Bump's Blueboys Dump Spartans In 7 Minutes

Michigan Triumphs (Finally)

Soph Halfback Keys 17-10 Win

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

The game will go down as "Bump" Elliott's finest hour but 57 minutes belonged to Duffy Daugherty.

"I would have to say that this is my greatest victory," Coach Elliott said after watching his Michigan Wolverines edge the Spartans 17-10.

"I couldn't be prouder of the boys."

Good things can't last forever, but all that Spartan fans wanted was an additional three minutes Saturday afternoon.

But even after dominating the Michigan series for nine years, three minutes more was just too much to ask.

That was the story as the Wolverines captured their first win over MSU since 1955 before a Spartan Stadium record crowd of 78,234.

It was a frustrating story for Spartan fans but a joyous one for U-M rooters who saw their team score twice in the final seven minutes to win the game.

The final touchdown came with 2:33 remaining in the game when sophomore halfback Dick Sygar took a pitch-out from quarterback Bob Timberlake and tossed a 31-yard strike to John Henderson.

Sygar was also a hero in Michigan's other fourth-quarter touchdown effort when he took a five-yard pass from Timberlake with 6:42 left to make the score 10-9.

U-M's try for a two-point conversion fell short when Charlie Migyanka hit Mel Anthony on the one-yard line.

To many fans, it looked like the end of the game, but the Michigan team had other ideas.

"We went for two after our first touchdown because we wanted to win it right then and there," Elliott said after the game.

"We weren't that confident of scoring again."

Daugherty had his own ideas about the two-point effort.

"It looked like the turning point would have been the two-point conversion try. Maybe Michigan should have made it. We at least would have had more time to try to come back."

Unfortunately for the Spartans, they were unable to make a first down after Michigan scored its

Johnson Stumps In 'Barry's' West

LONG BEACH, Calif. (P)--President Johnson staged a stumping, motorcading campaign in the West Sunday--Barry Goldwater's hometown included--and sermonized for American morality, unity and togetherness.

Leaving his Texas ranch early today, Johnson stopped off in Goldwater's hometown of Phoenix, Ariz., for about three hours where he spoke briefly, motorcaded through the streets, and attended church services with Democratic senatorial candidate Roy Elson. Goldwater was resting at his home from his own campaign efforts.

The President was on his way to Las Vegas, Nev., by way of Long Beach and San Francisco, Calif. Tomorrow he carries on at Reno, Nev., Butte, Mont., Casper, Wyo., Denver, Colo., and Boise, Idaho, before flying back to Washington.

In the West Johnson was in territory that was unfriendly to him and John F. Kennedy in 1960. Of the seven states on the two-day swing, only Nevada went Democratic in 1960. California is the big prize, with 40 of the 65 electoral votes in these states.

So Johnson was looking for converts and doing a little political evangelizing.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the Municipal recreation center in Long Beach he said that "the first day of the week belongs to God."

Baker Testimony Requested

WASHINGTON (P)--Republican members of the Senate Rules Committee asked Sunday that Bobby Baker and three other key witnesses in political payoff charges be called for public testimony within the next 10 days.

Three GOP Senators made public a letter to rules Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., assuring him they would be present "to hear and examine these important witnesses and furnish you with the necessary quorum."

In addition to Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, sworn testimony was asked of:

Don B. Reynolds, local insurance agent and former Baker associate, who brought about reopening of the Senate inquiry with a statement that a $25,000 payoff or kickback was channeled through Baker into the Kennedy-Johnson 1960 campaign fund.

Matthew McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor and Democratic fund raiser who was appointed U.S. ambassador to Ireland by the late President John F. Kennedy, and who Reynolds said made an overpayment of $35,000 on a performance bond for the $14.2 million District of Columbia stadium contract.

William N. McCleod, Jr., former clerk of the House District of Columbia Committee, Reynolds said, had knowledge of the stadium transactions and the asserted overpayment.

Jordan's office reported he is in North Carolina but will return Monday.

The joint letter was signed by Sens. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky. It marked another step in GOP efforts to force hearings before the Nov. 3 election.

Opportunities to petition for All-University Student Government congress representatives close today in 7 residence halls.

These halls include East McDonel, Abbot, Rather, East and West Fee, and East and West Akers.

Petitions may be served at residence hall desks and in the elections office in 330 Student Services from 1 to 5 p.m. today. Candidates must be at least third-term freshmen and have a minimum 2.2 all-University grade point average.

Elections were postponed in these halls to give residents time to become acquainted. Fee and Akers are new halls, Abbot was converted from a women's to a men's residence this year, and many coeds from Abbot moved to East McDonel. Rather had no hall government at the beginning of the year.

The elections commission has requested that voting be held by Oct. 22.

Poor-Rich Gap Increases

'Have-Nots' Need Aid

By SUSAN J. FILSON
State News Staff Writer

John Kenneth Galbraith, one of America's most noted economists, told a near-capacity crowd in the Auditorium Friday that foreign aid is the only effective way to bolster the economies of underdeveloped nations in the foreseeable future.

"The gap between the 'have' and the 'have-not' nations is going to increase rather than decrease," Galbraith said. "However, if we can make the average person in a poor country feel that his life is a little better this year than it was last year, foreign aid is a success."

Galbraith, who served as ambassador to India under the late President John F. Kennedy, noted that a small economic advance means a great deal to the average impoverished person, who compares his status with that of his neighbor rather than with a country thousands of miles away.

America cannot import her economic system to a poor country, Galbraith emphasized.

"A general rule of economics is that economic advance requires investment which can only be provided by saving from current consumption. But the poor never save appreciable amounts, because they are too pressed to meet their current needs."

"Saving is always painful, but for the poor it is too painful, and next to impossible."

Galbraith noted that in a prosperous nation, saving is to a certain extent automatic. For example, corporations, an important instrument for accumulating capital, play a negligible role in an underdeveloped society.

"Every economic change involves risk," Galbraith said. "However, the prosperous country has a margin of safety to absorb risks. The poor country does not."

Taxation as an instrument to force saving in poor nations has been over-emphasized, Galbraith said.

"Taxation suffers from the same limitation as voluntary saving--it is too painful."

Galbraith described reliance on private capital to aid underdeveloped nations as "a great cliché."

Conference Issues Final Resolution

CAIRO, (P)--The conference of nonaligned nations has published a final resolution which blasts Western colonialism but affirms that "peaceful coexistence is an indivisible whole."

The final resolution is a rebuttal to Indonesia and a handful of other nations who worked hard during the week-long conference to win acceptance of Peking's view that force is necessary to defeat imperialism.

Though the final resolution is markedly unsympathetic to the Western world, it is evident that such states as Yugoslavia, India and President Nasser's United Arab Republic succeeded in blunting proposals by such nations as Indonesia and Cambodia.

As the resolution was released at Cairo University, kings, presidents, premiers, foreign ministers and lesser delegates of the member states and 10 observer nations began returning home in a steady stream.

Former Governor: 'Nothing' Achieved

Former Gov. John B. Swainson told a Democratic gathering Saturday night that he is intrigued with what hasn't happened in Michigan after the promises made by Gov. George W. Romney in 1962.

The former governor, now Democratic national committee-man, addressed the 6th Congressional District Dinner honoring Boyd K. Benedict, candidate for Congress, in the Lansing Civic Center.

Swainson, who was defeated by Romney when he ran for re-election two years ago, asked the group what Michigan's chief executive has accomplished to merit him a second chance in Nov.

"Nothing, in my opinion," Swainson answered.

He outlined Romney's 1962 promises for an improved medicare program, civil defense structure and greater attention to mental health.

"Have you heard anything of this?" he asked repeatedly. "Romney has benefited only by what was proposed during a Democratic administration."

Swainson asserted that Romney is claiming credit in 22 months for 44 months of economic expansion wrought about by the Kennedy-Johnson administrations.

The former governor also hit

Medical Insurance Remains Available

The MSU student insurance program sponsored by All-University Student Government is still available and applications can be made until Thursday.

The plan offers 24-hour coverage, on or off campus, for any enrolled MSU student carrying 7 or more credits.

The cost for 12 months of coverage is $18. The plan pays benefits regardless of any other coverage held by the student with the exception of Workman's Compensation benefits.

Applications and premiums may be remitted at the Student Insurance Office, room 337, Student Services, from 3 to 5 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday this week.

Applications may also be mailed to the servicing agency, G-M Underwriters, Inc., 210 Ford Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

300 Roam Campus; Charge Police Lines

By JOHN ELMER
State News Police Reporter

An unruly band of some 300 students "just out to raise hell" roamed campus for two hours Thursday night before MSU police dispersed them, taking 24 into custody.

Challenging orders to break up, the group charged police lines and, trying to gain momentum, stormed from dormitory to dormitory.

"Get shoulder to shoulder," ringleaders shouted. They can't do anything to us. Let's run them down."

The entire campus police force became involved in dispersing the crowd as all off-duty officers were called in to aid the regular shift.

None of the students taken into custody resisted and there were no injuries during the outbreak, police said.

Of those held for identification at campus police headquarters, 19 were referred to the dean of students for disciplinary action. Five were found to be innocent bystanders picked up in the confusion and were cleared of any blame.

An unidentified coed who urged the band of students to resist police orders was picked up Friday, Lt. Allen Andrews said.

He said the girl repeatedly shouted during the disturbance, "Police can't do anything to us."

A handful of girls took part in the display, he said.

The band of students formed at Fee Hall about 8:40 p.m., then went to Akers, McDonel, Shaw and Case Halls in an attempt to enlist support.

The group was repeatedly warned to disperse before campus police took action.

"We couldn't spend all night chasing 300 kids," Andrews said. "When they started charging us

Three Fans Die Of Heart Attacks

Three football fans died of heart attacks on campus before and after the MSU-Michigan game Saturday.

Dedication Needs Support

Friday's State News contained an article by a staff writer reporting on the work of a former MSU coed who has dropped out of school this year to continue work begun this summer in the Mississippi Summer Project of the Council of Federated Organizations. The dedication of Mary Ann Shupenko to what is for her a relatively recent realization of Negro problems in the south should be an example for others.

It is difficult to conceive of people unmoved by the reports of isolationist and racist attitudes prevalent in parts of this nation, people who would deny the need for firm and consistent work helping large numbers of citizens to claim their rights as Americans. It is difficult to envision people who would not like to help out if they had the chance, even in the face of the many complaints that northerners and Negroes are attempting to disturb the old, established, even peaceful, patterns of southern race relations.

It is neither possible nor practical for many of us to devote ourselves as thoroughly as Mary Ann Shupenko has to the work which must be done in implementing the many official restatements of the need for complete rights to be granted to all Americans. But we can give encouragement and support to those people who have found it possible to become actively involved.

Mary Ann Shupenko, as coordinator of civil rights projects in Madison County, Mississippi, for the Council of Federated Organizations, needs moral and financial support for her work. She can be reached at the following address:

Office Manager, 838 Lutz, Canton, Mississippi.

Mississippi may or may not be the closed society it has been accused of being, but it is a society in which Negroes, and some dedicated whites, find it difficult or impossible to enjoy their rights of citizenship. Those people who can not find ways to work directly to alleviate this situation can help out significantly by aiding those who are directly involved.

CAREER CARNIVAL

To Friend and Foe Alike

Politics Out For 'Polite'

By Susan Filson

An old tabu in middle-class American society places politics and religion outside the realm of polite conversation.

An even stronger tabu prohibits persons of public stature, such as teachers and ministers, from expressing their opinions on controversial topics during working hours.

Thus, a storm of criticism arose when Dean Francis B. Sayre of Washington Cathedral mounted the pulpit and made a strongly-worded statement on the present presidential campaign.

The major theme of Sayre's sermon was that America had better take stock of its moral climate, because the nation is faced with a choice between two presidential candidates who are not fit for office.

President Lyndon B. Johnson, according to Sayre, is stained with political corruption. And Sen. Barry Goldwater, whom Sayre characterized as a near-lunatic, advocates policies on nuclear weapons and race relations which completely negate Christian social teachings.

Sayre was sharply criticized by his fellow clergymen and laymen for making a political pronouncement from the pulpit.

Without agreeing with Sayre's opinion of the presidential candidates, a sound case can be made for his and any other public figure's right to express personal political opinions.

When Sayre spoke from the pulpit of his church, he did not attempt to invest his statement with any binding ecclesiastical authority. Only if he had told his congregation that it was bound in conscience to refrain from voting would he have been misusing the pulpit.

However, Sayre did not imply that his sermon carried any stronger force than that of the personal opinion of a respected man. To express such opinions is not only a right but a duty of public leaders in all walks of life.

The president of a university, any administrator or any faculty member should be perfectly free to express political opinions, as long as they do not pretend that theirs is the only viewpoint worthy of consideration.

It is truly tragic when university administrators shy away from comment on social issues because it might be impolite or impolitic. An unwillingness to make public statements on controversial matters is particularly apparent at the high and low administrative echelons of the academic world.

The problem arises far more frequently in high schools, where parents often arise in high dudgeon if teachers present their political opinions before a class. A teacher would indeed be taking advantage of his position if he did not present the "other side of the question" to his students. However, there is certainly nothing wrong in saying:

"This is what I think. Other people think differently, and you are under no obligation to think either way."

Such a statement could hardly be termed "brainwashing." Hats off to Sayre, who possesses a straightforward courage which more public figures would do well to imitate.

Even if the WCTU, the PTA and the state legislature all disapprove.

Challenge To Discrimination

Students should be aware that a procedure for handling complaints of racial discrimination has been established by the East Lansing Human Relations Commission.

Any person who feels he has been discriminated against due to race, creed, color or national origin has been urged by the Commission to file a written complaint listing all the facts of the case.

All parties involved in the alleged case of discrimination will be interviewed by Commission members. If the Commission decides that the complaint is justified, it will attempt to mediate the dispute.

If mediation fails, as it sometimes does in cases involving racial discrimination, the matter will be referred to the Michigan Civil Rights Commission.

Local racial discrimination has its most serious effects on students in the area of housing. It has been established over a period of years that Negroes and dark-skinned foreign students often encounter great difficulty in finding decent off-campus housing.

The complaint procedure established by the Human Relations Commission will not put an end to discrimination. But it is a step in the right direction, and at present is the only legal recourse provided by the City of East Lansing for the minority group member who encounters discrimination.

Race Discrimination Banned In Gov't Grants, Contracts

Editor's Note: This is the sixth article in a ten-part series written by James Spanio- lo, Cassopolis freshman, on the civil rights act of 1964.

Title VI of the civil rights act prohibits discrimination in any program or activity, other than insurance contracts or guarantees, receiving federal assistance under grant, contract or loan. It directs federal agencies to establish programs of compliance and authorizes denial of funds to those programs that discriminate.

The title also states that any denial or cut-off of funds is subject to judicial review. A hearing and a report to Congress are required before funds can be denied. Finally, approval from the president must be secured before any cut-off of funds takes place.

This title, nondiscrimination in federally-assisted programs, was written into the bill in the hope of ending racial discrimination in all programs sponsored or aided in part by the federal government. The premise of the title states that no one in the United States shall on the grounds of race, color or national origin be excluded from, denied benefits or be subjected to discrimination under programs or activities receiving federal assistance.

Though federal agencies can now withhold aid or assistance to programs not abiding by the principles laid down by this title, they are not given a free hand. The refusals are to be limited to particular political entities and specific recipients and programs not complying to this title. State wide or general aid and assistance cannot be denied under authorization of this title.

No action can be taken by an agency until the appropriate persons have been advised of their failure to comply to the law, and efforts have been made to obtain voluntary compliance. If voluntary compliance cannot be secured, a report is then submitted to the appropriate committees of Congress. Finally, action will be taken no less than 30 days after the report has been submitted and the president has given his approval.

Most criticism of Title VI, one of the more controversial sections of the law, has come from the South.

Dissidents claim this title gives the federal government and its agencies unjustified power over huge sums of money. Many of those who opposed the title in Congress asserted that it creates more and more federal control and brings numerous programs and activities, even partially involved with the federal government under its control.

It has also been said that the title gives no definition of discrimination, and in addition the ends certainly don't justify the means. Finally, a large cut-off in funds could seriously injure the economy of an area or an entire state.

Proponents of this section of the law say that it is of great importance to free all programs of the federal government or those in part financed by it, of discrimination on grounds of race, color or national origin. They claim since funds for Federal programs come from taxes paid by all citizens, it is only fair that all citizens derive equal benefits from them. The purpose of this title is to make sure that public funds aren't used to support unconstitutional discriminations against any groups of citizens.

The apparent impact of Title VI seems to be in the South, where federally aided programs practice segregation. Whether this title will make another dent in the wall of segregation and discrimination theory and whether it will noticeably affect federal programs in the North, only time will tell.

Letters To The Editor

Too Many Phone Calls

To the Editor:

This letter is for all Michigan State University students living on campus. My roommates and I have been receiving an unreasonable amount of wrong number phone calls, because some students are neglecting to follow the instructions printed on their telephones.

I am, specifically referring to the instructions for dialing an off-campus number. The only way to reach an off-campus number from campus is to dial "9" before dialing the seven numerals.

These wrong numbers are quite a nuisance for us, so PLEASE don't forget to dial the "9".

The women of MSU are highly complimented by Steve Brown's appreciation of our charm and good looks. We are happy to report that the men of this campus are equally attractive to us and we girls are more fortunate because the men outnumber us. Thank you, Steve, for brightening our day.

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE, Swarthmore, Pa.—The freshman class at Swarthmore, 276 in all, is one of the most diverse and best qualified classes ever to enter the college, a recognized center of good liberal arts education. The class was chosen from some 2,065 applicants, of whom 481 were admitted by the college. Nearly half the freshmen are receiving some financial aid, including 15 per cent whose scholarships are provided from sources outside the school. A Rockefeller Foundation grant has provided for 15 students from ethnically disadvantaged minority groups to attend the college this year.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, Minneapolis—A proposal which would require six years of a single foreign language in high school of all students or the equivalent in college, a total of six quarters, is being well received by foreign language instructors. It is estimated by one member of the Romance Languages Department that the proposal would increase language class enrollment by 60 to 70 per cent. Others have estimated it would double. The feeling among faculty members appears to be "the more language the better."

CENTRAL MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY, Mt. Pleasant—President Judson W. Foust demanded that the Board of Student Publication acknowledge that its decisions are subject to review by the President in a formal policy statement. The Board said it thought this was understood.

Nye Defends ADA

Russell B. Nye, described the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) as being greatly misrepresented in the past, in a talk here recently.

The history and origin of this controversial group was presented by Nye, a Pulitzer Prize winning MSU professor of English, to the University Volunteers for Johnson, a group of Republicans, Democrats and independents.

Nye said in his speech Thursday that the organization's liberal goals have made it particularly susceptible to attack from all quarters.

The ADA explains itself: "Americans for Democratic Action is an organization of progressives, dedicated to the achievement of freedom and economic security for all people everywhere, through education and democratic political action."

Sen. Joseph McCarthy charged in 1953 that they had given sympathy and comfort to the Communists. An earlier charge in a Saturday Evening Post editorial said that the ADA had voted against free enterprise.

However, Nye said that no ADA records show such a vote and that the organization's platform affirms their belief in free enterprise and their opposition to communism.

He also said that one of ADA's primary goals, first mentioned at its original convention and endorsed at every succeeding convention, is to work for the nomination and election of liberal candidates for public office, regardless of their party label.

Although the official political role of the organization is non-partisan, Nye said that it has consistently supported Democratic presidents.

In describing the origin of the ADA, Nye said that two events precipitated their foundation: the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Republican Congress of 1946.

During this period ADA members felt that President Harry S. Truman was unable to cope with domestic problems and many left his cabinet because they did not think he was the man to lead the liberalism of the New Deal, Nye said.

There were several organizations with liberal outlooks in 1946, Nye said, but there was a need for a more anti-Communist liberal movement.

The Union for Democratic Action, a CIO-backed and strongly anti-Communist group, took the lead in the formation of the new organization, he said.

Vice presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey served on the first committee of this new organization. The first resolution of the ADA was to exclude all totalitarian beliefs, either left or right.

Varsity Ties Alumni On Diamond

Chilly Air But Warm Greetings

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

A fast and unusual double play ended the first annual Old-Timers baseball game and preserved a 4-4 tie for the alumni and the MSU varsity at Old College Field Saturday.

Almost 2,000 fans braved 39 degree weather to view the contest and to watch Robin Roberts, Dick Radatz and Ron Perranoski pitch against their alma mater.

The game-ending play stopped a varsity rally in the last of the seventh that almost produced a real come-from-behind victory for Coach Danny Litwiler's crew.

The varsity, held to only one hit and shut out by Jack Nutter, Roberts, Radatz and Perranoski for six innings, exploded in the last stanza to wipe out a 4-0 deficit.

Singles by Dick Billings, Bob Speer and Dale Peters, made because of an error by Old Timer shortstop Jerry Lumianski, loaded the bases for the varsity which previously had had no one past second base.

Three successive walks issued by Larry Foster narrowed the margin to one run.

With the bases full and no one out, Jerry Walker bounced to Lumianski, who fired to catcher Al Luce, nipping Peters at the plate.

But pinch hitter Dick Kilbourn singled across the tying run and was prevented from driving home the winner when Howard Miller slipped rounding third and was easily nailed at home.

Luce then threw out Kilbourn, who was trying to advance to second on the play, for the final out. The varsity had to settle for a tie.

The Old-Timers opened the scoring in the third inning when Lumianski drew a walk, moved to second on a free pass to Jim Sack and scored on Frank "Chi Chi" Palamara's second hit of the game.

Two more runs crossed the Old Timer plate in the fifth on a single by Sack, a double by Palamara—his third hit of the game—and a long sacrifice fly by Jerry Sutton.

US Shows Early Strength As Olympic Events Start

TOKYO (UPI)—The United States is off to a great start in the 1964 Olympics. Uncle Sam's cagers won their opening basketball game, a 78 to 45 thumping of Australia. The U.S. started stronger than ever in swimming and showed surprising strength in wrestling and rowing.

But the first gold medal went to tiny Russian Alexey Vakhonin, who smashed a world record in the bantamweight weightlifting competition.

Gary Ilman of San Jose, Calif., gave a hint of what can be expected of the U.S. in swimming when he set an Olympic record while winning his 100-meter freestyle semi-final.

His 53-nine clocking came just six hours after he first erased the Olympic mark with a 54-flat clocking in his heat. Mike Austin of Rochester, New York, and Don Schollander of Oswego Lake, Ore., also qualified for tomorrow's final in the event.

A Russian wiped out an Olympic mark in the women's 200-meter breaststroke in which only one American—14-year-old Claudia Kolb of Santa Clara, Calif.—qualified for the finals.

Larry Kristhoff of Carbondale, Ill., established himself as a favorite for the heavyweight freestyle wrestling title with an upset over defending champion Wilfried Dietrich of Germany in the first round.

Rower Don Spero of New York scored a stunning upset over double Olympic champion Viacheslav Ivanov of Russia to reach the single skulls finals.

Patsy Willard of Mesa, Ariz., closely trailed defending champion Ingrid Kramer of Germany in the women's springboard diving. And Jeanne Collier of Phoenix and Sue Gossick of Taizana, Calif., are third and fourth.

In a first round boxing match, Louis Johnson of Portland, Ore., won a unanimous decision over an opponent from the first touchdowns, and the Wolverines had ample time to come back.

A look at the statistics makes the Michigan victory look even more impressive than it actually was.

The Maize and Blue picked up 20 first downs and 277 total yards while holding the Spartans to 8 first downs and 157 yards.

It was a game of breaks and mistakes in which Michigan gave MSU the ball on fumbles three times, and the Spartans lost the ball to the Wolverines twice.

The first break in the contest came on the second play when Ed Macuga pounced on a U-M fumble on the Maize and Blue 17 to set up the only Spartan touchdown of the afternoon.

Judy eventually scored on a two-yard quarterback sneak and Robich converted to give the Green and White a 7-0 lead with 3:17 gone of the game. Michigan scored its field goal on the final play of the half when Bob Timberlake booted the ball 29 yards.

The Spartans missed on two field goal attempts in the fourth quarter but finally tallied when reserve quarterback Larry Lukasik kicked one from 26 yards out.

The Spartans contained Wolverine sophomore standouts Jim Detwiler and Carl Ward who could combine for only 17 yards in 12 tries from their halfback posts.

Michigan's leading rusher was fullback Mel Anthony who carried 21 times for 70 yards.

MSU fans may have been disappointed by the outcome, but in most respects it was like all other Spartan-Michigan games... it will offer fans an opportunity to replay the contest over and over until Oct. 9, 1965, when the two teams meet on the gridiron once again.

Boyer Blast Boon To Birds' Chances

NEW YORK (AP)—Third Baseman Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals decided the fourth game of the World Series with one swing Sunday as he bashed a home run with the bases full in the sixth inning that brought the Cards a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

By deadlocking the best-of-seven set at two games apiece, the Cardinals made certain that the series will shift back to their own park for a showdown after Monday's Yankee Stadium finale. Right-handers Mel Sotolmeyer of the Yankees and Bob Gibson of the Cards, winner and loser, respectively, of the second game, are expected to face each other again Monday. The series will reconvene in St. Louis on Wednesday.

Sunday's story was told in two innings—the first, when the first five Yankees to come to the plate before a topcasted audience of 66,312 hit safely for three runs, and the Card's sixth.

Two-base hits by Phil Linz and Bobby Richardson and singles by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle routed Cardinal starter Ray Sadecki in the first and drove into runs. Reliever Roger Craig was greeted by a run-scoring hit by Elston Howard, but thereafter until the end of the fifth he fanned eight and gave up only one more single.

His fine effort seemed to no avail as left-handed Al Downing set the Cards down with one hit until the sixth. Then Carl Warwick, batting for Craig, batted his third pinch hit of the series. Curt Flood followed with another single and, with one out, Richardson drew an error when he was unable to get Dick Groat's grounder to second out of his glove in time to start what had looked like an inning-ending double play. Boyer then hit his homer into the left field stands.

Ron Taylor, another reliever, then came on the scene to stop the Yankees without a hit in the last four innings and protect the Cards' lead.

Kickers Easily Dump Wheaton

By TERRY GOMOLL
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State's power-packed soccer team blanked league rival Wheaton College Saturday, 9-0, on the Crusaders' home field. The victory over previously unbeaten Wheaton was MSU's third shutout in as many games. Only a goal by Earlham College in State's first game of the season keeps its shutout total from equalling its four victories.

In Saturday's contest, Spartan bench strength made a big impression. Five of the nine goals were scored by non-starters. Starting forward Nick Krat began the scoring, booting in a pass from Clare DeBoer at the 16-minute mark of the first quarter.

DeBoer, the outside right forward, scored the first of two second-period goals unassisted at 11:35. Van Dimitriou, relieving Sydney Alozie at the center-forward position, added the second goal of the period on a pass from Peyton Fuller.

Fuller and DeBoer completed the scoring for the starters. Fuller scored on a pass from George James at 11:06 of the third quarter and DeBoer booted his second unassisted goal.

Bowen Paces Harrier Win

By MIKE BROOKS
State News Sports Writer

While State's football team was dropping its game to the Wolverines Saturday, the cross country team was also being outscored by two league rivals.

Coach Fran Dittrich was pleased. Sounds rather strange? Well, in cross country, low score wins, and by greatly underscoring the opposition, the Spartans won a triangular meet and two dual meets against Indiana and Wisconsin.

The Spartans won the triangular meet, scoring 23 points against Wisconsin's 50 and Indiana's 56.

In dual meet scoring, they defeated Wisconsin 22-37, and Indiana, 16-41.

Lauren Brown, clerk of the course, explained that the meet could have been scored several ways, depending on how the coaches decided to have it score beforehand. The coaches decided that each team would score dual meets against their two opponents, and that they would score the totals of the three teams as a triangular meet.

State's Jan Bowen and Rick Zemper led throughout the race, with Bowen pulling away to win in the last hundred yards. Bowen, with a 20:30.2 clocking, established a course record for the newly re-routed Forest Akers course. Zemper's time was 20:33.

Mike Kaines finished a stride ahead of Paul McCollam in the battle for fifth place behind two Wisconsin runners. They were timed at 21:18 and 21:18.1.

Jack Amie rounded out the Spartan scoring with a ninth place showing in 22:01.5.

Dittrich was pleased by the victories, but also said he was concerned by the wide spread of time between his men. There was a minute and a half separating the first and fifth State runner.

Next Saturday the Spartans will run against the Minnesota Gophers at Minneapolis.

Special offer for men who have not yet chosen a career (and for some who have)

Many of today's most successful life insurance men did not initially consider life insurance as a career offering unlimited opportunity for both personal and financial attainment. Actually, academic training in many fields provides excellent background for success in life insurance, including: Liberal Arts, Journalism, Business Administration, Agriculture, Law, Engineering, Education, and Science to mention a few. The "type" of man who achieves early success is one who has demonstrated a sense of responsibility in academics, athletics, campus activities, etc. He is a man of ambition and drive, with a distinct desire to do well on his own. He is personable and enjoys working with—and helping—people. Above all, he wants personal and financial success just as soon as possible—and is willing to work to achieve it.

Here is our offer to you! The free book shown below contains actual case histories of young men who have done well with our company. Read what they say. Then you decide!

Sincerity Saving Grace For Popular Folk Three

By MIKE KINDMAN
State News Reviewer

Seeing the popular trio of Peter, Paul and Mary in person is in some ways an affirmation of an improvement in public tastes, and in some ways a let-down sufficient to sour one on all popular music.

The trio has made its reputation as much on its devotion to the causes of civil rights and mild pacifism as on its excellent harmony and indisputable ability to enrapture an audience. The show of liberal tendencies has been ostentatious and, on occasion, sloppily sentimental. The saving grace has been the apparent sincerity behind their singing of "If I Had a Hammer," "Blowing In the Wind," and other songs of this type.

Peter, Paul and Mary's concert at the Lansing Civil Center Saturday night included a number of songs of this type, including a song in French about a military deserter, and the driving "newthink" of Bob Dylan's "The Times They Are A-Changing." But the concert also included a number of stereotyped non-folk songs and a surprising number of allusions and imitations of rock and roll styles.

One is left with the feeling that if this is a sincere, folk music-oriented group in the style of many popular artists, then there is something in their repertoire that is out of place. If this is not that type of group, then there is something very discouraging and almost hypocritical in the ease with which the trio has capitalized on a show of liberal thinking.

Peter, Paul and Mary present an immensely enjoyable act and are engaging, talented people. The apparent sincerity of what they are doing comes out in their appearances at such events as the 1963 March on Washington and in statements of the purpose of their selection of material.

Paul Stookey, a Michigan State graduate and the off-stage spokesman for the group, pointed out that the trio is not aiming for any specific audience, and is entirely sincere in its presentation of the causes spoken for in many of its songs.

But if this is the case, there is a lamentable tendency to waver in this sincerity and to include many out-of-place comments and songs in the act.

ENTERTAINMENT AND THE ARTS

Famous Russians Perform Tonight

The rough and rugged Russian is considered a fountainhead of ballet.

Tonight Michigan State students will be the only university students in the United States privileged to see one of Russia's most legendary ballets: the Leningrad Kirov Ballet, to perform 8:15 p.m. in the Auditorium.

Michigan State is the only university that managed to book the ballet on this its second North American tour.

The Kirov Ballet is presenting two programs, a complete performance of "Swan Lake" tonight under Series A, and a "Gala Programme" Tuesday under series B.

"The Kirov Ballet is noted for its smoothness of technique and precision. It specializes in perfection," said Wilson Paul, director of the Lecture-Concert series.

"This attitude contrasts to the flamboyant one of the Bolshoi, which tends to reflect the mood of the present Communist state."

Contrary to tradition, the Kirov ballet is planning to use two ballerinas to dance the two swan maidens, heroine Odette and villainess Odile.

"The 'Gala Programme' Tuesday with its variety of composers, corps and stars should prove no less interesting than a complete performance of 'Swan Lake,'" Paul commented.

In "Swan Lake" Prince Siegfried falls in love with a swan maiden put under a curse by the evil magician Rothbart.

Feeling the prince's love will break his spell, Rothbart tricks the prince into choosing his daughter, Odile, for a wife.

Realizing he has been deceived, the prince searches for Odette and begs her forgiveness.

Rothbart, who has overheard the prince's confession of love, challenges the prince to a duel. The prince kills Rothbart and frees the swan maiden from the curse.

Folklore Society

The Folklore Society will meet tonight in the Union Tower Room. Herb David, MSU graduate and antique instrument expert, will discuss the selection, repair and adjustment of guitars and other folk instruments.

Warsaw Philharmonic To Play

The Warsaw Philharmonic will perform at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the Auditorium in a Series B presentation of the Lecture-Concert series.

Witold Rowicki will conduct the Philharmonic, which is on its second American concert tour.

Featured soloist will be young violinist Wanda Wilkomirska.

Founded in 1900, the Warsaw Philharmonic presented its first concert with a program of Polish music and featuring the renowned pianist and national hero, Paderewski, performing his own piano concerto.

In the years before WW II the orchestra made its first major foreign tour in 1958 in connection with the Brussels World's Fair. In 1961 the Warsaw orchestra completed its first North American tour.

Warsaw Philharmonic performed with many of Europe's musical greats, including Ravel, Stravinsky, Rachmaninoff, Dreisler, Casals and Piatigorsky.

Inactive as a public concert group during the German occupation, the musicians still played in private Polish homes and performed the works of Chopin, whose music was banned by the Nazis.

 we decided it was time to enforce the law."
 Taking leaders of the group into custody at 10:30 p.m., police had broken up the demonstration before 11 p.m.
 "This is the beginning of my eighth year and I've never run into a group that behaved in this manner before," Andrews said. "Usually, when we told them to break in the past, they would disperse."
 Police said they could find no connection between the group action and MSU-Michigan football tilt spirit.
 "They were just out to raise hell," one officer commented. Although students charged the police, no officers were bumped, Andrews said.

 Students seemed to try to avoid physical contact with police, he said.
 Those not taken into custody were released to their dorms when they had dispersed.

Alpha Phi Sigma

A demonstration and explanation of the lie detector will be featured Tuesday during the first regular meeting of the National Police Science Honorary, Alpha Phi Sigma.

 At 7:30 p.m. today the fraternity will conduct a special meeting in the sunroom of the Union for all Police Administration students interested in membership.

Tuesday Protest Cancelled At U-M

ANN ARBOR (UPI) -- The University of Michigan Student Government Council has voted to cancel a demonstration rally planned for Tuesday to protest alleged overcrowded facilities, fearing the demonstration might hurt the University's image or get out of hand.
 Plans for the rally grew out of a series of demonstrations last week protesting alleged overcrowded housing facilities and a demand for higher student wages.

CAREER CARNIVAL--Preparations for MSU's annual job exhibition are being completed. The Carnival opens tonight at 6:30 in the Union. Photo by Ricki Gilbert

82 Displays Set Carny Opens Tonight

The 16th annual MSU Career Carnival--the largest such event in the nation--opens tonight in the Union.
 Crews have been working since Sunday afternoon completing booths for the 82 companies and agencies which will bring over 250 representatives to campus.
 The booths will be open from 6:30 to 10 tonight. Tuesday hours are 10 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:15 to 4:30 and 7:30 to 10 p.m. There will be displays on the first and second floors of the Union.

Some representative organizations this year are Bendix, Chrysler, Detroit Edison, the American Association of Chiefs of Police, the Michigan Education Association, the Michigan State Dental Association, the National Security Agency, the State Bar of Michigan, the Reynolds Metals Company, and the U.S. Treasury Internal Revenue Service.
 Although the Placement Bureau sponsors the carnival, it is organized by students.
 Last year over 11,000 students visited the carnival. Seventy-three companies and agencies were represented.

Galbraith Makes Target Of Modern Conservatism

Conservatism and its leading spokesman, Sen. Barry Goldwater, were the targets of some indirect verbal jabs from economist John Kenneth Galbraith in the Auditorium Friday.

 Galbraith drew a sharp distinction between "old-fashioned" and "modern" conservatives.
 "The old-fashioned conservatives sensibly remind us that technical change is a basic law of life which must never be resisted," Galbraith said. "The modern conservative, however, is in revolt against the world in which he lives."
 Galbraith noted that "some people view any kind of progress since the cream separator as a conspiracy against their pocket books."
 "But it is my hope," he added, "that people who hold this view of progress will not be placed in positions of high power."
 In a strong defense of America's foreign aid program, Galbraith said that "we don't hear about the successes of our foreign policy at this time of the year."
 He maintained that America has earned the respect of many of the underdeveloped nations in the world through foreign aid.
 "Military power didn't accomplish this," he said. "Nor did our bombs, excessively centralized in management as they are now."

2-Car Collision Injures Coeds

Three MSU coeds were injured when the cars in which they were riding collided at Fairchild and Elizabeth St. in East Lansing Friday afternoon.
 Penna Ann Rose, 21, Fowlerville senior, received a possible back injury in the accident.
 Pamela J. Clark, 20, Dallas sophomore, received a sprained ankle while her passenger Sandra Schmetzky, 19, Birmingham sophomore, sustained minor cuts to the knees.
 Both drivers told police they did not see the other car until the impact.
 Apparently neither driver braked her auto before the collision occurred, police said.
 Miss Clark was ticketed for not carrying an operator's license and for displaying an altered driver's license, police reported.

Congressman Ford Blasts Democratic Administration

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., blasted President Lyndon B. Johnson's "lackadaisical Democratic administration" at a party fund-raising banquet in Lansing recently.
 "Unless we get a better Congress than the current rubber stamp one," he said, "the people will be scared to death and have every right in the world to be."

 "Republicans can and must be elected, from Barry Goldwater on down."
 Ford indicated that the Eisenhower administration made much headway in foreign and domestic problems, saying that there was

"no Berlin Wall, no Communists in Cuba and that the U.S. was winning the war in Viet Nam" under Eisenhower.

Knot Not Found Strong Enough

About 400 members of the Shaw dormitory group out-tugged the rope Saturday morning in a tug-of-war contest.
 The match was called as a draw after three unsuccessful but zealous attempts to pull the opposing team into a mud hole behind the new Bio Chemistry Building.
 The East-West Shaw contest will be rematched at a later date when a more secure rope can be found.

Vet's Assn. Plans Activities

A reserved section for veterans at the homecoming football game was discussed at the MSU Veterans Association's initial meeting for the 1964-65 school year.
 President Tom Neuton also said the group may send a club-sponsored orphan group to the Purdue game, Nov. 7.
 Tentative plans for winter term include sponsoring the winter term blood drive and Winterland Whirl to be held late in January at the Lansing Civic Center. The MSU Veterans Association is open to any MSU student who has completed 21 months active duty with any branch of the U.S. Armed Forces. The club office is located in Room 316 of the Student Services Building.

Pranks-A-Plenty Plague Police

Usual and unusual pranks plagued campus police Friday.
 Three University of Michigan students were taken into custody at 3 a.m. for painting the beginnings of an "M" at the intersection of Chestnut Road and Shaw Lane.
 They were released after cleaning up the paint, and their names are being forwarded to the U-M dean of students for disciplinary action, police reported.
 "I" of "M" was painted on the south entrance to the Union, but the culprits were not caught.
 Police reported a urinal found in a campus parking lot, but have not yet discovered its place of origin.
 In a more original caper, leaflets were dropped on campus from a plane about 4:30 p.m.
 The leaflets bore U of M and fraternity lettering, and included a verse predicting a Michigan victory.

Delta Sig' Rush

The fall rush program of Gamma Kappa chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, will be held at 8 p.m. today and Wednesday in the lounge of the Student Services Building.
 The open rush coffee hours are to introduce students to the fraternity's effort to bring together undergraduates with business interests.
