WKAR-FM Sets New Programs

MSU radio station WKAR will be beeping out some new sounds via its FM station starting March 1 from its headquarters on the 4th floor of the MSU Auditorium.

WKAR - AM will continue to broadcast university extension and continuing education oriented programs, but WKAR-FM at 90.5 megacycles, will be presenting a completely new format, geared to tastes of the entire MSU community and surrounding areas.

"New programming horizons are open to the discriminating listener of WKAR - FM," said Dick Estell, station manager.

Programs in classical music, folk music, jazz and opera will be presented by MSU faculty and staff. Other programs will feature lectures from campus, poetry, Broadway musicals each day, weekly Toscanini concerts, sportscasts and live broadcasts of the New York Philharmonic.

WKAR's staff of 23 full-time employees and 16 part-time student employees will be presenting many special programs of particular interest to students.

A daily "On Campus" program starting at 10 a.m. will feature campus discussions, news on campus and perhaps even entire non-credit courses.

Brian Rublein will host a Thursday evening program called "Jazz Composite" from 9 p.m. to midnight and Bill Armistead will present "This is Folk Music" Fridays at 11 p.m.

Ken Beachler will host an early morning music and news program starting at 6:30 a.m., a new starting time for WKAR.

The station will sign off at midnight on Monday thru Saturday.

Hays Award Set Tonight

The first James G. Hays Award will be presented tonight to an administrator who has gone beyond the call of duty in helping students. Bob Harris, AUSG president said.

The award will be an annual presentation. It will be presented during intermission of "The Lettermen" concert tonight and the winner will receive a loving cup. A permanent plaque will bear the names of all recipients.

Hays, an MSU graduate, has donated over $42,000 to a loan fund in memory of his son, a journalism student who died shortly after graduation.

A former dairy extension specialist on the MSU staff, Hays makes talks on the anatomy of cows all over the country and donates the proceeds to this fund.

Viet Nam Is 'Not Hopeless' —McNamara

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara described the Viet Nam crisis Tuesday as "grave but by no means hopeless," and expressed doubt the Red Chinese would step in with a major attack.

Despite Peking's militancy, McNamara said in a report to the House Armed Services Committee, the Red Chinese "have shown great caution when confronted with a determined display of military power."

Both Peking and Moscow, he added, can be expected to stir up as much trouble as they can "whenever and wherever they can do so safely, without a 'head-on' collision with U.S. military power."

He made clear that he saw no alternative than for the United States to remain in South Viet Nam, supporting the government against Communist guerillas. He described the war as a key to stemming Communist expansion not only in Asia but in other developing nations.

A Red victory in South Viet Nam, he said, would greatly increase Peking's prestige, would be claimed as proof of the success of its hard-line policy and would strengthen Red China's hand in its leadership battle with Russia.

Leaving the committee room, McNamara told newsmen that greater efforts will be required of South Viet Nam in the coming year, including a boost in its military force. This may require a small increase in the number of Americans sent there to help with training, as well as more combat equipment, he said.

Looking into the future, McNamara saw a most disturbing prospect in Peking's determination to produce modern nuclear armaments.

Although it may be a slow road for the Red Chinese, McNamara said, "there is no reason to suppose that the Chinese cannot in time produce medium-range and even long-range ballistic missile systems and arm them with thermonuclear warheads."

"Given the hostility the regime has shown, this is a most disturbing long-range prospect," he said.

Civil Rights Hearing

Police Apathy Related

Editor's Note: Jim Sterba is in Mississippi to cover the hearings of the Civil Rights Commission.

By JIM STERBA

JACKSON, Miss.—The Civil Rights Commission was told of brutal beatings and do-nothing law enforcers Thursday, as its probe into the abuses of justice continued.

Yale graduate student Bruce P. Payne, a civil rights worker, told of a beating he and co-worker, George Green, received in September, 1963.

Payne, who supplied car license numbers and identified pictures for the FBI, said four men were arrested and released by the local sheriff shortly after the incident.

"The sheriff said if you make trouble, there's going to be some slow walking and some sad singing," Payne testified.

Next, the commission questioned white-haired, pompous T. J. Lawrence, the district attorney for the area in which Payne and Green were beaten.

Lawrence said he could not find Payne and Green to testify, so he released the suspects. He said he held the grand jury over time, waiting for Payne to show, even though he didn't know whether Payne had been notified.

The grand jury met more than a year after the incident occurred. "I have informed him personally and officially that I want him to come to the next grand jury session in May to testify," Lawrence said in a grand style after spotting Payne in the commission hearing room.

"I find myself wondering why all this zeal now and none before," said Harvard law dean Ervin N. Griswold.

Janitor Alfred Whitley, of Natchez, said he was attacked, beaten with bullwhips, and shot at, after being stopped on his way home from work last February.

Whitley said eight men with guns drove him to a swamp, tore off his clothes and whipped him "till they didn't feel like whipping" no more.

Whitley said the men wanted to know the name of the white Negro leader in Natchez.

"I told you all the truth that's in me," Whitley said he told the men who were beating him.

"Then one of the men put a gun under my nose and said, 'nigger, smell what you're gonna die of,'" Whitley said.

Commission chairman John A. Hannah's face cringed when Whit-

LONE RANGER?—At least one person is preparing himself for the donkey basketball game Saturday at the Judging Pavilion at 8 p.m. In fact he is probably recommending to the motorcyclist to get a donkey.

Donkeys, Logs Included On Winter Carny Agenda

Donkeys, singers, log-rollers and fairs will combine to fill the final weekend of Winter Carnival.

The "Lettermen," popular singing group, will perform in Jensen Fieldhouse tonight at 8 and student leaders will battle faculty in the annual donkey basketball game Saturday night.

Tickets for the "Lettermen" are $1.50 a person and the donkey basketball costs 50 cents. They are available all day at the Union, from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the International Center, from 5 to 7 p.m. in Conrad Auditorium and Wilson and Brody Halls, and will also be sold at the door of the two events.

An improved sound system has been installed in Jensen for the concert, Warren Platt, All University Student Government president for special projects, said. "It should sound better than Homecoming."

The doors will not open until 7:30 p.m., Platt said. There are no reserved seats.

He stressed that there should be enough tickets at the door for everyone who wants to come.

Saturday's activities will begin at 10 a.m. at the IM outdoor pool with a log-rolling contest. The winner will be the person who maintains his balance on the log longest.

Following this will be a log-chopping contest to see who can cut through a 12-inch piece of wood the fastest.

A tall-tale telling contest will be next in the IM dirt arena. The winner will tell his tale on regional television at the half-time of Saturday afternoon's basketball game with Illinois. He will also enter the national tall-tale telling contest.

A special events trophy will go to the person who wins the most points in the combined events.

The basketball game on donkey-back will be at 8 p.m. Saturday in the judging pavilion.

On the student team will be Bob Harris, AUSG president; Warren Platt, AUSG vice president for special projects; John Van Gieson, State News editor; Dick Sawdy, Union Board president; Bruce Osterink, Mr. MSU; Artie Langer, State News advertising manager; Jim Bannan and Jim Tuman, former Union

Judiciary Proposal Eliminated

By JO BUMBARGER
State News AUSG Writer

The re-evaluation committee's proposal for changes in student government without the judiciary section--will be presented to the student body in a referendum March 9, pending final approval by Student Congress next Wednesday.

Congress gave preliminary approval to the proposal Wednesday night with minor changes in wording, but voted down presenting the section providing for a student judiciary in the referendum.

A question of interpretation arose over the judiciary section. Speaker Howie Wilchins ruled that the vote meant the constitution will be presented without a judiciary section. He thinks that the proposed constitution will also eliminate the present judiciary since it is an integral part of student government.

Other Congress members felt the vote indicated that the constitution will be voted on as a whole rather than in two separate parts.

The committee, which has been working on a revised and coordinated student government structure since last spring term, had requested that the constitution be presented on the ballot in such a way that a "no" vote on the judiciary will not affect the rest of the constitution.

The proposed constitution would give student decision-making responsibility to a 14-member student board.

The board would consist of the chief executive officers of existing bodies concerned with men's residence halls, fraternities, off-campus students, cooperative living units, women's residence halls, sororities and

New Miss MSU 'Never Dreamed' Of Winning

How does it feel to be Miss MSU, Anne?

"Oh, it's just wonderful!" With these words pretty, green-eyed Anne Lawrenz began her reign as Miss MSU of 1965-66 Wednesday night.

Selected from a field of contestants at the Ice Arena pageant, the tall, brown-haired Franklin sophomore displayed her poise and talent by competing in evening gown and bathing suit attire and performing vocally.

Anne, a music education major, displayed a lovely soprano voice in the talent competition and appeared in evening gown competition in a gold velvet gown with a white sequined top.

Before an audience of over 1,000, the 10 semi-finalists appeared before judges Jerry Kelly, manager of Jacobson's beauty salon; Mrs. Naomi Wold, director of the International Club; Jack Bushong, executive director of the Miss Michigan pageant; Mrs. Bushong; and Barry Christy, production director of the Miss Lansing pageant.

MC Sherm Brown of radio WJIM, introduced the contestants as they stepped from a replica of a Swiss chalet onto the stage to entertain with acts ranging from vocal numbers to gymnastics.

Harriet Davidson, Lansing sophomore, second runner-up; and Annette Abrams, Lansing freshman, first runner-up and winner of the Miss Congeniality award, received a rousing ovation from the audience as the contest drew to a close.

Expression Or Repression?

University officials have apparently decided to re-examine their policy regarding distribution by students of written and printed materials in residence halls. The decision grew out of the distribution Monday night of the second issue of "Logos: The Voice of CSR," the newsletter of the Committee for Students Rights.

The success with which CSR distributed its pamphlet, in nearly every dorm and in violation of existing regulations, has indicated that perhaps, as John A. Fuzak, vice president for student affairs, said, the application of the rules is not consistent with their intent.

The current rules, which were adopted from policies of Men's Halls Association and Women's Inter-Residence Council, were devised primarily to maintain order in the residence halls. This involves preventing the unnecessary littering of buildings, protecting the rights of privacy of residents and limiting the use of the dorms by commercial interests for free advertising.

"There is no intent in terms to inhibit or interfere with freedom of expression or freedom of speech," Fuzak said.

Monday's distribution of Logos raised question among some dormitory authorities which were not explicitly answered in the regulations and it is for this reason that Fuzak recommended Wednesday that MHA and WIC re-evaluate their positions on this matter, to see if the rules cannot be broadened.

The current regulations limit permission to distribute materials in residence halls to recognized groups. Permission must be obtained in advance either from the Division of Residence Halls or from the individual dorm management. The rules are explicit that "no advertising for commercial or non-University groups should be accepted."

This leaves a question of whether an unchartered student group such as CSR has any rights to distribute or is to be considered a "non-University group." The rules make no provision at all for an individual student who might wish to distribute material on his own.

Fuzak said he would like to see a revision of the rules which would permit a student or an unrecognized group, with permission of dormitory authorities but not necessarily with any kind of prior censorship, to leave materials or offers of materials in public areas of dorms.

A few head advisers of dormitories, reacting on their own to the distribution of Logos in their halls, said any such action was in violation of University rules. This fact alone indicates that the current regulation is not explicit enough on what types of distribution are legal, and particularly on the status of unchartered groups and individuals.

There is no argument with the position that the University must establish rules to keep solicitors, salesmen, handbill and sample distributors and other outside interests out of the dorms. Likewise, it is reasonable to ask that students cooperate with dorm managers in maintaining a neat and orderly atmosphere in the dorms.

But there is a definite need to expand opportunities for the free and unlimited expression of student ideas by individuals and by student groups. The only requirement should be that order is maintained and that there is no interference with individual rights of either the distributors and the potential audience.

Write Away

The Red Cedar Review is currently waging its annual battle with the student body, attempting to arouse enough interest in the University's only creative writing publication to fill a single issue with first-class material.

The Red Cedar Review is published each spring by the English Department. Each winter since its inception three years ago its staff has had to struggle to find enough short stories, essays, poetry and art work in to allow selection of the best material available. This year, the response has been so poor that the editors, reluctantly may have to publish only the winners of last spring's creative writing contest. They would prefer to consider the contest winners as only part of the eligible material.

The consideration deadline is April 1, and contributions can be mailed to Red Cedar Review, care of the English Department, Morrill Hall, or left with the department secretaries.

In a letter to the State News, an editor of Red Cedar Review wrote:

"Could it be that creativity (other than the 'creation' of brick edifices) is at a standstill at Michigan State? I find it hard to believe that out of a student body of 30,000 students there are only 20 or 30 people who have any creative ability.

"Surely somewhere in the vast wilderness which extends past Berkey Hall to the Fee and Akers complex and west towards the Brody group, there must be some writers and artists, some people who have something to say and want to tell it to someone."

There must be such people somewhere, and they should jump at the chance to see their work in print in a well-run and attractive University-wide publication such as Red Cedar Review. Aside from the local thrill of seeing one's work in print, it should be borne in mind that college magazines are frequently important jumping-off points for up-and-coming writers and artists.

Red Cedar Review deserves the support of the entire student body, and particularly of those members of the student body with creative talent and the urge to be known for it. When it appears in May, it should represent a selection of the best in campus writing and art, and not a barely-sufficient collection of all that could be found.

Letters To The Editor

Wine, Women And MSU

To the Editor:

Dear "Name Withheld" (Feb. 11): After reading your highly amusing letter in Wednesday's State News, I felt compelled to make my own comments about such things as "lower beer drinking age, sale of liquor in East Lansing, and no hours for women."

My opinion is that the realization of these dreams is the best thing that could happen to this University.

The lower beer-drinking age does not seem to do that much harm to the scholastic standing of places like Ohio State and Wisconsin. If we happen to be a better University, I seriously doubt that it is because of beer-drinking.

New York State still has its share of good schools, unless you would like to knock down places like Cornell, Columbia, Rochester, Syracuse and a good half-dozen others. Yet, any student at any one of those universities can buy beer or liquor, and drink it wherever he or she sees fit.

And while on the subject, take a look at our country's Big Three Most Respected Schools: Yale, Harvard, Princeton. Each of these has a special arrangement with the state in which it exists, by which liquor can be obtained with a signature and a student ID card.

Perhaps MSU could move to catch these schools if we formulated some liberal policies.

Most of those colleges cited also have no restrictions on members of the opposite sex in living quarters, and those that have coeds are, shall we say, not quite as motherly as Doc Hannah.

So let's get with it, MSU, and, to the man I'm writing to, let's see your name next time. If you're ashamed to sign it in public, please give me a call and I'll be happy to discuss these matters with you.

CSR's Efforts Bring Change

To the Editor:

Having accepted the fact that social change is inevitable, we are faced with the problem of rate of change. Some parts of our society change rapidly; others change more slowly. The resulting change between the fast and the slow has been felt before, and will be felt again.

It is making its presence felt in this university now. While future teachers embrace new methods of motivation in the education building, compulsory attendance is demanded from across campus. While MSU coeds try to assume the new freedom and responsibility expected of them in other quarters, protective university rules refuse both. While more interest and responsibility in political affairs is demanded of our generation, the university fails to allow more opportunity for political involvement.

Such friction is with us now, and will probably remain long after our graduation. As students, we might as well face the facts that wrongs will be done and persons will be hurt as the process of change continues.

But as human beings, hopefully capable of improving our lot, we can also try to facilitate change as rationally, maturely, and humanely as possible.

It is my hope that the newly formed Committee for Student Rights will take this approach, as I believe they have indicated they will. I hope they receive firm student support in their endeavors.

Most of all, I hope the proper university officials cooperate, at least initially, in the intended spirit. If CSR achieves no more than setting the stage for future changes, the effort will be worthwhile.

The College Business

To the Editor:

I've been doing some serious thinking lately regarding college. I've discovered that it's quite a disappointment, to a certain degree. I've come to the conclusion that college is a business.

Tests are "curved" so that even if no one learns anything, everyone can get passing grades. Tests are tests, not of learned material, but they are games of wits.

If you can "out-fox" the professor's scheme, you can pass the test. Questions are not straight-forward, they are twisted, and revised, and jumbled to check your problem-solving and content-digging abilities, rather than your learning.

Students of the University are not students—they are businessmen and women. Each day they attend lectures, and take notes on the opponent's interests and strategies.

Each night they read, and plot, and plan for the final—the bargaining session, where the students and faculty quibble, and argue, and bargain until a "price" (curve) is decided upon, and the student leaves with his purchase, (a three-point, a diploma, or some scholastic prize).

There is no joy in learning. There is no appreciation for finding out "why," or "how," or just "what" something is.

It's really sad that these people are unable to really like learning. It's a shame that they lack the imagination to find excitement in geography, natural science or philosophy.

Perhaps, if our goals were not directed at the tinsel (a three-point), and the hollow (a diploma); perhaps if our goals were satisfaction of intellect, and peace of mind — perhaps if these were our motives, college would be a glad "market-place" (glad because the students would be aware of the exciting and alive world of learning).

Go Right Through For MSU

By DON SOCKOL

Water Carnival convocation was held recently. For the benefit of new students, Water Carnival is an annual marine extravaganza, unique to Michigan State. It takes place on "the Nile of the Land Grant Universities," the mighty and wrathful Red Cedar River.

This year, Water Carnival will be more exciting than it has ever been if the rumors abroad are true. Here is what the rumors say.

It is still all very secretive. But late at night, on the shores of Lake Lansing, five MSU students have been working feverishly every night for the past two weeks. By slipping some money into the right palms, I managed to find out (though not through official channels) what they are building and why.

Here's the scoop! These five MSU students are building a Water Carnival float, but not an ordinary float by any means. They intend to fly with it to England, and then come back the hard way.

The plan to make a TRANS-ATLANTIC CROSSING ON A WATER CARNIVAL FLOAT.

They will leave from Dover, England, cross the Atlantic, and arrive in New York. They will float up the St. Lawrence Seaway into Canada, down through the Great Lakes and finally into the majestic stream of the Red Cedar, timing their arrival for the opening night of Water Carnival in May.

While this is still rumor, we can only hope it will prove true. With so much complaint of student apathy, it is indeed a healthy indication when five students are willing to risk their time and lives in support of a Michigan State activity.

Editor's Note:

What Price State Schools?

By John Van Gieson

You can count on some things happening around here with monotonous regularity. The Gables is packed by 10 o'clock on Wednesday nights, nature lovers study anatomy along the Red Cedar spring term, the basketball team loses and legislators demand limitations on out-of-state enrollment.

The latest to fall into the last category was Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, who rapped State and our friends down in Double-A for admitting too many out-of-state students.

An Associated Press story reporting Bowman's statements said: "Bowman, taking advantage of a slow night in legislative activity, suggested the two state schools should become more interested in educating Michigan students than in becoming national universities."

He went on to say that "he is tired of getting calls from constituents who complain about paying taxes, then can't get their children into Michigan or Michigan State because they're crowded out by out-of-staters."

We're pleased that Bowman has the interests of his constituents at heart, but doubt that mere payments of taxes is in itself a guarantee of admission to college. Certainly there are other factors that must be considered; things like ability and motivation.

If little Johnny or Mary isn't capable of doing college work or doesn't want to attend college why should this state's institutions be forced to waste valuable facilities providing a parking place for the products of excessive parental ambition?

Johnny and Mary and all the taxpayers of this Water-Winter Wonderland will benefit more if Johnny and Mary stay at home in Escanaba, Saginaw, White Pigeon or Detroit and pump gas, clerk in banks or raise well-adjusted babies.

And the places they might have occupied in Michigan classes should go to a certain number of out-of-staters who can and will contribute much to all phases of campus life.

But the fact that not all Michigan residents are qualified or able to attend a state-supported college doesn't mean all out-of-state students seeking entrance who happen to qualify should be admitted. State's current out-of-state enrollment of 17 per cent seems to be an ideal figure as long as this school's rapid expansion continues.

We fail to see how anyone can criticize a university that takes 4,000 students in one year while at the same time decreasing its out-of-state enrollment (a few years ago the out-of-staters totaled 20 per cent) for not doing enough for Michigan residents.

Bowman said this state's educational titans should pay less attention to becoming national universities. We submit that such an appeal is fallacious in this age of educational crisis. This world needs educated men from all its four corners. Michigan legislators should be proud of the role they play in providing such men, whether they call Michigan, Miami or Manila home.

More Trouble In The Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE.—Soldiers from Uganda and Congolese rebels have attacked the Congo on two fronts and overran an outpost near the border, military sources here claimed Thursday.

The fighting followed Ugandan charges that Congolese planes bombed two villages in Uganda last week and that the Congolese Army attacked a frontier post near Lake Edward.

Apparent objective of the attacks is the airport at Bunia, capital of Kibali-Ituri Province. It is the only airport close to the frontier with Uganda and the Ugandans apparently think the attack on the villages came from there.

Mob Hits U.S. Consulate

JAKARTA, Indonesia—A mob of communist-inspired youths attacked the U.S. consulate in Medan Thursday in the fifth such assault on official American properties in Indonesia in the last six months. As in the past, U.S. diplomats protested.

The outburst at Medan, a Sumatran trade and manufacturing center 850 miles northwest of Jakarta, was accompanied by an indication that President Sukarno's government intends to take over supervision of U.S.-owned rubber estates in northern Sumatra.

Red's Puppet Quibbles In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS.—Albania, Red China's spokesman in the United Nations, Thursday, renewed its efforts to upset a no-vote truce aimed at averting a U.S.-Soviet showdown on Soviet voting rights in the General Assembly.

The Albanian move came after a brief uproar in which Albanian delegate Halim Budo took the rostrum without recognition of the assembly president and continued to shout despite repeated banging of the gavel.

U.S. Avoids U.N. Showdown

UNITED NATIONS.—The United States avoided a showdown on Soviet voting rights Thursday by agreeing to permit a procedural vote in the U.N. General Assembly without attempting to block Soviet voting.

Ranger To Upset Tranquility

PASADENA.—The Camera-carrying Ranger 8 spacecraft is on target for a Saturday landing on the Sea of Tranquility, scientists said Thursday.

And, they added, the pictures it is expected to radio back should be better than the 4,316 transmitted by Ranger 7 last July 31.

11 Bases Deactivated

SAN FRANCISCO.—The 12th Naval District was advised Thursday by the Department of Defense to inactivate 11 San Francisco-based ships and 23 Hawaii-based planes by the Distant Early Warning (DEW) lines.

This will be accomplished by the end of 1965.

Hundreds Mourn Cole

LOS ANGELES.—Four hundred mourners, including famous names in the entertainment world, sat silently in St. James Episcopal Church, Thursday and heard singer Nat (King) Cole eulogized by Jack Benny as a man "who gave so much and still had so much more to give."

Three files of quiet spectators lined Wilshire Boulevard to observe the arrival of such figures as Danny Thomas, Peter Lawford and his wife, Patricia Kennedy Lawford, Dorothy Dandridge, Ricardo Montalban and Stan Kenton.

Youths Charge St. Johns U

NEW YORK.—Some 300 Negro school children, some of them mentally and emotionally handicapped, Thursday charged St. John's University in Brooklyn, scene of a racial riot Wednesday. But mounted police kept them moving and they overshot their target.

The marchers eventually disbanded in busy Fulton Street, where windows were smashed, bricks thrown and women shoppers sent scurrying fearfully into stores to avoid the demonstrators.

Five adults and 15 youngsters were arrested. There were no injuries.

Indian Riots Continue

NEW DELHI.—Police opened fire on a mob Thursday in the south India State of Andhra Pradesh during a new outbreak of language rioting.

First reports said two persons were injured when police fired during an attack on Taluk police station in the town of Hindpur. Police reinforcements were being rushed to the town of about 20,000 population.

College Desegregates
As Hearings Continue

By JAMES STERBA

State News Admin. Writer

JACKSON, Miss.—Since the Civil Rights Commission began holding hearings in Mississippi, State officials have spilled over with pledges of law and order.

Millsaps College, an all-white Methodist school in Jackson, announced Wednesday that it would desegregate. Officials at Millsaps said the reason for the desegregation move was that school officials recognize the need of equal rights for all, and that the college could lose its federal monies if it didn't.

The Mississippi Sheriffs Association signed a pledge that it will enforce law and order fairly and equally to all citizens.

Businessmen and townspeople from all over Mississippi have signed papers saying that they will obey the law.

But Aaron Henry, NAACP head in the state, said Wednesday that promises on the part of the governor and other public officials are of no value.

"I don't think Gov. Johnson is the least bit sincere," Henry said. "You wait til the Commission goes back to Washington."

Charles Evers, brother of the late Medgar Evers and NAACP leader, said the Negro in Mississippi only wants his share. He doesn't want to take over.

"When the poor white wakes up to the fact that he is being used by the white political power in this state, then we'll free Mississippi," Evers said.

"Give us a federal registrar's bill next fall and the Civil Rights Commission won't have to come here any more," Evers told the Commission.

Evers said he thought the vote was the key power the Negro had. But currently only about 6.7 per cent of the Negro population is registered to vote.

The Commission finished testimony on voting rights Wednesday after hearing many Negroes tell of their vain tries to register.

James Rayburn, 63-year-old resident of Tallahatchie County, said that when he went to vote a man told him to go out and sit under a tree.

"If you vote this time, you'll never vote again," said the man, with an iron stick in his hand.

When asked if it ever occurred to him to call the police, Rayburn said, "Yes, it did occur to me, but that would just make matters worse."

"They told me they was going to kill me," he said. "But the time has done passed to be afraid."

Dorothy M. Foster said that after she tried to vote, some men came to her house and handed her a card.

"Ku Klux Klan is watching and waiting. Don't be misled. Let your conscience be your guide. Ku Klux Klans," the card read.

Arthur James R. Prothro perhaps best summed up Mississippi plight when he testified to the Commission:

"I drew a Southernisms scale and Mississippi was off the page."

Whites say the State has changed and is still changing. Negroes prefer to be skeptical and just wait and see.

Close Look
At Space
Scheduled

A close look at what science may find in its probes of outer space will be featured during the newest public program beginning Friday at Abrams Planetarium.

"Frontiers of Space," which continues through March 28, will be presented Fridays at 7 and 8:30 p.m., Saturdays at 2:30 and 8 p.m., and Sundays at 2:30 and 4 p.m.

A highlight of the new program will be a discussion of a planned outer-space observatory. The observatory, to be launched into orbit this year, will provide scientists with a view of outer space as it appears outside the earth's atmosphere.

A model of the planned observatory will be projected on the planetarium dome. Also projected on the dome will be a simulated space probe as it passes through a comet trail.

The program also will supply possible answers to what has become a critical question: What will be the most important development of future outer space probes?

Results of future flights could include manned colonies in outer space and discovery of new, valuable materials.

Illini Court Battle Heads 5-Sport Home Slate

GYM'S RON AURE

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

The University of Illinois, still in the Big Ten basketball race with a 6-2 mark, heads for East Lansing Saturday and win number seven.

Michigan State will attempt to block the title drive in a 2 p.m. contest at Jenion Fieldhouse. The hard-luck Spartans, 0-8 and dead last in the conference, have had the whole week off to prepare for the Illini after dropping a 98-83 decision to league-leading University of Michigan last Saturday.

Illinois lost to Minnesota (7-1) 105-90 Saturday, but came back to rout Ohio State 95-72 Tuesday and stay in contention for the championship.

The Illini present an experienced ball club with a starting lineup of four seniors and a junior.

"They're a very poised team," said State coach Fordey Anderson. "They have more finesse than Michigan and are a slick ball handling team."

Junior guard Jim Vopicka joins seniors Bogie Redman, Don Freeman, Skip Thoren and Tal Brody in the Illini starting lineup.

Anderson rates Thoren (6-8) as one of the better centers in the Big Ten. He also said that his club would especially have to watch Freeman, a 6-1 forward. Thoren is averaging better than 24 points a game and Freeman carries a 17.8 mark.

Redman (6-5) plays forward and center equally well and the Illinois bench, headed by forward Bob Johansen and guard Jim Dawsen, gives coach Harry Combes one of the best-balanced teams in the conference.

Anderson said he expected Illinois to employ a press defense against his club, a device which other schools have used with great success against the Spartans this year.

"I'm going to look for the press," he said, "so the theme this week is to practice on our passing. We'll have to get rid of the ball with sharp snap passes as we did last year against them."

State dumped the Illini 85-82 last season with a minimum of dribbling and a maximum of passing.

Anderson pointed out that the Spartans committed 14 bad passes and had 25 turnovers last week against Michigan. The turnovers proved to be their downfall, because State shot a respectable 50 per cent and out-rebounded the Wolverines 46-45.

State is expected to go with Capt. Marcus Sanders and junior Stan Washington at the guards. Washington is the team's leading scorer, edging out center Bill Curtis 20.4-20.1, and Sanders is right behind at 17.4.

Curtis, a 6-4 junior, has hauled down more than ten rebounds per game to lead the team in that department.

The ranks grow thinner after that with sophomore Ted Cray and senior Mark Vander Jagt the probable starting forwards. Both are averaging less than eight points a game.

Cray came up with 14 points against Michigan, however, and may give some much needed scoring support.

"Ted was trying so hard that he began to press, I hope he had found himself," Anderson said.

Anderson also said that despite the gloomy season thus far, the ball club was not going to roll over and give up.

"Once again, we're not running up the surrender flag," he said. "We've got to get the lid off sometime, and I think it's about time we got a lucky break for a change."

A win would probably give the Spartans a ninth-place tie with Wisconsin, as the Badgers (1-7) must meet fifth-place Indiana at Bloomington. The Hoosiers have been beaten only once at home this year—a 96-95 double overtime decision to Michigan.

Wrestlers Make Final IM Appearance

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

There will be a bit of the unusual displayed in the IM Sports Arena this Saturday evening when State's wrestling team hosts the State College of Iowa.

Due to a pulled leg muscle suffered by 123-pounder Gary Smith in practice, mat coach Grady Peninger has been forced to call upon one of State's soccer players to replace the Oklahoma senior.

John McLane, an outside right and halfback on the Spartan soccer team, will handle the regular duties of Smith for this match. Having only previous wrestling experience in high school, McLane will participate in his first college meet.

Fortunately for Peninger and his strongboys, Smith will only be out of action for one week. Smith, who owns an 8-3 dual meet record, is expected to return to the line-up for the Michigan match next weekend.

"You just don't lose a boy like Smith without being hurt," said Peninger when asked if Smith's loss would hinder State's chances against the State College of Iowa. "Gary has been a valuable asset in making this season a success."

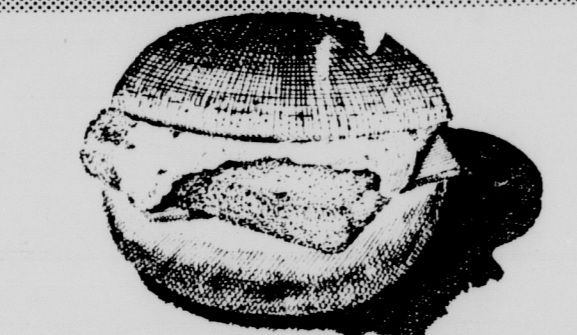

Smith is the only 123-pound wrestler on the Spartan squad.

"Our main concern at the present," said Peninger, "is to keep Smith in shape for the Michigan meet. We're going to need him then."

Except for Smith, all Spartan regulars return to action. Two of the grapplers, Don Behm and Dick Cook, are hopeful of retaining their undefeated records.

Behm at 130 pounds has won nine straight in dual meets while 147-pounder Cook has compiled an overall 15-0-1 mark. Both Behm and Cook are considered by Peninger as prime contenders for Big Ten titles. The conference championship meet will be at Ohio State University, March 5-6.

In this their last home appearance of the season, the Spartans will be out to improve on their 6-2-1 record.

FACE MICHIGAN TECH TWICE

Fourth-Place Puck Team Must Pick Up The Pieces

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

State's hockey team will have little time to brood over Wednesday night's 7-2 loss at the hands of the University of Michigan. The Spartans must pick up the pieces and prepare for their meeting with second-place Michigan Tech tonight at 7:30 in the Ice Arena, in the first of a two-game set.

State and Michigan are now deadlocked in fourth place in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association with respective 5-5 and 7-7 records. The Green and White must at least split the series if it still has any notions about a playoff berth.

Coach Amo Bessone and his crew have the task of analyzing the Michigan game and attempting to remedy State's mistakes before taking on the powerful Huskies.

State's defense crumbled against the Wolves. Assignments were missed, which constantly allowed Michigan to break through the line, and blister shots at goalie Gerry Fisher. Fisher made 35 saves during the game.

Captain Doug Roberts, a senior, and sophomore Mike Jacobson provided the few bright spots in the game for State, as they continued on their scoring ways.

Roberts' goal gave him a total of 45 points, adding to his team record for most points scored in a single season.

Jacobson slapped in his 26th goal of the year, to increase his record for most State goals scored in a year.

The Huskies are entering this series with an 8-5-1 record, after splitting a pair of games with Denver last weekend. Tech's coach John MacInnes is well aware of State's potential, and anticipates an exciting meet.

"With the possible exception of North Dakota, MSU has more scoring power than any other team in the league," said MacInnes. "Coach Bessone has come up with a fine group of sophomores to balance his lines. I hope we're ready for them," he said.

Regardless of the Spartan outcome against Tech, they will probably send off the Huskies with their blessing. Tech will travel to Ann Arbor following the games to tangle with the Wolverines.

CBS Meets Eye-To-Eye With Anti-Trust Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly Subcommittee began hearings Thursday on proposed legislation involving baseball and other sports.

Opening of the inquiry was concerned with sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System. At the outset, Chairman Philip Hart of Michigan said the purpose was not to determine if there was any anti-trust violation in the Yankee-CBS deal.

"I contend there is not," said Hart.

STATE IN SWIM OF THINGS

Swimmers Prime For Wildcats

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

The Spartan swimming team today is two miles closer to success than it was yesterday.

The Green and White, who face Northwestern in a dual meet Saturday, went through a typical workout Thursday that included more than two miles of swimming for each man on the squad.

MSU's rigorous practice sessions and forthcoming dual with the Wildcats have become increasingly important in the Spartans' attempt to be at their best for the conference championship meet at Madison March 4-5-6.

"We always hope to be at our peak for the Big Ten meet," Coach Charles McCaffree said. "If we aren't in our best form then, we never will be."

Saturday's meet at the IM pool will begin at 1 p.m.

In Northwestern, MSU fans will be seeing a team that has had its share of top individual performers through the years even though it has been weak in team strength.

Top performer for the Wildcats is Rick Abrams, defending Big Ten champion in the 50-yard freestyle.

Abrams was clocked in 21.6 late last season and turned in his best time this year, 22.3, at Madison. Gary Dilley tied a Spartan Varsity record last week at Ohio State when he won the 50 in 21.8.

Other Northwestern performers include Walt Leesche in the backstroke and Ray Zeason in the individual medley and breaststroke.

McCaffree said he doesn't plan to have top men swim outside their regular events.

"It's too late in the season to experiment," he said.

Although the Green and White will use their best men in each event, other places in the lineup may be switched to give other men a chance to swim.

The Spartans will enter the meet with a 9-1 overall mark and a 6-1 slate in the Big Ten. Next week MSU will face Pittsburgh and Wisconsin at home in final preparation for the league meet.

A typical Spartan practice session consists of each man swimming between 3,500 and 4,000 yards. Thursday night, for example, the squad began by swimming twelve 50-yard dashes within a specified time.

The 50's were followed by 10 additional 50's with the use of a kickboard to strengthen the swimmers' legs.

After that, the tankers reeled off five 200-yard exercises and concluded with twenty 50-yard swims within a specified time in their specialties.

The Spartans began workouts in the outdoor pool in the fall and went indoors during the first week in November.

Practices lead up to dual meets which prepare the Spartans for the Big Ten championships at the end of the year.

After the conference meet, some of the Spartans will still have work ahead of them.

Those who qualify will compete in the NCAA championships at Madison, Wis., in late March and the NAAU meet at Yale University during the first week in April.

Big Ten Gym Berth At Stake As Spartans Face Wisconsin

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

The Michigan State gymnasts close out their home-meet season Saturday, and are hoping that their final appearance at the IM Arena will provide them with an added bonus.

The Spartans will be facing Wisconsin in a dual meet beginning at 1 p.m., and will be making a final bid to grab a place at the top of the Big Ten standings. With a 3-4 season's mark State is tied with the Badgers at 3-2 in the conference. Whoever pulls out a victory in this meet will claim third place in the Big Ten as well.

State finished third in the Big Ten last year, with the Badgers behind them claiming the fourth spot. In dual meet competition, Wisconsin has yet to beat the Spartans, who've won consistently since their initial meetings. Last season, State took the annual contest by the score of 12-50.

Both teams lost to Michigan and Iowa, who will battle it out for the top spots in the conference. The Badgers just managed to eke out a victory against Illinois in their last outing. They were minus the services of their super-star, all-around man Fred Roethlisberger, who was sidelined by a pulled muscle.

According to Coach George Bauer's line-up, Roethlisberger is slated to work all-around against the Spartans. His opponent in the event looks to be Ted Wilson, who has performed in that capacity for State against Minnesota and Southern Illinois.

Jim Curzi, still bothered by an ankle injury, will be limited to four events. He's been registering outstanding performances in horizontal and parallel bars, scoring 9.75 and 9.85, respectively, in those events, against Southern Illinois Monday night. Spartan Coach George Szymul commented that if Curzi maintains his performances on parallel bars, he poses as a potential Big Ten champ in that event as well as a repeater for the title in high bar.

"Roethlisberger is one of our prime concerns," he noted. "He's been averaging 9.0 in all-around this season, and is looking towards Saturday's meets, all Schmittler could say was, 'both are going to be tough.'"

Due to an ankle injury to foilist T.S. Givens, Schmittler has been forced to seek a fourth man from a group of inexperienced fencers.

Through fence-offs, the number has been reduced from four to two. A fence-off between Sergio Montalvo, sophomore, and Ronald Macomber, senior, resulted in Montalvo's becoming the number four man in the foil division.

Schmittler added that Carl Gross, junior, will again go along as the number-four man in epee. He replaced John Mook on the traveling squad last week.

Sabre has been State's strongest weapon this year, and Schmittler will be going along with the same trio of Mark Haskell, Mel Laska, and John Cooper.

In foil, veteran Bryan Kutchins, Steve Vore, and James Fordyce will be the top three men this weekend. Don Lund, Capt. Joel Seelin and William Sierbert, will go as the three top men in epee.

exercise and side horse. He registered 8.65 in the horse event against Southern Illinois, when he was entered not to count. Ron Aure will be entered in long horse, floor exercise and trampolines.

The trampolinists have yet to pull out a substantial victory in the NCAA championships at Madison, Wis., in late March and the NAAU meet at Yale University during the first week in April.

Foilers Juggle Roster For Irish, OSU Meet

By PHIL LOOMIS
State News Sports Writer

MSU's fencing team anticipates two more tough dual meets this weekend when it faces Ohio State University and University of Notre Dame on the latter's campus, Saturday.

Heading into the final two weeks of the season before the Big Ten meet, March 6, the Spartans have their eyes set on improving the 1-2 conference record and overall record of 5-3. Both the Buckeyes and the Irish boast many veterans on their squads, giving Coach Charles Schmittler reason to worry over the outcome of the meets.

"From the information I have on the two schools," he said, "Ohio State has quite a few returning lettermen and Notre Dame has about eight lettermen back."

Looking towards Saturday's meets, all Schmittler could say was, "both are going to be tough."

Due to an ankle injury to foilist T.S. Givens, Schmittler has been forced to seek a fourth man from a group of inexperienced fencers.

Through fence-offs, the number has been reduced from four to two. A fence-off between Sergio Montalvo, sophomore, and Ronald Macomber, senior, resulted in Montalvo's becoming the number four man in the foil division.

Schmittler added that Carl Gross, junior, will again go along as the number-four man in epee. He replaced John Mook on the traveling squad last week.

Track Marks Show Badgers Have Power

Spartan trackmen need only to look at current Big Ten statistics to realize they have a big job ahead of them at Bloomington Saturday.

MSU will face Indiana and Wisconsin and so far the Badgers have shown every indication they hope to defend the Big Ten crown they won outdoors last spring.

Wisconsin performers hold the best league marks in six of 15 events, four running and two field events.

High jumper Bill Holden jumped 6-10 1/4 two weeks ago to better the existing Big Ten meet record with MSU's Mike Bowers in second place at 6-8.

Wes Schmidt leads all conference pole vaulters with a 15-31.4 effort.

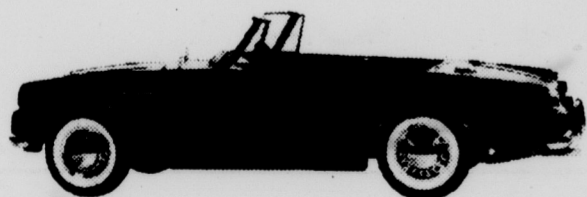

Other leaders include Barney Patterson in the 880 and 1000, Steve Whipple in the 440 and the Badger mile relay team.

MSU's Gene Washington has turned in the best performance in the 70-yard high hurdles (208.4) and is second in the 70-yard lows.

Eric Zemper is the best in the league to date in the two-mile run on the basis of the 9:12.6 turned in last week at the Michigan State Relays.

Daswell Campbell's 3:31.1 in the 300 is the second-best run in the Big Ten this year.

Baha'i Celebration Begins This Week

The International Days, the Fast and New Year—these Baha'i observances of Christmas, Lent and New Year—follow each other in rapid succession beginning Feb. 20.

The International days, also known as Ayyem-i-Ha, run from Feb. 20 to March 1. These four days are left over in the Baha'i calendar, which consists of 19 months of 19 days each.

During these days Baha'is exchange gifts, visit friends, relations and sick, acquaintances, entertain and decorate their houses. It is a time of general merrymaking and festivity. The birthday of the founder of the Baha'i Faith, Baha'u'llah, is observed with prayers and regular religious services. Merrie Gordon, foster sophomore, commented.

Also, the month of loftiness, begins March 2. During that month Baha'is abstain from food and drink from sunrise to sunset. The fast is a time of spiritual deepening and rededication in preparation for the new year, Miss Gordon said.

New Ruz, Baha'i New Year, is March 21—the first day of spring. On this day, the fast officially ends, and again there is much festivity, food and perhaps more gifts.

A program featuring the Earl Nelson singers is being planned by Lansing Baha'is for New Ruz, Miss Gordon said. As planned, the program will alternate spirituals and excerpts from the writings of Baha'u'llah. It is tentatively scheduled for 2 a.m. March 24 at Sexton High School.

The basic premise underlying the faith is the inherent oneness of all religions. All are revealed by God to man—say the Baha'is. Their apparent differences come, they say, from the fact that each of the great religious teachers tempered the message of God to the time and audience.

3 Methodists Eye Faith On Campus College Drinking

By MARY FISHER

Society has already made the decision. It has carefully determined what shall be accepted and what shall be frowned upon. These rules, however, have been made for the people who have gone before us. The question now is whether they are right for this age and for the people in it.

Our parents decided that they were right for them. They felt that this was the way to live a good life. Now it is up to us, as the upcoming generation, to make this choice for ourselves.

I am not saying that these rules are wrong. I simply say that each of us must take a long look at ourselves before we decide whether they are right for us.

America has been called a nation of sheep. The accepted "right" has been laid out for us, and the majority unquestioningly, quietly follows along. Where is the moral victory in choosing right when no other alternative is given?

God gave us the Ten Commandments to use as a guide for our lives. Beyond this, the way is not so black and white. The answer lies somewhere in vast shades of gray. This answer is, and must be, left up to you and me as individuals.

The path we choose is an individual thing. It may be right for one, but that does not mean that it is right for all. Therefore, because of this and because beyond the Ten Commandments we do not know what is right, we can not judge others for their beliefs. That must be left up to God.

So where does that leave us? What is the role of the college student in all this? Tomorrow we must take our places in the world. Tomorrow we must make the decisions and lead the way. Today we must learn—learn more than what has been printed in textbooks or lectured in class. We must learn the difference between right and wrong—individually.

Here is the victory. When each person can look at both sides and then decide which is best for him, which is right for him, we will no longer have a nation of sheep, but a nation of thinking, well-informed people.

A radical change in the Methodist attitude toward drinking among college students is recommended by three writers in "Together," the Methodist monthly family magazine.

Toleration, rather than prohibition, is advised by the writers who state that Methodism's official stand of abstinence is unrealistic, and that new, flexible policies should be instituted.

The three are Ralph W. Decker, director of the Methodist Board of Education's department of educational institutions; Lawrence Riggs, dean of students at Methodist-related DePaul University, Greencastle, Ind.; and Charles H. Lippy, college senior and editor-in-chief of The Dickinson College.

Admitting that student drinking is a serious problem, all three recommend wise control.

"Such a program involves a certain amount of permission," says Decker, a former theology professor at Boston University and one-time president of Wyoming Seminary.

"Permission," he adds, "implies approval."

Riggs and Lippy concur in the opinion that the responsibility lies with the student as to whether or not he will drink liquor. According to Lippy "outright condemnation of another because of conflicting positions has no place in Christian thinking."

Dean Riggs advises that colleges set limits, but that they deal with violations in a personal manner, rather than by imposing strict disciplinary actions.

Riggs poses in the "Together" article by asking, "Is it possible for college students, so given to conformity, to develop conformity to a nondrinking culture (on a 'dry' campus) based on facts, reason, and concern for the common good?"

This calls for a personal direction, he believes.

"We cannot do this, however," he concludes in the magazine article, "without personal conviction based on facts and a sense of respect for ourselves and others as individuals responsibly working for the common good."

These, he asserts, "are genuine Christian concerns."

3-Faces Of God

This Sunday LeRoy Augenstein will speak on "Three Faces of God" at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at the Peoples Church. Worship leader on this Laymen's Sunday will be Kenneth G. Hance, Professor of Speech and Clerk of Peoples Church.

Because of the recent fire, services will be held in the State Theatre, 215 Abbott Road until further notice. Students are especially welcome.

Prayer Day This Sunday

The World Student Christian Federation, on behalf of National Student Christian Movements around the world, has issued a call for the observance of the Universal Day of Prayer for Students this Sunday.

In many area churches special prayers will be offered. In the Alumni Memorial Chapel a special service will be held at 11 a.m. sponsored by the United Campus Ministry.

Leaders will include two campus ministers, the Rev. John Duley and the Rev. Warren J. Day, and six foreign students: Carlos Bertero, Sao Paulo, Brazil, masters candidate; Joan Filgueroa, Kingston, Jamaica, sophomore; Yeshitla Araya, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, masters candidate; Liek Wilardjo, Jogjakarta, Indonesia, masters candidate; Prapan Laksa, Thailand, masters candidate; and F. C. Rustemeyer, Germany, masters candidate.

All students and faculty are especially invited to join in prayer for their fellow students.

Campus Mission Will End Today

Today is the last day in the Methodist's "Mission-to-the-Campus." For the past 3 days, more than 60 Methodist ministers have been interviewing University students who listed a Methodist preference.

The purpose of this, according to Bishop Loder, has been to "give much time to listening to the young people to discover what they are thinking, what their needs are and how we of the Church can help them to discover meaning and purpose in Christian living."

They are seeking to make Christian witness relevant to college youth.

Culminating the "Mission-to-the-Campus" will be the first appearance of the recently appointed Bishop Loder, in the pulpit of the Methodist Center's University Church at the 9:45 and 11 a.m. services this Sunday. The bishop's topic will be "What Do You Know?"

The hosts to the guests were University Church pastors, the Rev. Wilson Tennant and the Rev. Glenn Frye and Wesley Foundation directors, the Rev. George Jordan and the Rev. Ernest Dunn.

Recording Slated Of King Speech

A tape recording of Martin Luther King's speech of last week will be presented Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Bethel Manor by Spartan Christian Fellowship.

Tonight's SCF meeting will be a special get-together featuring the Rev. Dr. Daniel Weiss, of the Gordon College and Divinity School. Rev. Weiss was formerly an assistant pastor of East Lansing Trinity Church.

The group will assemble at 7 p.m. at Bethel Manor and go from there to the home of Dr. C. C. Morrill, professor of veterinary pathology and faculty advisor for SCF.

Conservatives Debate

U.N. Charged Illogical

The United Nations in totally illogical, irrational and emotional, charged the president of the MSU Conservative Club in a debate with the Campus United Nations.

In defense of the U.N., J. Barry Kolb, Philadelphia, Pa., junior and vice president of the Campus U.N. said, even if the U.N. is not a perfect organization, it is currently our best hope for world peace.

The Union Tower Room was the scene for the informal debate between the two groups on the value of the U.N., held Wednesday evening.

"The U.N. has been a failure in Africa," said John P.

Dellera, Huntington, N.Y., junior and president of the Conservative Club. He cited the Congo conflict as proof.

"When the U.N. has been successful in Africa," he continued, "it has achieved success illegally." The U.N. Charter, he said, has been violated.

The U.N. is unable to dabble in strong international conflicts because of sovereignty, he said. The U.S. in particular is unwilling to give up its sovereignty to a union of nations.

In reply to Dellera's statement that the U.N. was useless, Brian Keleher, East Lansing junior, cited the U.N.'s Health Research Program as beneficial.

"Let us keep what is good," said Keleher.

Dellera summed up much of his argument by saying "The U.N. wastes a lot of time preparing to consider an issue."

When an issue is considered, the Security Council debates it and decides to send it to the General Assembly. In this manner, he said, U.N. members stall for time.

Kolb defended the U.N., stating that the U.N. should stall for time and negotiate for as long as possible. If a war results, he said, nuclear weapons could destroy any chance to negotiate in the future.

Case Auction Is Sunday

Five, six, do I hear nine? Sold! The bidding will be heavy and expensive Sunday when Case Hall holds its annual Campus Chest Auction at 6:30 in the Multipurpose Room. Sorrell Chesin, head resident advisor of Owen Graduate Center, will be auctioneer.

Each hall in North and South Case is offering a service for the other side, to be bought at the auction. Boys will clean rooms, sing or have skits, and girls will sell dancing, luaus, bedtime stories and care packages.

The proceeds will go to a cancer fund in the name of the late Russell Fink, former social science professor and assistant dean of University College. Fink died Dec. 10, 1963.

He was instrumental in implementing the residence hall class and counselor program, one of the first in the U.S.

WALL-TO-WALL WELSH--The 45-member Royal Welsh Male Choir will present a program of traditional music from Wales at 8:15 tonight in the Auditorium. The concert will also include readings from the work of poet Dylan Thomas.

Welsh Choir Appears Tonight

Touring the U.S. for the first time since 1906, the Royal Welsh Male Choir will present a program of traditional music and poetry at 8:15 tonight in the Auditorium.

On their previous visit to this country, the 45-member company entertained Theodore Roosevelt at the White House.

Tonight's performance, a Lecture-Concert Series presentation, will be directed by John Samuel and narrated by Peter Hydon.

Hydon will read from the work of Welsh poet Dylan Thomas to set the mood for the program of traditional choral music.

The program will include "Men of Harlech," a battle song and march, "All Thro' the Night," a folk song and "Close Thine Eyes," a lullaby.

Songs of Ireland and Scotland will also be sung.

The choir was granted exclusive rights to its title by Queen Victoria in 1895.

Scene Beat For A Fee

"Greenwich Village" will be the theme of the complex dance Saturday from 8:30 p.m. to midnight in the Fee Hall Ballroom.

The music will be provided by "The Sounds," with Hap & Joel entertaining during intermissions.

A coffee house "The Boars Roost," will be set up with candlelight, Beatnik waitresses, and an art display.

The dress will be beat or casual and the admission, 15 cents.

Today is the last day to enter the "Italian Straw Hat" contest. Coupons appearing in the State News which have not yet been mailed must be returned to 5 Auditorium before noon.

Four tickets will be drawn today. Winners will be notified Monday.

Tuesday a horse will determine the final winner when each of these tickets will be placed under a straw hat worn by four members of the cast of the Performing Arts Company production.

"Italian Straw Hat," a 19th century French farce also involving straw hats and a horse, will be presented in Fairchild Theatre March 2-7.

College Bowl Tilts Sunday

Residence halls and women's halls teamed with co-ops will face each other in Sunday's Campus College Bowl competition at 4 p.m.

Evans Scholars-West London will oppose Montie Co-op and East Yakeley and in the Union ballroom and East and West McDonel will play the East Shaw-Gilchrist team in the Erickson Kiva.

Moderator of the Union match will be William E. Sweetland, professor of humanities, and Erickson's moderator will be Bruce J. Cohen, assistant instructor in social science.

King Play-Back

A tape recording of Martin Luther King's speech in the Auditorium Feb. 11 will be heard at 10:30 a.m. Sat. in the lounge of Bethel Manor, 803 E. Grand River. The public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

Evans, speaking to a small group of newsmen at Kellogg Center Thursday, said there seem to be three main segments in medical education after high school. The first is the four years as an undergraduate in college.

The second is the four years of medical school, and the third is three or four years of internship and residency.

However, he said, programs such as the two-year medical school which will be established at MSU are a step toward ending that segmentation.

As a visiting professor, he said he would be especially interested in observing how such things as humanities and the behavioral sciences are related to medical education.

Evans said that when he heard of the potential school here, he began to follow and watch its progress. He said he has watched the University's growth and knows that "it is capable of doing things."

The reason for Michigan State to have a medical school is perfectly legitimate to me," he said, citing the growth of the school both in size and academic standards.

A university which has been static is not the place for a medical school to develop, he added.

Evans said the delay in the Olin Health Center switched to emergency power yesterday during a ten-minute loss of power in six campus buildings at about 3:45 p.m. Thursday.

The cutoff was caused by electricians testing a switch in Kedzie Chemistry Lab. to make temporary repairs.

Other buildings affected were Berkey, Student Services, the Nursery, Horticulture and Agriculture Hall.

Spartan Guard Ready For Purdue Contest

The Spartan Guard drill team will make its first appearance in the Purdue Invitational Drill Team Meet Saturday.

The 26 members of the team and their advisors, Captain Richard Summers and SFC Glenn Remington of the Department of Military Science, will leave for Purdue at 3:30 p.m. today.

They will compete with 15 to 20 teams from around the country in both Trick and Infantry Drill Regulation (IDR) events. The winner will be chosen on the basis of inspection, precision, rifle movement and dress score.

Last year the guard placed fourth in the National ROTC drill competition held in Chicago. One member, Robert Lower of Detroit, won the Individual IDR Championship for Michigan.

The guard has been practicing 29 hours a week in hopes of becoming the first team to defeat Purdue on its home grounds.

Miss MSU

pose when the judges' decision was announced, Anne quickly recovered with a bright smile.

Sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Anne entered the Miss MSU contest to represent her sisters but "never dreamed" of winning the title.

According to Anne her life has been "much busier" since entering the pageant but "I have enjoyed it all, even the bathing suit competition."

When asked of her immediate future plans she replied in true collegiate fashion, "Well, I have two tests to study for on Friday."

Planning on either a teaching or professional singing career, Anne will now travel to Muskegon to compete in the Miss Michigan pageant as MSU's official representative for the Miss America contest.

Sponsored by Blue Key men's honorary, co-chairmen of the Miss MSU contest, were Artie Langer, Bronx, N.Y., special student; and Chuck Migyanka, East Corners, Penn., senior. In charge of production and staging were Dave Jensen, Muskegon Junior, and Chris Hawkins.

Speaking for Blue Key, Langer said, "For the first year of presenting this pageant the contest ran very smoothly. Next year the competition and participation should improve and increase."

The referendum on the constitution will come up for final reading at next week's congress meeting.

Wednesday's meeting was the third in a row to last beyond the women's 11:30 p.m. closing hours. It extended until a few minutes after midnight.

Congress gave its final approval to the Student Educational Project (STEP) in Mississippi, this summer which will send volunteers to assist with programs at Rust College, a Negro school in Holly Springs.

Jim Graham, a major opponent of the resolution at past meetings, who sent a letter asking officials of the Mississippi county their viewpoint on the project, reversed his decision and voted for the project.

The resolution was carried unanimously with two abstentions.

Approved on first reading was a provisional charter for the Sino-American Friendship Society to promote better relations with inhabitants of the Peoples Republic of China.

This organization is not in conflict with the United States Constitution, Mitchell Platt, chairman of the congress business and organizations committee, pointed out, as long as its purpose is to promote friendship with the people, rather than the government, of Red China.

Seniors Of The Week

Honors College Aid To Seniors

Honors College seniors Joyce Osterink, Birmingham, and Bruce Osterink, East Grand Rapids, have taken advantage of Honors College opportunities and University activities.

Joyce was scholarship chairman of her dormitory in her sophomore year and vice president as a junior.

A member of Women's Inter-Residence Council (WIC) in her junior year, Joyce served on many of its committees, including Who's Who and What's What and Officers' Workshop.

Bruce, since last year, has been a resident assistant in South Case, but he still spends from 10 to 15 hours a week as chairman of All University Student Government (AUSG) Re-Evaluation Committee.

He was president of his sophomore class, a representative on Frosh-Soph Council and corresponding secretary for Delta Tau Delta. He also played freshman basketball.

Joyce's sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta, made her special projects chairman and junior advisor. As special projects chairman, she was a representative to a committee for the handicapped, set up by the Lansing Community Services Council.

Last year Bruce received an outstanding junior award and was named Mr. MSU.

Since her freshman year, Joyce has been invited into many honoraries. These include Tower Guard, Mortar Board, Tau Sigma, Chi Omega, and Circle Honorary of which she is vice president.

Bruce has earned membership in six honoraries, Phi Eta Sigma, Green Helmet, Blue Key, Excalibur, Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

A National Merit Scholar, Joyce now maintains a 3.6 average with a major in sociology and a minor in philosophy. She was named outstanding junior woman in sociology last year.

Joyce hopes to teach college and be a professional sociologist. She won an undergraduate research assistantship in sociology and is librarian for the sociology and anthropology graduate library.

Recently she won honorable mention for a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

Bruce has a major in civil engineering and has a 3.9 average.

"I really don't want to be an engineer," he said. "But I think this is one of the best backgrounds you can have for a business career."

Russian-In-Exile Explains Works

A noted Russian poet, who exiled himself from his native land several decades ago and is now teaching in the United States, explained his poetry to an audience of about 50 in the Union Wednesday night, and then read some examples of his work.

Speaking in Russian, Igor Cinnovs, now an associate professor of Russian at the University of Kansas, spoke of trends in Russian poetry under the communist regime. He concluded by reading, in Russian, about half a dozen of his poems, whose English translations were read by George Kovach, a student in the Speech Department.

Cinnovs was born in Russia and was educated at Russian schools in Latvia. He received a degree from the University of Paris, and has been a member of communities of emigre Russian artists in France and Germany. He came to the United States in 1962, and was named poet-in-residence at the university at Lawrence, Kans. He later took up teaching there.

Nikolai Poltoratzky, professor of German and Russian, introduced Cinnovs. He called him "one of the major emigre poets of the second generation." The "first generation" of emigre poets left Russia before and during the revolution. The "second generation" consists of those poets who lived under the Communist regime and have since left the Soviet Union.

Poltoratzky said Cinnovs' style of "concentrated poetry" emphasizes simplicity and subtlety of style, and has "nothing striking in it."

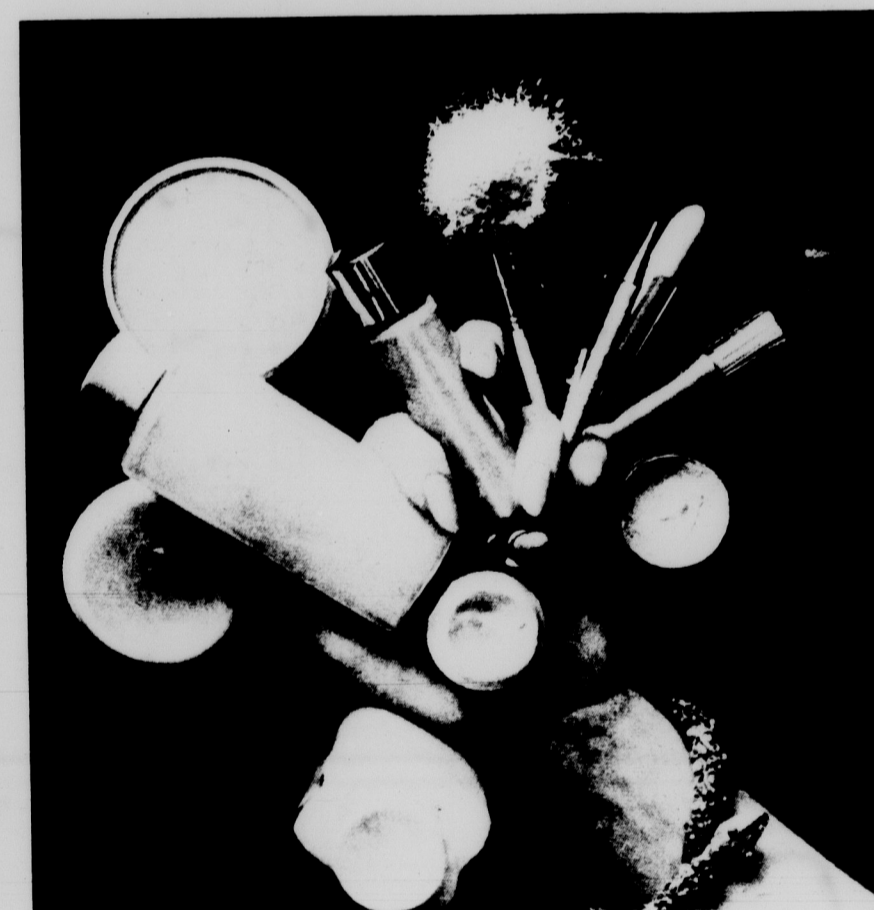

The power of his poetry lies in its ability to convey impressions in a concise, understated manner.
