Board Names New Editors For Student Publications

Charles C. Wells and Jay Arthurs were selected to be the 1965-66 editors of the State News and the Wolverine respectively, by the Student Board of Publications Thursday.

Wells, an East Lansing junior, is currently Campus Editor of the State News.

Arthurs, who has been working for the Wolverine for a year, is a sophomore from Solon, Ohio.

The editor of the Veterinarian for next year is Lauralee Sherwood, a veterinary medicine student from Pontiac.

Fred George, Royal Oak sophomore, was appointed editor of the Spartan Engineer. Arthur Langer, New York graduate student, will be business manager of the State News for the second year.

The business manager of the Veterinarian will be Gayle Weirich, Hart veterinary medicine student.

In stating his plans for the coming year, Wells said that the State News will strive for a positive approach but criticize when necessary.

The State News will broaden its coverage to include faculty and administration news on an equal level with student news, he said.

Wells said he thinks the State News should be free from outside pressure groups but should champion causes that would be beneficial to students, such as a more responsive student government.

2nd ASMSU Leader Resigns From Office

John Miller, Student Board member-at-large, resigned Wednesday night, becoming the second high-ranking ASMSU member to quit this week.

Dave Jensen, vice president for special projects, announced his intention to resign for academic reasons earlier this week.

Miller said parental pressure concerning his academic work prompted his resignation.

"Mounting tension between myself and my parents, brought on by an increase in activities accompanied by a decrease in academic efforts furthered the situation," his letter reads in part.

"To this has been added the pressure put on me by the realization of graduation and graduate school and the responsibilities incurred with them."

Miller held one of the two appointed, member-at-large posts.

The board formally accepted both resignations Wednesday.

Petitions for both positions are available now in 308 Student Services and must be returned by 5 p.m. Tuesday. Any student with a 2.0 all University grade point average is eligible for either office.

The board will hold a special meeting Tuesday night to select the new officials.

Warren Platt, St. John's, Ariz., senior, has been appointed interim vice president for special projects so work can be continued on next year's popular entertainment series. He held the same post in the past All University Student Government (AUSG).

The board refused to accept the nomination of John New - junior, Harpers Ferry, W. Va., for the position because no open petitioning, required by the constitution, had been held.

"This was purely an oversight," said Webb Martin, board vice chairman.

Position Taken On Discrimination

By JO BUMBARGER ASMSU Writer

The Student Board went on record Wednesday as opposing discrimination and referring creation of a campus human relations commission to the steering committee until investigation is completed.

"There has been some talk recently as to whether or not we oppose racial and religious discrimination," said Carl Friberg, president of the Inter-Co-op Council.

"I think we should make our position clear."

The motion passed unanimously on a roll-call vote.

A committee composed of Friberg and Nancy Aylesworth, Panhel president, has been studying what the Board can do to prevent discrimination.

"We are trying to determine what the general University policies are now, what student government should do and how far it can go," Friberg explained.

The Human Relations Commission, to consist of at least two Negroes, one Latin American and one board member, would have three purposes:

1. To co-operate in an educational Human Relations Week with the East Lansing city government next fall.
2. To hear grievances.
3. To establish better communications between East Lansing and the University.

The proposal is expected to come out at next week's regular meeting at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The board defeated a motion for a referendum next Thursday on raising the student tax ceiling from 25 cents to $1.

"We are not opposed to raising the tax, but we don't feel there is time for the students to become sufficiently informed by Thursday," said John McQuitty, Board chairman.

The measure was defeated 7-4 on another roll-call vote.

A higher tax would be used to expand and begin programs such as popular entertainment, a student discount service and a discount bookstore, travel services, loans up to $25 instead of the present $15, a larger legal aid fund, campus magazine, scholarships, free tutoring service and a great issues series.

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Auditorium Speech On Viet Nam

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will deliver an address on American policy in Viet Nam at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Auditorium.

Carl T. Rowan Jr., director of the U.S. Information Agency, will speak on the same program.

The appearance of Humphrey and Rowan is sponsored by the MSU People-To-People Association, a newly-formed student organization which plans to "adopt" a village in South Viet Nam.

The students hope to finance educational, sanitary and other community facilities in the town of Long Yen near Saigon.

David R. Murphy, chairman of the people-to-people project, says Viet Nam was selected because "there has been more suffering and less development there than in any comparable country at this time."

Tickets for the Humphrey speech are $1. They are now on sale in the International Center, Union Ticket Office, the Disc Shop in East Lansing and the Paramount News Shop in downtown Lansing.

Saugatuck Police Prepare 'To Be Firm' On Weekend

The police department of Saugatuck will be cracking down on students over the Memorial Day weekend.

In a letter to the MSU Dean's office, Lynn McCray, mayor of Saugatuck, said that students arrested over the holiday unable to post bond will have to remain in jail until Tuesday or until their case is called.

McCray explained that the Saugatuck Township Justice Court will be closed after regular office hours. The hours are 9-4 p.m. weekdays and 9-2 p.m. Saturday.

The village has hired additional police for the weekend and they are prepared to be firm.

The mayor closed the letter with the statement that "it is our desire to keep this village a good place for young people and families to enjoy their vacations and to be able to walk down our streets without being insulted by a group of young college people."

Tom Johnson, owner of the Coral Gables in Lansing and the Old Crow in Saugatuck, offered a few suggestions for students planning to visit Saugatuck over the weekend:

- Have a place to stay. The police will be looking for people sleeping on the beaches and on lawns. If there are no available places in Saugatuck, then go to one of the surrounding cities.
- Bring a set of decent school clothes. Students will not be allowed in the Old Crow and other establishments after 8 p.m. in shorts or beach clothing.
- Abide by the restrictions.

Don't deliberately look for trouble and you won't find it.

"The trouble is not caused by college students," Johnson said, "but by high school students posing as college students."

"In the past the college students have been well-behaved," he said. "The ones who cause the trouble are the high school students who mill around with nothing to do."

East Akers Students Try Raid, Spelling

Between 60 and 70 male students from East Akers Hall, attempting to stage an impromptu panty raid at 2 a.m. Thursday, were returned to their dorm without incident.

Campus police chief Adam J. Zutaut said the resident advisers from the dorm did a good job in getting things quieted down and keeping everything under control.

These same students broke into Holmes Hall and turned on lights in different rooms to make a sign six stories high reading "sex."

At the same time campus police were helping to quiet the East Akers students, the East Lansing fire department was called to East Wilson Dormitory on a false alarm. A half-hour later another false alarm took firemen to Spartan Village, where residents complained of smelling escaping gas.

A gasoline operated pump was reported stolen yesterday from the high-rise construction site between Fee and Akers Dormitories.

Renowned Scientist Dies At 71

Dr. I. Forest Huddleson, one of the most noted scientists ever associated with Michigan State, died Wednesday at Edward W. Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. He was 71.

Dr. Huddleson, professor emeritus of microbiology and public health, had retired last July 1 after 49 years of service with MSU.

Because of his extensive basic research on brucellosis (undulant fever) he was known throughout the world wherever this serious disease of animals and men is scientifically studied and treated.

His research is generally credited as the basis for the procedures which have helped to bring the disease under control in Michigan and other states.

He received the B.S. degree at Oklahoma State University in 1915 and came to MSU as a research assistant. He received the M.S. degree in 1916, the D.V.M. in 1925 and the Ph.D. in 1937, all at MSU.

Dr. Huddleson was the author of some 170 professional articles dealing with his research and of three books on brucellosis.

He was a member of Sigma Xi and former president of the MSU chapter. He was also a

No Classes Meet Monday

Classes and offices will be closed Monday in observance of Memorial Day.

Departmental libraries, such as the chemistry and the music libraries, will be closed both Sunday and Monday of the holiday weekend.

The main library, however, will be open at its regular hours-Sunday from 2 p.m. until 11, Monday from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m.

The State News will not publish Monday.

Task Forces Smash Cong

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S.-Vietnamese task force smashed a Viet Cong gathering Thursday 25 miles south of the Da Nang Air Base reputed to include many Red unit officers of that strategic area.

Against the death of one Vietnamese soldier, about 85 Viet Cong were killed and 27 suspects were captured in this potentially crippling action against the guerrillas' regional command.

SEX AT HOLMES--Several students entered Holmes Hall early Wednesday morning and spelled out the word "sex" with the room lights. One has to admit that the display was more "flashy" than the football card section.

'Pop' Package Investigated

ASMSU has holds on these plans. The plan was to sell a coupon book at $10, or single tickets at $2 each.

Warren Platt, former All University Student Government vice president for special projects, attended the meeting to warn the board that the program would not be financially sound.

He said that a budget of $60,000 would require at least 6,000 season tickets, a number a third over attendance at any popular entertainment shows this year.

"The largest attendance we ever had was 4,102," Platt said.

He also told the Board that ASMSU would be unable to break future contracts if the first shows were financially unsuccessful. The proposal was referred for further study to a committee including Platt and William Floate, president of Men's Halls Association, who had been working on the series.

The measure was defeated 7-4 on another roll-call vote.

A higher tax would be used to expand and begin programs such as popular entertainment, a student discount service and a discount bookstore, travel services, loans up to $25 instead of the present $15, a larger legal aid fund, campus magazine, scholarships, free tutoring service and a great issues series.

Arrest 38 At HUAC Hearing

CHICAGO (AP)—A concerted rush by some 30 young men to crash into a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities Thursday was broken up by police and federal marshals in hand to hand grappling.

During the struggle, and a subsequent sit-down by male and female demonstrators outside the building where the committee was holding its third and final day of hearings in Chicago, 38 persons were arrested.

One youth was cut on the head in the melee.

The disturbance outside the former U.S. Court of Appeals Building on Lake Shore Drive was preceded by ouster of four girl spectators from the courtroom where the committee was taking testimony.

They were removed when one of them rose and began to sing "America" while a witness, Dorothy M. Hayes, was being questioned. The other three stood up and joined in the singing, then the four were taken from the room.

Miss Hayes, of Chicago, was the ninth consecutive witness who refused to answer questions put by Alfred Nittle, committee counsel.

Nittle said during questioning of unresponsive witnesses that several of them had been subpoenaed to give their versions of information given to the committee that they had been active in affairs of Communist front organizations.

The disorders at the front entrance of the building started with a sudden surge while pickets, who took little or no part in them, stroled back and forth.

The gate-rushers gathered on the Lake Michigan beach across the busy local and express traffic drive from the courthouse.

Sit-Down Showdown

Tuesday night's sit-down demonstration for open occupancy was the climactic point in the growing campaign by campus area groups to move East Lansing to greater concern for the racial problem.

The traffic tie-up was a hasty affair, planned quickly and carelessly, and it caught its participants almost as much by surprise as it did the city.

As in their previous actions, the participants consciously imported Southern civil rights techniques into the North in a situation that seems not to merit this.

The trick in the South is to make the issue (no pun) black and white--to divide those in favor of civil rights from those against, and then play on the power of the two sides.

In East Lansing, if the trick works, the pro's should eventually be strong enough to move the city to action.

When Mayor Gordon L. Thomas makes statements that seem less than favorable to action on civil rights, he makes himself a "con" in the groups' eyes and the sides are even.

everyone in the area is forced to choose his side.

Thus, East Lansing is primed to become a Northern battleground of the civil rights movement after the fashion of the Southern movement.

Since Tuesday night's demonstrations--or since the City Hall demonstration a week earlier--East Lansing has had to divide up. The sloppy planning that went into Tuesday night in many cases did not prevent civil rights supporters from accepting the action.

Participants in Tuesday night's sit-down and their sympathizers--there are many more than 59 "committed" to East Lansing civil rights--are planning a rally for next week to cap off the year and explain why they have done what they have done.

East Lansing had better move in the direction of civil rights action soon, or the "pro" side will be back, probably in the fall, to let the city know it still means it. If it does not move, the "cons" will have won a battle, but the war will continue.

This, it seems from here, is the meaning of the series of civil rights demonstrations that have fairly knocked East Lansing for a loop.

The demonstrators have disrupted the city and the University and have broken laws and acted unwisely, but if their tactic works, some sort of civil rights action will be taken.

'Why We Sat In'

Editor's Note: The following statement, signed "The East Lansing Civil Rights Movement," was datelined Ingham County Jail, 9 a.m. Wednesday.

The problem of civil rights is that the gulf between the peoples who have experienced humiliation as a people and those who have not is the deepest and most significant we have to face, and that contemplation of this gulf and awareness of its meaning is the chief essential for dealing with this problem.

This gulf exists in East Lansing. We, and others before us, through discussion and demonstrations, have tried to impress upon the people the growing seriousness of this gulf that has divided Americans from each other.

Despite all their protestations of good faith the leaders of this community have failed to grasp the moral urgency of this problem. They are men of good faith, but their moral vision is blinded. Our discussions and demonstrations have not given them the new vision that these times require.

Stronger action was necessary. Civil disobedience is a dramatic force. But we are not trying with it to force those opposing us to change. We are trying to force them to look at the situation in a new way.

More than a year after the need for legal action to cope with housing discrimination was brought by East Lansing citizens to the attention of their City Council, no action has been taken.

No legal report has been made, and the mayor of East Lansing is, by his own admission, still uninformed about many aspects of the problem. Despite resolutions expressing concern, despite existence of guarantees in the state constitution, there is no rapid justice for the many persons denied rental on the basis of race, and discrimination still exists in the sale of housing.

The meeting Tuesday night was the culmination of three weeks of discussion. Despite previous reports that the resolutions of legal problems were the chief obstacles, Mayor Thomas revealed that he was opposed to an open occupancy ordinance, even if proven legal. While he expressed qualified support for an ordinance banning discrimination in licensed rentals he would promise no immediate action.

In a community, moral leadership cannot be founded on the basis of equivocation of this kind. Negotiations had yielded nothing but exposure of hypocrisy. The only action left--action which we had discussed for weeks--was civil disobedience.

At 11 p.m. we confronted the community with a plea to search their hearts. The gravity of the action--jeopardizing one's freedom and suffering the indignities of jeers and jail--is testimony to the immediacy of the issue. Some will be deterred by our action, but few will remain indifferent.

We have made our commitment. We ask those deterred by our action to again search their hearts. We beseech those who with us realize the seriousness of the situation to also take action--to take the risk of speaking out and acting for that which they know to be good and right.

Hugh's Views

A Waste Of Energy

By Hugh J. Leach

There was a time when I had confidence that the college students of today would be the capable and efficient leaders of tomorrow. Part of this confidence is now irreparably shattered.

How, I ask, can I have faith in a group that acts in a childish manner, demanding to have immediately things that they should know can only be had over a period of time, and that flaunts law and order and openly dares police to take punitive action.

I refer, of course, to the student "protest groups" that have recently made such a hue and cry over open housing in East Lansing.

I realize that East Lansing does have a problem in this area, and I heartily endorse the goals the protestors are trying to attain. But I condemn the childish methods they are using. They seem to be acting like a group of children told they could have a sack of candy "in a minute" but staging a massive temper tantrum as a result, hoping they can get the candy immediately.

Agreed, the group in this case has the right to have its candy now, but the temper tantrum won't help. It could even keep the children from getting the candy at all.

At any rate, I don't think the possibility of sit-ins and similar demonstrations doing any tangible good is large enough to warrant disobedience of the law.

When the first civil rights sit-in was staged at East Lansing City Hall nearly two weeks ago, those who participated in the actual sit-in, by their own admission, were hoping to get arrested, but were disappointed.

Those who participated in Tuesday night's demonstration had the same hopes. They were accommodated.

But what did they really accomplish, other than getting their names on a police blotter? They probably won the admiration of their supporters, but other than that they accomplished little or nothing of a constructive nature.

It seems strange that these groups openly break laws, albeit minor laws, while at the same time striving to convince the city council to pass an ordinance guaranteeing open housing. If the protestors can break the laws of others, why shouldn't others be allowed to break the law the protestors "worked" for? There seems to be some inconsistency.

Although the protestors expect and, seemingly, eagerly await the law officers who carry them away, they are the first to yell if an officer doesn't handle them with kid gloves.

Regardless of their motives, they are disobeying the law. Why should they expect to be treated differently from any other law breaker?

The protestors seem to overlook that police are human too, hard as it may be for them to believe. These men obviously don't enjoy working extra hours to cart protestors off to jail. I'm certain that they have many things they would rather do. You can't blame them if, after an hour of carrying away protestors, they become less gentle.

I, for one, marvel at the restraint the officers have shown so far. Although some protestors have been treated with less gentleness than they think they deserve, there have been no cases of deliberate police brutality.

It is true that there are some who strongly believe protests of this type can do some good. They seem firmly convinced that they are progressing toward their goals through this type of behavior.

Many of the protestors, in fact I might even say a majority, either protest without knowing much about their objectives, or joined so they could make a spectacle of themselves and have fun at the same time.

I have only respect for people like Byron Peterson, although I disagree vehemently with some of his methods. For the other groups, the majority, I have only contempt.

As I disgustedly watched the protestors being carried out of City Hall during the May 17 demonstration, I couldn't help but think too many of them were having too much fun. If their cause was as serious as they supposedly believe it is, a more serious attitude would have been appropriate. This attitude was apparent only in the leaders and a few of the followers.

This observation wasn't entirely my own. Several onlookers including one trained newsmen made the same remark.

At least one demonstrator has said that, if it were possible, he would like to become a professional picketer. He has been in all the protests but one this year, including the Peace in Viet Nam protest and the civil rights demonstrations. Asked why, he replied that it was because he got his kicks from it.

With this type of student involved it is little wonder that the people of East Lansing have little regard for the protestors' demands.

This Has Nothing To Do With That

The Dead 25

By DAVE HANSON

As spring term comes to a close, it is time to look back at all the songs that have been on our lips these nine months and choose the last annual State News "Dead-25" record hits of the academic year.

Yes, who can forget the lilting sounds, the big beat, the noise and the vacuum created whenever we tuned in WJMI, WILS, WERS, WKAR, WITL and WBAD...aring.

The top 25: 25--Who can forget "Barry's gone and won," as rendered by Miss Calculation and the Landslides last fall.

24--And then I wrote "The Yankees in Five," sung by Johnny Keane, backed by the Mets fan club.

23--Then there was "Walk Right In, Sit Right Down," a hit this spring as sung by the Demonstrators.

22--Still rising on the charts is "Justice Is All in the Way You Look At It," by the Supremes.

21--And "I Want to Hold Your Paw," by Don Sokol.

20--"There's a Place for Us," by the Unknown Three, on the Red Agent label.

19--"It's All in How You Play the Game," by Forddy Anderson and the Lacklusters, on the Obscurity label.

18--Winter term we heard "He Put the Snow There, Let Him Remove It," by the Maintenance Men.

17--We're still humming, "Color Me Slow," by the Bus Drivers.

16--Remember fall term's top pop, "AUSG, Never Leave Me," by the Dreamers.

15--And the follow-up, just out, "ASMSU, We're Behind You to the Hilt," by the Apathy's.

14--Then there was, "Registration Will Be a Little Early This Term," by Mad Man and the Mixups.

13--And on the flip side, "What's a Nice Army Like You Doing in a Rotten War Like This," by the Professors.

12--For 10 weeks we heard, "What's New at the Campus Theatre," by Goldfinger and the Bondsmen.

11--A newcomer, "Lotsa Luck," sung by the Beningtons.

10--"Have You Found Any Good Books Lately," by the Librarians.

9--And "Tomorrow We Study, Tonight It's the Gables-A-Go-Go," by Flunky and the Dropouts.

8--Remember "Ice Floe for Two," by Drippy and the Icicles.

7--And how about "When I Saw Her Bloody Kneecaps, I Knew She Was the Skateboarder for Me," by the Wipeouts.

6--And "A Grand River Day for a Luxembourg March, a Capitol Idea," an instrumental in the John Phillip Sousa tradition, played on cymbal, triangle and garbage can top.

5--"Nobody Likes a Pushy Picket," by the East Lansing choir, theme from a situation comedy on television.

4--"A Tree May Grow in Brooklyn, but Here It Grows Where We Tell It To," by Master Plan and the Expansions.

3--Again on the chart this year, "What Are You Doing New Year's Day," by Duffy and the Dulivilles.

2--"Ferry 'Cross the Pendergals," by Lyndon and the Birds.

1--The hit of hits, the song of songs. The one voted the hit of the year by you, the students of MSU, in an impartial poll taken along the Red Cedar--"Get Out Here," by the Lovers.

9--"Nobody Likes a Pushy Picket," by the East Lansing choir, theme from a situation comedy on television.

8--"A Tree May Grow in Brooklyn, but Here It Grows Where We Tell It To," by Master Plan and the Expansions.

7--Again on the chart this year, "What Are You Doing New Year's Day," by Duffy and the Dulivilles.

LBJ Policy Violates Ideals

To the Editor:

Throughout history nations have endeavored to safeguard their national interests by the military subjugation of other nations. If history has taught us anything, it has taught us that no single nation has ever been strong enough to achieve a state of enduring security by this means.

With the advent of liberal democracy, which accepted the multiplicity of man's interests, a flickering candle of hope was kindled within man. If he worked hard enough, he might attain rationality; if he debated long enough, he might achieve consensus; if he restrained himself enough, he might transcend the bias and prejudice of emotion and someday establish a stable world order based on the mutuality of man's interests.

The United States was conceived in, and dedicated to, this ideal. It is my feeling that President Johnson's recent policy statement, in which he stated our intention of unilaterally intervening wherever the threat of "communism" appears in the Western Hemisphere, represents a giant stride toward the fatal direction taken so often by our historical predecessors. This outrageous proclamation (in terms of our own ideology) is rationalized by virtue of its "anti-Communist" orientation.

Since the culmination of the Bolshevik Revolution in 1917 the fear of the Communist ideology in the United States, reinforced by the Palmers and the McCarthys, has become increasingly more hysterical until today it borders on paranoia. The opportunity for the expression of man's multiple interests is the essence of our political philosophy. This condition is being prostituted by its increasing subordination to the single, all encompassing interest of "Anti-Communism. In this sense Communism does present a real threat to our society--not because of what it is, but because of what we perceive it to be.

In reality communism is nothing more than a utopian dream based on the myth of an economically determined man. The forces that threaten United States today are generated by the national power of Russia and China--not the ideology they use to legitimize their totalitarian regimes.

Yet, our policy makers persist in conceptualizing communism as a monolithic force that transcends all other interests. Social reform movements, that may or may not be anti-American, are immediately identified as "Communist" and the most extreme and brutal measures of suppression are sanctioned. On the basis of this assumption we have rationalized our support of military dictatorships throughout the world.

We have adopted the futile position of attempting to maintain the status quo in areas of the world which have decided that they no longer want to be poor, hungry and "underdeveloped". As such, we have provided Russia and China with the opportunity to identify themselves with indignant nationalistic movements.

As it had to, our policy has failed. In Cuba we supported Batista who created the conditions that gave birth to a Castro; in Viet Nam we supported Diem and there we still await the final metamorphosis; in the Dominican Republic we supported Trujillo and today we are forced to resort to the same tactics employed by Russia in its ruthless suppression of the Hungarian Revolution in 1956. The "Frankensteins" that "allies" like Franco and Tshombe will generate remain to be seen.

To be sure, it may be argued that these policies were and are necessary to safeguard our national interest. However, is it not a characteristic of the irrational, the ignorant and the unsuccessful that they cannot see beyond their most immediate interests? If man's ultimate interest lies in a world order in which he will be able to express his multiple interests through peaceful interaction, is this interest not jeopardized every time a totalitarian regime is established?

Nevertheless, to this date the impact of our policies has been softened by the fact that they have been indirect. They have been moralized as "advisory missions," "aid" and "peace keeping." Today we carry the logic of our policy one step farther. Tomorrow we will righteously declare our right to unilaterally invade "country X" because we think it is threatened with "communism." Despite the fact that we possess the greatest military force ever assembled by man we shall not long be able to sustain this policy. And as we act in contradiction to our democratic ideal internationally, so we must also eventually do so domestically. The candle that once promised so much will have flickered for the last time and the world will be enveloped in darkness.

Princess Margaret To Come To U.S.

Margaret

LONDON--Princess Margaret, regarded for years as the gayest member of Britain's Royal Family, will visit the United States for the first time next November.

With her will go her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, the former society photographer who now bears the title Lord Snowdon. The visit will last three weeks, in the course of which they will visit San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington and New York.

The princess is expected to take off Nov. 4 but exact dates--and details of her program--have yet to be fixed.

Dominicans Step Up U.S. Criticisms

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)--The two rival Dominican political factions stepped up their criticism of United States peace efforts here Thursday.

Santo Domingo, meanwhile, continued a slow return to normalcy with cease-fire violations dwindling to their lowest point in a month.

For the first time since American servicemen landed here a month ago, no U.S. Marines or paratroops were fired on in the 24-hour period ending midnight Wednesday.

Indonesia-China To Confer

JAKARTA--Foreign Minister Subandrie Thursday prepared to leave for a scheduled meeting with Chinese Communist party chief Chou En-lai in Canton.

The nature of Subandrie's trip has not been disclosed. However, observers believed Indonesia was seeking Communist Chinese backing in an attempt to block Malaysia's participation at the Afro-Asian conference in Algiers next month.

President Sukarno and Subandrie joined Wednesday to voice charges the United States and Britain were plotting to attack Indonesia from Malaysia.

U.S.-Britain Want To Halt Weapon Spread

LONDON--Prime Minister Harold Wilson disclosed Thursday Britain and the United States together are drafting a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons.

Government officials expect the draft to be complete in a week or so for discussion with other allied powers.

Terrorists Renew Bolivian Blasting

LA PAZ, Bolivia--A pre-dawn wave of terrorist dynamite explosions and sniper gunfire injured at least three persons Thursday. Government sources said some 16 persons were arrested in connection with the blasts.

Electric service in the capital was disrupted temporarily. Soldiers were moved into the suburban sections, where the explosions occurred, to root out the snipers and look for caches of dynamite.

New Strategy To Fight Crime

CHICAGO--The government, moving against the national crime syndicate, invoked Thursday a legal stratagem by which it hopes to make traditionally mum underworld figures talk.

It amounts to "tell what you know or be locked up until you're ready to tell."

The move was made in U.S. District Court against Momo Salvatore (Sam) Giancana, 57, reputed top man of Chicago's branch of the Cosa Nostra.

More Than They Want

MOSCOW--Soviet canneries have 200 million cans of tasteless cabbage and don't know what to do with them, Pravda said Thursday. The Communist party newspaper said the situation was "catastrophic" because the canneries produced their quota of nearly a billion cans but the flavor of many "was meant for a zinc-lined stomach."

Sparks Fly In Soviet-China Dispute

MOSCOW--Smoldering Soviet-Red Chinese friction over the war in Viet Nam flared up Thursday. The Russians implied that the Chinese are trying to start a world war.

The Communist Party organ Pravda, in an attack on Chinese policy, commented:

"It would be incorrect to hold that only a world war can bring about the unity of the Socialist camp and of all the world Communist movement."

Off-Campus Slips Available

Parental permission slips for under-age students living off-campus in the fall are now available and must be returned to the off-campus housing office by Sept. 1.

Patrick B. Smith, director of off-campus housing, said that these slips must be filled out by the student's parents and returned to the off-campus housing office or the student will be in violation of MSU's housing policy.

"The responsibility is up to the student," Smith said. "He must pick up the form, have his parents sign it, and return it to us by Sept. 1."

The rule applies to those students who will have senior standing, those who will reach the age of 21 during the school year and those with special permission.

Permission slips are available from all head resident advisors and from the off-campus housing office, 162 Student Services.

All Students Are Eligible

Students in all classes will be eligible for an expanded Block S program next year. The block, now run by Spartan Helots, was limited to freshmen last fall.

Members will travel for the first time, going to the MSU-University of Michigan football game at Ann Arbor next Oct. 9. Students in the block will wear green and white capes, forming a green S on a white background at all games next fall.

The block will remain a 1,008-seat section in the center of the end zone.

Students wishing to join should sign up in 325 Student Services between 1 and 5 p.m. weekdays by June 4. They must pay 25-cent dues to join Spartan Helots to be eligible.

Practice will be at noon before home games.

Block 'N Bridle

Block and Bridle will hold its Spring Judging Contests in the Judging Pavilion.

The senior division will be judged from noon to 5 p.m. today and the 111 students division contest 8 a.m. to 12 noon, Saturday.

Economist To Discuss Job Cures

Charles C. Killingsworth, a nationally known labor economist here, will deliver the 1965 Centennial Review lecture at 8:15 tonight in 133 Akers Hall.

Killingsworth's lecture is titled, "Negro Unemployment: Causes and Cures."

The lecture is based on a chapter he is contributing to a new book, "Jobs and Color." The book is being sponsored by the University of California.

Not generally recognized, according to Killingsworth, is that Negro unemployment is the most serious aspect of the entire unemployment picture.

Centennial Review, a quarterly published by MSU, annually invites an outstanding member of the faculty to deliver the lecture.

Killingsworth is a professor in the School of Labor and Industrial Relations. He joined the faculty in 1947 as an associate professor of economics. He was chairman of the Department of Economics from 1949 to 1957. Killingsworth was director of the School of Labor and Industrial Relations from 1956 until 1959.

He has served as an umpire and arbitrator in many labor disputes. He was chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board in 1952-53, and he has written two books and co-authored a third.

Homecoming Chairs Filled

Ten persons have been named to committee chairmanships for next year's Homecoming.

Steve Powers, Livonia, junior, is general chairman.

University Police
Top Pros In Law Enforcement League

Rating with the best in Michigan and national police circles, the University's Department of Public Safety is a full-time, professional law enforcement organization.

Officers are hired as policemen first; students a very low second. On call 24 hours a day, the men of the Department of Public Safety all have at least 2 years of full-time college education behind them. Many have bachelor's degrees, and are working for their master's. A few, like Director Richard O. Bernitt, have their master's degrees.

In constant training programs, the officers also engage in teaching programs of their own, both on the campus and at Lansing Community College.

PART X--ENFORCEMENT

It shall be the duty of the Director of the Department of Public Safety of Michigan State University and any subordinate assigned by him to enforce the laws...

POLICE IN ACTION--Whether on fairly routine duty, upper left; at a briefing session, lower left; answering a call for emergency first aid, center; running down suspected law violators, upper right; or maintaining a road block, lower right; the men of the Department of Public Safety are professionals, enforcing University ordinances as well as state and federal laws.

5 Faculty To Study Overseas

Five members of the MSU Humanities Department will spend their summer overseas studying non-western cultures.

The U.S. Educational Exchange Commission has awarded a Fulbright grant to J. Bruce Burke, assistant professor, for study of Egyptian history and contemporary Egyptian and Arab affairs this summer in Cairo.

Alexander Butler, associate professor, will attend an eight-week seminar in the history of Chinese art at the Art Institute of New York University. The seminar is sponsored by the New York State Board of Education.

Pete Fischer and Austin Moore, both professors, and associate professor Edward Natharius, with other University College faculty and MSU students, will participate in the MSU-University of the Ryukyus exchange program.

They will travel in Okinawa and Japan and attend seminars in Japanese and Okinawan culture, political systems and economic development.

ELLA NANCY COWLES

Language Professor Dies Of Cancer At 53

Miss Ella Nancy Cowles, 53, associate professor of romance languages, died May 20 of cancer.

She was a past president of the Faculty Women's Association and a member of many professional organizations, including Sigma Delta Pi, Delta Kappa Gamma, MEA, AAPSP, the Modern Languages Association and others.

She was a graduate of Western Michigan in 1929, the youngest person, at 18, to have received a BA degree from that institution, received her MA from the University of Michigan in 1934 and her doctorate there in 1952.

Surviving her are her mother, Mrs. Myrta Cowles of East Lansing, and a brother, Earle Cowles of Whittier, Calif.

Two Appointed To Albion Staff

MSU graduate students Carolyn Friedemann and Hans Kissel have been appointed to the faculty at Albion College. They will begin their teaching duties in September.

Miss Friedemann, who will teach home economics, has been completing work for her masters degree at MSU since 1963.

Kissel, who will teach German, has held an assistantship at MSU since 1962.

Chess Tourney

The Second Annual Central Michigan Chess Tournament, to be held Saturday through Monday in the Lansing YMCA, is open to all players. No admission will be charged to spectators.

Games are slated for 7 p.m. Saturday, 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday.

A separate novelty speed tournament, open to anyone who wishes to compete, will be held at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. Each player will complete his entire game in five minutes or less.

Nigerian Officials Impressed By MSU

The Minister of Education for Eastern Nigeria left East Lansing Wednesday with a newfound appreciation for the American educational system, a sense of disbelief about the "massive" size of MSU and a disappointed impression of the "high cost of living in America."

S. E. Imoke, accompanied by I. O. Onyiege, chief inspector of technical education for the Eastern Region, spent four days in Michigan touring MSU and viewing the Jackson public schools.

"I was really surprised at the size of the University and the massive buildings here, especially when I found out there was another university just as big in a state which has only eight million people," Imoke said Wednesday.

"In Nigeria, we have 55 million people. We have only five universities and already some people think that is enough."

Michigan State was chosen as one of the stops for Imoke and Onyiege because this university has long been connected with educational development in the Eastern Region of Nigeria.

Since 1960, MSU advisers have been helping to build the new University of Nigeria in that region. In just five years, that school has become the largest in the nation. The U of N is the first school in that country to be modeled after the American system with emphasis on university-level technical and vocational training.

At present, 30 Michigan State faculty members are serving at the University of Nigeria.

Onyiege explained that the Eastern Nigerian government is attempting to "revolutionize" the educational system by adding new programs modeled after those in American schools.

"We have found the British system to be too conservative," he said.

Imoke said that part of the purpose for his visit was to attempt to find ways to get more science and technical people to come to Nigeria to teach.

After leaving Michigan, Imoke and Onyiege continued to Los Angeles for a stop at the University of California. They will also visit New York, Boston and parts of Canada before returning to Nigeria.

Board Stays At Nsukka

Four members of the 30-man Michigan State advisory team in Nigeria, including the MSU dean of international programs, have had extensions of their stays there approved by the Board of Trustees.

Glen L. Taggart, dean of international programs, will stay in Nigeria for one more year as vice chancellor of the University of Nigeria.

The other advisers remaining in Nigeria past the close of their two-year original terms are

George W. Ferns, vocational education adviser, until August, 1966; George Fritz, continuing education adviser, until June, 1966; and George R. Moore, veterinary science adviser, until August, 1967.

Michigan State has had advisers at the University of Nigeria at Nsukka since its opening in 1960.

Books Wanted For Virgin Islands

A project to collect history books for the Virgin Islands College, Virgin Islands, has been undertaken by the women of Sherwood Forest, second-floor precinct in West Akers Hall.

The college is two years old and needs U.S. history books, so the women have donated money and are collecting books for the project.

Any students who wish to contribute to the project should contact Regina Brandyburg, 273 W. Akers, 353-3230.

Presbyterians Debate Confession Change

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)--United Presbyterians went into a dramatic round of deliberations Tuesday on whether to modify their historic confession of faith. It would be the first change in their creedal position in 318 years.

The new confession would incorporate that document, along with six other famed creeds, into the church's accepted summations of belief, thus removing Westminster from its present exclusive status.

Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, the denomination's chief administrator, said the change would mean "an addition" rather than "a subtraction," since the new confession and six others would supplement the Westminster document.

It would encourage a "broader, more inclusive church," said the Rev. Dr. Edward Dowey, head of the drafting committee.

The "Confession of 1967" takes its title from the fact that it will be two years before it can be finally adopted under the church's process for constitutional change.

On a sensitive point, the new confession departs from the Westminster concept of the Bible as the verbally infallible "word of God and of God--not men--as the author thereof."

Instead, the new confession sees the Bible as the prime, authoritative instrument of conveying the divine revelation.

Choirs Sponsor Ice Cream Social

An ice cream social is being sponsored by the choirs of the University Methodist Church 6-9:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Ice cream, cake and lemonade will be served. Coffee will be extra.

The social will be held on the church lawn, located on Harrison Road across from campus. Tickets are 35 cents per person.

A SECOND HOME AWAY FROM HOME--Twenty-six foreign students visited the villages of Henderson and Hemlock, about 60 miles from Lansing. There they spent the weekend with farm families. Here Mrs. Joan Meredith, international programs specialist, is pointing out host families to two Iranian freshmen, Faramarz Vaziri (right) and Ehsanollah Ziai (middle).

26 Foreign Students Find Family Homes

Twenty-six foreign students, including three families, "found new homes in America" when they recently made a weekend trip to two villages in the Thumb area, Henderson and Hemlock. Cheering farm folks welcomed "strangers" from Iraq, Iran, Kuwait, Pakistan, Argentina, Brazil, Columbia, Chile, Mexico, Venezuela and Japan with open arms.

As the chartered bus carrying students and five children stopped near the Methodist church at Henderson, the host families rushed forward to greet their guests from the Middle East and Latin America. The remaining students were greeted at the next station, Hemlock.

This program of learning about other countries and their cultures, and developing friendship was initiated in 1961 when the Mayville Methodist Church invited a few students from the University of Michigan to spend the weekend with member families of the church. This pilot project was entered into with "some fear and trembling." But it turned out to be a marvelous attempt towards introducing "real America" to the "ambassadors" of distant lands.

Today this combination of 524 families, under the leadership of William B. Lutz, executive director, Christian Rural Hospitality Council, stretches over the areas of Straits of Mackinac, Traverse City and the Saginaw Valley. The towns of Henderson and Hemlock, about 60 miles from Lansing, each have an area of less than a square mile and a population of 200 and 1,000 respectively. The families of these areas have so far played hosts to 1,600 students.

The farewell scenes presented quite a different picture than the introductions. "Welcome, stranger!" had turned into "Goodbye, Friend!"

Scientist

(continued from page 1) member of the American Academy of Microbiology, the American Society for Microbiology, the American Veterinary Medical Association, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Isabel Sieger Huddleson, and four children, Mrs. Lenore Lindquist, currently residing in the Dominican Republic; John W. Huddleson of Woodland Hill, Calif.; Mrs. Louise Wright of Butztown, Pa.; and Mrs. Mary-Lott of East Lansing.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday from the Gorsline-Kunciman East Chapel in East Lansing. Interment will be at Evergreen Cemetery in Lansing.

Harris Joins Council Staff

Effective July 1, the Rev. Manker R. Harris, currently sharing the pastorate of Penway Church of God, Lansing, will join the staff of the Lansing Area Council of Churches as associate director.

Harris, who holds a B.A. from Anderson College and a B.D. from the School of Theology at Anderson, Ind., is currently serving on several Christian education councils and cabinets, including the cabinet of the National Christian Fellowship of the Church of God.

World Church Groups End Round Of Talks

GENEVA (P)--The Roman Catholic Church and The World Council of Churches (WCC), combining more than 200 protestant, anglican and orthodox churches in 80 countries, held their first round of secret talks on closer cooperation this week.

A WCC announcement said the talks were held in the joint working group recently set up by the two bodies.

As the working group has no authority in itself but reports to the two bodies, details of the discussions were not revealed. The announcement said the meetings "proceeded in a spirit of Christian understanding, and it became clear that there were many fields of common interest which need to be studied in the future. It was felt particularly that the work of the group should concentrate on the clarification of principles and methods which should guide common ecumenical activities."

Students Get Awards

The St. Johns Student Parish Awards Banquet was held last Saturday to honor all those students who gave their time and service in helping to run the parish. Guest speaker at the banquet was Marian G. Kinget, associate professor of psychology, who spoke on "The Apostolate of Excellence."

The Leadership Award was given to Mary Ellen Green, East Lansing graduate student. Miss Frieda Hinrichs, MSU Librarian, received the Catholic Action Award and Patrick B. Smith, Owosso graduate student, received the Monsignor MacEachin Speaking Award.

An Ecumenical Award, created especially for the occasion, was given to the Rev. John Duley, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in East Lansing, for his outstanding accomplishments in spiritual guidance of MSU students. He gave the invocation at the banquet.

Distinguished Service Awards were received by Sharon Cassidy, Dearborn junior; Joseph Kely, Louisville, Ky., graduate student; Ira Hutchison, Midland junior; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barrias, East Lansing graduate students; and George Conrade, East Lansing graduate student.

George Conrade, Ray Barrias, Sharon Cassidy, Joseph Kely and Lillian Greene were also given certificates of membership in the John Henry Cardinal Newman National Honor Society.

'Deputy'-Big Theme But Red Army Troupe Show Set Acting 'Lack-Lustre'

By LARRY TATE
State News Reviewer

Rolf Hochhuth's "The Deputy" was a good brave choice for the Arena Theatre.

Whatever its lacks, it is a big play with a big theme--far from the polemic "character assassination" some of its critics would lead us to expect.

The Arena performance, however, is lacklustre at best. Director J.B. Ferzacca has done some good things, but has been unable to draw a single interesting performance from his large cast.

Hochhuth's theme, as almost everybody must know by now, is silence in the face of evil, and his pivotal defendant is Pope Pius XII, whom he accuses for not speaking out against the slaughter of the Jews.

The Pope, like a whole gallery of others in the play, sacrifices ethical absolutes for political expediencies. And, when God's deputy fails, the last act goes on to confront the final silence: the silence of God.

Since the play's full text runs over six hours, it requires drastic cutting. Ferzacca has done a fairly good, if quirky, job of this.

But in the bread-and-butter aspects of directing--handling of actors, creation of atmosphere, avoiding staginess--Ferzacca is less successful. A play with a lot of rhetoric entices actors to declaim and posture; this must be avoided.

Only the second act remotely approaches a sense of reality. For the rest--well, a spectacularly restless audience was a sign, I'm afraid, of something beside the heat.

Hochhuth cannot be completely exonerated, of course. The play has its clumsy or verbose stretches. Yet it is the clash of ideas, the bigness of the author's conception, that keeps the evening alive.

For those unfamiliar with the play, the production is worth seeing.

The Red Army Singers and Dancers, whose rousing songs and high-leaping dances brought them acclaim in England as one of the greatest entertainments in the world, will appear at 6:30 p.m. Sunday on WMSB-TV.

Despite the fame the group has gained through recordings, the Red Army Singers have never visited the United States. The 50-minute television program, recorded during concert in London, is the ensemble's debut performance in America.

The National Educational Television program Sunday will begin with "Kalinka," a Russian folk song about the pine tree, and "A Birch Tree," about the Russian national tree.

The concert will also include "A Break in the March," a high-kicking, knee-slapping soldiers' dance, and Western folk-songs like "Tipperary," "Annie Laurie" and "Oh, No! John."

Formed in 1928 as a 12-man troupe devoted to the songs and dances of the Russian Army camps, the Red Army Singers and Dancers now includes 200 soldier-artists. They put the emphasis on spectacle with such dances as the Dance of the Cossacks with its gravity-defying leaps and wheeling sabres.

The ensemble is composed of an 80-member male chorus of tenors and basses, acrobatic dancers and an orchestra that includes the traditional Russian triangular-shaped guitar and accordions.

"Muscles surely do not exist to allow these twirling, high-leaping and India-rubber contortions--nor words to describe the exhilaration of watching them," the London Daily Herald wrote.

Other programs highlights for the weekend include:

Darwinism Interpreted In Steinbeck's Plots

Critics have interpreted Steinbeck's novels of the 30's on a social rather than a philosophical base, said Fredrick Feied, professor of American Thought and Language.

Speaking to a group at the Union Wednesday night, Feied said that Darwinism shapes the plot, theme and characters of Steinbeck's books.

Drawing from this biological survival of the fittest, Steinbeck parallels man with the lower animals in pointing out his non-teleological belief that evolution is not working towards a goal, but just change.

In his "Sea of Cortez," Steinbeck personifies and contrasts the beliefs of teleology and non-teleology in his two main characters, Doc and Mac.

In the strife between the fruit transients and the fruit growers, Mac sees a teleological struggle between classes which he believes could be corrected by man.

Doc views the situation as an excessive biological struggle which will be corrected by nature.

Steinbeck is aware that his non-teleological belief is viewed by some as cruel, said Feied, but man must consciously accept this reality.

'The Deputy' Panel Slated

A faculty panel will discuss questions raised by the Arena Theater production of "The Deputy" in the Arena Theater after tonight's performance. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Director J.B. Ferzacca, Lansing graduate student, adapted Rolf Hochhuth's "Deputy," a play of man's moral responsibility and ability to keep his faith in God when evidence contradicts that faith, for the Arena Theater production.

The drama concerns a priest's attempts to persuade high church officials, including the Pope, to denounce the Nazi massacre of the Jews.

The play will run in the Arena Theater through Saturday and then appear in Wonders Monday and in McDonel Tuesday.

LITWHILER: The Player

DICK AND DAD--ONE BIG BALL

Life With Father 'No Different'

By DUANE LANCASTER
State News Sports Writer

There is no way of knowing if baseball coach Danny Litwhiler felt worse about his team dropping a 3-1 decision to Western Michigan Tuesday or that his son, Dick, was charged with the loss.

It is a good bet, however, that Litwhiler was more concerned with the team's defeat than he was with his son's loss.

A sophomore righthander, Dick was the fifth of eight Spartan pitchers used by Litwhiler, giving up the winning run in the fifth inning.

The one-inning stint doubled Dick's work time this year, as he appeared on the mound only once before, pitching an inning against Miami earlier in the season.

Although it seems unlikely, Litwhiler treats his son the same way he treats all his players--no favors, with performance the means to a starting position. "I feel that playing under my father is like playing under any other coach," young Litwhiler said. "He's 'Skip' to me just like any other player would call him."

It's not the first time Litwhiler has counted a son on his playing roster. Litwhiler's oldest boy, Dennis, played for him at Florida State when Danny was coach there.

Dick was a pitcher before his high school days at Florida High School in Tallahassee but developed control trouble during his prep career and decided to switch to first base and concentrate on his hitting.

"I went back to pitching in college, more or less because Dad asked me to. He knows where I can best help the team," said the sophomore hurler.

Dick said his father, a former major leaguer, never pushed either Dennis or himself into baseball but neither did he discourage it.

Litwhiler doesn't take the game home with him after it's over, even though both he and Dick are involved.

"We'll talk about a game at home but we don't rehash it and try to put the blame on a player or single play."

Freshman coach Tom Smith is one of the biggest supporters of Dick's chances to help the ball club next season.

"He's improved 100 per cent. He has been real tough this year and is the hardest worker on the pitching staff," Smith said. "His control is tremendous now and will be an asset to the team next year."

Smith was the only one who admitted that there was a possibility of some pressure on both Litwhiler and his son because of their relationship.

"Dick really has some pressure on him because no matter how good he is, there might be somebody around who thinks Danny is playing favorites when he puts Dick into a game."

If Dick has as bright a future as Smith predicts, Litwhiler will be putting him into more games next season but it won't be playing favorites--it'll be playing to win.

Buckeyes' Forte

CHICAGO--Ohio State won the 1965 Big Ten baseball championship, in part, by borrowing a drawer from Woody Hayes' secret files--defense.

The Buckeyes ranked only ninth in team batting for the season, but parlayed the league's second best fielding and pitching along with a clutch performance to nab the conference's 71st diamond title. The championship is Marty Karrow's third since becoming head coach in 1950. Others were in 1951 and 1955.

State Coeds Win Midwest Golf Tourney

A pair of Spartan coed golfers, Joyce Kazmierski and Gretchen Bouwens, won the 1965 Women's Midwest Collegiate Golf Tournament at the University of Minnesota last weekend.

Miss Kazmierski won the individual crown with her 77-81-158, the driving contest with a belt of about 230 yards, and was co-medalist with her first round 77. Miss Bouwens was runner-up in the putting contest.

There were about 35 colleges and universities represented in the two-day meet over the university course.

Runner-up to Miss Kazmierski in the individual scoring was Maggie Martin of Ohio State with 77-85-162. Miss Bouwens scored 93-84-177.

Miss Kazmierski will play in the Women's National Collegiate Golf Tournament June 20-25 at the University of Florida.

Joyce, a MSU sophomore from Detroit, was runner-up in the national women's event last year

Seniors May Place Grid Ticket Order

With the start of football ticket sales next Tuesday, athletic ticket manager Bill Beardsley posts some reminders to Spartan students.

He reminds graduating seniors that ticket application forms will not be sent them in the current mailing to some 70,000 alumni. Seniors planning to attend games next fall should place orders at the ticket office. The top home attraction figures to be Ohio State (Oct. 16) with heavy ticket demand anticipated.

Beardsley also urges all State students to place orders starting Tuesday if they plan to attend popular away games at Michigan (Oct. 9) and at Notre Dame (Nov. 20). It's very likely that MSU allotments for both of these games will be exhausted early and tickets will not be available next fall, Beardsley said.

If ticket orders quickly exceed the supply of Michigan and Notre Dame game tickets, a first-come, first-served system of processing will go into effect June 24, according to Beardsley.

The athletic ticket office at Jenison Field House will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. for ticket orders.

Ruggers, Stickers In Finales

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

State's rugby and lacrosse clubs will close out their respective seasons this weekend in games that find the ruggers at home while the lacrosse team are guests in Cleveland, Ohio.

Coach Neville Doherty's rugby squad, in its first year of inter-collegiate competition, seeks to end the season on a happier note than when it began the season. Saturday, the ruggers take on the Windsor (Ont.) rugby club in a game beginning at 2:30. It will be played on the field across from Case Hall.

State's lacrosse team had a hard time by this year. After losing its opening contest to Michigan, the rugby club managed to win only two of the next seven games.

Despite losing to another Ontario club, Sarnia, last week, coach Neville Doherty feels the team is showing potential that could make it a contender for Midwest Conference honors next year.

Efforts for a lacrosse victory Saturday against Cleveland will be spearheaded by Steve Harrington, State's leading scorer with an average of 3.66 points per game.

Coach Paul Caldwell plans to go with the same lineup that has given his team a 9-6 record. If the stickmen do manage a win over Cleveland, they will have the best mark of any non-varsity club in the history of the Midwest Lacrosse Association.

'Dwight & Charlie' Show Rings Down Curtain

QUITE A RACKET--The tandem of Charlie Wolff and Dwight Shelton have caused tennis fans nothing but trouble in a three year stretch at Michigan State. Shelton captured an individual championship in his sophomore season, while Wolff's best season also came in '63. Photo David Sykes

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Writer

Dwight Shelton and Captain Charlie Wolff, State's two top netters this season, have but one regret as they graduate this June: They won't be around when the Spartans win the Big Ten title, which they are confident will occur within the next two years.

Shelton and Wolff both have completed three seasons with the Spartans, compiling respective total dual-meet records of 33-23 and 41-15. Both players enjoyed their best season in 1963, when Shelton earned a 17-4 dual-meet mark while Wolff was 16-4.

"Next year we'll have some real fine players trying out for the team, including freshmen Richard Monan, Mickey Szilaygi, Ken Harbin and Jim Jakubiec," said Wolff. "That year or the next I'm sure we'll win the Big Ten championship."

Wolff said that the Big Ten looked a lot weaker this season than it has in the past few years. "I don't think it's going to get much better on the whole, but I think State will. I'm only sorry that I won't be here when it happens."

Shelton shared Wolff's optimism but said that much depends on the development of the other top teams in the conference, such as Michigan, this year's conference champs, Illinois, Northwestern and up-and-coming Wisconsin.

They should be in strong contention for the Big Ten championship in two years," Shelton said. Shelton, an advertising major, plans to do graduate work at the University of Illinois. He may possibly play in several summer grass-court tournaments this summer, in his hometown area of Chicago, but said that nothing is definite yet.

Wolff, who will be working for an accounting firm this summer and plans to attend graduate school here at MSU, will participate in several summer tournaments.

"I'm playing in the Saginaw Memorial Day tournament this weekend, and I have several commitments to play in St. Joseph, Mich. I can't be sure about the other tournaments that I'll play in this summer--I usually just wait for invitations," he said.

"Wolff did a real good job for us as captain this season in leading the rest of the squad," said Coach Stan Drobnic. "Both he and Shelton have contributed quite a bit to tennis here at Michigan State. Our season wasn't outstanding, but without these two guys we really would have been hurting."

Wolff and Shelton were on the only MSU team that ever defeated U-M, back in 1963--the same year that Shelton, as a rookie, made it to the Big Ten Finals.

"I was hoping that Wolff would be a Big Ten champ this year," added Drobnic. "Had he beaten Rod McNeerney of Indiana in the semifinals of the meet--and he came close to doing it--he would have gone the rest of the way to the title."

SIX FROSH TO COMPETE

Trackmen Hit Tournery Road

Western Michigan's Waldo Stadium will be the site for another Spartan 11 to see if it can maintain its winning ways.

The State trackmen, reigning Big Ten champs with four individual title-holders among their ranks, will send a dozen-minus-one varsity contingent to compete in the Michigan Federation Championships at Kalamazoo tomorrow.

The meet will be a showcase of Spartan talent. Three of the men entered are Big Ten individual champs; five others figured in the team scoring at the conference meet. With the exception of one senior entry, all will be back next year.

To make the picture even more interesting, Coach Fran Dittrich is previewing six of his freshmen along with his varsity stars.

Title-winner Jim Garrett will go in the long jump and 220, his championship events, along with the 100 in which he finished second. Gene Washington, king of the 120 high hurdles, will be joined by Fred McKay and Clint Jones. Mike Kaines, the only senior to chalk up an MSU point in the conference clash, will run the mile. Keith Coates is set for the 880.

Joining Garrett for the 220 and 100 are Das Campbell, Jim Summers and Bob Steele.

Missing from the lineup is Mike Bowers, conference high jump king. Going in that event for State will be McKay and Lee Hambright.

Garrett, Jones, Summers and Campbell will team up for the 440-yard relay, while Paul McCollam is slated for the three-mile.

Freshmen entries include John Wilcox and Jim Stewart in the pole vault, Terry Early and Rich Dunn in the 440, John Spain in the 880 and Art Link in the mile.

Farming, Marriage Ahead For Greek Pair

Jim Breinling and Cheryl Otto, seniors of the week, share an interest in Greek life.

Jim, who is a horticulture major with pomology as a special field, works during the summer on his father's fruit farm. He began working on the 140-acre farm as a harvester. He now acts as a general supervisor.

Cheryl, of Miami, Fla., said fishing is one of her special interests. "My pride and joy is a seven-foot sailfish," she said. "It took me about half an hour to catch it."

Last summer Cheryl, a Spanish major, represented her sorority, Alpha Chi Omega, at the national convention in Colorado Springs. She has lived in Texas, New York, Florida, Virginia and Michigan.

Cheryl has served as president, third vice president and pledge trainer of Alpha Chi Omega and as secretary of the MSU Union Board. She was a member of the public relations committee for Water Carnival, and participated in the off-campus housing intramural swimming program. She was also a member of Students Off-Campus.

News woman Says 'Think Like A Man'

Women journalists must not confuse feminine wiles with ability. Theta Sigma Phi members were told here last night, by a United Press International representative.

Mrs. Lois Blackburn, who has worked for the UPI for six years, said that although femininity may help at times, a woman must be competent and hardworking to succeed in journalism.

"Newswomen must have good general knowledge," Mrs. Blackburn said: "there are few specialists in the newspaper business."

It often seems, said Mrs. Blackburn, as if the adage is true that a newswoman must "think like a man, dress like a woman and work like a dog."

The following persons were initiated before Mrs. Blackburn spoke: Judy Hopper, North Muskegon senior; Betty Little, Sarnia, Ontario junior; Marge Marsh, Northbrook, Ill., senior; Virginia McIntosh, Lansing senior; Dixie Premer, Okemos senior; and Kathleen Ritch, Port Hope senior.

Silence Is Golden, Sahl

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Comedian Mort Sahl, 38, entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Thursday for surgery on the larynx today. Friends say Sahl has been unable to talk for several days and has been using a blackboard and charades to communicate. Sahl is expected to be hospitalized for about a week.

Senior Dinner Held By Phi Gamma Nu

The Phi Gamma Nu Scholarship Key was presented to Pam Bruker at the annual Senior Dinner Wednesday.

This award is given each year to the graduating senior in the College of Business with the highest scholastic average.

The dinner, sponsored by the Omicron Chapter of Phi Gamma Nu, Business Honorary, had as its guest speaker Ronald T. Stevenson, who spoke on "The Insurance Business."

Pam Bruker also received the Ruth Vander Jagt Scholarship Award, which was presented by Mrs. Vander Jagt, the national scholarship chairman.

The Mabel Peterson Award was given to Kathleen Lorenz for the junior with the highest scholastic average.

Bea Stebens received the Omicron Chapter Senior Award.

The Pledge Award went to Donna Leech and the Scholarship Improvement Award went to Sue Grille.

Chapter efficiency contest winners were Karen Manecke and Judy Slusne. The Past Presidents

Musicians Benefit Blind

In a jam session held Tuesday evening at Golf-O-Tron, the Jazz Society of West Circle Drive raised $200 for the benefit of MSU's blind students.

The money will buy a tape recorder for the library's reading room for the blind.

Society president William Fehner, Detroit sophomore, will present a check today to Linda Said, Dearborn sophomore and president of the Pioneer Club, a campus organization for the blind.

Phi Gamma Nu Selects Pledges

Others activated were: Mary Modjeske, Lansing sophomore; Shirley Paluha, Detroit senior; Martha Potts, Three Oaks junior; Elizabeth Schmidt, St. Louis, Mo., sophomore; Colleen Stevens, Kalamazoo junior.
