

Referendum Vote Today On All-Campus Radio

Approval Needs 50% Of Ballots

Students living on campus will decide today whether they are willing to pay up to $1 per term to create station WMSR, all-University radio.

Balloting is being held in lunch and dinner lines in dormitories. Students will be able to vote from 15 minutes before the line opens until 15 minutes after it closes.

The ballot, an IBM card, asks voters to indicate whether or not the charter for an all-campus radio station should be approved.

Students must present their ID cards to be punched when voting.

Last week the MSU Board of Trustees specified that a sizeable majority of students living in residence halls must vote yes for the proposal to be approved by the board.

The board did not define a sizeable majority, but campus radio supporters are interpreting it to be about 50 per cent of students on campus voting for the referendum.

The charter, and tax, if approved, will cover the opening of the station. The cost is estimated at about $20,000. Tax money will also pay the $8,000 to $10,000 needed to operate the station each year.

WMSR, if approved, will broadcast popular music, folk music, jazz, "study music," news, sports, and public affairs announcements, as well as other special broadcasts around the clock.

Under the proposal, dormitory radio stations would use an all-University network in conjunction with their regular broadcasts. Whenever they were not broadcasting or were not on the air, the network would be broadcasting to students in their dormitories. Dormitories without stations would have 24-hour network service.

Programs will be sent through the campus electrical system. However, students with transistor radios will still be able to pick up the programs if their receivers are placed near electrical wires.

"The campus radio signal will be stronger than other AM stations, there will be no static on the line, and the station will not interfere with signals coming in from other stations," said Robert Stinson, chairman of the Campus Radio Steering Committee, and Birmingham senior.

Campus radio has been endorsed by ASMSU, Men's Hall Assn., and Women's Inter-Residence Hall Council.

The station is also being supported by Brody radio, and Shaw Hall radio.

ASMSU Board's Salaries May Total $2,310 Yearly

By ANDY MAREIN
State News Staff Writer

Up to $2,310 a year will be required for salaries for ASMSU Student Board members next year.

The Student Board voted Tuesday night to pay the board chairman and the cabinet head a flat rate of $100 per term.

Members-at-large would receive $40 per term plus $2 for each Student Board meeting attended. Heads of living unit organizations which have seats on the board will receive only the $2 per meeting.

Compensation will not go to the present Student Board members, but will begin when a new Student Board is elected April 14. These members will be paid for spring term.

Funds will come from ASMSU general fund, which consists of student taxes and profits from events sponsored by ASMSU.

John McQuitty, Student Board chairman and East Lansing senior, said the payment compensation should encourage capable persons to run the board.

"Compensation will place added obligation and a sense of responsibility on students in leadership positions," McQuitty said Wednesday.

"It will allow students not financially able to serve in student government to serve in this capacity. Compensation will also encourage more capable people to run for board positions," said McQuitty.

McQuitty said at many universities student body personnel have been paid for many years.

"When jobs require 30-50 hours a week, financial compensation will provide further insurance that students will be well represented," McQuitty said.

Student Board voted to approve the motion by a 7-4 roll call vote.

Votes to defeat the motion came from Men's Hall Assn., Inter Co-operative Council, Gary Steinhart, Dewitt senior, and Charles Stoddard, East Lansing junior and member-at-large. Stoddard said he voted against compensation because he felt the board was not old enough to take responsibility for paying members, and that other forms of compensation, rather than monetary, had not been explored.

John Mongeon, Fairfax, Va., junior, representing MHA, told the board he felt residence halls would be against compensation and would not support it.

Steinhart told the board that financial losses in addition to the tax increase combined with the motion to provide compensation would cause "severe repercussions."

Reserves Could Be Called For Viet War

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said Wednesday that some or all of the nation's military reserves would be called to active duty if the Communists widen the war in Southeast Asia.

While expressing deep concern about Red China's overall military and political strategy in Asia and in underdeveloped nations, he did not specify whether he meant that the Chinese would actively enter the Vietnamese war, McNamara said only.

"Although the President has repeatedly stated that the United States has no desire to widen the war in Southeast Asia, we cannot preclude the possibility that our opponents will nevertheless choose to do so.

"Such a contingency would necessitate at least a partial mobilization, including the call-up of some or all of our reserve forces and the extension of active duty tours."

The defense secretary's comments were made in the annual "military posture statement" presented to the Senate Armed Services Committee. He did not say whether he believed a reserve call-up would be necessary to maintain the pace of combat in Viet Nam. But he said that because of increasing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong strength in South Viet Nam more U.S. troops would be needed.

LBJ Answers Viet Questions

NEW YORK (UPI)--President Johnson said, in a new reply Wednesday night to critics of his Viet Nam policy, that the United States is not caught up "in a blind escalation of force" leading toward a wider war.

Johnson, in an address prepared for a Freedom House dinner, said a number of questions--he listed 10--still are being asked in the wake of public hearings on Viet Nam by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He did not mention the committee, but his reference to it--and "our commitment to free discussion"--was obvious.

First, Johnson said, some ask if this is a war for unlimited objectives.

Declaring that the answer is "No," he said: "Our purpose in Viet Nam is to prevent the success of aggression. It is not conquest; it is not empire; it is not foreign bases; it is not domination."

In short, he went on, it is "to prevent the forceful conquest of South Viet Nam by North Viet Nam."

Then, with these words, he dealt with the question of escalation: "Second, some ask if we are caught in a blind escalation of force that is pulling us headlong into a wider war that no one wants. The answer--again--is no. We are using that force--and only that force--necessary to stop the aggression."

Johnson asserted that, with increased numbers of American troops in Viet Nam, "the high hopes of the aggressor have been dimmed, and the tide of battle has turned."

The President gave this pledge, "Our measured use of force must be continued, but this is prudent firmness under careful control. There is not, and there will not be, a mindless escalation."

Another question which some

ASMSU May Retain Attorney For Students

ASMSU is considering retaining an attorney to advise students on their legal problems.

If the motion to hire an attorney is approved by the ASMSU Student Board, an attorney will be on campus one afternoon a week for four hours to confer with students.

The attorney will be paid $75 per week to consult with students. Funds will be provided from the ASMSU Legal aid appropriation and a $2 fee paid by students who see him.

Student Board is holding approval on the motion until spring term's operating budget has been approved.

A budget request prepared by the ASMSU Office of Finance and Operations provides for gross expenses totaling $13,117.87.

Gross funds available are $12,000, leaving a deficit of $1,117.87. ASMSU officials expect the budget will be cut before the Student Board gives final approval.

The board at its meeting Tuesday night also discussed slight changes in the proposed solicitation policy for all-University fund raising.

A motion was passed referring

British, N. Viets May Talk Peace

MOSCOW (UPI)--British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government made direct contact Wednesday with Communist North Viet Nam after Soviet leaders refused to join Britain in promoting a parley.

On Wilson's orders, Lord Chalfont called on Lee Chang, acting head of Hanoi's diplomatic mission here, for a talk on possible moves to end the Viet Nam war. Chalfont is Britain's disarmament minister. He accompanied Wilson on his trip to Moscow.

British sources reported Chalfont and Lee spent much of the afternoon together. It was the first time a British minister had engaged in direct exchanges with an accredited representative of President Ho Chi Minh's government since large-scale fighting flared in Viet Nam a year ago. Few details emerged beyond the fact that both Lee and Chalfont described at length the confliting East-West approaches to peacemaking.

Wilson was portrayed as detecting a glimmer of light in the situation. He was encouraged that Lee had been authorized by Hanoi to meet Chalfont at all.

He has hope the meeting, which had the foreknowledge of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, may be the start of a dialogue that could lead to better things.

To some extent, Lee's reception of Chalfont was a welcome development for Wilson, for he had got just about nowhere in his attempts to persuade Kosygin and his top colleagues to join with Britain in reconvening parties to the Geneva conference of 1954 to act as a forum for peace.

When Wilson sought to assure them of President Johnson's sincere wish for peace in Viet Nam, the Soviet leaders suggested the Americans should prove this by halting air raids against the North.

On the second day of the three-day British-Soviet exchanges these developments emerged:

--Wilson asked the Soviet Union to cooperate in making the Middle East a nuclear-free zone where even conventional arms should be controlled. This, if accepted, would bar the region to Britain's Cyprus-based H-bombers, U.S. Strategic Air Command planes in Libya and any Polaris submarines the Allies may choose to deploy in the Mediterranean.

--Wilson affirmed British interest in a disengagement of East-West ground forces on both sides of the Iron Curtain and an area of arms control in middle Europe. But the precondition would have to be that the existing balance of power would have to remain unchanged.

East Holmes To Vote On Quitting MHA

Men of East Holmes Hall will be voting today to decide whether or not to continue membership in Men's Halls Assn. (MHA).

The issue was raised by residents of House House at a meeting of the East Holmes General Council last week.

House House residents had previously voted, 35-1, to withdraw from MHA during a house meeting.

"We feel that there is a lack of adequate representation by MHA and other student government organizations," Robert W. Swanson, Birmingham sophomore said. "The men of the dorms are not being represented by the ASMSU."

MHA President, John Mongeon, Fairfax, Va., junior, said, "By dropping out of MHA, the individual dorm would only be hurting itself. It would lose its voice in MHA, but still have to adhere to the rules."

Kedzie Addition Rebuilt Due To Freezing Weather

By LINDA HOAG
State News Staff Writer

Workers were forced to remove a slab of cement on the second floor of the Kedzie Chemical Lab addition this week because officials feared it was unsafe.

University officials and the architect working on the addition suspected the cement slab on the east wing of the building had not hardened to its optimum strength before freezing.

A sharp drop in the temperature may have caused the cement to freeze before the chemical action was complete, said Ted Simon, director of the physical plant.

Work on the addition is still on schedule for completion by fall term, according to Vince Vandenberg, superintendent of university construction.

Granger Construction Co. of Lansing, general contractors on the project, is absorbing the additional cost of $30,000 for the removal.

There was some dispute between the contractor and the architect about whether the slab should be removed. Granger Co. felt that the slab was strong enough, but after testing it, the architect still insisted that it be removed.

Senate Hearings, Debate In Best Interests Of U.S.

"THE PRESIDENT SHALL HAVE power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate to make treaties. . . . This is how the Constitution describes U.S. Senate's capacity in the realm of foreign policy.

And in recent weeks, the Senate, for the first time in the Viet Nam conflict, is indeed advising, debating and withholding consent until it carefully examines the issues. Some say that the Senate should have begun long ago. And they are right. But the important thing is that the Senate is discussing and seriously debating the issues involved in Viet Nam NOW.

In the last several years, President Johnson has virtually bypassed the Senate in dealing with foreign policy--especially Viet Nam. The President has at the most, only gone to the Senate with pleas for more money, or a quick vote of confidence. He has briefed many senators with what he considered the pertinent information, but has never really consulted with them or asked their advice.

IT IS ALLEGED that in private circles President Johnson has been scornful of the Senate's recent activity, the public hearings, etc. But despite Johnson's annoyance and disappointment in his old senate friends, they are simply fulfilling their constitutional function.

Though there are some senators who oppose our policies in Viet Nam and others who have many questions and reservations, it doesn't necessarily indicate firm opposition to our presence there. But it does mean that the President and his administration have been less than frank with the Senate as well as the American people.

FURTHERMORE, SOME SENATORS who have favored our policies in Viet Nam are questioning their tenability in light of the large troop build-up yet deepening frustrations of the conflict. They are wondering whether our increased involvement is worth the risk of a general war in Asia and a possible nuclear confrontation.

There are some who say the Senate discussions and hearings serve only to encourage the Communists and show our disunity. But many Americans are raising these same questions about our policies, and who has more right to voice them than the duly elected representatives of the nation.

AND IF QUESTIONS ARE to be raised, it is better they be raised in the U.S. Senate rather than on college campuses alone. Through the senate, President Johnson cannot avoid the realization that the nation is at least very concerned with our deepening involvement in Asia and is wondering where we are headed.

If the Senate continues to delve into the issues and press the President for further clarification of our policies and our plans for the future, many questions may be quieted and some fears allayed.

The Senate hearings and debate have shown that it isn't a mute body, catering to every whim of the President. Our traditional system of checks and balances may still be functioning, despite the power of a strong executive.

And even more important, with further discussion and debate, the President may decide to be more responsive to his constituents and more clearly explain to all of us our present and future policies.

AS ADLAI STEVENSON might well say if he were alive today and not part of the present administration, let's "talk sense to the American people"--including the Senate.

Don't Forget To Vote

TODAY, BALLOTING is taking place at various residence halls on the all-campus radio network referendum. The proposal, which would establish a central campus network broadcasting to all residence halls sometime next fall term, has received approval from most major groups on campus--including the administration.

But the biggest question mark is whether a majority of the eligible students (all those living in residence halls) will actually vote in the referendum. The board of trustees has set this as a requirement before it will give approval.

This proposal potentially affects every student living in a dormitory. First, for those who don't listen to radio or don't have one, the establishment of the campus network will cost them $1 a term for at least the first year.

For those students who do listen to radio, the new network would provide a local supplement in both news and entertainment. Though it would not interfere with those stations already established in some of the residence halls, there are some who have this fear.

It seems then that there should be no trouble in obtaining a large turnout, but never in the past at MSU has a majority of students voted in any election or referendum. So the question remains, can anyone or anything arouse students enough to motivate them to mark an "X" on a slip of paper?

The campus radio proposal has been carefully planned for the almost two years, and it would be most regrettable to see all this work go to waste just because too few students would take the time or the interest to express their preference.

Will YOU be one of those who didn't bother to vote?

Age Made DeGaulle Cautious--Not Senile

French president Charles de Gaulle's policies have drawn much criticism from the U.S. Every time he unleashes a tirade against the U.S., NATO or the ill of the Common Market, Americans wince.

He has been labeled a senile old man with delusions of grandeur. Critics of De Gaulle have repeatedly claimed that France is weakening the strength of the Western bloc, and that his independent nuclear force increases the possibility of accidental nuclear war.

The situation is not as bleak as it may appear to De Gaulle's critics. Admittedly De Gaulle's policies are not always "in the best of American interests." In fact, they could very well ultimately lead to disaster.

But to use the old saw, there are two sides to the coin. In the long run, the other side of the coin could be the one that counts.

De Gaulle has had as much experience with military and diplomatic affairs as has anyone else alive. It is highly unlikely that a man with so much experience would follow an irresponsible course of action.

He must know that France does not have the basic resources to become tops on the power totem pole. He must realize that his threat of pulling out of NATO would weaken the Western Bloc if that threat became a reality.

De Gaulle has lived through two wars that have devastated Europe. The delicate balance of power was a major cause of World War I. This balance was so delicate that a gain for one side meant a definite loss for the other.

No free room for expansion was left by 1914. The nations of Europe wanted to expand; just as today the Communist bloc wishes to expand its influence, and we want to hold them back. As long as territory was available in Asia or Africa or southern Europe, Europe did not become embroiled in a general conflict. Eventually the desire to expand coupled with lack of space thrust Europe into war.

All of Europe was involved because the major powers were allied in one of two existing camps.

De Gaulle must believe that the world is again heading towards the tight, polar situation that existed in 1914. Though the Communist bloc has recently divided, it would probably unite forces against the West in a general confrontation.

At present, the gain for one side does not create a loss for the other bloc. Unlike Europe of 1914, all the world is not partitioned into one of the two camps.

14B--Anti-Bargaining Tool

To the Editor:

My research on wages and labor market institutions in the American economy have led to conclusions contrary to those expressed in a recent editorial upholding Section 14B of the National Labor Management Relations Act.

The first point does not bear directly on the broader issue, but the author of the editorial justifies the low wages in right to work states by arguing that where wages are low the cost of living is also low. Reports of the U.S. Department of Labor, as to both wages and prices, show that wage differentials are four to five times as large as differences in the cost of living.

Nationally advertised brands are sold for the same price in Atlanta, Ga., as in New York City; wages of the retail employees in the two cities are not equal. Since most manufactured items are nationally priced, there is very little price dispersion between geographic sections of the country. This is not true in the case of wages, as the latter are influenced by local factors such as the racial composition of the labor force, alternative employment opportunities, and trade union legislation.

The major assertion of the editorial, namely, that Section 14B is desirable, is a contradiction of the stated national policy supporting collective bargaining. In 1935 and again in 1947, Congress affirmed its belief in the principles of collective bargaining, permitting the majority of the employees in an establishment the guarantee of the right to bargain collectively. Section 14B is an employer tactic that permits the denial of this right in most southern states.

Open shop campaigns and right to work laws have a long history in American trade union affairs, and while these campaigns are waged by employers in terms of protecting minority rights, typically they abridge the rights of the majority. The same states that uphold the rights of minorities when it comes to trade union activity are not so in favor of these rights when it comes to other socio-economic issues.

Hits Senate Ban

To the Editor:

It seems almost needless to say that there is a glaring inconsistency in the State Senate's resolution "asking" ("But we hold the purse-strings"--Raymond Dzendzel) state universities to ban Communist speakers on campus. The resolution stated that "our publicly supported institutions should be used to educate the minds of free men, not to propagate the very doctrines that we are at this present moment at a battle with."

"... to educate the minds of free men..." --an interesting concept, that. All the more interesting when one considers the implications of what the state senate may be defining free men as. Free to what?

Free to learn in the true spirit of democracy, to learn all sides of all issues in order to have a better basis for decision, to have a better foundation from which to judge what one will accept as evidence in the search for truth?

One of the most important, if not THE most important assumptions of a democratic form of government is that the people can be educated well enough to govern themselves intelligently.

To do this, they MUST have access to all the information available to them. And when access to what some might use as evidence for forming their truths is controlled by the very institution which professes to protect truth, that act of that institution becomes criminal.

Jimmy Breslin The Gut-Writer

NEWSPAPER WRITING isn't like it used to be in the old days when hack reporters carried press cards in their hat bands and pushed the hat jauntily to the back. The days are gone when beat reporters swarmed about the police rooms looking for juicy stories to splash across the front pages of Hearst's pastel-yellow tabloids.

But Jimmy Breslin, raconteur-columnist for the New York Herald-Tribune, is a holdover from the old school. Not the Hearst-type sensationalism, but the Damon Runyon earthy human interest style, which introduced New Yorkers to the colorful segment of its lower East Side.

Jimmy Breslin hangs out with the same type of crowd. Characters not dissimilar to Runyon's friend Harry "the Horse" and the rest of his motley crew.

BRESLIN has an "in" with countless bookies, murderers, addicts, fences, not to mention "Fat" Thomas, a 420-pound bookie and Marvin the Torch, a renowned professional arsonist.

They are some of New York's real people, and Jimmy Breslin writes about real people.

With this as a background, Breslin addressed the U.S. Student Press Association Regional Conference at the University of Chicago Saturday.

ALTHOUGH he had no particular topic, everyone was confident he had something of value to say. Jimmy Breslin always has something to say--that's his job.

It was only fitting though, that he talk about his first love--the newspaper--the instrument which introduced the likes of "Fat" Thomas and Marvin the Torch to the Tribune's vast audience.

He talked about his high school, his only preparation for the competitive job of news writing. Breslin spent five years there, right across from the Aqueduct Race Track, where often the call to post would drown out part of the English grammar lesson.

AFTER HEARING the whiskey-voiced Breslin's articulation it was evident he had heard the call often.

He emphasized that good writing takes hard work. His hard work has transformed him into the Tribune's "white knight" despite a few years' pandering in yellow journalism. Hard work for Breslin means producing only two or three paragraphs from 13 sheets of notes.

It appeared in his talk he wanted in some way to rekindle the old "gut-writing" he knew. He chided the students for fearing to create controversy.

"YOU'RE RESPONSIBLE when you are causing trouble--that's what responsibility is. The tougher you are, the better you'll do," he explained in broken Brooklynese. "You gotta be 51 per cent tough on everybody."

And then he took a swipe at administration censorship of campus newspapers. "Why bother students trying to put out a paper?" he asked. "School administrations ought to blow their brains out if they interfere with it."

A TIDAL WAVE of applause and laughter swept through the spacious room. It was just what the students wanted to hear. But he wasn't finished yet. "If you can't raise a little hell when you're young and in school, you'll never do it when you're old with a larger paper."

The applause continued. Jimmy Breslin was turning the students on because, in his own way, he was telling it like it is. That's the essence of Breslin.

WHEN A BESPECTACLED student asked what could be done about an administration which constantly hounds a paper, Breslin shot back: "I can think of a million things you could do about it. Cause trouble and embarrassment for them. They're old and they'll collapse."

He was going to stay for the rest of the meeting. But he had to leave early so he could tape a TV discussion on art with Stella Stevens, ex-Playmate of the Month.

Washington No. 2 All-Time Spartan Scorer

By BOB HORNING
State News Sports Writer

Stan Washington moved into second place on the list of all-time Spartan scorers following State's 68-66 win over Illinois Tuesday night.

The senior forward's 17 points in the game gave him a career total of 1,152, surpassing Pete Gent (1961-64) who scored 1,146. Julius McCoy (1953-56) is tops with 1,377 and his mark is out of reach unless Washington triples his scoring average in the remaining four games.

Commenting on the Illinois game, State Coach John Benington said his team played its worst first half in conference play, but attributed much of it to the tired condition of his players.

"I gave the starters the day off from practice to rest up from the mental and physical strain of the last few games," said Benington. "They thought they were working real hard Tuesday night, but actually weren't moving around like they should. The Wisconsin game took a lot out of them."

The Wisconsin game also took a lot out of the Badgers, as they were upset by Northwestern Monday night. The same thing happened to Minnesota, which lost to Ohio State after beating MSU.

"The pattern of opponents getting up for the State game, beating us, and then losing their next one is happening like it did to the football team," Benington said. "Only the football team didn't lose any."

The apparent sloppiness of the Illinois game at times and the low shooting percentages were due to tight defense and the tension of the game, Benington said.

"Many of the shots were taken off balance," he said. Illinois ended with a 36 per cent shooting record while State had a 38.

Benington was especially pleased with the job Washington did on Illinois' ace Don Freeman, preventing him from scoring on his favorite shot from around the free throw line. Freeman finished with 23 points.

The State coach also complimented Gerry Geistler on the job he did replacing Matthew Aitch at center for a short stretch, getting two points and a rebound. Benington took Aitch out early in the second period when he had scored only three points.

"Matt just hasn't been looking sharp the last three games," Benington said. "He hasn't been hitting the offensive boards. I don't know what's wrong."

However, after re-entering the game, Aitch scored six key points in the last three minutes and showed his old form. "Probably he got going a bit after seeing Geistler doing such a good job," Benington said.

Means Leaves Cagers; Will Coach Western

Assistant basketball coach Clarence (Sonny) Means was named Wednesday to the head coaching job at Western Michigan University.

Means, who assisted Head Coach John Benington here this season, will replace Western coach Don Boven.

A former State player, 1949-52, and captain in his senior year, Means was freshman coach under Benington at St. Louis University before they both came here last year.

The 39-year-old native of Saginaw has also been head coach at Owosso High School, freshman coach at State in 1956 under Fordy Anderson, and head coach at the University of Omaha from 1959-61 before going to St. Louis.

Benington said of Means' departure: "I'm very happy to see my assistant get this opportunity to head his own program," Benington said. "I'm going to miss him, of course, but this is what every assistant wants."

MSU Athletic Director Clarence (Biggie) Munn said: "It's always a thrill to have someone on our athletic staff move up. Sonny's appointment is, I feel, a great credit to Michigan State and its basketball situation."

Matmen Get The Message: 'Dead Wolves' Still Alive

By ED BRILL
State News Sports Writer

They're already beginning to call it "The year of the Dead Wolves" in these parts.

The Spartan wrestling team will be trying to do its part when a still very much alive Michigan squad invades the IM Sports Arena at 4 p.m. Saturday.

For the league-leading Spartan matmen, the Wolverines will be the toughest competition of the season. The Maize and Blue have been Big Ten champs for the last three years and have lost only one meet this season.

That was an 18-8 loss to Minnesota which broke a U of M string of 34 consecutive dual meet victories over four seasons. Michigan State later beat Minnesota, 20-8, a score which gives the Spartans hope for Saturday.

As State Coach Grady Peninger said earlier in the season, however, "Michigan's loss will probably end up helping it, rather than hurting."

The Wolves now have all the incentive to beat the Spartans, without the pressure of extending a long win streak.

A look at the Michigan lineup gives ample evidence of why it walked off with the conference crown in 1965, winning five weight divisions and scoring 88 points.

Starting out at 123, the Wolves have Bob Fehrs, returning Big Ten champion and second in the NCAA tourney last year. Fehrs is undefeated this year in eight dual meets and two tournaments.

Dave Dozeman follows at 130, and the Spartans won't get too much rest here. Dozeman finished third in the nation as a sophomore, but was out last season with a broken neck. He is making a strong comeback this year.

At 137, the Wolverines' captain, Bill Johannsen, is back to defend his Big Ten crown. Johannsen has lost two matches this year, but will be out to make amends Saturday.

At 147 and 157, Michigan will put up Cal Jenkins and Burt Merical. Jenkins is back after being injured last year.

The 167-pound class is a question mark right now. Jim Kammen, league champ last year at 147, was injured earlier in the year and is still not in top shape. If Kammen is ready to wrestle, he will most likely go at 167.

If not, then either Wayne Hansen or Bill Waterman will be the Michigan entry. Hansen is a former Lansing Sexton High star.

Wayne Wentz, the 177-pound starter, is another former prep star on the Wolverine roster.

Dave Porter, the heavyweight, is a sophomore from Lansing Sexton who is currently burning up the league. Porter is undefeated this year and is expected to give Spartan Jeff Richardson quite a battle for the Big Ten crown.

Coach Peninger expects the meet to boil down to a battle between Porter and Richardson. It will not only be the last match in the meet, but it also will be an outstanding individual bout.

The Wolverines are still alive and kicking, but a ferocious Spartan team hopes to end that Saturday. There could be no greater thrill than that for the State wrestlers, except of course beating Michigan again the following week in the Big Ten Championships.

Cycling Club Meets Sunday

State's Cycling Club will hold the All-University Roller Race Championships and will show movies regarding the club's future, 2 p.m. Sunday in the Men's IM Arena.

Twenty cyclists are active in the newly-formed organization, and Sunday's event is for the purpose of acquainting the student body with the club and its aims.

Bikes mounted on a roller-mechanism will be "driven" up to 60 miles per hour in mile sprints. The movie will concern road racing and the Michigan Intercollegiate Cycling Championships.

Girls' Tennis

The Women's Varsity Tennis Team will meet at 4 today in 137 Women's Intramural Building. All members and any female student interested in playing on the team are to attend the meeting.

New Gym Show: 'Chip And Phip'

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

New Loken must have ached physics.

The Michigan coach has, for the past five years, applied Sir Isaac's rule to the letter in respect to his gymnasts. They've provided equal and opposite reactions to every competitor in their path.

The Wolverines have reigned as Big Ten champs successively since 1961, along with copping a national title in 1963.

When Michigan comes to the IM Arena Saturday to meet the Spartans, it'll be laying both an unsoiled 6-0 record and Big Ten title hopes on the line.

The Wolves' credentials shine not only in meet totals, but in individual and event strength, sharing an equal plane with the Spartans.

U-M will also bring along the twin brother act of "Chip and Phip". The Fuller twins, according to Szyplu, are doing a fine, steady job in floor exercise and long horse.

"They were both very good floor exercise men last year, and have improved on their vaulting," Szyplu remarked.

Not only are they identical in appearance and events, but in the way they look on the apparatus as well. Chip has averaged 9.25 in floor exercise and 9.275 in the vault, while Phip's scoring per meet in those respective events has been 9.275 and 9.15.

"Newt has again assembled a very well-balanced, competent team," Coach George Szyplu said, "possibly not blessed with the stars of his previous teams, but still one with great balance."

"All this gives us a great deal of incentive to knock them off," he went on to say, "for it's taken us this long to assemble as great a team as we have now. We've had fine groups in the past, but key injuries and lack of depth have frustrated our efforts."

In dual competition, Michigan has averaged 187.81 points per meet, as opposed to 185.09 for the Spartans. Their best score came against Minnesota, totalling 191.95.

Szyplu listed floor exercise, high bar, vaulting and rings as Michigan's strongest events, saying that side horse, trampoline and parallel bars lack balance.

Wolverine losses last year include the trampoline trio of Gary Erwin, John Hamilton and Fred Sanders, along with floor exercise champ Mike Henderson and all-around man Alex Fresca, but the '66 group has plugged the gaps.

Leading the Wolves with the best event average is Wayne Miller, sophomore trampolinist, who's been scoring 9.6 per meet. Miller hit for high marks of 9.7, against Illinois and Minnesota.

"I've got to credit Miller as their finest performer," Szyplu noted. "He's just about on a par with last year's trampolinists."

VanderVoort's best events are high bar, parallel bars and rings. He's been averaging 9.2 in both the bar events, along with scoring 9.2 per meet on rings.

Ken Williams, a steady sophomore parallel bars competitor, has shaded VanderVoort in the event, averaging 9.25. He hit for a 9.4 score against Illinois, with VanderVoort second at 9.3.

A primary showdown should come in rings, the last event on the card, and the strongest for both squads.

"An ironic thing is that Michigan's best ringman, Cliff Chilvers, was helped while in high school by Spartan great Dale Cooper," said Szyplu.

Chilvers heads up a fine rings group, with Rich Blanton, captain Ned Duke and VanderVoort contributing solid scores. In the Illinois battle, Blanton took top honors at 9.5, with Chilvers second at 9.4 and VanderVoort cleaning up at 9.3.

Blanton gives good depth in parallel bars along with his ring work, hitting for a 9.1 average. Szyplu named Art Baessler, Michigan's top side horse performer, as a strong entrant, with Dave Geddes giving the event a good 1-2 punch.

Christ VanderBroek gives the Wolves depth on the horse, as well as high bar. He's averaging 9.175 in the bar event. John Cashman, scoring 9.15 and Scott Paris at 9.0 complete that event.

NEW FACILITIES NEEDED

IM Activity Booming

By LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

As MSU grows, so grows the interest in intramural sports. "In terms of progress in the intramural program, we've had overwhelming participation in use of facilities this year," said IM Director Frank Beeman. "In fact, we are having to refuse as many as 300 reservations for use of facilities per weekend."

Beeman stressed the growing shortage of IM facilities and the proportional increase in the number of interested students. An idea of the great amount of participation can be gained by considering that in IM basketball alone, 260 teams compete. "We are all aware that we need more facilities to continue giving the same service," Beeman said. "It's obvious that we are not going to have fewer students in the future. There are going to be thousands more."

There is an obvious need for more facilities. Besides recreational activities, eight clubs are supervised by the IM.

One of the problems of overcrowded facilities is being remedied by the construction of an East Campus IM Field. The old field on South Campus is used for touch football in the fall and softball during spring. The new field, located across from Fee and Akers Halls, will be used spring term for IM softball.

A new IM building on campus or at least additions to the present building are being planned.

"We may, someday, have IM fields for each section of the campus," he said. "It would be possible to add handball courts and gyms onto the Men's IM."

Regarding a new IM Building, he said, "A new facility would probably be located on east campus and it would be co-educational."

To demonstrate the enormous interest in IM sports, the Intramural Department will present a demonstration of the various activities available to State students, during halftime of Saturday's basketball game with Indiana.

Members of the volleyball, badminton, cycling, weight lifting, table tennis, karate, judo and lacrosse clubs will exhibit their respective sports, simultaneously, on the court. "This will serve to give everyone an overall view of the extent of our program," said Beeman.

In order to provide students with a greater chance to make use of the IM Building, hours have been lengthened. "We've been forced to extend hours on Sunday until 9 p.m.," said Beeman. "However, we still do not have enough time."

Foiler Loutzenhiser: 'Please Spell It Right'

By GARY STYRK

With the fencing season drawing to a close, Roger Loutzenhiser is looking forward to his first Big Ten championship. He's also hoping the correct spelling of his name will be published.

Loutzenhiser, a 20-year-old junior from Fenton, stands 16-13 in overall foil competition this season. He leads the foil squad in number of bouts won and ranks third in the overall team standings.

His best performance so far this season was in a quadrangular meet against Iowa, Wisconsin and Kansas in which he posted a 6-2 record.

"My initial problem this year was overcoming a case of jittery nerves," Loutzenhiser said, "but I have that settled now."

"Now I've been told that my problem is that I don't have enough confidence in my attacks."

Loutzenhiser considers the straight lunge his best attack, although he said that the one-two (feint) and lunge has also been very effective for him.

Loutzenhiser started fencing at the Flint Fencing Club at the age of 16. He worked out about twice a week. He was able to do this through a sponsorship by the Mott Foundation.

In 1961 he entered an open tournament at Delta College and took a second in foil. Later that year, he entered the Flint Olympics and took a second in foil and a third in epee.

After graduating from Ather-ton High School in 1963 Loutzenhiser attended Michigan Technological University.

At Michigan Tech, which has no fencing team, Loutzenhiser was instrumental in organizing its first fencing club. He was also the club's first president and instructor.

Loutzenhiser transferred to MSU in 1964 to further his fencing career and take advantage of the better educational facilities he feels State has to offer.

"I like fencing because it involves so much precision and strategy," Loutzenhiser said. "I get so wrapped up in it that I'm able to relieve my tensions without even realizing it."

Loutzenhiser never seems to be satisfied with his performance. He said the only time he could ever be satisfied would be if he won every bout without getting touched.

"I guess my most disappointing bout was fought last week against Wayne State's No. 1 man. I kept missing him by a half inch each time I'd lunge. It was one of the most frustrating things that ever happened to me."

Loutzenhiser doesn't feel fencing is a spectator sport. He feels a person must have some knowledge of the sport before he can really enjoy it.

"There's just too much to watch in a fencing match. You have to know what to look for in order to really appreciate the sport," Loutzenhiser said.

'S' May Be Industry Research Center Site

MSU may become the site of a proposed industrial research center as a result of a new state technical services act, a associate professor marketing and transportation said recently. According to Frank R. Bacon Jr., the law is expected not only to attract new industries to the state by making research findings more accessible, but it would also strengthen the state's existing industrial base.

Johnson

ask, he said, is whether the U.S. is risking a wider war—perhaps with Communist China. "And again the answer is 'No,'" he said, "never by any act of ours—and not if there is any reason left behind the wild words from Peking."

Apparently directing his words to Peking, Johnson said the U.S. has threatened no one, has sought never to the weak in heart," not in the future.

Johnson discussed, too, the much-debated question of the kind of government South Viet Nam will have in the future.

"Washington will not impose upon the people of South Viet Nam a government not of their choice. Hanoi shall not impose upon the people of South Viet Nam a government not of their choice," he said.

"We will insist for ourselves on what we required from Hanoi: respect for the principle of government by consent of the governed. We stand for self-determination—for free elections—and we will honor their result."

Johnson said also the U.S. is not neglecting "any hopeful chance of peace."

Appropriations made by the federal government must be matched by state funds. The federal government has about $1.5 million to spend on such a program, Bacon said.

The act provides for the dissemination of research information through reports, abstracts, computer tapes, microfilm, reviews from state technical centers.

It also would establish a reference service, workshops, seminars, training programs and field visits.

The act does not provide for additional research, Bacon said.

After funds are received, a sub-committee of the State Council of College Presidents will decide on the colleges to initiate the centers. This will depend upon the facilities available, according to Bacon.

He said each college in Michigan has been asked to submit a report on this information.

The act, when appropriations are available, will benefit the basic industries in Michigan, including metal-working, chemicals, lumbering and mineral extraction.

Bacon said federal funds may be available by April 15. The program would then go into effect within a six-month period from that date, probably sometime during the summer, he added.

Miami Murder Trial Muddy

MIAMI (AP)—A defense witness said Wednesday that Melvin Lane Powers, accused of killing Jacques Mossler, might have shared a Houston jail cell with a convict who says Powers admitted the slayings.

William Bond, chief of Harris County jails, said that when Powers was arrested in the Mossler killing July 4, 1964, he was placed for three or four days in the same cell block occupied by Billy Frank Mulvey.

Mulvey had testified earlier that Powers was placed in his cell after his arrest and told him that he stabbed Mossler to death.

The defense had brought in Bond in an effort to discredit Mulvey by showing that he had no opportunity to hear such a confession from Powers, Bond testified that during their confinement the two men were separated by three cells.

But after the noon recess, Bond came back to "apologize to the court for my testimony this morning" and to correct it.

He said that Powers was placed in the same cell block with Mulvey and records do not show with whom Powers shared his cell.

Even if Powers had not been thrown together with Mulvey in the same cell, Bond said, the two men had ample opportunity to talk in an area where prisoners were taken three or four times a week to wait for the jail showers.

Mulvey, now serving a five-year term for theft in the Texas penitentiary, was a star state witness against both Powers and his aunt, Candace Mossler, who are charged jointly with first-degree murder of her husband.

DeGaulle

The neutralist countries in Africa and Asia provide a buffer. De Gaulle may believe that by creating a nuclearly independent France acting independently, the deadly polarizing might be further reduced.

De Gaulle's plans for an independent France will weaken the Western alliance; for France is vital to the strength of NATO today.

But a weakened Western alliance and an independent France mean a more vulnerable France. It isn't reasonable to think De Gaulle would take this chance unless he was playing for higher stakes—the averting of a situation that would lead to a nuclear war.

Tri-County Planners Outline Goals

More than 700,000 people will live in the Tri-County region by the year 2000, according to a recent report by the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission. This more than doubles the present population of the area.

Such growth will cause great demands on the area, and the planning commission has recently outlined several goals for the future development of the region.

The tri-county region is made up of 1,700 square miles and includes three counties, Clinton, Eaton and Ingham. Seventy-five cities, villages and townships are in the area.

First, the commission is encouraging a more efficient and economical use of the land. Some 225,000 dwelling units will be needed to house regional residents by the year 2000, and the present sprawling and scattered urban development pattern will not be an efficient pattern of growth to take care of this need.

Second, with growth has come blight and deterioration in the housing and commercial businesses of the region. The commission is working for renewal of these obsolete areas.

Third, a more orderly plan of growth and development is needed. According to the commission, unwise and outdated local zoning policies often perpetuate the scattered, sprawling growth patterns within the region.

Fourth, the commission is encouraging an expansion of the recreational facilities of the area. About 7,000 acres of land will be needed for major park areas within the region by 2000 because of the shortage of both large and small parks in the rapidly developing suburban townships and villages of the region.

Fifth, the number of automobiles in the region will increase 40 per cent by 1980 and is likely to double by the year 2000, according to the commission.

Lastly, the commission is promoting the development of a broad range of employment opportunities for the people of the area. By 2000 more than 240,000 persons will be needing jobs in the region, and a more stable and diversified industrial base is needed to provide maximum job opportunities for these people.

The planning commission is now forming several alternative plans for the future physical development of the tri-county region.

Paper Seeks Legality

Michael J. Kindman, editor of MSU's controversial The Paper, said Wednesday that his newspaper is planning to take two more steps for legal status in the eyes of the University.

But, said Kindman, "The Paper" will be published next week, with or without authorization. The editors of The Paper submitted a letter to Jack Breslin, secretary of the board of trustees, Monday, asking him to waive a University ordinance prohibiting the sale of The Paper.

The ordinance prohibits "the business of selling or advertising any service, activities or goods" on the campus. The secretary to the board of trustees can make exceptions to this ordinance.

The editors of The Paper have also asked to appear before the Board of Student Publications meeting next week.

"From the combination of going to the secretary and the Board of Student Publications," said Michael J. Kindman, Franklin Square, N.Y., junior, and editor of The Paper, "we can expect either to be given legal status as a campus newspaper or to exhaust all channels by which we could be authorized."

The All-University Student Judiciary has received summaries of testimony from representatives of The Paper, a student-operated weekly publication, and from ASMSU prosecutors.

A hearing was held last Thursday charging The Paper with violation of all-University policy specifying that only student publications recognized by the Board of Student Publications may distribute publications with commercial advertising.

The Paper was also charged with violating the constitution of ASMSU by soliciting funds on campus without approval of the ASMSU Student Board. Decision of the judiciary is pending.

'Capitalism Exploits,' Latins Say

Trade unions have had a considerable influence on Latin American politics, according to Carroll Hawkins, professor of political science.

Hawkins gave his views on "Ideology and Politics of Latin American Hemispheric Labor Organizations," Monday in the Union.

Latin Americans, said Hawkins, view capitalism as trying to exploit them and therefore just as bad as communism.

Communism is thought of as the opposite of capitalism, he said.

The two main labor groups of Latin America, he said, are both non-Communist; but one group, the ORIT, is much more anti-Communist than the other, the CLASC.

The ORIT is the larger and more established group, he said. It is less vibrant than its rival.

The smaller labor organization, the CLASC, is much more active, said Hawkins. It attacks the church and is much more revolutionary, he said.

Both groups, however, have been able to exert influence on politics, he said.

"The ORIT has been associated with the Populist parties and the CLASC with the Christian Democrats in their political dealings, he said.

New Class Set In Entomology

The Department of Entomology will offer a new four-credit course for graduate study during spring term, according to Gordon E. Guyer, chairman of the department.

Entomology 870, divided into two portions of equal length, covers both Acarina and Araneida. The first portion, covering the Araneida, will be taught by Leslie C. Drew, curator of exhibits, at the Museum.

The second portion, covering the Acarina, will be taught by Julius R. Hoffman, assistant to the dean of undergraduate counseling and associate professor of natural science and entomology.

The general morphology, biology, ecology and systematics of these arachnids will be studied, Guyer said. The recognition, control and economic importance will be emphasized, he said.

The course will consist of a lecture 10:20-11:40 a.m. Monday and Wednesday and a laboratory Tuesday and Thursday, 10:20 a.m. - 12:40 p.m.

Anyone wanting additional information on course content should contact the Department of Entomology, Guyer said.

He Shoots Old Tubes

Don't throw away that empty toothpaste tube! Give it to Margaret Knack, Royal Oak Junior, who is collecting them to give to her father as a surprise.

Miss Knack has collected 47 used toothpaste tubes just by putting up signs in McDonell Hall. One of her red and black signs said: "You poor, unfortunate girls on first floor, you might have missed my first announcement about saving old toothpaste tubes. Well, now's the chance to catch up. Give me all you have. Phone 3157, Maggie 464."

Miss Knack's father, Fred A. Knack, makes his own bullets, and he uses the toothpaste tubes which are almost pure tin, to make an alloy.

He mixes a small amount of tin with melted lead to make the bullets stronger. The alloy also makes the bullets more self-lubricating and they slide through the barrel more easily.

Music Recital Today

Music students will present their own compositions in a recital at 3 p.m. today in the Music Auditorium.

The compositions on the program were written by students enrolled in the 20th Century Harmony section of Materials of Music, taught by Theodore Johnson, assistant professor of music, and Jere Hutchesson, instructor in music.

"Many of the students in these classes are non-theory and -composition majors, and this recital gives them a good opportunity to perform their own compositions," said Johnson.

Compositions on the program include "Sound Experiment for Twelve Instruments," by Richard Worthing, Kent, Ohio, graduate student; "Andante," by Roger Smeltekop, Twin Lake, Mich., sophomore; "I Never Saw a Moor," by Donna Lee Struckoff, Grand Ledge graduate student.

Others include "Guarina," by Penelope Hendel, Atlanta, Ind., graduate student; "Piece for Unaccompanied Violin," by Lawrence Ebert, Pittsburgh, Pa., graduate student; and "Kyrle," by Judith De Loach, Blissfield sophomore.

The recital is free and open to the public.

Tentative plans are being made for another Materials of Music recital to be held spring term.

State Syrup Slips

A labor shortage is responsible for the decrease in production of Michigan maple syrup.

Although demand and sugar maple potential is increasing, production is likely to decrease by 25 per cent in the next 10 years.

Ralph D. Nyland, MSU forester, noted that about 70 per cent of the producers in southern lower Michigan are not fully utilizing sugar maple resources, while in the northern half of the peninsula about 40 per cent of the producers are tapping "too heavily."

Nyland said that in 10 years, about 35 per cent of the present maple syrup producers will stop operation--most of them in southern Michigan.

Studies show that sap production with modern tube systems can be profitable if the sap is processed on the property where collected, saving the transportation expense to a central evaporating plant.

Missions' Effects Discussed

Missionaries in India are having a far-reaching effect in reaching the Indian population, said a noted author of religious books and plays recently.

Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, speaking at the University Methodist Church Tuesday night, presented a program on the mission work in Vellore, India.

She showed colored slides and narrated her personal experiences and the stories of three prominent missionaries in India. Leprosy and other such diseases are the most crippling in the world today, said Mrs. Wilson.

The three missionaries about whom she spoke, Dr. Ida Scudder, Dr. Mary Verghese and Dr. Paul Brand, worked in this field.

Dr. Scudder founded the Vellore school and hospital and worked in the city for over 50 years helping the people.

Dr. Scudder also trained all the nurses she had by starting a school of her own, Mrs. Wilson said.

Today many Velloreites go abroad for advanced study and then return to Vellore, she said.

Dr. Verghese, a native Indian, worked in a hospital of her own. Dr. Verghese, said Mrs. Wilson, was hurt while a child and was a cripple. Despite this injury, Dr. Verghese still managed to operate on thousands of patients, she said.

Mrs. Wilson recently wrote a book, "Ten Fingers For God," about Dr. Brand whose surgical techniques have revolutionized the process of working on leprosy patients.

Despite the work that has been accomplished, she said, much more help is needed in the missions.

Mrs. Wilson has been the author of more than 60 religious books and plays and won the Westminster Religious Fiction Award for her book "Prince of Egypt."

IN GHANA

Art Shows Power

Modern art in Ghana depicts through symbols the power and leadership structure of the ruling chiefs, an Indiana University professor said at a recent meeting of the African Studies Lecture here.

Roy Sieber of the Department of Fine Arts at Indiana University told the meeting that the stool is the symbol for chieftainship. On the death of the chief, if he has been a good leader, his stool will become consecrated and it will become a history of the people, he said. No one can sit on the "golden stool" and if it should be sat upon, it is taken as a personal affront by the leader, Sieber explained. The chief is likened to a ram, one whose anger can be aroused and who then cannot be defeated, he told the meeting.

The second symbol is the power symbol and is represented by the sword, Sieber said. The swords are not of the general type that we may picture, rather they are elaborately decorated swords of great beauty, he said. They consist of wood covered by a gold-leaf layering.

The knobs on the swords stand for their power, Sieber pointed out as he showed slides of the various power symbols.

Sieber is planning to return to Ghana to do more research in the near future. He is considered a foremost expert on African arts.

Council Honors Dean Wyngarden

Herman J. Wyngarden, dean emeritus of the College of Business Administration, was presented an award for leadership and service in economic education Tuesday.

Eating Involves More Than Taste Buds, Says Expert

A successful government food-aid program for the underprivileged is dependent upon the awareness and acceptance of the ethnic background and social status of the poor, said a nutrition expert from the Michigan Department of Health.

Mrs. Alice Smith, chief of the nutrition section, during a seminar here Monday, said that we eat with our whole social being, not just our taste buds.

"Food means more things to people than anything else," said Mrs. Smith. Heritage and religion influence both the rich and the poor in their selection and preparation of foods, she said.

Mrs. Smith said that just because food is nutritious (good theoretically and scientifically), this is no guarantee of acceptance by the poor. She said that man can subsist on grain and enriched bread, skimmed milk and tomatoes alone, but this kind of diet is not acceptable to any income group.

"You do not change people by handing them a piece of paper and telling them what to do," she said.

The answer, Mrs. Smith added, is to hire nutrition experts trained in the humanities and social sciences and to go into depressed communities and set up small, personal groups for the purpose of food instruction.

Instruction will help to answer three questions.

1. How much of total nutrient needs can be met by use of all commodities?
2. Which foods should be purchased to supplement these in terms of both nutrients and emotional values?
3. How all will fit into an eating pattern acceptable to the family?

The "Commodities Program" and the "Food Stamp Plan," government projects for food aid, are being used in Michigan, Mrs. Smith said.

The Commodities Program donates a variety of surplus staples such as flour, corn meal, beans, cheese and powdered milk with information on how to use them, she said.

The Stamp Plan allows the family food buyer to make purchases in the grocery store up to the face value of the stamps, Mrs. Smith added.

She said that lower income groups have a higher percentage of maternity deaths, congenital (from birth) disfigurements, still and premature births. This is often a result of inadequate nutrition during and before pregnancy, she said.

The Maternity and Infant Care Program, Mrs. Smith said, was set up by the federal government to provide better mothers and babies. Detroit has one of seven branches of this project.

INTEREST INCREASING

Psych Dept. Plans Growth

The Department of Psychology is being studied to decide how to meet future educational requirements.

There have been only two similar department studies at MSU. One was done by the Mathematics Department, and another was done by the Chemistry Department.

The Psychology Department study involves a more precise statement of departmental goals, a study of the present instructional and service activities in the department, and a study of the number of faculty members needed.

Clarence L. Winder, chairman of the Psychology Department, said students are not aware of how much the faculty is concerned with the quality of their instruction, nor are they aware of the constant improvement of instructional methods practiced by the faculty.

Using corrected figures for enrollment increases, the study has already shown that between 1959 and 1965, the number of graduating seniors with bachelor's degrees in psychology has doubled. Taking the total credits carried by MSU students in 1964 and 1965, the study also revealed that the department did five per cent of all educational instruction done on campus in that period.

This growth shows an obvious shift of student interest toward the field of psychology. Winder believes this shift is an outgrowth of more liberty on the part of students to break away from tradition and to make their own decisions concerning man.

"Tradition is not accepted, and students are looking for better explanations. For these explanations they turn to psychology and the social sciences in hope of a better self-understanding," Winder said.

The answer, Mrs. Smith added, is to hire nutrition experts trained in the humanities and social sciences and to go into depressed communities and set up small, personal groups for the purpose of food instruction.

Instruction will help to answer three questions.

1. How much of total nutrient needs can be met by use of all commodities?
2. Which foods should be purchased to supplement these in terms of both nutrients and emotional values?
3. How all will fit into an eating pattern acceptable to the family?

The Commodities Program donates a variety of surplus staples such as flour, corn meal, beans, cheese and powdered milk with information on how to use them, she said.

The Stamp Plan allows the family food buyer to make purchases in the grocery store up to the face value of the stamps, Mrs. Smith added.

She said that lower income groups have a higher percentage of maternity deaths, congenital (from birth) disfigurements, still and premature births. This is often a result of inadequate nutrition during and before pregnancy, she said.

The Maternity and Infant Care Program, Mrs. Smith said, was set up by the federal government to provide better mothers and babies. Detroit has one of seven branches of this project.

Using corrected figures for enrollment increases, the study has already shown that between 1959 and 1965, the number of graduating seniors with bachelor's degrees in psychology has doubled. Taking the total credits carried by MSU students in 1964 and 1965, the study also revealed that the department did five per cent of all educational instruction done on campus in that period.

Benefit Folk Show Friday To Aid SNCC

A drive to raise money for projects in the South, especially in voter registration, is being staged by the campus National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC) chapters, according to Sandra Jenkins, Birmingham, Ala. senior, and SNCC president.

The groups hope to raise $3,000 in the drive, which will last until March 10.

As part of the drive, a folk show will be held Friday in the Union Ballroom, at 8:30 p.m. The entertainment will include Ed Henry, Judy Slaton, Jim and Jean and Tom Irwin. Admission is 75 cents.

Letters have also been sent out to all faculty members and local churches appealing for contributions to the drive.

A tea for invited faculty guests will be held Sunday in the faculty lounge of the Student Services Building, also to raise contributions.

Mrs. Rosa Parks, the woman who precipitated the Montgomery, Ala., bus strike eight years ago, will be the guest speaker at the tea.

According to Miss Jenkins, other contributions can be sent to Beverly Epps at 634 Albert St., East Lansing.

ASMSU

Cabinet chairman was to receive $60 per term plus $2 per meeting. This was also changed to a flat compensation of $100.

Under the resolution as introduced, compensation would be provided from "excess expenditures of the self-liquidating profits of ASMSU." Under the resolution as adopted, salaries will come out of the ASMSU general fund.

Before coming to a vote the board deleted a section of the resolution providing for $50 compensation to be provided to "major directors of various departments in the all-University cabinet."

Fly Northwest for half fare.

Starting February 27, Northwest Orient Airlines will cut jet fares in half for all young people 12 through 21.

There are just two easy steps to qualify. First, be able to prove you're at least 12 years of age—but under 22. Second, purchase a $3 identification card. You can also use your Northwest "I.D." card on most other major airlines.

We'll sell you a seat at 1/2 price whenever a seat is available, after regular passengers and military standbys have been accommodated.

Our Northwest Youth Fare Plan is good in the continental U.S. and applies all year around—except for a few days listed below.

Any questions? Call Northwest Orient Airlines. Better yet, fill out the application form at right. Take it—with proof of age—to your nearest Northwest Ticket Office. Or mail it to Northwest.

Travel under the Youth Fare Plan is not available on April 7, November 27, December 15 through 24, 1966, and January 2 through 4, 1967.
