

MACHINISTS' STRIKE CONTINUES

Plan Rejected By Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Senate rejected a last-resort compulsory arbitration plan Wednesday and struggled for a way for Congress and the President to share responsibility for ordering an end to the 27-day-old airlines strike.

Defeated, 81-6, was a proposal by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, that would provide for compulsory arbitration of the complex contract dispute if special mediation efforts had failed to produce a settlement after 180 days.

"The Senate is not ready for compulsory arbitration... I'm certain I'm not ready," Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said before the Lausche proposal was rejected.

Under the Ohtano's plan, the President would have been able to appoint a five-member arbitration board, at the request of the machinists union or the five struck airlines, if the strike had not been settled in 180 days. The board then would have had 60 days to make a "final and conclusive" finding.

The Senate appeared near agreement in fashioning a compromise solution of the politically distasteful task of halting the costly walkout, attracting support of Democratic and Republican leaders and the acquiescence of the White House.

The final plan was expected to involve a short back-to-work period of 30 to 60 days, triggered by Congress, which could be extended by the President on recommendation of a special mediation board.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said a proposal has been examined "which conceivably might work and find favor generally."

Efforts to get the airlines operating again, following rejection by members of the International Assn. of Machinists of a proposed new contract, have bogged down since Monday.

Blocking agreement on legislation is the question of who should be responsible in an election year for ordering union men back on a job--President Johnson or Congress.

Attempts were being made to find a middle ground between White House opposition to discretionary back-to-work authority, and congressional insistence that the President play some affirmative role in sending the strikers back to their jobs.

The "shared responsibility" compromise taking shape would be congressional mandate, with Johnson's approval, to compel the machinists to return to their jobs for an initial period of either 30 or 60 days.

After that the President would have discretionary authority to block any new strike for an overall period of 180 days. In the meantime, efforts would continue to resolve the contract dispute between the machinists and the airlines--Trans World, Eastern, United, Northwest and National.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers told reporters that "the facts are that the administration has made no recommendations on legislation." This was in answer to a question about Dirksen's statement Tuesday that Johnson had told him he favored a compromise.

A compromise was discussed Wednesday between Dirksen, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a leader in congressional efforts to halt the walkout, said he would support the compromise plan.

Student Loans Increase With Enrollment Growth

By FAYE UNGER State News Staff Writer

While the National Defense Education Act loans handled by the MSU financial aids office pretty much marked time this past year, state-related and MSU loans continued an upswing.

The MSU financial aids office made 6,532 loans to students during the 1965-66 academic year for a total of $3,093,547.89 lent out, Henry C. Dykema, director of financial aids, reported. That figure represents 668 more loans than the year before and $469,554.15 more lent out.

The increase in the number of loans is due mainly to the increase in student enrollment, Dykema said.

The financial aids office handles NDEA loans, Michigan Higher Education Assistance loans (MHEA), United States Aid Fund loans and special foundation programs.

The office also participates in lending money to out-of-state students under their own states' higher education assistance programs.

The NDEA program remained the largest single one handled through the University's financial aids office, lending out $1,377,892 to MSU students.

The MHEA loans, United Student Aid loans and MSU loans provided most of the rest of the funds borrowed.

Although the $1,377,892 lent out under the NDEA program is an increase of $100,612 over the 1964-65 year, 151 fewer students took out loans in the 1965-66 year.

This drop in students taking out loans and the increase in funds lent is in part a result of a federal law allowing graduate and professional students, like veterinary medicine students, to borrow up to $2,500 per academic year.

Previously they could get only up to $1,000. Most undergraduates can still borrow only up to $1,000. A student can have up to 10 per cent of his NDEA loan cancelled each year for five years if he teaches during those five years after graduation.

The NDEA figures also reflect the federal government's unwillingness to continue large cash outlays each year for such borrowing programs. The federal government is short on cash, Dykema said.

The nation-wide NDEA program calls for an outlay of $190 million this coming year. MSU would receive $1,300,000 in new money under a bill authorizing a $190 million outlay, Dykema said. The House passed the NDEA bill but the Senate is looking for a workable alternate plan.

Most other loan programs at MSU showed both an increase in the number of students taking loans and in funds lent.

Under the MHEA program, 1,091 students borrowed a total of $701,795, about $643,25 per loan. This represented an increase of 725 students and $450,-

HOUSE BREAKS TIE

Housing Bill Scope Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)--By a single vote the House Wednesday voted to exempt an estimated 60 per cent of the nation's housing units, including most individually owned homes, from a proposed open housing law.

The big loophole was carved in the bill by its supporters, who said the exemptions were needed if there was to be any hope for passage of an open housing law this year.

The over-all provision, which would prohibit racial discrimination by real estate agents, builders and others in the business of selling or renting houses, is still threatened by efforts to have it stricken entirely from the 1966 Civil Rights Bill.

The main thrust would be aimed at large apartment houses and newly built homes and tract developments.

A 180-179 nonrecord vote, taken by counting members as they walked past tellers, took the homeowners out of the bill. About 20 Republicans joined with northern Democrats to support the amendment.

The original tally was a 179-179 tie. But Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., presiding at the time, cast the deciding vote in favor of the amendment.

The intent of the amendment was to make clear an exempt homeowner who refused to sell to a Negro could legally engage a real estate agent to carry out the transaction.

Spokesmen for both civil rights and real estate groups contended the original home owner exemption voted by the House Judiciary Committee would not apply unless the owner himself handled the sale, without an agent.

There would also be an exemption for the owner-occupants of one- to four-family dwellings who rent out the other units.

String Concert At 8:15

The Congress of Strings faculty, including first-chair musicians from leading symphony orchestras, will perform its second chamber music recital in Fairchild Theater at 8:15 tonight.

The program tonight includes Prokofiev's "Quartet No. 2 Opus 92," by Frank Houser, Hyman Goodman, John A. DiJanni and Theodore Salzmann, and Mozart's "Divertimento in A Flat Major," by Leonard Posner, DiJanni and Robert Jamieson.

Following the intermission, Schubert's "Quintet in A Major (The Trout)" will be played by Goodman, DiJanni, Salzmann, Warren Benfield and Penelope Hendel, who will assist on the piano.

Shriver Due Here Today

Poverty Director R. Sargent Shriver speaks to lieutenants and soldiers of the War on Poverty here at 4 today in Kellogg Center.

A day-long conference on "Community Action Agency's Manpower Role," held in cooperation with the Michigan Economic Opportunity Office and MSU's School of Labor and Industrial Relations, brings together community action directors strategists of the War at local levels.

A series of lectures on the War's progress and plans in Michigan will begin at 8:30 this morning and continue through until Shriver's progress report at 4 p.m.

Among the speakers is Daniel H. Kruger, associate professor and director of the School of Labor and Industrial Relations here, and Arthur Saltzman, director of the Michigan Economic Opportunity Office who will speak at 8:30 this morning.

Sniping Poses Issue Of Counselor's Role

By DON SOCKOL State News Staff Writer

A psychiatrist of the University of Texas Student Health Center said that Charles J. Whitman, in a conversation with him on March 29, said he was "thinking about going up to the tower with a deer rifle and start shooting at people."

When Whitman, a few days ago, shocked the nation and the world by doing just that, he raised a serious question.

If he predicted his action to a psychiatrist, why wasn't something done to prevent it?

Furthermore, what repercussions will this have on University counseling centers?

"This incident will serve to re-emphasize the importance of counselors' alertness to symptoms of psychopathology," said Rowland Pierson, director of MSU's counseling services.

Beyond that, Pierson admitted, nothing much can be done. Privileged communication between psychological counselors and their clients is protected in Michigan.

"If the Texas psychiatrist had been in Michigan and divulged the confidence of Whitman to police he could be prosecuted," said Raymond Scodeller, chief assistant to the Ingham County prosecutor.

"In fact, that psychiatrist could be sued by Whitman's estate for making the communication public after Whitman's death," he said. Many students see counselors with many problems, he said. Bizarre statements, he continued are quite common. Were a student to make wild statements like Whitman's here a

Jones And Laughlin, Armco Up Steel Cost

WASHINGTON (UPI)--More steel manufacturers' joined Inland Steel Co. Wednesday in announcing planned price increases despite apparent White House efforts to keep the dam from breaking industry-wide.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Armco Steel, following Inland's lead Tuesday, said they intended to raise the price of sheet and strip steel, widely used in consumer products, by $2 to $3 a ton.

Inland said it was a "modest" boost of 2.1 per cent. Jones & Laughlin, the fourth biggest U.S. steel producer, gave no reasons for its move, but Armco blamed higher labor costs for a decreased profit margin and said the increase in prices was "not consequential."

U.S. steel, the nation's biggest producer, confirmed it had a telegram from Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, but would not divulge its contents.

Armco said it would have been justified in making a higher price increase but wanted to "cooperate" with the Johnson administration in holding the line on prices and wages.

City's Attitude Insures Continued Pollution

CITY MANAGER John Patriarche's flat denial that East Lansing is depositing raw sewage into the Red Cedar River is the attitude that insures pollution will continue.

But his attitude is no worse than that of the city engineer, Robert Bruce. Even though Bruce is aware that the city has been dumping untreated sewage into the river, he thinks the present system is adequate.

When asked how he can consider a system that dumps untreated human waste into the river "adequate," he answered, "It's supposed to do that. Almost every town in Michigan does this."

And City Attorney Daniel C. Learned kept a straight face and said he had heard of no complaints of the city violating state pollution laws.

THESE EAST LANSING leaders, the men who could do something to end the pollution problems, are irresponsibly closing their eyes to the situation. They act as if they think the pollution will end if they ignore it.

It won't. As East Lansing continues to grow, its outdated sewer system will become more heavily burdened, and the excess waste will continue to pour into the river.

THE FEDERAL AND STATE governments are making strong attempts to control pollution. Michigan alone has appropriated millions for pollution control.

But these national and state efforts will fail to curb the pollution problem if local governments, like East Lansing's, refuse to help.

IT'S TIME THE LEADERS of East Lansing stopped ignoring the situation and began looking for solutions to the pollution in a straightforward, mature manner.

Union At Fault

FOR A MONTH the nation has been without 60 per cent of its air service because 35,400 machinists, fewer than the number of students attending MSU last year, are on strike.

This strike is a thorn in the nation's economy as well as an inconvenience to air travelers.

Last weekend representatives of the airlines and the union leaders finally reached a contract agreement.

SPECIFICALLY, THE PROPOSED contract called for an estimated 4.3 per cent increase in labor costs, well above the 3.2 per cent guide post outlined by the administration and the 3.5 per cent increase recommended by an emergency board set up by President Johnson to deal with the problem.

In dollars and cents, had the union accepted the contract, machinists who already earn $3.52 an hour not counting fringe benefits would have received $4.08, retroactive to Jan. 1.

About the only thing that the union wanted which it didn't get was a clause providing for automatic wage increases as the cost of living increases.

BUT WHEN THE PROPOSAL was put to the union members for a vote, they rejected it overwhelmingly. The main complaints from the rank and file members were the lack of a cost of living clause and an allegation that the side benefits would take too long to go into effect.

The airlines' willingness to this agreement indicated its cooperativeness. Even the president of the machinists' union, P.L. Siemiller, called it the best settlement ever negotiated on the airlines.

THIS INDICATES THAT the responsibility for the continuance of the national inconvenience falls on the uncooperative attitude of the union members. Their disregard for the national interest when presented with what the president of their union calls a "rich and reasonable" contract indicates an irresponsible attitude, if not a sense of greed.

Nicaragua's President Dies

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)—Nicaraguan President Rene Schick, who led Central America's largest nation for three years, died early Wednesday of a heart attack. He was 56.

Vice President Lorenzo Guerrero later was unanimously elected by congress to complete Schick's six-year term, which ends May 1, 1967.

Schick was stricken Tuesday with what doctors described as a mild heart attack. They predicted he would be back at his desk within three weeks.

His condition worsened Tuesday evening, and he had to be placed in an oxygen tent.

President Johnson, whom Schick visited only last June, sent two U.S. heart specialists, Drs. William Hurst and Thomas Mattingly, to Managua in a vain bid to save the Nicaraguan president's life. Schick died at 2:25 a.m., leaving a widow, Carmen. They had no children.

Schick's successor is a 65-year-old physician, who served as government minister as well as vice president for Schick. Guerrero is a former Nicaraguan envoy to Belgium, Mexico and Costa Rica. Like Schick, he once served as education minister.

Guerrero will also take over Schick's position as army commander.

His first action upon assuming office was to promise to uphold Schick's guarantee of free elections.

OUR READERS SPEAK

Supports A Student Union

To the Editor:

Your editorial concerning a union for MSU students was an interesting one, but in many respects inaccurate and subject to simple black-and-white thinking and conservative bias against unions. I believe that the idea of a union for working students at MSU would be most beneficial.

The University of Michigan has successfully set up such a union which not only has achieved a decent wage for students but guarantees them proper working conditions and safeguards in addition to having a powerful channel of communication and action in case of grievances.

For all practical purposes no such channel exists at MSU where the administration takes a much less liberal attitude toward the capabilities of students and their rights as compared to our rivals at Ann Arbor.

In addition to this monetary security the unions offer an educational experience that cannot be taught or bought—a chance to participate in and govern a democratic union organization learning first hand about the problems of labor and management and running a large organization that exists for the benefit of its members.

In addition, if nothing else, such an experience would help correct your gross misconceptions of unions as selfish organizations that exist to make its officers rich and fat.

Roles Of England, Red China Criticized

To The Editor:

England has had more than its share of individual genius, but the advocates of intelligent national behavior have certainly had a difficult time making their point by her example.

Visiting Associate Professor Sharma says England intelligently granted freedom to more than 600 million Asians and Africans and intelligently recognizes the sovereignty of 600 million Chinese.

Has Mr. Sharma forgotten how England imprisoned Gandhi? Isn't it true, Mr. Sharma, that England simply could not force itself on its colonies anymore when it "granted" their freedom?

I happen to think that our unintelligent China policy has involved us in two unnecessary and unwise wars on the mainland of Asia; but tell me, Mr. Sharma, how much international recognition is due a nation at war with the United Nations?

Is it intelligent to want to negotiate with an adversary who does not want to negotiate? Is it intelligent to invite a nation that does not want to belong to the United Nations to join the United Nations on its terms rather than at least requiring that it make peace with the organization first?

Like Diogenes, we ought to spend some time with lamp in hand looking for an intelligent nation. If we find one, it may be one capable of minding its own business, something England was never good at in spite of its insular position.

State To Call 1,000 Draftees In September

LANSING (P)—Selective Service has asked Michigan local boards to deliver 2,525 young men for induction into the Army in September, down nearly 1,000 from the August call of 3,430.

Col. Arthur Holmes, State Selective Service director, said it was expected the bulk of the call will be filled with registrants aged 19 and 20.

Where needed, he said, local boards have been authorized to call childless men married before Aug. 26, 1965.

Holmes said 6,892 men would be called for preinduction physical examinations in September.

Qualified Film Critic?

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in reference to Leo Zainea's review of "A Fine Madness." I believe that the time has come when a reviewer must be critical and evaluative in his approach to the cinema as an art. If not, let's not make any endeavors this way.

We have too long had unqualified irresponsible persons presenting their views on such complex arts as the film to the readers of the State News. What qualifies Zainea as a film critic?

Better Half Is Just That

Getting married, I thought, would be the best thing that could happen to a humor writer.

All those jokes about women—I'd have material for a lifetime. Unfortunately, my wife is not subject to many of the feminine foibles you hear about so often from Ed Sullivan show comics.

My wife can cook. She is very frugal—more so than I am. She doesn't wear hats and she doesn't wear curlers at night.

Her one humorous aspect is that she is a hypochondriac. On our honeymoon in Chicago, she spent one whole afternoon window shopping in drug stores.

Other than that, though—nothing. She's got a whole passel of cute expressions—"You look very droggy, Donald"—but how do you string those together for a column?

Without a doubt, however, the biggest disappointment has been my mother-in-law.

Not one mother-in-law joke from her. She never bothers us, never interferes. In fact, we never see her.

We call her Momma Phantom around the house.

She didn't make it to our housewarming a month ago. She said she'd try to come to see us soon after.

A couple of days later we came home to find a bookcase on our front steps. The lady next door said my mother-in-law had been and gone by 9 p.m.

She drove 100 miles, dragged a 50-pound bookcase from her car to our door (about 100 yards) and drove back home without seeing us.

Last week we phoned and asked her to come up for dinner. "I might go to Toronto this weekend," she said.

"You told us you might go to Toronto last week," I answered. "I didn't go."

"What kind of mother-in-law are you?" I tried to shame her. "Why don't you come over and bother us a little?"

It got a laugh, but it didn't help.

So a few days ago, in desperation, I got a dog.

The dog is funny. Really funny. The only trouble is this: Girls like to read about wifely foibles.

Guys like to read mother-in-law jokes.

Dogs are interested in other dogs—but dogs can't read.

So I don't have anything to write about today.

Kosygin Wants U.S. Withdrawal

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin declared Wednesday the Soviet Union "will display restraint and calmness" in Viet Nam to prevent a third world war.

He added, however, that the Soviet Union will do everything in its power to expel U.S. forces from South Viet Nam "as quickly as possible."

He also said the Viet Nam war does not necessarily bar steps toward disarmament and specifically cited a ban on all nuclear tests and a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons as possible steps.

The newly re-elected Soviet Premier warned, however, that the war could jeopardize the future of Soviet-American relations.

"At the same time," he said, "we will display restraint and calmness and will not be taken in by the provocations of those who would like to warm their hands at the hotbeds of international tensions, at the hotbeds of war."

Kosygin's declaration that

Moscow's aim was to expel U.S. forces from Viet Nam was greeted with applause by members of the Supreme Soviet (parliament). The parliament ended a two-day meeting by re-electing the same Kremlin team to run the Communist government for the next four years.

field urged his colleagues "to put aside questions of political advantage in approaching this question."

He said that "Democrats or Republicans—all of us—use the same airlines. Democrats or Republicans all are equally affected by this situation."

Cavanagh Defeat

orally races, was clobbered this time in most Negro precincts. The vote favoring Williams was 13 to 1 in Detroit's 17th precinct; 11 to 1 in Ward 1, precinct 28A; 7 to 1 in another.

As the mayor explained it, there is a long-standing emotional appeal in the Negro community for Williams, who was in the forefront of the civil rights movement long before it monopolized newspaper headlines.

"The biggest problem I had among the Negroes was that they wanted to keep me as mayor," Cavanagh contended. "They were faced with a dilemma in their choice between Soapy and me—and they solved it by keeping me here."

Cavanagh didn't mention stop-and-frisk, but apparently a lot of Negroes did.

The mayor not only had counted on more support from the Negro community than he got, but he also failed in his appeal to Republicans to cross over into the Democratic primary and vote for him.

There was some evidence of a crossover vote, but it was not enough.

Cavanagh carried nine of Michigan's 83 counties and made a creditable showing in a few others. The mayor's strongest showing was in Washtenaw County, where his dove-like Viet Nam war gained a favorable response in the University of Michigan area.

Other counties where he topped the Williams' vote were Alpena, Huron, Kalamazoo, Kent, Lenawee, Midland, Muskegon and Sanilac.

Few political observers shared Cavanagh's belief that he stood a chance of knocking over Williams, long regarded as "Mr. Michigan Democrat."

The former six-term governor had too many things going for him—almost solid support from the Democratic organization, overwhelming backing by powerful labor forces, long-standing friendships built up during his 12 years as the state's chief executive.

Williams was first elected governor of Michigan before Cavanagh was old enough to vote. He was square dancing, shaking hands and making the green-and-white polka dot bow tie his political trademark long before Cavanagh was out of law school.

Defeat at the hands of the Democrats' all-time champ is no disgrace.

But where Cavanagh goes from here politically remains to be seen.

Cambodian News Agency Accuses U.S. Of Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)--The official Cambodian news agency charged Wednesday two U.S. F105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers attacked a Cambodian village Tuesday with air-ground rockets, killing at least three persons and wounding nine others.

U.S. military and embassy spokesmen in Saigon said they had no knowledge of such an attack but did not deny it occurred. They said an official investigation of the charges would be conducted. The Cambodian news agency said the attack was witnessed by members of the International Control Commission, foreign correspondents and military attaches of several embassies in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital. It said the official party was in the border area 80 miles north of Saigon inspecting damage from two previous alleged raids when the American jets screamed in and shelled the village of Anglong Trach in Kompong Cham Province.

The government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, which broke relations with the United States in May 1965, ostensibly over previous border violations, has not officially reacted to the alleged attack Tuesday. But observers believed Cambodia would almost certainly seize the incident to condemn anew U.S. "aggression" in Southeast Asia.

The news agency said those killed in the attack included a pregnant woman and two children. One of the foreign correspondents who said he witnessed the raid was A. Silanin, a reporter for the Soviet News Agency Tass. In his dispatch Silanin said the American planes fired "shells and missiles at members of the International Commission and the military attaches and representatives of the local and foreign press accompanying them."

He said the attack lasted 30 minutes and that the two American planes made seven passes over the village. When the party got to the shelled village, Silanin said the force required to staff this logistic train is considerable, and represents a sizable gold drain. The Germans have committed themselves to offset with military purchases the amount spent in this country. Defense Minister Kai-Uwe Von Hassel is said to believe the United States easily could halve its supplies in Europe without reducing its fighting effectiveness.

Von Hassel objects vigorously however to any suggestion that one or more of the combat divisions be withdrawn. He would consider that to be a serious weakening of the deterrent which would bring with it increased danger of war or diplomatic blackmail.

In his article, De Maixiere took issue with McNamara's claim that the German army of 12 divisions is undermanned, and under-equipped. The German army, he said, can match the American army in Europe in all respects, and some arms such as tank and tank destroyer units are superior.

SEPARATE PARTIES

Luci, Pat Parted--Briefly

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Luci Johnson and Pat Nugent parted ways briefly Wednesday night. She gave a buffet supper for her bridesmaids and he threw a bachelor party--with soft drinks--for his buddies.

On his last fling with the boys before he marries the President's daughter Saturday, 23-year-old Nugent held what the White House described as "a casual affair with hamburgers, hot dogs and soft drinks" at an undisclosed location. Then Nugent took his wedding attendants to an exhibition football game between the Washington Redskins and the Baltimore Colts at D.C. Stadium.

Luci gave a farewell tea in the Blue Room for 60 members of the White House staff--the maids, switchboard operators, doctors, ushers, chef, pastry cook and other kitchen help, Mrs. Johnson's photographer and the keeper of the family beagles. Each received a photograph of Luci and her fiance strolling on the South Lawn. Luci stayed up until 3 a.m. autographing each picture. Pat and his parents, the Gerard Nugents of Waukegan, Ill., were on hand for the ceremony.

Later, Luci joined her sister, Lynda, and the 11 bridesmaids in third-floor White House Solarium for a buffet at which the bride-to-be distributed personalized charm bracelets. The fashionable New York jewelry salon of Van Cleef & Arpels created the bracelets of 14-carat gold chain. Each 1 1/2-inch dangling charm was engraved with a floral bouquet of gold studded with tiny rubies.

Inscribed on the back of each charm were the words, "To (name) A Bouquet Of Friendship And Love, Luci, 8-6-66."

Nugent gave his groomsmen sterling silver money clips, each with the recipient's initials and the inscription, "Pat and Luci Aug. 6, 1966."

Luci chose the decorations and menu for the buffet, which featured crab meat crepes, chicken salad in tomato baskets, fruit salad and meringue-topped ice cream and cake sundaes served in small white, green and pink ceramic pots.

An added touch for the bridesmaids was disclosed. Designer Priscilla Kidder of Boston has embroidered "White House wedding of Miss Luci Baines Johnson, August 6, 1966" in blue in the hemline of each of their pink wedding gowns, along with their names.

Amid all the bustle at the executive mansion, the father of the bride was taking a quiet back seat. "I think this is Luci's time, not mine," the President has told friends.

"All I want for my girls is their happiness. As far as Luci is concerned, all you have to do is talk to Pat and Luci to know they are happy," he says.

Thai Asks Asian Peace Meeting

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)--Thailand Wednesday blamed Russia for blocking Viet Nam peace moves in Geneva and suggested interested Asian nations hold their own conference to discuss settlement of the war in Southeast Asia.

The proposal was made by Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman at the opening session of the Foreign Ministers Conference of the Assn. of Southeast Asia (ASA), which includes Thailand, Malaysia and the Philippines.

Khoman said it was time for Asians to act and solve their own problems--including the Viet Nam war--in view of the repeated refusal by the Soviet Union as co-chairman to reconvene the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina. "After due preparations have been completed, a peace of Asia conference composed of interested nations of the area might attempt to hold a conference, not in Geneva but somewhere in Asia," Khoman said.

"If there is no undue obstruction and intransigence, this novel experiment should be able to function," he added. "This will be the first time in history that peoples of this region will take full charge and responsibility of their affairs."

Khoman said the Soviet Union "has consistently refused to cooperate" with Britain, the other co-chairman, in reconvening the Geneva Conference "to explore ways and means of resolving the situation in Viet Nam by negotiations and reaching a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam conflict."

Mississippi Ends Long, 'Dry' Years

JACKSON Miss. (UPI)--More than half of Mississippi's citizens awoke Wednesday in counties where liquor is now legal, including a number with hangovers from end-of-prohibition parties. Nineteen of 23 counties which held referendums Tuesday under the state's new local option law voted for legal liquor. Eight counties which held referendums earlier all went "wet," and more counties vote in the next few weeks. Four counties rejected liquor Tuesday.

The 27 counties in which liquor is legal--but mostly not obtainable yet--include the state's most populous and hold within their borders more than half the state's two million residents. "Wets" celebrated their victories in several counties with quiet "end of prohibition" parties in private homes and clubs, utilizing hoarded liquor or booze shipped in from neighboring states.

Mississippi, the last bastion of legal prohibition, had readily available liquor in most areas until the new liquor law went into effect July 1, and the state warned the present liquor dealers they stood no chance of getting licenses for legal sales unless they closed. Mississippi went "dry" in 1908.

Griffin Also Asks Debates

DETROIT (AP)--Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., wasted no time in challenging his November election opponent to a debate. Griffin said today he would like to face former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, winner of Tuesday's Democratic primary against Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, in a series of debates throughout the state.

"It is a little unusual for the incumbent U.S. senator to challenge his opponent," Griffin told a news conference here, "but, yes, I do challenge Mr. Williams to a series of debates around Michigan."

Griffin said the "race ahead will not be easy" but added he was confident of victory in November.

Griffin said he believes he now is running "neck and neck" with Williams.

Navy Teams Soft Sell, Fast Pitch

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE-- Material in bold face type in this article is taken from an official U.S. Navy pamphlet, "Wings of Gold."

Two soft-spoken supersalesmen from the U.S. Navy are recruiting in the Union lobby this week. They can afford to be choosy as they search for potential pilots, and specialists in airborne intercept, navigation, bombing, electronics counter-measure evaluation and air antisubmarine warfare tactical evaluation.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles S. Thornton and Lt. (jg) Michael K. Nolan cheerfully admit that, thanks to the draft, the Navy has been able to raise its standards for officer candidates considerably in the last year and a half. Men who are eager to avoid the prospect of two years of foot-soldiering have expressed great interest in naval aviation, which is the two recruiters' specialty.

Your first day of flight... It was just as you had imagined! The pre-briefing the night before, then this morning in the READY ROOM, all dressed up in your bright orange flight gear... drinking the inevitable coffee and joshing around with the other fellows in good-natured camaraderie, the outlet which masks underlying seriousness...

The two men from the U.S. Naval Air Station in Grosse Ile come to Michigan State about three times a year. They offer a choice of three programs, all of which, unlike some offered before the increase in draft quotas, require that a student graduate from college before receiving his commission.

Two of the programs--one for pilots and one for Naval Flying Officers--are for college seniors. The third is for sophomores and juniors. Height, weight, health, grade-point and Navy test standards, including a three-hour mental examination, must be met.

Now the filling out of the flight plan... talking over the problem... pilot, navigator, tactical evaluator--the ALL-AMERICAN Team--all contributing, adding their bit.

Unlike the "boat Navy," which wants men with advanced technical degrees, explained Nolan, the Naval aviation program is still accepting many men directly after completion of their bachelor's degree requirements, even in non-technical majors.

"Oh, sure, a man with a 3.4 grade point in engineering is going to be preferred--other things being equal--to an art major with a three-point," he admitted. "But test scores, interviews and recommendations also mean a lot."

Next, to Operational Control... the OpCon Center. Navy men like to shorten, abbreviate or combine words. The air intelligence officer gives you the final pre-take-off briefing: positions, call signs and frequencies, type of search, weather report...

Men who sign up in their senior year of college report to duty soon after graduation. Eleven weeks later--"It used to be 16 weeks, but everything now is rush, rush, rush"--the candidates finish pre-flight school and are commissioned as officers.

After 16 to 18 months of flight school they receive their wings of gold, as either pilots or naval flying officers, and begin serving their three-and-a-half year tours of duty.

Now you're strolling up to the plane and you glance at the other members of your ALL-AMERICAN Team. You realize that scenes like this are taking place at many other naval air stations and aboard U.S. aircraft carriers in all parts of the globe. A bit of special pride creeps into your step and your glance...

Those who sign up in their sophomore year can go to pre-flight school for six weeks in their sophomore-junior summer and six weeks in their junior-senior summer.

The main advantage in this program, which is rather limited, is that the man who signs up for it has his longevity computed from the day he enters. Pay in the service is computed on the basis of rank and years-in-service.

For example, an unmarried MSU student who entered this program at the start of his sophomore year would under normal circumstances be promoted to the rank of Lieutenant (Junior grade) 18 months after his graduation from college. He would then have four and a half years of longevity, and his combined monthly pay and allowances, including flight pay, would be $814.38.

A Naval Academy graduate who was commissioned on the same day as the MSU student and was promoted on the same day 18 months later would have only 18 months of longevity. His monthly combined pay and allowances, including flight pay, would be only $536.98.

Is there a catch? Yes, there is. If a student signs up in his sophomore year, and then fails to finish college, then it will be high-ho, the life of an enlisted seaman for him.

You didn't need all that talk about motivation... this is what you've always wanted to do, these are the special people you wanted to join ever since your hero-worshipping days of grammar school...

Thornton and Nolan travel all year around to various Michigan colleges. They spend about 20 days a month on the road. For each of these days they receive $16 a day travel allowance.

And you think back. Only a few short weeks ago, this moment, this plane, this mission, was story-book stuff... the things you read, or saw in the movies, or on TV. Now they're vital, alive, and a part of you...

Since it is summer the men are wearing white, well-pressed uniforms with blue shoulderboards and gold stripes. They are over six-feet tall. They are bachelors. Most of the colleges they visit are co-educational.

And you? ... You've become a part of the greatest ALL-AMERICAN Team you can ever join--Naval Aviation. FLY NAVY!!!!

Institution Management Program Will Use Medical School Facilities

A Health Facilities Management Program, in the planning stages for three years, will go into full swing this fall with an enrollment of about 20 students.

The program formally opened last year as a major within the School of Hotel, Restaurant and Institutional Management.

The two-year College of Human Medicine, considering expansion to a full degree granting program, and a future health center on campus would provide a major resource for this program as far as faculty resources, student projects and externship are concerned, said Walter M. Burnett, associate professor of business.

Each student must complete six months of professional experience in a University approved hospital, nursing home or health-related agency as part of his externship program.

It is intended to provide the student with an opportunity for a variety of experiences under actual operating conditions.

Burnett, also a lecturer in the College of Human Medicine, said officials from this college and planners of the new health center have greeted the program favorably. An advisory council consisting of leaders of health care institutions aided the program development greatly, he said.

There have been no decisions on specific hospitals for externship, Burnett said, but all will be within the state.

"The success of the Health Facilities Management Program is being greatly augmented by the Medical School and medical facilities on the MSU campus," he said.

Henry O. Barbour, professor and director of hotel management, and Andrew Patullo, director of the division of hospitals of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, spearheaded plans for the new program.

Burnett said he anticipates 100 students within the next five years.

The Kellogg Foundation has provided a $99,480 grant to begin the program which covers a three-year period. The next step after the program proved successful, Burnett said, would be to integrate the program fiscally with the University.

As the Medical School and Health Facilities Management Program develop, he said, there would be a sharing of courses. Core courses are similar to those offered in HRL.

Burnett said expansion of the program will depend largely on the student interest and reaction. He said he sees a need in Michigan for this type of program.

Burnett said classes will be held in Epley Center, present home of the College of Business Administration, and most of the instructors will be from the Dept. of HRL.

Graduates of the Health Facilities Management Program will receive a B.A. degree.

Foreign Students' Orientation Starts

Tuesday night was the informal opening of a month-long orientation program at MSU for 75 foreign students representing 30 nations.

Two of the students, Phob Lao-hapibul of Thailand and Tsunetaka Iret of the Ryukyu Islands, will enroll at MSU in September. The other students will enter various colleges and universities throughout the United States.

The Institute of International Education in New York is sponsoring the program. Students will receive intensive courses in English, academic procedures in higher education and social and cultural patterns in the United States.

Most of the foreign students are visiting the United States for the first time. They will be here for one to three years.

The majority of the students are graduate students and many have been serving in professional roles in their own countries. Besides their intensive schedule of classes, the students will participate in field trips and special evening sessions with guest lecturers.

They leave Friday for a field trip to Kellogg Co. cereal plant in Battle Creek.

Some of the guest speakers include: Gordon Thomas, professor of speech, whose topic-night will be "Framework for Interpreting Your United States Experience;" Bruce Smith, professor of political science, who speaks Tuesday on "The Making of American Foreign Policy;" and Benjamin Gibson, Lansing attorney, who will speak Aug. 11 on "Civil Rights in Contemporary U.S.A."

Case Hall houses the entire group of foreign students. Three out of 10 of the students in Case are from foreign countries. Case students are planning an international banquet Aug. 27.

The students room with American students as an important phase of their orientation. They will also participate in social activities.

Utilities Seminar To End Today

Public relations executives today end their examination of the financial needs of the nation's public utilities.

The five-day seminar, which began Saturday, was sponsored jointly by the MSU graduate School of Business Administration and the National Institute of Public Utilities.

Thirty public relations, public affairs, information, news, sales and industrial development personnel from corporations and associations in twenty states and Washington, D.C., are on campus for the program.

They have emphasized the necessity of attracting capital for future expansion in needs and services in the national utilities.

STIFFER LAWS SOUGHT

Sniper Visited Bank Tower

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)--Mass sniper-slayer Charles J. Whitman apparently visited the top of the tallest building in Dallas four days before he shot 13 persons to death from the top of the University of Texas tower in Austin, it was revealed Wednesday.

"Chas. Whitman, Texas University campus, Austin," was found on a register on the 49th floor of the 50-story First National Bank Building, a bank official in Dallas disclosed.

A guard spotted the signature Wednesday morning and bank officials took out the page for police. The official said it closely resembled Whitman's signature as printed in newspapers.

An elevator runs to the 49th floor, and visitors to the 50th-floor observation platform sign the register before going up.

Whitman and his mother--the second of his 15 victims in America's worst mass slaying--went home to Florida Wednesday in caskets covered with rain-spattered green tarpaulins.

Texas Gov. John Connally called for new and stiffer laws against such "heinous" crimes but said he thought a national gun registration bill currently before Congress would not help.

Connally, who cut short a trip to Latin America and returned to the state capitol at Austin Tuesday night, told a news conference persons who commit such crimes and are found innocent by insanity should be locked up for life.

"This man is dead, and my feelings have nothing to do with this particular instance, but we've reached the point where we tend to coddle our criminals," Connally said. "It's getting to the point where a policeman no longer can feel free to resume his duties without fear of attack."

"We need substantial tightening of our laws dealing with criminals, as far as they concern treatment of crimes in this country."

Whitman, a 25-year-old ex-Marine and architectural engineering student, killed his wife and mother Sunday night or Monday morning. Then he lugged an arsenal to the top of the 27-story University of Texas tower and killed 13 persons in a high-noon hall of bullets before he was shot to death by police. He wounded 33 others.

Connally said he was in favor of constitutional rights for accused persons "but these 15 people who also died had some constitutional rights, too. They had the right not to be killed by some maniac."

Asked if he thought the gun registration bill would have prevented Whitman's rampage, Connally replied:

"No, I do not." He said he was not opposed to the law being argued in Washington but "I do not want to be a party to anything that might tend to encourage people who believe that such a law would prevent this type of thing."

Talking in his capitol reception room and flanked by city and state police officials with whom he had been discussing the case all morning, the governor said:

"I am seriously considering recommending to the legislature that any time there is this type of crime which results in the loss of lives such as this and the person is found to be insane, that he be incarcerated for life and never be eligible for parole or released."

He emphasized that he was not applying this specifically to Whitman's case.

And the governor backed up Dr. M.D. Healy, a psychiatrist at the University of Texas, who interviewed Whitman in March but did not report to authorities Whitman's statement that he sometimes felt like "going up on the tower with a deer rifle and start shooting people."

"I think Dr. Healy was absolutely correct in the actions he took," Connally said.

Asked if a law could be passed requiring psychiatrists to report such statements, the governor said: "What you would do is make people quit going to psychiatrists. A person would not go if he knew that what he said would be turned over to police."

As far as gun registration is concerned, Connally said, people can be killed by other means. He noted the eight nurses killed earlier this year in Chicago were stabbed and strangled, and Whitman's young wife was stabbed.

Connally, who himself was wounded by the Twentieth Century's most famous sniper, Lee Harvey Oswald, during the assassination of President Kennedy in 1963, said he had asked state officials to collect every scrap of information they could find on the Whitman case.

He said the information would be collected at a central point by the Texas Dept. of Public Safety in order to see if it "might provide some insight as to why it happened."

Physical Therapists Take License Exam

The first examination for the licensing of physical therapists in Michigan was given to 39 persons in the Union Ballroom Wednesday.

A bill requiring the defining, regulation and licensing of the practice of physical therapy was signed into law by Gov. George Romney last summer.

Physical therapy is the treatment of bodily or mental disorders by the use of the physical, chemical and other properties of heat, cold, air, light, water, electricity, sound, massage, mechanical devices and therapeutic exercise.

Physical therapists may only practice by prescription of licensed physicians.

Responsibility for enforcing the year-old bill is in the hands of a board of seven, including two Lansing men.

Presently physical therapists are trained at the U-M and Wayne State Medical schools. Together they graduate about 70 physical therapists a year.

Gridders 4th Says 'Numbers Game'

By LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

It has been said that there is safety in numbers, but if the numbers have their way concerning MSU's chances in the upcoming football race for the Big Ten championship, there is anything but safety and good fortune in store for the Spartans.

The Big Ten headquarters in Chicago have devised their own version of the "numbers game" for determining which team will win the championship. The "game" is based on an analysis of the league's Rose Bowl representative's record in season prior to the bowl, record in season of the bowl and record in season following the bowl.

According to the numbers, MSU will finish in a fourth place tie this fall, and Illinois will reign as the conference champ. Illinois will be 6-1 in the conference and 8-1-1 overall. MSU's conference mark will be 4-3 and 6-3-1 overall.

The "game" ignores completely any and all team personnel and is based entirely on past performances of Big Ten teams since 1946.

Big Ten teams have averaged a fifth place finish in the season prior to their participation in the Rose Bowl. They have averaged 4-3 Big Ten won-lost records and 6-4 overall marks in a 10-game season. The Big Ten Rose Bowl representatives have averaged 6-1 and 8-1-1 slates in the season of the bowl.

Illinois '65 marks match the average records identically. Therefore, according to the "game," Illinois will make the trip to California on the merits of a 6-1 performance in conference and 8-1-1 overall.

In the past 19 years, Big Ten teams have had an average finish of a fourth-place tie after playing in the Rose Bowl. The average record has been 4-3 in the conference and 6-3-1 overall.

Thus, the Spartans are destined to a fourth-place finish after an undefeated season in '65.

Even though the Spartans cannot enjoy the California fun as a reward for their gridiron toil this season, they will be aiming for the glory of repeating as conference champs. But, it's just not in the numbers for MSU's gridders. Mathematically speaking, the Spartans are hurting.

However, it was in the numbers for MSU when Duffy Daugherty's crew played UCLA in the Rose Bowl, but the Bruins and Tommy Prothro proved the numbers fallible.

It will be Daugherty's job to beat the numbers this year, and the embarrassing New Year's Day loss should serve as incentive.

Tough To Face

MSU Football Coach Duffy Daugherty is pictured hiding his face in a moment of contemplation. This scene may be reminiscent of Daugherty when he must face post-Rose Bowl letdown this fall.

PICKED AS AN ALTERNATE

Kenney On U.S. Ball Team

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

Spartan pitcher Dick Kenney has been named an alternate for the U.S. team in the World Amateur Baseball Tournament at Honolulu, Hawaii, Aug. 22-29.

Kenney, a right-hander who returned to his home state after a good spring season for Spartan Coach Danny Litwhiler, is one of 19 collegiate players chosen for the squad.

Kenney was Litwhiler's top pitcher last spring, recording a 5-1 record and a 2.31 earned run average. His won-lost record, however, was second only to Jim Goodrich, who was 6-2.

As a junior Kenney combined with Goodrich for 11 victories and led MSU to a 24-13 record, its second best for a regular season.

He was also named to the All-Big Ten Conference third team along with Goodrich.

Kenney is the only experienced starter returning next season for Litwhiler. The Spartans lost three starters from last season through graduation -- Goodrich, John Krasnan and Dick Holmes -- and lost another starter, Jim Blight, when he signed a professional contract with the Detroit Tigers.

College All-Star Game Chance To Claim Fame

CHICAGO (P)--Among all of the College All-Stars assembled here to meet the world champion Green Bay Packers Friday night, there will be some who will make a lasting name for themselves.

They could be such backs as Donny Anderson of Texas Tech, Jim Grabowski of Illinois, Roy Shivers of Utah State or line-backers Doug Buffone of Louisville, Tommy Nobis of Texas and Don Hansen of Illinois or end Aaron Brown of Minnesota.

Or it might be a player who makes his way among the ranks of the unknown.

Down through the years, players who have excelled in the All-Star Game have gone to greatness in professional football.

Back in 1937, the College All-Stars dealt the Green Bay Packers a 6-0 defeat on a Sammy Baugh to Gaynell Tinsley touchdown pass.

The following year Cecil Isbell of Purdue directed the All-Stars to a 28-16 triumph over Washington.

The Collegians had to wait five years for another victory and then topped the Washington Redskins 27-7 when Otto Graham intercepted a Baugh pass and ran 97 yards for a touchdown.

Graham, currently coach of the Redskins, was the All-Star coach for seven years before John Sauer became the pilot this year.

In 1946, Elroy Hirsch rambled 68 yards for a touchdown and then grabbed a 38-yard pass from Graham for still another score as World War II players were still eligible for competition.

George Ratterman of Notre Dame became a sudden hero in 1947 as he fired a pair of touchdown passes for a 16-0 triumph over the Chicago Bears. Ratterman had been a second stringer for the Irish before proving himself in the All-Star Game. Charles Gogolak of Princeton is the field-goal booter for the All-Stars this year. If things go right he might be the hero of the game.

Intramural News

Larry Vance fired two-hit ball, and teammate Joe Petersen slugged a double and a single to lead Cavalier to a 9-1 victory over Carthage, in Tuesday's softball play.

A home run by Marv Howle was the decisive blow in Carleton's 14-13 win over Cameron.

The Engineers scored a run in the bottom of the final inning to pull out a 2-1 squeaker over the Hot Dogs. Bernie Schroeder's triple was the only big blow in Cambridge's 13-0 whalloping of Casino.

In other action, Tony's Boys beat Abbot Hall, 3-2. Knarles downed the Spastics, 7-3. Gross out AC whipped the Brother's Nine, 4-1, and Fibrillators beat Ossicles, 11-6.

UNOPPOSED BUT

Ferency Vote Slim

DETROIT (AP)—Republican Gov. George Romney won renomination to a third term without opposition Tuesday...

dates—G. Mennen Williams and Jerome P. Cavanagh—an indication that many Republicans and independents entered the Democratic primary to vote for Cavanagh.

already promised it will be his most vigorous yet. The governor is confident of re-election but wants to bring Sen. Robert Griffin, at least four new congressmen and control of the State Senate in with him.

New Politics Unseat Vets

DETROIT (AP)—The 70-year-old dean of the Michigan Legislature and a 24-year House veteran were knocked off by younger candidates in Tuesday's primary election.

Sen. Haskell Nichols, R-Jackson, who has served in the legislature since 1932 with only a two-year break, conceded defeat to Jackson County Prosecutor James Fleming, 36.

Rep. Rollo Conlin, R-Adrian, who has served in the House continuously since 1944, was defeated by Robert Sittes, former head of the Michigan Sheriff's Assn. Conlin is 63.

With only one precinct to go, another veteran, Rep. Homer Arnett, R-Kalamazoo, was trailing by more than 100 votes. Arnett, also 63, was losing to William H. Avery won renomination in the Kansas Republican primary.

Idaho's Samuelson, who piled up steady pluralities in most of the state's 44 counties, was backed by the party's more conservative elements in his race against Smylie.

Although Smylie campaigned for Goldwater in 1964, he called for reorganization of the party after the overwhelming Goldwater defeat and is considered a moderate. The governor has been in office since 1954.

Despite the heavy intraparty political overtones, the main issues in the campaign were Smylie's 12-year tenure as governor and a 3 per cent sales tax enacted by the state legislature at his request.

Democratic Sen. Len B. Jordan had no opposition in the Idaho primary and will face former congressman Ralph Harding in the November election.

Pearson, 46, who will now make his first run for a full Senate term, also was endorsed by the party's conservative leaders in his Kansas race against Ellsworth, 40, who won election to the House six years ago.

While in Congress, Ellsworth was identified with the moderate wing of the Republican party. He trailed Pearson closely in early returns but soon fell about 20,000 votes behind.

Pearson will face former congressman J. Floyd Breeding, who won an easy victory in the Kansas Democratic senatorial primary.

Gov. Avery, who declared his margin of victory exceeded his highest hopes, will face Robert Docking, Arkansas City banker, in the November Kansas gubernatorial election. Avery ran far in front of Dell Crozier of Wichita.

In Missouri, three incumbent congressmen won renomination in contests: Democrats Richard H. Ichord of the 8th District and Paul C. Jones of the 10th District and Republican Durward G. Hall of the 7th District.

18 Congressmen Win Renomination

DETROIT (AP)—All of the 18 Michigan congressmen seeking renomination were successful Tuesday, as moderates whipped conservative opponents in at least two primary clashes.

outdistanced former Rep. Harold Ryan in a race where Nedzi's support of open occupancy housing was the key issue. State Sen. Guy Vanderjagt of Cadillac handily won the Republican nomination and favorite's role for November in the 9th district of northwestern Michigan, only district without an incumbent.

Actor Gives Marriage Idea

LONDON (UPI)—Marriage is on the way out, four times-married veteran Hollywood star Cary Grant told a luncheon audience here Wednesday.

"I don't think it will exist in 100 years time," said the 62-year-old actor who became a father for the first time this year. "Our divorce laws are more relaxed now. Women are more in competition with men."

Grant is vacationing here with his 28-year-old actress-wife, Dyan Cannon, and their daughter, Jennifer, born Feb. 26. They were married July 22 last year in Las Vegas.

Previously, Grant had been married to actress Virginia Cherrill. The union lasted only one year. In 1942 he married Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton but they separated after three years.

His marriage to Betsy Drake, the actress, lasted 10 years before they separated in 1959.

Upset Tops Primaries Of Nation

In primaries outside Michigan state Sen. Don Samuelson upset Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie in his bid for the Republican gubernatorial renomination and Sen. James B. Pearson and Gov. William H. Avery won renomination in the Kansas Republican primary.

Idaho's Samuelson, who piled up steady pluralities in most of the state's 44 counties, was backed by the party's more conservative elements in his race against Smylie.

Although Smylie campaigned for Goldwater in 1964, he called for reorganization of the party after the overwhelming Goldwater defeat and is considered a moderate. The governor has been in office since 1954.

Despite the heavy intraparty political overtones, the main issues in the campaign were Smylie's 12-year tenure as governor and a 3 per cent sales tax enacted by the state legislature at his request.

Democratic Sen. Len B. Jordan had no opposition in the Idaho primary and will face former congressman Ralph Harding in the November election.

Pearson, 46, who will now make his first run for a full Senate term, also was endorsed by the party's conservative leaders in his Kansas race against Ellsworth, 40, who won election to the House six years ago.

While in Congress, Ellsworth was identified with the moderate wing of the Republican party. He trailed Pearson closely in early returns but soon fell about 20,000 votes behind.

Pearson will face former congressman J. Floyd Breeding, who won an easy victory in the Kansas Democratic senatorial primary.

Gov. Avery, who declared his margin of victory exceeded his highest hopes, will face Robert Docking, Arkansas City banker, in the November Kansas gubernatorial election. Avery ran far in front of Dell Crozier of Wichita.

In Missouri, three incumbent congressmen won renomination in contests: Democrats Richard H. Ichord of the 8th District and Paul C. Jones of the 10th District and Republican Durward G. Hall of the 7th District.

Student Loans

745 over the 1964-65 financial year. Michigan has brought her higher education assistance program in line with the federal guaranteed loan program, passed in November 1965.

One of the federal government's attempts to find a workable alternate program to the NDEA approach, the guaranteed loan program pools state, is to employ federal funds to serve as collateral for students borrowing money from private banking concerns.

Under the United Student Aid Fund program, 305 students borrowed a total of $221,240, about $725 per loan. This is an increase of only 32 students over last year, but the total amount loaned increased $19,986.

The United Student Aid Fund program also relies on private banking institutions. Nursing students who might have formerly taken out loans under the NDEA act can now borrow money under the Nursing Education Loan program.

Now in its second year of operation, the Nursing Education Loan program provided money for 30 nursing students for a total of $17,574.

Another program that can take over some NDEA students is the Henry Strong Foundation Loans.

Twenty-seven students borrowed a total of $16,190 under this program. The MSU loan program, designed to lend money for immediate, short-term needs, provided money for 2,362 students this 1965-66 financial year, 125 more than the past year. A total of $457,937.89 was borrowed.

An individual loan under the MSU loan program usually runs between $100 and $300. Such loans help students meet short-term needs like paying registration fees.

The financial aids office also takes a part in processing loans for out-of-state and Canadian students. About 297 students took advantage of these loans, most of which were higher education assistance loans. Money loaned out under these programs totaled $294,094.

Defeat Of Potter Marks Local Vote

The upset of Republican S. Don Potter, incumbent state senator from the 24th senatorial district, highlighted the local primary selection for the November ballot.

Potter, a freshman senator, was defeated handily by Harold W. Hungerford in Tuesday's elections. George L. Griffiths defeated John E. Cataldo in the Democratic state senate primaries.

In Ingham County's 57th house district, incumbent H. James Starr, Democrat, and Republican Thomas L. Brown were without opposition. Charles J. Davis, Republican incumbent, and Wilton H. Goetz, Democrat, were unopposed in the 59th.

In the voting for United States House of Representatives candidates, Charles E. Chamberlain, incumbent Republican, and Lee H. Wenke, Democrat, were unopposed, but Chamberlain drew a far greater number of votes than his November opponent in the Sixth District balloting.

ber Potter for his tongue-lashing of participants in the spring term finals week disturbances and his attack on "eastern students," who he felt were among the organizers of the "riots."

Former state representative Hungerford drew 4,517 votes to Potter's 3,584. Eugene G. Wagner was third in the running with 3,289, and Donald R. Moore was fourth with 2,461.

Griffiths outscored Cataldo, 8,727-2,865. Chamberlain outscored Wenke both in Ingham County and in the entire district. Chamberlain had 13,452 to Wenke's 8,934 in Ingham, and in the district it was Chamberlain, 24,249 to 15,788 for Wenke.

MSU students will best remember Potter for his tongue-lashing of participants in the spring term finals week disturbances and his attack on "eastern students," who he felt were among the organizers of the "riots."

Joe Kennedy Is 'Making Progress'

BOSTON (UPI)—Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, 77, father of the late President John F. Kennedy, was resting comfortably and "making progress satisfactorily" today while undergoing a general physical check-up at New England Baptist Hospital.

Dr. Russell S. Boles Jr. said he expected the examination will require Kennedy to remain in the hospital "a few more days" before returning to his Cape Cod home.

Kennedy entered the hospital Monday. The family said there was no emergency, although he had suffered a mild heart seizure last month at Hyannisport.
