Liberal College Proposal To Be Studied By Faculty

Four Days To Go

Candidates Hit Home Stretch

From Our Wire Services

Wednesday while President Johnson worked for votes in sunny California, Goldwater spoke on a variety of subjects on his tour, but continued his attack on Johnson's policies.

In the grass roots of America lies the key to Republican victory, Goldwater said Wednesday, and it is to these non-metropolitan areas that he is mainly aiming his campaign in these windup days.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oshkosh, Wis., and Belleville, Ill., were on the Republican presidential nominee's vote hunting trail. Thursday brings a train trip to five small Pennsylvania cities before another speech at Pittsburgh.

He continued to blast Lyndon Johnson as "power hungry" with "insatiable political ambitions." Opposing the president, Goldwater said, "is the most obviously tremendous grass political movement in our history."

He drew a crowd estimated by police at 15,000 in downtown Cedar Rapids. It was another warm and friendly audience as in his three other campaigns through Iowa.

Goldwater thanked the people of the area for the warm tribute they paid Herbert Hoover at the former President's funeral at West Branch, Iowa, Sunday.

He said Hoover would have been troubled at the trend that government has taken and also about the churches.

"How can they be concentrating on morality," Goldwater asked, "when we find clerical spokesmen who have now become loud advocates of Lyndon Johnson, whose desire for power in my opinion represents much that is in opposition to the thinking of every church that I know."

Meanwhile President Johnson campaigned in southern California, the area in which Goldwater is believed to have his greatest strength in the state.

Near the outset of his first speech in a fast-moving swing through the area, Johnson made a flattering reference to Chief Justice Earl Warren, a long-time favorite of the liberal wing of the GOP.

In a speech prepared for a Democratic rally at Los Angeles city hall, Johnson said the past session of Congress accomplished so much for just one reason: the responsible leaders of both parties worked together for the good of the nation.

IT'S SO FINE--The subject matter of the book that is. The book on fine arts which Garland P. Wood, director of Latin American Studies Center, and Luiz Macedo, Brazilian graduate student, are looking at is one of a collection donated to MSU by the Regional Center for Educational Research of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Latin America Center Receives Collection

A collection of books on the history and culture of Brazil has been donated to the library of the Latin American Studies Center here.

Some 80 volumes on Brazilian education, history, sociology, economics, literature and the fine arts were presented to Garland P. Wood, director of MSU's Latin American center, by Luiz Antonio Macedo, a graduate student of educational TV from Sao Paulo, Brazil.

In accepting the collection for MSU, Wood said:

"Books are a vital communication link between cultures and countries. The gift will enrich our Latin American Library collection and help our students gain a better understanding of the people of Brazil."

The collection is a gift of the Regional Center for Educational Research at Sao Paulo, Wood added.

Among the books are such classics as the "History of Brazil" by Pedro Calmon, a series called "Nossos classicos" consisting of studies of prominent Portuguese and Brazilian writers and poets; and Silvio Romero's 5-volume "History of Brazilian Literature."

The collection is housed on the second floor of MSU's new Center for International Programs on Shaw Lane.

10 Member Committee Appointed

By JOAN SOLOMAN
Student Services Writer

A 10-member faculty committee has been appointed to examine the feasibility of a four-year college of liberal education proposed Tuesday by President John A. Hannah.

Provost Howard R. Neville clarified Wednesday the proposal made in Hannah's annual address to the Joint Conference of the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service and the MSU Continuing Education Service.

Neville said the committee has been established to determine whether such a college is appropriate for Michigan State.

"Such a college would provide a liberal education for those undergraduates who are not interested in a departmental program," he said.

The proposed college would be housed in a living-learning unit and would contain approximately 1,500-2,000 students.

Carl Gross, professor of education, has been named chairman of the study committee.

Other members include Walter Adams, professor of economics; Dorothy Arata, associate professor of home economics; Leroy G. Augenstein, professor and chairman of biophysics; Emmanuel Hackel, professor and chairman of natural science.

Gaurth Hansen, professor and chairman of biochemistry; John Howell, associate professor of

Polish Leader Accepts Ouster Of Khrushchev

WARSAW, Poland (AP)--Back from a meeting with the new Kremlin leaders, Wladyslaw Gomulka declared Wednesday the Soviet party leadership accepted Nikita Khrushchev's resignation, "having proper grounds to do so."

The Polish party leader then expressed a hope that the rift in world communism could be healed by the Soviet Union and Red China taking steps to settle their ideological differences.

He described the Kremlin shakeup as in accordance with "Leninist principles of inter-party unity" and said Polish-Soviet cooperation will be strengthened.

Gomulka was one of the leaders who had praised Khrushchev after his downfall was announced to the world Oct. 15. Apparently, Poland, like other Eastern bloc nations, feared that the Kremlin shakeup might portend a trend back to tighter control from Moscow as in the days of Stalin.

Addressing a rally for a visiting delegation from Mongolia, Gomulka declared:

"I wish to state here with a full satisfaction that the general line of the Soviet party as defined by the 20th and 22nd Soviet Party Congresses will be upheld and that it fully agrees with our party, our government, our country. This has been reaffirmed during our recent meeting with the Soviet party leaders."

The 20th Congress launched the de-Stalinization campaign. The 22nd Congress promised a greater emphasis on goods for the people.

Gomulka declared the main power of the Communist bloc was the Soviet Union, and the force of the bloc consisted principally in unity of action.

Then turning to the dispute between the Soviet Union and Red

China on whether coexistence or force is the best way to advance world communism, the Polish leader continued:

"It is only imperialism which utilizes the rift. The rift must be overcome . . . recent examples underlined it . . . and this caused the action for unity to be even more necessary."

When it was discovered that several people who thought they lived in Colorado actually lived in New Mexico, one of them chanced to remark:

"Thank goodness! I don't think I could have stood another Colorado winter."

State GOP Leader Denies 'Smear' Literature Charge

Arthur G. Elliott Jr., Michigan Republican chairman, answered charges by an MSU group that he had failed to disassociate himself and his party from "smear" literature distribution.

The University Volunteers for Johnson blasted the chairman Tuesday, calling the literature "some of the most violent and virulent campaign literature ever to appear in the history of American politics."

They cited "None Dare Call It Treason," "A Choice: Not an Echo" and "A Texan Looks at Lyndon" as examples.

Elliott announced that he will send a letter to GOP county chairmen warning against "careless statements or charges."

He denied, however, that the step was in reaction to the group's charge.

He said that the works mentioned were not published by the Republican party.

"I would not accept any literature that could be classified as smear literature," the chairman emphasized.

"The only literature that the Republican party should be distributing or displaying is the literature published by the National Committee, the Republican State Central Committee or by the candidates."

Bounce Mark Set By Shaw

East Shaw Hall has still another record under its belt today as two residents combined to set new marks in the glass-bouncing craze which has swept some parts of campus lately.

Harvey Howitt, East Grand Rapids sophomore, broke the existing record at dinner Tuesday by bouncing his glass seven times.

Not to be outdone, George McGee, Wayland junior, bounced the same glass eight times.

Then, combining their talents, both McGee and Howitt knocked the glass off the table together to set an all-time record of nine bounces.

Supreme Court Denies Appeal From Virginia

WASHINGTON (AP)--Virginia lost in the Supreme Court Wednesday in an effort to stay a lower court's legislative reapportionment order that would cut the terms of incumbent senators from four to two years.

Chief Justice Earl Warren turned down without comment a petition by State Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Button for a stay so that the question could be considered by the full Supreme Court on a later appeal.

This lets an order stand by a three-judge federal court in Alexandria, Va., which on Sept. 19 ordered Virginia to reapportion both its House of Delegates and Senate by Dec. 15. At the same time, the tribunal directed that both Senate and House seats be Food poisoning was not the cause of the illnesses reported by 50 Case Hall residents two weeks ago.

According to Dr. James Feurig, director of Olin Health Center, tests by three separate medical facilities have shown that the cause of the illnesses was a viral infection.

Culture tests conducted by the Michigan State Microbiology lab, the Michigan Department of Health and Olin Health Center were in agreement. No bacteria were present, thus ruling out the possibility of food poisoning.

New Ad Legislation Promotes Comprehension

Special To The State News

Use of terms in advertising that are more meaningful to the shopper are among requirements in Michigan's new weights and measures law that was passed by the last session of the Legislature.

Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre said the law is not confined to the advertising of groceries but also applies to such things as toothpaste, anti-freeze, detergents, tablets and many other items. The Michigan Department of Agriculture's Foods and Standards Division is responsible for enforcement.

McIntyre explained that in advertising, the net contents must be in close proximity to price when a price is stated.

Taboo are such terms as "king size," giant, jumbo, family size or economy size when used in conjunction with a content statement on packaged commodities. Also unlawful are such terms as "tall can," which may be recognizable to the trade but are not used in the industry.

Net contents must be expressed in the largest single unit in advertising. A 46-ounce can of something now must be labeled and advertised as one quart.

14 ounces. A 19-ounce package of something now must be labeled and advertised as one pound, three ounces.

Can sizes may be meaningful to the trade but not the consumer, who is interested in net contents. So such terms as 303 can, No. 2 can, No. 2 1/2 can, or No. 10 can must be advertised in terms of net contents.

Similar expressions unless the size of the package is also shown. This also applies to the phrase "large bag," which must be replaced by the net contents of the bag.

Hannah Ok's Alvin Bentley

President John A. Hannah, in an unprecedented move, is endorsing the candidacy of Alvin M. Bentley for the new State Board of Education.

One of twelve leading Michigan educators forming an "Educators for Bentley Committee," Hannah's move is contrary to his usual practice of not becoming involved in political campaigns.

Bentley, now confined to an Ann Arbor hospital bed, is recovering from surgery to correct an imbalance of the circulation of the cerebrospinal fluid.

"But he is expected to recover in plenty of time to assume the State Board of Education duties if he is elected next week," a committee spokesman stressed.

Bentley, an Owosso industrialist and former U.S. congressman, has also been endorsed by the Michigan Education Association.

Weighty Opinions

It is significant that 150 of the most distinguished U.S. scholars in the field of Russian studies have announced their opposition to the presidential candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

An advertisement in Sunday's New York Times stated that Goldwater "ignores the complexities of the communist challenge and the experience gained in meeting it."

Some of the outstanding signers of the ad are Abram Bergson, director of the Russian Institute at Harvard, Zbigniew Brzezinski, director of Columbia University's Institute on Communist Affairs, John A. Armstrong, professor of political science from the University of Wisconsin; and Frederick C. Barghorn, the Yale University professor who was detained in the Soviet Union in 1963 and released after a personal appeal by President Kennedy.

MSU faculty members who signed the ad are Alfred G. Meyer, professor of political science, and Arthur E. Adams, professor of history.

All of these men are distinguished scholars or authors who have devoted their lives to the study of communism and its implications in the modern world.

They know the nature of communism from years of research. Many of them have had first-hand experience with the government of the Soviet Union.

They point out in their statement that they are American citizens interested in the preservation of freedom as well as scholars.

Regardless of one's political beliefs, the opinions of these men are not to be dismissed lightly.

Japanese Lose Ikeda

Hyato Ikeda led Japan through an unparalleled four years of progress, and he leaves it now unrivaled in all its swift attainment and poised for much more.

Yet if any factor threatens this fair state of being, it is the political, and with Ikeda's leaving the political is surely aroused.

The wake of Japan's hectic taking on of Western ways is strewn with inconsistencies, an abiding penalty for such haste. Thus, though its government is much the deliberative legacy of MacArthur, it still appears vulnerable to the tenuous contention of emotional faction.

The Diet, Japan's parliament, has long lacked any sort of plodding decorum. There is the aura of rigid view and often ruthless conviction. Blocked doorways can keep representatives from voting, and challenges and insults can be hurled across its floor.

And so it is Ikeda's absence which will do much to test the essential viability of this young democracy.

Both opposition parties are to the left of the exiting prime minister's Liberal Democrats and no doubt will attempt to exploit

Both are urging a new election, and any chaotic contest for the Liberal-Democrat leadership could seriously weaken the party's upper hand.

And there is much beyond the Diet that awaits the spur to grand clamor and upset.

Korea and Koreans living in Japan are a perennial issue filled with animosity.

Big business, now full with the flush of success in overseas trade must long for the Red Chinese market.

A long dispute with the Soviet Union has brewed over ownership of islands in the north.

Still a constant aggravation in some sectors is the continued presence of the U.S. military establishment.

And will Japan continue its unique course of profound pacifism and will the heritage of an autocratic past make as genuine a recession?

The rising fortunes of the East depend upon Japan. Here is the glaring image of success: a free government and booming commerce.

To Friend And Foe Alike

Conservative Flaw

By SUSAN FILSON
Editorial Editor

Most of the campaign invective hurled at Sen. Barry Goldwater has missed the crucial weakness in the Arizona senator's conservative political philosophy.

Goldwater has been characterized as a near-maniac. He has been accused of lacking sympathy for the poor, promoting racial hatred, advocating disastrous pre-Roosevelt economic policies and completely misunderstanding the nature of communism. Some of the accusations are true. Others are patently false. Without exception, the campaign oratory has bypassed the basic flaw in Goldwater's position.

The real weakness of modern conservatism lies not in its misreading of communism, but in its misunderstanding of and lack of faith in democracy.

The Constitution of the United States is one of the most remarkable documents in history. In it are embodied the two essential components of law: constancy and elasticity. Constitutional governments and law must both be based on certain principles which do not change with each passing moment. Yet, paradoxically, a law which does not bend will ultimately perish.

The combination of constancy and elasticity in law is a complex notion which does not penetrate the minds of those who conceive of difficult problems in simplistic terms.

The conservatives' misunderstanding of the American republic arises from their attempts to interpret the Constitution as the Founding Fathers would have interpreted it.

The framers of the Constitution could not have foreseen the America which lay two hundred years in the future. Throughout the history of this nation, the Constitution has constantly been subject to interpretation and re-interpretation.

Thomas Jefferson, the strict constructionist, made the Louisiana Purchase—an act which many in his day considered clearly unconstitutional.

Andrew Jackson established the 1st Bank of the United States—another "unconstitutional" act.

In 1896, in the famous Plessy vs. Ferguson case, the Supreme Court decided that "separate but equal" facilities for Negroes were not prohibited by the Constitution.

In 1954, another Supreme Court reversed that decision removing legal sanction from more than a half-century of school segregation in the South.

Today, the Supreme Court will decide whether the public accommodations section of the new civil rights law is constitutional.

Conservatives misread American history when they contend that the present Supreme Court is the first to interpret the Constitution according to the changing needs of society.

However, conservatives not only misunderstand the nature of the American republic—they lack faith in it.

They lack faith in the millions of black Americans who have lived too long under the oppression of the white majority. Barry Goldwater says that if the government steps in to protect the rights of Negroes, minority groups will "rule the country."

Conservatives maintain that "forced integration" only causes violence. They lack faith in the respect of millions of Americans for the law of their land.

Most conservatives lack faith in the ability of democracy to preserve political freedom while rectifying economic injustice. In taking a little from the rich to help the poor, they see a plot to subvert individualism and the free enterprise system.

Above all, conservatives lack faith in the ability of democracy to perpetuate itself in the face of changing economic and social conditions. Many of them equate liberalism with socialism, and socialism with communism. Change is viewed as the first step on the road to ruin.

Many conservatives advocate undemocratic methods to defend the very democracy they are determined to preserve.

If America abandons the effort to keep her means, as well as her ends, democratic, this nation will have lost the very heart of the constitutional democracy which conservatives are so determined to preserve.

Letters To The Editor

President's Moral Fiber Vital

To the Editor:

A while back, the Democratic majority decided that the Bobby Baker hearings be closed until after the elections. The American people were denied their rightful privilege of knowing the full facts of the case. Baker owed his rise in power to Lyndon B. Johnson. It was through Johnson's influence and patronage that Baker ever progressed above a Senate page. Now we hear of the Jenkin's affair. Walter Jenkins is another one of Lyndon's protégés. He, too, can thank Johnson for whatever influence he received. These are both Johnson appointments. Neither belong in government. Baker sold his political influence, and became a wealthy man.

Then we read that this issue does not belong in this campaign. In other words, the moral fiber of Johnson and Goldwater should not be made an issue and the voters should return to office an individual who has exhibited little discretion in regards to the type of people with whom he associates. Johnson must be held responsible for his appointments. We Americans are strange in that we expect a great deal from our President. We expect his image to be as spotless as possible. In this category, the person who now sits in the White House has been a dismal failure, and deserves to be relieved of his duties.

To paraphrase Charlie Brown and his faithful friend, Snoopy, "If you hoped to get elected, don't possess a 'Great Pumpkin.'" LBJ has his great pumpkin, and it is rotten to the core.

Attacks Romney Leadership

To the Editor:

Although The State News has given excellent coverage on the presidential candidates, little has been said concerning another critical campaign, the gubernatorial race. If the student elections are indicative of the coming elections this November, then a word in the defense of Neil Staebler is imperative and should be presented to the people.

Staebler on many instances has attacked the incumbent governor for his lack of leadership and administrative knowledge. Here are a few reasons why. The present governor has repeatedly boasted of his $70 million surplus and how he got Michigan out of the red. Let it be known to all that his supporters passed a series of nuisance taxes in late 1961 which has taken in more than 177 millions of dollars over and above the existing tax base.

Any second grader can tell you this is more than enough to not only cover past deficits, but also our present surplus. In the meantime our "frugal" governor has spent more money than any other governor preceding him. During the past two years, the "governor's team" flushed his tax reform right out of the capitol building. Meanwhile the incumbents propensity to have his own way, lost Michigan some 20 million in federal ADC-U funds. Even during this campaign, his "new executive team" has been complaining that their leader has failed to let them speak in their own districts when he is present. The incumbent governor's showmanship has been substituted for his inability to get the job done. A public relations man is no compromise for a man experienced in government.

On the other hand, Staebler would use any surplus on programs already proven to reduce school dropouts and decrease crime, not to mention more money for education. Operating in the black is an excellent principle as long as your basic needs are met. However, all the savings in any man's account does him no good when necessity warrants the use of that money.

Likewise with government, funds that should be used today are designed to save Michiganders untold millions in the future by replacing the potential criminals and people on welfare with citizens who will contribute to society; not be a burden upon it. This is but one phase of a constructive program put forth by Staebler to serve Michigan well in good times and in bad. As for the Democratic team, it is united behind all of its candidates and intends to remain so. Also, this year the Michigan House of Representatives is expected to go Democratic for the first time in Michigan history. When it is coupled with Staebler, a real team will be serving in the Capitol. Neil Staebler, successful businessman and servant of Michigan, warrants your consideration.

I Think We Could Use A Little Revision Of Our Theme "Manure L' Amour."

Point Of View Reply

By PAUL SCHIFF

Drake Morin's response to my Point of View column is difficult to understand: on the one hand he quotes Disraeli ("I disagree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it"), but on the other hand, has not said much else to convince me that he means it!

He implies that I have somehow attacked democracy, that I am unpatriotic and disloyal and that patriotism is incompatible with other "ism's" (capitalism, too?) He implies that fighting and war are the sole criteria of patriotism.

I charge that the spirit of Disraeli's adage is all but dead in contemporary America. Repressive legislation, such as the Smith Act and the McCarran Act, odious congressional committees (House Un-American Activities Committee and the FBI) have nothing in common with the fine principle you uphold. Their collective purpose is to destroy democracy by intimidating, and failing that, by punishing, people for their ideas.

To answer your charges directly: my attack on Hoover was in defense of democracy (I am mailing you a copy of Hoover's Message, which is available to anyone through the Socialist Club). It is no accident that Americans are afraid to sign petitions, go to meetings, join organizations. It is not simply adherence to capitalism that is a mark of one's loyalty.

What is "patriotism," Mr. Morin? Does it mean "my country, right or wrong?" In my opinion, the essence of patriotism is to fight for a better America. The most patriotic Americans are those engaged in the struggle for the rights of black Americans, for the preservation of constitutional liberties, for improved educational and job opportunities. I believe, and argue, that the transformation of our capitalist system into a socialist one would enable the United States to rapidly overcome its most pressing problems.

The only war in which American democracy was at stake in this century was World War II; American communists and socialists (with certain exceptions) were as patriotic as any other Americans in this fight against fascism. On the other hand, dying in "war" is not necessarily the criterion of patriotism.

Why am I a "pseudo-intellectual," Mr. Morin?

I would rephrase on the "rancor and hate" which socialism engenders here and ask: "Surely you must be sophisticated enough to realize how much hate and rancor people with radical ideas such as mine have to absorb, how much intimidation we have to undergo, in order to maintain our intellectual integrity and self-respect."

LONDON, 4--Sir Alec Douglas Home reshuffled the Conservative leadership in Parliament today to emphasize the party's younger leaders and bring two Tory rebels back into the fold.

The defeated Prime Minister remains leader of what is officially called "her majesty's loyal opposition."

His "shadow cabinet" of Conservative leaders will act as spokesmen for the party in Parliament and contains figures the party likes to regard as its "modernizers."

Navy, FBI Investigate California Wreckage

EL CENTRO, CALIF., 4--Navy and FBI investigators poked through the wreckage of 11 buildings today hunting the cause of a jet bomber crash that killed nine and injured 35 during an air show yesterday.

Victims and witnesses recalled long minutes of terror as they watched the twin-jet A-3D swoop within 20 feet of a runway at the nearby naval air facility, hit a telephone pole and come apart in the air.

Johnson to Make Brief Michigan Stop

DETROIT--President Johnson will make a brief stop Friday in Michigan at Metropolitan Airport.

Johnson will be winging his way to Milwaukee for a campaign appearance but has agreed to make what politicians call a prop stop.

He will address a crowd at the airport before continuing on his way to Milwaukee.

The stop is being made to aid Democratic gubernatorial candidate Neil Staeblein in his bid to unseat Governor Romney.

Johnson, Barry Running Close in Arizona

PHOENIX, ARIZ., 4--President Lyndon Johnson and Republican nominee Barry Goldwater are running virtually neck and neck in Goldwater's home state of Arizona according to the Arizona Poll.

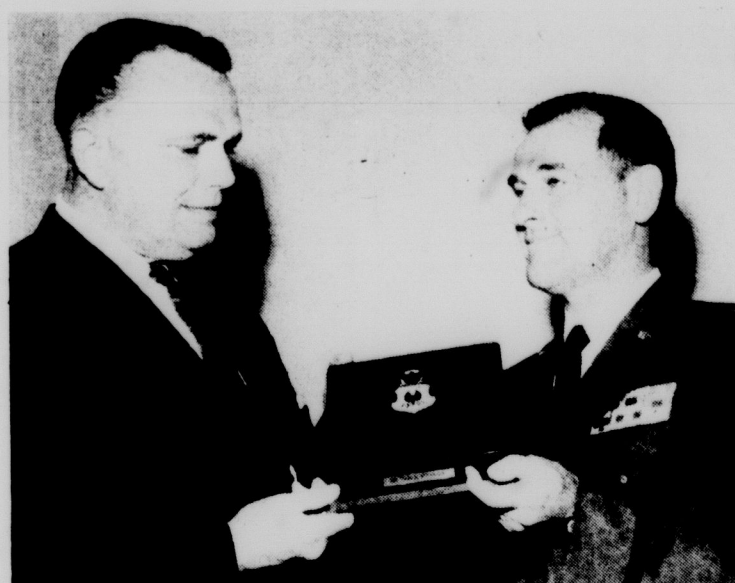

A statewide preferential survey made by the Arizona Poll for the Phoenix Gazette gave Johnson 46 per cent, Goldwater 45 and said 9 per cent were undecided.

Laotian Prince Travels to New Delhi

MOSCOW, 4--Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier of Laos, left for New Delhi today after receiving pledges from the new Kremlin regime to respect the neutrality of his coalition government.

Soviet Deputy Premier Mikhail Leschko saw Souvanna off at the airport. Western newsmen were prevented from speaking with the departing prince.

Before leaving Souvanna met for 90 minutes with Alexei N. Kosygin, the new Soviet premier, and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

IS THERE A DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE?--There certainly is, and it's Olin Director James S. Feurig, left. He is shown as he receives the Air Force ROTC Outstanding Service Award for his work with the Air Force ROTC program. Presenting the award is Lt. Col. George A. Davies, professor and chairman of air science.

Director Recipient of ROTC Award

Dr. James S. Feurig, director of MSU's Olin Health Center, has been presented the Air Force ROTC Outstanding Service award.

Dr. Feurig, a former flight surgeon, is one of only a dozen award recipients in the nation.

He was cited for his "professional guidance, authoritative knowledge and abiding interest" in the Air Force ROTC program for the past 11 years at MSU.

His continued support of the Air Force ROTC program includes his administration of the medical checks and immunizations of all cadets.

Presenting the award to Dr. Feurig at a Tuesday breakfast in Kellogg Center was Lt. Col. George A. Davies, professor and chairman of Air Science at MSU.

Present for the ceremonies was Col. Arthur C. Stone, area commandant from AFOTC Headquarters, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. Colonel Stone administers the AFOTC program at 22 institutions in the northeast central states and is at MSU for an annual inspection.

MSU holds the distinction of being the only institution with two award recipients. William Combs, dean of University Services, received the award in May.

'Shrew' Production: Headlong, Hilarious

By LAURENCE TATE
State News Reviewer

The University Theatre production of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" overflows over the stage, in a positive orgy of pratfalls, puns, double entendres, mugging and slight gags. It aims to be headlong and hilarious, and as far as the material will permit, it succeeds.

As presumptuous as it admittedly is to criticize Shakespeare, "Shrew" is one of his thinner comedies. The long, involved business with Bianca and her suitors tends increasingly to tedious, the last act tapers off and the shrew's conversion speech ends the play with the aura of a quaint period piece.

There is also the problem of diminishing returns: one can, in this sort of anything-goes farce, just keep "hellzapoppin'" for so long before the whole thing begins to wear a little.

So much loud, frenetic activity can give a sensation closer to battle fatigue than good cheer.

Beyond these reservations, the rest is praise. The rough-and-tumble scenes between Petruchio and Katharine, walloped across by Fredric DeSantis and Chilton Cunningham, are sheer, rowdy delight.

The director, Frank C. Rutledge, has employed media dell'arte techniques and a hectically brisk pace to play the farce for all it is worth. This is no esoteric, reverent rendering of a classic, but theatre all the way.

The cast enters vigorously into the spirit of the occasion (so vigorously, in fact, that one begins to wish rather desperately from time to time that someone were underplaying).

The actors go from role to role with sometimes confusing frequency, but among them one may single out DeSantis and Miss Cunningham, Eberle Thoman, B. James Alexander and Dean Kyburz for particular praise.

Edward A. Andreasen's setting is functional, and Hertha Schulze has done a dazzling job on the multitude of costumes.

The play can be seen in Fairchild Theatre tonight through Sunday. It is strongly recommended.

PHILOSOPHICALLY SPEAKING--The Department of Philosophy has a brand new home, and these department members are just getting used to the new surroundings. Your One Vote

It Has Often Decided Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—How important is one vote?

Tracing a string of events through history, Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., says that one vote cast in 1843 has led to the nomination of the two major candidates for president this year.

As Thompson outlined it in a news release Wednesday, the vote cast in 1843 by Henry Shoemaker, a farmhand in Dekalb County, Ind., broke a tie and elected one Madison Marsh to the Indiana State Legislature.

In those days U.S. senators were elected by the state legislatures and the Indiana Legislature had deadlocked on five ballots before the newly elected Marsh switched and broke the tie, sending Edward A. Hannegan to the U.S. Senate.

Two years later, Congress voted on the admittance of Texas to the Union. The Senate deadlocked 26-26. Then Hannegan switched his vote and Texas, the home of Lyndon B. Johnson, entered the Union.

In 1846 the Senate again deadlocked, this time on President James K. Polk's call for a declaration of war against Mexico, and again it was Hannegan who broke the tie. Out of the war thus declared the United States acquired the territory that included the present state of Arizona.

Thompson used the example of Henry Shoemaker's vote to underscore the importance of each American's voting on election day.

"The ballot he casts is his birthright," said Thompson. "He who does not exercise it does himself, his community and his nation a disservice."

Undergrads Play Leads In Production Of 'Antigone'

By FAYE E. UNGER
Arts & Entertainment Writer

He is a freshman whose previous theatrical experience consists of a one-word role in a high school play.

She is a senior who has performed in eight University Theatre productions.

Both Ken Kopstein, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., freshman, and Mary Ellen Finvean, Lansing senior, are among the eight undergraduates acting in the Arena Theater production of Anouilh's "Antigone."

Miss Finvean, who aspires to either act or to teach theatre, captured the lead role of Antigone.

"I've never had to do a role of such power and intensity before, since I have usually been cast as an ingenue," Miss Finvean said. "Antigone is as strong as Creon. No man could sway her."

Not only does she enjoy working in theatre, but she finds herself "at loose ends" if she is not involved in a production, Miss Finvean said.

Ken Kopstein's experience consists of a "Yeah" uttered in a children's theatre play.

"A friend who has had plenty of high school experience dragged me over to try out," he said. "The amusing thing is that I got a part and he didn't."

Kopstein, who is at present majoring in accounting, does not expect to enter theatre, although he expressed a desire to write for dramatic productions.

"Debating is my first love," he said, "but I've always been interested in acting."

Julia Lacy, Ann Arbor freshman, is portraying Ismene, Antigone's older sister, in the production.

"When I first heard I had gotten the role of Ismene, I was dismayed," she said. "I had played Ismene in the Sophocles 'Antigone' in high school, but this version is different."

"Ismene juggles around, constantly shifting her motives. I've learned a lot; each character one plays can add new dimensions to his personality."

Mike Rehling, Livonia sophomore, tried out for a University Theatre role for the first time this year, although he had acted in high school productions.

"I've come to know many interesting people since I've taken the role of the chorus," he said.

In Anouilh's interpretation of Antigone, the author replaced the Greek chorus with one character.

"The role of the chorus is unique," Rehling said. "He shows no emotion or set character; he only wanders on and off the stage and knows all."

Rehling is a speech and dramatics major.

"Antigone starts a 10-day run 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Fairchild Arena. The show will tour to the Wonders and McDonell Kivas.

Mock Votes Won By LBJ

President Johnson has won two mock student elections--one at Western Michigan University and one at the University of Michigan.

At Western, the Johnson-Humphrey ticket defeated the Goldwater-Miller ticket 466 to 279. Law students at U-M voted 522 for Johnson to 228 for GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater. On the state race, Western Michigan students favored Gov. George Romney to Democratic gubernatorial candidate Neil Staebler.

State In Unscheduled Game

The man who painted the schedule on the board at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Harrison Road forgot about the Wisconsin game.

The board lists the Northwestern game and then skips to the Purdue game, failing to note that the Spartans will be traveling to Madison Saturday.

It's a good bet the Spartans haven't forgotten about their date with the Badgers since a victory would even up the MSU win-loss record at 3-3.

The Badgers have the means to make life difficult for the Spartans on Saturday afternoon.

For one thing, it will be homecoming day at Madison, an event that usually brings out the best in a home team.

More important, the Badgers will outweigh the Spartans by about 15 pounds a man in the line and have the material necessary to launch a powerful passing and running attack.

Wisconsin, like MSU, has a 2-3 record this season and a 1-2 mark in Big Ten play.

The Badgers own victories over Kansas State (17-7) and Iowa (31-21) and were beaten by Notre Dame (31-21), Purdue (28-7), and Ohio State (28-3).

Wisconsin has picked up 722 yards through the air this season with quarterback Harold Brandt

Cross-Country In Top Form For Final Home Encounter

By MIKE BROOKS
State News Sports Writer

State's cross-country team will close its regular season action Friday with a home meet against Northern Illinois before venturing onto the tournament trail.

State has won three of its four dual meets this season. The Spartans were beaten by a powerful Notre Dame squad last week.

Northern Illinois will enter the meet with a 5-1 record.

A setback at the hands of Western Michigan was only Northern's second loss in their last 31 dual meets.

Northern has two excellent runners in Captain Mike Ristau and Pat Brogan.

State should be at full strength this week for the first time all season. Team co-captain Jan Bowen and Keith Coates, both of whom have been injured, will be back in the lineup Friday.

Coach Dittrich will be counting on good performances from a sophomore, two juniors, and two seniors. Sophomore George Balthrop placed tenth in the last two meets, and Dittrich expects him to move up this week.

Junior Eric Zemper was the first Spartan to finish in the Notre Dame meet as he took fourth. Zemper finished second behind Jan Bowen in the victories over Indiana and Wisconsin, and then reversed the order as he paced a Spartan win over Minnesota while Bowen settled for third.

Bowen, a senior, sat out the Notre Dame meet with a bruised heel, but has looked strong in practices during the week.

Dittrich said that he is also depending on junior Paul McCollam and senior co-captain Mike Kaines to capture key places.

McCollam and Kaines have been the number three and four runners all season.

Senior Jack Amie also figured in the scoring of last week's meet, and could help the Spartans Friday.

The meet will be run on the four-mile Forest Akers course at 4 p.m. Since Northern Illinois has run all its meets this season on three-and-a-half-mile layouts, the Spartans may have a slight advantage.

This will be the first meeting of the schools in cross-country.

DANNY LITWHILER

A FRUITFUL FALL—LITWHILER

Batters Call Recess To Drills

Students were probably so busy talking about football while they were walking by Old College field this fall that they didn't notice the baseball team was practicing.

About 40 members and prospective members of the 1965 MSU varsity team spent the early days of the fall term keeping in shape and getting to know each other.

"We had some good workouts outdoors until bad weather chased us in," said Spartan Coach Danny Litwhiler.

Litwhiler said he didn't think fall practice was as important as it was last season since most of the players took part in summer leagues this year.

Bunting and base-stealing were stressed at the outdoor sessions since the Spartans will lose most of their power from last year's team.

"Last year we could sit back and wait until the seventh or eighth inning and hope to explode," he said.

"But this season we'll have to steal runs."

Litwhiler said he thinks the 1965 team will have to make the most of each man who reaches first base and has a theory about how to win games in this manner.

"If we can learn to hunt and steal, I'm hoping we can score one run an inning."

Most of the Spartans have quit practicing entirely for the fall but a few are still working-out indoors to sharpen up their play.

The next step for Spartan diamondmen is to wait until Feb. 8 when spring practice will begin in the Men's LM.

The Spartans had a successful 22-12 season and hope to better their record in 1965.

Two Reserves Back Starting Eleven For Spartans In Soccer

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State will battle Ohio University this Saturday at the Spartan soccer field, and Coach Gene Kenney is anything but optimistic about the encounter.

"We went into the last game thinking that we'd have no trouble, and look what happened," remarked Kenney. "If our players don't pick up quickly, we may be in trouble."

State's 3-3 tie with Indiana last week is still quite fresh in Kenney's mind, and he is hoping to see a repeat performance.

For Kenney, the game was a poor one from all aspects, but injuries, which figured highly in the results, have not been removed from the picture.

Van Dimitriou and Karl Thiele are both lost to the team with knee injuries. Clare DeBoer, at outside right, still has not completely recovered from a similar ailment sustained in the season opener, and has been of little use to the team.

MSU will be forced to go with only 13 players (there are 11 on a team), which leaves little margin for injury.

An upset by Ohio would dampen State's prospects for another Midwest Soccer Conference title, and Coach Kenney refuses to take any chances.

Several inter-squad scrimmages are scheduled for this week, and Kenney expects to see a rejuvenated team.

Kenney has also planned a reshuffling of his line-up for Saturday's contest. Three major moves will send Nick Krat to the forward line, Denny Chechett to the center half slot and George Janes to outside right.

Ski Club Sponsors Film

The MSU Ski Club will sponsor a film at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 8, in the Lansing Civic Center.

Tickets are available from all ski clubs in the Lansing area.

The movie, "The Sound of Skiing," was produced and narrated by Warren Miller, one of the world's leading winter sports cinematographers.

Shot at world-famous ski locales, it features past and present champions in action.

This is the only fall event scheduled by the club, which meets only during the winter term at the Union on Tuesday nights.

Captain Raps Romney, Resigns

DETROIT (UPI)—Capt. Don H. Ball, commanding officer of the Michigan National Guard's 126th Public Information Detachment, resigned Wednesday with a blast at Gov. George Romney for firing three top guard officers earlier this month.

"To carry out my duties honestly," Ball said in a letter to his superiors, "I must have full confidence and trust in the integrity and honor of the commander-in-chief and commanding general. I no longer can place confidence or trust in them."

On Oct. 7 Romney dismissed Ronald McDonald, the Michigan adjutant general, Quartermaster General Carson Neifert and Neifert's assistant, Lt. Col. Versel Case.

They were dismissed following an auditor general's report of irregularities in the administration of the Guard, including the illegal sale of state lands.

Ball said McDonald was dismissed "without a hearing or without an opportunity to publicly defend himself."

"If a general officer with a long and distinguished record of service such as the adjutant general can be dismissed summarily on charges made by fellow officers culpable guilty of collaboration or ignorance, there is little hope of justice from the commander-in-chief (Romney)."

Jobs Available For Christmas

The Student Employment Office will kick off its annual Christmas job program today according to Tom Rand, assistant director of the Placement Bureau.

Students who will want to get jobs through the program must plan to be in the Lansing area during the Christmas vacation, Rand said.

He added that many employers may require students hired for Christmas to begin working part-time in November to become familiar with the job.

"Since most holiday employment opportunities are with retail stores, students with experience as salesclerks and cashiers will have the best chance of being hired," he said.

Last year 128 students were employed through the program and received a total income of over $12,000.

Interested students should report for applications and interviews to the Student Employment Office in the Placement Bureau beginning Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

The MSU Conservative Club, with the aid of the Lansing Patriotic Society, will hold the first in a series of eight sessions on the menace and methods of the Communists tonight at 7:30 in 34 Union.

Each session will feature a tape followed by a discussion. "Cybernetic Warfare" by Herbert Philbrick, former FBI counter-espionage agent will be shown tonight.

West Landon Sets Halloween Party

Skits by freshmen and transfer students will be featured at a Halloween party, sponsored by West Landon students.

at 7:30 p.m. in the recreation room. Cider and donuts will be served at the party which is closed to girls living outside of Landon.
