied the authority of strongman Ben Bella's government. Officials say the rebel forces are crumbling. But other reports tell of eight-thousand anti-Ben Bella troops forming a guerrilla band in the mountains.

McNamara And Taylor Remain In South Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States' two top trouble-shooters in South Viet Nam Monday delayed their scheduled departure from that country for 24 hours. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara stayed in Saigon to confer with other members of the mission sent to South Viet Nam by President Kennedy. General Maxwell Taylor flew to a city 30 miles north of Saigon and was told by a top Vietnamese general that victory over the communists could be achieved by 1964 with continued American aid.

Two Arrested In Church Bombing

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—Alabama State Police have arrested two white men in connection with the church bombing in Birmingham that killed four Negro girls and possibly other bombings. A city police official has identified the men as R.E. Chambliss and Charles Cagle. Both have been connected with Ku Klux Klan activities in Alabama. The men are being held on an open charge.

Cholera Quarantine In Okinawa

OKINAWA (AP)—An intensive quarantine operation will begin at Okinawa air and sea ports Monday to prevent the spread of a cholera epidemic to the U.S.-administered islands.

The government of Ryukyu and the U.S. Civil Administration Sunday announced the action after an Okinawan tourist who returned from Japan recently was found to have stayed at a hotel where a confirmed cholera carrier was found.

The tourist was placed under observation at Naha General Hospital.

A U.S. spokesman said three American doctors have been detailed to work in coordination with Ryukyuan officials in carrying out the quarantine operation.

Meanwhile travelers will be prevented from entering or leaving without certification of cholera immunization.

Senator Proposes Force To Return Bosch

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said today the United States should see to it that deposed Dominican President Juan Bosch is returned to complete his term.

Bosch was reported today aboard a Dominican navy frigate. Informed sources said the ship was headed for the French island of Guadeloupe.

Gruening said in an interview that the United States should intercept the vessel and return Bosch to power. Gruening says he has sent his request to the White House.

"No alternative is possible without disaster, not only to the Dominican Republic, but to the entire Alliance for Progress program and to the prestige of the United States in this hemisphere."

Hurricane Hits Tobago

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A hurricane hit the island of Tobago today with 100-mile-an-hour fury and continued on toward the Grenadine Islands.

A bulletin from the weather bureau at San Juan, Puerto Rico, included an "emergency warning" to residents of low-lying areas of Trinidad and the Grenadine Islands to flee to higher ground "before it is too late."

By noon, two hours after the first warning, the "wall of the eye" had reached Tobago, an island of 40,000 population 36 miles north of the coast of Venezuela. Winds of 100 miles an hour raged around the eye.

By 2 p.m., the eye was directly over the island. With the hurricane came torrential rains and storm tides five to seven feet high.

Gale force winds extended 50 miles to the south of the eye. This would mean that the northern half of Trinidad, with its population of 786,434, was in the gale area. Gales also reached 100 miles to the north and east and 50 miles to the west.

The weather bureau said the eye of the hurricane would reach Grenada by sunset. This island at the lower end of the windward chain has 88,000 population. The Windwards border the eastern end of the Caribbean sea.

First Nuclear-Powered Satellite Up For 5 Years

By JOHN LOCKE
State News Staff Writer

The first U.S. satellite fully powered in space by a nuclear generator was launched Monday from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California, and described as a "complete success." The generator is designed to provide 25 watts of electrical current for some five years, while orbiting the earth.

Maria Krzywoblocki, mechanical engineering professor, called this a splendid success for the Martin Corp.

The Martin-built generator is part of a 27-pound nuclear power system called SNAP-9A. It is the ninth of a series of models built to supply electricity for instruments in space vehicles.

Krzywoblocki said that Martin overcame the problem of weight in nuclear generators. This factor, until now, had limited their use to submarines and the like.

Martin has been working on this project for some time now. Krzywoblocki was a consultant to Martin in 1960. He said he knew they were studying this problem, but "never expected it to happen so soon."

The generator has no moving parts. Decay of the Plutonium 238 generates heat, which is converted directly into electricity by thermocouples.

The altitude of the satellite was not disclosed. Air Force Maj. Robert T. Carpenter, SNAP project engineer, said it was in an orbit that should keep it aloft at least 900 years. By that time, he said, the radioactive fuel in the generator should have decayed almost completely.

If the satellite should drop out of orbit earlier, he said, it is expected to burn up from the heat of atmospheric friction. Any radioactivity in the atmosphere would be an amount too small to present a risk to the world's population.

Krzywoblocki hopes that this achievement may lead to the electrical propulsion of rockets. "Nuclear propulsion is of the greatest importance today and the experience gained by this will be very helpful toward its development," he said.

He pointed out that although solar cells, taking their energy from the sun while in space, could give power to the instruments, they are far too weak to provide a means of propulsion.

Presumably the orbit is around the earth's poles, since satellites launched from Vandenberg are aimed south. Satellites fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla., are pointed in an easterly direction.

This is the third satellite to carry a nuclear generator, but the first to be wholly nuclear-powered. Two smaller generators, orbited in 1961, drew part of their electricity from solar cells.

Lighter in weight and longer-lasting than other sources of power in space such as solar cells or batteries, SNAP systems are being developed to supply the electrical energy that will be needed for radios and other instruments on future long voyages in space. They should not be confused with nuclear propulsion engines being developed under Project Rover.

Riley Guest At Luncheon

The report made no mention of the virtual disappearance of Soviet aid and trade since 1960, including help in building new industrial plants.

The refusal to give aid on Russia's part results from an expected rapid economic increase by Red China. So said that it is impossible to predict but with good weather and improved methods the economic production of Red China may surpass that of many past years.

Wheat Sale Discussed

A state department spokesman, Richard Phillips, said the Kennedy administration will decide in the next few days whether to permit the sale of wheat to Russia.

Phillips said the decision will involve President Kennedy and the departments of state, agriculture and commerce.

Arthur Mauch, professor of agricultural economics and a nationally recognized economist, said the decision will be based on the question, "Should the taxpayers pay a subsidy of about 60 cents a bushel on every bushel of wheat sold to Russia?"

Mauch said taxpayers will have to pay if wheat is sent to Russia because the world wheat market is 60 cents per bushel lower than the rate paid to American farmers.

Frank Branch Riley of Portland, Ore. will be guest speaker at the Men's Club luncheon today in the Union Parlor.

Riley, educated at Stanford University and Harvard Law School, has conducted over 28 transcontinental lecture tours. His topic this afternoon is "Land of the Empire Builders."

A lawyer, mountain climber and explorer on the Pacific Northwest, he is best known for his stories of men and women prominent in American history.

500 - Man Staff Gets New Physical Plant Building

Employees will work out of the new facility.

Simon said he didn't know the immediate use of the buildings to be abandoned. Ultimately, however, they will be torn down, he added.

"The land in that area is far too valuable to be used for maintenance facilities," he said.

The department expects to save both time and money from centralizing its activities in the 97,000 square foot building. It

Southern Solons Denounce Group

By W. B. RAGSDALE, JR.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A flood of bitter denunciation of the Civil Rights Commission by Southern members opened Senate debate Monday on a move to give the agency a new one-year lease on life.

The Southerners were led by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who shouted "let it die" and said "this agency has shown a prejudice that disqualifies it."

Other phrases hurled at the commission's proposals by Southerners included "cruel and inhuman," "vicious," "inflammatory and unsound."

The commission itself, in its last legal day of existence, provided the Southerners with new ammunition by making public a whole batch of new civil rights recommendations for congress and the president, including some tough penalties.

Among them, the commission urged that states which refuse to grant Negro voting rights be penalized by slashing their membership in the House of Representatives.

The Senate is debating strategy of keeping the commission in business by tying the proposal for a one-year extension onto a completely unrelated bill—thus keeping it from getting lost in committee.

The vehicle was a House-passed measure proposing the payment of $816.63 to Mrs. Elizabeth G. Mason of Houlton, Maine, for extra compensation for the death of her husband, Maj. Theodore P. Mason, in World War II. It is a bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., an ardent foe of civil rights legislation.

The senate had planned a vote Monday night but decided to put it off until today. Approval of the measure would send it to the House, where leaders privately said they see little hope of overcoming parliamentary hurdles to get action there before next week.

This means that technically the commission expired at midnight, but it has another 60 days to wind up its affairs. Twice since it was created as a temporary agency in 1957, the commission has been revived on a two-year basis after it expired.

Russell led off the debate against the one-year extension, with fewer than a dozen Senators listening. Most of these were

Peking Claims Prosperity; Celebrates 14th Birthday

On the eve of its 14th birthday, Red China asserted Monday it has overcome three years of calamity on the farm and crop production is rising. Industry was pictured as expanding.

"All round improvement in China's national economy is now taking place," Peking said. "The difficulties arising out of serious natural calamities in three successive years (1959-1961) have been overcome."

"In agriculture, the foundation of the national economy, the output of grain, cotton and many other industrial crops this year is higher than last year in varying degrees. Industrial production has continued to expand. Market supplies have improved greatly. The state financial and foreign trade plans have been successfully fulfilled."

Kwan-Sai So, professor of Far Eastern history and native born Chinese said that he believes there is a marked advance in the economic progress of Red China but it is exaggerated. Part of it is propaganda directed at Communist Russia.

Had China continued to experience the bad times of the 1959-61 period, it is likely that it would have been more eager for compromise. The present signs of economic recovery, though modest, could well spur it to new excesses.

To this statement Mr. So said, "Red China is not willing to play second fiddle to Communist Russia; it is striving to achieve equality."

The report made no mention of the virtual disappearance of Soviet aid and trade since 1960, including help in building new industrial plants.

Mc Donel Showers At Last!

McDonel Hall, MSU's newest coed dormitory, is getting some of the finishing touches it lacked when students moved in last week.

Many residents lived through a week without showers before showerheads were installed last weekend. All of the suites in the $6 million dormitory now have complete shower facilities.

The Kiva also has been completed except for carpeting.

Lyle Thorburn, manager of residence halls, said several of the general purpose classrooms are completed, but many of the laboratory classrooms are still unfinished. He said all of the classrooms in McDonel are expected to be completed by the middle of October.

Nearly all of the walks are finished except for a few spaces which allow heavy equipment to pass. The cafeteria facilities are nearly all in complete operation now, Thorburn reported.

General clean-up and landscaping outside the building still must be completed before McDonel can be termed a "finished" hall.

Retired Couple 'Sells' Savings

LA CROSSE, Wis. (P)—Retired couple Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Rude were planning a trip to a new retirement home in California. Rude withdrew their savings of $1,500 from the bank last week and tucked it away in his coat.

Mr. Rude organized a household auction. Among articles sold: the coat, with $1,500 in the pocket. No one remembers to whom.

The Physical Plant Department Will Be Centralized In This New $785,000 Structure Scheduled For Completion In Early November

The paint, sign and poster shops will be located in another area. Special tools, now located around the campus, will be placed in a central tool crib.

On the basement level, which opens out to the road, the custodial group will be quartered. Also included in this area are lunch and meeting rooms, showers and locker facilities for employees. Mobile emergency equipment like power generators and pumps will also be housed there.

Simon was in charge of the project, which was designed and planned by the physical plant department.

Dominican Democracy Falters

The cause of Latin-American democracy and liberalism suffered a jolting setback in the coup which deposed President Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

Bosch is alleged to have been pro-communist by his military opponents. No doubt this extreme rightist element would view the allowing of all political groups to operate as perverted leftism.

Bosch is a highly intelligent person, a former author and professor. Only last February, in accordance with a new constitution, he was elected president. Now, two years after the end of Generalissimo Trujillo's three decade reign of tyranny, the Dominican people are confronted with a government founded on force.

In an effort to build a showcase opposite Cuba, the U.S. poured in extensive aid. But Bosch still had to deal with the ravages left by years of misrule.

With too many of his fellow countrymen pursuing diverse courses of action, he never got the cooperation so necessary to rebuilding the torn Republic.

And so the typical Latin-American pattern prevailed last week in Santo Domingo.

Popular Entertainment Backed

For the third year in succession, the Frosh-Soph Council is bringing a popular singing group to the campus. Wednesday the Lettermen will be appearing in the Auditorium.

The University is fortunate in having a superb Lecture-Concert Series. In the course of a year's presentation, series director Wilson Paul manages to encompass the full spectrum of the more classical arts. But this has always been to the exclusion of most contemporary forms of popular entertainment.

It is encouraging to see the Frosh-Soph Council continuing to act to fill this need.

The Council showed discretion in scheduling the performance early in the term. All too often such programs compete with the more serious pursuits of the student.

Vietnam Furor Analyzed

Two straws in the wind suggest that there may be common ground between the disputing American factions in Saigon.

The first is a fact that has just come to light. Americans who read the report of General Maxwell Taylor following his earlier visit to Saigon, have disclosed that it was not merely a military document. General Taylor is said to have also emphasized the need to broaden the political base of the Diem government.

That was two years ago. Since then, the Diem regime has openly crossed swords with a faction of younger officers in the Vietnamese military who rebelled and wrecked the palace, with the Buddhists, the students and most recently with prominent civilians of all sorts suspected of opposing the regime. These latter were arrested. The political base of the regime is obviously far more narrow than it was when General Taylor criticized it two years ago.

The second hint comes from the columnist Joseph Alsop. He went to South Vietnam ahead of the McNamara-Taylor mission, and strongly denounced the group of American correspondents there who had emphasized rising political opposition to the Ngo family rule. Mr. Alsop remained in Vietnam to swing around and almost adopt their point of view.

He now argues that the Bud-dist crisis has had the political effect of a "broken mainspring. One result has been to cause President Diem to lose all sureness of touch," he continues. "The other and more important result has been to make all those reports of resentment (against the regime) come true at last. There is real bitterness toward the regime now, and the combination of this with the singular state of affairs in Gia Long Palace certainly raises grave questions about the viability of the Diem regime." He goes on to say that "on any practical calculation, President Diem will either take the needed steps to make his government viable again or strong internal forces will eventually take steps to secure a new government which will be viable."

Mr. Alsop incidentally confirmed the American reporters' judgment that the Buddhists had not been controlled or seriously infiltrated by Communists. President Diem himself blamed unnamed "foreign agitators and adventurers," in his recent letter to U Thant, and did not mention Communists. His spokesmen at the United Nations have referred to Indonesians, Cambodians and some French and Americans.

The progress of the war depends on both military and political factors and it seems likely that the McNamara-Taylor report will take both into consideration.

Racism Strikes North

Hugh McDonald, Jackson senior and Journalism major, was in Jackson at the time of the following occurrences.

By HUGH McDONALD

Time: About 3:15 p.m. Wednesday September 18, 1963. Place: Jackson, Michigan, a quiet, peaceful town of 50,000, some 45 miles south of the state capitol. Scene: A calm, autumn afternoon on Jackson's southwest side--an upper class all-white residential area. Suddenly the calm is shattered by some 200 shouting, rock-throwing students, mostly Negro, at the city's new Parkside High School--thus touching off one of the most violent racial outbreaks this Northern state has ever witnessed.

Before order was restored, helmeted police, with the aid of nightsticks and fire extinguishers, arrested 10 youths, forcibly restrained scores of others, and after several clashes in a two hour battle in which four policemen reportedly were assaulted, finally dispersed the unruly mob. Police personally escorted many of the marching youths to the southeast area of the city, where most of the Negroes live. Later that night, amid cries of "This isn't Alabama," and "I'll die for my freedom," a group of nearly 150 Negroes gathered to protest what they termed the "rank discrimination" that exists in Jackson.

The city, of course, was both shocked and humiliated by the outbursts. Regrettably, and perhaps unjustifiably, it focused national attention upon the city as one where serious and deeply disturbing racial undercurrents are brewing.

Dazed Jacksonians awoke the next morning asking themselves whether it was Jackson, Michigan or Mississippi they were living in. School officials' reaction was swift, and in light of what had happened, predictable. Any student caught fighting, carrying concealed weapons or in any way inciting a disturbance, faced immediate expulsion. If any previous record of the student indicated habitual trouble-making, the expulsion was to be permanent and irrevocable.

Yet concerned citizens are still asking themselves what triggered the violence. How did the deepening national crisis reach its climax for this relatively uneventful little town in Michigan? The Negroes' struggle for equality, the laborious and often violent road toward integration of the races, has been a forward march that has revealed its inexorable progress after this critical summer of sporadic violence, frustration and discord in cities, both North and South, across the country. Boston, Cambridge, Birmingham, Detroit, Chicago, Atlanta, New York, Oxford--all have experienced essentially the same trouble as Jackson. Yet the real significance of the riot in Jackson may lie in the fact that other small towns throughout the nation, just like Jackson, may be in for the same, and quite possibly worse, unless more progress is made, and quickly.

There apparently is a desire for these same middle-sized northern towns, Lansing very much included, to simply sweep under the rug any notion that racial trouble might develop. Indeed, the most sickening aspect of the entire Jackson affair was the tendency of police and city officials to term the rioting non-racial. Most Jacksonians knew from the beginning that the incidents were decidedly flavored with racial discord, despite all the city's claims to the contrary.

Many aroused and obviously uninformed Jacksonians immediately advanced the theory that the incident was inspired and incited by the NAACP. Certainly this was not true. It was apparent from the first that the demonstration was spontaneous.

It was then claimed that the trouble started because of the wide coverage the press has given to Negro demonstrations throughout the country. This is not true either. The Negro fight for equality is genuine news, perhaps the most significant of this generation, if indeed not the century, and for the press to ignore it would be a mortal sin committed against a democratic society who from its inception fought bitterly for a free press. Still others claimed the demonstrations were the result of a bunch of young hoodlums who were simply showing off and got carried away because all the attention they were receiving. This assumption may very well be true--yet the fact remains that there was and is discrimination and prejudice--in Jackson, Dubuque, Racine, Albuquerque, Providence or wherever, and the sooner the northern towns wake up and admit the fact the better.

Jacksonians might do well to realize that they are not the first town or the first generation to experience racial violence. Harper's Ferry, Little Rock, bloody Kansas, Birmingham, the Detroit riots of the forties, even Alward Lake--what generation has not known racial discord? For from the year 1619 when a Dutch ship dropped anchor in the Harbor at Jamestown with its cargo of "20 Negroes" to swap for food, not a single segment in the fabric of American life was to go untouched by the black thread introduced into the nation's social and cultural loom that day at Jamestown.

Dazed Northerners might do well to consider from an historical perspective the Negroes' struggle for equality, if they are genuinely concerned about avoiding future trouble. Dred Scott, Medgar Evers, John Brown, Martin Luther King, Marcus Garvey, Roy Wilkins--how many names has the "Negro question" thrust into national prominence? Jackson surely is not the first to find trouble in its own backyard. Lynch laws, Mr. Interlocutor, literacy tests, underground railroads, freedom rides, jazz, Black Muslims, Ku Klux Klan, sit-ins--what man, woman or child in all the land can say he has escaped the influence of the Negro in his midst?

Rather than sweeping under the rug all notions that racial violence could erupt "in our town," Northern towns and cities across the country might do well to begin admitting this possibility--and begin doing something about it.

On The Rocks

By GERRY HINKLEY

Ah, the rough, cement block staircase of education has been conquered, and Susie Senior now stands on the golden pinnacle. She is now B.M.O.C., or should I say B.W.O.C. No longer does she have to look up to anyone, and she is prepared to fully enjoy looking down at lowly underclassmen.

After spending three years on this campus, what can there be left to learn? She knows all the important places and traditions of Michigan State. Why she knows where the Red Cedar River is and Beaumont Tower and Engagement Rock. And she knows all about walking around Sparty three times and how to become a coed. And now as she saunters toward Berkey from her off-campus apartment, she decides that it is time to make her grand entry into her classes. (Susie believes that it is silly for seniors to go to classes the first few days because it's the same dry introductions you have heard for the past three years.)

She digs into her purse (coeds are carrying purses this year and seniors must set the styles) for her schedule, only to find the usual female filing system which has entirely skipped "s."

The day is saved, however, when Susie remembers that Sandi Sophomore has the same nine o'clock she does. The day is lost again when Sandi informs Susie that their instructor had assigned the first five chapters and is going to give a quiz today. A great record, one hour in class and already Susie has a straight "F" average. Oh, well seniors don't have to worry about grades. Do they?

Classes are over for the day, and Susie grudgingly decides it's time to join Kennedy's physical fitness program if she wants to go to the football game. So off she goes for the 50-mile hike to Jenison. "I wish I hadn't made that trip to engagement rock with a graduating senior last year," Susie thinks as she nears the halfway mark.

After wandering around Jenison for an hour playing hide and seek with the ticket window, an exasperated Susie swallows her pride and asks the first guy that comes along for directions.

"Just go through the door to your left, all the way down the corridor, then do a right and you will be there," Freddie Freshman replies.

A few days later, Susie has recovered from her ordeal and decides to brave an attempt at getting tickets for the lecture-concert event of the week. This time she uses her head before setting off for the ticket office. The lecture-concert events are always in the auditorium so that must be where you get the tickets.

She charges into Dr. Paul's office, only to have his receptionist smile understandingly and ask if she is a freshman.

"I was just going over to the Union to get my lecture-concert tickets, would you like to come along?" Franny Freshman asks.

The king on the mountain has tumbled, and Susie meekly submits herself to her freshman guide. After all our campus is too big for anyone to learn everything in three years.

Red Cedar Report

On Today's Affairs

University attempts to rid the Red Cedar of its odor are moving ahead with great vigor. Residents at the Sigma Nu fraternity house report they can't smell anything at all.

In the first decade or so of its existence, MSU was an all male school. Those were the good old days when you could kick a bush and it wouldn't kick you back.

Reports that Mr. Lou Hekhus of the Dean of Students Office is trying to sign up for a graduate seminar on Wednesday evenings simply aren't true. He is devoted to his job as referee at the weekly sessions of the AUCG.

The news is out all over town. Spartan guard Earl Lattimer is going into business for himself. Seems that after last Saturday's football game the line started forming at the right for a special adult evening class to be taught by Lattimer: Acrobatics 218.

MSU girls are carrying purses again. Is this because the fashion magazine says it's vogue, or because the men at MSU are getting smart and accepting "dutch treat only" dates.

Sig Delts Move To New House

Phi Sigma Delta members have moved into their new house at 1234 East Grand River for their first full year as a recognized fraternity.

MSU's Alpha Sigma Chapter of Phi Sigma Delta held its chartering ceremonies at the Jack Tar Hotel last May, only three years from the time it was a group of seven students.

Under the Phi Sigma Delta "Gentlemen's Pledge Program" pledges are immediately accepted by active members.

Their views and participation in activities are welcome, and an effort is made to integrate the chapter without degrading rituals.

The chapter has 43 active members, and the house will accommodate 21.

The original group, formed in 1960, was led by George Rubens, whose father founded the Phi Sigma Delta chapter at the University of Detroit.

Forestry majors and interested freshmen are invited.

Prof Studies Yorubas

'Simple Life' Just Isn't

Students who are fed up with their studies and tempted to break the habit in favor of the "simple life" of primitive tribesmen are strongly advised not to do so in a recent study, co-authored by Charles C. Hughes, associate professor of sociology and anthropology.

"Psychiatric Disorder Among the Yoruba" is based on comparative research among the Yoruba, a major tribe of West Africa, and a Nova Scotian community representing the Western World. Hughes reports that the incidence of mental illness and disorder among primitive peoples is just as high as that of the literate, civilized peoples of our hemisphere.

"Primitive societies do not naturally enjoy a healthier mental outlook than industrialized communities," says Hughes, who conducted his research in Nigeria and later compared it to the results of the Nova Scotian studies while associate director of the Cornell University Program in Social Psychiatry.

He has been director of the MSU African Studies Center for the past year. Previously he was with the Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University in California. He is the author of "An Eskimo Village in the Modern World" and co-author of "People of Cove and Woodlot: Communities from the Viewpoint of Social Psychiatry."

A firm opponent of the romantic notion that native life is simple and blissful compared to the type of life led by modern man, Hughes states, "I am more impressed by the similarities than the differences of mental disorders among the Yoruba and the social group in Nova Scotia."

Anxiety over economic problems, personal relations and social status afflict the Yoruba just as they do Americans. "Mental health is vitally affected by social ties," reports Hughes. "There is a higher prevalence of mental illness in disintegrating societies than in well organized groups that can adapt to social change."

The types of mental disorders found among the Yoruba are much the same as those prevalent in the West, and are chiefly psychoneurotic, rather than psychotic. Incidence of mental illness is less marked among the Yoruba than among peoples of the Western World.

Interviewing Begins At Placement Bureau

An active term of job interviewing at the Placement Bureau begins Oct. 14.

The Bureau is already booked solid for interviews through Nov. 18, Jack Shingleton, director of the Placement Bureau, said. All of its 21 rooms are expected to be used to accommodate students of all majors, who will graduate in December or March.

Seniors in technical accounting fields are eligible for interviewing even if they are graduating in June, Shingleton said. The technical fields include engineering, physics and mathematics.

Business, industry and government will send the bulk of recruiters for fall term interviewing. Employers and education do most of their recruiting spring term, Shingleton reported.

Companies throughout the United States send representatives to MSU for interviews each year. More than 12,000 interviews were held at the bureau last year. Students should make their appointments for interviews a week in advance, Shingleton said. Both the weekly Placement Bureau Bulletin and the State News publish a list of interviews for the coming week.

"There is also more to the services of the Placement Bureau than interviewing," Shingleton said. "From now on, many students who will be interviewed later in the year will be coming in to consult our staff on information relating to job opportunities and careers."

Recall 1959 Upset Booters Polish

Four years ago Wheaton College of Illinois invaded East Lansing under the customary billing of underdog to Michigan State's soccer team.

The same might be said of the 1963 Crusaders who will engage Spartan booters in the eighth meeting of the two outfits, Saturday. At least said by anyone except MSU head man, Gene Kenney.

The reason lies in the fact that 1959 marks the occasion of a Wheaton upset which enabled the Crusaders to become the second team in conference history to defeat State.

Although three unsuccessful bids to repeat the performance have been recorded since then, the sting of defeat is still felt by Coach Kenney.

"I remember getting beat," he recounted. "I don't recall whether it was in overtime or not. Either way it was a real cliffhanger all the way. We were down from the outset. And we were down at the end of the game."

"Last year they gave us another tough battle," Kenney recalled. "It seems since I can remember that's all they've ever done. Wheaton is always a rough, well-coached team which enters each soccer match in tip-top condition. We can expect the same of this season's team which we face next Saturday."

"Nevertheless," he said, "we have nothing special planned for this week's drills. We hope to continue where we left off last week. We had only seven days' time to shape up prior to last Saturday's match with Earlham. In that time we attempted to do the equivalent of two weeks of workouts."

"We are just going to work on the difficult skills of trapping, heading, passing and shooting. If you can perform these basic functions, there's no reason in the world for losing. It is just on fundamentals. That soccer games are won."

over Earlham in the opener, Kenney said:

"For a first game it wasn't too bad. You have to consider that Earlham provided us with excellent opposition. We looked good at times and bad at others. "There were some anxious moments," said Kenney, "especially in the third quarter. I didn't know if we were playing soccer or not. But our players kept their composure. I feel I know by this how they might react under pressure."

"One thing that did hurt us," Kenney noted. "It hadn't rained in three weeks and the ground was hard as concrete. This caused the ball to bounce an abnormal amount. While Earlham had practiced under these conditions, we were used to controlling the ball on a soft turf. Citing individual standouts, Kenney remarked:

"Our three men on the forward line did quite well. Bill Schwarz, as I have said before, never played in a collegiate soccer match before this year when he joined the team as a senior. Yet he did quite a fine job. Clare Deboer and George Jones handled themselves in much the same manner."

"On defense," the coach continued, "I can't pass up the performances of Louie Eckhardt, Sam Donnelly and Stan Stelmashenko."

"The goal keeper, Charlie Dedich, got a lot of well needed experience. With a few more games under his belt, he'll make the grade as a fine goal keeper."

We all make mistakes...

Bears, Browns Undefeated

(UPI)—The Chicago Bears once were called "Monsters of the Midway" and they may be stalking their former footsteps.

The Bears --- given only an outside chance to win the National Football League Championship --- won their third straight Sunday by clobbering the Detroit Lions, 37-21. They now have beaten their two toughest rivals, Green Bay and Detroit, as well as Minnesota --- all on the road.

In the Eastern Division, the only undefeated, united team the only undefeated, united team by trampling the Los Angeles Rams, 20-6. Next Saturday Night, the Browns have a date with the once tied Pittsburgh Steelers.

After four weeks of action, only the San Diego Chargers are undefeated in the American League. The Chargers stamped themselves as definite title threats Sunday by beating the defending champion Kansas City Chiefs, 24-10.

National and local gridiron forecasters have predicted a rough road ahead for the Michigan State Spartans this fall, but team co-captain Dan Underwood has a more optimistic outlook for the season.

Dan agrees to the rough road, but feels the Spartans are ready to travel and will take the road better than pre-season pollsters have predicted.

"Last year we had All-American linemen who knew they were headed for the pros," explained Dan. "While preparing for the third game, a lot of the players were looking ahead to the Michigan game and while practicing for the Michigan they were looking ahead to other games, but this year we'll be thinking about one game at a time because we know every game will be a tough one."

Underwood, a six foot 205 pound senior, is a third year veteran at defensive end and will co-captain this year's team, along with halfback Sherman Lewis. Coach Duffy Daugherty calls Dan a moral leader of the team, as his second division rating in the Big Ten, but Dan feels that a well as leader of the defensive unit.

A Dowagiac high school teammate of last year's All-American lineman Dave Berhman, Dan feels the increased speed and more determined attitude of this year's line will make up for the size of last year's highly touted front wall.

An apparent lack of depth is one of the reasons for the Spar-good evaluation of the team's depth should wait until the team has played a couple of games. "They said we wouldn't have depth last year, but five of our second stringers were drafted by the pros and two played in post-season bowl games," explained Underwood.

When asked about the plans for less platooning this year because of the new substitution rule, Dan said that he felt that the team was in good shape and that any player called upon to play the entire game would be ready to do so. "The players have been working real hard this fall and will be faster and in better condition than last," stated Underwood.

Dan feels that Saturday's opening tilt with the North Carolina Tar Heels answered a lot of questions about what to expect from the Spartans this year. Although aware that one game is insufficient for an evaluation of the team's abilities, he feels this opening game tested some of the inexperienced players and gave some indication of capabilities of the new line.

Lowe Is Out For Season; Tigers Finish Fifth Place

Detroit --- for the Detroit Tigers today, baseball is just a spectator sport.

Closing out a frustrating season on the diamond and at the gate, the Bengals will again have to be content to watch the World Series from the sidelines.

The Tigers, who were supposed to give the series-bound New York Yankees a run for the flag this season, faltered early, and never were in the running.

They ended the campaign in a fifth place tie with the Cleveland Indians winning 79 games while losing 83.

In their final game yesterday, at Baltimore, the Tigers beat the Orioles 7-3.

Detroit --- one of the Detroit Lions' best secondary men--- Gary Lowe---will be out for the rest of the season.

Coach George Wilson says Lowe will be operated on at University Hospital in Ann Arbor tomorrow to repair the achilles tendon which was torn in yesterday's game against the Chicago Bears.

Lowe suffered the freak injury in the 37-21 loss as he ran down the field following a play in the second period. He ripped the tendon himself without running into anyone.

The 29-year-old Lowe---who played on two Michigan State Rose Bowl teams---was the fifth draft choice in 1956 of the Washington Redskins. He came to the Lions in 1957 after being released by the Redskins.

Bruce Maher---a four year veteran who has been a sub in the defensive backfield---filled in for Lowe yesterday.

Dittrich Looks For Sophs To Aid Cross Country Squad

Harrier pilot Fran Dittrich will be casting a watchful and waiting eye on his bumper crop of second year men in concluding drills this week, as the Spartans prepare for their season opener next Saturday.

Dittrich will be counting heavily on his talented sophomore contingent, with a successful cross country campaign hanging in the balance.

BOB FULCHER

Last season it was a fine sophomore duo that paved the way to the late season splurge that netted State the Big Ten crown, along with second and fifth place finishes in the IC4A and NCAA championships. Following a dismal start last year, which saw the Spartans drop their first three meets, sophs Mike Kaines and Jan Bowen supplied the impetus that brought a faltering picture back into focus.

Bowen, who had been hobbled by a leg ailment during the first half of the season, came on strong in the second half to earn a third place finish in the Western Conference finals. Kaines improved markedly throughout the season and placed eighth in the Big Ten championships.

Bowen and Kaines are juniors now, and combined with seniors and two-time letter winners Bob Fulcher and Ron Berby to form a solid nucleus of veteran ability. But in cross country, perhaps more than in any other sport, the key to winning is overall team strength. And Dittrich will be looking to his sophomores to furnish this key factor.

Soph headliner Dick Sharkey, not only heads the group of promising prospects, but could very well grasp individual honors before the season is over. Sharkey, who has scammed the four mile course at Forrest Ackers in 19:40 (unequaled by any '62 team member), is currently in a battle royal with Kaines and Bowen for the number one position. With a year of experience on the tough, hilly Forrest Ackers layout, Sharkey can be expected to pay rich dividends to the Spartan squad.

Another highly regarded varsity rookie is Mike Martens, the former Charlotte prep star. Martens turned in an outstanding job for the frosh squad last year and is expected to be one of the harriers top performers this year.

Dittrich will turn his sophomore prospects loose this week-end, when State plays host to Ohio State and Ohio University.

USC Rates 1st Says Duffy; UPI Puts Them Number Nine

By JEROME CAPLAN
State News Sports Editor

Southern California may be in the number nine spot on the UPI rating list, but on Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty's list they're number one in the country.

Daugherty thinks USC is the most explosive and dangerous football team in the nation. And despite a loss to Oklahoma he still thinks "that they're the equal of any team."

The televising of the Oklahoma-Southern Cal clash on Saturday afternoon gave the Spartan coach a chance to get a close look at this week's opponent.

What Daugherty, and fans around the nation, saw was Oklahoma controlling the ball and upsetting the favored Trojans. "You can't stand in there and trade touchdowns with a team like Southern California," commented the Spartan mentor.

"That's playing their kind of football and then you're in trouble," he added.

The Trojans' formation isn't worrying Duffy the way it worries some coaches, but California's personnel are causing quite a bit of deep thinking. "I don't care whether a team runs an 'I', a split 'T', or a pro-type offense. It's the personnel talent behind the formations that count. An 'I' formation does make the defense commit themselves a little sooner, but Southern California's backfield would be great in any formation," he commented.

The Trojans run a varied attack and the Spartans started installing defenses to combat it yesterday afternoon. One of the big problems will be stopping ace Southern Cal receiver Hal Bedsole. Bedsole is 6'5" and defensive backs Lou Bobich, Sherm Lewis, Charlie Migyanka,

USC also boasts "the top college punter in the country," according to Daugherty, in senior Ernie Jones. Jones averaged 50 yards per punt in the Oklahoma game.

The Spartan coaching staff will decide tomorrow on who will make the trip. A conference rule limits traveling squads to 38.

Still on the doubtful list are end Tom Krzemienski, and guards Steve Mellinger and John Karpinski. Krzemienski and Karpinski were both injured in Saturday's opener. Mellinger strained his knee early this fall.

Ford Vs. Koufax Now Official

NEW YORK--ALBANY, everybody knew it but New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk made it official today.

Veteran southpaw Whitey Ford will pitch for the Yankees in Wednesday's opening game of the World Series at New York. Houk also broke precedent somewhat by announcing his second game pitcher. It will be another left-hander, Al Downing.

For the Los Angeles Dodgers, it will be Sandy Koufax in the opening game and probably Johnny Podres in the second game. Houk also announced his starting lineup and it will include Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris.

Wynn Named Indian Pitching Coach

CLEVELAND--Three-hundred game winner Early Wynn has found the connection he wanted in baseball.

Wynn was named pitching coach of the Cleveland Indians today and will take over when spring training starts next year. He succeeds Mel Harder who has been with the Tribe as player and coach since 1927.

Wynn posted his 300th victory for the Indians on July 13th after being released at the end of last season by the Chicago White Sox.

No reason was given for releasing Harder.

Orioles Want "Get Tough" Manager

BALTIMORE--The successor to Billy Hitchcock as manager of baseball's Baltimore Orioles will be asked to start a "get tough" policy in 1964.

Club President Lee MacPhail made that plain in announcing that Hitchcock will not be re-hired. He told newsmen--"We're looking for someone a little tougher than Bill was."

MacPhail did not name any men under consideration but those in the running are understood to include former Detroit manager Bob Scheffing, Rochester Manager Darrell Johnson and Harry Walker of Atlanta.

49er Coach Throws In Towel

SAN FRANCISCO--A team keeps losing --- and the coach resigns.

That was the San Francisco story today as Red Hickey submitted his resignation as head coach of the National Football League Forty-Niners.

A successor was scheduled to be named later today. Hickey's San Francisco team lost its last two games last year, five exhibitions this season and then the first three games in the regular season.

There also have been reports of dissension and fans had started to complain about trades.

The trades included sending quarterback Y.A. Tittle to the New York Giants for a player no longer with the club.

San Diego Site Of AFL-Star Game

NEW YORK--Commissioner Joe Foss announces that the American Football League's post-season All-Star game will be played at San Diego on January 5th.

The All-Star teams will be directed by coaches of the division champions and will be limited to 28 players each.

Davis, Yastrzemski Batting Champs

CHICAGO--Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers wound up as National League batting champ and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston was top hitter in the American League. Davis batted .326 and Yastrzemski .321.

J.S. Pingel Named By MSU

A Detroit advertising executive has been nominated by Michigan State University for the Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary All-American Award.

John S. Pingel, who starred on Spartan football and track teams, is among 71 outstanding men across the country honored this year by their alma maters. The list also included such famous names as ex-Yankee pitcher, Allie Reynolds, and the popular sports announcer, Marty Glickman.

After graduation, Pingel played professional ball with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League. He then entered the military service and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel, while receiving numerous citations.

Pingel returned to Michigan State as assistant football coach before entering the advertising field. He is currently the executive vice-president of Ross Ray Inc. in Detroit, and is on the Board of Directors of Community Action for Detroit Youth.

The final selection of the 25 winners will be made by a panel of twelve distinguished figures and will be announced by the magazine in December.

The award, symbolized by a trophy in the form of miniature goal posts, is unique in that nomination alone is regarded as a special honor, since colleges and universities do not nominate unless they have a candidate of winning caliber.

states' representation in the House of Representatives. "This provision is already in the Fourteenth Amendment," he said. "It has never been activated, however."

The civil rights group also recommended that Congress stop giving financial support to ROTC

Fate Debated

Southerners opposing the proposal.

Tearing into the commission's past activity and its report Monday, Russel said if any other Federal agency had "shown the same prejudice as this commission" it would have been abolished long ago or resignation of its members demanded.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., also denounced the commission's newest report and said the agency had violated the aims of the men who drafted the U. S. Constitution. He said the commission apparently regards the President as the law-making part of the Federal Government.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said the commission has "created ill will and increased racial tension" and the wisest thing for the country would be to "let it die the peaceful death it so rightfully deserves."

The commission, in addition to its voting rights proposal, also called for enactment of fair employment practices legislation for the first time.

Opera Audition Bids Open

Programs at segregated colleges and universities. "This provision is in keeping with our policies that federal funds not be used to support discrimination or segregation," he said.

In debate in the Senate, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., urged that Congress let the commission die, as an "agency prejudiced against the South."

Sen. Willis Robertson, D-Va., called it a waste of money and a disservice to the people of this nation. Robertson accused the commission of advocating "use of financial blackmail" in recommending withholding of federal funds from Mississippi.

"It has done more harm than good," he said. "Its recommendations have been inattentive and unsound, and it is certainly one of the temporary federal agencies which we could very well terminate here and now."

The MSU president said it would be inappropriate to comment on the Congressmen's statements.

"The work of the Civil Rights Commission is too important to get into personalities," he said. "The Senators are entitled to their own opinions--that is their right."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., as acting senate majority leader, moved to tack the proposed one-year extension of the commission onto a House-passed measure proposing the payment of $816.83 benefit to a woman as compensation for the death of her husband in World War II.

The president also reserved comment on this measure.

Opera Audition Bids Open

Preliminary auditions for the Grinnell Foundation of Music $2,500 opera scholarship and other awards will be held December 7 in the Masonic Temple in Detroit.

According to the bulletin from the Detroit Grand Opera Association, applicants must be in the following age brackets: sopranos, 19-30; altos, 19-32; tenors, 20-32; baritones, 20-33; basses, 20-35.

Proof of age may be required of all applicants.

The deadline for completed applications is December 1. Requests for the forms may be made by writing Mrs. Walker A. Williams, Detroit Grand Opera Association, Ford Auditorium, Detroit 26.

Singers selected from the first audition will be asked to sing again in a semi-final audition on December 9. Final auditions will be held on January 30.

Homes Away From Home Get Names

Women in North Case and West Wilson halls have their own house to come home to at the end of a day.

Instead of living in a precinct, as in the older campus dormitories, coeds last year chose various themes on which to base names.

Naming the precincts is intended to promote house unity and leadership on a more personal basis, according to Miss Charlene O'Reilly, resident advisor of North Case.

Case's Fountainbleau and Castaway House illustrate these of luxury hotel names from around the world. Others are Camelot, Desert Inn, El Dorado, Esquire, Summit House, Stagecoach Stop, Beau Rivage and Penthouse.

Wilson has initiated an international theme to spell out its name as illustrated by the African town of Wakatipu, Idlewild, Lucerne, Sparta, Olympus, Nassau, Naples, Orleans and Interlochen.

State News Left At Open Doors

Married housing residents are requested to leave their screen doors unlocked by the State News circulation staff. Papers will be left inside the screen door, but if the door is locked none will be delivered.

Delays with the printer have resulted in the State News being delivered late to married housing this week, according to Circulation Manager Bill Marshall, but normally the papers will be delivered before breakfast.

Linen Supplymen Meeting Here

Why pay less than $10 for a canvas shoe?

Frankly, the Sperry Top-Sider canvas oxford is the most expensive you can buy. But it's worth every penny. The famous, exclusive anti-slip safety sole has made it the only shoe for men and women who know boats. (Great tennis favorite, too.) And the rest of the shoe makes it perfect for all casual wear. The non-chafe loose lining, that relaxes your foot. The double-deep heel cushion. The tailored looks. So why pay less, when you could wear fashion's famous Sperry Top-Sider canvas oxford for $9.95?

Unique Worldwide Culture Series Under L-C And Campus Program

Headline performers from five widely separated parts of the world will appear on the MSU campus during the next year. This unique entertainment series is sponsored jointly by the Lecture-Concert Series and the campus Centers of Asian, Latin American and African studies.

The first such series in the country, the program is hoped to be the beginning of a tradition here. Wilson B. Paul, director of the series, says, "We hope this will be the first of a continuing series of outstanding programs from these important areas of world culture."

The first program in the series will be presented October 9 in Fairchild Theater and will feature Shanta Rao and her troupes of classical Indian dancers performing dances of South Asia.

Two first-rate Japanese performers will appear November 21 in the Kiva of Erickson Hall. They are Kimeo Eto and Suzuji Hanayagi. Eto is considered the "first and foremost master of the Koto", the 13-stringed Japanese court instrument. Miss Hanayagi is the mistress of Japanese kabuki and a famous theater style.

Jean-Leon Destine will come to campus January 28, bringing his reputation as Haiti's greatest dancer and choreographer and his dance company to the University Auditorium for the third program in the series.

A troupe of Korean dancers and musicians will come to MSU February 11 to appear in Fairchild Theater. Five top musicians will play such instruments as the konungo, the tangeum, the sanho, the taegum and the tanso. All members of the widely-acclaimed company will wear native Korean costumes.

Climaxing the unusual series on April 29, Miriam Makeba of South Africa will appear in the Auditorium. An experienced showman and hailed as one of the greatest singing discoveries of recent years, Miss Makeba is a Xosa tribeswoman and a popular folk singer.

Tickets for the entire five-concert series or for individual performances are available in the Union ticket office.

ETS Will Quiz Law School Candidates

Candidates for admission to most American law schools will take the Law School Admission Test at more than 100 centers throughout the nation during the next year. The test, which is administered by the Educational Testing Service, will be given Nov. 9, Feb. 8, April 18 and Aug. 1.

ETS advises candidates to apply separately to each school they have chosen and to find out whether or not the test is required. They are advised to take either the November or the February test since many law schools accept only those taken during the spring.

The two-part examination includes a test of language and logic use and one of writing ability and background. Applications are available from Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, or Testing Office, Counseling Center. Applications must be received at least two weeks before the testing date.

Hearing, Speech Clinic Doubles Area Service

The University Hearing and Speech Clinic is extending services by fifty per cent in the Lansing area, announced Herbert J. Oyer, clinic director.

Under the extension, patients who cannot come to the clinic will be treated in their homes by a team of graduate students under supervision of the clinic's senior staff, he said.

Oyer said the program would be carried out in cooperation with family physicians and treatment would begin with their OK.

The extension was made possible by a $14,500 grant from the Neurological and Sensory Disease Agency of the Public Health Department in Washington, D. C.

A $65,000 grant was also given to the program by the Vocational Rehabilitation Agency for training and teaching the graduates.

The senior staff includes James W. Hillis, assistant professor of speech; Charles P. Pedrey, associate professor of speech and assistant director of the Hearing and Speech Clinic; Edward J. Hardick, graduate and program coordinator of field work; Patricia Stump, assistant instructor and assistant in the extension program; and Oyer.

New Prof Doing Ag Research

Sverker Persson, former instructor at Sweden's Royal College of Agriculture, recently joined the MSU agricultural engineering department.

Presently, he is teaching advanced courses in farm power and machinery.

Under grants from the Detroit Arsenal, Persson is conducting research in soil dynamics. He is also coordinating statewide experiments in soil strength and farm machinery traction.

After graduation from the Junior College of Kristianstad in 1940, Persson earned his masters from Chalmers Institute of Technology in Gothenburg.

He came to the United States on a Kellogg fellowship which enabled him to earn his doctorate at MSU in 1960. At that time he made a special study of ways to improve tractor construction and performance.

Returning to Sweden, Persson continued his work with traction and grain combines.

He came to the United States again because he felt a Swedish tendency toward economical rather than technical research in agricultural engineering limited opportunities in his field. He chose MSU because in his opinion it is one of the best schools in the United States for agriculture and has an outstanding staff and facilities for research.
