City Will Extend Deadline

The East Lansing City Council Monday night approved the appeal by the Off-Campus Anti-Tax Committee to extend the date of filing personal property statements.

The decision reversed an earlier one requiring the statements to be sent to the city assessor's office by Feb. 7. The extension was granted to fraternities, sororities and student cooperatives on whose behalf the committee launched the appeal.

City assessor Frank A. Warden did not grant a blanket extension of the date for filing personal property statements as requested by the Off-Campus Anti-Tax Committee.

Instead, he said arrangements could be made with the city assessor on an individual basis to request postponement of the filing date.

The committee had made a request to have the filing date extended to March 1.

City Manager John M. Patriar, he said, "March 1 does not leave enough time before the board of review meets."

Mayor Gordon L. Thomas said, "The council does not have the right to direct action on the postponement."

The committee represented by eight members at the council session, based its request for the extension on these points:

Many of the forms were sent to persons who do not normally handle the finances of the living units.

Some units did not receive any notice at all.

More time was needed for a thorough inventory since most of the student groups did not keep such an inventory.

detailed operations by listing them on forms provided.

The program then provides information on the quarterly classified reports to show how the business is progressing, financial and mechanized depreciation summaries at the end of the year for tax purposes, analysis reports for the year, comparing the business with similar farms, and suggested visits, consultations, publications, tours and meetings to help the farmer keep his records, analyze his business and plan ahead.

Senators Enter Anti-Tax Fight

Two Republican senators entered the personal property tax exemption picture Monday night, fighting on the side of fraternities, sororities and student co-ops.

Sen. Stanley Thayer, Ann Arbor, and Sen. Farrell Roberts, Pontiac, introduced a bill in the senate to exempt these organizations from personal property taxation.

Their bill duplicates that sponsored in the house of representatives last week by Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor. Six other Republican representatives and six Democrats co-signed the house bill.

The bills read: "The personal property of social or professional fraternities and sororities and student cooperative houses recognized by the education institution at which they are located is exempt from taxation.

Thayer and Roberts introduced a similar bill in the Senate last year. The bill died in the committee on taxation.

Both the house and senate bills will be sent to respective taxation committees for study.

In the house, four of the representatives who co-signed the bill are members of the taxation committee.

Roberts is on the senate taxation committee.

New Nations Topic Of Talk

60 Colleges To Send Delegates Here Feb. 28

A student-sponsored conference on the problems of emerging nations, with delegates from about 60 colleges in the Midwest, will be held here Feb. 28 to March 1.

The conference is sponsored by the National Students Association, International Relations Club, and All-University Student Government.

Highlighting the three-day session will be a primary policy speech by Roger Hilsman, assistant secretary of state for far eastern affairs. Hilsman is presently in the Orient, and thus will be bringing the latest view of the situation there to the conference.

Other speakers include Leo Cherne, chairman of the International Rescue Committee and executive director of the Research Institute of America; Maj. Gen. Edward Lansdale, assistant to the secretary of defense; Col. Napoleon Valeriano; Rufus Phillips, of the Agency for International Development; and Paul

S. Kattenburg, of the State Department.

Fifteen student leaders from Southeast Asia will play an active part in the discussion of the problems faced by developing nations today. The State Department is financing their trip to MSU.

The conference will be open to a limited number of students. There will be room for 100 full-time delegates and for 100 visitors to the main speeches. Details of registration for the conference will be announced later.

Topics for discussion at the conference will be the first of its type held in the Midwest. Plans for it were begun last spring in a regional conference of NSA.

The purpose of the conference is to develop an understanding of the problems faced by emerging nations through the leadership of faculty members and student discussion.

Co-chairmen of the conference are Robert Kerr, AUSG president, Jack Naiman, IRG president and Jolynne Cappo, NSA.

Farm Week Opens With Telfarm Trial

Telfarm, an MSU plan for an effective farm management educational program on a massive basis, began operation Monday as part of Farmers' Week.

The name was taken from Today's Electric Farm Records for Management. The program is designed to replace the farm records and business analysis project which has been in operation for the past 34 years.

The financial report phases and other features of the old program will be continued. Under the Telfarm program depreciation and inventory schedules will be mechanically handled for the first time; credit accounts will show details by creditor as to amounts borrowed or paid with net balances owed; enterprise records will show cash expense and income transactions by enterprise if they can be identified.

Other features are family living records showing family living costs and new family investments classified appropriately for tax reporting and study; net worth statements for the farm business which will be provided and, if family living records are kept, a complete farm-home net worth.

Timely reports giving the yearly financial and depreciation summaries will be in the farmers' hands in January, and business comparisons with other farms will be available in March.

Telfarm is designed for the farmer to report the depreciation and inventory information on his business at the start of the program. He also gives information on his monthly finances and other

WASHINGTON (AP)—Miguel J. Moreno, Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, said Monday "the doors are still open for negotiations" even though his nation has accused the United States of aggression and has broken diplomatic relations.

Peking Renews Verbal War

K Has 'Feudal Psychology'

TOKYO (AP)—Red China called Premier Khrushchev Monday a man with "a feudal psychology" who befriended Chinese Communists opposed to Mao Tse-Tung's leadership. Peking predicted Khrushchev and his party leaders "will be buried," presumably by the Chinese.

The blistering attack on Khrushchev broke a lull in the Moscow-Peking war of words, which flared with great virulence last year. It swept aside Khrushchev's demand for an end to public polemics between the two Communist giants.

Peking radio broadcast the text of an article in Red China's two most important publications, the official Peking People's Daily and the party's theoretical journal, Red Flag.

Khrushchev's boast that communism will bury capitalism was turned against him in a peculiar manner. The article said Soviet leaders are modern revisionists—those who split off from the Lenin-Marx line—and declared:

"Changes contrary to the expectation of the modern revisionists are taking place. The revisionists are producing their own opposites and will be buried by them. This is an inexorable law."

The Chinese said events of recent years "show that the lead-

Committee Hears Oswald's Wife

WASHINGTON (AP)—The slender, shy, Russian-born widow of Lee Harvey Oswald gave new evidence Monday on events leading to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Behind closed doors, the Presidential investigating committee headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren interrogated Mrs. Marina Oswald, 22, the first of perhaps many witnesses to be heard on the tragedy of last Nov. 22. She spoke through an interpreter.

She was "helpful... a very composed and very cooperative witness," reporters were told by J. E. Rankin, the commission's chief counsel, after a 2 1/2-hour morning session. There were no real surprises, Rankin said, but:

"Mrs. Oswald told us some things we hadn't heard before—some new things, new evidence."

N.Y. Boycott Results Seen As Dubious

More than 260,000 New York public school students boycotted the school system Monday demanding total integration.

Three thousand pickets, far short of the anticipated 8,000, protested outside 300 schools, but they did not interfere with arriving pupils. Even in schools with high absenteeism, including those with absent teachers, classes went on.

"Whether or not boycotting will help the demonstrators obtain equal rights for Negroes is an open question dependent on a positive and a negative factor," said Hebert Garfinkle, associate professor of political science.

"This demonstration of solidarity of the civil rights groups may frighten officials coming up for election into action. On the other hand, if the boycotting leads to violence or blocking white chil-

Ranger 6 Lauded Despite Failure

Even though the Ranger 6 spacecraft crashed into the moon Sunday without televising a picture, it is important that the shot was "so beautifully directed," an MSU engineer said Monday.

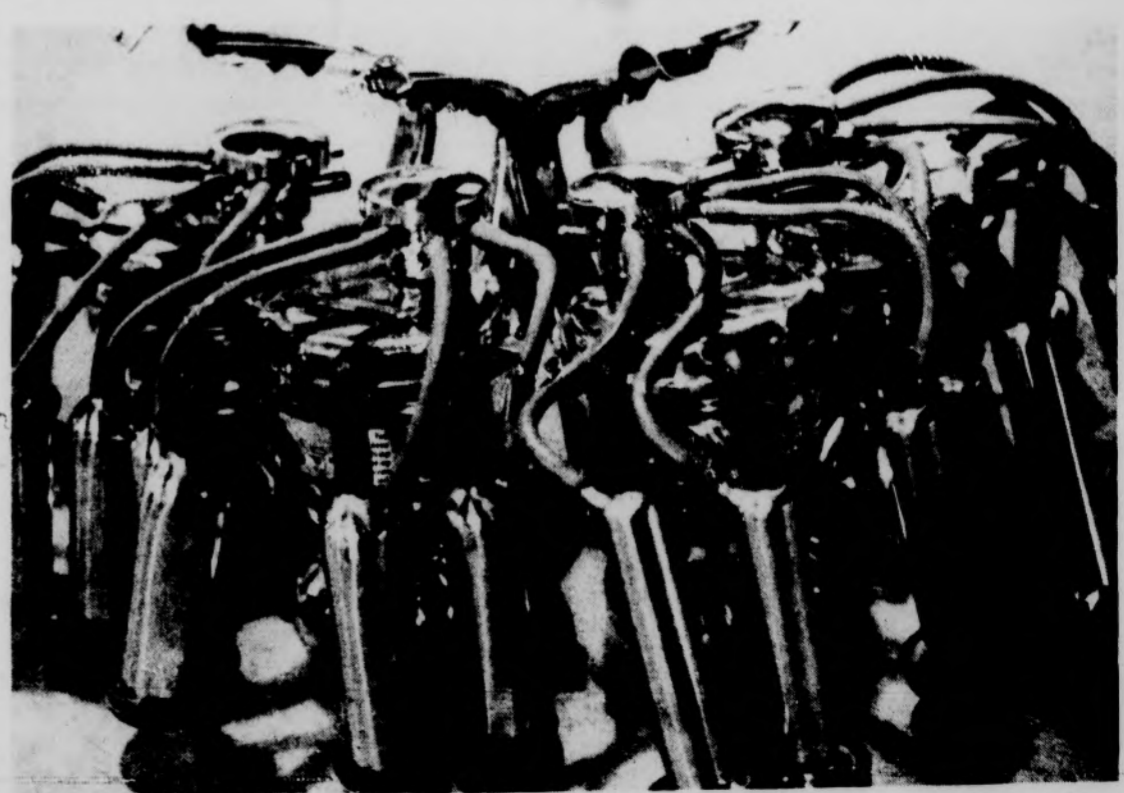

Maria Krzywoblocki, professor of mechanical engineering and research, said that it was one of the finest shots he has ever seen.

The 804-pound spacecraft, launched five days ago from Cape

Kennedy, carried six cameras which were supposed to begin taking a series of 3,000 pictures from 900 miles out down to impact. But they failed to operate.

It was the sixth straight failure in the Ranger program. Krzywoblocki said a mechanical flaw was likely responsible for the cameras' failure.

'Thieves' Find Library A Pushover

The University library has attempted to eliminate, or at least to reduce, book thefts by students.

Methods used to date have failed.

Students can and do steal books. We did it.

Not only books, but magazines, newspapers, microfilm and documents.

Testing the library theft control methods, two State News staff members passed all control points, including the exit turnstiles and guards, with 24 separate pieces of library property.

None of it was checked out.

None of it was missed, until it was returned personally to library director Richard Chapin.

The library does not have an effective theft control system.

Neither professional nor student personnel noticed the thievery.

Supervision of both documents and microfilm was lax. Theft from open stacks and magazine racks offered no problem. Turnstile guards smiled meekly at proffered decoys, failing completely as preventative agents.

New methods of theft control must be found.

More adult, professional supervision must be maintained during all library hours, even at the cost of eliminating some student jobs.

Adult male supervision at the turnstile checkout point and additional checkout points during peak hours are necessary. The adult male is a stronger theft deterrent than the unchallenging coed part-time employee. Additional checkout turnstiles would allow for more thorough supervision of library users, and would not slow down check-out time.

Adult supervision in microfilm, newspaper and document rooms would lessen theft opportunities and would also provide a bonus for students--professional assistance in locating needed materials.

Newspapers currently unmarked should also be stamped as library property to provide easy identification for check-out supervisors.

Professional information centers, currently of little worth, should be maintained in all areas. A central information desk, with a qualified librarian on duty at all times, should be an integral part of daily library operation and not an intermittent service to library users.

Students, often frustrated in efforts to locate library materials, should receive quality assistance from the library staff. This would help to lessen student animosity toward "that" library.

Stealing out of self-protection, "beating someone else to the punch," would be reduced by a concentrated program of library assistance to students and adult supervision at major theft control points.

Prof Studies Greek, Monks

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of six articles on the winners of MSU Distinguished Faculty Awards.)

By LINDA MILLER
State News Staff Writer

Even distinguished professors enroll in undergraduate courses. Richard E. Sullivan, professor of history and winner of a distinguished professor award, takes first year Greek along with about 20 undergraduates.

He is learning to master the ancient language from Alfred P. Dorjahn, visiting professor of foreign languages, to aid private research in early medieval monasticism.

"I am learning Greek for the first time," Sullivan said. "I never needed it until recently when I found that many accounts of monks' lives are written in Greek."

Sullivan attends nearly every session of second term elementary Greek, which meets each week day just a few doors from his office in Morrill Hall.

He is interested in the monastic activities of the early middle ages because of their relation to church history.

Monasticism made a significant contribution to the ideas and ideals of the age," he said. "It was a powerful, formative, creative force in the establishment of Western European culture."

Sullivan teaches both undergraduate and graduate courses in medieval history. He believes that the modern world began not with the Renaissance but with the Middle Ages.

High school Latin and a college teacher influenced Sullivan's decision to study medieval history.

After his elementary education in a one room school house in Nebraska, he went to an academically "poor" high school where the only language was Latin.

"So when I entered the University of Nebraska I had the language necessary for the study of medieval history," he said.

As an undergrad, Sullivan became interested in the particular branch of history because of an instructor. He concentrated on the study of medieval history and literature at the university.

Following more than three years with the air corps during World War II, Sullivan returned to study at the University of Illinois. He received his master and doctoral degrees in medieval history. His doctoral thesis was written on the missionary conversion of Germans during the Carolingian period.

Before accepting a position on the Michigan State faculty, Sullivan taught at Northeast Missouri State College for five years.

In 1949, University of Illinois gave him a traveling fellowship to do post-doctoral study in Europe. He did research on Middle Age monasticism at the University of Louvain in Belgium in 1951-52 on Fulbright and Guggenheim grants.

Sullivan is the author of several books and articles on such topics as the heirs of the Roman empire and the age of Charlemagne. He is presently writing a book in conjunction with his research on a monastic figure. He plans to do more writing on this topic.

"It is part of my job as a historian to continue research," he said.

Sullivan is married and has three daughters.

Instability Plagues Viet Nam

The vagaries of Saigon's politics again run rampant: Nguyen Khanh has vowed to rid South Viet Nam of "the traitors who advocate neutralism." At the same time, the major general has smashed any pretense of order in his beleaguered land.

In the meantime Washington continues its aid as it must, our commitment being so deep that we must follow in the wake of whoever happens to be leader of the moment.

The new government claims that the deposed military regime of Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh was plotting with Gaullist elements aimed at creating a neutralist Viet Nam. But the evidence is sketchy. Only a few members of the former regime have been jailed and the raw, running war with the Viet Cong rebels continues unabated and unchanged. More likely, it seems, is the possibility that last week's coup was motivated by personal ambitions, "power love."

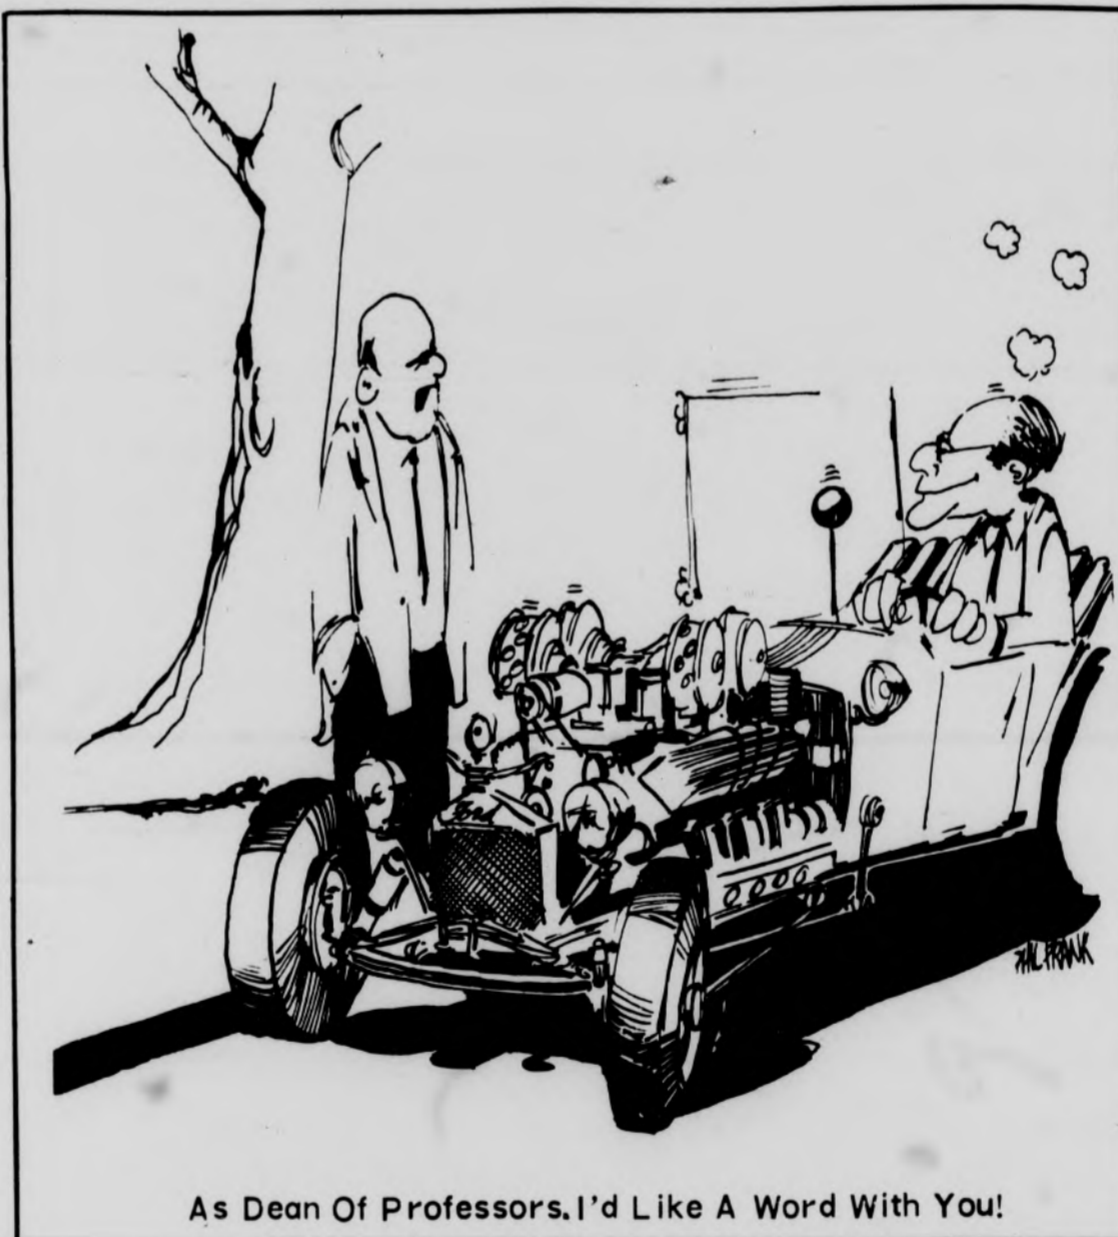

This was clearly Professor Wesley Fishel's belief: "The Vietnamese leaders were French-educated and sometimes reflect French views, but this does not mean the Ming 'neutralists' were 'plotting' with the French government."

If this is really the case, the welfare of the Vietnamese people has been dealt a cruel blow. The fight with the Communist guerrillas is becoming increasingly intense and now, more than ever, the forces of Vietnamese democracy need to stand resolute and unified. Instead, however, the soldiers in the field must look back on chaos and intrigue in the capitol.

Thus stability remains an illusive but urgent need in South Viet Nam. It will never be found while the government's existence lies subject to whim and dissension. What assurance is there that Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh will lead the country forward better than did his predecessor? Can he and his aides look about knowing they and their fellow citizens have a mutual confidence?

For us doubt must rear its obstinate bulk, as all too often an old dictum holds true and governments, like people who live by the sword, die by the sword.

Letters To The Editor

Jaffe Questions News Concept

To the Editor:

I do not understand your standards of journalism.

The article entitled "Name MSU Prof in Baker Probe" which appeared Jan. 29, complete with picture, suggests by its presentation:

--that a new and startling disclosure had recently been made and--that there is a vaguely scandalous connection between Prof. Adams and the Baker case.

The tone is one you would use if it should develop, for example, that the dean of students was selling heroin in the dormitories.

The fact that Adams sold stock to Baker, as well as his response to this statement, were reported fully in the newspapers at least six weeks ago. There can be no point in your reporting this as if it were new material. Since you normally do not report the legal (financial) dealings of staff members, the conclusion is inescapable that you were led to do so in this instance by an erroneous concept of what the function of a newspaper is. I fail to see that you help the campus community by this kind of irresponsibility.

U.N. Lounge Reminds 50 Nationalities Of Home

A home away from home. A place to go to hear a familiar language or see a familiar face. A place to practice a new language or meet new faces. This "place" is here on campus. It is in an average sized room with a card table, a soft drink machine, a television, a few sofas, chairs, fireplace, and people rambling in and out all day and half the night. And they have traveled to MSU from all over the world.

The sign "U.N. Lounge" hangs over the doorway, and inside are the offices and people which make up the International Club.

Over 50 countries and nationalities are represented in the club. Students, graduate students, faculty, and members of the East Lansing and Lansing communities form the club and attend its functions. The country with the largest representation is the U.S., with over 50 per cent of the 400-person membership.

"This year the club is the largest it has been in four years," said Syed A. Hassan, club president and Pakistan graduate student.

"We believe people learn more by talking informally," he added, "and we feel the U.N. Lounge in the Union is a convenient place to get interested people together."

Besides the informal get-togethers, the International Club sponsors several functions.

Last week the Pakistani Club, with the cooperation of the International Club, presented songs, dances, music, food and handicrafts from Pakistan. More than 100 people were able to get another or a new view of Pakistan.

Last Friday, the second "International Mixer" was held this term in the U.N. Lounge. Students were asked to bring friends and favorite records.

Some of the events planned for later this term are an "International Hootenanny" Feb. 14, a "Spanish Night" Feb. 29, and the big annual project for this term, "The International Dinner," March 4.

The dinner is one of the three top programs which are club traditions. Favorite dishes from countries around the world are prepared and served to give a dinner an international flavor. After the dinner, a talent program is held, with club members presenting their favorite folk song, dance, or music.

The other two programs annually presented by the club are the International Ball in the fall, and the festival of handicraft and art display in the spring.

All the programs are open to the public to help promote understanding between American and foreign students.

Promoting and coordinating the activities of individual foreign student clubs on campus is another function of the International Club.

Art Profs Exhibit In Kresge

The works of three art professors were selected for the third biennial exhibition of prints sponsored by the Michigan Association of Printmakers. The prints will be on display in the first floor of Kresge Art Center through Feb. 24.

The award-winning faculty members are Alma Goetsch, professor, Allen Leepa, associate professor and James McConnell, associate professor.

Paul Love, professor and director of the gallery, explained that every print is an original in the sense that it is one of several reproductions made by the artist's original cut. The most common types of prints are etchings, lithographs, and woodcuts, Love said.

Each print is numbered. The mark 7/50 on a print means that it is the seventh made out of a total of 50.

Ceramic slab constructions by Irv Taran, Duluth, Minn., graduate student, are shown in a first floor showcase.

Taran's ceramics are made from slabs of clay which were high-fire glazed.

"Surviving the Ages," an exhibit on preserving and restoring works of art on loan from the Newark Museum, closes Sunday.

A Farmers' Week Town and Country Arts Program will begin at 10:10 a.m. today in 13 Kresge Art Center with demonstrations on the potter's wheel by Louis Raynor, associate professor of art.

At 3:10 p.m. today art department staff members will conduct a tour of the gallery and the art center.

Freedom Hootenany Planned

Alpha Phi Alpha freedom singers and other campus organizations will lead group participation in the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity "freedom hootenanny" at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the Union Ballroom.

Students planning to lead the freedom songs are asked to call 337-9472 by Wednesday.

A speaker from the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee will be present.

Alpha Phi Alpha hopes to make students aware of events and conditions in the South and to communicate concern through the "freedom songs" of demonstrators, said Gerald Gray, Bloomfield Hills graduate student.

"When I came back from Mississippi, my fraternity brothers I--since we are predominately a Negro fraternity--decided we should show our concern for what is happening to the Negro in the South," Gray said.

"We decided the hootenanny is one way of communicating our concern to the campus."

Admission to the hootenanny is 50 cents.

Reds Offer Free Tuition, Allowance

UNITED NATIONS, P--The Soviet Union is wooing foreign students with free tuition and medical care, cheap housing and up to $2,500 a year in spending money.

But the United States tops that by giving some fellowships that pay more than $6,000 a year.

This is brought out in a 648-page annual, "Study Abroad," published by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization at that specialized agency's Paris headquarters, and also issued in New York.

The Russians keep trying despite the trouble they had last year with African students in Moscow.

The book shows 11 kinds of scholarships or fellowships offered by the Soviet government or Soviet Academy of Sciences, in general unspecified numbers. Four kinds are for Africans only. Scholarships to Patrice Lumumba Friendship University in Moscow are for Asians, Africans and Latin Americans. Others are for other countries, including the United States.

A Scholarship student in the Soviet Union, it is shown, generally gets free tuition, free medical care and living accommodations for 1 1/2 to 3 rubles monthly--or $1.66 to $3.33, at the official exchange rate.

He draws 300 rubles a year to spend on a vacation in the Soviet Union and, if he is a postgraduate or advanced student, 50 rubles to lay out on technical and scientific literature. His monthly allowance ranges up to 150 rubles for a student in advanced training.

All that cash adds up to $2,500 a year.

The United States and U.S. institutions offer 15 kinds of scholarships totaling more than 16,000. Only two kinds are for Africans only. Some are for Americans only. Many are for all nationalities.

Fireman Practices On Own Car

WINSTED, Conn. P--You've read those stories about motorists bringing their cars to firehouses when they find them on fire.

For Charles Kammermeyer, a lieutenant in Winsted's volunteer fire department, went them one

As he and 14 others were returning from a practice session to the fire house, they saw the front seat of his parked car on fire. His coat and the car seat were badly damaged.

Fraternity Residence Condemned By City

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity members are "house-less."

Their fraternity house at 343 Albert St. was condemned by the city of East Lansing because of water damage resulting from a burst radiator valve during Christmas vacation.

According to Howard Riker, fraternity president, plans for a new house will soon be approved by the Alpha Epsilon Pi National Board. The new house will not be constructed for at least two years, he said. The men hope to rent a house until a new residence is completed, Riker said.

"Because of difficulty in attaining suitable housing," he said "the earliest the men will be able to live in a substitute house will be next fall."

The 24 men who were living in the house are now scattered in living units and apartments.

The fraternity now holds its meetings Monday evenings in Union Tower Room.

Reservists Meet Obligation

Navy Offers Varied Plans

The Naval Reserve offers a program to college men in which they may fulfill a portion of their military obligation and receive a commission upon graduation said

C.E. Kisse, area recruiting officer.

The Navy's Reserve Officer Candidate (ROC) program selects college men for officer training. These men are selected from both the Naval Reserve and civilians.

Those who meet the requirements for ROC then join the reserve if not already members. During the school year they meet one night a week for training sessions.

During the summers ROC candidates attend two eight-week courses at Newport, R.I. Usually these are the summers between the sophomore and junior years and between the junior and senior years.

The time spent at weekly meetings and summer programs is applied toward a man's military obligation. He is paid for the time. Upon graduation, candidates are commissioned as ensigns. They then go on to fulfill the remainder of their obligation and become an officer.

The Naval Reserve program offers some of the same advantages as the ROC program for the college man.

A student reservist can fulfill part of his obligation and if not accepted to ROC while in school he may apply for Officer's Candidacy School (OCS) after graduation.

In this program men also meet one night a week. However, instead of the summer sessions, they participate in two-week sessions during vacations.

The SeaBees, naval engineering branch, offers another program to interested men, engineers in particular.

They meet one weekend a month. They also help complete their obligation while attending school.

Further information on these programs may be obtained at the naval reserve desk in the Union 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Negro Leader Threatens To Burn Self

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. P--A Negro integration leader Sunday threatened to burn himself in the streets on Easter Sunday if racial discrimination is not ended in this university town.

The Rev. E. Elton Cox of High Point, North Carolina field secretary for the Congress of Racial Equality, told an integration rally at the First Baptist (Negro) Church he would burn himself and encouraged other Negroes to do the same.

"If I thought it would do any good," Mr. Cox said, "I would come to Chapel Hill, talk to town leaders and university (of North Carolina) officials. That failing, I would burn myself."

Dental Study Enrollment Rises In Cuba

ANN ARBOR (UPI)--A University of Michigan professor says the Castro regime in Cuba is quadrupling the number of student dentists and speeding their training.

Dr. Robert E. Doerr, associate dean of the U-M school of dentistry, recently made an on-the-spot study of dental education in Cuba. Everything in Cuba is now on a hurry-up basis," he said. "They are struggling to make up for lost time. The University of Havana was closed for two and a half years, and they fell far behind in professional education."

Doerr said the Cubans have made extensive revisions in their dental curriculum, academic schedules and admission standards are building a second dental school at the University of Santiago.

MITRE is also experimenting with techniques for future air traffic control systems.

For the young systems engineer there is no more rewarding work. You associate with the top men in your field. You work in an atmosphere that allows you to extend your capabilities professionally and academically.

At MITRE, men trained in single disciplines are encouraged to grow beyond their original fields of interest. Systems designers learn to work from an increasingly broad base.

You may work in such diverse areas as information theory, computer design, display techniques, propagation, or human engineering. You may analyze. You may synthesize. You may deal with systems or individual components. At the highest levels, you may have to consider political, economic and social factors... as well as the available and predictable technology.

Requirements, B.S., M.S., or Ph.D. in these disciplines: electronics, physics, and mathematics. MITRE is located in pleasant, suburban Boston and also has facilities in Washington, D.C. and Colorado Springs. If an interview will be inconvenient, inquiries may be directed in confidence to Vice President, Technical Operations, The MITRE Corporation, Box 208, Dept. CNS, Bedford, Mass.

He voiced approval that President Lyndon B. Johnson gave the Air Force this separate station in space.

The deadline for bids for the project will probably come in the middle of this year, he said. MOL is expected to begin operation in late 1967 or early 1968.

Krzywoblocki said that the Air Force is working on a communications center between the earth and MOL.

"This orbiting satellite will be important in continuing contact with the men in the Manned Orbital Laboratory," he said.

Caption 13 Men On A Court

By JEROME CAPLAN
State News Sports Editor

Basketball is a contact sport. As players have grown, so has the on-court congestion.

State cage coach Forddy Anderson thinks he has a solution to the rough, and often tumble, problem.

Anderson would like to see another man on the court. He thinks that a third referee is needed.

"It's not a new idea," the coach commented. "I tried a three-official experiment several years ago and it worked real well.

"There were actually less fouls called and the game administration (time outs, etc.) was excellently handled. A three-official set up means that there's always someone who sees what's happening. There's less likelihood of the officials being blocked from seeing the play," he added.

In today's fast pace game, the men in stripes often have trouble keeping up with the players, especially on fast breaks. "In their efforts to catch up they often get in the players' way," Anderson commented.

Of course, Anderson realizes that the big drawback in having three officials is financial. "It would be pretty hard to convince the Big Ten administrators to pay another official, but I'd like to see it done," he said.

Forddy also realizes that another whistle-blower would give the officials more time to watch a coach's actions.

And for some coaches who can't sit still during a game this could be disastrous.

Boilermakers Nip Spartan Five

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer
LAFAYETTE, Ind.--Purdue's basketball team kept its victory string over the Spartans intact here Monday night, defeating the Green and White, 101-98.

State has not defeated the Boilermakers since 1959. The Blue and Gold have won the last seven meetings, three at East Lansing and four at Lafayette.

The win gave Purdue a 7-9 overall record, 3-3 in Big Ten play, and dropped the Spartans to the 500 mark for the season. State now has a 9-9 mark and a 3-5 loop record.

A sophomore and a junior took turns making baskets to keep the Spartans from winning. The soph, 6-4 Dave Schellhase, tallied 38 points, while junior Mel Garland chipped in with 23. Schellhase had 30 points in the first half and Garland had 17 in the second frame to keep up the torrid scoring pace.

After only 10 minutes of play the score was 30-30. Both teams passed the half-century mark before the first half ended with Purdue on top 55-54.

State surged to the lead as the second period began, running up a four point edge, Purdue took the lead for good with 8:04 remaining on the clock.

The Spartans narrowed the lead to within one point with eight seconds left in the contest, but the Boilermakers made two quick field goals to keep the lead and insure victory.

Pete Gent, notching the 1,000th point of his career, led the Spartan scorers with 26 points. Marcus Sanders had 25, center Fred Thomann scored 16.

Guard Bill Schwarz, the only Spartan to foul out, had 12 points and Stan Washington scored 11.

Bill Curtis and Bill Berry each had 6 and 2 to round out the State scoring. The Green and White hit on 12 of 18 free throws, considerably better than their Saturday charity stripe show against Michigan.

Matmen Stand 3-2-1 After Weekend Split

State's wrestlers, in the first pair of four weekend matches on the road, downed State College of Iowa Friday night, 21-7, then lost Saturday to a favored University of Iowa team, 15-13. The series brought the Spartans' mark to 3-2-1 for the year.

Against a weakened State College, there were two matches of note. First State's Alan Huckins in the 123-pound class was upset, 8-0. On the brighter side, Dick Cook won his third straight match by downing once-defeated Dick Austin 5-0.

In the Iowa meet, however, the Spartans couldn't quite pull it out. Dick Cook ran out of gas and was pinned by Joe Greenlee in the 147-pound match.

Underdog Emerson Boles fought to a draw in the 177-pound battle.

Without the services of four lettermen, however, State just lacked the necessary power and bowed to the Hawkeyes.

Homer McClure continued undefeated, raising his mark to 4-0-2 by drawing Friday and winning his match the following day.

Despite the loss to Iowa, Coach Grady Peninger is fairly happy with the progress that his team has been making.

"The team is coming along and getting tougher," Peninger said. The team travels to Pittsburgh Saturday to face the University of Pittsburgh. The Panthers, who have been hobbled by academic losses, but still present a challenge. They were the last team to beat the Wolverines, who have since cracked up over 15 consecutive wins.

Wayne Tops 'S' Bowlers

The men's bowling team dropped a close match to Wayne State 2869-2848, Saturday afternoon at the Union Lanes.

The bowlers also were scheduled to meet Oakland, but the opponents had only a four man team and bowled for exhibition only.

Against Wayne Bob Hanon took individual honors with a 643 series. Hanon's 279 in his first game was also the single game high.

Dan Taylor was second for the Spartans with a 586 series, while Rod Pedersen chipped in with 574.

Jerry Weiner, with 510, and Dick Denzon, 535, were the other State entrants.

For the visitors, McLevery was high with a 623 series total. In the exhibition against Oakland, Pedersen rolled 628, Benzon 594, Hanon 581 and Weiner 505.

IRS Offers Guideposts To Aid Annual Task

From Our Wire Services
Filing out your income tax form may not give you the horrors of your follow directions from the Internal Revenue Service. Forms for 1963 earnings are much the same as last year despite all the talk about revising the tax structure. If passed, the proposed tax cut will not have any effect on 1963 earnings. Tax forms must be in the mail by midnight April 15. Only a few changes have been made in the tax structure for last year. Regulations requiring more documentation for expense account deductions have been stiffened. Here are a few guideposts to help you along the way: A federal income tax return must be filed by every citizen or resident of the United States during 1963, and who earned a certain amount of income. The amount depends on the taxpayer's age. This means that a college or high school student earned $600 he must file a return. This may seem like a chore, but it could very well be worth the trouble. In fact, youngsters who worked during the summer and earned less than $600 probably would want to file a return anyway to get a refund. There are to forms which may be used—the short form known as 1040A, and the long form, 10-40.

You may use form 1040-A if your 1963 income was less than $10,000 in wage income and included no more than $200 in dividends, interest or other earnings on which tax was not automatically withheld by the employer. The 10-40 long form is for income over $10,000.

Hugh J. McDonald, journalism senior from Jackson, has been awarded fifth place in competition for a National Hearst Foundation Journalism Award. McDonald won his award for an article which appeared in the Dec. 7 issue of the Detroit Free Press, Trustee Randolph A.

Hearst announced in San Francisco. The article, "After Pearl Harbor," was written from the recollections of a Jackson ex-serviceman stationed aboard the battleship Arizona at the time of the Japanese attack in 1941. McDonald will receive $200 and a scroll from the Hearst Foundation. Students from more than 60 schools entered the contest. First prize went to a student from the University of Texas. This is the second award in a month for McDonald. Four weeks ago he received $450 for an article which tied for second place in a similar national contest. This story about the New York Central Railroad appeared in the Jackson Citizen Patriot. The MSU school of journalism receives matching awards of $450 and $200 to be used for the continuance of education in the field of journalism.

Sign Stolen At Llanfairpysllgwyngyllgo . . .

THAT PLACE WITH THE IMPOSSIBLY LONG NAME, Wales -- Unknown miscreants early Monday stole the nameplate of the village railroad station -- with all of its 60 letters. Llanfairpysllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliogogoch, that is. The metal nameplate is 20 feet long. The thieves sawed it loose from its supporting posts with hacksaws and were off into the darkness before you could say antisestablishmentarianism. Police suspect somebody who hates newspaper printers, because every time something happens here those poor devils have to set the name in type. This makes the natives -- all 844 of them -- laugh like crazy. They call the place Llanfair P.G. for short.

EST today to vote on a Panamanian request for an emergency meeting of the hemisphere's foreign ministers. Panama has charged the United States with aggression. The United States has rejected the charge.

Moreno said Panama is seeking "an honorable and positive solution of its problems with the United States."

The crux of the dispute is the 1903 treaty under which the United States operates the canal. High U.S. officials reiterated Monday U.S. willingness to talk about any subject with the Panamanians but not on the basis of agreeing in advance to revise the canal treaty, as Panama has insisted.

A smiling soft-voiced attorney, Moreno said Monday "Panama has not closed the doors, the doors are still open for negotiations."

Moreno scolded those in his country who are urging that the issue be taken from the OAS to the United Nations.

He said "Panama has long had a deep Pan American devotion and trust in the efficiency of the inter-American institutions."

Moreno said the current U.S.-Panamanian dispute "is an issue of hemispheric concern since it affects the solidarity of this hemisphere."
