ZBT House Guttred By $50,000 Fire

AFTERMATH -- Two bystanders look over the damage to the house received when a fire swept through the home early Wednesday morning and left a destructive trail including five serious injuries to ZBT members.

Fire gutted the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity house early Wednesday morning, causing more than $50,000 in damages and injuring five members of the fraternity.

Two of the five injured are currently in Olin Health Center after being transferred from Edward Sparrow Hospital in Lansing.

Peter Schneiderman, Detroit sophomore, suffered broken fingers and leg cuts when he made a spectacular 40-foot leap to the ground after finding himself trapped on the roof of the house.

Also in Olin Health Center is Steven J. Feldman, Southfield sophomore. He is reportedly suffering from a burned lung.

Kenneth J. Good, Highland Park, Ill., sophomore, received minor face and body burns when he was forced to run through the flames to escape from the house.

Suffering minor face burns was Alan Schwartz, Jamaica, N.Y., junior. Mort Anniz, Tampa, Fla., junior, injured his ankle while leaving the house.

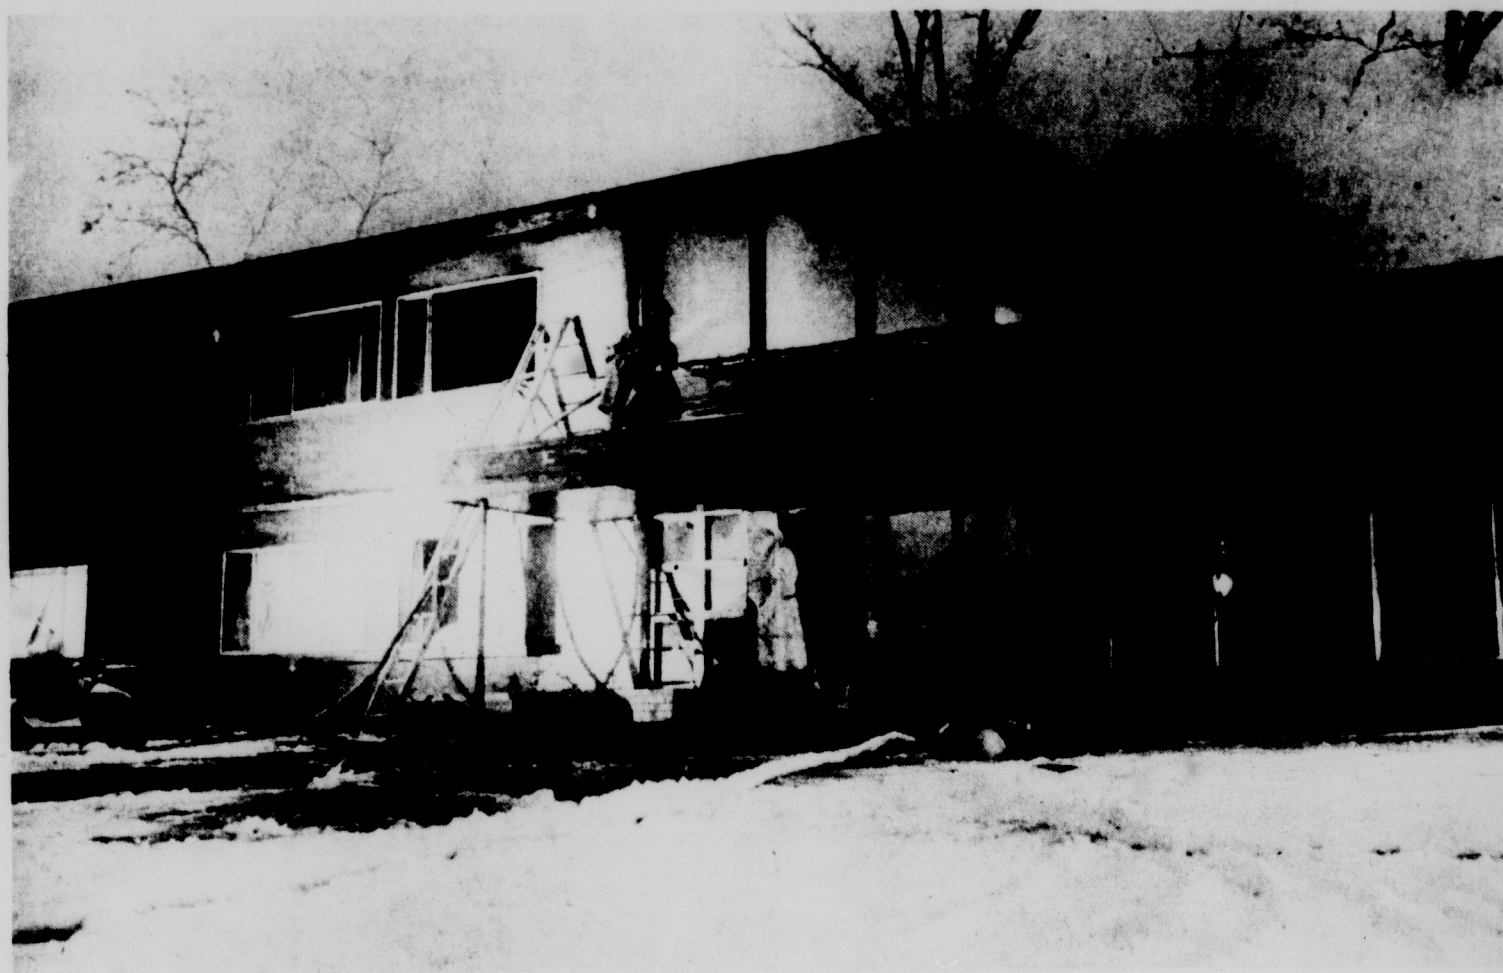

The fire was discovered when Robert Golden, Oak Park sophomore, smelled the smoke. He awoke the housemother, Mrs. Helen Ridd, who reported the blaze about 6 a.m.

Andy Kramer, Detroit junior and fraternity president, said he was awakened by noise. He found the second floor filled with smoke and left the house. After he got outside, he began a head count and all 35 of the men living in the house were accounted for within minutes.

The living room, library and two bedrooms were destroyed. The entire second floor received extensive smoke damage.

Pat Smith, assistant director of off-campus housing in the Office of Student Affairs, gave the house residents permission to find any kind of housing until June.

ZBT Contemplates Fire Disaster

By KENNETH HOFFMAN

After the smoke has cleared away and the trucks have returned to the station, you have time to reflect and decide what you will do. What about Pete Schneiderman, who had to jump 40 feet to escape the flames, and Ken Good, who had to run through the fire to get out of the house?

What if no one had smelled the smoke and warned the others that the house was on fire?

Look at the charred remains of the rooms upstairs and think of the pure luck of the guys who got out when they did.

Where do you live and eat?

Suddenly the calls start coming in. The Sigma Kappas offer an empty annex for housing. The Kappas and Thetas and other houses offer to feed the brothers. All Saints Episcopal Church, located next to the house, puts its facilities at the disposal of the chapter.

You walk through the house helping brothers salvage what they can and wonder what it will be like to be homeless.

You can only sympathize with a brother that has lost everything and thank God it wasn't worse.

The entire tragedy is a little easier to take through the charity of all the Greek houses at MSU.

You hear the trustees have promised to erect an entirely new house, to cost $30,000. But somehow this too can only relieve the pain, not take it away.

INSIDE DAMAGED--The ZBT house received extensive damage from the fire. The living room, library and two bedrooms were destroyed and the second floor suffered considerable smoke damage.

U-M Plans Hindered By Board

The State Board of Education has dealt University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher another crushing blow by siding with Gov. Romney in the battle over control of higher education in Michigan.

Thomas Brennan of Detroit, president of the State Board of Education, blasted Hatcher for what he terms Hatcher's open defiance of Gov. Romney and for his implied misunderstanding of the role of the board as a policymaker.

Brennan said this in a letter to the University of Michigan President which he wrote after consulting all seven fellow Democratic members of the board Tuesday.

He says the board will conduct public hearings in Flint on Wednesday on the matter.

Romney and Hatcher disagree on whether the university's Flint branch should be expanded from a two-year to a four-year school this year.

Romney believes there should be a statewide plan for higher education first and expansion later.

Hatcher wants to expand the Flint branch in September.

Sigma Delta's Blood Counts

Phi Sigma Delta fraternity was the first to score 100 per cent participation in the Veteran's Club sponsored Blood Drive.

By 5 p.m. Wednesday, only three hours after the drive opened for the day, 150 pints had been donated.

"We have good hopes of hitting over 300 today," said Ken Spooner, assistant chairman of the drive.

The needed 25 pints for open heart surgery were donated. But 25 more pints of 0 positive are needed today at 2 p.m. for another operation tomorrow.

"The Vet's club greatly appreciates the help of the girls from Alpha Epsilon Phi, who are serving refreshments," Spooner said.

This sorority also leads the women's housing units in percentage of participation with 20 per cent.

The donation hours today are 2 p.m. until 8.

U Thant Advocates Negotiation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant said Wednesday he made concrete proposals in private negotiations with the United States and other interested parties aimed at achieving peace in Viet Nam and a U.S. military withdrawal "in dignity."

He declined at a news conference to elaborate on the proposals, and he said his efforts thus far had not been conclusive.

But it was the first time that he disclosed he had been involved for some time in efforts being made on the international level to resolve the Viet Nam crisis through negotiation.

In response to a question whether he had any indication from the United States that it would consider negotiations, Thant replied it would not be helpful to comment on the aspect now.

"I just want to say," he added, "I have the greatest respect for the great American leader, President Johnson, whose wisdom, moderation and sensitivity to world public opinion are well known."

"I am sure that the great American people, if only they know the true facts, will agree with me that further bloodshed is unnecessary, and that political and diplomatic negotiations alone can create conditions that will enable the United States to withdraw gracefully from that part of the world."

At another point Thant stressed that he had never advocated an immediate U.S. military withdrawal from Viet Nam. He said he was conscious that such a step would involve questions of face, prestige and previous commitments.

He said that once an agreed formula is reached through diplomatic and political methods and some stability is achieved in South Viet Nam "than the United States can withdraw its troops in dignity."

Want World Conference

French, Reds Ask Viet Talk

PARIS (AP)—France and the Soviet Union agreed Wednesday to cooperate to seek a solution to the Viet Nam crisis at the international conference table.

As the two nations reached their accord at the initiative of the Russians, these were other developments in world capitals:

--In Washington, the White House declined to comment on the French-Russian accord but President Johnson was reported far from convinced that the Communists want to engage in meaningful negotiations now.

--In Moscow, diplomatic informants said the Soviet Union would seek at any conference the neutralization of South Viet Nam, something the United States has regarded with a jaunted eye.

--In Peking, Premier Chou En-Lai of Red China said any settlement in Viet Nam would hinge on withdrawal of U.S. military forces.

--In New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said he had made proposals to the U.S. and other nations concerned for a negotiated settlement and was confident ways could be found to end the fighting and let the U.S. withdraw gracefully from South Viet Nam.

--In Warsaw, U.S. Ambassador John Moors Cabot met with Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Kuo-Chuan in what diplomats viewed as an attempt to even an expanded war in Viet Nam.

--In London, British sources greeted the Soviet-French accord with skepticism. One source asked why nations should call a conference now "when there is plainly no possible basis on which the principal contenders could negotiate."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet in Paris with President Charles De Gaulle next month at a date to be set, informed French sources said.

His presence would enable the Soviet Union and France to coordinate further their announced plan of trying to bring about a negotiated end to the conflict in Viet Nam.

Information Minister Alain Peyrune said that France and the Soviet Union will cooperate in pushing for an International Conference on Viet Nam. He said France's detailed

Malcolm X's Dad Died Accidentally: Witness

Reports that Rev. Earl Little, father of Malcolm X, assassinated leader of the Black Nationalists, died by foul play are false, according to a man who answered the police call to the accident.

Lawrence J. Baril, now an MSU instructor in police administration, was a young trooper at the East Lansing State Police post at the time--Sept. 31, 1931.

Baril had been with the force for nine months when he and his partner were called to the scene on Michigan Avenue, in what was then Lansing Township, where a man was lying along-side the streetcar tracks.

"His leg had been severed but he was still conscious," Baril said. "He told us he had slipped while trying to board the trolley as it was moving."

"He was taken to Sparrow Hospital and I went out to his home and took his wife to the hospital. Then we went out to the cow barns and located the trolley which had run over him. The motorman was completely unaware of what had happened."

The man only lived a few hours, Baril said. "A coroner's inquest was held the next day and they ruled the death accidental. We considered the case closed then."

When asked about the reports that the death was a result of foul play, Baril said they were "hogwash."

Baril said the accident was the first fatal accident he had policed.

Muhammed Police Guard Checks Clock

CHICAGO (AP)—Police Guards protecting Elijah Muhammad from reported assassins intercepted a suspicious crate delivered to the Black Muslim leader's home Wednesday but bomb squad experts, after an examination, pronounced the contents harmless.

A flurry of activity broke out at the sect leader's heavily guarded 19-room South Side mansion when an REA express truck pulled up at the front entrance. Police halted the driver who announced he was delivering a crated grandfather's clock from Wannamaker's department store in Philadelphia addressed to Muhammad.

Elite bodyguards from the sect's Fruit of Islam conferred with Muhammad and then informed police he had not ordered a clock.

The truck was parked at a curb about 50 feet away from the mansion and three police specialists in explosives, who had been summoned by radio, climbed aboard and opened the crate.

EDITORIALS

'Ask Not . . .'

President Johnson gave official authorization Monday to the burst of idealistic fervor which has become the moving spirit on most of the nation's campuses.

One of the most idealistic presidents the nation has had in this century, Johnson is well equipped to speak of "the great transcendent issues which affect the life of nearly every human on this planet." His Great Society program and most aspects of his foreign policy are outgrowths of his own strong, if occasionally misdirected, belief in the ability of modern man to make the world a better place to live.

"If you wish a sheltered and uneventful life," the President told a large audience at the University of Kentucky, "you are living in the wrong generation. No one can promise you calm, or ease, or undisturbed comfort. But we can promise you this."

"We can promise enormous challenge and arduous struggle, hard labor and great danger. And with them we can promise you finally triumph over all the enemies of mankind," he said.

He justified American involvement in problems of developing nations around the world.

"We are too rich and too powerful and too important (to withdraw). But most important is that we are too concerned."

Coming from the mouth of the President, these words could probably be dismissed as mere political rhetoric. But Johnson was speaking to more than 10,000 college students and teachers. He was speaking of the attitudes which have begun in the past several years to dominate the colleges which they and hundreds of thousands of other students and teachers have turned into hotbeds of hopeful planning and visionary dreaming.

He was speaking of the force which formed the Peace Corps and sent students to the South to fight for civil rights, which demonstrated at Berkeley and is now picketing to pull out of Viet Nam. He was speaking of the force which has made American youth more dynamic and clear-thinking than its predecessors have been in years, even if their energies have occasionally been misguided.

President Johnson was speaking to the generation which has grown up with cold war and population explosion and international involvement, and is now planning on being grown up in a world in which problems such as these are attacked and solved logically and, of course, idealistically.

He suggested that young people continue to help others and thereby give a greater purpose to their own lives. He said he will "continue to search for new ways to give you a chance to serve your country and civilization."

More power to him, and much more power to the idealistic new generation of college students.

No. 1 Priority

The President's Ad Hoc Committee has made specific and encouraging proposals concerning the expansion of the library, supported by several faculty and student groups.

The proposals predictably call for more money, books and staff. But what will happen to the expansion plans depends on the cold hard facts of life at MSU--money and priority.

MSU is engaged in a building boom. The crying need for housing and classrooms should not, however, overshadow the needs of the library. The library is the key to the quality of education and without quality, quantity is meaningless.

As a state institution we have a responsibility to try to educate as many students as possible. The question of how big MSU can grow before lack of quality sets in can, in this instance, boil down to this one thing--the library.

A library is the base of any good educational unit. The types and number of books there reflect the emphasis of the University. If we cannot give the library the highest priority then we are admitting that quality comes second.

It should be a "fact of life" that library funds should increase as University population increases. This increase should be ahead of predictions rather than behind. There is nothing to lose and everything to gain.

The prestige to be gained by a good library is far greater than the impact of numbers.

Of what use is expansion of the body unless the mind expands?

STEP Back Here

Hey there--you in political science or French or chemistry--don't run away from the Student Education Program (STEP) just because the application form says the volunteer staff will "preferably be drawn from . . . particularly elementary or secondary education majors with some training in remedial reading techniques, or with special skills in art, dramatics, music or recreation."

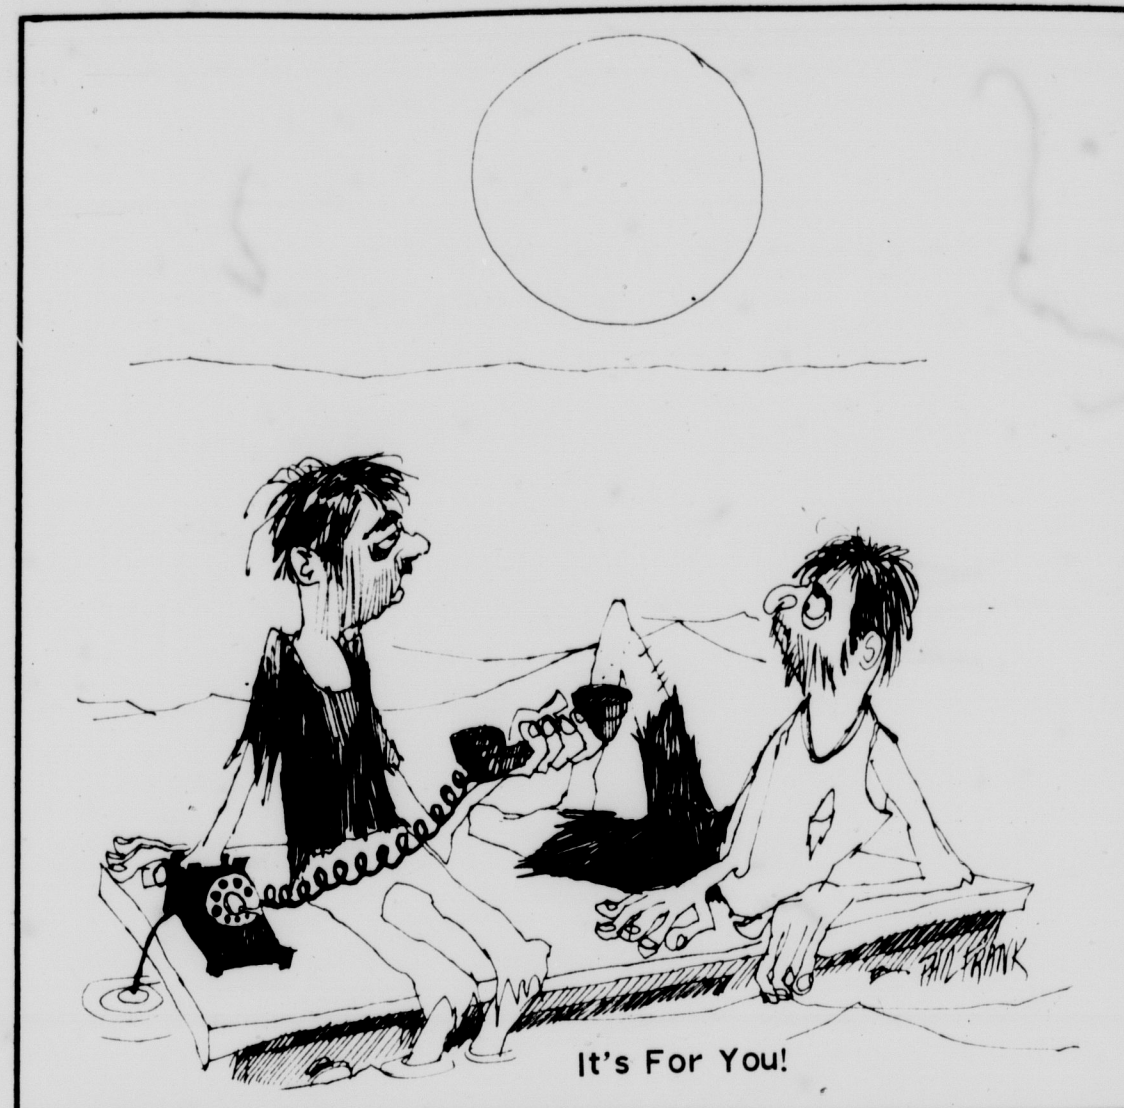

Teaching skills are of great importance in an educational program of this sort. It's no easy job to stimulate and teach culturally deprived youngsters.

But skill is only one of the criteria for the volunteer staff that will spend eight weeks organizing the Rust College library and the Rust Reading Clinic, and enriching the cultural life of the Holly Springs, Miss., college and community.

STEP is looking for young people who are interested and responsible. President Johnson, speaking at the University of Kentucky Monday, spoke indirectly for STEP-like programs everywhere when he said: "You will find meaning only by sharing in the responsibilities, the dangers and the passions of your time."

If you're more than a curiosity seeker--you in comparative literature or psychology or math--you can pick up a STEP application unit March 5, at reception desks of all living units, the Union and the International Center.

Letters To The Editor

Viet Nam Needs Help, Not Violence

To the Editor:

I should like to add an opinion regarding the Peace in Viet Nam demonstration held Monday by both faculty and students. They advocate in their proposals that American withdrawal from every aspect is the answer to the dilemma we are facing.

If the United States as a free nation ever hopes to halt the in-

Negro Revolt Includes Malcolms

To the Editor:

Kindly grant me the space in your papers to utter a few words on the grave issues involved in the life and death of the late Malcolm X.

The death of Malcolm X represents a stifling of a very powerful arm in the Negro revolution. Freedom has never been won for any people without fighting for it; fighting is a social phenomenon.

The events which brought about the Magna Carta, the foundation of western Democracy, were won by the sword. The great United States was freed from the yoke of British Imperialism by fighting with arms for a cause which the Americans felt was just and legal.

This method may not have been necessary to convince majority of the British people that America's claims were legitimate, but it proved its effectiveness over the small minority who tried to keep the Americans subjected.

So it is that the Negro revolution--all over the World--can never be won without a third arm as that represented by the late Malcolm X during his life time.

A three-prong attack as represented by the NAACP legislative appeal, Martin Luther King's religious appeal and Malcolm's revolutionary Black Nationalist appeal represents one of the surest ways to bring a speedy solution to the problems black men are facing all over the world.

There is no discernible ideological uniqueness to the American situation.

With this in mind, let Negro's all over the world lament Malcolm's assassination. His ideas will continue throughout Negro history, changing and being modified by the sand of times to take its proper place in the Negro revolution.

flux of communism into Southeast Asia a new type of aggression must be initiated. This new aggression would not take the form of a stepped up military expansion, it must consist of an army of doctors, nurses, agricultural experts, technicians and engineers.

The people of the war-torn country of Viet Nam can be won over from the future of communism. We have shown them only our sympathy and support for a government in Saigon that has given them no material benefits and basic freedoms.

The United States has entered into this war and must continue to see it through, military aggression cannot further our hope of freedom for the Vietnamese people, neither will settlement with the communist government of Hanoi. Retreat would crush the hopes of ever making Viet Nam into a nation where men could walk free and see their children grow up without the fear of war always close at hand.

War is a horrid invention of men's ruthlessness towards one another; it can and must be stopped. The proposed army of peaceful specialists could concentrate on the problems of importance that weigh heavily on the people of Viet Nam.

The long hoped-for dove bringing the olive branch of peace can be a reality, when the aggression of the United States turns from the Viet Cong to the ravages of disease, illiteracy and hunger. Once we win the hearts of the Vietnamese people we will defeat the very foundation of the hate-filled philosophy of communism.

Notes From Underground.-----

Putting Up Good Front

-----By Char Jolles

Assuming it lies deeper than the boredom of some coffee-drinking intellectuals, the source of the sincere discontent on this campus is complex and extends beyond the context of the American university.

The Committee for Student Rights has attempted to materialize some of the discontent with its recommendations for more individual freedom and so on, but many of us haven't really felt tyrannized. At first glance, CSR's issues seem trivial.

A 1 a.m. curfew, the ban on slacks in carpeted areas--these don't really block a coed's educational growth.

It's amusing, not oppressive, to watch dorm leaders waste good hours scripping up suitable penalties for late minutes. (They'd make their point in less time if they just spanked us.)

Nor is the size of this University that oppressing. I for one chose Michigan State for its size. Bigness can mean a stimulating variety of people, cultural events and courses.

Petty rules and regulations, campus expansion, the inaccessibility of the administration--these questions point to an issue far beyond the scrap between American students and American administrators.

A small, but significant, part of this over all issue is a fundamental concern for appearances, a concern that can lead to the sacrifice of quality for quantity.

We, as individuals, contend with appearances. Sometimes we sacrifice personal honesty in hopes of attaining a larger, more worthwhile, goal.

For example, a young man recently shaved off his beard before speaking on passivism to a group of conservatives. Submission to appearances, thus, can be constructive. The administration has to be concerned with the impression it makes, for financial reasons, if anything. But MSU is in danger of submitting too much.

It seems that around here an impressive university means a mammoth one, and in 20 years 30,000 students will have multiplied into 100,000.

Some harmful results:
1. Quick-rise dormitories--sterile, isolated and more vermin, doubtless.

2. Enormous classes where graduate assistants grade papers. There is nothing inherently wrong with graduate assistants, but when a professor loses contact with the individual student, the student can only be graded on output, not on the thought or the effort behind the output. The grading system can become oppressive, discouraging, frustrating.

3. Gouging tuition.
Honors College, too, is becoming a victim of appearances. The 3.5 password becomes an end in itself for freshmen. Honors College students sometimes find themselves taking reading courses and seminars just for the record, and taking one easy course a term just for the 3.2 they need to stay in.

Instead of a community of scholars, Honors College can become a community of grade points.

Petty rules and regulations help keep up appearances. What's wrong with wearing slacks and standing on a rug at the same time? What's wrong with eating dinner in corduroy pants? Or sleeping on dirty linen, or keeping a can of beer in the refrigerator?

There are other examples of this finicky concern for appearances, like the "publish or perish" maxim that haunts faculty members. This concern for appearances extends to society as a whole, which leads one to believe that what we really need is not simply more student-faculty freedom, but social revolution. On this campus, 30,000 young, impressionable minds are at stake, and social revolution is out of the question right now.

All we can ask is that the University take these 30,000 young people seriously when they express themselves.

proposal would be made in a diplomatic note to Moscow.

This was a reversal of French policy as enunciated only two weeks ago. At that time a statement of the Cabinet said that any call for a conference on Viet Nam should be at the initiative of the two co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina--Britain and the Soviet Union.

Peyrefitte's statement came after a weekly cabinet meeting. It followed by 24 hours a visit to President Charles De Gaulle by Soviet Ambassador Sergei Vinogradov. The two talked for 20 minutes and Vinogradov left behind a note covering the points he brought up.

The diplomatic pressure apparently had little effect on the U.S. President Johnson is said to be unconvinced the Communists want to negotiate and wants to keep U.S. policy flexible.

U.S. Jets Hit Viet Cong

SAIGON--Jet planes manned solely by U.S. airmen now are waging war against the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam, supplementing the forays that Americans and Vietnamese conduct jointly with slower aircraft.

American jets struck Wednesday at guerrillas who have been ambushing government detachments in the mountains near An Khe.

Evidence Found On X's Assassin

NEW YORK--A police official said Wednesday detectives have dug up information on the Malcolm X assassination "As to who may be responsible."

Asst. Chief Inspector Joseph L. Coyle foresaw no imminent break in the case. But he declared:

"I hope to have a break in the very near future."

Viet Crisis Not Settled Yet

WASHINGTON--The White House said Wednesday there are no "meaningful proposals" before the U.S. Government for a negotiated settlement of the Viet Nam crisis.

Press Secretary George E. Reedy said further that "The White House is not engaged in any negotiations for Viet Nam settlement" and "I am unaware of any proposals."

Stock Trading Soars

NEW YORK--Trading on the New York Stock Exchange soared Wednesday to 7.16 million shares as the market posted another substantial gain.

Volume Tuesday was 5.83 million shares.

Trading Wednesday was the heaviest since 7.23 million shares changed hands Feb. 10.

Attempted Guatemalan Revolt

GUATEMALA CITY--Enrique Peralta Azurdia's government decreed a state of siege throughout Guatemala Wednesday because of what was called an attempt to overthrow his regime.

Peralta said "several groups of armed men have attacked civilians and authorities as part of a widespread plan to spread terror."

The 57-year-old Peralta, known as "El Buddha," has headed a military junta since he led the army to overthrow the government of President Miguel Ydigoras in 1963.

U.S. Viet Action "Appropriate"

WASHINGTON--The State Department said Wednesday that the use of U.S. Air Force bombers against Communist forces in South Viet Nam is in line with a U.S. policy "Of continuous action that is appropriate, fitting and measured."

Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference that the operation announced by the U.S. Embassy in Saigon Wednesday had been carried out specifically because of the concentration of Communist guerrilla fighters in the An Khe area of central Viet Nam. The An Khe first strike was made last Thursday.

Elizabeth III

LONDON--Queen Elizabeth II, recently returned from a strenuous African tour, was ill with a slight temperature Wednesday and canceled a scheduled appearance at a London cocktail party.

"We have no information that it is anything serious," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman.

Erhard Hunts Nazis

BONN, Germany--Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his cabinet changed their minds Wednesday and decided to find a way to continue the hunt for Nazi murderers.

This was a reversal of last fall's cabinet decision that it would be legally impossible to start new prosecutions after May 8, the 20th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe. That was the date originally chosen to stop the hunt.

Nonviolent Honor Malcolm X

SELMA--Signs hanging in the Selma headquarters of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee proclaim that "This office is in mourning for Malcolm X."

They refer to the Black Nationalist leader who was assassinated in New York Sunday. One sign hangs on the doorway leading into the third-floor committee office in a Negro neighborhood, and another on a doorway inside the office.

Two-Bits Sends Son To College

CLEVELAND (P)--Howard Bailey saw something in a dust heap at an old warehouse but "I almost didn't pick it up because I thought it was an old washer."

He did pick it up and cleaned it off and found himself with a rare, overdated quarter in excellent condition.

Bailey, a carpenter who lives in suburban Rocky River, said Tuesday a coin dealer offered him $500 for the coin, identified as a 1918 17-S "standing Liberty" type.

Bailey was told a collector might pay $1,000 for the freak quarter, but he is not trying to sell it at the moment.

"My 16-year-old son will be ready for college in two years," Bailey said.

Feuding Klan Leaders Haggle Over 'Treason'

ATLANTA (P)--The Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America, Inc., could face the death penalty for allowing newsmen to witness an initiation ceremony, a rival Klan leader said Wednesday.

James K. Venable, leader of the National Association of Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said Grand Dragon Calvin Craig broke his sacred vows when he allowed newsmen from the Atlanta Constitution to witness an initiation ceremony last Thursday night.

Craig explained that he allowed the newsmen to attend the rites "as a public relations move to improve our image."

Venable said the Grand Dragon had committed high treason against the "invisible empire."

He reported his organization was preparing a resolution seeking to banish Craig and his superior, Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton, from the "empire."

"Our ritualistic ceremonies are purely secret. No alien is to be allowed to witness any part of them," Venable said.

Craig is subject to be indicted by the Klan and he could be executed.

He said punitive action against Craig might be outside our jurisdiction.

But his own members will finally crucify him," Venable said.

"Is he threatening me?" asked Craig.

"We're not worried. We can protect ourselves. His threats might make us double the guard."

AUSG Circulating Referendum Petitions

AUSG petitions for a general student referendum to pass a constitutional amendment are now being circulated.

The proposed amendment would require at least 15 per cent of the student body to vote before an election could be considered valid.

According to AUSG representative Carl L. Parks of E. Wilson Hall, the amendment is designed to increase student participation in all future elections.

Parks voiced the opinion of his constituents in stating that a large number of students fail to vote because they are uninformed of elections in advance.

The present constitution does not prohibit the holding of more than one election on the same issue. An election could conceivably be extended until the needed quota is obtained, Parks said.

This would tend to increase publicity of elections in order to pass an issue at the earliest possible time, according to Parks.

Approximately half of the needed signatures for the petition have been obtained, including the support of the newly formed committee on Student Rights (CSR).

Students circulating petitions are asked to turn them in today to E. Wilson Hall.

Social Action Meet Friday

"A Conference on Social Action" will be held in the Union ballroom Friday.

The conference is an annual affair, planned and financed by graduate students in social work from Wayne State University, Michigan State and the University of Michigan.

Two main lectures will highlight the morning session. The afternoon session will be devoted to panel discussions.

Saul D. Alinsky, from the Industrial Area Foundation of Chicago (IAF), and Joseph Heffernan, former MSU instructor, will speak on social problems.

According to Alinsky, "It proves you can fight City Hall."

First, Alinsky fights apathy in the city. Secondly, he cleans up the slums with the help of

Baptist Students Told Of Christian Humor

Christ had a sense of humor and the failure to recognize Christ's wit is one of the most surprising aspects of modern Christianity, according to a professor of linguistics.

"Humor is a great way to give a moral message impact," Roger Shuy told the weekly meeting of the Baptist Student Fellowship Tuesday.

"Irony as it is, Christ used humor more than we do today," he said.

People think that humor lacks seriousness, is irreverent and is contrary to the value system of Christians, Shuy said. "Christians are missing a good opportunity to evangelize by discarding humor."

Shuy drew a laugh from his audience when he pointed out that when Christ gave Simon the name Peter it was equivalent to the modern nickname "Rocky." Simon, he said, was a very unstable character and calling him a "rock" was like calling a fat man "Slim."

Shuy said that we think of Christ as being grave, serious and having infinite patience and that Christ's crucifixion makes us lose sight of the entire picture of him.

GERALD MASSEY

Philosophy Professor Slates Talk

Gerald J. Massey, assistant professor of philosophy, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Philosophy of Science Association.

Massey has been a member of the MSU staff for two years. He is managing editor of "Philosophy of Science," the official journal of the association. Massey will address a philosophy colloquium on "New Foundations for Modality" Friday at 8 p.m. in 221 Physics-Math.

He received B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Notre Dame in 1956 and 1960 and holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Princeton University.

Paintings Go East

An exhibition of paintings by Alan Leepa, MSU associate professor of art, has opened at Hofstra University, Long Island N.Y.

Thirty-eight works by the MSU artist spanning the period from 1938 to 1965 are included in the one-man show which will continue through Saturday.

The earliest work on display is a painting titled, "Man"; one of the latest is titled, "Atom Bomb Figure."

Leepa, who is also the author of the book, "The Challenge of Modern Art," calls painting "its own seismograph."

His own work, he says, has been a continuous and vigorous search for personal meanings through art. "Specifics are my catalysts, methods my means, intensities my objectives."

His later painting is infused with a specific protest conveyed through a traditional Christian symbol. "I am angry against the stupidity of life exemplified by the hydrogen bomb," Leepa writes. "I use the Crucifixion as a symbol of this protest. Christ for me is no longer passive on the cross, but is again resisting..."

Leepa has been a member of the MSU art faculty since 1945. Currently he teaches two terms at Michigan State and spends the rest of the year painting in Paris.

Union Tours

Land tours and flights to Europe are being sponsored by the Union Board, at substantial savings over regular prices according to Mary Kay Bloss, student director of the Union Board Flights.

Room is still available on an eight-week flight at a cost of $280 round trip. A four-week flight is open also. The round-trip fare for the four week trip is $372.40.

For further information, students may call Miss White at the Activities Office, 355-3354.

Racial Bias Found 'Subtle'

No society will ever become totally integrated unless there is integration in housing, according to Stuart Dunning, a Lansing attorney, who spoke Tuesday night.

Dunning spoke at the Students Off-campus (SOC) meeting in the Union.

The area of integrated housing is a serious problem. "Segregated housing means segregated schools," said Dunning, "and as long as we have segregated schools we do not have a democracy."

Subtle acts of discrimination are often found in the North. "An apartment or house is no longer available" when the prospective customer is discovered to be a Negro," Dunning said.

When Negroes are looking for homes, the only homes available to them are in areas where Negroes already reside.

This situation is due to the apathy of the majority. "We condemn things that are not democratic because we are not willing to get involved," Dunning said.

Political Seminars Available

Interested and qualified students may earn up to $80 weekly while learning the intricacies of politics first hand this spring and summer.

The Michigan Center for Education in Politics, located at Western Michigan University, is looking for potential student participants in proposed political internships, seminars and workshops from 40 institutions of higher education in Michigan.

The program offers summer internships, legislative internships, senior party training seminars, regional party workshops and the annual Legislative Day in the Lansing Civic Center.

Ten summer internships are available. Each intern will work eight to 10 weeks as staff member of a political party or interest group organization. Salaries range from $60 to $80 a week.

Juniors, seniors and recent graduates are eligible. Application deadline is April 10.

Other seminars and workshops are open to all students.

More information and applications blanks are available from Harold Spaeth, associate professor of political science at MSU.

Depression Films Slated

Two documentaries on the Depression, "The River" and "The Plow that Broke the Plains" constitute the next program of the MSU Film Society, scheduled Saturday at 8 p.m. in 137 Fee. Sponsored by the cultural committee of West Fee, the screening is open to members, their guests and residents of Fee. Made at the request of the Farm Security Administration in 1936 and 1938, the films set standards for all documentaries that followed them.

James Joyce, among others, praised the commentary of the narrator in "The River." The film scores, by Virgil Thomson, are available on numerous long-playing records.

Concert Set

Choral music of the 16th and 20th centuries will be featured in a performance by the Netherlands Chamber Choir at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the Music Auditorium.

The 18-voice mixed choir, under the direction of Felix de Nobel, is noted for its interpretation of Renaissance and contemporary choral music.

The Netherlands ensemble will perform works by the early composers Clemens Non Papa, John Bull, Orlando Gibbons, Henry Purcell, Orlando di Lasso, Jan Pieterszoon Sweelinck, Hans Leo Hassler and Heinrich Schuetz.

Modern compositions on the program include works by Jaap Geraedts, Rudolf Mengelberg, Francis Poulenc, Ildebrando Pizzetti and Luigi Dallapiccola.

Founded in 1937, the Netherlands Chamber Choir consists of six sopranos, four contraltos, four tenors and four basses.

The group is on its third concert tour of the United States.

Valentino Film Scheduled Friday

"Blood and Sand," a 1922 film starring the late Rudolf Valentino, will be shown by the Performing Arts Company at 7 and 9 p.m. Friday in Anthony Auditorium.

The film is about a matador, his fights in the arena and his conflicting loves.

"Blood and Sand," adapted from the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, is regarded as Valentino's best performance.

Admission is 50 cents or by season coupon book.

Basketless Basketball Newest Sorority Fad

MSU sorority coeds proved that four times zero is still zero when they forfeited every scheduled basketball game at the Women's Intramural Building Tuesday.

No points were scored as three of the eight teams added a win to their tally by default. Ironically, the fourth team called into the office to forfeit, not realizing that their opponents had dropped out of the competition. Both of the teams received zeroes.

"Something must be done to prevent this occurring in the future," said Lynn L. Richards, Dearborn junior and basketball supervisor. Women's Intramural Director Carol Harding and I are considering a more condensed basketball season next year."

IF CAGERS LICK WISCONSIN

'Would Give Up Losing For Lent'

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

"This is the last year we'll have to suffer," promised Michigan State basketball coach Fordey Anderson at a press luncheon Tuesday.

His Spartans are at the bottom of the Big Ten with an 0-10 mark and are 4-15 for a season described by Anderson as "frustrating."

This "winter of our discontent" has produced little but bad breaks, narrow losses and non-scoring forwards but the future should bring better things to Anderson.

Turning to the closer future, Anderson said Wisconsin, State's opponent next Saturday, "is a team we should beat."

The Badgers are 2-8 in the Big Ten and are also having their troubles this year.

Wisconsin is the only team not holding a height advantage over the Spartans. Mark Zuber, a 6-6 center, is the tallest man on the team.

Anderson said Curtis should not have too much trouble with him.

"If we beat Wisconsin, we'll give up losing the rest of the season for lent," Anderson cracked.

High scoring center Bill Curtis and guard Stan Washington, State's leading point producer at 21.2, will be back along with starting sophomore forward Ted Cray and guard Jim Kupper, a letter winner last season.

Forwards Bob Miller and Dick Holmes are also back giving Anderson an adequate nucleus to work with next season.

The returnees will be joined by several members of State's highly-touted freshman team.

Anderson said coach Dan Peterson's return is a good sign.

Any frosh unit in the Big Ten and singled out Gerry Geisler, a 6-8 center and Art Baylor, 6-6, as strong contenders for starting positions.

Anderson also mentioned 6-2 guard Steve Rymal, Jack Wynn, 6-8, and 6-5 Heywood Edwards as potentially strong assets to next year's club.

Joe Johnson, declared scholastically ineligible early in the season, may also return. The 6-4 forward is still the fifth highest scorer on the Spartan squad despite sitting out the last 12 games. He scored 90 points in just seven games before departing and should lend strong scoring support to Washington and Curtis the next time around.

Cowley and Wynn will be given State a big man in the pivot and Curtis could then be moved to his old forward position.

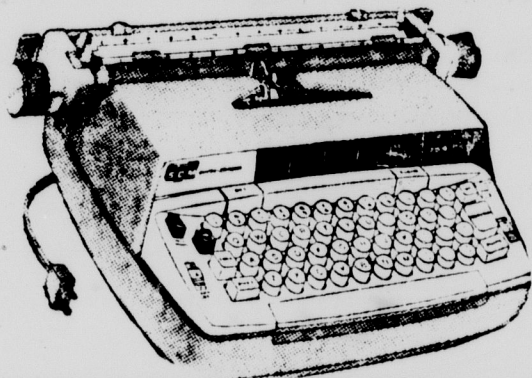

Curtis, the shortest center in the Big Ten at 6-4 has been doing an outstanding job at center this season (37 points and 197 rebounds) but should be even better at forward.

"There'll be less pressure on Stan also," said Anderson, "and he should have a great senior year because we'll be able to give him a rest once in a while."

Relay Team Forgets Records ... But Only Till Next Week

By JERRY MORTON
State News Sports Writer

Records were made to be broken . . . but not every week.

That's the outlook of the Spartan 400-yard freestyle relay team five days after breaking the NCAA record and tying the American record with a 3:08.1 clocking against Northwestern.

The Spartans will face Wisconsin and Pittsburgh in a triple dual Saturday afternoon at the IM Pool in MSU's final home appearance of the season.

If the freestyle squad falls far short of duplicating its record performance of last week, there should be no cause for alarm.

"You only aim for a record when everything is set," Coach Charles McCaffree said.

"We'll be swimming to win Saturday but we won't necessarily be aiming for another record of that kind."

Last week the Spartans waited until the middle of the Northwestern meet before deciding to make a concentrated assault on the NCAA mark.

The decision was prompted by a lay-off Friday that helped the team hit a peak for the Wildcats.

Darryle Kifer, Ken Walsh, Gary Dilley and Jim MacMillan pushed themselves to the mark after leaving their competition a pool length behind.

The big test for the Spartans will come next week at Madison when they take part in the Big Ten meet, an event they've been preparing for since early fall.

"Our relay team has done well so far but we still have a lot of work to do," McCaffree said.

"We still haven't won a championship with it and we'll be swimming in strong competition in another pool at the Big Ten meet."

The freestyle squad held the best mark in the conference, 3:12.4, before the Wildcat meet. Michigan's 3:14.4 rates as second best in the loop this season.

The Spartans will work out Friday in preparation for Saturday's meet and lately their practices have changed pace.

"Our practice schedule has been the same," McCaffree said, "but we're switching to a faster type of workout to build our speed."

Despite the fact that the Spartans stand 6-1 in Big Ten competition and 9-1 overall, McCaffree said he thinks the team is capable of better things.

"We're not jumping with glee," he said.

"Michigan beat us this season. I know the team can do better than it's done."

McCaffree said he rates the battle for the league championship as a toss-up between Indiana and Michigan.

Michigan beat the Spartans 631-2-41 1/2 in a dual this season and Indiana is the only league squad the Green and White do not meet during the regular schedule.

The Wolverines proved that they have a good chance of dethroning defending champion Indiana when they snapped a Hoosier dual meet victory string at 47 two weeks ago.

Fraternity Holds Tea To Select Rose Queen

Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, will hold a Rose Tea on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Student Services Lounge to select their chapter's 1965 Rose Queen.

The fraternity's new Rose will be entered in the national Rose Queen competition.

The National Rose is selected in April on the basis of beauty and talent by a panel of Hollywood stars. This year's judges include Carol Baker and Tony Franciosa.

The chapter's Rose attends all the fraternity's social functions and is crowned at the annual Rose Dance which is held spring term. Because they will graduate before the year of office ends, senior women are not eligible for the competition.

Current Rose Queen Patricia Ann Burns, Pontiac, senior and Delta Delta Delta, and past Rose Queen Bryna Linden, Owosso, junior and Alpha Epsilon Phi, will be hostesses.

Public School Teachers To Attend Research Clinic

Nearly 1,000 reading teachers from public and parochial schools will meet at Kellogg Center Thursday and Friday for the ninth annual conference of the Michigan Reading Association (MRA).

President of the MRA is William K. Durr, professor in the College of Education.

The teachers will be able to attend a total of 72 group sessions and view a display of new instructional materials. Fifty-two morning sessions will consider such topics as a linguistic approach to oral reading, motivation reading, words-in-color and reading for the culturally deprived.

Subjects for the 20 afternoon meetings include pre-kindergarten language arts, creativity in reading, developing rate of comprehension and critical reading.

Headline speakers are Joseph E. Brzezinski, supervisor of the Reading Research Office, Denver (Colo.) Public Schools; William I. Martin Jr., author and editor of children's books; and Dorothy Kendall Bracken, director of the Southern Methodist University Reading Clinic and president-elect of the International Reading Association.

The topic of discussion will be "The U.S. Policy in South Viet Nam." The meeting at 8 p.m. in Parlor C Union is open to the public.

Parts Have Role

Justice Speaks To Honorary

Law enforcement officers, lawyers, and courts are all integral pieces of a machinery for justice, Otis Smith, Michigan Supreme Court justice, said Tuesday night to Alpha Phi Sigma, police administration honorary.

Justice Smith stressed the importance of understanding the system of this machinery.

"Every department has a role to play that is best played according to the rules of the department," he said.

Law enforcement officers, Justice Smith said, often accuse the courts of not backing them up. "If law enforcement has friction with the law, it is mostly because of misunderstanding. The courts are not superior but are cast into a role," he explained.

Although these two pieces of the machinery sometimes appear separate, they are not. Justice Smith said that there is no real substantial friction between them.

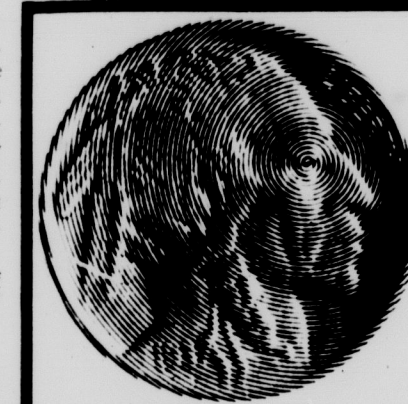

A good police officer knows his job is just to make the arrest. Punishment is the responsibility of the courts.

"The smart cop understands he has done his job when he has found the person he thinks is guilty, gathered the evidence legally, and given it to the district attorney," Justice Smith said.

Another piece in the machinery is the defense attorney. The canons of his profession require that he persistently raise every defense for a man even if guilt is obvious, Justice Smith said.

"Even if a guilty man goes free at least the system didn't compromise," he said.
