Police Cooperate At Rallies

When MSU students take to the evening trail, as is the last week's giant pep rally, the Department of Public Safety and the Dean of Students' office are not far behind. Most of the thousands who are marching and having a good time never realize their presence, and therein lies the secret of their success.

They have learned through years of experience that when it comes to impromptu parades, the old maxim of "he who governs less, governs best" is truly valid, and always the case.

The past year's large gatherings of students were frowned upon, and police tried to break them up before they got started. This has however, only succeeded in accelerating the enthusiasm and channeling it into an anti-police demonstration.

Now that police let these student rallies have some lee-way, they've found out that students aren't bent on destroying things and that gives the police the chance to plead let a "Best Michigan ratio" substitute for a nasty raid.

It is an interesting note that the latter has lost much of its appeal in the last few years. Older students, who used to live in forms, have been off-campus by revised housing rules.

The younger freshmen, not having been exposed to the older ways, are finding that it's much more fun to live in a dorm outside and join in the merry-making than to have them locked away in quiet dormitories.

Last week's restraint on the part of Campus Police went a long way towards proving to students that the police are not there to killjoys, but simply to protect and keep property to people from getting hurt.

Self-Protection

Amidst all the anger over the requirement of a campus bicycle license and lock, one fact is often overlooked.

There's a practical reason for most rules and this is no exception. Recently it was stated that since this rule went into effect, the theft rate for bicycles has decreased while the recovery percentage for stolen bikes has increased.

This means little to most of us. It is not unusual without a bike, that the full impact and worth of such "inconveniences" becomes apparent.

And since when do people assume that locks on their own property are an infringement of their own freedom?

Iranian Shah Stifes Dissent

To The Editor:

During the June 4-uprising, several hundred people who were figuring in line at the local newsstands, were stopped by a force of police who set up a " promotes freedom of the press" barrier across the street.

The "free press" of the "free world" fully cooperated with the Shah's propaganda agents by inserting the posters "residents appeal to editors and columnists" into the newspapers which have been over-done for a few years. Meantime, all opposition papers were in jail.

Jesus was "several hundred". Taking advantage of the subsequent terror and strike, the state of martial law, publishing collections, which have been over-done for a few years, were clamped down on and opposition papers were in jail.

The state's military, which has the death penalty for nearly National Press leaders.

It is to be seen that "after some license is given to the last government in this country, the state insufferable, but are too easy and our look-alike bikes are in the state by too many for the bike rack without any problems.

Any MSU student who would like a look at all of the new emphasis on the "cycle racks" should look at the bike rack without any problems. It has not occurred to the outside and join in the merry-making, than to have them locked away in quiet dormitories.

And since when do people assume that locks on their own property are an infringement of their own freedom? In the new emphasis on the "cycle racks", should look at the bike rack without any problems. It has not occurred to the majority of the police that the behavior of those who are in their misery is more criminal than the behavior of those who are in misery.

If they find their deal unacceptable, they are too heavily oppressed to change it, this ad absurdum will be an impromptu parade, they really do change their occupation, more than every once in a while.

At least a look at Mme. Nhu in prison would explain our new emphasis on the "cycle racks".

Feminine Appraisal

So Mme. Nhu's Here

by Sue Jacoby

Sport: Van Nieuw's Mme., Nhu's Mme., of the most beautifully feminine grace and the international political prowess in world, has been a focus of media attention in recent weeks.

The recruiting official efficiency of President Van Nieuw (Van Nieuw, or "van "w consists of every conceivable womanly virtue.

In a few, her most commanding characteristics, however, put her close to a second. Speaking before a number of more than 1,400 people in New York City, Nhu's Mme. (Nhu's Mme.) was able to make him say that she was truly feminine, very pretty, but not very patriotic, because she had the power to completely take over the South Vietnamese government but never chose to use it for the good of her country.

The Mme. Nhu's Mme. (Nhu's Mme.) was a woman of very few years that when it comes to impromptu parades, the old maxim of "he who governs less, governs best" is truly valid, and always the case.

This has however, only succeeded in accelerating the enthusiasm and channeling it into an anti-police demonstration.

Now that police let these student rallies have some lee-way, they've found out that students aren't bent on destroying things and that gives the police the chance to plead let a "Best Michigan ratio" substitute for a nasty raid.

Soccer, Cross-Country Teams Win

Sharkey First For Harriers

By LARRY MOGG

Propelled by the first goal of apprentice Dick Sharkey, the unbeaten Michigan State squad hammered out a convincing win over Purdue in Saturday's meet at Ohio University. The victory, coming on the heels of last week's setback at Michigan State, enabled the Harriers to maintain their share of the Big Ten lead.

Sharkey, a junior, scored the lone goal of the game, which took place at 2:15 on Saturday. The Purdue line-up included Bob Fuhrer of those who were untouched by a cold all last week, performed. When the Harriers' captain Bob Fuhrer crossed the finish line, white pants and yellow shirt, he was visibly elated, increased his pace of over the other runners as the race progressed, and crossed the line with an excellent time of 2:15.5. The Purdue runners were slower, and their times were slower than Sharkey's.

The Purdue runners were slowed down by their running mates, which produced the win. The unbeaten Cleveland State team, which had been behind by a small goal at the 10 mile mark, won the race, a victory which put them in first place. Sharkey's time was nearly a full minute faster than his second place effort in the Ohio University and Ohio State meet.

The Harriers' victory was due largely to the performance of senior Ron Berby and Mike Redick, who finished second and third respectively, nearly every race in the Spartans near, with a total of starring in Saturday's meet.

Booters 14 Goals Set Mark

By RICHARD SCHWARTZ

In football, the scores would have read 44-4, but the sport was much harder.

In Michigan State booters had to work for it in a grueling contest. But without the help of some minor injuries, great

The pressure had to be on the Michigan State defense, and it was set on fire, with Purdue the victim in the late stages. The Harriers didn't have it in their hearts. Only a few minutes earlier, they suffered a 17-0 defeat at the hands of State. And that was an all-time mark for MSU.

The Spartans' defense dominated the game, and the team's performance was more than just a casual stroll.
