The significant things about Tuesday's referendum on the student government constitution is that it passed in almost every area of campus, Chuck Stoddard, director of internal affairs, said Wed-

The constitution, which provides for a 14-member student board as the main governing body, was approved by off-campus voters and in every residence hall complex except South Campus.

The constitution still passed in residence halls as a whole by about 300 votes, and passed in the classroom polls and off-campus living units by 961 votes.

The 39 per cent turnout of undergraduate students is the largest number ever to vote in campus elections. About 25 per cent of the students voted in the mock presidential election fall term.

"I think this is an indication of what can happen when all campus governing groups unite and work towarda common goal," said Bob Harris, All University Student Government president. "It shows that sutdents do want

For years the term "student apathy" has been almost synonymous with student government. The record turnout for Tuesday's election showed that the students are not apathetic. Interest on both sides of the question ran high.

I Wonder What Next Term's Show Will Be?

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs will meet tonight. hopefully to consider recommendations from the Subcommittee on Off- Campus Housing for liberalization of the housing rules. The subcommittee is the group that has been meeting with students to poll their ideas on housing, and the group to which a 4,200-name petition calling for liberalization was presented.

If all has gone as it should, according to Charles Titkemeyer, associate professor of anatomy and chairman of the Student Affairs Committee, the subcommittee will have reached some conclusions as to what changes ought to be made.

After the parent committee discusses them tonight, any recommendations for change will start down the long path through further investigation, passage by the committee, the president's office and finally to the Board of Trustees. The board, Titkemeyer emphasized, makes all changes in rules. The committees only recommend.

The question arises, as it always does, whether anyone will know what changes are being considered until after they are passed upon by the board. It is by no means unusual for major changes in University policy to be kept under wraps until this point, ostensibly to prevent undue pressure on the trustees.

The effect is almost invariably widespread dissatisfaction on campus, from students and faculty upset at being considered unimportant to the process of change.

Louis F. Hekhuis, director of student activities and chairman of the Off-Campus Housing Subcommittee, was quoted in Tuesday's State News as saying "I can't see that it would make much difference" whether or not the changes under consideration were publicized.

This is nonsense, and Hekhuis must realize it. He was speaking only of the subcommittee's recommendations to the Student Affairs Committee, which must decide for itself whether it will publicize its recommendations to the Board of Trustees before the board passes on them.

Point Of View---

The New War In Viet Nam

- By Richard A. Strait

Editor's Note: Richard A. Strait is a Walled Lake sophomore majoring in political science.

In my opinion, those great dissenters, those short-sighted critics of the U.S. position in South Viet Nam who float about on their bubbles of idealism and who hope to end the problems of that country by withdrawing U.S. support and/or by negotiating a "settlement" immediately, have failed to comprehend fully the far-reaching consequences of their solution.

It seems that these people tend to view the conflict as merely a fratricidal dispute which can be patched up at the conference table or resolved by eliminating foreign influence from the country. The solution is not so simple.

The conflict in Viet Nam is much more than a civil war, as in fact indicated by the foreign patronage given both sides, and a negotiated settlement at this time would not solve the problem from the U.S. standpoint or the standpoint of the South Vietnamese, who obviously do not want to accept communism in return for a cease-fire.

That, in fact, the struggle is more than a civil war has been documented in the State Department's white paper which cites concrete evidence of North Vietnamese acts of aggression, which would indicate that the South Vietnamese are fighting North Vietnamese invaders, not just Viet Cong rebels.

The fact that the war is much more than a civil rebellion is also indicated by the ideological conflict involved, enhanced by the conflicting aims of Communist China and the United States in the Southeast Asian complex.

The avowed objective of Communist China is to establish paramountcy in Southeast Asia as a means to eliminating all Western influence in the area. In effect, this is tantamount to establishing regimes favorable to Chinese guidance in the Southeast Asian countries by supporting indigenous Communist groups in a struggle to win control of the governmental apparatus by utilizing political and

The United States, having recognized this threat, instigated the policy of containment, which in the Southeast Asian context meant safeguarding the independence of the countries of Southeast Asia 'against the imminent danger of communist absorption, either overtly in consequence of external aggression or covertly as the result of internal subversion.

To achieve this goal, the United States began bolstering the military strength of these countries while, at the same time, fostering political, social and economic development along the lines of the Western system.

In giving aid, however, military support far outstripped any other type of assistance due to the seemingly immediate threat of Communist military activity. This policy was effected in 1950 and its central thesis remains the same today--i.e., to help preserve the independence of free countries when they are endangered by communist absorption.

From these two conflicting positions arises the basic factor inhibiting successful negotiation of the situation in South Viet Nam, for the two views have produced a virtual standoff in Southeast Asia.

Thus, a great paradox is born and with it the deadly conflict. With neither side willing to compromise, there can be no basis for nego-

We did attempt to negotiate in Laos, and the resulting Geneva Agreements of 1961-62 clearly delimits the effectiveness of an imposed "neutralization" in Southeast Asia, especially with reference to possible negotiations in South Viet Nam. Any treaty is useful only so long as all the members abide by the agreements; obviously, not everyone upheld the Geneva Agreements on Laos.

The Communist-controlled Pathet Lao ignored their pledges, and the protocol arrangements were insufficiently strong to prevent the flagrant violations of the accords.

As a result, the fighting in the country continued, the people remained divided along the same political lines, Viet Minh cadres remained in the hills, and the Viet Minh continued to use trails in Laos to attack South Viet Nam. Only the Western powers withdrew from Laos, the Communists remained.

From this it is evident that negotiated neutralism for the Communists is a tactical weapon "to be honored only so long as necessity or expediency dictates and meanwhile to be exploited as opportunity affords" and therefore should never be considered as a permanent alternative to Communist victory in a neutral state. In view of this consideration, the effects of immediate negotiation in South

The domino theory has not become "less significant" and the State Department is justified in its position, for in view of the Communist Chinese ideological position, an American withdrawal from . the region would ultimately result in handing over the 235,000,000 you will not be permitted to people of Southeast Asia to the fate of communism. Testimony Heard In Bank Case

WASHINGTON--Senate investigators heard testimony Wednesday that Don C. Silverthorne financed his gambling by misusing his authority as president of the San Francisco National Bank. The bank failed last January.

Silverthorne told newsmen in San Francisco the story is untrue. Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon told the Senate investigations subcommittee that Silverthorne shared his profits with William S. Bennett, identified only as a San Francisco associate and apparently, Las Vegas gambling houses.

Saxon said Silverthorne charged borrowers commissions for making loans or sold them stock in another bank.

No Seat For West Recommended

LANSING -- A House committee Wednesday recommended that troubled state Representative Daniel West be officially not seated after his apparent re-election last November. The committee, headed by Oak Park Democrat Albert Kramer, issued a report recommending that West, a Detroit Democrat, not be seated because he falsified personal information in his campaign for the House seat.

GOP Leaders Demand Negro Rights

WASHINGTON--Republican policy leaders demanded Wednesday that the federal government act to guarantee southern Negroes the right to vote in next year's Congressional election.

Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he is at work now on a voting rights bill that may be ready for introduction next Tuesday. He did not spell out its terms.

Baby "Black Market" Curb Approved

WASHINGTON -- The Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday approved a bill aimed at curbing what the committee called a "black market" in babies. It would provide federal criminal penalties for interstate trafficking for profit in the placement of children for adoption or permanent free care. The bill is virtually identical with a measure passed by the Senate on Sept. 25 last year but on which the House failed

Ted Kennedy Asks Action On Rights

BOSTON -- Sen. Edward M. Kernedy, D-Mass., brother of the late President John F. Kennedy, Wednesday called for "resolute federal action" in the Selma, Ala., civil rights struggle.

The Senator issued a statement from his Boston office, declaring that action by the federal government "is needed to protect the individual rights of citizens to peacefully petition for the redress of legitimate grievances."

Wilson To Visit Johnson

LONDON--Prime Minister Harold Wilson has arranged an informal visit to President Johnson in Washington about mid-April to discuss Viet Nam and other world problems, aides reported Wednesday.

They said the British leader is setting up the meeting with Johnson as a side-trip to the main purpose of his journey to the United States. That purpose is to make a major speech to the Economic Club of New York, an influential group of international bankers.

It will be Wilson's second appearance in the United States since he became prime minister in mid-October.

Elephants Called Inoffensive

DA NANG, Viet Nam--Somebody evidently has decided those 20 elephants sighted 12 miles northwest of Da Nang Tuesday were wild, and hence militarily inoffensive.

The sighting, which came while newly-landed U.S. Marines were reinforcing defenses of the Da Nang air base, led to a report that an air strike had been ordered against the herd.

The lumbering beasts were browsing near the rim of Viet Congcontrolled country and specualtion was that they were potential carriers of heavy equipment for the Red Guerrillas.

But they browsed on in peace. The bombers stayed aground. There was no authoritative explanation.

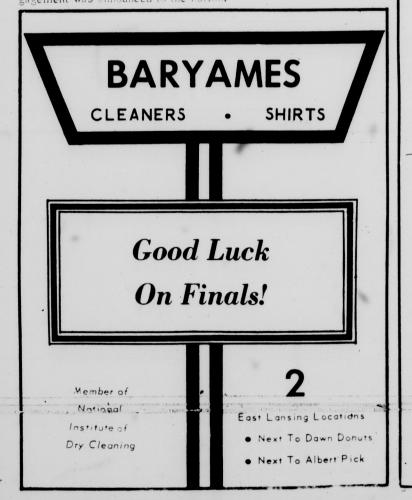

No Chance Of Conference Says Cong Rep

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia -- A political representative of the VietCong said Wednesday he doesn't see the opportunity for an international conference on South Viet Nam. If everybody and his duck-billed platypus phones Long Distance at 9 P.M.

Why don't you phone earlier-or later?

Like, say, anytime between 8 P.M. and 4:30 A.M. week nights, or anytime (day or night) on Sunday.

Those are the times when the lowest station-to-station Long Distance rates are in effect. They never get any lower!

By the way, station-to-station calls between points in Michigan always cost somewhat more when you call "Collect." But, you don't have to wait 'til 8 P.M. to phone because the lowest rates for "Collect" calls start at 6 P.M. week nights. And they are also in effect every weekend—all day Saturday and Sunday.

So avoid the rush. There's plenty of time to call Long Distance and still get the lowest rates. Long Distance is the next best thing to being there.

Among other things, the Chinese realize that their atomic development complex at Lop Nor in Sinkiang Province stands high on the U.S. target list if they should invite retaliation.

President Johnson, who has the final say on "hot pursuit," is mindful of the lessons of the Korean War. He is pictured as feeling that whenever a nation signals its refusal to use all armed power available it weakens its freedom of action militarily and also undercuts its bargaining power in event of negotiations.

Johnson, it is known, prefers to keep the Red Chinese and Communist North Vietnamese guessing as to U.S. intentions--and that is the view of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as well.

Mandelstamm: 'Laugh 'n Learn'

By JOHN ALTOMARE State News Staff Writer

Allan B. Mandelstamm, associate professor of economics, adheres to an unusual philosophy in his teaching-"Get 'em to laugh and you might get 'em to learn."

Unfortunately, students who have never had the opportunity to laugh and learn with him will have to wait a while. He will be taking part in MSU's Thailand project during the upcoming spring term.

Probably the biggest laugh Mandelstamm gets is from his insistence on being called Handsome Al. Although he is a 'big ham" and enjoys "being laughed at," Handsome Al also feels that occasional humor makes the students feel at ease and creates a relaxed atmosphere more conducive to learning.

"If nothing else, laughing keeps them awake," he says, "especially in the morning lecture."

Early arrivals at his lectures are often treated to a soul- also taught at the University of shattering rendition of 'Besame Michigan, Northwestern and Van-Mucho," or some equally allur- derbilt. ing melody. Handsome Al is also a great dancer and is currently giving his lecture session Tango lessons. "I'm fantastic," he says, "and I'll be glad to receive applications from hopeful dancing partners, preferably female." He urges anyone interested to get in touch with him immediately.

"I think that if I do hold the classes' interest, it is because of my humorous delights and also partly because of my vocal inflection," he says.

Handsome Al has a voice that ranges over several octaves. (This is undoubtedly a contributing factor to his tremendous singing ability). He can often be heard screeching "All right kiddees," his favorite phrase and "schlecht," his favorite word.

"Schlecht means 'bad' in German," Al explains, "but I use it as a noun, verb, adjective, adverb, participle, pronoun, preposition, prefix, suffix or any other part of speech I feel is appropriate."

Handsome Al joined the MSU faculty in the fall of 1963. He has

Dragons And Mice

A collection of about 80 miniature Japanese sculptures dating from the 13th century is on display at Kresge Art Center until

According to Chinese and Japanese custom, these sculptured pieces, called netsuke, are worn on the body and serve a functional purpose as containers for opium, coins and tobacco.

Pieces done by famous artists are also considered status symbols, said Subrata Lahiri, East Lansing graduate student, who put the collection together.

The most valuable netsuke pieces in the collection are those that have signatures, signifying that they are original, he said. The pieces usually represent human or animal forms. Mice, the symbol of prosperity and dragons, the national symbol of China, are often represented. The most common materials

Concert Called Rare Treat

By LEON WHEELER State News Reviewer

The twains of two leading operatic figures, Jean Madeira, contralto and Richard Lewis, tenor, met Tuesday night on the stage of the University Auditorium and afforded the 1,500 people who heard the concert a particularly rare musical treat that will not soon be forgotten. Accompanying the fine artist was George Silfies, a former MSU Music Department faculty member.

Lewis opened the program with recitatives and airs from oratorios of Handel, "Waft Her, Angel (Jeptha)," and "Sound and Alarm (Judas Maccabaeus)," and the air from the dramatic cantata Acis and Galatea "Would you gain the Tender Creature." Lewis also sang a group of English-German songs.
