Los Angeles World Champions

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL T-Sandy Koufax, pitching with only two days rest, fired a brilliant three-hitter today as the Los Angeles Dodgers won the World Series by defeating Minnesota, 2-0, in the seventh and final game.

The victory, the first by a visiting team in this Series, gave the Dodgers their fourth world championship in the last 11 years and their second in the last three.

Koufax, whose 26 victories during the regular season were the most in the majors, came back to work in the deciding game after shutting out the Twins, 7-0, on four hits Monday. He lost his first start in the series, 5-1, to Jim Kaat in the second game.

The Twins never got a man to third base against the ace left-hander and managed to get only two to second.

Koufax, who also pitched the Dodgers' National League pennant-clinching victory with only two days rest, gave up a first-inning single to Zoilo Versalles, a double to Frank Quilici in the fifth and a single to Harmon Killebrew in the ninth.

The Dodgers gave Koufax all the support he needed in the fourth inning against Kaat, who also started with two days rest.

Lou Johnson started the inning with a drive that hit the screen on the left field foul pole for his second home run of the series. Ron Fairly followed with a double and raced home as Wes Parker singled.

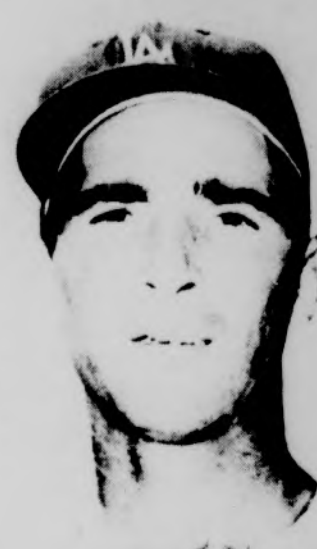

The Metropolitan Stadium record crowd of 50,596 didn't have too much to cheer about. The Twins threatened in the fifth inning, but a sterling play by third baseman Jim Gilliam helped halt the threat.

After Quilici doubled with one out, Koufax issued his third walk to pinch hitter Rich Rollins, and Versalles followed with a hard smash inside the third base line that looked as if it might go for a double.

But Gilliam dived for the ball, stopped it and stepped on third, forcing Quilici. Joe Niese then grounded into another force play.

Until Killebrew singled with one out in the ninth, Koufax had retired 12 straight. But Minnesota's hopes were short-lived. Koufax struck out Earl Battey and Bob Allison, giving him 10 strikeouts in all and the Dodgers the world championship.

After reaching the clubhouse, Koufax said happily: "I feel great. I know I don't have to go out there for about four months."

MSU MUST GIVE SCHIFF HEARING

TWO-DAY DEMONSTRATION

Berkeley Anticipates Anti-War Disturbances

Local National Guard officials expect no trouble over Lansing demonstrations in connection with the international days of protest today and Saturday.

However, police in many cities are bracing to maintain order during demonstrations against American involvement in Viet Nam, the Associated Press reported.

In Berkeley, a West Coast citadel of activist groups against U.S. foreign policy, about 600 combat-ready National Guardsmen were ordered to report for special duty to support police if necessary.

They expect trouble when the Viet Nam Day Committee stages a 7-1/2 mile torchlight parade from the University of California campus to the Oakland Army Terminal for a mass "sleepout" in a vacant lot.

The committee said it expected to mass 5,000 marchers.

The committee was denied a parade permit today by Oakland Acting City Manager John A. Morin. The committee said it would march any way.

The parade would not be in the interests of "health, safety and general welfare," Morin said. He cited as a reason the committee's recent unsuccessful attempts to stop troop trains at Oakland.

The Oakland Port Commission voted at a special meeting to prevent the committee from trespassing on port property or interfering with operations. The Army base is situated at the port.

Organizers said demonstrations will be staged in 100 American cities and groups in 20 foreign countries will participate in "international days of protest."

The two-day protest was mapped in the Madison, Wis., headquarters of the National Coordinating Committee to End the War in Viet Nam.

Frank Emspak, 20, a native of Yonkers, N.Y., said, "All our demonstrations will be peaceful." He said the University of Wisconsin group that planned to make a "citizen's arrest" Saturday of Col. Lester Arrowsmith, commander of Trux Air Force Base, was "not of our committee."

Court To Retain 90-Day Control

Deny Both Injunction,
Motion For Dismissal

By DAVID HANSON
State News Staff Writer

GRAND RAPIDS--A panel of three District Court judges ruled here Thursday that Paul M. Schiff be given a hearing by MSU on the question of his denied readmission last spring.

The court gave University officials 10 days to set forth reasons for the denial of reentry. Schiff will then have 10 days to reply and must be given a hearing by the registrar's office within another 10 days. The court will retain jurisdiction over the case for 90 days to hear grievances from either side.

Federal District Judge Noel P. Fox read the decision and was joined on the bench by Judges Raymond Starr and W. Wallace Kent.

In making the decision, the court denied both Schiff's temporary injunction against the University and a motion by MSU for dismissal. Judge Fox said the court was considering the matter because "of the effect on the future operation of educational institutions in Michigan."

Schiff was represented by Lansing Attorney Kenneth Laing. He charged that in refusing either to readmit Schiff or allow a hearing on the refusal, the University had violated Schiff's rights under the first and 14th amendments of the Constitution.

"I concede that this may not be a matter for action by the federal courts," Laing said, "but it is clear that some sort of hearing should be allowed."

MSU Attorney Leland Carr said that if a hearing were allowed on administrative decisions, "it would open the floodgates to every student who had a grievance against the University."

He said that Schiff's activities in the Committee for Student Rights (CSR) and in distributing "Logos" indicated that he had no intention of obeying University regulations if readmitted.

"He not only had no intention of obeying the regulations that apply to every MSU student," Carr said, "but he solicited others to do the same. The University had a duty to do something to preserve order."

President John A. Hannah and John A. Fuzak, vice president for academic affairs, both named in Schiff's suit, were present in the courtroom but were not asked to testify.

Newsman and a dozen CSR members were on hand.

Judge Fox said in the decision that Carr had not sufficiently briefed recent cases involving universities and students. The court disagreed with (continued on page 5)

Red Involvement In Viet Protests?

WASHINGTON P--The Senate internal security subcommittee published a study Thursday night to support what it termed the Communist infiltration and exploitation of the teach-in movement on U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The 256-page report was made public on the eve of two days of protest against American military intervention in Viet Nam. The plan, under sponsorship of the Viet Nam Day Committee, calls for demonstrations in 80 U.S. cities and elsewhere in the world.

The study was prepared by the subcommittee staff at the request of Vice Chairman Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn. All subcommittee members joined in authorizing its publication.

"Whatever the intent of those who originated the teach-in movement," the report declares, "the fact is clear beyond challenge that the Communist propaganda apparatus has been able to expand and exploit the teach-in movement and the anti-Viet Nam agitation in general to advance the cause of Red imperialism."

This has been made much easier than otherwise would have been the case, he adds, because "so far none of the leading luminaries of the teach-in movement have considered it necessary" to draw a firm line against Communist participation.

As a result, the report says, "a substantial Communist infiltration is demonstrable, and a much more substantial infiltration is probable."

Girls Get Fired Up

Sorority housemother Mrs. Beryl Phillips of Alpha Omicron Pi couldn't ask for better service from the East Lansing Fire Department.

Mrs. Phillips had just made an appointment Thursday with a fire prevention officer to explain rules of fire safety to the girls.

As she left the fire station, two fire trucks were just pulling up to the sorority house at 505 M.A.C. Ave. on a call.

It seems a fire had broken out in the incinerator room, and to make matters worse, when the girls tried to douse it, the fire extinguisher exploded.

Happily, there wasn't much damage and in all the excitement, the girls did get a practical lesson in fire-fighting.

Bleak Christmas Faces 45,000 December Draftees

From Our Wire Services

WASHINGTON--The military draft continued to climb steeply as the armed services asked Thursday for 45,224 draftees in December--an increase of 8,774 over the November call of 36,450.

It is the biggest request to the Selective Service System since near the end of the Korean War, when 53,000 men were inducted in May 1953.

The rising calls are in line with President Lyndon B. Johnson's decision to build up the armed forces to deal with the war in southeast Asia and keep needed strength elsewhere.

Plans are to increase U.S. forces by 340,000 men, bringing the total to about three million.

Uncle Sam wasn't exactly playing Santa Claus to the men involved. Except for emergencies--such as Viet Nam--the custom has been to relax draft calls in December to an extent because of the Christmas holidays.

The Marines, who for the first time since the Korean War resorted to the draft in the quota set a month ago, asked for 5,024 men in December. That compares to a November request for 4,050 draftees.

The army's share of the December quota is 40,200, compared to a request of 28,400 for November.

The Navy, which asked for 4,000 men in November--the first such call since 1956--made no request for a December quota.

The Air Force continued to ask for no draftees, confident of meeting its manpower needs with voluntary enlistees.

The army procurement objective for enlisted men with no prior military service in December is 47,900 of which it expects 7,700 to be voluntary recruits.

The Marines are counting on 3,400 volunteers to fill out their no-prior service procurement goal of 8,424.

Today's announced quotas brings the total of draftees since September 1950 to 3,243,324. Quotas fell as low as 3,300 men a month a little more than a year ago.

But a lag in enlistments and then the buildup ordered because of the deepening U.S. involvement in Viet Nam led to the steeply rising inductions.

The Navy, which asked for

NO HAND-OUTS INDOORS

Bernitt Clarifies Rules

Campus police will take enforcement action against those persons distributing handbills or displaying signs inside university buildings, Public Safety Director Richard O. Bernitt said Thursday in a statement to the State News.

No action, however, will be taken in situations occurring outside classroom or other university buildings, he said.

Bernitt stated:

Section 30.02 of the Michigan State University Ordinance states the following: "No person shall erect or otherwise display any sign or poster or distribute handbills upon property governed by the Board (Board of Trustees) which advertises or otherwise calls attention to any product, service or activity."

The ordinance in section 2.03 further states: "Any exceptions to the following sections of this ordinance must be made by written authorization of the office of the Secretary of the Board of Trustees for Michigan State University: 9.01, 12.01, 14.01, 20.01, 23.01, 26.01, 29.01, 30.01, 30.02, 31.01, 31.03, 39.144 and 40.14 (exception ordinance numbers)."

The Department of Public Safety, having the responsibility for enforcing the provisions of the ordinance, has been instructed to take enforcement action in those situations occurring inside of University buildings.

At present, no enforcement action will be taken relative to the display of signs or the distribution of handbills outside of buildings inasmuch as an appropriate faculty committee will be asked to study the matter and make recommendations for a program to benefit the entire University community.

Signed: Richard O. Bernitt, Director, Department of Public Safety.

Campus Radio Supported

The University will stay with its present policy that as long as campus radio carries no commercial advertising, the administration does not find the proposal objectionable, President John A. Hannah said Thursday. Hannah said he issued the same statement to general managers of Lansing-area radio stations at their Wednesday morning meeting.

Hannah said that the broadcasters attending the meeting apparently wanted to make sure the campus network would not solicit off-campus advertising in competition with the local stations.

Hannah and the station managers also discussed the radio network for MSU football games operated by WKAR. Hannah said that in many communities, including Lansing, one radio station is broadcasting its own coverage of the football games, and a competitor is receiving the WKAR broadcast.

The rate charged to stations carrying the WKAR football coverage is substantially less than the cost to a station of originating the broadcast, he said.

Hannah said the Office of Sports Information Services and WKAR would take a look at the present broadcast arrangement before the next football season.

University Radio Separate But Equal

SOMETIMES, the University and the city around it are considered separate entities, with no authority over one another. Sometimes, it is more convenient for this not to be the case.

Apparently, the issue of an all-campus radio station for dormitory residents is one in which it is more convenient for some to think of the University merely as a part of the Lansing area, the same as all the rest, only a little different.

THE MANAGERS of Lansing's commercial stations went to President John A. Hannah Wednesday, presumably to request that Associated Students of MSU hold off establishment of the all-campus station it has been considering. The argument is simple: our stations are established already, and yours will be extra competition that we could do very well without, so please don't bother.

Harold Gross, general manager of WJIM, and the organizer of the meeting Wednesday, says a University station would be a challenge to the "free enterprise system." He fears the competition a station operated by a public university would present to the privately-operated stations in the area.

THIS ARGUMENT is, to be kind, myopic. Gross seems to be looking no further than the profits of his own station, and his counterparts at the other stations are not noticeably better. According to ASMSU's report on the probable success of a campus radio station, WJIM commands 61.8 per cent of the on-campus listening audience. The other stations share the remainder of the audience, except for the 2.8 per cent which listens to WKAR, the existing University-run station.

Only a few of the station managers are complaining about WKAR interfering with their business: it poses a very small threat. What they seem to fear is that a campus station would be successful—that is, that it could attract some listeners away from the existing stations.

THIS IS UNDERSTANDABLE. The ASMSU report proposes program schedules for the station which would cater to the students.

It is understandable that the new station would probably be popular, and that the other stations might be uneasy. But it is not right for them to try to "head off" the station before it passes.

The campus station will provide services specifically for students which are not available over the commercial stations. It will not be meant to compete with them.

WHEN IT COMES to providing services for its students, the University is in fact an entity separate from the rest of the Lansing area. It is only vision clouded by the profit motive which sees this as an infringement of private rights.

Career Carnival's Not A 'Picketnic'

The Weirdest 'n' Beards officially opened the 1965-66 protest season Tuesday with a pamphlet-distributing session criticizing the war in Viet Nam at—where else?—the Career Carnival.

Obviously dedicated to the carnival's theme of "Suit Yourself," the protesters suited themselves by setting up shop next to the Marine Corps booth in the area where, early Tuesday morning, many scheduled organizations had to be relocated because lack of space.

According to representatives near the Marine booth, the estimated 15 to 20 protesters were passive and orderly; nevertheless, they did block the passageway and caused a great deal of congestion in the already crowded area.

The nearly 17,000 students with limited time who made the effort to attend the carnival did so to obtain information about careers and job opportunities. It is unfortunate that many who came Tuesday not only had difficulty getting to certain booths they may have been interested in, but also were blocked entirely from an area of approximately eight booths for at least 20 minutes while "our heroes" were being dragged out by police officers.

It is also unfortunate that the main activity of the carnival, which the Placement Bureau and the student committee have been working on since January, had to be unexpectedly interrupted even for a short time.

The students have, of course, the "right" to protest. But do they have the "right" to disrupt a well-organized, carefully-planned activity which had nothing at all to do with what was being protested?

Sure, the Marines were there, but it is very doubtful that a recruiting representative had much influence in America's policy toward Viet Nam.

The word "right" should carry with it some notion of intelligent judgment—call it maturity, maybe, or just common sense.

It would be appropriate, for example, to pass out literature protesting the war in Viet Nam to students attending a talk on United States policy in that country. It seems highly ludicrous to do so, however, when they are only trying to get information about something as non-controversial as Pan-American Airlines or the Bendix Corp.

The 910 acres on the Michigan State campus, including the Union's front entrance and main lobby, should be plenty of spouting-space for all the anti-anythings here.

But the Career Carnival's no picketnic grounds.

Unless, of course, Tuesday's protesters are planning to make a career of it.

Civil Rights Act Just Strengthens Womenfolk

Thanks to the Civil Rights Act of 1964, women in this country now have a right to become bulldozer operators.

One section of the act says that jobs should be available to anyone regardless of race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

The three-letter word, S-E-X, included as a sort of sleeper in the employment section of the act, has become one of the most informed legalists.

Men, members of a world minority group, are sweating. But since a man is administering the new rule, which went into effect last July 1, other men can be assured that the problems of their minority will be taken into consideration before any drastic enforcement rules are installed.

Franklin Roosevelt Jr., the man who has the job of seeing that women get what's coming to them under the new law, has recently said: "Enforcement of the law to protect women against employment discrimination must proceed gradually."

Thank goodness! Women in this country have gradually turned the American man into a subservient creature whose likes have not been seen since Columbus had to beg Queen Isabella for money so he could risk his life to find a shortcut to Indian spice salesmen.

Women already run men's lives in this country; what more do they want?

Policemen never give tickets to weeping chick speeders. Even the most dedicated student on this campus will sometimes put down his books at some cutie's command to "get over here and have a Coke with me."

Recently, one student was involved in perhaps his favorite of pastimes, a protest.

Said his female sidekick, "Oh, come on, I've just got to see Janet now." A peck on the cheek and a tug of his hand, and off they ran to see Janet.

Men have been lipsticked, powdered, and winked at long enough. And we are counting on FDR Jr. to "proceed gradually."

Until a divorce court judge can let a man off the marriage hook without compelling him to pay alimony, Roosevelt had better proceed gradually.

"With equal rights, come equal responsibilities," some famous man said.

Agreed, American men are basically weak when women are around.

But also agreed that the term "drag," as opposed to "stag," should be taken literally.

Keep up the good work, Roosevelt. PLEASE.

The Other Side Of The War

Editor's Note: The following letter was submitted by a student as a response to the letter reprinted here last Friday from a soldier writing to the Toledo Blade from Viet Nam. This letter is reprinted from the June-July issue of Liberation magazine, which attributed it to a soldier in Viet Nam writing to the Women for Peace in Chicago.

Dear Helcio:

I'm in Viet Nam and every day I pray for only two things—to be out of this hell and back home or to be killed before I might have to kill someone. . . .

So far everything you wrote in your bulletin is true about Viet Nam, but we want you to write about a few things none of the papers are writing.

The going here is pretty rough and all the dirty fighting isn't on one side.

A week ago our platoon leader brought in three prisoners. I was part of the group that brought them in.

They set up a questioning station and someone from Intelligence was doing the questioning. This was the first time I saw anything like this and found out that we use some dirty methods, too.

This guy from intelligence had all three lined up. One was a woman. He stripped her down to the waist and stripped the men all the way. He had a little gadget I thought was a walkie talkie or something. He stuck one end of this wire to the lady's chest and it was a kind of electric shock because she got a real bad burn.

From what she was screaming my buddy and I could figure she didn't know anything. Then they took this same wire and tried it on the lady's husband and brother, but on their lower parts. I grabbed the damn thing and stuck it in my pants. I was shocked.

Ever since that day I've been sick to my stomach and haven't been on patrol or anything. My sergeant tells me I'm suffering from battle fatigue and might get sent home. No one from our group wants to bring any suspects in for questioning. We don't know what to do.

Some of the Viets are good friends to us. Some we know play both sides but we don't want anybody tortured and killed. One of the guys from another platoon said he saw this happen before a few times and once the guy was killed by it.

Anyhow, tell your Women for Peace we are with them. We wish we could send you a couple of those electrical gadgets to use on the powers that sent and keep us here.

This must end soon or a lot of us will go nuts. . . .

be forthcoming in the immediate future.

In any event, it is flattering and reassuring to see that even my preliminary investigations in this matter were felt to be newsworthy.

I must object to being called a "recent immigrant." By the standards of some recent senatorial candidates, I would have to consider myself an old settler. I have voted for three years in my adopted state and would even be eligible to vote for myself if I should run.

Chairman of Biopolitics

Augenstein On His Candidacy

To the Editor:

In the past several days, there have been two reports of my possible candidacy for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate. These reports differ considerably as to how definite I am about running. Since a number of people will be affected by any decision I make in this area, some clarification is needed.

In Tuesday's State News the headlines said I was definitely going to run for the Senate. However, later in that article and also in the editorial on page 2, the suggestion was made that I had not yet made up my mind. Sunday's State Journal stated that I was "eying" the position.

I definitely have not decided concerning this important step—the problem is a quite simple one. I am aware of at least seven highly qualified men who are considering running for the same position: some of them were named in both of the articles. If at least two of these men should contest the primary, the estimated costs of $50,000 to $100,000—large as they are—would not be enough.

Needless to say, if three or four candidates try to raise so large a sum of money for their individual campaigns, it will be very difficult to find sufficient donors.

Furthermore, to contest such an important position as U. S. Senator requires strong backing from top Republican officials as well as the establishment of citizens volunteer groups in all 83 counties. Again, it is not yet clear who can secure support from the prominent leaders as well as the county organizations.

For these and other personal reasons, I have not made a decision, and as the State Journal indicated, an announcement will not

Does The Soldier Know?

To the Editor:

Last Friday's letter from a soldier claimed to be "informative about the war in Viet Nam." The only information I found in it was that it hurts to think you're fighting for justice, and know that others think you're misinformed.

The soldier is fighting to prevent Viet Nam from "going" Communist. Does he know that most of the South Vietnamese support the goals of the revolution? That Eisenhower said that all experts he'd talked to found that Ho Chi Minh had support of over 80 per cent of the South? That Hanoi was the capital of Viet Nam under the Chi Minh until a U.S.-backed junta forcefully took the South out of Viet Nam, in violation of the Geneva Agreements?

The 'Majority's' Opinion

To the Editor:

I am overwhelmed at the strength of the so-called "end the war in Viet Nam" movement which seems to be so strong on our campus.

Students who advocate the withdrawal of American troops from that battleground seem to dominate this campus politically. It is almost impossible to go to any function of the University without being offered literature which I, for one do not necessarily agree with.

A visitor to our campus would undoubtedly believe that these people represent a good portion of the student body. But, in my estimation, they probably represent less than two per cent of the total enrollment at State.

Well, I personally feel that the rest of us have a right to be counted among the student body also, and I feel that we will be heard soon.

I am sure that everyone would agree that the war in Asia came to an abrupt halt; this is only natural. But, I also believe that the majority of the students feel that our government is doing the best thing possible, and that the

'Don't Admit Red China To UN'--Rusk

WASHINGTON AP--Naming Red China as "The main barrier to peace in Southeast Asia," Secretary of State Dean Rusk opposed Peking's admission to the United Nations Thursday on grounds this would only encourage the Red Chinese global "strategy of violence."

"The prospects of peace are not served by any action or any words which may encourage Peking to think that it is on the right track--that it can reap rewards by adhering to its strategy of violence," Rusk told a retail druggists' national convention.

$841 Million Bill To Aid Education

WASHINGTON 4--A broad new program to strengthen higher education--including aid for colleges, students and teachers--was agreed upon Thursday by House and Senate conferees.

In settling differences over bills passed earlier by the House and the Senate, the conferees approved a sweeping omnibus measure carrying an annual cost of $841 million--more than twice what President Lyndon B. Johnson requested.

The compromise bill, designed to help the nation's colleges meet an expanding enrollment that has doubled in ten years, would:

--Launch a new program of scholarship grants for needy students and provide Federally guaranteed, low-interest loans for students from middle income families.

--Double the money available for college construction grants and start a new program designed to upgrade college libraries and library services generally.

--Establish a national teacher corps to work with local school districts in improving teaching services in low-income areas.

--Strengthen small, struggling colleges through direct financial aid and through teaching fellowships programs aimed at attracting outstanding scholars to such institutions.

House Republican conferees objected strenuously to the teacher corps provisions and said they would seek a House vote to have the item removed from the bill. It was in the original Senate bill but was not voted on by the House.

Funding for most of the programs would be authorized for three years. Exceptions are two years for the teacher corps and one year for a new program aimed at bringing the facilities of colleges to bear on the problems of urban and suburban areas.

Nobel Medicine Prize Goes To 3 Frenchmen

STOCKHOLM (UPI)--Three French scientists were awarded the 1965 Nobel Prize for medicine Thursday for research on genes that may help future scientists regulate the life processes.

The winners are Francois Jacob, 45, Andre Lwoff, 63, and Jacques Monod, 55, all department heads at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, where they are known as the "Three Musketeers."

They are credited with discovering a new class of genes whose function is to regulate the activity of other genes.

Genes are the mysterious microscopic particles in a human cell that determine man's hereditary characteristics.

Sven Gaard of the Caroline Institute in Stockholm, who announced the awards, said the Frenchmen's discovery would play a vital role in future research.

Jacob, a geneticist, Lwoff, a microbiologist and Monod, a chemist, head a group of 20 scientists at the Pasteur Institute who have done research for 20 years in the field. The three men will share the $56,400 award equally.

They were chosen by Teachers College--a panel of highly qualfied scientists at the Caroline Institute--from among 85 candidates. Gaard said the Frenchmen were elected unanimously by a vote of the institute a month ago and the decision kept a secret.

Sharing of the prize among three scientists working in different fields of medicine "is typical because no scientific branch can exist and develop without aid from other," Gaard said.

The original list of 85 candidates was whittled to 30 or 40 in May, he said, and to a final list of seven, including the three Frenchmen, in September.

Greek Drama Opens Tonight

Greek theater comes alive tonight when the Community Circle Theater opens its '65-'66 season with "Orestes" by Aeschylus. The barn theater on Okemos Road near Mt. Hope Road will give performances tonight, Saturday and Sunday afternoon and Oct. 21, 22 and 23. Tickets are available by calling 332-2221 or at the theater box office.

A special adaptation of the Greek tragedy was prepared for this performance by Director Raymond Underwood.

The trilogy, a standard for students of the theater, was condensed to a two and a half hour drama in two acts.

"The setting adheres to many conventions of the Greek theater and the costumes are close to authentic," Underwood said.

Gottlieb To Speak In Kiva Today

David Gottlieb, associate professor of education, will give an Honors College lecture at 4 p.m. today in the Erickson Hall kiva. He will discuss the Job Corps, on which he is working in Washington, D.C.

Students and faculty are invited to the Humanities Department record concert from 7 to 9 tonight in 114 Bessey Hall. Works on the program include compositions by Beethoven, Bach, Mozart, Rimsky-Korsakov and Orff.

Petitions are now available in 316 and 334 Student Services for the 1967 International Student Affairs Committee. Openings are also available on the following committees: social, registration, orientation and hosting, travel and tours and office staff. Further information can be obtained from Don Dennis, chairman of special interests at 3-2969 or 337-1271.

Four MSU scientists will report on their research to a public meeting of the Michigan Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine at 7:30 tonight in 101 Kellogg Center.

East and West Shaw halls will hold a dance from 9 to 12 tonight in the recreation room. The dance is limited to 1,600 people by order of the fire marshal. It will be open to men residing in dorms and all coeds 17 years old and over. Students must show ID.

it's what's happening

The Bahai Club will meet at 3 p.m. Sunday in Wonders grill. The discussion will be on "Unity of Science and Religion."

Akers Halls will hold an all-University pep rally at 7:30 tonight in the Granger Parking Lot across from McDonald Hall. Duffy Daugherty will be there with the MSU Band.

Chi Alpha, religious service organization, will elect officers at 8 tonight in 33 Union. A discussion on "The Student's Responsibility to the Church" will follow.

Bruce B. Madsen, accident prevention administration specialist with the MSU Highway Traffic Safety Center, will keynote the fourth annual Leadership Conference in Traffic Safety at 6 p.m. Sunday. Women's Club leaders from 34 states will join the MSU center in discussing human elements of traffic safety. "Preventing the Problem Driver" is the theme of the session's group discussions.

Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken will headline a group of state officials to speak before a conference for police, schools and courts concerning juveniles at Kellogg Center today. Milliken will discuss "The Challenge of the Future."

The sororities on M.A.C. Avenue will sponsor a street dance from 9 to 12 tonight. All Greeks are invited to dance to the music of the Night Shifts. The dance will be held in the Alpha Chi Omega parking lot.

Kappa Delta sorority, 528 M.A.C. Avenue, will hold an open house after the football game Saturday. All Greeks are invited.

A mixer will be held in the multi-purpose rooms of Brody Hall from 8 to 12 tonight.

Slave Auction

Twenty-two Junior Panhellenic members, representing all campus sororities, will be auctioned off to fraternity men Sunday at the annual Chinese Slave Auction. The girls will be put to work for two hours ironing, shoe-shining and car washing for the high bidders.

Ford Advises Romney Against Senate Race

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)--House minority leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., has urged Gov. George Romney to run for re-election as Michigan's chief executive and not seek the Senate seat now held by incumbent Democratic Sen. Patrick V. McNamara in 1966.

Ford, here to speak to 125 Michigan-based General Electric executives, said an impressive victory by Romney "would certainly catapult the governor further into national prominence."

But Ford declined to comment on the key question of whether Romney, with a victory under his belt would be the choice of Republicans for the 1968 presidential nomination.

In a question and answer session, Ford was asked whether Romney had indicated to him which office he would seek.

"I have not asked the governor which office he plans to seek," Ford said. "In my opinion, he should seek re-election as governor."

Ford said the administration defeat in its attempt to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act was perhaps "only a temporary setback." He said President Lyndon B. Johnson had promised union leaders that the right-to-work provision would be repealed and that it would be the first item on the agenda when Congress reconvenes in January.

Sex Drive Discussed

Is sexual behavior purely a biological drive or are aspects of it learned?

Can sexual drive be controlled and modified?

What is the nature of love-making in marriage?

Dr. Marvin Freihege, clinical psychologist from Detroit, will discuss these questions 7:30 p.m. Sunday at St. John Student Parish, 327 M.A.C. Ave.

Freihege will consider the learned aspects of both homosexual and heterosexual behavior.

The discussion is one in a series of regular Sunday night forums.

Screwtape-Who's He?

By FAYE E. UNGER

You'd think the late-night debaters whom God has deserted never heard of Screwtape's Law of Undulation.

Screwtape is a senior devil in charge of apprentice devils assigned to earth. Satan nearly dismissed him on a charge of blasphemy for formulating and applying the law of undulation.

The law of undulation simply states that a man continually goes through a series of troughs and peaks throughout his life. He becomes infatuated with a girl and then discovers he has lost most of his interest.

He draws close to God and finds God has deserted him. Screwtape claimed the Great Enemy Above (God) used the troughs to build a man into a free strong person. Rather than override the man with constant evidence of His presence, the Great Enemy in time left the man creature to stand on his own two feet without the benefit of mystical support.

The Great Enemy Above wants men that can stand as individuals, whose wills conform freely with His, not creatures that agree through coercion.

The greatest danger to Satan's cause, Screwtape says, is the man who feels he has lost God and yet tries to obey Him. That man grows up.

But everyone knows God doesn't want free, mature, believing men. That's blasphemy.

of property and citizenship and sentenced to six years.

That, as related by Methodist Bishop Everett W. Palmer, of Seattle, and others who have obtained first-hand accounts, is part of a continuing story of a "Modern Paul," who now is free once more.

The region of Prem Pradhan's work is Nepal, an isolated Hindu-

Buddhist kingdom along Asia's Himalayan Mountains, where through the centuries there have been no Christians at all until the mid-1950s.

It was after Edgar R. Miller, a Methodist doctor, made an appeal to King Mahendra that Prem Pradhan recently was released after serving 4-1/2 years of his term for making converts.

Nepal's law makes it a crime to cause anyone to change his Religion, although the law is considered "non-cognizable";

that is, it is enforced only if a complaint is made. Some strict Hindus did that in Prem Pradhan's case.

"I feel happy here in jail," he told an American visitor,

Henry A. Lacy, the Methodist mission board secretary for India and Nepal, in 1963. "I still have an opportunity to witness.

God must want me here."

Pradhan's release last June brought general rejoicing among the approximately 550 Christians there, a tiny flock among Nepal's 11 million people.

The infant Church of Christ in Nepal has none of the western divisiveness; it is attached to no denomination; it is a completely indigenous, new church, with about 20 worship places.

An Indian Gurkha trooper in the British army in Italy in World War II, Prem Pradhan afterward became a Christian from Bible reading and attending Christian meetings.

Intent on becoming a minister, he attended a Bible school in Allahabad, India, then returned to Nepal. There he led instruction and worship in private homes (as Paul did of old), baptizing converts in rivers.

After he and the seven others were sentenced, the one who recanted his new faith later returned, pleading to be imprisoned with them. "I am a Christian, too. Put me with my brethren."

The bewildered judge refused.

Speech Prof Teaches Preachers To Preach

Too many preachers can't preach and Kenneth G. Hance, professor of speech, is doing something about it.

"Preachers tend to use jargon they understand, but jargon does not always connect with the layman," Hance said.

Hance is a leading spokesman in a growing movement to brush the cobwebs off many traditional preaching methods.

An active Methodist layman, Hance has lectured to Catholics, Baptists, Seventh Day Adventists and Congregationalists in public speaking training sessions for ministers.

At one session Hance said he met a minister who was convinced that if a preacher just preached the "full Gospel" the speaking problems would take care of themselves.

The churches are aware of the problem of communication in preaching, he said. Seminaries are hiring doctors of speech and clergymen are taking graduate work in speech and rhetoric.

Hance is author of a book, "Public Speaking and Preaching for Religious Leaders."

"The sermon should be as logical and rational as any discourse. The criteria of a good speech apply to a good sermon," Hance said.

Clergymen should also have the skill to teach oral communication to lay leaders, he added.

Off Campus Constituency Has New Voice On Campus

BY COLLEEN O'BRIEN
State News Staff Writer

Nearly half MSU's current enrollment lives off campus.

To represent these students in student government and give them some direct communication with the University, a new major governing body has been created -- Off Campus Council (OCC).

OCC was chartered in April by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs after a change in University housing policy allowed a larger segment of students to live off campus than before.

According to the Office of Off Campus Housing about 18,000 undergraduates do not live in University housing. This includes students living in supervised and unsupervised houses and apartments, religious and scholarship living units, married housing and commuters.

Off Campus Council is an outgrowth of Students Off Campus (SOC). The 11-member council consists of the five SOC executive officers plus six members elected at large.

"OCC's function is to keep the student living off campus a part of the University community other than academically," said Michael Walsh, Lansing senior and president of the council. "It is the only official contact this student has with the University."

Walsh, who is also president of SOC, represents students living off campus on the ASMSU Student Board.

SOC is still operating as a social and service organization of students living off campus.

"We have two major problems right now," Walsh said. "We have a problem of communication with the students we represent and one that might be called 'applied apathy.' The student who moves off campus may not be interested in becoming involved in the organization, which is his right."

"The council is now organizing and investigating practical means of communication," he said. "When we get ready to start work on our projects, there will be open petitioning for people who want to get involved."

Walsh said one of the council's aims is to introduce off-campus living to the student who is considering moving out of University housing.

The council plans to compile some information on off-campus resident needs to know.

"In the past there have been a few cases of questionable dealings with students by landlords," Walsh said. "We are cooperating with ASMSU on legal aid for students who it is felt are being victimized by the few unscrupulous landlords."

"The majority of the landlords and apartment managers are most cooperative," he said. "We would also like to start working on a way to increase approved off-campus housing. There is a need for more and better approved housing."

Berkeley Protest

headquarters listed the following major cities where it said demonstrations were planned:

Albany, N.Y.; Atlanta, Ga.; Austin, Tex.; Baltimore, Md.; Berkeley, Boston, Mass.; Charleston, S.C.; Chicago; Cincinnati, Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio; Denver, Colo.; Detroit, Mich.; Hartford, Conn.; Los Angeles; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Nashville, Tenn.; New Haven, Conn.; New York; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash.; Syracuse, N.Y.; and Trenton, N.J.

The planned demonstrations were denounced Wednesday by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"I think it's terrible," he said at a news conference in New York. "Very unwise. Not good Americanism."

He said policy decisions on Viet Nam are based on thousands of pieces of information which are analyzed and weighed. Referring to the demonstrators he said, "What do they know about it?"

At Berkeley, where demonstration leaders consider themselves the key group of protesters, executive committee member Robert Hurwitz said U.S. involvement in Viet Nam was "immoral and aggressive."

Last May, the committee held a "teach-in" against U.S. involvement in Viet Nam. They said 15,000 took part.

As others have started in the past, today's Berkeley demonstration will begin at Sproul Hall, the University of California Administration Building, scene last December of the massive "free-speech" sit-in that resulted in more than 700 arrests.

University authorities have made no move to prevent use of the campus for the rally but have refused to dismiss classes as the committee requested.

Jerry Rubin, a committee leader, said the Berkeley group has eight full-time employees who are paid $100 a month, mainly from donations from the 27,000-student campus.

Schiff

Carr's interpretation of one case cited in the brief, Dixon vs. Alabama, in which the court ruled that "expelled" students who had participated in civil rights demonstrations should be allowed a hearing.

Carr said the case involved race and not "participation," but the court pointed out that the case involved Negro students at a Negro school and thus involved their activities.

Carr said there was a difference between expelling a student and denying readmission. Since Schiff left school at the end of winter term and then applied for readmission for summer, the matter came under jurisdiction of the vice president for academic affairs.

Schiff's break in student status, said Laing, came at a time when he had finished his course work for a graduate degree in economics. Schiff was eligible to receive a degree when he finished his thesis and applied to do additional course work in history during summer term.

Carr said that MSU must have the right to make rules and demand compliance from the students.

The court said that the matter should be disposed of without court action or court order. Review of the case should be limited strictly to the facts of the case with full consideration given to the reasons for Schiff's denial.

10 West Circle Dorms Unified

Ten dormitories on West Circle Drive have joined forces to form a West Circle Complex Board.

The board, which is made up of the presidents, publicity chairmen, and social chairmen of each of the West Circle dorms, held its first meeting Wednesday evening at West Landon Hall.

"Our purpose," said Carole Papson, Midland junior and chairman of the board, "is to unify the dorms on the West Circle."

"By sponsoring all-university social and recreational events," added Pat Spice, Muskegon junior and secretary of the board, "we hope to bring out the West Circle Complex as a more active part of campus events."

Approximately 1,700 girls live in the West Circle dorms, which are East and West Landon, North and South Campbell, East and West Yakely, East and West Mayo, Gilchrist and Williams halls.

Pop Series--Chance To Make Good

Michigan State has its chance. This campus has been without a series of popular entertainment too long.

In the past, popular groups brought to campus came on a purely random basis. There was no continuity. One month the Senior Class might sponsor a Judy Collins concert. Six months later, Winter Carnival would present the Lettermen.

Seldom did these programs prove financially successful. This was the primary reason more popular entertainment was not brought here. Student organizations were not often willing to import entertainment when the prospect of losing large sums of money was great.

But the feeling among many that Michigan State should have popular entertainment available has endured. I suppose it is a source of pride for students of any school to be able to list the names of popular groups who have appeared on their campuses.

I also supposed that a campus of this size should be able to sport name entertainment for its students. Out of 35,000 students, there must be several thousand eager for performances by big name stars.

At any rate, this is the year that will either make or break MSU as an entertainment center.

ENTERTAINMENT THIS WEEKEND

KYLE KERBAWY

Among the supporters of big name popular groups are the hierarchy of ASMSU. They think the student body is receptive to name groups and they have provided the machinery to make such groups available.

Saturday the first of ASMSU's popular entertainment series will present the Serendipity Singers. Two weeks from now, during Homecoming Weekend, Dave Brubeck will perform followed Nov. 12 by the Kingsmen.

With this series Michigan State has its chance to fill a void left standing too long. Popular entertainment will continue on this campus and be allowed to grow and improve if these first three shows prove to be financially successful.

If these shows are not a success, popular entertainment will die a big ugly death. Certainly for several years, until people forget the disaster perpetrated by student apathy, Michigan State will be without name entertainment.

And, indeed, that would be a shame.

Other Entertainment:

THE BEST: the Righteous Brothers appearing Sunday at the Civic Center. Their show begins at 7 p.m., and tickets are available at the Disc Shop.

THE WORST: The Jack Pine Lodge.

GOOD: Still at Kresge Art Center is Australian artist Oscar Kokoschka's lithograph exhibit. Also, continuing at Abrams Planetarium is "The Milky Way--River of Light." Call Abrams for show times.

PEP RALLIES: Akers and Brody have both scheduled efforts to instill pep in the student body before the Ohio State game. Akers will have a bonfire, folk singing group, the cheerleaders, members of the football team and Duffy.

MINERS: Friday night mixers will be sponsored at Shaw, Brody and Akers dormitories, while Saturday night mixers will take place at McDonel and Case. Wonders has one planned for Sunday from 5-8 p.m.

The World Travel Series will present a travelogue on Japan by Alfred Wolff at 8 p.m. Friday in the Auditorium.

MOVIES: The best bet in shows, if you haven't already seen them, is at the Campus Theatre where "Anatomy of a Murder" and "Advise and Consent" return to the screen.

Also good are "The Pawnbroker" at the State and "Shenandoah" at the Lansing and Crest drive-ins.

All four are good flicks.

Pop Singing Duo Coming Sunday

The Righteous Brothers, rhythm and blues singing duo, will appear at the Lansing Civic Center at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Bill Medley and Bobby Hatfield, both 25, have been performing as the Righteous Brothers for the last three years.

Their name, Righteous Brothers, was coined while the two were appearing at the Black Derby in Santa Ana, California. Some Negro customers, after hearing a song they particularly liked, would comment, "That's righteous, brother."
