How to avoid issues: juggle the facts

Chinese - American students in Boston have been declared legally white.

This ludicrous situation arose when the Massachusetts State Board of Education ruled that school systems with racially imbalanced schools could not receive state funds.

The Board defines racially imbalanced schools as those with over 50 per cent non-white students. So the Boston board simply reclassified its 671 Chinese - American students as "white" to make the schools more balanced.

This illustrates a trend in our society for administrators to duck issues by coming up with stop gap solutions to real problems.

Problem real

The problem of inequality of education is a painfully real one. Enforcing racial balance in schools is itself a somewhat artificial solution; avoiding this regulation by declaring that Chinese are "white," or by similar techniques, solves nothing and fools no one.

Quick action will stem shrinking of greenery

A recent survey by the East Lansing Planning Commission indicated the need for more parks and recreational facilities in the East Lansing area. The Commission pointed out that the present park system is inadequate in the face of expanding population both in East Lansing and the University.

What's more, the study showed that the best sites for new parks are being purchased by developers for new apartment locations. This is true especially along the Red Cedar.

The Commission thinks present parks are inadequate on two counts. First, as East Lansing becomes larger the ratio of park acreage to population is deteriorating. Secondly, the facilities in the parks themselves are not adequate.

To end the problem the commission recommends that the city purchase and develop a new community park and build a new swimming pool. It also recommended that winter sports be the main attraction at a new park. People would be able to go tobogganing, and skiing without driving up north for the weekend.

Members of the university community who are residents of East Lansing would get a lot of enjoyment out of a park and pool, especially the winter sports the park would offer. In fact, the park would be a source of enjoyment and relaxation to everyone in the East Lansing area.

The commission estimates that the park and swimming pool will cost East Lansing residents a total of $500,000. In view of the expansion of apartment construction on ideal park sites, in view of the continuing growth of the East Lansing population, and in view of the Commission's findings that the present park facilities are inadequate, we think that the $500,000 bill for a new park and swimming pool would be one of the best spent half million dollars in East Lansing in many years.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Advent of children of Leary

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following Guest Editorial was written by Bob Ewegen, editor of the Colorado Daily.

The life of a college generation is of short and indeterminate length.

Two or three years sees a majority turnover. By its very temporary nature, the tone of a college generation is subject to swift and radical change. Such a change may be occurring today.

The college students from the twilight of the Eisenhower years through the New Frontier on up to about 1965 were very much the children of Kennedy. Regardless of their particular philosophical orientation, they sought improvement in man's condition through governmental change and public action.

Now the tone seems to be changing, from outward orientation to inward orientation. The students who fueled the great civil rights movement, the peace movement, the student-rights movements and the other great student efforts of the last few years seem to be disappearing, growing inactive, or losing influence. Their replacements are inwardly oriented, not outwardly. They seek outlets for their dreams in personal exploration rather than public involvement. The children of Kennedy are giving way to the children of Leary.

There are many possible reasons for this change. Many of the thrilling dreams of the past few years are today destroyed or mired down. The civil rights movement is bogged down amidst a primordial swamp of "Black Power" demagogues and the old "White Power" cretins. The goal of racial harmony and human progress looks further away now than it did in the fifties.

The peace movement is suffering a kind of emotional paralysis. Regardless of the petitions, teach-ins, demonstrations and political work, the war continues to grow ever larger and more brutal. The fire is feeding its own draft, the war is creating a warhawk spirit that strangles any rational arguments for peace. It is as if the war is obeying the old Russian maxim that when enough men are armed "the guns begin to speak of their own accord."

The Great Society programs, which once offered a new outlet to idealism, are now waylaid by the demands of the military machine and bogged down in gutter politics.

Perhaps these factors are the social backdrop which is producing the children of Leary. If it seems impossible to find a better life through outward, socially directed action, perhaps students feel the only alternative is to withdraw and find Valhalla within their own inner self with the help of a sugar cube.

This, of course, is the other factor, the spread of LSD. Simple to manufacture, impossible to detect within the human system, LSD offers the way to an internal paradise for the children of Leary.

The web of laws slowly beginning to surround LSD may simply be another "noble experiment" with even less chance of success.

Prohibition failed against alcohol, which is incredibly easier to find. A quart of John Barleycorn can stone two men. A quart of "acid" can stone a major city. Even marijuana, far weaker than LSD and probably less harmful than alcohol, is simple to control compared to LSD.

So the children of Leary can confidently expect to have at least the back door of their paradise ajar if they wish to enter. The question is then, will they enter, in what numbers, and what will happen to society as a result.

The most dangerous thing about LSD is that the intense personal expansion and discovery it produces seem to dull interest in the outside world. The children of Kennedy, anxious to remake a nation, carefully planned their tactics, chose their issues and to a degree played the game of realpolitik with its inevitable overtones of public relations and subtle compromise.

The children of Leary merely state their own summum bonum to the world, scorn anyone who remains "straight" and regard the necessary alliances and compromises of politics as "selling out." Above all, the children of Kennedy sought to communicate. The children of Leary wish only to proclaim their own reality and care little if they are understood by those who have never shared their religious experience.

The children of Kennedy have not yet departed. But if this is indeed a transitional stage they may walk beside the children of Leary for some time to come. Yet inevitably their paths must someday diverge.

An inner Camelot does not wipe out a Watts. A week-end "trip" does not erase poverty. The road to a private paradise and a public New Frontier cannot always coincide.

The motto of the children of Kennedy was, "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country." The slogan of the children of Leary is simply, "Ask only what you can do for your senses."

The two standards are in deep conflict, and both are beamed at the college generation. The one accepted by this generation may well set the tone of American life for decades to come.

'Militant apathetics reply'

To the Editor:

In the State News of October 18, there was a point of view article by Art Tung, "Militant Apathetic" prevails at U." Even though it is unfair to think that Tung was really serious, some of his statements and terminology cannot go uncorrected.

Look at the way he describes a 'militant apathetic': "This individual... fights to remain uncommitted" yet "yields either to 'general student will' or to the opinions of a minority," and though this exhausts the possibilities, Tung says, "That, in itself, is contradictory," he as an "attitude of negativism," i.e. skepticism or a denial of reality, but we find he has decided to become involved in one or two issues.

However, he neglects the issues! He always argues on purely personal grounds, "forgets philosophy and principle" and, oh yes, he "is blindly idealistic." Then Tung in cheek, he says that the militant apathetic is a "contradictory character." We think there is a contradictory character here somewhere. Care to guess who?

Webster's Second International defines militant as "aggressively active in a cause; as, a militant suffragist" (Mr. Tung). But apathy is "an indifference to what appeals to feelings or interest or prompts to action." So a militant apathetic is not at all like Tung's bogeyman, but merely one who strongly believes in being apathetic. As Don Sockol quotes us in his famous article, "A Third Party: The Apathetics!" "We feel very strongly about our apathy" --hence this reply to explain the true meaning of 'militant apathetic.'

Mr. Tung has described a very unusual character (perhaps a member of the empty set), but hasn't said what this has to do with the 18-year-old vote, nor has he given evidence that such a nurd (definition: mythical beast, blamed by the Athenians for the fall of Athens) could or does exist let alone that he prevails on this campus. It is quite certain that Mr. Tung does not have an open mind at all, since he "argues purely along personal grounds" in a blindly idealistic fashion. One feels that his article is a brooding condemnation of those who did not support his pet cause.

The true Apathetic is militant in that he believes that apathy is the only sane attitude for an enlightened person to have. He is committed to being uncommitted. He feels that no involvement is worth the effort it takes.

But he isn't ignorant of the world around him, for he is usually quite well informed as to what is wrong with society. The apathetic feels the world is in so many more 'capable' hands (L.B.J., Harold Wilson, George Hamilton, General Westmoreland, Zolton Ferency, Charles de Gaulle, Ho Chi Minh, Charels Schulz, George Lincoln Rockwell, Tim Leary, Peter Webster) that his meager resources would be of no value.

The apathetic believes that mankind has courageously traded one social misery for another throughout history; and that the same results are gotten also by doing absolutely zilch--what's more, it's free! According to the Stoics, apathy means the extinction of the passions by the ascendancy of reason. Tung's article has achieved just the opposite. And Tung himself must be just the opposite of apathetic. Let's see, that would be pathetic.

SN talks to self

To the Editor:

The "Apathetic" student, or at least one "apathetic" student, waits in vain to see any glimmerings of real dialogue in the State News. Apparently the editors are willfully sleeping. What, for instance, would the editors do with a hypothetical dialogue as follows?

Editor: Do you approve of the war in Viet Nam?

"Apathetic" student: The question is not rightly stated. It should be, "Do you favor the destruction of Communist power in Viet Nam?"

Editor: All right, what would be your answer to that?

"Apathetic" student: Yes, I favor the destruction of Communist power, not only in South Viet Nam, but in North Viet Nam, Red China, and Soviet Russia, preferably beginning with the latter.

Editor: But Peace! Peace! What about World Peace?

"Apathetic" student: Go to Hell with your double-standard Peace. Do you think the people in Eastern Europe are having peace? As for me, I'll pray for war, if that's what must be before the phony standards of current peace talks are shown up, and the real foundation of peace have a chance of being recognized.

After initial shock, I suppose the editor would then trip happily back to his office with material for an item on evidence of local paranoia.

Keep talking to yourselves, editors!

Donations in doubt

To the Editor:

This year the faculty and students of MSU are called upon to contribute to the United Community Chest. The question is do all of the Chest Agencies promote the welfare of the community? Two of the agencies, the USO and the American Red Cross, indirectly support the U.S. war effort in Viet Nam.

I believe that war destroys the welfare of the community by creating prejudice and fear of those who are different from ourselves. Therefore I urge those faculty and students who are opposed to war to specify that their contribution be given to some other agency such as the Urban League or the Legal Aid Society whose contribution to the general welfare is not in doubt.

25 Killed by train in India

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—A speeding express plowed into a group of passengers crossing the track at Lakhsara railway station Sunday night and the Indian News Agency reported today at least 25 persons were killed. At least a dozen others were injured.

Malaysian leftists oppose Johnson

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—A leftist opposition to President Johnson's visit to Malaysia Sunday gained momentum today, with a warning to the U.S. chief of state not to set foot here. The warning was contained in an open letter to the "American consul general in Malaysia" from 22 left-wing trade unions in Singapore. Copies were issued to newspapers there.

Search continues in Manila Bay

MANILA (AP)—Philippine navy frogmen dived into Manila Bay again and again today looking for bodies from the coastal steamer Pioneer Leyte which collided with an American freighter. With 50 bodies recovered and the divers searching the wreck more than 50 feet below the surface, rescue authorities announced there are 172 known survivors and 33 persons still missing.

Sheppard may skip testimony in 2nd trial

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam H. Sheppard went on trial Monday for the second time in the 1954 murder of his wife. He may not take the witness stand or offer any defense testimony whatsoever, it was hinted. "A search for the truth, that is what we are embarked upon," Common Pleas Judge Francis J. Talty told an initial group of 15 women and nine men who were called as prospective jurors. Sheppard, 42, spent three dramatic days on the stand at his first trial which ended in his conviction for second-degree murder of Marilyn Sheppard. "If the defendant did not testify, would you feel that was any indication that he had something to hide?" defense attorney F. Lee Bailey of Boston, asked the very first jury prospect. "No," replied Alan Severs, 38, a bachelor with a junior high school education. "At the end of the state's case, if the defense says nothing and presents nothing, would this indicate to you the defense had something to hide?" went on Bailey. Again Severs replied in the negative. He was tentatively seated as the first juror, but may be eliminated later if either the state or defense so desires. By chance, it developed in questioning that Severs once worked in a firm owned by the late Thomas Reese, the father of Marilyn Sheppard. Mrs. Sheppard, 31, four months pregnant, was bludgeoned to death July 4, 1954, in her lakefront home in Bay Village, a suburb 12 miles west of Cleveland. Sheppard testified at his first trial that a bushy-haired stranger invaded his home while he was asleep, and knocked him unconscious after killing Marilyn. Tried originally for his life on a first-degree murder charge, Sheppard was convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. He won freedom on bail in 1964, and last spring the Supreme Court ruled him entitled to a second trial. This time he is not charged with premeditated first-degree murder, but with a second-degree indictment that says he "unlawfully, purposely and maliciously killed Marilyn Sheppard."

Red Cedar trash bash nets truck load of flotsam

Nearly a truckful of trash was picked up from the banks and waters of the Red Cedar Sunday by members of the MSU Outing and Forestry clubs.

The 15 members of the clubs staged their Red Cedar "Clean-up Campaign" between Farm Lane and Hagadorn Road.

Among the things that were picked up were about 500 cans and bottles, an old umbrella, a "Caution" sign, a "Contemporary Living" sign, an old shoe, a suitcase in two pieces, a paint trough, paint brush and empty paint can, all the same color, three dead fish and a usable snow tire.

"We could have picked up twice as much beyond the Hagadorn Bridge," said Jay Stewart, East Lansing senior, who was the organizer and trip leader of the Outing Club project.

The group met at 2 p.m. at the Canoe Shelter and divided into crews. Some of the crews worked up the river in canoes to pick up floating and sunken cans and bottles. The others, equipped with paper-picks and bags, scoured the banks for paper and trash.

The Maintenance Dept. supplied the group with canoes, paper-picks and a truck to haul the trash away.

The idea for the project, Stewart said, was conceived last fall by Sara Ulrey, East Lansing junior and Outing Club member, during a canoeing session.

300 celebrate U.N.'s birthday

More than 300 area residents honored the "coming of age" of the United Nations Sunday during the Greater Lansing area U.N. Day observation program at Gabriels High School.

John Wingate, vice president of the Campus U.N., spoke during the program, urging students to take an active part in U.N. affairs. Wingate noted that while MSU's 38,000 students participate in numerous activities, comparatively few show interest in the U.N., an organization he feels essential to world peace. Two other major speeches Sunday were given by Harold S. Johnson, assistant professor in political science, on the U.N.'s record, and John Taylor, philosophy professor, on the future of the U.N.

Johnson listed the assets and deficits of the U.N., 21-year history, emphasizing the U.N.'s less publicized human aid projects. Taylor spoke on the philosophy and future goals of the United Nations organization.

Maynard Miller, president of the Lansing Chapter of the U.N. Assn., said the day was to observe successes of the organization without ignoring the "disappointments" and to stimulate more intense interest in the nation's individuals.

During the three-hour observation, Rev. Warren Day conducted an ecumenical prayer service keyed to an international level. Anwer Malik, president of the International Club, read in Arabic and English from the Koran, Dharendra Sharma, visiting professor from India, read selections from Ghandi's writings and articles on the Hindu religion in both English and his native tongue.

A Greek Orthodox representative read the Sermon on the Mount.

Exhibits were made by Peace Corps returnees. Justin Morrill students who toured Spain and Russia this summer, area high school U.N. groups and grade school children.

Films were shown throughout the afternoon on U.N. projects.

Honors College petitions sent

Petitions for the Honors College Student Board, a body which will act as a dialogue between faculty and students and coordinate co-curricular activities, are being sent out again this week, said Robert C. Andringa, assistant director of the Honors College.

Due to a mailing problem the petitions sent out last week reached only on-campus students. However, Andringa noted, 20 petitions for the 12-man board have already been filed.

Andringa also said that the Honors College is compiling a library of published MSU faculty work for its approximately 1,300 students.

The assistant director said that this research facility will complement the collection of career materials and advanced study catalogs already available in the Honors College offices.

West Shaw canoe race on Saturday

West Shaw Hall will try again for clear skies. The All-University Canoe Race, rained out two weeks ago, will be at 9 a.m. Saturday on the Red Cedar.

New entries will be accepted until 6 p.m. Friday. The annual event will be run in heats of five teams each, with men's living units beginning the activities. Women's living units will challenge each other soon after 10 a.m.

The winning team of each division (off-campus men's, off-campus women's, on-campus men's and on-campus women's) will receive a trophy.

Two larger trophies will be awarded for men's best time and women's best time.

The race for the men's division will start at the Farm Lane Bridge, proceed to a marker near the end of East Shaw Hall, and return to a finish-line several yards short of the starting line.

The women's course will extend only to a marker near the middle of Shaw Hall and back to the finish.

In case of rain, the event will be held Sunday.

Top floats

The results of the Homecoming display contest, announced during pre-game activities at Saturday's football game, are:

Coed Division: First place--East Mayo Hall and Montie House; Second place -- Asher Student Foundation; Third place -- East and West Wilson Hall.

Sorority Division: First place --Delta Delta Delta; Second place --Alpha Delta Pi; Third place--Alpha Xi Delta.

Fraternity Division: First place--Theta Chi; Second place--Sigma Alpha Mu; Third place--Triangle.

70,000 BUSHELS

Grounds staff busy

By CHRIS O'CONNOR

The grounds department has about 70,000 bushels of leaves to blow away this month.

It's a big job—even with tractor-drawn blowers. A new, two-man blower with wind velocity of 1,500 m.p.h. is being tried on north campus this fall and may replace the old trailer-mounted Rato-mist sprayer. About 14 men are on this detail, many of them using smaller equipment for less accessible areas of the campus.

Fall is a busy time for grounds workers. Besides keeping up with the output of 17,000 trees, they have to winterize equipment and prepare snow plows for use.

"Snow is the most difficult job to handle," said Burt D. Ferris, superintendent of grounds maintenance. Sixty-five miles of sidewalk and 40 miles of roads have to be cleared before sleepy students leave for their eight o'clocks.

The grounds staff varies from about 135 in summer to 70 in

X-ray unit visits married housing

The chest x-ray unit of Ingham County will continue its visits to the married housing areas through Thursday. This service began Monday at University Village.

The unit will be open 4-8 p.m. Tuesday at the Cherry Lane Apartments and 4-8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at Spartan Village.

winter months. Many are students. There's quite a turnover because of the seasonal nature of the job. But some, like equipment operator Fremont Edwards, have been here for nearly 30 years.

Over the years, the department has had some strange calls for help. In the early '50's a team of workers rescued a peacock from the library—or the library from a peacock.

A problem this year is the fate of the Red Cedar ducks. With the old power plant no longer in use there is some fear that the river will freeze, even at the dam. The grounds department is prepared to install pumps to keep the water circulating.

"Everything above the ground is ours," Ferris said, including problem peacocks, ducks, and lots and lots of leaves.

Autumn Leaves

You use a vacuum cleaner to clean your room, so why shouldn't the Grounds Dept. use a vacuum cleaner to pick up the fallen leaves on campus? Only one problem remains, disposing of the leaves after they are collected. State News photo by Larry Fritzman

WELCH BEQUEST

Helps Flint youth

By DOROTHY LASKEY
State News Staff Writer

To most people the wealth of America rests in her physical and economic resources, but the late James A. Welch of Flint felt the wealth and potential of every community rested in its youth.

Welch, a Flint real estate developer, realized that a good community had the obligation to develop the talents of its richest potential, its young people, or through waste, suffer an irreparable loss.

The scholarship foundation memorializing his name is pledged to carry out that philosophy.

Today 23 students from the Flint area, attending MSU through benefits from the Welch Foundation, will meet with its vice-president and executive director for a luncheon at the Union.

The Foundation, in its third year, keeps in contact with its students throughout their university or college training.

According to the Welch Foundation philosophy, counseling and guidance are two neglected areas of modern education. The result, they feel, is loss of many students of high ability. Then philosophy maintains that early identification perhaps at the junior high level, and encouragement of exceptional children by testing, guidance, and counseling is one way to salvage lost manpower.

Records of accomplishment and biographical data will be maintained for each student under assistance.

The Foundation contributes in the form of financial compensation to regular school counselors enabling them to spend additional time with worthy students.

Sometimes the Foundation works directly with high schools and colleges to assist with in-service training of guidance and counseling personnel.

The Welch Foundation itself will grant a few scholarships to deserving students, but its main purpose is to provide a caliber of service that will attract gifts from other sources, particularly from persons, institutions or foundations wishing to contribute to this effort.

Sink proposes student-made film

Student Board member-at-large Jim Sink is looking for students interested in investigating the possibilities of producing an all-University student movie.

Persons interested in working on this committee should leave their names in the ASMSU office at 308 Student Services or call 355-8266.

A five-man committee will be appointed by Jim Graham, chairman of ASMSU, upon recommendation by Sink. Sink stresses that any person interested may help.

Sink is proposing a student-produced movie using a fictional situation rather than a documentary on student life.

"I think there is an awful lot of student talent which is untapped," Sink said.

"It would involve what we learn in our academic world, bringing it into our extra-curricular world," he said.

Sink plans to speak to department heads and major governing groups for assistance in this program. He hopes that students working on the movie would receive academic credit from their departments. Faculty would then assist, but only in an advisory capacity.

Sink points out also that the movie would probably take at least two years to complete. It could then be shown for entertainment around the campus and at other Big Ten campuses, who would hopefully pick up the idea.

Cattle judges win 8th place

Michigan State's livestock judging team placed eighth out of 24 teams from all over the nation at the American Royal Judging Contest this week in Kansas City, Mo. A team from Kansas State University won the contest.

MSU was second in the sheep division and eighth in beef cattle. In individual competition, Bill Byrum, Onondaga senior, was fifth in beef cattle, and Clare Anders, Comstock Park junior, was 10th in judging all species.

Synka Curtis is crowned Kappa Sweetheart '66-67

Miss Synka Curtis, Detroit junior from Delta Sigma Theta, was crowned Kappa Sweetheart for 1966-67 at the Kappa Alpha Psi Homecoming Coronation Ball at the Lansing Civic Center Saturday night.

Attending the semi-formal affair were an estimated 400 persons for whom the presentation of the queen and her court was the highlight of the evening. Miss Curtis, who was also a member of last year's court, and her court were given trophies and roses.

Other members of the Sweetheart Court were: Ruth Scott, Detroit sophomore; Mary Ann Smith, Detroit sophomore; Jamete Turner, Washington, D.C., sophomore; Rosalie Wilson, North Carolina sophomore; and Jacqueline Edwards, Detroit sophomore.

Ingrid Saunders, Detroit senior who reigned as Sweetheart last year, was also presented a trophy.

Union style show set for Thursday

Union Board will present its Fall Fashion Show at 8 p.m. Thursday. Admission will be 50 cents, and there will be a prize at the door for everyone.

Miss MSU and her court will model clothes from the Tog Shop. There will be drawings for $350 worth of clothes.

Mirror, mirror... Considering the Big Ten looking glass is nothing but an ordinary reflector, the image bouncing back is enough to bleach the Jolly Green a spanking white.

While Michigan State stands on one side of the mirror with a perfect 4-0 league-leading record, Iowa glares opposite, sitting in the cellar with an 0-4 mark.

And while the Spartans are happily on their way after their second consecutive Big Ten title, it's only natural that the hapless Hawkeys should be queuing after their initial conference win.

Despite a 24-15 loss to Northwestern Saturday, the Hawks made some local history of their own. A seven-yard touchdown pass from Ed Podolak to Allan Bream late in the fourth period was the first Hawkeye TD in 21 quarters.

Podolak rambled 87 yards for Iowa's final score. The Wildcats wrapped up their activity on a three-yard scoring run by Bob Olson.

Running down the conference records, all but Iowa have a win under their belts after Saturday's action.

The Spartans are 4-0 in the conference and 6-0 all games, having gained sole possession of the No. 1 spot after their 41-20 battle with Purdue.

The Boilermakers are tied with Illinois in second place at 2-1. Purdue is 4-2 in all games while the Illini are 2-4.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana and Northwestern are tied for fourth at 1-1-1. The Badgers and Wildcats are 2-3-1 on the season, while the Hoosiers and Gophers stand 1-4-1.

Tied for eighth are Michigan and Ohio State, 1-2 in Big Ten play. The Wolves are 3-3 on the year, while OSU is 2-3 in all games. Iowa brings up the rear, 0-4 and 1-5.

Michigan took a long, satisfying swig from the Little Brown Jug after trouncing Minnesota, 49-0. Wolverine signal-caller Dick Vidmer hurled three touchdown passes, two to Jack Clancy and one to Rick Sygar.

Ohio State got that elusive first win, rallying for two touchdowns in the final quarter to defeat Wisconsin, 24-13.

There were two non-conference games on the card and Big Ten representatives Indiana and Illinois did their part to lower the conference's record against non-league foes to 10-17.

Indiana and Miami (Fla.) met in the Orange Bowl Friday night. The Hurricanes turned a Hoosier fumble into the winning score, coming from behind to win, 14-7.

Phil Messer recovered an Illinois fair-catch fumble as Stanford squeaked by the Illini, 6-3.

Duffy's new line: keep 'em guessing

By ED BRILL
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State Football Coach Duffy Daugherty gleefully spooned up his chicken noodle soup at the weekly press luncheon Monday afternoon, and gloated over the Spartans' suddenly explosive offense.

"You remember that long pass to Al Brenner," Daugherty asked with apparent concern. "That play was put in by one of the ladies in our football class."

When he did stop joking for a short time, Daugherty told of some of the innovations that have changed his offense from "run, run, run," to "keep 'em guessing."

"I don't mind throwing that much," Daugherty insisted, "because we weren't throwing out of desperation. In our game plan we felt we would have to throw early, because they had 11 men within two or three yards of the line of scrimmage to stop runs."

"Anyone who disregards Raye's passing threat now," continued Daugherty, "is taking a big chance. Brenner takes a lot of pressure off Gene Washington, and gives us much more balance in our passing attack."

One of the big plays in Raye's repertoire has been a bootleg pass or run. "This is the first year we have ever run this play in this way," Daugherty started in describing the option.

"Raye calls a pass, but he comes out from under the center with idea 'I'm going to run,'" Daugherty continued. "If the cornerback comes up, and he can't run, then he should be able to throw.

"This is one thing that Raye does better than anybody I've ever seen," said Daugherty. "Some great running quarterbacks stop to decide whether or not to throw."

"Jimmy takes one quick look,"

Daugherty let out a sharp whistle, "and bingo - - he's gone." By the time he takes his third step back from center, he yells to the guards "run," if he is keeping.

Daugherty also unveiled a new I-formation for the first time in Saturday's game.

"Power plays, and belly series are easier to run from an I," Daugherty commented. "We also wanted to give Clinton Jones an opportunity to exploit some of great inside running ability, since teams have been defending our wide sweeps."

And what about that attempted double reverse to Clinton Jones, that was stopped for a two-yard loss, Saturday?

"Actually, that play came very close to breaking loose," said Daugherty, "but one of their players wasn't standing where he should have."

"You might say that they out-dubbed us on that one," joked Daugherty, who is apparently getting as much fun out of his new offense as the Spartan fans.

FBI nabs another in LSU bribe case

BATON ROUGE, LA. (UPI)-- The FBI today arrested a second man and issued a warrant for a third in connection with alleged attempts to bribe Louisiana State University football players.

Robert E. Rightmyer, special agent in charge of the New Orleans FBI office, said Joseph Lee Nolan, 26, of Baton Rouge, was arrested at his apartment and charged with sport bribery. Rightmyer said the warrant was issued for Samuel Freddie Comeaux, 26, also of Baton Rouge.

Samuel Graziano, 26, a Baton Rouge barber, was arrested last Tuesday when the case first broke.

Graziano was charged with trying to bribe LSU tailback Jim Dousay, strongback Billy Masters and fullback Gawain Dibetta. He waived a preliminary hearing last week and was free on $5,000 bond.

LSU officials said the three players had been approached months ago, and had worked as undercover agents to gather the evidence ever since.

Meanwhile, Luis Spota, President of the World Boxing Council said that the dispute would be taken up at a meeting Monday night.

A verbal agreement for a return match between Ramos and Ortiz in Mexico City next April was announced, and it was indicated that the council might declare the title vacant pending that encounter.

The state of Mexico Boxing Commission also scheduled a meeting Monday night to determine whether to release Ortiz's purse and Conn's fee.

M.D. calls Conn liar in title fight issue

MEXICO CITY (UPI) -- Dr. Gilberto Bolanos Cacho, Mexico City Boxing Commission physician, Monday said "Billy Conn is lying if he says I told him to stop the fight" between Puerto Rican Carlos Ortiz and Sugar Ramos.

The bout for the world lightweight championship ended in a riot Saturday when referee Conn stopped the fight. Conn awarded the fight to Ortiz on a fifth round TKO but a ringside official reversed the decision giving the title to Ramos by forfeit.

Conn said that at the end of the fourth round he had asked Dr. Bolanos to examine the cut on Ramos's left eyelid, and that he had refused, saying that if the cut got worse, Conn should stop the fight.

"The only contact I had with Conn was when, after talking with Professor Ramon Velaz-

Gene Kenney, Michigan State's soccer coach, was appointed to the Midwest NCAA Tournament Selection Committee Monday. Kenney, along with the other members, will be responsible for selecting the Midwest representatives who will meet in a playoff for the NCAA championship at the University of California December 1 - 3. Kenney's teams have compiled an 87-10 record, 7-0 this year, in his tenure at MSU.

On Campus Interviews— October 31 for Management Positions with the Pennsylvania Railroad— where big things are happening!

Because of its diverse activities, the Pennsylvania Railroad offers broad opportunities for career-minded men and women in many areas. Here are but a few: accounting, market research, computer programming, law, sales, and transportation. Even greater opportunity will result from the merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads. Now's the time to act.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

Computer Programming
The PRR is automated with railroading's most advanced computer system. And expanding automation plans call for still more computer oriented individuals, men and women with good academic standing, creative minds, and a keen interest in imaginative programming.

Auditing
The PRR is the nation's largest railroad—and it's soon to become bigger. The Penn-Central merger will make this new transportation system the 13th largest company in the country, with assets in excess of 5 billion. If you have an interest in financial management—this is the place.

ENGINEERING MANAGEMENT
Interested in development or design engineering? We'll train you to do great things in transportation. Or perhaps as an engineer you are more interested in managing men, money and materials. The Pennsy will train you in that, too.

TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT AND SALES

Traffic management is vital in this growing transportation system. The new merger will require dynamic new approaches to both old and new problems. Our sales training program will make you an expert in this field.

LABOR RELATIONS AND PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

There is unlimited opportunity here for individuals who would like to pursue a career in Labor Relations and Personnel Management. The railroad employs a veritable army of men and women, engaged in a broad range of work—from laying ties to sophisticated computer programming.

Find out about all the other career positions open to you with this progressive transportation system. To arrange an interview with a Pennsylvania Railroad representative on the campus, see your placement officer now.

Viet war in lull; Yanks clear area

SAIGON (AP) -- About 2,000 men of the 1st Infantry division pushed along the banks of the Saigon River Monday to clear Viet Cong from an area marked for the resettlement of South Vietnamese civilians.

flying U.S. B52 bombers from Guam pounded suspected Communist troop concentrations and supply areas 18 miles southwest of Hue.

'Social' group independent

Students Off-Campus (SOC) begins its second year as an independent social organization under the leadership of president Donald Pribble this fall.

Until last year SOC and Off-Campus Council (OCC) were one organization functioning jointly as a social and political body.

Since approximately one-third of MSU's student population lives off-campus, SOC has a potential 10,000 membership.

It was the only major action reported as the Viet Nam war continued in one of its periodic lulls.

Westmoreland said in Manila that more troops would be needed for a program of pacification and reconstruction in what President Johnson calls "the other war" in Viet Nam.

Dept. of Pathology to open fall term

Pathology plays an important role in the diagnosis of disease. While the clinician must consider all aspects of disease, including behavioral and sociological, the pathologist concentrates on those features of the disease processes that can be studied in the laboratory.

It is hoped that two more staff members will be recruited by next summer.

Secretary Pam Hurlbert said that due to lack of participation this fall's term party will be a closed activity. Previously SOC term parties were "all university" affairs.

This term's officers are: Miss Hurlbert, Pribble, Bill McCullough, vice president, Mark Chartrand, vice - president and Mary Delaney, treasurer.

A civilian bus hit a Viet Cong mine north of Hue, killing 15 Vietnamese and injuring 20. In other action the Communists rained mortar shells on two American positions, but a general upsurge in terrorism or a large-scale offensive by the Communists to coincide with the opening of the Manila summit conference apparently failed to materialize.

The operation, first called Bethlehem and then changed to Allentown, began Oct. 19 and so far has accounted for 39 Viet Cong killed and large amounts of weapons and supplies, including 5,500 pounds of rice, seized, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The department is thought to be unique in the U. S. because it will operate in conjunction with the Colleges of Veterinary Medicine and Human Medicine and the School of Medical Technology. This joint operation is in keeping with University policy of not duplicating departments. It will promote the comparative approach to the study of disease.

FAMILIES HELP

Foreign students share U.S. life

Approximately 100 new MSU foreign students will soon experience American family life through the efforts of the Host Family Committee.

ties are planned according to time available and interests of the people involved.

Letters have been sent by the volunteer committee informing those students who their host families will be and to the families giving information about their new family members.

Mrs. Miller O. Perry, chairman of the committee, said that the students may request different host homes at any time. She added that normally, however, the students retain friendships with the same family during the period they remain in the United States.

For eight years students arriving from other countries have been able to share in community activities, attend picnics, visit farms, parks, factories or power plants or just relax in typical American homes in the Lansing area.

Sometimes correspondence develops between the student's "adopted" family and his family at home.

Greek Week

Petitioning for Greek Week chairmanships will begin today and continue through Friday. Chairmen for 16 committees, ranging from treasurer to publicity are being sought.

Besides the new participants this term, many of the international students on campus meet with families they met their first term here.

Similar programs are carried on by various universities across the nation with a significant foreign enrollment, according to Mrs. Perry. Each system varies in accordance with local needs.

GOLDBERG

Bomb halt won't end war

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) -- U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said Monday the United States considers the three-point peace plan of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant a package proposal for scaling down the war.

"And I assume what the secretary general means also is that there must be some kind of indication that if the first step is taken, the second step will follow. He is not offering the first step by itself."

Goldberg added that what the United States wants is an end to all killing, an end to the war.

Janos Peter in the General Assembly on Oct. 18. "I thought his remarks were very interesting, they moved me a bit," Goldberg said.

"Today," Thant is pressing for an unconditional halt to the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam, a military de-escalation by both sides and representation for the National Liberation Front - the political arm of the Viet Cong - in peace negotiations.

"Bombing alone will not bring the war to an end - neither the presence nor the absence of bombing," he said.

Goldberg said also that he was encouraged by statements made by Hungarian Premier Peter's statement reflected some relaxation by Hanoi on two of its demands for entering peace talks - a U.S. troop withdrawal and that the NFL be the sole representative of South Viet Nam at peace negotiations.

"A careful study of the problem indicates that federal authorities will be required to take further regulatory steps to assist savings institutions before they will be in any position to resume normal mortgage lending operations," Greep said.

The tight money situation, he explained Saturday night in a report prepared for the league's annual meeting in San Juan, Puerto Rico, already has forced the number of housing starts this year to drop to 1.2 million units from 1.5 million in 1965.

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The President of the National League of Insured Savings Associations says he expects the current shortage of money for housing to continue through the middle of next year.

In a U.N. Day statement marking the 21st anniversary of the world organization, Thant described the war in Viet Nam as "not only a disaster for the Vietnamese people, but also a constant threat to world peace."

Goldberg said that in the U.S. view Thant has advanced a package proposal that contemplates a scaling down of the war.

And, added Harry P. Greep, high interest rates on the small amount of money that is available for home loans also will continue into next summer.
