

EDP Becomes Reality

After nine months of hectic debate the University has finally taken the first concrete step toward making the Educational Development Project a physical reality.

On February 9, the Board of Trustees approved the formation of a special committee to expedite President Hannah's 7 point program. This program aimed at enabling the University to cope with an increasing enrollment while maintaining quality education.

Ensuing weeks saw constant controversy. Some professors announced plans to leave the University, attributing these in part to what became known as Project X a journalistic pseudonym for the Educational Development Project. Other dissenters claimed that the faculty was not properly consulted prior to the first formulation of EDF.

Some faculty and students were ever fearful of 'canned' education.

But this country is committed to educating its citizens and this University as a state institution has little choice but to accept the challenge.

Last Friday the Board of Trustees passed final favorable judgment on plans for the changes so sorely needed.

In the sixties as the nation's inadequate educational facilities confront an ever increasing influx of students, how well Michigan State succeeds in its task will have great import.

The late Provost, Clifford E. Erickson was quite correct when he said, "this is the first example of a major university taking a look at itself to see what can be done."

Homecoming Sentiments

Homecoming comes up this weekend as it periodically does.

And to add further to our enthusiasm, runners in togas will gallop down from the Capitol with torches and touch off a bonfire on the intramural field.

The men's dorms will oblige all by acting as the 'wood bringer-inners' for this holocaust.

They call this a pep rally and so "Biggie" and Duffy" will be there and even some football players.

Saturday will see a football game and at halftime a comely coed will reign as queen and with her court will drive about the gridiron in Oldsmobiles.

Then those responsible for the better displays and floats will be named as winners.

They tell us Homecoming is something more; it is supposed to evoke some sort of profound feeling and a spirit of reunion.

So the alumni can attend a banquet if they want to, or even the dance Saturday night. There will be get-togethers of various colleges.

But we are a big school and perhaps because of this our alumni sentimental flings seem small. Maybe it just seems like this only to undergraduates.

College Bowl

We note with dismay that registration for the MSU College Bowl has had to be extended. Could it be that there are not enough individuals hereabouts who are knowledgeable enough to compete?

We strongly endorse the concept of an MSU College Bowl and hope more student interest is forthcoming. Certainly we would never regret the healthy development of such a program.

Such intellectual orientation in extracurricular activities is always needed. After all, we are a university.

We urge AUSG to redouble its efforts to keep alive this potentially fine program.

Letters To The Editor

AUSG vs Rather

To the Editor: I can see by reading my daily issue of the State News, namely that copy dated Thursday, Oct. 24, that we have acquired a new martyr on campus, Rather Hall, thanks to the fine objective news coverage of the State News that always puts things in their proper perspective.

Now, I'm always in favor of a "free and objective" press which the State News purports to be. However, my main concern is with two things: the nature of the headline and a few pertinent facts concerning the nature of the representative's withdrawal.

To the first, I would like to say this: That the headline read "Rather Breaks with AUSG." Granted, this is a sensational story. However, there is one thing to keep in mind and that is simply that a dorm council has no right legally or illegally to withdraw from AUSG, namely because the dorm council has no representation in AUSG. The Representative represents the students and not the dorm council.

Secondly, concerning the nature of the withdrawal of Rather's representative, one thing should be noted. Rather's representative had been in AUSG for less than a full quarter and had three absences to her credit. According to the Rules of Congress, with four absences during her entire term of office (three full quarters) she would have been forced to hand in her resignation. (These records are open to any student). This may or may not shed a different light on the situation. I think however, that before one condemns an existing organization, i.e. AUSG, for its alleged pitfalls, one should attempt to reform from within.

One more point: After considering the martyrdom of Rather Hall ala State News and jumping to the conclusion that AUSG is worthless, it might be more worthwhile for students to consider the positive aspects of AUSG and where it falls short of desired expectations, to attempt to work from within. It should be worth noting, that where no effort appears to have been made to heal the patient, few people will respect the diagnosis or the doctor.

RA Appraisal

To the Editor: Each term every dormitory resident fills out a form on their participation in campus activities and organizations for administrative purposes. Also included in this questionnaire is a Resident Advisor evaluation of the student. The RA has to judge how well the student respects the rights of others, his or her academic effort, housekeeping abilities, major asset and handicap in college life, etc.

As the RA judges various student's capabilities and deficiencies seems ridiculous. He is oftentimes not thoroughly acquainted with the one he is judging and therefore a subjective evaluation is likely to result. A student just does not have the right or knowledge to evaluate others. Passing judgement on another is the job of God -- not a Resident Advisor.

Why Destroy?

To the Editor: "Join the great crusade!" shout various student (sic) leaders. "Kill the evil dragon AUSG!!" "They have arguments there every week."

I am afraid to say that "the dragon" who is really only "a lizard" cannot bite back. You see -- it has no teeth. AUSG is blamed for all the ills and abuses that its detractors can muster including (in the same breath) laziness, impetuosity, power hunger, and inability to reach the student body. Great white knights come to our meetings spouting more fire and brimstone than many a fundamentalist preacher and AUSG can only sit quietly as he raves, waiting patiently for some proposed solutions or at least help. But the leaders leave, and so does the Rather Hall delegate. After all, their mission is done. They know that the State News will take the knives they thrust so vehemently into the back of Student Government and "twist" them into print.

All right! You great student leaders. Knowing that our hands are tied by the fact, admitted by the administration, that the only power we have is that which is given to us by them; knowing also that our plans must be limited by this fact; knowing that we are trying our best but are without aid from certain of you, and knowing especially well the reputation you can gain by felling any dragon, even a harmless one -- Go ahead!

The forty some students who voluntarily give their time every Wednesday to "bicker and be lazy" can live without AUSG. But remember in the end result the only ones you are hurting are the students, and the only ones you are helping are yourselves.

Point of View

U.N. Needs Mao's China

by Bob Bearman

In the October 22 issue of the Detroit Free Press Roscoe Drummond criticized the Young Democrats of California for adopting these extreme measures:

- 1. Immediate recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations.
- 2. Resumption of trade and diplomatic relations with Castro-Soviet Cuba.
- 3. Recognition of the Communist government of East Germany.
- 4. Withdrawal of all American forces from South Vietnam.

Except for the last one, these proposals could hardly be called extreme. Practical is a better word.

The United States, by not recognizing Red China, is not recognizing reality. For it is Red China, not Nationalist China, which is itself a dictatorship of the Chek family--that is the true representative of the Chinese people.

By admitting Red China to the United Nations, the world may force her to restrain her aggressive actions. As the situation exists now, Red China is on the outside looking in and is answerable to no one for her actions. Also, unless Red China is admitted to the United Nations, the resolutions passed by that body would have no effect on her. The most recent example of this is the resolution adopted which bans nuclear weapons from outer space. Any nuclear power placing nuclear weapons, would be breaking this resolution and consequently would have to face the adverse world opinion--not so Red China.

We cannot go on ignoring a country with a population of over 600 million people and the potential to become a major nuclear power. No type of isolationism has ever proved effective in the past and there is no reason to believe that it will be effective in the future.

The recognition of East Germany would end the myth of German reunification. While West Germany would violently oppose such a measure, it should be noted that West Germany carries on approximately $200 million worth of trade with East Germany each year. Thus it is seen that the most vigorous opponent of East German recognition has, in a way, recognized that country.

By applying to Cuba the same restrictions as it does to the rest of the Communist block, the United States could carry on profitable trade with that country.

We live in a world of realities, not myths. And unless we accept these realities, we cannot adequately combat them. Not to accept these realities may lead us to find ourselves a once-free nation.

THEY SING HONEST FOLK SONGS.

IN A WILD, DRIVING, SPIRITED, EXCITING, AND SOMETIMES QUIET NEW WAY.

THE JOURNEYMEN

NEW DIRECTIONS IN FOLK MUSIC

Just listen to their Capitol album, "New Directions in Folk Music" You'll hear the rocking, driving way the Journeymen sing "Someday Baby," a low down blues out of Chicago. The fun they have with "Stackolee," the wild song about a legendary terror of New Orleans. Their quiet and moving version of "All the Pretty Little Horses," one of the most beautiful lullabies ever written. Their spirited ragtime rendition of "San Francisco Bay."

Then you'll know what's new in folk songs. And what's best.

Look for - ask for - the Journeymen in concert on your campus.

Arena Theatre To Do 'Duchess'

"The Duchess of Malfi," an Elizabethan play by John Webster, will be the second offering of the University Theatre's auditorium arena season.

This exciting drama of intrigue involves a Duchess who secretly marries below her station against the desires of her brothers. It will be staged in modern dress Nov. 6-9 on the circular stage in the basement of the Auditorium.

Farley Richmond, assistant instructor in speech, will direct the cast which has been in rehearsal for several weeks. Christine Bergstrom, Bloomfield Hills Junior, will play the title role. Miss Bergstrom received the Theta Alpha Phi "best acting award" last year for her portrayal of Electra in Sophocles' classic drama.

Ferdinand, brother to the Duchess and secretly in love with her, will be played by Richard Leinawever, a member of the Performing Arts Company. Leinawever most recently appeared as Iago in the Colorado Shakespeare Festival's production of "Othello."

Burt B. Belant will appear as the Cardinal, second brother to the Duchess who uses the church as the instrument for his own selfish aspirations. Belant, a native of Pontiac, received the "best acting award" for his outstanding performance of Mr. Zuss in "J.B." last year.

Antonio, the steward who is secretly married to the Duchess, will be played by B. James Alexander. Alexander is a member of the Eugene, Ore. Performing Arts Company, and appeared in numerous productions at the University of Portland. Earl Boeg will play Daniel de Bosola, the clandestine partner in the brothers' vengeance against their sister's marriage. Boeg, of Boise, Idaho, has performed with the Oregon Shakespeare Festival as well as Idaho State University and the University of Denver Summer Theatre.

Kaye Madison will be Julia, the lustful mistress of the Cardinal. Miss Madison, a member of the Performing Arts Company, appeared in last year's "Of Thee I Sing."

C. David Colson is cast as Delio, Antonio's faithful friend. Mr. Colson recently appeared on the MSU arena stage as the title character in "Jack, or The Submission." Cathy Stripe, Grayling Junior, will play Carliola, the comforting, jovial nurse.

Others in the cast include: William A. Seeley, Grand Rapids; Anne Stefanie Kapetan, Wayne; Dick Williams, Royal Oak; Emmet A. Faulkner, Sault; Henry Blackledge, Cretskill, N.J.; and Ken Beachler, Grand Rapids.

Settings and lighting will be designed by Frank Levin. Daniel J. Fleischacker and Susan Weiner are costuming the production.

A limited number of Auditorium Arena season tickets are still available; the six remaining plays for $1. Individual admission will be .50¢ at the door the nights of productions.

Fines Pile Up As Permits Grow

A collection of student driving permits can become an expensive hobby for unwary students. This is a $2 violation and cars are being ticketed.

The practice of displaying more than one permit has become a fad at M.S.U. The permits are something of a status symbol. They show a student is an upperclassman and has had his car on campus for more than one year.

This rule is in the Student Motor Vehicle Regulations Sec. IV, part 1.

New Copyright Law Needed, Siebert Says

Copyright problems usually stem from the complexity of copy rightable materials, the MSU Men's Club was told Tuesday.

Fredrick S. Siebert, Dean of the College of Communication Arts, said that the Copyright Act will probably be revised, due to the many innovations in modern communications.

For example, Siebert said, motion pictures are copyrightable but video tapes are not.

"The question here becomes whether the video tape is a film," he added.

Copyright laws should protect the creator, he said.

He also said that the employer is the beneficiary of the work of the employee.

If an instructor writes a book for a university, the institution collects the royalty, not the individual, Siebert said.

A change in these laws is now in order, he said.

Presently, if an author sells a short story to a national magazine, the magazine has all the rights to it. Under the recommended system the author would be able to decide the sale of each right, Siebert said.

Football Team Helps On Float

Attempting to create more hall spirit, Case Hall obtained the aid of the football team to build their homecoming float. Among those helping last Thursday night were Steve Judas, John Karpinski, Harold Lukas, Eddie Cotton, Frank Altimore, Tony Angel, and Jim Proebstle.

Jane Luken, Queen of North Case, and queens from other houses in North Case were also present.

Participating in the Hootenanny held afterwards were Terry Kryger, Cadillac sophomore, Bill Doebler, Romeo junior, and Pete Hartung, Highland Park sophomore. About 400 people were present, according to Bob Amstler, chairman of South Case.

Uninvited 'Kids' Cause Problems

Grill Serves High School, Too

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a three-part series.

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

Contempt for non-college visitors in the Union Grill is practically universal among students here. Most of them are East Lansing high school students or high school drop outs too young to enter the service and unable to secure a job.

"Love those little diaper dolies!" exclaimed one coed, summing up MSU's feeling toward the unwelcome.

That the Grill is crowded enough with campus students is the general agreement. College students refer to the high-school students as "playing the big time league" and say the girls are worse than the boys.

"They use bad language... they're immature...the girls are after the college guys, but they can tell the little ones like a sore thumb," students said, quick to comment on the problem.

One coed believes that the younger set does not really want to come into the Grill. If their parents object to smoking, the Grill is the only place in East Lansing they can "pull out their weeds." She said that the city of East Lansing should give them their own place for this.

A sign in the Grill clearly states that its facilities are available to University personnel and guests only.

Union Manager Michael Dmochowski said, "We've run thousands of them out, but the problem is impossible to solve unless a policeman checks ID's day in and day out.

"It is natural for them to come in here, being so close to the campus. No other university seems to have this problem. We just have to try to operate the Grill for the benefit of the majority--the college students."

Robert Troub, who as Grill manager is referred to by students as the "bouncer," said that he has no legal backing to eliminate these people. "I tell them to leave, and some University student says they're his guests."

Troub has been employed by the Union for 10 years. Until five years ago, he never had this problem. "Now they live here," he said. "And their parents pay taxes to support this building."

The center round booth that had become a symbol in the Union Grill is now a passing memory for students. Dmochowski said that the booth was taken out during summer term because it was in the way, difficult to clean and monopolized by non-college youth.

Troub said that the booth posed the same problem as a drinking fountain that was removed two years ago. "Crowds gathered around it when we were busy, blocking normal traffic. It only seated eight, but sometimes two dozen would hang around it."

A few students had not even noticed its removal, but many wish it had stayed. "We never used it," a group of coeds said. "But it was part of this place, a symbol. The high school kids who used to sit there clutter up the rest of the Grill now."

Other than appearing immature and out of place, the non-college youth are not any more destructive than MSU students.

Troub said that not more than 10 per cent of all Grill visitors cause disturbances. "The university students are just as bad as the high school ones," he said. "I've found them burning cups, putting their feet on the tables and being boisterous. But they are in the minority."

Every term the cushions of booths and chairs must be repaired because they have been slashed or picked apart.

Another not-so-pleasant characteristic of the Grill, though also in the minority, is public display of affection.

"Lack of discretion bothers me," Dmochowski said. "Love is not to be shown to the masses." Most students agree that public affection is shown only at night, either by couples on dates or "pick-ups."

Some coeds feel that the beatnik influence gets "kind of bad." Drinking is not a major problem in the Grill; only a few come in at night under the influence of alcohol.

In spite of the problems facing the management of the Grill, Dmochowski said he could count student complaints on one hand. The Union Grill continues to serve as the core of leisurely social gatherings for MSU "Grill hounds."

Award Grads Study Grants

Eight graduate students attending MSU during the 1963-64 academic year have been awarded $3,000 fellowship grants by the Coordinating Council of the Midwest Community College Leadership Program (MWCCLP).

Recipients of the grants are: Kenneth E. Borland, Detroit; Karl F. DuBois, Grand Rapids; John M. Eaton, Marshall; Eldon E. Fahs, Virden, Ill.; George M. Strout, Mexico, Maine; Lloyd Dell Read, Chanute, Kan.; Wayne L. Rodehorst, Kearney, Neb.; and Vernon Wanty, Sheffield, England.

The MWCCLP is a cooperative program supported in part by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation. Each year the fellowships, ranging up to $3,000, are granted to promising men and women who have obtained a master's degree and wish to study toward a doctorate in higher education, with emphasis on Community College Administration. The applicants may attend MSU, University of Michigan or Wayne State University.

Persons desiring more information about the Kellogg Fellowships should write directly to Dr. George L. Hall, Director, Midwest Community College Leadership Program, 3032 Rackham Bldg., Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Badger's Lou Holland Like A Sonic Boom?

Coach Duffy Daugherty never stops thinking about the Wisconsin game.

When a sonic boom shook the campus during Monday's practice session, the Spartan coach said, "That sounds like Lou Holland breaking through tackle."

The Badger halfback doesn't make that much noise when he bursts through the opponents' line, but he's helped make Saturday afternoons miserable for Wisconsin foes since he broke into college ball two years ago. Holland's running ability has earned him fourth place in all-time scoring for the Badgers. The dangerous halfback, however, is only one of the threats which the Badgers will spring on MSU in the key Big Ten clash Saturday at Spartan Stadium.

"They're the toughest team we'll face," Daugherty said. "They're a strong team physically—plenty rough."

Daugherty is especially high on Badger linemen Roger Pillath and Robert Pickens. Pillath is a two-year veteran, but Pickens is a sophomore who's already demonstrated outstanding ability up front.

Pillath and Holland are two of 18 seniors on the entire Wisconsin squad. The young Badgers will probably have only four seniors in the starting lineup when they face the Spartans.

Holland, end Bobbie Johnson, center Ken Bowman, and tackle Andy Wodjula were the only seniors on the starting offensive team last Saturday when Wisconsin played Ohio State.

The Badgers, however, are still an experienced team. Nine of their regulars are lettermen.

Ski Club advisor Donna Wiest shows Pinky McCutcheon correct leg positioning, while Al Johnson and Sue Arnoldt get in shape for the season.

Ski Club Meeting

An open meeting of the Ski Club will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in 137 Women's IM.

The entire meeting is open to all students, faculty, and staff interested in skiing. Special conditioning exercises will be given for skiers.

Advisors for the Ski Club are Jim Bennett and Miss Donna Wiest.

Frosh Cage Coach Sees Varsity Aid

New freshman basketball coach Dan Peterson believes that some of his freshmen players will give the varsity a big boost next season.

Peterson feels that it is too early in the year to evaluate his squad as a team, but individual accomplishments can be cited.

The present squad of 15 will be increased with the addition of three members of the frosh football squad. Peterson singled out five of the 18 team members, who he believes will help the varsity next year.

equipment to become an outstanding player.

Dave Keeler, 6-6 center, has good mobility and learns fast, according to the coach.

Peterson said that the freshman squad will play preliminary games before all home hoop contests. The squad will play all-campus teams, such as the IM All-Stars and teams composed of Spartan football players. The toughest competition will come from the "old-timers" on Nov. 9. The team will include former Green and White players Horace Walker, Ted Williams and Tom Rand.

Peterson feels that the conference ban on freshman intercollegiate competition won't hurt his team. "We'll get as good competition as any freshman team in the country," he said.

Women Sailors Second

The Michigan State Women's Sailing Club captured second place in the Women's Midwest Sailing Championships in Detroit over the weekend.

Spartan "B" skipper Kathy Kennedy won high point skipper honors in individual competition with a perfect score of five straight firsts.

The team of "A" skipper Kirsten Johnson and crew Lisa Meek and "B" skipper Miss Kennedy and crew Joan Grey lost out to Ohio State on the triangular gold cup Belle Isle course in the regatta hosted by the University of Detroit.

The club will meet tonight at 7:30 in 32, Union to discuss plans for further competition.

The Spartans will step up work-outs today to prepare for the Badger invasion.

The squad is enjoying their practice sessions in good football weather after working in a heat wave last week.

Don Japinga is practicing in football gear this week for the first time since his injury in the Michigan game.

Grid Tickets Plentiful; Sellout Probable

Tickets for Saturday's homecoming game with Wisconsin are "still plentiful," according to Athletic Ticket Manager Bill Beardsley.

For all students," he said. The ticket lines at Jenison Field House weren't as long Tuesday, as they were Monday Beardsley reported. He said he felt that after the Monday morning senior-graduate student rush things usually move slower.

Beardsley announced that adjacent seats can be purchased Friday at the lobby window in Jenison for any students who wish seats with friends and parents.

Sophomores can redeem their activity book coupons for game seats today and freshmen are eligible tomorrow.

A sellout crowd of 76,000 is expected to be on hand for the 1:30 p.m. contest, barring bad

Mad Golfer Thinks Twice

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine--A golfer hit four balls into a stream that flows beside the Arundel Golf Club course here.

He picked up his bag of clubs and hurried them into the water. His golf cart followed. Then the man sat down, removed his spiked shoes and threw them after the clubs and cart.

Five minutes later he waded into the stream. Onlookers thought he had cooled off and would retrieve his possessions.

They say the man groped until he found the bag, unzipped the ball pocket, removed a set of car keys, closed the zipper and pushed the bag into deeper water.

Dripping, he strode to his car and drove away.

McDonel To Hold After-Show Hour

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS--Ray Stanton displays the model of Babe the Blue Ox that his words won for him in a liars' contest at a banquet of the MSU and U-M Forestry Clubs Saturday in Kellogg.

Story Stranger Than Fiction, Judges Say

MSU has one of the biggest liars in the state.

State senior Ray Stanton had to tell a mighty tall tale to put Babe the Blue Ox back on the MSU Forestry Club shelf. Competition between the Forestry Clubs of MSU and the University of Michigan for the biggest lie has been an annual event since the 1930's.

Members of both schools' forestry and natural resource departments were present to hear the yarns based on Paul Bunyan Saturday at a banquet in Kellogg Center.

Stanton, using his experiences as a smokejumper in Alaska (true) related some of the adventures of an unusual member of their jump team - Baby "Pete" Bunyan (untrue). Stanton's creation of nine month-old Pete, who was only 19 feet high, give or take a few inches, and wore only a diaper held up by a gigantic safety pin, returned the Best Liar award to State.

Stanton has spent three summers working in Oregon as a lookout and surveyor.

From March to September he worked as a smokejumper in Alaska for the Bureau of Land Management. He jumped on 15 fires this season.

"This is true, too," he said. "Being the Best Liar is a dubious honor," he said. "And that's the truth," he concluded.

Vacancies Filled On Co-op Council

Men's Inter-Cooperative Council has filled two vacancies. Thomas J. DeSarro, Seneca Falls, N.Y., senior, of Hedrick House is the new treasurer. He replaces Francis Uteg, Traverse City Junior, who resigned to devote more time to his duties as Bower House president.

The new executive secretary is George E. Schumacher, Armada senior, of Elsworth House. Bob Gay, Ann Arbor, who formerly held the office, did not return this fall.

Committee OK's Rights Bill

then by the Senate. I am hopeful this can be done as rapidly as possible.

"From the very beginning enactment of an effective civil rights bill has required that sectional and political differences be set aside in the interest of meeting an urgent national crisis.

UB Asks Sign-Up

If you have talent, Union Board is looking for you.

UB's Student Services committee, under the direction of Jim Bannon, Saginaw senior, is organizing a talent file for university use. Students who have talent should sign up now at the UB desk in the Union Concourse.

An organization or function that needs talented students may call Bannon at 332-0866. The file is available on request.

"The action by the Committee Tuesday reflects this kind of leadership..."

The President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, said in a statement that without GOP backing in the House "the possibility of civil rights legislation in Congress would have been remote.

"If it hadn't been for the active interest and willingness of the republicans as represented by Congressman McCulloch and through him by Congressman Halleck," Kennedy added, "we certainly would not be able to have obtained passage of the bill through the committee."

With administration backing as well as the support of House leaders of both parties, the new civil rights package seems assured of passage in the House, and equally assured of heavy opposition in the Senate.

Drury On Bridge

High Point Count Blinds

There's such a thing in bridge as having too many honor points for your own good. I think all the West players on the following hand (including myself) were so blinded by the 16 high card points we held, including four trumps, that we forgot about "dat ol' debbil" distribution.

The hand was played by 10 teams at the University Duplicate Bridge Club. The top score went to Fred Hamilton on a contract of four spades, redoubled.

One East-West team was allowed to sacrifice at three diamonds doubled, and two teams bid only three spades for low score at the table. Six teams played four spades doubled. The three diamond and three spade bids are real puzzles.

I think all the West players were duped into the double. Of course, eight trumps in any hand is most unusual.

The king of diamonds was opened and held the first trick. After this there is no good continuation for West. If he plays the ace of diamonds and it does hold, he has set up two good diamond tricks in dummy.

The lead of hearts or clubs would be folly, so all he can do is play a trump, which is taken by the jack. Then the ace and king are played, followed by any card except hearts and south is sure not only of his contract but of an overtrick, since West is marked with the outstanding high cards.

World Leaders On TV Series

"Chief of State", a new interview series, will debut on WMSB (TV) Nov. 6 at 12 noon and Nov. 8 at 6:30 p.m.

The first featured world leader will be President Muhammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan. Speaking with him will be Arnold Michaelis, producer of the series.

Some of the basic issues for Pakistan, its leader, and its relation with the West will be discussed in depth. The program analyzes the complicated political personality of Pakistan as the barometer for what will happen in Asia in the next few months.

Early Enrollment Schedules Given

Registrar Horace C. King announced early registration enrollment schedules for seniors and graduate students today.

The early enrollment schedules were collected from the assistant deans for academic affairs who are participating, he said. Academic advising is the most critical part of registration because all other registration activities hinge upon it.

For Social Science will be printed in the State News on Thursday; Arts and Letters, Friday; and Agriculture, Monday. Academic advising schedules for these colleges list hours and days for each department, the registrar said.

Schedules for the other colleges are as follows:

BUSINESS Students must complete academic advisement for early registration Nov. 13 to 19.

COMMUNICATION ARTS Academic advisement is scheduled for Nov. 11 to 19.

EDUCATION Advisement for early registrants is Nov. 11 to 19. Students should see their advisers during regular office hours. All students to be student teaching winter term must complete early advisement Nov. 11 to 19 and register early Nov. 20 or 21.

ENGINEERING All seniors must complete their academic advisement Nov. 11 through Nov. 14, regardless of whether they plan to register early. Graduates will complete academic advisement Nov. 11 through 19.

HOME ECONOMICS Students will meet with advisers Nov. 14 through Nov. 19.

NATURAL SCIENCE Seniors and graduate students must make appointments Nov. 4 to 8 by signing the schedule of available hours posted on their academic advisers' doors.

VETERINARY MEDICINE Students must be advised Nov. 13 or 14.

Grid Highlights

Highlights of the MSU-Northwestern game will be shown tonight at 7:30 in the Union Ballroom. A member of the MSU football staff will narrate the films.

Brody Sets Discussion

Brody Board is sponsoring a leadership clinic for Brody students tonight in 150 Brody Hall reports Tom Thompson, Brody Board chairman.

Speakers specializing in the various fields of hall government have been invited to address committee chairmen.

Thompson described the clinic as "an opportunity to increase leadership effectiveness and a means to gaining perspective in relation to the total picture of student government."

John A. Fuzak, dean of students, will address the students. Following the address, the meeting will break up into discussion groups on areas of specific interest to the hall chairmen.

All hall chairmen and house chairmen have been asked to attend, Thompson said. He estimated that about 600 would attend.

Military Decision Faces 2134 Frosh

ROTC 100 Class Reviews Army Career

The decision to accept or refuse Army ROTC is not an easy one. It is important to know the facts when making your choice. Here is what ROTC offers you.

Graduation and successful completion of the four-year Army program provides a commission as a second lieutenant in one of the many branches of the Army.

It permits the graduate to complete his required military obligation as an officer rather than as a drafted private. And the officer is required to serve no longer than the drafted man.

Cadets Receive Pay Last Two Years

The unmarried second lieutenant currently receives $338 per month, as compared to $78 for the draftee. In addition the student enrolled in the advanced ROTC program is paid approximately $600 during his junior and senior years.

University credits are given for ROTC courses just as they are for any other subject.

The man who enrolls in basic ROTC is not obligated to complete the four years. He goes into the advanced program after two years of basic ROTC only if he desires it, and is accepted.

Basic ROTC Lasts Two Years

Basic Army ROTC consists of six terms. Four terms, one credit each, are taught entirely by the military science department and consist of two class periods and one leadership laboratory (drill) per week. One three credit military history is taught by the history department. The student selects one elective course for the remaining term.

Advanced ROTC also consists of six terms, but each is worth three credits. The student attends three class periods and one drill period each week, and is also appointed a cadet officer in the cadet corps.

Each cadet attends a six-week summer camp between his junior and senior years, or in special cases after the senior year. It is usually held at Fort Riley, Kansas. He is paid $117 for the six weeks, plus travel pay to and from camp.

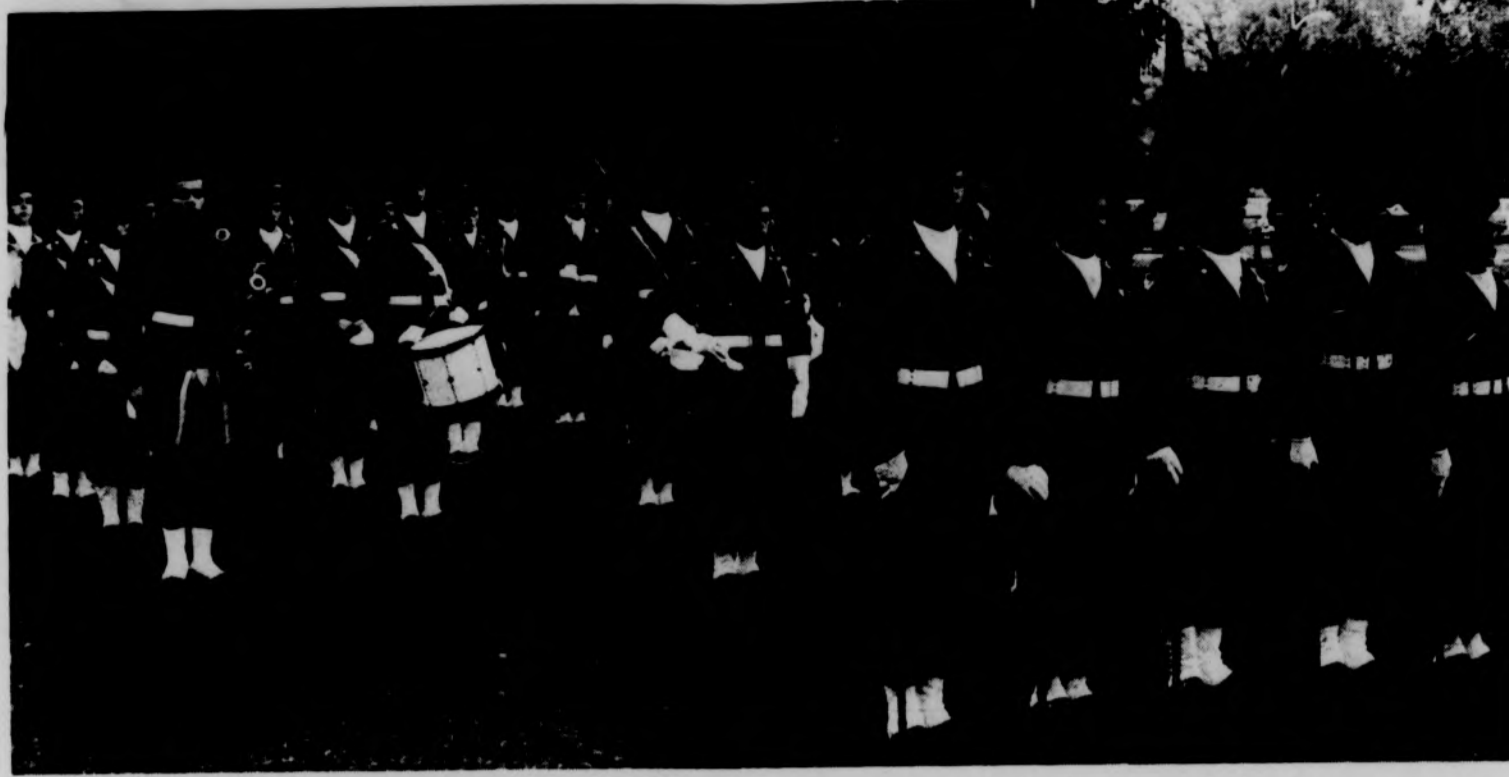

Government Supplies Uniform Funds

If the student decides to go into the advanced program, he is paid approximately $28 a month during the two years. Books are provided free of charge for the entire four years.

The government provides funds for the advanced student's uniform.

Army ROTC graduates are awarded commissions in the Army Reserve and serve two years active duty. Each year a small number of cadets are honored as Distinguished Military Graduates and are offered regular Army commissions. The regular Army commission requires three-year's active duty and gives the opportunity of an Army career.

Army aviation is also offered at the ROTC level. Under this plan, the Army will pay for flight training in the cadet's senior year conducted by civilian flying schools. Completion of this training may also qualify the student to take the examination for a private pilot's license. The cadet must also agree to serve three year's active duty with the Army following graduation.

SCOTS HIGHLANDERS IS JOINT UNIT -- Typical of the extra curricular activities of both Army and Air Force ROTC, the unique 50-man Scots Highlanders Drum, Fife and Bugle Corps maintains high military standards and excellence. For the first time this year, the marching musical unit is open to both Army and Air Force cadets.

THE REASON FOR IT ALL--Commissioning as a 2nd Lieutenant in either branch is the final goal.

ARMY ROTC FIELD TRAINING -- Moving through barbed wire, and over obstacles, this Army cadet undergoes combat training at ROTC summer camp.

CADET FIELD TRIPS -- Air Force ROTC cadets go over a flight plan prior taking off from Capitol City Airport in Lansing.

Air Force Sets Sights On Aerospace Work

Air Force ROTC is on this campus to train selected outstanding students to be Air Force officers. This is not an easy course, but one that is filled with invaluable experience and studded with unforgettable scenery. What, then, is involved? What is there in it for me? Here are some answers:

The ratio of officers to men in the Air Force is 1:6. This is the shortest ratio of any service, and results directly from the sophisticated requirements of the Aerospace Force which is girding itself to accept what President Kennedy terms one of the real challenges facing Americans -- "to sail the oceans of space." Khrushchev's weekend announcement that Russia is temporarily pulling out of the race to the moon does not diminish the likelihood that our Astronauts will explore the moon during the current decade.

Cadets Can Receive Flying Training

Flying and Space Exploration are not the only jobs awaiting Air Force officers. True, ten of last year's seniors in MSU's Air Force ROTC took flying instruction at Air Force expense at Capital City Airport. Seven received private flying licenses and one a commercial license. Nine of this year's AFROTC cadets have already soloed, and next year about double that number are programmed for eventual flight training in the all-jet Air Force flying program.

The majority of AFROTC cadets at MSU are scheduled to serve on active duty in the job most directly related to their college major. Hotel and restaurant management people will run Air Force clubs and arrange the billeting and feeding on Air Force bases. Police administration majors will serve as Air Police or Special Investigating officers. Engineers will supervise civilian contractors and Air Force construction programs. Math majors will become finance officers, auditors, comptrollers and statisticians. The Air Force, with the largest military budget in the world, can offer its newly commissioned officers executive experience in any field taught at MSU, including veterinary medicine and the biological sciences.

Once commissioned, the AFROTC cadet becomes a Second Lieutenant.

Four Years Duty

During his cadet training he is taught to follow orders to develop empathy with those he must later order about. He is taught the tough-mindedness required for problem-solving and decision-making. He is taught the communicative skills which he must have as his leadership is to be accepted in any of life's endeavors.

At summer camp he spends four weeks on an operational Air Force base learning first hand how the Aerospace Force maintains its deterrent posture. Fortunately, these four weeks are so scheduled that the cadet may sandwich in a half term of on campus summer school as well.

The Air Force realizes that even under optimum conditions the two hours a week in basic, the five hours a week in Advanced AFROTC and the crowded 28 days of one summer's training is not enough to adequately prepare its officers. For this reason the minimum active duty tour is fixed at four years to permit a full year's training on the job during active duty.

TOP ARMY, AIR FORCE CADETS -- 1962-63 cadet commanders of the Air Force Wing and Army Brigade, Robert K. Johnson, left, and Robert Andringa, were awarded the President's Cup last spring for their outstanding contributions to the ROTC programs.
