Housing Stand Of Commission Stirs Criticism

By JOAN SOLOMON
State News Staff Writer

East Lansing Human Relations Commission was sharply criticized by city residents Wednesday night for its failure to recommend an ordinance prohibiting discrimination in housing.

About 30 persons attending the public discussion heard David K. Berlo, commission chairman, read the 10-page preliminary draft of recommendations to the City Council asking that action not be taken at this time to adopt a city open-occupancy policy. Berlo, who is also chairman of the MSU department of communications, said the draft would not be submitted to the City Council until further deliberation by the commission.

The commission's report read, in part: "It is the commission's recommendation that no separate housing ordinance should be enacted at this time by the council. There is discrimination in East Lansing, although it is relatively infrequent and diminishing."

The two basic reasons for the decision were, according to the report:

1. "There is increasing evidence that the citizens of the community are putting their own houses in order. Equal opportunity can best be achieved without legal measures, if and only if the citizens of a community exercise effective control through their own desires and commitment. The commission believes that this condition of community sensitivity now exists within East Lansing, and that our citizens are increasingly willing to take a positive course of action to become a meaningfully integrated community."

2. "... the community has come closer together, and is more willing to work together on this problem (of discrimination) than it was before--and that the introduction of a comprehensive ordinance at this time would polarize feelings of the community, induce extremist and inaccurate statements within the community, and would severely inhibit the continuing education program which is underway."

The commission will continue to monitor the local situation carefully, the report stated, and if the incidence of discrimination increases or if the continuing improvement in community attitudes and behavior is slowed, the commission "does not preclude the possibility that it might recommend an ordinance at that time."

Only one member of the commission, Mrs. Marvin (Heiga) Kaplan, objected to the commission's failure to recommend an open housing policy to the council.

"An ordinance could help solve what the commission has already determined constitutes a problem," Mrs. Kaplan said.

"Without an ordinance there is no legal base to guarantee non-discrimination."

"An ordinance is not intended to please all the people," she said, "but it is to guarantee the inalienable rights of the minority and in a real sense of all."

She drew applause from the audience for her stand, and was supported by another commissioner, John Porter.

When discussion was opened to the public, most residents who spoke expressed sentiments

Supplies Hamper Guerrillas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday the Communists may boost their fighting forces in South Viet Nam by 50 per cent this year, and more Americans will have to go there to face them.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the Pentagon believes this will be the height of the Communist troop buildup. With U.S. warplanes attacking their supply lines, McNamara said, the Communists could not support a bigger force.

"I cannot say at this time precisely how many additional American forces will be deployed," the defense secretary said. He said any arbitrary manpower limit would weaken U.S. ability to press the Communists for a negotiated settlement.

Nor did McNamara make public an exact manpower figure on the potential Communist buildup.

McNamara's meeting with the Foreign Relations Committee took him to the center of the stormy debate about U.S. policy in Viet Nam. At his own insistence, McNamara appeared behind closed doors. He was there for four hours and 20 minutes.

The Pentagon chief has rejected a committee call to talk in public, saying he could not do so without endangering military secrets.

But as he faced the committee, McNamara made public his answers to some of the major issues Senate critics raised in lengthy - sometimes heated - public encounters with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and presidential consultant Maxwell D. Taylor.

In his statement, McNamara asked as well as answered the questions.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, accompanied McNamara at the committee session.

"Secretary McNamara," commented Sen. Joseph S. Clark,

Paper Is Guilty; Penalty Waived

The seven-member All-University Student Judiciary (AUSJ) ruled, six to one, against "The Paper" on both charges levied against it by ASMSU, but waived the penalty requested by prosecution.

Prosecution from ASMSU asked for fines totaling $100 and revocation of charter as an ASMSU organization for a period extending until June.

Under the AUSJ ruling, "The Paper" may still seek approval from ASMSU Student Board to distribute on campus, but the ruling specified "The Paper" could carry no commercial advertising as long as it remained under ASMSU jurisdiction.

"The Paper" was found guilty of carrying an advertisement in the third edition as charged, a violation of the all-University policy specifying that only student publications recognized by the Board of Student Publications may distribute publications with commercial advertising.

The student-operated weekly was also found guilty of soliciting funds without the required approval of the ASMSU Student Board - a violation of the constitution of ASMSU.

On the matter of distribution, a statement released by the court said:

"It is the feeling of this court that the Student Board... has acted negligently in this case. Upon three different occasions members of the Student Board discussed the right of this board to permit 'The Paper' to distribute on campus and whether this, 'The Paper' Committee, would be allowed to use paid advertising... Even after the Student Board was aware that advertising was being used in 'The Paper,' they once again gave permission to distribute. 'It is the strong feeling of this court that the Student Board (continued on page 3)

Tax Revision Is Revived

Fiscal reform, shot down last year by tax-shy lawmakers, sprang back to life today with the introduction of a package of bipartisan bills to juggle the state's tax structure by substituting new taxes for old.

Introduced by Rep. James N. Folks, R-Horton, the bills would grant $381 million in tax relief while raising the same amount through a 2 per cent personal income tax, a 3 1/2 per cent tax on corporations, a 7 per cent levy on financial institutions and a 1-cent per pack increase in the cigarette tax.

LBJ Signs G.I. Bill; Deplores Excess Cost

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed Thursday the cold war GI bill of rights extending educational, housing and medical benefits to millions of veterans. But Johnson deplored the cost as "far in excess" of what he had requested.

The President noted that the legislation would cost $245 million more than his budget request for the next fiscal year and $1.8 billion more than he planned over the next five years. But he said he was signing the measure "because it was for education" and "a President just must not ignore the unanimous vote of both houses of Congress... and some five million men who will be benefiting."

The legislation, approved by the House 381 to 0 and the Senate 99 to 0, becomes permanent law. It carries a first-year price tag of about $335 million and its estimated cost over the first five years is $2.1 billion.

The new law will apply to anyone who has served in the armed forces after Jan. 31, 1953. Johnson's proposal would have limited major benefits to veterans who had been stationed in specific combat zones or "hot spots."

Ousted Nkrumah Selected Head Of Guinea, Ghana

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Kwame Nkrumah, ousted by Ghana's army, has become president of both Guinea and Ghana, Guinea's roving ambassador Abdoulaye Diallo claimed Thursday. The envoy asserted this was the wish of the people of Guinea.

Diallo said President Sekou Toure of Guinea had stepped aside to let the ousted president of Ghana take over the dual presidency. Toure welcomed Nkrumah to Guinea Wednesday on his arrival from Moscow, and promised to help him return to power.

There was no confirmation of Diallo's statement from Conakry, Guinea's capital.

In any case, Nkrumah's authority in Ghana is gone. The Ghanaian army says he will be arrested and tried if he returns to Ghana.

Nkrumah's attempts to regain power in Ghana face many barriers. These include:

--Evidence that Nkrumah's overthrow was popular with most of the Ghanaian people. His only support came from members of his Convention People's party, now being hunted down.

--The backing of the revolution by the 10,000-man army, a cohesive force in Ghana.

--Support for the revolution from Ghanaian diplomats abroad.

A dual presidency could mean that Toure and Nkrumah were trying to put into force a union agreed on in 1959 after both had assumed power in their countries. The union never got off the ground because of language difficulties between French-speaking Guinea and English-speaking Ghana, and cultural and other differences. The two countries on Africa's west coast are separated by the nation called the Ivory Coast.

Diallo said Toure stepped down Wednesday and Nkrumah assumed the dual presidency immediately.

He said the Guinea delegation would also represent Ghana at the OAU meeting. This presented the conference a problem. It already has recognized a delegation from Ghana's military regime.

Referring scornfully to the Ghanaian delegation, Diallo declared: "By allowing the toys of the imperialists to sit at OAU conferences the African states are compromising African unity."

Earlier in the day, Diallo walked out on the OAU conference in protest to the seating of the Ghanaian delegation, and with him went the delegations of Tanzania and Mali.

Bill Would Forbid Interest Conflict

An investigation into the case of a regent at the University of Michigan resulted in a conflict of interest bill being introduced into the House of Representatives Thursday.

The ways and means subcommittee on higher education appropriations announced that the bill would serve to implement the new Constitution's prohibition against conflict of interest.

The Constitution states that "no member of the Legislature nor any state officer shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with the state or any political subdivision which would cause a substantial conflict of interest."

An investigation into the case of Eugene Power, a U-M Regent, by legislators was triggered by an article in the Michigan Daily, the U-M student paper, last November.

The Michigan Daily discussed contracts and business relationships in which Power was allegedly involved.

Power requested the university to investigate the charges. University President Harlan Hatcher announced two days later that the University would conduct the investigation for the purpose of clearing the air.

However, Jack Faxon (D-Detroit), chairman of the ways and means subcommittee, decided to conduct an additional investigation into the Power case.

The subcommittee was assisted by a legislative budget expert and two members of the legislative auditor's staff during the investigation.

Faxon withheld comment on whether an unacceptable conflict of interest existed in the Power case but stated that the investigation "provided the necessary food for thought to formulate the proposed legislative provisions."

"The conflict of interest bill may not be the final answer to settling the many gray areas involved in such a question," Faxon said. "But, it is the most comprehensive attempt yet to legislatively implement the Constitution's new mandate."

EVENING OF MARCH 28

Students To Drop, Add Early

By JANE KNAUER
State News Staff Writer

MSU students may now add to University jargon "early drops and adds" to go along with early advisement, early enrollment and early registration.

"We are making provisions for students to make necessary drops and adds" before classes actually start," Registrar Horace C. King said Wednesday.

Arrangements will be made during the first night of the regular evening class registration for students to go through drops and adds. Those students who find it necessary to repeat a course because of an "F" grade or for other important reasons and who have already participated in early registration, will be eligible to go through.

Early drops and adds will be handled March 28 between 7:30 and 9 p.m. in the Men's IM. King outlined four steps students will follow going through early drops and adds.

First, the student should get an approval signature on the drop or add form from his academic adviser sometime during the day, March 28.

Students should then anytime between 7:30 and 9 p.m. proceed to the Men's IM, taking the signed drop and add forms, their ID, and their spring term fee receipt card which they will receive at early registration.

"Students must have the spring term fee receipt card before they will be allowed to go through the early drop and add process," King said.

Students dropping and adding courses which will affect their fees will have to go to the fee payment area before dropping or adding courses, King said.

Those students who will have a change in fees will proceed to the class card arena to make the necessary drops and adds.

The third step occurs in the class card arena. Students will go to the department tables concerned in their drops and adds. Key-punched IBM cards--a red-dish color for drops and a buff color for adds--will be given to them for the courses they drop and add.

Finally students will take the IBM cards and the drop and add cards to the checkout area. Everything will be collected there, except the spring term fee receipt card and the ID.

Reservations for registration times will be available in the lobby of the Men's IM, March 11 and March 14-17 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., including the lunch hour.

Registration Reservations

Students who want to reserve time to go through early registration for spring term during finals week may make reservations starting March 11. Registrar Horace C. King has said.

"Based on last term's early registration procedure it seems we wouldn't need to set up reserved times," King said, "but some students do have a tight schedule during exam week and want to be sure to go through early registration."

7 Indicted For Contempt In Klan Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven Southerners identified as Ku Klux Klan officers were indicted Thursday on charges of contempt of Congress because they did not submit Klan records subpoenaed by a House committee. The seven, including Robert M. Shelton, Imperial Wizard of the United Klans of America, are expected to be arraigned soon. Each is charged on one count of contempt and, if convicted, would be subject to a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The indictments trace to a recently concluded investigation by the House Committee on Un-American Activities during which the seven did not produce subpoenaed Klan records. Some declined to produce them, others said they had none.

They refused also to answer questions about Klan activities, invoking their constitutional guarantees against self-incrimination, but they were not indicted for these refusals to talk.

The indictments are the only concrete legal result thus far of hearings started last autumn and concluded last week.

Fame Costs A Bit Extra

RUSSELLTON, Pa. (UPI)—West Deer Twp.'s Police Chief Steve Radage admitted Thursday he was involved in one of the most embarrassing investigations in all his years on the force.

Radage said he has received numerous complaints that someone has been stealing panties, bras and girdles from residents' homes.

"There are probably others who have lost such items, but they are too embarrassed to report their losses," Radage said.

Off Campus Council Must Get More Money

A STUDENT GOVERNMENTAL organization cannot provide services for its constituents if it does not have a treasury. In fact, without finances, an organization cannot even hold fundraising events to start a treasury. The Off Campus Council (OCC) is in the predicament of representing 6,500 students, but not having the funds to organize any functions for them. OCC does not have the power to tax, and thus is totally dependent on ASMSU for the few dollars it does receive.

CLEARLY, SOMETHING MUST be done about this ridiculous situation, for OCC will not serve the needs of the off-campus community until it has a constant income.

ASMSU has appropriated $716 to OCC for spring term. This appropriation must be criticized on two counts. First, though $716 is better than no money, it is hardly enough to make a going concern of an organization serving 6,500 people.

Second, ASMSU should not be put in the position of having to give OCC money each term. In effect, OCC's dependence on ASMSU for finances allows ASMSU to dictate what OCC can and cannot do.

THE ONLY LONG-TERM solution to this dilemma is to give OCC the power to tax students off campus. Unfortunately, this cannot easily be done. OCC could receive the power to tax only if 50 per cent of the students living off campus would vote for a tax.

To say the least, it is highly unlikely that a tax could be passed in the near future. Thus, OCC's only hope is that ASMSU will give it more money in the future, and yet not try to tell OCC what to do. In effect, OCC must make the best of a bad situation.

IT IS IMPORTANT that OCC have adequate funds for three reasons. First, OCC is the only voice that 6,500 students have in campus government. For example, the recent proposal to liberalize the regulations in a living unit off campus could be initiated only through OCC.

Second, OCC has the potential power to act as cohesive agent for the students living off campus. Many students who live in Lansing and commute to campus do not feel that they are a part of the University community. If OCC had more funds, it could sponsor programs that would make these commuters feel that they are more a part of the University.

THIRD, OCC has the potential of organizing social functions for off campus students—a greatly neglected area.

All of these functions that OCC could provide require money. And until it has a budget that allows it to initiate a few programs—a few fund raising events—it cannot and will not adequately serve the thousands of students living off campus.

Wallace On Campaign Trail-- As Assistant

GOV. GEORGE WALLACE of the great and sovereign state of Alabama is in the news again. Ideally, he would have liked to have made the news by announcing his candidacy for re-election as governor.

But in Alabama, state law prohibits any governor from succeeding himself in office. So he did the next best thing; he announced the candidacy of his wife.

Unusual? Yes, but George Wallace is an unusual fellow. He'd do almost anything to stay in politics, even if he has to function from behind his wife.

Wallace was left with the decision to either become private citizen Wallace or have his wife run for office on the promise that her husband would "run the show" and "pull the strings." It didn't take him long to decide.

For private citizen Wallace wouldn't have a base from which to espouse his "sometimes" states' rights ideology when 1968 comes around. In that forthcoming presidential election year, Wallace hopes to be the crusader for 'Americanism' on the states' right platform in the South.

YOU MIGHT LAUGH at George Wallace, especially when you listen to what he has to say, but no one can deny his ability to attract voters. He showed that two years ago in presidential primaries in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland.

In announcing his wife's candidacy, he pointed out that if she were elected, he would be classified as a special assistant at pay of $1 a year. His critics might counter that he's not worth any more than that either.

But the whole situation appears a little shaky. It just doesn't seem right for any man to be able to subvert the law on a technicality. The law was written for the express purpose of preventing a governor from seeking a second term in office.

Wallace not only sought special treatment, but once denied, he is attempting to sneak in the back door. While what he is doing may not be illegal, it certainly isn't ethical. But of course, no one ever accused Wallace of being ethical either.

AT TIMES IN ALABAMA, Wallace has preached bigotry, hatred and caused as much racial strife as any man in America today. At other times, he has been quite moderate. And now that many Negroes are registering to vote in Alabama, under the new Voting Rights Act, he doesn't say too much about segregation—at least in public.

In fact, two years ago in a speech given in a Northern city, Wallace said some ironic things in concluding his remarks.

"Our position is not one of objection to what is being done for the Negro. We believe that his destiny is onward and upward. We support that destiny with our tax money and our Christian good wishes."

"We build his opportunity with a vast program of industrial development and record breaking efforts in the field of public education. The freedom of opportunity and liberty to develop to the limits of his capabilities should not and will not be denied. "Our position does not embody hatred or bigotry. The people of the South have carried the Negro citizen on their shoulders and have endowed him with every blessing of civilization that he has been able to assimilate."

Hard to believe, isn't it? You just never know what ole George will say. But he sure would make a good private citizen.

Please Lurleen, I'd Rather Do It Myself!

'CSR Distorts, Exaggerates'

To the Editor:

IN HIS letter of Feb. 28, Stuart Dowry labeled the State News editorial regarding the irresponsible activities of the CSR on the ADS weekends as "distorted" and "slanderous." Furthermore, he requires "at least, a public apology" from the editors.

However, after reading this masterpiece I have come to the conclusion that the only apology necessary is from Mr. Dowry. He states that "Never has CSR advised prospective students not to attend MSU" and that part of CSR's program of "improvements" must logically include "the admission of more talented and promising students."

Yet is fact the CSR did on both ADS weekends pass out propaganda to the competitors which could only have had the purpose of discouraging them from attending MSU. This propaganda consisted, simply, of a list of gripes from former ADS competitors now at MSU.

I would ask Mr. Dowry if he honestly believes that such material could possibly serve any useful, constructive purpose. These competitors were high school seniors, most of them here for their first intimate look at a university. If the CSR is so desirous of recruiting these bright young people, why did it go out of its way to hunt up the few negative cases and completely ignore the tremendous number of former ADS competitors who have much good to say about their experiences at MSU?

And why is it so important for CSR to tell these people that administrative mistakes do happen in a university of 35,000; that some doors are closed to the inexperienced undergraduate and not mention one word about the hundreds of undergraduate research positions available or about the thousands of students who have had proper room assignments?

Aristotle vs. Henderson

To the Editor:

I would like to suggest that Professor Henderson do his research more thoroughly. He stated that "Congress affirmed its belief in the principle of collective bargaining." He must have forgotten to read the rest of these two laws. Congress, in 1932, 1935, and 1947, also reaffirmed a more basic principle, that a person be allowed not to associate with his fellow worker.

Justice Hugo Black, in 1949, upheld the constitutionality of right-to-work laws. Justice Black is not known for his adherence to conservative ideas.

Professor Henderson states that the majority rights are abridged because some people do not join a labor union. Aristotle in the fourth century B.C. realized that if minority rights are not protected the majority will be tyrannical.

Professor Henderson says that states that have right-to-work laws are the ones that discriminate in socio-economic areas. He must have forgotten that nine western states have right-to-work laws and that their representatives voted for the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

It would seem that Professor Henderson should do more research on his topic before he writes next time.

Right Face, Wrong Name

To the Editor:

Thursday night at the College of Social Science forum, I defended the University policy which requires membership of a faculty member on the editorial board of the State News. I emphasized the necessity for having someone with years of experience on this board to minimize mistakes and to prevent publication of material that might lead to a libel suit. Those students who disagreed with me should check the pictures of Drs. Jamrich and Titkemeyer on the front page of the February 28 State News. He is more handsome than I am, and I have no complaints on my name being under his picture. He should sue the State News for putting his name under the picture of a bald-headed old man that looks very much like me.

Van Hoosen Is Explained

JUST SOUTH OF BOGUE Street Bridge, a small, two-story building stands parallel to the Red Cedar River.

Silver letters to the left of the double glass doors spell out "Van Hoosen Hall." A few freshmen recently called it a storage shed. Another said it was faculty offices.

More knowledgeable upperclassmen frequently tell you, "Yes, I've heard of Van Hoosen." (Some people haven't.) They then add that it's for women over 21, that it's for grad students and/or that you have to be in Honors College to get in.

None of this is true. The requirements for admission are relatively simple: a 2.2 academic average, sophomore standing and a recommendation from your housemother and one other staff member.

WHAT IS TRUE is that there's something special about living in Van Hoosen--something apart from the freedom to cook your own meals in your own kitchen, to make fudge at midnight when you decide you can't survive 'til morning, and to eat dinner with your hair in rollers on Friday night.

The atmosphere is due mostly to Van Hoosen's housemother, Mrs. Juanita Lloyd. Mrs. Lloyd is perhaps the only housemother on campus who could give a lecture on the dangers of staying out after hours without signing out and have a brand-new resident comment, "You know, she really cares."

Mrs. Lloyd will tell you that she simply treats the residents as mature women.

It is not so much that there is one major University regulation missing in Van Hoosen (although there are no resident advisers). It's that there's enough freedom that the usual regulations don't seem so bothersome.

THERE ARE NO DINNER dress regulations, no rushing home from class to get in the dinner line just in time for a slightly wilted salad and the last piece of roast beef, in cold gravy.

You can sign the sewing machine out to your room instead of carting material, bobbin, scissors, pattern, iron, pins and thread down five floors to the basement. The dorm's silver service is seldom used, but it is there if you ever need it.

Van Hoosen's 32 apartments are built around a rectangular courtyard. The front of the rectangle is a one-story building with a lobby, carpeted lounge, study room and public kitchen where coeds can bring the dishes from their apartment (furnished by the University) and cook for men any time the hall is open.

THE COURTYARD, ACTUALLY a thinned-out part of the woods behind McDonell Hall, has real, non-University-planted trees and grass that's usually green. In the spring there are picnic tables and charcoal grills.

Animals like it too. Three ducks from the Red Cedar frequently visit Van Hoosen spring term, begging for bread and crackers from the women sunbathing in the courtyard.

Fat, gray squirrels are year-round visitors. They clatter across window screens and poke their paws into screen doors as women try to get out of their apartments without letting squirrels in. Opossums occasionally sit on the back stairs.

ACROSS THE BACK is Van Hoosen's famous--or infamous--4-foot-high wire fence. Although a large dog could probably jump over the fence, the residents rarely do. Its availability is a privilege that the coeds value enough not to misuse. Mrs. Lloyd will tell you.

The apartments add two-story-high sides to the rectangle. Each has a kitchen, living room, bath (with tub) and bedroom. These are shared by four or five women, who buy all their food and do all their own cooking.

The cooking is often good, sometimes funny. There was one coed who got up and made bread before she went to the 9 o'clock church service on Sunday morning. Her roommates didn't eat anything the night they moved in because they couldn't figure out how to turn on the gas stove and didn't want it to explode.

So the next time someone asks you what that funny-looking shed is for... It's simply a very unusual dorm.

Stefanoff Fund Straightened Out

MUCH CONFUSION HAS accompanied ASMSU's appropriations for the James Stefanoff Memorial Fund. The fund, now called the Stefanoff Leukemia Memorial Fund, is composed of profits made on the closed circuit telecast of the Purdue football game.

The money in the fund will be given to a leukemia charity. This is an excellent decision since Stefanoff's father died of leukemia, and Stefanoff had strong feelings about the disease.

THE INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL and Panhellenic Council collected $430 towards the Stefanoff Fund.

The donations collected by IFC and PanHel are a separate fund which will serve three functions. First, it will be used to purchase an oil portrait of Stefanoff.

SECOND, IT WILL be used to purchase a gavel and trophy for the James Stefanoff Memorial Award. Third, the remaining funds will be donated to the St. Jude Hospital Leukemia Fund.

Originally, it had been thought the portrait would cost $400. But recent estimates put the cost at $140. This cost is far more reasonable and will prevent any ill will from developing from people who thought their money was being squandered.

DONATING THE MAJORITY of the funds to the leukemia charity is the best use for the money.

Indian Tribesmen Rebel

NEW DELHI (UPI) -- Rebellious Mizo tribesmen demanding an independent state exchanged gun fire Thursday with government troops rushed to the northeastern state of Assam.

About 1,000 tribesmen attacked government offices in Mizo hills last week and renewed their attack Wednesday with an assault on the government treasury office.

Casualty reports had not reached government offices here.

Canadian Gold Shipment Stolen

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI) -- Investigators were without clues today to the identities of a "slim" youth and his "beefy" associate who hijacked a shipment of gold bullion that could be worth $670,000.

Tuesday night's robbery, the fourth successful theft of gold from a Canadian airport in the past 14 years, was so carefully planned and slickly executed that it went undiscovered for more than two hours.

That two hours gave the bandits, both described as in their twenties, plenty of time to transfer the 12 wooden crates of ingots from an Air Canada truck to another vehicle.

Mossler Prosecution Doesn't Demand Death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) -- State Atty. Richard Gerstein said Thursday that Candace Mossler masterminded the killing of her wealthy husband, Jacques, and her nephew, Melvin Lee Powers, committed the "brutal, unwarranted murder."

But, in his closing argument on the 33rd day of the sensational trial, the tall, balding prosecutor did not demand the death penalty for the co-defendants.

Gerstein told the 12 male jurors, "I would have no quarrel with a recommendation of mercy" if they thought it was justified.

Sukarno Closes
Jakarta Campus

SINGAPORE (P) -- President Sukarno ordered the University of Indonesia closed Thursday in an apparent attempt to halt anti-Communist student demonstrations against him.

A Jakarta broadcast announcing the closing quoted Sukarno as saying: "Peace and calm must be restored so the studies of school children will not be interfered with."

But his target was Kami, the anti-Communist student group he ordered banned last Friday. This group has turned the university into a fortress and has staged anti-Sukarno demonstrations in Jakarta the past three days, say well-informed sources in Singapore.

Sukarno announced establishment Wednesday of a new group, the Indonesian National Union of Students, to take in all students. This would include the pro-Communist students who battled Kami members with rocks and clubs Monday.

The decision to close the university was taken at a meeting of Indonesian policy makers at which Sukarno declared "the situation must be overcome immediately," Radio Jakarta said.

The broadcast said the campus would be guarded by the Jakarta military garrison. Troops who watched a demonstration by Kami students against Sukarno Wednesday appeared to be in sympathy with them, according to reports reaching Singapore.

The students have been protesting Sukarno's firing of Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution as defense minister. He had been leading the crackdown on Indonesian Communists after the Reds failed in a coup against the government Oct. 1.

Spring Has Almost Sprung,
Grass Is Not Quite Riz. . .

By RON KARLE

State News Staff Writer
It was an off-with-your-coat time, a let's-catch-the-sniffles time.

It was Thursday apologizing for Monday.

It was spring.

It was water-filled bicycle tracks and footprints at a muddy bus stop.

It was a crumbly curb and a puddle of water.

It was a sandy gutter with little pebbles and gum wrappers and cigarette butts.

It was a happily useless burlap snow breaker with no need to guard the evergreens on the corner.

It was a dusty mound of snow in a pool of water with only its pride left, and that, too, was melting away.

It was scraping your knee.

It was mud mixed with snow--with the mud winning.

It was spring.

It was the squish of footsteps in the grass and the spit-spot of leather coming down hard on the pavement.

It was ravaged clumps of grass by a sidewalk, dug up by an unknowing snow plow.

It was spring.

It was the shy weeping willow, head still bowed, but coyly winking at the breeze.

It was getting hit by a car, almost, and not getting mad.

It was looking at your reflection in a sidewalk pool.

It was watching a river in the driveway forging its way to a sewer.

It was the disappointment that comes with the late afternoon chill because it made you zip up your jacket.

It was spring, for a day anyway.

should follow up this indictment by assuming the responsibility delegated to it by the constitution so as to prevent a recurrence of this sort."

On the matter of paid commercial advertising, the statement from the court specified "The Paper," under existing policy, must be authorized by the Board of Student Publications in order to carry ads, but also said:

"It is the strong feeling of this court that the policy statement of the Board of Student Publications is too vague in its definition of those publications which require authorization by this board and those which do not. . .

"This court further recommends that the Board of Student Publications re-evaluate its position on the role it now plays in authorizing publications so as to make it possible for some independent publications to exist at this University without having to follow the procedures and expense of either incorporation or authorization under existing policies."

STEFANOFF LEUKEMIA FUND

ASMSU To Donate $400

ASMSU Student Board will donate $400 to the James N. Stefanoff Memorial Leukemia Fund instead of using the money to buy a portrait of Mr. Stefanoff, late president of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

The board also changed the fund's name Tuesday because the money originally intended for a scholarship will be given to leukemia research. Mr. Stefanoff's father died of leukemia.

Last June the Board agreed to buy a picture of Mr. Stefanoff for the ASMSU offices. Earlier this term Inter-Fraternity Council told the board it was prepared to purchase an oil portrait, costing $395. The board then agreed to share the cost.

When the board approved the spring term budget Tuesday, the ASMSU appropriation turned out to be $400 for the $395 portrait. Because a number of students had criticized the board for spending student tax money on a portrait, the board earmarked the $400 for the National Leukemia Foundation.

IFC said Tuesday it would buy the portrait with money donated from fraternities and sororities. They have no objections to the money being used for a portrait, said Andy Kramer, IFC president and Detroit senior.

Thursday IFC representatives said the money might be used to buy a colored photograph at a cost of $140, rather than an oil portrait. The rest of the money would go to leukemia research.

IFC created the scholarship fund following Mr. Stefanoff's death last spring term. ASMSU donated $500 to the fund, and Greek houses donated $430 more. The Jay and the Americans popular entertainment concert fall term was to raise additional money, but it made only $20.

IFC has now decided to buy either a portrait or a picture and a trophy to give to the outstanding junior of the year for the next 10 years.

State Cagers Need Win Before U-M Showdown

Hoosiers Could Be Tougher At Home

By BOB HORNING
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State needs only one more basketball victory to make Monday night's showdown with Michigan a showdown.

State faces Indiana Saturday at Bloomington, a team that just a week ago gave State a scare before finally folding, 69-63.

State, now 9-3 in the Big Ten, will go into Monday's clash one game behind the Wolverines should both teams win Saturday. Michigan plays Northwestern at Ann Arbor.

A Spartan loss Saturday could with a Michigan win would leave State two games behind and eliminate it from a possible title share.

If State wins and Michigan loses, the teams would be tied and Monday's game would decide the Big Ten champion and the league representative to the NCAA regionals next weekend.

In case of a tie, State will go to the regionals, since Michigan went last year.

Last Saturday, a switching Indiana defense kept State's offense sputtering all night, and Coach John Benington still hasn't figured out what the Hoosiers were doing on defense.

"But we're not going to worry about it this time," he said. Last time we did more thinking than playing in the first half. We will just have to play our regular game."

Three Indiana guards, who caused considerable damage to the Spartans a week ago, will have to be contained by State Saturday. Max Walker, Vern Payne and Irv Inniger accounted for 39 of the 63 Indiana points last time.

In Indiana's 96-90 loss to Minnesota Monday night, Payne and Walker scored 49 points between them. Walker is currently ninth in Big Ten, scoring with an 18.4 point per game average. Payne is 15th with 16.8.

With the final two games coming up, Benington said, "We are in the position now where nobody can help us but ourselves. If we don't play ball against Indiana, the Michigan game won't mean a thing."

In the game at Bloomington, at 2 p.m., State might have to play a game similar to the one it played against Ohio State Monday night to come out on top. Benington called the 98-79 win at Columbus "fantastic." "It was one of those games where everything goes well. And it was the most 'clutch' game for us this year," he said.

"Ohio had been going good," said Benington. "St. John's Arena is always a tough place to play in and a loss would have put us out of the race."

After 12 conference games, Michigan State has two players in the top 10 in Big Ten scoring: Stan Washington and Bill Curtis. Washington is seventh with a 19.6 average and Curtis is 10th with 18.3.

In all games, Washington is averaging 17.1 and Curtis, 15.8.

Behind them are Matthew Aitch (13.8), John Bailey (8.2), Steve Rymal (7.8) and Shannon Reading (6.5).

Washington also continues as the team's leading rebounder with a 10.6 per game average. Curtis is right behind with 8.8, and Aitch is averaging 7.3.

In team statistics in the Big Ten, State ranks as follows:

Offensive average, - 80.1 (4th); defensive average, - 72.6 (1st); rebound average, - 43.6 (3rd); and free throw per cent, - 70.9 (9th).

BIG TEN CHAMPIONSHIPS HERE

Hawks Dark Horse Of Track

By PHIL PIERSON
State News Sports Writer

Iowa could hold the key to the Big Ten Indoor Track Championships beginning tonight at Jensen Field House.

State's Coach Fran Dittrich says the Hawkeyes are the dark horse in the battle for the team title.

"They have about six men who could win events, and if they also win the mile relay, that would be 38 points right there," Dittrich said.

The six men Dittrich is referring to are Dennis Kohl, 300, Fred Ferree, 440, Mike Mondane, 600, Roger Menke, 60, Larry Wiecek, mile, and Ted Brubaker, 1,000.

The list of the best times recorded in the Big Ten this season finds all six at or near the top.

Mondane leads in the 600 with 1:11.2 and Kohl is second in the 300 at 0:31.4. Ferree's time of 0:49.1 is second in the 440. Menke has the second best clocking in the 60, 0:06.2. Brubaker is fourth in the 1,000 with 2:10.5 and Wiecek is fourth in the mile at 4:10.8.

"Iowa could surprise everybody in this meet," Dittrich said. Even if the Hawkeyes do pull a few surprises, it is doubtful that they can match the Spartans' performance of a year ago at Champaign, Ill.

With a virtual all-sophomore team, State was the big news of the Big Ten meet as it piled up 45 1/2 points and only lost by one-half point to Wisconsin.

The big threat from Iowa, however, is not that it might win the meet, but its capability of stealing points from the two co-favorites, MSU and Wisconsin.

Whether the Spartans or Badgers emerge victorious could depend on how well Iowa earns points in the events that are each team's strength.

From State's viewpoint, the top Hawkeyes to watch are Menke, Kohl and Al Randolph.

Dittrich would like to see both Jim Summers and Jim Garrett finish high in both the 60 and 300. Since there are only five scoring positions, the presence of Menke in the 60 could mean that one of the "jims" doesn't pick up any points.

Kohl's appearance in the 300 could have the same result. Summers leads the conference with 0:31.2, but Kohl is only two-tenths of a second back, and one-tenth ahead of Garrett's best clocking of the year.

Randolph could hurt the Spartans in one of their strongest events, the 70-yard high hurdles.

State's Gene Washington and Clint Jones have the best times in the conference this year, 0:08.5, but Randolph is tied with Bob Steele and two others with a clocking of 0:08.6.

Iowa's Mondane could cost Wisconsin points in the 600. The Badgers have the second and fourth best times in the Big Ten by Bill Heuer, 1:11.3 and Tom Erickson, 1:12.3.

Ferree probably won't edge Wisconsin's Fred Whipple in the 440 as Whipple's time is almost a second better, 0:48.2. However, he could be the man to move Badger Reggie Stalling off the scoreboard.

Stalling has the fourth best clocking at 0:49.6, but is tied with State's Das Campbell and Michigan's Bob Gerometta.

In the 1,000 and mile, Brubaker and Wiecek could take a chunk out of Wisconsin's point total.

If Wiecek can cut his time by about one second in the mile, he could cut into a probable strong Badger point total in this event.

Rickey Poole and Ken Latigolai have given Wisconsin the second and third best times in the conference this year, 4:09.8 and 4:10.0. Northwestern's Craig Boydston leads with 4:07.6.

Skaters Trip Wolves; Face Tech Here

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR--Sophomore Wayne Duffett broke a 2-2 tie with a goal midway in the third period to give Michigan State's hockey team a come-from-behind 3-2 victory over Michigan here Thursday night.

State will meet Michigan Tech at the MSU Ice Arena 8 p.m. Saturday. Tech beat Minnesota Duluth Thursday night, 9-3.

Duffett's goal, his fifth of the season, came at 8:47 of the final period, after he took a pass in front of the net from center Tom Mikkola.

Sandy McAndrew put the Spartans back in the game in the third period with a goal at 5:13, which noted the score at 2-2.

The Spartans wasted little time getting on the score board as the No. 3 line broke out of its two-week scoring slump. Sophomore Nino Cristofoli took a pass from Sandy McAndrew, five feet in front of the net, and slapped it home for his fifth goal of the season, at 2:31 of the first period.

The Wolverines came right back three minutes later and tied it up 1-1. Mel Wakabayashi, Michigan's leading scorer, got loose on a break-away and scored on a delayed shot, after taking out Spartan goalie Gaye Cooley.

Wakabayashi scored his second goal of the night on a similar play to give the Wolverines a 2-1 lead at the end of the second period.

Unbeaten Gymnasts Seek Big Ten Crown

By ROBERT YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

The Michigan State gymnasts, undefeated in eight meets, will take part in an octagonal dual contest this weekend at Bloomington in the Big Ten meet.

Competition today will center on the team and all-around titles. Preliminaries begin at 12:45 p.m. with vaulting. Floor exercise, side horse and trampoline will be run beginning at 1:30.

The evening events, horizontal bar, parallel bars and rings, will be contested beginning 7:30.

The battle for individual crowns will be held Saturday, starting at 4 p.m. The first eight men in each event, except all-around, will compete. Only Saturday's scores will count.

The Spartans, heavily favored to take the title, bring seven points into the meet, one for each conference win. Along with State, Michigan (6-1), Illinois (5-2) and Iowa (4-3) have a chance to win or tie for the crown.

At this point, the Wolverines' only chance of victory is to finish first, providing the Spartans are second or lower. If State drops below the second notch and Michigan also slips, Iowa and Illinois will have a chance to grab the honors.

Of the individual medalists, only Spartan captain Jim Curzi, '65 parallel bars champ, returns to defend his crown. Iowa dominated last season, with Glen Gailis coping side horse, high bar, still rings and all-around titles.

Floor exercise honors went to Bill Sayer of the Hawks while teammate Jeff Stein took the tumbling award. Spartan Tom Hurt won the long horse crown, while trampoline went to Michigan's Gary Erwin.

There's still a good deal of the stiff competition from last year's meet returning for another go at it, along with a flock of strong sophomores.

State's Coach George Szypula names side horse and rings as the events to watch.

"There'll be a mad scramble on rings for the title," he said. "Side horse will also be hotly contested, because all of the top men can win it."

Dave Thor and Ted Wilson will be State's all-around entries. Thor stands alone at the top of the event, having compiled an average of 54.17 in five outings. High score came against Illinois, where Dave totaled 55.70.

Thor is undefeated in floor exercise this season. Against Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan he hit for 9.4 marks, while scoring 9.2 in the Iowa meet and 9.0 in the Chicago Circle opener. The Wolverine twins, Chip and Phip Fuller, as well as State's Ron Aure, will be pushing Thor for the top spot. Hal Shaw of Illinois also has a chance of placing.

Dennis Smith is pushing Thor for the top place on the horse. Smith has clicked in the last two meets, scoring 9.2 and 9.25, the latter good for an event win. Iowa boasts strong contenders in Mark Slotten and Ken Gordon, who hit for high scores of 9.3 and 9.4, respectively, against Michigan.

Michigan's Wayne Miller is definitely highly-favored in trampoline, with a 9.55 average.

Ed Gunny, Jim Curzi, Thor and Wilson will head up the high bar competition. Curzi, Big Ten champ in '64, will be favored to regain his title, although Gunny will be right in there.

In vaulting, Hennecke may be the man to beat. He notched a 9.55 score this season against

State, and tied for second in the conference meet last year with Fred Roethlisberger at 9.35.

Thor, Aure, Ike Heller of Iowa and Chip Fuller are top contenders, along with Gunny and Hal Shaw.

Parallel bars will have Curzi favored to retain his crown. VanderVoort is a top challenger, along with Ken Williams of Michigan, provided he hits.

The Spartans' ring team of Dave Croft, Larry Goldberg, Gunny and Wilson will be facing their strongest competition in Michigan's Rich Blanton, Cliff Chivers and VanderVoort, as well as Mark Kann of Wisconsin.

MUST STOP 'M' IN BIG 10's

Matmen Won't Settle For 2nd

By ED BRILL
State News Sports Writer

Michigan State's wrestling team will be out to break Michigan's three-year stranglehold on the Big Ten mat title, as the conference meet gets under way at Champaign, Ill.

The Spartans picked up their only league championship in 1961, when they edged the Wolverines, 69-65. No one has come close to Michigan since. Last year, Michigan picked up 88 points and five individual championships to lead runner-up MSU by 50 points.

This year the conference race figures to be considerably closer. Most experts view the title as a tossup among Michigan, Minnesota and Michigan State.

Comparing dual meet results only cloud the issue of picking a favorite for the meet, which will conclude Saturday night. Michigan and Minnesota both stand at 7-1 in conference meets while State is one half game behind at 6-1.

Minnesota handed Michigan its only loss with an 18-8 decision Jan. 21. The Spartans routed Minnesota the next night, 20-8, but lost to Michigan last Saturday, 16-11.

Last year these same three teams had all the individual conference champs among them. This year six of the champs are back, but they will have a hard time defending their titles. In last Saturday's MSU-Michigan meet alone, four returning title-holders failed to win their matches.

State's chances in the meet may very well rest on the success of Coach Grady Peninger's new lineup, unveiled for the first time last week against Michigan.

"The title will depend on the luck of the draw," said Peninger. "We are sending out our best possible lineup, and whichever team gets the breaks will win."

Right now the Spartans seem to have good title shots with Don Behm at 123, Dale Anderson at 130, Dale Carr at 137, Dick Cook at 157, George Radman at 167 and Mike Bradley at 177.

Behm will have to come back strong from last week's loss by fall to Bob Fehrs, if he expects to repeat as a Big Ten champion. Last year, Behm won the 130-pound crown, and finished third in the nation at 130. He had won 15 straight matches this year.

Fehrs will be rough competition. The 123-pound Wolverine won the Big Ten crown last year and was second in the NCAA Meet at 123. This year he is 7-0 in the league, with four pins.

Also posing a threat at 123 will be Tim McCall of Indiana, 8-1 in the league, and Jim Anderson of Minnesota, 9-1 with four wins by fall.

The 130-pound crown will literally be up for grabs this year, now that Behm has left for more treacherous ground. Bob Campbell of Indiana and Roger Young of Ohio State both have suffered their only conference losses against Behm.

Dave Dozeman of Michigan is a threat with a 4-1 record, and the Spartan's Anderson has only a 12-11 loss to Dozeman to mar his record.

Dale Carr at 137 for State will be facing at least four other top contenders. Carr is 5-2-1 this year, and last week tied defending champion Billy Johansen of Michigan. Johansen, Bob Henry of Minnesota, Fred Arrati of Illinois and Mike Gluck of Wisconsin will all be in the running.

At 147 Cal Jenkins of Michigan; Ron Ankemy of Minnesota, and Russ Schneider of Northwestern will fight it out for the title. Dave Campbell will be the Spartan entrant here, replacing Carr in Peninger's new line-up.

Dick Cook at 157 appears to be the favorite, but will have to repeat his victories over two defending Big Ten champs, Jim Kammen of Michigan and Lee Gross of Minnesota. Cook is 7-0 this season, including a split of one-point decisions with Kammen and a three point shutout of Gross.

Both Gross and Kammen have been injured this season, and Rich Ruben of Northwestern has established himself as a dark horse entry with an 8-1 record.

George Radman, the Spartan's 167 pounder, will have to reverse his fate against Dave Reinbolt of Ohio State, if he expects to pick up a title. Reinbolt pinned Radman the last time they met. Radman, 7-2 on the season, will also get competition from John Klein of Minnesota and Stu Marshall of Northwestern.

Mike Bradley's main competition at 177 appears to be two men he has already defeated. Bradley gave Bob Ramstad of Minnesota his only conference loss, and last week knocked off Wayne Wentz of Michigan, 13-9.

The heavyweight division will likely be a showdown between defending champion Jeff Richardson of State and unbeaten sophomore Dave Porter of Michigan. Porter beat Richardson 7-0 last week, and appears to be the favorite to wrest away Richardson's crown.

ranging from disappointment to strong objection to the commission's decision.

One of the sharpest critics of the decision was Milton Rokeach, professor of psychology.

"The commission has failed to take action that could bring results," Rokeach said. "It is going to hope that education will do it all. But the best form of education comes about through prior legislation."

He said that one of the most powerful ways of changing social attitudes is to change social norms, and that one of the best ways to change social norms is by the official sanctions of governing bodies at the local, state and national levels.

Rokeach said he based his opinion on what has been happening in the South as a result of legal measures.

"The argument that adopting an ordinance might polarize the community is irrelevant when pitted against the question of human rights and is not a justifiable argument against the ordinance," he said.

SENIORS OF THE WEEK

Athlete, Debater, Writer Honored

By LAUREL PRATT
State News Staff Writer

John Biedenbach, Andy Kramer and Margie Marsh have been named seniors of the week.

Biedenbach, of Indianapolis, is a physical education major recently drafted by the San Francisco Giants and Washington Senators in the first baseball draft ever held.

"I love sports of all kinds," Biedenbach said. "I've been able to see a lot of the country and had a lot of wonderful times."

"We're going to have a good team this year," he added. "We have excellent players who are willing to work."

"And all you fans out there come to the games!" he said with a grin.

In Biedenbach's estimation, MSU Baseball Coach Dan Litwhiler is "one of the best—maybe the best."

How do you make it to the top and stay there? John has a quotation on his locker door from a St. Louis basketball star: "If you don't practice, there's always some boy who will—and when you meet, he'll beat you." So he practices—"even when it hurts."

Biedenbach is a member of the Varsity Club, Excalibur and Sparta honoraries, and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He has earned two letters in baseball, and has been named to the All-District Four, All-Big Ten and All-American teams (1965). He was named Most Valuable Player last year.

Andy Kramer, of Detroit, was chosen senior of the week for leadership. He is president of Inter-Fraternity Council and represents IFC on ASMSU Student Board.

"People have misconceptions about fraternities and sororities," he said. "Greeks are unfairly stereotyped as conformists."

"The fraternities try to give the individual the chance to become a well-rounded person; they provide more group interaction than you'd normally find on a campus this size. The fraternities and sororities give individuals the chance to express themselves in smaller groups."

The Greek houses, realizing the misunderstanding between themselves and residence halls, are trying to establish more cooperation, he said.

"Student Board gives individuals a chance to voice their opinions," he said. "It has faults—but these will be corrected. The University is taking the right step in involving students on faculty committees."

Kramer, a political science major who hopes to go into politics eventually, was a member of the debate team for two and a half years and was named outstanding novice debater. He is a member of the forensic club, and Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Sigma Alpha, Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha, and Phi Eta Sigma honoraries, as well as Blue Key and Excalibur. He received an Outstanding Junior award and was named one of the Top 20 at MSU.

Margie Marsh, of Northbrook, Ill., is the top student in the School of Journalism with a 3.5 average. She ranks ninth in the College of Communication Arts and will be graduated this term.

After graduation, Miss Marsh will work as religion writer for the Charlotte, N.C., News.

She chose journalism after two years as a no-preference student "because I felt at home behind a typewriter."

"Journalism has significance," she said. And the journalism school takes a personal interest in its students, she added. Working on the State News was the greatest eight weeks of my life," Miss Marsh said. "It is good to get into an activity that relates to your field of interest."

She resigned from her job as ASMSU reporter in November. Miss Marsh is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, of which she was treasurer for two years, Theta Sigma Phi women's professional journalism fraternity, Kappa Tau Alpha journalism honorary, Alpha Lambda Delta and Tower Guard. She was vice president in charge of reading to the blind for Tower Guard 1963-64.

McNamara

D-Pa., "is very calm, very effective, but very unconvincing."

And the committee chairman, Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he was not satisfied. "I find it very difficult to understand some of their concepts," Fulbright said. "I found it difficult to get a satisfactory answer as to what they visualize as the outcome of this struggle."

"I expect the hawks are still flapping and the doves are still cooing," said Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.

McNamara said he does not think the United States faces the prospect of war with Red China—a major worry voiced by Senate critics of President Johnson's position.

The defense secretary said the United States has sought in both military and diplomatic arenas to make clear "that there is no justification" for Red Chinese intervention in the Vietnamese war.

But McNamara added that in view of Red China's militant moves in the past: "It would be irresponsible for me to say that we run no risk of war with China arising from our efforts to defend South Viet Nam from aggression."

Another constant Senate question: What are the boundaries of the U.S. commitment in Viet Nam?

"I do not believe," said McNamara, "that we are facing in South Viet Nam an unlimited, open-ended commitment to a major land war in Asia if we keep our objectives limited and persistently make clear to all concerned... that our objectives are limited."

Christian Scientists Observe 100th Year

The Church of Christ, Scientist, celebrates its 100th anniversary this year with the founding of a new 15-acre church center and a world tour for the editor of The Christian Science Monitor.

As part of a year-long observance of the anniversary, the Christian Science Monitor's editor-in-chief, Erwin D. Canham, started Tuesday on a speaking tour in Sydney, Australia.

Land clearance will begin June 6 for construction of an expanded 15-acre church center, the same day church members gather for their annual meeting.

The church will put out a book in April explaining the differences between spiritual healing and current methods of psychotherapy and psychosomatic medicine, as well as chronicling the development of spiritual healing.

Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science movement, began her work in 1866. In that year her severe head injury was healed while she was reading Matthew's gospel.

This experience convinced her that Christianity is scientific in the deepest spiritual sense and applies to every aspect of human experience.

Later, she wrote the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and founded a church which now includes 3,300 branches in more than 50 countries.

Throughout its century of development, Christian Science remained a lay movement of people dedicated to restoring spiritual healing to Christianity. At first, Mrs. Eddy and the early students of Christian Science had hope that their teachings would be readily accepted into the established Christian churches of which most of them were members.

But as controversy continued to surround the young movement, they voted in 1879 to organize a church of their own. Since Christian Science is a movement composed entirely of laymen, the Bible and Mary Baker Eddy's "Science and Health" fill the function of "pastor."

A basic premise of Christian Science is that the divine Principle of all real being, underlying the life and teaching of Jesus, is fundamental to existence itself.

Mrs. Eddy expressed it this way:

"We must learn that God is infinitely more than a person, or finite form, can contain; that God is a divine Whole, an All, an all-pervading intelligence and Love, a divine, infinite Principle; and that Christianity is a divine Science."

Christian Scientists consider spiritual healing a natural outcome when the individual begins to commit himself to working out his life from the standpoint of this premise.

Officials of the church look upon the centennial observances as preparation for the "second century" of Christian Science. They feel that the concepts of the religion, considered so revolutionary during its first 100 years, will be more widely and readily understood in the years ahead.

Today the church has a healing ministry carried on by more than 7,000 full-time public Christian Science practitioners.

In local churches the Christian Scientists hold Sunday services composed of readings from the Bible and from "Science and Health." They observe no formal ceremonies for the sacraments, but the spiritual significance of baptism and communion are an important element in the church's teaching.

A church manual written by Mrs. Eddy provides the general framework of the church, with a five-member board of directors in Boston to conduct the business of the Mother Church.

Within the framework of this manual, the individual branch churches hold complete local self-government. They elect their own officers, set up their own by-laws and make all major decisions by a vote of their own membership.

The branch churches maintain a network of public reading rooms and the church itself maintains the Christian Science Monitor, a daily newspaper ranked among the top newspapers in the world.

A board of lectureship delivers more than 4,500 lectures a year around the world. A radio series is broadcast over some 950 radio stations in several countries. There are Christian Science student organizations in more than 400 colleges and universities, including Michigan State.

That's how the Church of Christ, Scientist, stands on its 100th anniversary.

Scott To Address NAACP Meeting

Hugh J. Scott, professor of education, will speak at a general meeting of the Greater Lansing Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Scott's topic is "The Negro and Support of Public Education." He will also discuss the advantages of the proposed increase in millage for Lansing schools.

The open meeting will be in Lincoln Center, Lansing.

Overseas Study Group To Meet

The American Language and Education Center will hold its first briefing session on its Language Study Abroad program.

At 9:30 a.m. Saturday, in the Con-Con Room of the International Center.

Three MSU professors-in-residence will discuss the instructional programs at the Eurocenters of Cologne, Madrid and Paris. They are George W. Radimersky, Juan A. Calvo, and Louis P. Cormier.

James Miller of the College Travel Service will describe optional tours available at the end of summer term classes prior to home departure.

A representative of the MSU Student Loan Department will also be there to present the latest information regarding loans for the overseas study program.

Last year's professors-in-residence--Laszlo Borbas of the Paris Center, Mark O. Kistler of the Cologne Center, and Carlos G. Del Prado of the Madrid Center--are invited to the briefing.

Former "alumni" from the 1965 summer program are invited to attend and share their experiences with the newcomers to the program.

Other students who may wish to learn about AMLEC's language-study program are also invited to attend.

Enrollment is still possible, but participants are urged to sign up now. Information may be obtained from the AMLEC office in 58 Kellogg Center or from your language instructor.

WORKSHOPS, SPEECHES, PARTIES

Shaw Fest Spices Weekend

It's What's Happening

"Strings 'n' Things," an evening of entertainment by campus folk and pop blues groups, will be presented 9-11:30 p.m. Saturday in the West Shaw lower lounge.

Tickets, being sold in most dormitories, are 50 cents per person. Since no chairs are being provided, students are asked to bring pillows and blankets.

The program is sponsored by the dorm activities and social committees.

George Borgstrom, professor of food science, will speak on Alaskan Fisheries in 409 Natural Science at 3 p.m. Friday. Gamma Theta Upsilon is sponsoring the speech.

The International Club term party will be held 8-12 p.m. Saturday in the Union Ballroom. Admission is free.

Ex-Commie To Discuss Infiltration

Douglas Hyde, a British author and former Communist, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at St. John Catholic Student Center on "Students the World Over: The Communist Target."

At one time the news editor of The Daily Worker in London, Hyde now travels the world commenting on international affairs and advising governments on political strategy.

In speaking to student groups he stresses that Communists everywhere have concentrated particular attention upon influencing students. His presentation will describe how the Communists infiltrate, the nature of their appeal and the techniques they use to win support in the developing countries and the U.S. Hyde spends several months of each year living in the jails of Southeast Asia, working for the rehabilitation of captured Communist guerrilla leaders. This gives him a continuing, living contact with communism.

His book, "I Believed," is a world best seller with over two million copies in print.
