

Brezhnev Asks Summit To End Split

MOSCOW (UPI)—Kremlin leader Leonid Brezhnev called Tuesday for a Soviet summit meeting with Red China to heal their ideological split and present a united front of Communist giants against U.S. "aggression" in Viet Nam.

He said that American's "insolvent aggression against a socialist country" already had brought solidarity to the Communist bloc and division among its Western allies. "Ever increasing support" will be furnished to Hanoi until the United States pulls its troops out of Viet Nam, he said.

The Communist party chairman made his remarks in a five-hour speech at the opening session of the 23rd Soviet Communist Party Congress. He reviewed situations both at home and abroad and outlined an economic program for the next five years which promises to give the Russian peasant a better life than ever before. His references to Communist China were mild in comparison with recent Chinese blasts at Russia.

"The danger of blindly following Washington is becoming increasingly clear to U.S. allies," Brezhnev told the 5,000 delegates, including representatives of 86 foreign countries. "Thus a new period of contradictions and rivalries within the capitalist world is unfolding."

He said Soviet-American relations were at a low point, but could be improved if the United States would agree to Hanoi's demands that its troops be withdrawn from Viet Nam and all bases dismantled.

Brezhnev's speech, was restrained in tone and one Western observer called it "the mildest ever delivered at a Soviet party congress."

Conspicuously absent was former President Nikita Khrushchev whose rocket-rattling and violent gestures enlivened the last congress in 1961.

Le Duan, Hanoi's No. 2 man and leader of the North Vietnamese delegation, lead a rousing applause for Brezhnev's proposals for re-kindling friendship with its one-time ally, China. The Chinese were not present, having contemptuously boycotted the meeting. Diplomatic sources said they also would likely reject the offer of reconciliation.

Brezhnev's "state of the union" message was received with relief in many quarters because it lacked a single reference to Stalin.

ASMSU Primary Cancelled

The ASMSU primary scheduled for April 7 has been canceled because of the withdrawal of two candidates. The cancellation, required by ASMSU election laws, does not affect the date of the general election, which will still be April 13.

Withdrawing from the junior division slate were two Detroit sophomores, Alan Ackerman, political science major, and Robert Rosen, psychology major.

ASMSU rules state that if there are more than seven candidates entered for any office, there must be a primary to reduce the number to four. Previous to the two withdrawals, nine sophomores had petitioned for the junior seat.

There were, in addition to the nine junior candidates, four for the senior seat, and one for vice president and three for president of the Class of 1967. Since none of the four offices now has more than seven candidates, there is no further need for a primary election.

Those who will campaign beginning Monday are: for senior class president, Robert E. Weir, Whitefish Bay, Wis.; Charles Stoddard, East Lansing, and Donald E. Dennis, Southfield; for vice president, Dann J. Meehan, Battle Creek.

Also, for the senior seat, Robert A. Musmanno, Holbrook, Mass.; Thomas E. Harmon, Parma; James Carbine, Muskegon, and Jim Sink, Chicago, and for the junior seat, M. John Plodnec, Villanova, Pa.; Arthur Tung, Midland; Robert W. Niem, Northville; Louis Paul Benson, Coral Gables, Fla.; George A. Hubka, Nashville; Owen H. Orndorff, Barrington, Ill.; and Bill Lukens, Chicago.

LBJ May Recommend Anti-Inflation Tax Hike

Campus Radio Gets Board OK

The proposed student-approved all-University radio received official sanction from the Board of Trustees March 19.

Although about 49 per cent of the students living on campus participated in the February referendum, with 26 per cent favoring the radio, board approval was required before the system could be put into operation.

The board's chief concern was that of fee collection rather than the creation of the radio itself, according to John A. Fuzak, vice president for student affairs.

"The trustees wanted to be sure a majority of students living on campus were in favor of the radio and were willing to pay the extra $1 a term to finance it," Fuzak said.

He said the board's approval was "reluctant," since it was anxious to avoid raising fees.

Collection of fees will begin fall term 1966, to cover the estimated $20,000 needed to open the network, Fuzak said, although work will begin soon on the radio system.

SO SIMPLE even a child can do it. Well, maybe spring term registration wasn't really THAT easy, but Mark Regenbogen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Regenbogen of Spartan Village, is proof that anyone can get through still smiling. Photo by Don Horwitz

2 Other Controls Being Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI)--President Johnson said Tuesday he might recommend a 5 to 7 per cent increase in personal and corporation taxes this year if prices keep rising and inflation reduces the dollar's value.

It was the strongest indication Johnson has given that he is leaning toward a tax increase. But he emphasized he had made no decision yet.

Johnson told an impromptu news conference that some of his advisers do not think the recent tax bill--raising telephone and automobile excises among other things--would be enough.

If not, he said, he has three broad choices: controls on prices and wages; reduction in federal spending of $5 billion or more; or a tax increase of $5 to $10 billion.

Johnson described controls as "distasteful" and virtually ruled them out. But discussing his controversial wage-price guidelines, he said: "It is our judgment that it would be better if no business in this country raised its prices."

As for reducing federal spending, he said Congress probably would add $1 billion to his budget rather than cut out that amount. He said Congress was resisting his economy measures in the school milk and aid-to-education areas.

The President suggested that some fears expressed about the economy had stemmed from what he called an "inflation binge."

However, he said that "We'll take whatever action is needed."

The President answered questions from White House fellows--one-year interns in government jobs--during a party in the state dining room.

Johnson spoke against a background of rising calls by economists for a tax increase this year to fight inflation.

At one point, Johnson dismissed the inflation discussion as a "jag" and added: "We're going to be here doing pretty well when this inflation binge is over."

But he also said that if prices keep going up this year, he "obviously" would have to seek a tax measure.

His remarks came within hours after the Labor Dept. reported living costs rose one-half of 1 per cent in February--biggest increase for the month in 15 years--to a new peak.

Career Carny Vietniks Jailed

By LEO ZAINEA State News Staff Writer

MASON, -- Four Vietniks arrested last fall for trespassing at the MSU Career Carnival were sentenced to jail here Tuesday but say they will carry the legal fight to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The four, Howard Harrison, Fred W. Janyrn III, James J. Dukarm and Albert Halprin, after being sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Marvin J. Salmon, immediately said they would stage a hunger strike to dramatize the issue.

Harrison and Halprin were sentenced to 30 days in Ingham County Jail, while Janyrn and Dukarm received 10-day sentences.

Peter Hornbeck, who was arrested with the four on Oct. 12 pleaded guilty in Lansing Township Justice Court.

The five were arrested in the main lobby of the Union Building while distributing literature condemning U.S. policies in Viet Nam. They were carried from the Union after they had refused to leave when asked by placement Bureau Director Jack Shingleton.

All refused to post $50 bond and were taken to the Ingham County Jail to await arraignment.

Judge Salmon in Monday's action advised the protestors their free speech guarantees do not give them the right to infringe on society or its laws.

The defense attorney, Conrad Lynn, a member of the American Civil Liberties Union and a New York lawyer, says he hopes to prove the defendants' right of free speech and assembly had been denied by the arrest.

The judge heard testimony Monday from President Hannah, University Secretary Jack Breslin, and Dean of Students John A. Fuzak who were all subpoenaed by the defense.

Hannah denied defense contentions that MSU refused to permit the individuals to voice their opinion because of MSU involvement in Viet Nam training programs since 1955. He noted MSU

Bus Passes Fake-Proof

New bus passes, which bus system officials hope will prevent pass counterfeiting, will be used this term.

Henry Jolman, general foreman of the system, announced also that a new schedule is in effect. The schedule remains the same as last term's with the exception of the Brody-Circle Fee route.

Both the Brody and Circle Fee buses will run every eight minutes, which combined offer a four-minute service for the much-travelled routes.

Jolman emphasized that the new pass must be signed by the bearer, and must be shown in its entirety when boarding a bus.

Passes will be on sale this week at Brody Group manager's office, Union Building ticket office and at the following residence hall reception desks: West Shaw, North Wonders, West McDonel and West Fee. Passes can also be purchased at the MSU Bookstore and the Married Housing manager's office.

Budget Requests Cut $2 Million

MSU lowered its 1966-67 budget requests by $2 million when University representatives appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday.

The committee was told that a minimum of $48,107,660 was needed by MSU for operations from the state instead of the $50,553,344 originally requested.

In presenting MSU's budget requests to provide for an additional 3,230 students this fall, Warren M. Huff, chairman of the Board of Trustees, called Gov. Romney's recommendation of $43,030,272 "totally inadequate."

Huff said that he felt that Michigan students who attend MSU were not being treated as fairly as those who attend other Michigan schools.

"We do not want to criticize our sister schools' appropriations," he said. "But we feel that this year should be MSU's year."

Comparing legislative support per fiscal year equated student for MSU, U-M and Wayne State University, Huff pointed out to the committee that MSU has received only a $14 increase over a five-year period.

Huff showed that during the same five-year period, U-M had received a $232 increase and Wayne received a $200 increase. In a chart basing MSU's level of support on equity with U-M, Huff showed that the governor's recommendation for MSU would have been $61,272,099.

MSU's academic budget took the biggest cut in the amount requested from the Legislature. MSU lowered the number of graduate assistants needed from 177 to 100 and asked for only $200,000 for summer school instead of the original $500,000.

Sen. Garland Lane (D-Flint), chairman of the committee, asked MSU representatives whether the summer school program was promoted as much as was possible so as to utilize MSU facilities all year round.

President John Hannah said that bulletins were distributed to bulletin boards and campuses around the country.

"Our veterinary program now requires that its students attend year round," Hannah said. "We are also allowing many high school students who would not

Grads' Voting To Continue

Voting for acceptance or rejection of the Graduate Student Council's proposed constitution will be continued until sometime next week.

Approximately 2,000 of the 5,000 eligible graduate students voted during registration, said John Bowker, Golf, Ill., graduate student.

Possible locations for the voting booths will be the Union Building and Owen Hall, Bowker said.

The extended voting date will provide an opportunity for graduate students to vote who may have missed or had forgotten to vote at registration, said Bowker.

Clay Routs Chivalo; Keeps Title

TORONTO (UPI)--Cassius Clay retains his share of the world's heavy weight championship with a unanimous decision over Canadian George Chivalo Tuesday night.

Clay ran into more trouble than he expected from durable Chivalo who still has never been knocked off his feet. Chivalo never took a backward step and drew repeated cheers from the partisan crowd as he flailed away at the body while catching a steady barrage with his face.

Clay's image as a superman was tarnished when he was unable to bring down, stagger or seriously hurt the game challenger who was ranked number 10 by the World Boxing Association which does not recognize Clay as champion. Referee Jackie Silvers scored 73-65 for Clay, Judge Tony Canzano had it 74-63 and Judge Jack Johnston 74-62 on the 5 point must system.

Ecuador's Junta Quits Flees City

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)--Ecuador's three-man military junta resigned Tuesday and fled the city, apparently for exile abroad.

The pro-Communist University Students Federation (FEUE) seized the state-owned radio station in Quito shortly after midday and demanded the armed forces turn over the government to civilian control without further delay.

The students, who sparked the popular clamor which preceded the fall of the junta, called on the people for a "permanent struggle against the oligarchy."

The military leaders who received the junta's resignations ordered immediate liberation of some 62 student leaders detained in the past week, reopened a half-dozen radio stations closed down by junta order in the past week and announced full restoration of civil rights.

Eight persons were killed in week-long rioting in half a dozen cities. Many were wounded and scores arrested.

The fall of the junta was announced in a communique by heads of the armed forces who said they would turn over constitutional rule immediately to a provisional president to be selected by political party leaders.

Political sources said Clemente Yerovi Indaburo, a former cabinet member, would probably be selected.

His remarks came within hours after the Labor Dept. reported living costs rose one-half of 1 per cent in February--biggest increase for the month in 15 years--to a new peak.

Jury Selection Slows Protestor's Trial

By BOBBY SODEN State News Staff Writer

The trial of Marlene Deutsch, former MSU student, recessed Tuesday with only five jurors. After a seven-hour search, a jury still hadn't been found that was acceptable to both the defense and the prosecution.

Miss Deutsch is one of the 56 demonstrators arrested last May at the civil rights sit-down in front of City Hall. She is charged with violation of a city loitering ordinance.

Previously formed opinions regarding the case seemed to be the main reason citizens were not eligible as jurors. One by one, over 20 persons who were subpoenaed to fill the six jury seats were excused.

A few observers in the courtroom tittered as a woman jurist said she believed that "all demonstrators are exhibitionists." She was excused shortly after her statement.

Only one of the original six potential jurors remained when the court recessed at 5 p.m. At this time there were five jurors.

A majority of the potential jurors admitted that they would be used in their decision because they were against demonstrations. They were excused by Judge William F. Harmon.

A good number of the citizens, however, were dismissed as one of Miss Deutsch's lawyers, Stuart Dunning, exercised his right of peremptory challenge to any juror.

He allegedly had dismissed the maximum number of jurors when court recessed for the day. This could mean that today he will have to accept anyone for the empty seat, regardless of whether or not he finds the juror acceptable.

The court had to recess three times Tuesday to search for possible jurors.

That 'Fuss' In Delano: A Non-Existent Dirty Word

By ANDREW MOLLISON
State News Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: Andrew Mollison spent nine days during spring break in California interviewing growers, farm workers, legislators, labor leaders and student activists concerning the Delano grape pickers' strike. The six-month-old strike is the longest in California agriculture since the 1930's. This is the first article in a three-part series.

DELANO, Calif.--Much to the surprise of its inhabitants, this sun-drenched San Joaquin Valley farm town has become, like Chicago, a prime non-Southern target of "The Movement."

For "The Movement"--that flexible coalition of New Left activists, nostalgic New Dealers, "with it" churchmen, Great Society technicians and civil libertarians--decided six months ago to support what the local newspaper still refers to as "the alleged grape pickers' strike."

"You come from Michigan, do you?" asked the cab driver on the way to Delano from the Bakersfield airport. "Guess you're one of them outside agitators I been reading about."

Brushing aside the instant denial, he plunged into a 25-minute folksy analysis of the strike, which is now in its seventh month.

"Bobby Kennedy was here yesterday," he pointed out. "Him and George Murphy and Senator Williams had one of them hearings at the high school. Pretty exciting stuff for Delano."

"If we get to Delano early enough today, you'll have a chance to see the pilgrimage. Three hundred miles they're going to walk. To Sacramento. Wonder what Governor Brown thinks about that."

"Say, could I bum a cigarette? Thanks. Match? Thanks a lot. Well, as I was saying before I was so rudely interrupted by myself, there's two sides to every question." "The growers hereabouts are in a real bind. See those fields? Think the growers own them? Don't kid yourself."

Decelerating to 50 miles an hour or so, he turned around to emphasize his next point. "Every year the growers go into hock up to their ears. When the grapes are on the vines, they've got to get them picked right now..." (snap of the fingers) "Like that, or they've had it. Their whole life savings are tied up in the crop."

And the farm workers? Does their entire year's income depend on the crop also? "Oh, them too, I suppose. I don't really know any. They're mostly Mexicans and Filipinos and people like that. Stick pretty much to themselves you know."

He then digressed into a hilarious, absorbing and extremely unlikely account of what Mexican-Americans, Filipinos and Arabians do during the off-season "now that cock fights, houses of ill repute (his very words) and crap games have been outlawed."

As he drove into Delano from the south on US-99 the cab driver pointed out important landmarks.

"On the left side, over beyond the Southern Pacific tracks, that's where the Mexicans live and the Filipinos. Those sheds next to the tracks--that's where the grapes and cotton and fruit are shipped from."

Then, with a wave of his right hand, "Downtown's over that way, on the Anglo side of town. You can't see much from here, most of these places are for tourists and migrant workers, like that hotel there. Oh sure, you could stay there if you want; it's mostly Filipinos though."

"But you probably want to stay at the Stardust Motel, it's the newest place in town. Modern."

"That brick building on the corner is the Farm Labor Bureau. The state runs it. Migrant workers go there to find out who's hiring and how to get to the ranches."

"Where do they live? Oh, on the ranches mostly. They've got camps there, for free, with buildings and everything."

At the Stardust Motel, after refusing a tip, he gave a last bit of advice, "The people here are friendly. They'll talk to you all right. Just remember two things: it's pronounced Duh-LAY-no, not DEL-uh-no; and things are kind of confused right now."

"You see, all those strikes and things in the thirties passed Delano right by, and we're new at this sort of thing. Some people might even tell you that there isn't any strike."

Indeed they might, and in fact there did. "Strike" has become, as the behaviorists put it, a value-oriented word in Delano.

Martin Zaninovich, spokesman for the 35 growers involved in the dispute, proclaims a pure Jeffersonian faith in the existence and necessity of independent farmers. He sees himself and the other growers as a beleaguered yeomanry, fighting valiantly against the whims of weather, financiers and a market economy. To Martin Zaninovich, "strike" is a dirty word.

James C. Woolsey, vice president for West Coast operations of Schenley Industries, says, "None of our employees are on strike." When it is pointed out to him that the California Department of Labor has certified the existence of a labor-management dispute at a Schenley-owned ranch in the Delano area, he replies gamely, "None of our employees are on strike. Ask them."

After a great deal of verbal sparring during an interview in his San Francisco office, Woolsey did admit this:

"Some of our former employees, who quit of their own accord, are involved in the picketing outside one of our ranches."

But, he was quick to add, "Most of those pickets are professional agitators, misguided clergymen and members of that one per cent of American college students who belong to groups like the W.E.B. Du Bois Club."

William Elkins, Delano city councilman, also subscribes to the "outside agitators" theory. "If all the outsiders would just leave us alone, we could settle this for ourselves very quickly. There are only 14,000 people here. We know each other and we know how to talk to each other. We could tell when the kooks moved in."

Elkins moved to Delano from the South when he was a young man. In the words of a close friend, "He came here with a dollar and a half in his pocket and a willingness to work hard. He worked and he saved and he got that gas station. He worked long hours, built it up and just a while back turned it over to his sons. When opportunity knocked, he answered."

Elkins believes that members of minority groups in Delano have the same opportunity to help themselves that he had. "The chairman of the town planning commission and a captain on the police force are members of minority groups. People who don't like field work or field wages have an opportunity to better themselves."

Most of the stores on the other side of the tracks and a few of the stores downtown are owned by Mexicans and Filipinos, Elkins points out. The ballot box, the school system and public establishments are all fully integrated.

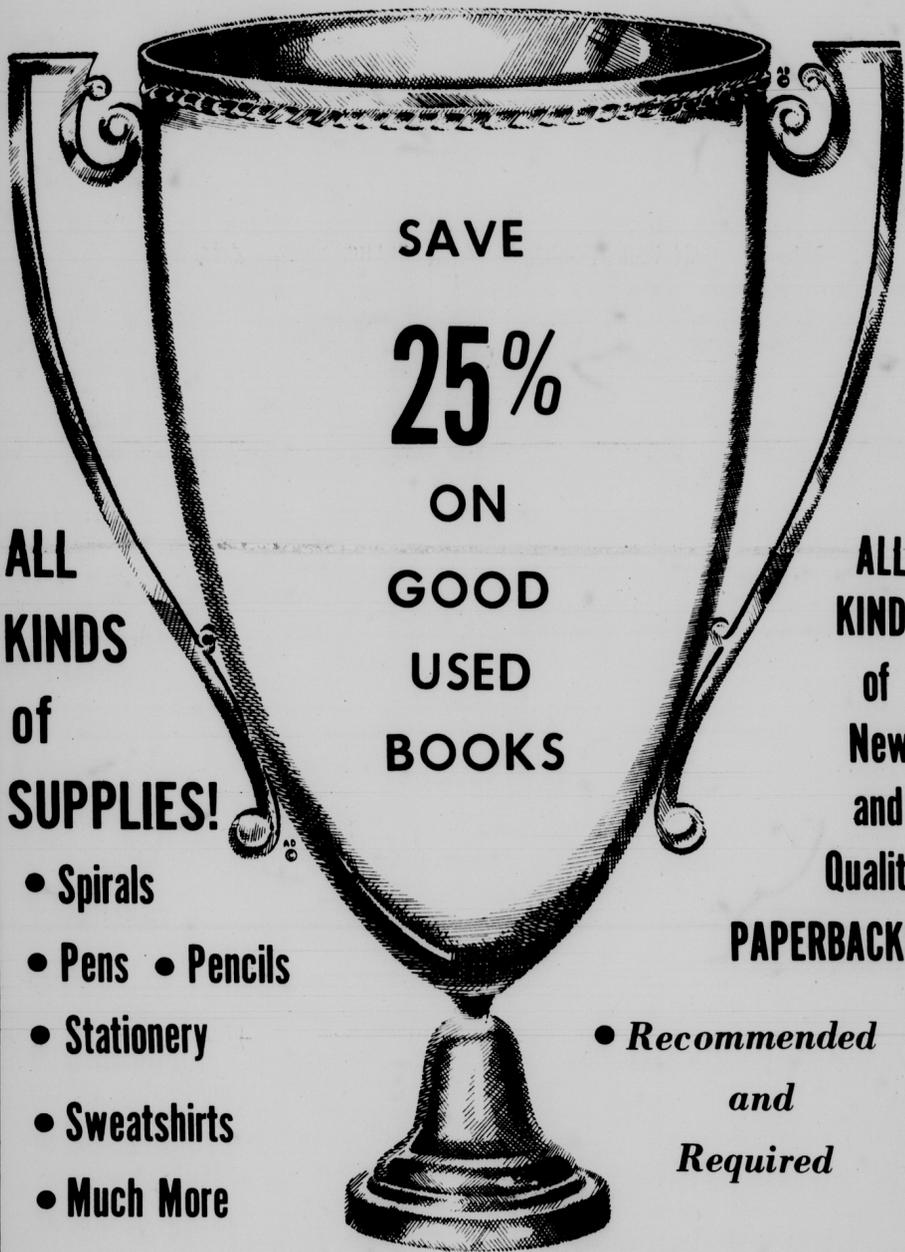

"All this fuss isn't good for the town," Elkins says. "My business isn't affected; 85 per cent of my customers are growers, and the growers had a good year. But the clothing stores and the places where the farm workers trade are hurting."

Elkins says that nobody in Delano is starving however. "My church gives out Christmas baskets to the poor every year. This past year we couldn't even find anybody to give them to. All this talk about starving farm workers is propaganda put out by the unions."

Of course, local and national supporters of the grape pickers' strike have somewhat less sanguine views on the economic and civil status of minority groups in the Delano area.

Marine Airlift Pursues Viet Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marine reinforcements were airlifted Tuesday in pursuit of a Viet Cong battalion that trapped other helicopter-borne Leathernecks in a murderous hornets' nest of fire five miles west of Quang Ngai, inflicting "moderate" casualties on the American troops.

But the reinforcements were unable to catch the Communist troops, who broke off contact and apparently snaked back to their mountain hideaway under cover of darkness after pounding the Marines with mortar, recoilless rifle and automatic weapons fire in the sharp battle Monday night.

February Cost Of Living Rises

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government reported Tuesday the steepest February rise in living costs since the Korean war. The upswing was led by soaring food prices which in the case of meat climbed off the top of Labor Department charts.

The rise of one-half of one per cent in the consumer price index measuring typical family living costs put the index at 111.6, meaning it took $11.16 last month to buy items that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Meat prices went up another 2 per cent to 19 per cent above a year ago, edging off the top of the chart at 115.7 per cent of 1957-59 prices.

Subsidy Plan Survives First Blow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's controversial rent subsidy plan for the poor survived its first assault Tuesday from House Republicans who have declared war on new Great Society spending.

A GOP attempt to eliminate $12 million earmarked for rent subsidies in a catch-all $2.5 billion supplemental money bill was defeated tentatively on a non-record vote, 183 to 153.

Republican opponents geared for a later try on a roll call vote to trim this and possibly other new programs, including $10 million for a national teacher corps, contained in the measure to provide extra funds for federal activities through July 1.

Senate Supports Auto Safety Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate gave a big boost to President Johnson's car safety campaign Tuesday by voting unanimously to authorize the first federal minimum safety standards for automobile tires.

The legislation, approved 79 to 0 and sent to the House, was amended at the last minute to require the commerce secretary to prescribe a uniform quality grading system for the benefit of tire buyers. The system would be effective in 2-1/2 years.

Parents Await Word About Kidnaped Son

SURFSIDE, Fla. (UPI)—A grieving bank director and his wife waited for a kidnaper to make his next move Tuesday, not knowing whether their 18-year-old son is dead or alive.

Plainclothesmen carrying a half dozen small cardboard boxes were seen entering the fashionable home of Aaron Goldman, but authorities refused to say whether a ransom package had been assembled.

Goldman's son, Danny, was abducted from his parents' home about dawn Monday by a stocky, middle-aged gunman who wore a baseball cap. The kidnapper told the Goldmans they had until 6 a.m. Tuesday to raise $25,000 ransom, at which time the price would double.

An unidentified deputy told a newsman "It's a good bet" the kidnaper had made contact with the parents, but Sgt. Warren Dalrymple of the Surfside Police denied this.

Authorities were checking into the possibility that revenge over a financial deal may have been the motive for the abduction. A bank with which the elder Goldman was connected failed last January. The institution has since been reorganized, but some stockholders apparently lost money in the failure.

A detective disclosed that during the time the kidnaper spent in the Goldman home before taking the boy away at gunpoint, he told the father he felt he had lost out in a financial deal with Goldman.

Goldman, who also is a contractor, and his wife, Sally, were said to be facing up to the ordeal "as well as can be expected." Keeping the tense vigil with them was Danny's pretty, dark-haired girlfriend, Sharon Lloyd, 18.

Newsman and cameramen waiting in front of the $54,000 Goldman home saw four FBI agents and sheriff's deputies leave the house hastily during the morning, one of them carrying a brown brief case, and zoom off in an unmarked car followed by two police cars.

There was also a surge of activity—and more speculation about the ransom—when the plainclothesman entered the house carrying the cardboard boxes, and again when a messenger arrived with a telegram.

Saucer Reports Spur Inquiry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford said Tuesday there might be substance to some of the current flying saucer reports. He formally demanded a congressional investigation to try to find out.

The Michigan Congressman asked for an investigation by either the House Armed Services Committee or the House Space Committee.

But Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., Chairman of the Space Committee, said flying saucers were not in his jurisdiction. He said it was up to the Armed Services Committee because that group deals with the Air Force, which has investigated all unidentified flying object (UFO) reports through the years.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., Chairman of the Armed Services Group, said he "never put much stock" in flying saucers, but added: "Of course, we'll give the Republican leader's request every consideration."

Rivers said he would discuss Ford's proposal on Thursday with senior committee members.

Ford's demand came amid a new flurry of saucer sightings—in Michigan, Ohio, and California, among other places.

Hundreds of persons, including policemen, firemen and newsmen, said they saw a UFO over Toledo Monday night. Depending on who saw it, the object was either orange, red, green, blue, or white, and either round, rectangular or cigar-shaped.

In Canada, three Toronto policemen said they saw a mysterious object Monday night southwest of Toronto International Airport. They agreed it was "round, with flashing lights that changed color from white, to red, and blue, yellow and green." They said it settled in one spot for about an hour, then disappeared.

At Northern Illinois University about 15 coeds said they saw a reddish-blue light over their dormitory for more than an hour early Tuesday.

There also were renewed sightings in Michigan.

Ford, in his letter, said "I think there may be substance to some of these reports."

contracts with Viet Nam ended about 1963.

Fuzak, MSU's faculty representative to the Big Ten Committee, failed to answer a subpoena for the Dec. 17 Justice Court trial because he was in Pasadena for the Rose Bowl.

He testified Tuesday, however, that groups are given permission to distribute literature on campus regardless of the type or nature of the group, as long as they observe University regulations concerning trespassing or causing a disturbance.

Harrison alleged that the purpose of the protestors' booth was not one of obstruction to any other exhibits but for purposes of dialogue on the alternatives to the Marine Corps as a career. The corps' booth was located next to the anti-Viet Nam booth.

Halprin, a Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party worker, and a minister in the Evangelical Catholic Community testified to police brutality on the part of Ingham County police who carted the four demonstrators away, and said one officer called him a "commie bastard." Ingham County Prosecuting Attorney Donald Reiseg, however, insisted Halprin's testimony be stricken from the record as immaterial.

The defense utilized the testimony of the appellants in addition to statements from witnesses to the protestors' distribution and subsequent arrest.

Reiseg, in his summation, stressed that the issue was a mere trespass case and not a case of free speech or political discrimination.

However, the defense attorney took an opposite stand. Lynn contended that the issue was not of mere trespassing, but rather the more important concept of freedom of expression, regardless of opinions expressed. He quoted, in his summation, excerpts from an opinion on free speech by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Lynn is now in the process of appealing the state Court of Appeals to free the four men on bond. If they are freed, Lynn said, the appeal will continue to the state appellate court, and the "real test," the state supreme Court.

The jailed demonstrators now find themselves faced with having to pay bond and future appeals, and say they don't know where the money will come from.

SAGGING HITTING, PITCHING

Batmen Unimpressive In Pre-Season Play

By LARRY WERNER
State News Sports Writer

What promised to be an outstanding baseball season for Coach Danny Litwhiler's batsmen has begun in a somewhat unimpressive fashion. Inability to combine effective pitching with consistent hitting has given the Spartans a 3-5-1 record after the first 11 games of their '65 spring training schedule.

Major disappointment at the plate has been the lackluster hitting of sluggers John Biedenbach, Steve Juday and Bob Speer. The unexpected torrid sticking of catcher Bill Steckley has not been sufficient to carry another erratic-hitting team.

State began their spring campaign with a big 3-0 victory over defending Big Ten champion Ohio State. Jim Goodrich and Dick Holmes combined their talents for a four-hit shut-out.

Hitting support was furnished by centerfielder John Frye, shortstop Steve Polisar and Steckley. Frye ignited a three-run, seventh-inning rally with a homer. Polisar and Steckley each collected a pair of hits.

In the second game of the two-game series with the Buckeyes, the Spartans were stifled by OSU's ace hurler, Steve Arlin. Arlin, 13-2 as a sophomore in '65, allowed State just six hits in picking up the 7-3 win.

Dick Kenney left the State mound with the contest deadlocked at 2-2, but the Bucks jumped on relief-pitcher Fred Devereaux for five runs, coming on two circuit clouts by the winners' Russ Nagelson.

After the split with Ohio State, the Spartans were handcuffed by Miami's Rick Jones, who gave up five hits in beating State, 6-2. Starter Jim Blight took the loss for State, and Steckley rapped out a pair of hits.

Litwhiler's crew continued their sad play in a doubleheader with Army and Miami. State's batsmen emerged with a 7-4 loss at the hands of Army and a 6-6 tie with Miami.

State blew a 4-2 lead over the West Point nine. Steckley homered. Binkowski, Biedenbach and Speer singled and Frye doubled for the losers' four tallies.

Army tagged a trio of State pitchers for a total of 14 hits. Starter Roland Walcott took the loss, with Tom Swiss and Bob Petersen coming on in relief. It took a four-run surge in the top of the seventh for the Spartans to garner a tie with Miami. The game was called on account of darkness after seven innings.

Bright spot of the twin bill was the hitting of Speer and Biedenbach, who pulled out of their slumps with three hits each. Reserve catcher John Walters started his first game of the season, against New York University, and led State to a 4-3 win. Tom Phipps started and gave up only one hit, but Devereaux picked up the win in relief. A 7-2 triumph over NYU gave State two wins in a row. Goodrich gave up three hits and Spartan lefty John Krasnan showed no sign of a sore arm which had been troubling him, by pitching near-perfect in relief. Krasnan walked the first man he faced before retiring six straight to preserve the win.

State's batsmen moved into the final week of southern play with a doubleheader loss Monday. Wake Forest took the opener, 7-3, and Florida State took the nightcap, 5-0.

SORE ARM?--Southpaw hurler for the Spartan baseball team John Krasnan appeared to have recovered from a lingering sore arm, when he hurled no-hit ball for two innings of relief work against New York University. State won this game, 7-2.

Cassius May Fight Again Before Army Inducts Him

TORONTO (P)--Contrary to general belief, Cassius Clay may be able to get in another fight before he faces his fateful showdown on the draft, the heavyweight champion's attorneys said Tuesday.

The opinion seemed to be that the 24-year-old Louisville, Ky., boxer's last shot in at least two years was going to be his 15-rounder with Canada's George Chuvalo Tuesday night.

There was a newspaper report here that Clay, if he got by Chuvalo as expected, would meet Henry Cooper, the British heavyweight king, in Toronto in May.

"That could be, but the opponent could be any of the contenders who would be available," said Arthur Grafton, attorney for Clay's Louisville sponsoring group. "No opponent, no site, no date has been determined. We've had all kinds of offers and we're going through them."

Grafton, sitting beside Edward Jacko Jr., Clay's personal attorney from New York, at the

Study Mob's Hold On Fights

CHICAGO (P)--Extent and power of mobster control in professional boxing is the target of a federal grand jury investigation starting Wednesday.

The investigation stems from circumstances surrounding the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight title bout that never was held and mobster anger at the man blamed for chasing it out of New York.

Apparent key witness of the United States attorney's office is Bernie Glickman, 51, purported booking agent for Terrell's night club act.

fight weigh-in at Maple Leaf Gardens, said Clay may have 30 to 60 days before he has to appear for his appeal from the military draft. Clay was reclassified from an exempt 1-Y status to 1-A, which makes him eligible for the military callup April 17.

On March 17, it was reported that Clay's local draft board had rejected his appeal from the draft and that he could then appeal this decision to Kentucky's Western Judicial Circuit Appeal Board.

"Actually that was not an appeal," said Jacko. "The appeal will be made to the state board. Normally it takes from 30 to 60 days before the board is able to hear the case."

Would Clay then fight possibly in May or June? "You're going too far ahead when you mention June," said Grafton. "That's more than 60 days. I would say May would be the likely month."

As for opponents, Grafton said "I see some people are criticizing the Chuvalo bout as a mismatch. Well, who can he fight? Ernie Terrell (the World Boxing Assn. champion) refused to fight Clay. Clay will fight the best possible opponents if he can get them into the ring with him."

Netters Slow In Take-Off

Michigan State's tennis team got off to a slow pre-season start, winning only one of its first three matches.

The netters opened with a 4-2 win over Houston last Tuesday, but then dropped decisions to Rice, 5-2, last Wednesday and Trinity, 8-1, Monday.

Returning lettermen Vic Dhooge and Laird Warner gave notable individual performances. Dhooge won his singles matches against Houston and Rice while Warner won against Rice.

In the Rice Invitational Tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday, three Spartans made it to the consolation matches before being eliminated.

Trackmen Stumble In NCAA Tourney

By PHIL PIERSON
State News Sports Writer

Cobo Hall in Detroit wasn't as kind to the Spartan track team this year in the NCAA indoor championships March 11-12 as the Green and White managed only three points--seven less than last year--to finish far down in the standings.

The only scorers for State were Gene Washington, fourth in the 65-yard high hurdles, and Jim Garrett, fifth in the long jump.

Washington was the defending NCAA champion when he set a new meet record in 1965 with a time of 0:07.2. He equaled this in his semifinal heat but was clocked in 0:07.4 in the finals as Oregon's Jerry Cerulla copied his title in 0:07.2.

Garrett fell from his runner-up spot in 1965 with a jump of only 23' 3/4".

Both Washington and Garrett won Big Ten championships in the conference meet the previous weekend and Coach Fran Dittrich said this was one reason they weren't as sharp in Detroit. "We had reached our goal when we won the Big Ten championship and there was a definite mental and physical letdown in the NCAA's," Dittrich said. Another factor against the Spartans was that the meet was scheduled just before the start of final exams.

"We weren't able to practice as well during the week," Dittrich said.

Bob Steele, Mike Bowers and Dick Sharkey were the only other Spartans to make the trip.

Bowers did his best high jumping of the year in the semifinals as he cleared 6'8". However, he couldn't clear this height in the finals and score any points.

Hurdler Steele was eliminated in the semifinals and Sharkey, suffering from a cold, couldn't complete his race in the two mile.

"This was one of the toughest meets I'd ever been to," Dittrich said.

Kansas won the team title with 14 points, nosing out favored Southern Cal with 13.

Bessone Proves Himself With NCAA Title

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

Twelve days have passed since Michigan State's hockey team won the National Collegiate championship at Minneapolis, but the Spartans are still on "Cloud 9" as if it happened yesterday.

And one of the happiest Spartans of all is Coach Amo Bessone, who lifted the skaters from a sixth-place regular-season finish in the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. to a 6-1 trounce over Clarkson for State's first NCAA title.

For the effort he was award-any doubts about Bessone's ability as he helped make one of the greatest rags-to-riches stories in Spartan history.

He brought the skaters around slowly as they dropped nine of their first 13 games. The Spartans appeared to be sinking even lower until finally they caught the championship scent by sweeping a series from Minnesota-Duluth. They went on to win 12 of their final 16 contests for a final season tally of 16-13.

Included in that record were victories over Michigan and defending NCAA champion Michigan Tech in the WCHA playoffs and a 2-1 win over Boston Univermissed his first shutout as Boston University scored with 23 seconds left in State's 2-1 victory.

Other Spartans named to the first team were wings Mike Coppo and Sandy McAndrew and defenseman Don Heaphy. Defenseman Bob Brawley and center Tom Mikkola were picked for second team honors.

Coppo, one of four Spartans leaving this year, scored twice in the championship victory over Clarkson and picked up the goal that gave State a 3-1 lead and broke Clarkson's back. He finished second in team scoring with 42 points on 21 goals and 21 assists.

Brawley, who had gone through the season without a goal, picked up his first in the Clarkson victory and it turned out to be the winner after Clarkson had matched Coppo's opening goal.

Heaphy and Mikkola did not score in the tourney, but were honored for their outstanding playmaking and checking.

Also scoring for State in the championship game were McAndrew, Doug Volmar and Willie Faunt. Volmar had the decisive goal in the victory over Boston University. Doug French got State's other goal, his first of the year.

Besides Coppo, the Spartans will lose seniors Matt Mulcahy, and Heaphy and junior Tom Purdo, who has finished his three-year eligibility.

MIKE COPPO

AMO BESSONE

ed the Spencer Penrose Memorial Trophy for being named "Coach of the Year" by the college coaches.

"This definitely has to be the greatest thrill in my life," said the 49-year-old Bessone, who has been hockey coach at State since 1951.

Winning the national championship was truly the high point in the former Illinois star's career, who had seldom found success in his 14 years as the Spartans' coach. Prior to the 1965-66 season, Bessone-coached Spartan squads had a 133-196-8 record.

But the NCAA trophy wiped out sity for the right to meet Clarkson in the NCAA championship game.

"It was a great team effort, and the kids deserved it," said Bessone. "They fought and scratched all the way. They made believers out of everybody."

Instrumental to the Spartans, Bessone said, were sophomore goalie Gaye Cooley, high-scoring offense and a vastly-improved defense.

Cooley was one of four Spartans who made the All-NCAA Tournament first team and was picked as the tournament's most valuable player. He have up only two goals in the tourney and just

MR. GOALIE--Gaye Cooley, State's sophomore goaltender, was selected the most valuable player in the NCAA hockey tournament won by the Spartans. He gave up only one goal in each of the Spartans' two tourney victories, lowering his goals against average to 3.1.

Grid Drills Begin

State's football team begins five weeks of spring practice next Tuesday with shortages in the defensive line and quarterbacking. "The year-after-the-Rose Bowl" situation also appears to be the major problem area.

Approximately 80 players are expected to report for workouts on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week, winding up with the Green-and-White game at Spartan Stadium on Saturday, May 7.

Eighteen lettermen will be missing from the '65 squad, including All-American quarterback Steve Juday and nearly the entire defensive line, which was the major strongpoint of last fall's championship team. Gone via graduation are 11 of the 22 top offensive and defensive players.

The post-Rose Bowl attitude is a genuine problem, according to Head Coach Duffy Daugherty. "The Rose Bowl is a strong motivating factor. We'll try to make our squad realize that the conference championship is incentive enough to play just as hard as we did last season," he said.

On the positive side for the Spartans is the fact that 24 lettermen will return, including six offensive regulars and five defensive starters. Likely team strengths are co-captains Clint Jones and George Webster, an intact backfield other than at quarterback, a sound secondary and Dick Kenney's kicking game.

Returnees also include Norm Jenkins, Dwight Lee, Joe Przybycki and Jerry West, in addition to Jones, as offensive regulars, and Jess Phillips, Bubba Smith, Charlie Thornhill and Jim Summers, in addition to Webster, from the defensive alignment.

The key men the Spartans will have to replace on the defensive forward wall are tackles Buddy Owens and Don Bierowicz, end Bob Viney and All-American middle guard Hal Lucas. Also missing are All-American line-backer Ron Goovert, front-line tackle replacement Don Weatherpoon and defensive back Don Japanga.

Also to be replaced are linemen Boris Dimitroff, Jim Proebstle and John Karpinski.

Northern Schools Hard For Negroes

By DENICE ANDERSON
State News Staff Writer

An academic medal of honor should be given to any southern Negro who graduates from a northern institution such as MSU with a 2-point average, Robert L. Green, professor of education, said recently.

Green, who is on leave from the University, returned to MSU with Martin Luther King for the fund raising drive of the Student Education Program (STEP).

Educational facilities in the South are deplorable, said Green. It is a wonder how Negro children can weather 12 years of southern style education and then come to a northern school and survive, he said.

Green has conducted research in Wilcox County, a part of the "black belt" of Alabama.

The county is typical of many southern counties, Green said. All the evils are there, social and economic.

Crowded conditions and a teacher shortage are the main problems that the southern educational system is faced with, Green said.

In one situation there were 72 students and only two teachers in a classroom built for 28. A curtain separated the two sections, but it just didn't work, Green said, so a new system of teaching developed—"team teaching," where two teachers taught the same class.

The classrooms are not only overcrowded, said Green, but they are also dilapidated. Children huddle around a pot-bellied stove for warmth because 30 per cent of a building's window panes are broken, he said.

"Library facilities are nonexistent, and after 12 years of schooling many Negro children have never been inside a library, he said.

The texts used in Negro schools were discarded by the white schools, Green reported. They are very insufficient, he said, many being 8-10 years old.

Even Negro teachers have not been trained to the extent that white teachers have been trained, said Green. In-service training is completely lacking in the "black belt" schools, he said.

Massive desegregation at the school level is one of the main answers to the Negro's plight, Green said, because less than one per cent of the total Negro population is attending white schools.

School desegregation will be slow and cautious, Green said, but steps are being taken to start the project.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) is organizing Negro parents to send their children to white schools, he said. The SCLC is also organizing an educational program that will provide capable adults with educational training.

These adults will then return to their local communities and operate small classes to provide the same training to others, Green said. In Wilcox County, 85 per cent of the Negro population can be classified as illiterate, he said.

The "plight of the poor people" is magnified by the fact that products that cost one price in the plush section of New York, cost more in Harlem, he said.

The Negroes pay more for less service, and they feel that they have no chance to change their positions because money seems to be power and they have no money, Green said.

The federal government should support a vast reading project, Green said, and a co-operative program between white colleges and high schools and Negro colleges and high schools should be formed.

The training and re-training of southern teachers should also be supported by the federal government, Green said, because many of the small communities cannot afford it.

Special financial appropriations should be made to poor states and communities, especially those engaged in desegregation, said Green.

Progress is being made in the South, Green said, because there are several Negroes running for the office of sheriff, a position never before held by a Negro.

There have already been threats to the lives of these men, Green said.

It is the federal government's responsibility to assign federal marshals to protect the lives of Negroes if they are elected, he said.

The destination of the Negro is tied up with the destiny of America, said Green. "Negroes are not returning anywhere," he said. "We will be here for a long, long time and we want life to be comfortable."

Film Is Petty, Boring

By BOB ZESCHIN
State News Reviewer

MONDO PAZZO

STATE

The managers of the Downtown Art and the State theatres probably flipped a coin to see who would show "Mondo Pazzo." The State lost. It had to show the film. "Mondo Pazzo" is nothing more than a hastily thrown-together attempt to capitalize on the success of "Mondo Cane" and "Women of the World."

The film has all the basic ingredients—sex, cruelty to animals, sex, cruelty to people and sex, all strung along with a catchy musical sound track and a sonorous voice doing the commentary.

But only a real Puritan could call "Mondo Pazzo" a dirty movie. The five or six scenes that could be called prurient (strippers, models posing for bondage photos, etc.) are tied together with such hopelessly boring footage that it becomes almost a relief to have them break the monotony.

Too much of "Mondo Pazzo" dwells on harmless trivia. There is an overlong rodeo scene, an overlong visit to a wig factory, and several overlong sequences on Italian religious festivals.

But once the film decides to get repulsive, it doesn't pull any punches. One ghastly bit shows Mexican peasants eagerly downing tortillas full of live insects. Another shows more Mexicans eating candied replicas of Judas' internal organs.

The best, or worst, (depending on your point of view), scenes come from Africa. Segments showing the ignorance, cruelty, and hopelessness of the African native are at once brutal, shocking and engrossing.

However, the director lays on the bathos too thickly with scenes of crippled children and dying birds. Nothing in this film is done subtly.

MSU Prof To Direct New Nigerian Studies

The Consortium for the Study of Nigerian Rural Development (CSNRD), headquartered here, has received a grant of $782,094 from the U.S. Agency for International Development for 10 research projects on Nigerian agriculture.

The consortium was formed last year by MSU, Kansas State University, Colorado State University, the University of Wisconsin, the U.S. departments of Agriculture and Interior, and the Research Triangle Institute.

"Nigeria is one of Africa's most important and promising nations," says Glenn L. Johnson, MSU professor of agricultural economics and director of CSNRD. "This is a unique opportunity for the participating universities to do coordinated worthwhile research, to help develop Nigerian agricultural research agencies and to improve American foreign aid assistance to Nigeria."

George K. Dike of MSU is deputy director of CSNRD. He is currently in Nigeria as temporary field director for the research.

A pair of research projects on public and private investment in agriculture will be conducted by MSU in conjunction with two Nigerian agencies--The Economic Development Institute of the University of Nigeria and the Nigerian Institute of Social and Economic Research at the University of Ibadan.

The CSNRD research is a continuation of long-standing ties between MSU and the West African nation. MSU has been assisting in the development of the University of Nigeria since 1960. Johnson previously served as director of the Economic Development Institute of the University of Nigeria.

Other studies being undertaken by CSNRD are in marketing, livestock production, cultural restrictions on development, agricultural credit and evaluation of foreign aid programs.

The overall research program is being executed cooperatively by the members of the CSNRD group, Nigerian research agencies and the Nigerian government.

$4 Million In Gifts, Grants Accepted

Gifts and grants totaling $3,975,546.61 were accepted March 17 by the Board of Trustees.

The largest grant, for $1,078,343, came from the Atomic Energy Commission for support of research, plus graduate and post-doctoral training, in the MSU-AEC Plant Research Laboratory.

The laboratory, directed by Anton Lang, will move in a few weeks from temporary headquarters in the Biochemistry Building to a new $2.6 million building.

A $782,094 grant from the U.S. Agency for International Development will support 10 research projects on Nigerian agriculture by the Consortium for the Study of Nigerian Rural Development. The consortium is headquartered at MSU and also includes Kansas State University, Colorado State University, the University of Wisconsin, the U.S. departments of Agriculture and Interior and the Research Triangle Institute.

The board accepted ultrasonic flaw plotting equipment valued at $500,000 from the U.S. Army Tank Automotive Center in Warren, Mich. The equipment will be adapted for use in nuclear physics research at MSU's Cyclotron Laboratory by Albert A. Schulke, chief engineer in physics and astronomy.

Gifts by alumni and friends totaling $259,356.32 to the MSU Development Fund were also accepted. The figure is part of the $754,274.89 contributed to the Development Fund during 1965.

A previously announced grant of $160,800 from the Commonwealth Fund of New York City will be used to measure and evaluate the effectiveness of curricular innovations in MSU's College of Human Medicine. The college will admit its first students this fall.

The Office of Civil Defense has granted $125,000 to support continuing research on public communication of civil defense messages. The study is directed by David K. Berlo, professor and chairman of communication.

A grant of $99,000 from the National Institutes of Health will be used to finance leukemia research directed by Gabel H. Conner in the Dept. of Veterinary Surgery and Medicine.

A study of the marketing of staple foods in Nigeria is underway by Anita McMillan, assistant professor of agricultural economics. The work is supported by an $80,608 grant from the Stanford Research Institute through funds from the Agency for International Development. Mrs. McMillan is in Africa for two years to conduct the research.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation granted $185,000 to Oakland University for operation of an alumni continuing education program. G.A. Woditsch, in continuing education, will direct the program.

The board also accepted $74,249.21 for scholarships, including $48,076.60 for Oakland University, proceeds from the Meadow Brook Ball.

Romance Languages Chairman Selected

Charles Blend has been appointed professor and chairman of the Department of Romance Languages. The appointment, effective June 1, was approved March 17 by the Board of Trustees.

Blend joins MSU from the University of North Carolina where he is professor and head of the Department of Romance Languages. He holds the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State University and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Before joining the faculty at the University of North Carolina, Blend was an instructor and assistant professor at Ohio State from 1953 to 1961.

Under a Fulbright scholarship, he studied in France in 1949-50. Blend returned to France in 1956 and 1961. The former was on a research grant from the American Philosophical Society and the latter on a grant from American Council of Learned Societies.

Author of the book "Andre

CHARLES BLEND

Malraux, Tragic Humanist," Blend is a member of the Modern Language Assn. and the American Assn. of Teachers of French.

Agricultural Specialist Shortage Developing

Thousands of talented rural youth are "counseled out" of agriculture each year, the coordinator of student programs in the College of Agriculture said recently.

Norman A. Brown said that an alarming percentage of the nation's agricultural exodus is composed of rural youth.

"Young people who enjoy rural life should get the facts about careers in agriculture before deciding on their future," he said.

"Prospective agricultural employers report a shortage of adequately trained people. There is such a shortage of agricultural graduates that there are from three to 13 job opportunities waiting for the graduate," he said.

The Placement Bureau reports that the average starting salary received by the College of Agriculture bachelor degree graduates in 1965 was in excess of $7,000.

Brown said that agricultural occupations can be classified into three areas: agri-business, the manufacturing, selling, transportation and distribution of agricultural products; agricultural public service, jobs that are available in government agencies, private businesses and education; and conservation and natural resources, jobs for those who enjoy being in the outdoors.

"Many positions will furnish some type of training for a specialty, but it is mainly obtained at a college or university," Brown stated.

MSU offers agricultural "short courses" in a variety of areas. The programs are two years in length and the demand for graduates is high.

MSU also offers a four-year program with 24 different agriculture majors.

For students who know only that they want to work in agriculture, there is a special non-preference course which allows additional time to select a major.

Special Writing Course Offered

Doctoral candidates are being offered a special writing course by the English Dept. this term.

The course, directed by Herman F. Struck, associate professor of English, consists of six two-hour evening sessions and individual conferences. Group sessions will meet 7-9 p.m. Thursdays, beginning April 14. Applicants must send 200-sentence samples of their writing with their applications. Application forms and descriptions of the course are available at upper school department offices and 9 Morrill Hall.

Applications and writing samples must be in the English Dept. office, 201 Morrill Hall, by April 11. Further information may be obtained by calling 355-9656.

MGT 302 Moved

Management 302, section 901, originally scheduled to meet in 402 Computer Center, will now meet in 100 Vet Clinic.

Draft Test Applications Available

Application cards for the Selective Service System's College Qualification Test are now available.

They may be picked up in all men's residence halls, the Off-Campus Housing Office in 162 Student Services and at the Counseling Center Testing Office, 207 Student Services.

The registration deadline for the applications is April 23, and all students will be notified through the State News where to pick up cards on campus for their testing locations.

The test scores of all the eligible registrants who wish to take the test will provide the local draft boards with evidence of the student's aptitude for continued college work.

The test, prepared and administered by the Science Research Associates, will be Saturday, May 14; Saturday, May 21; or Friday, June 3, at the examination center of the student's choice.

To be eligible, the student must be a Selective Service registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a college student, and must not have previously taken the test.

Detailed information concerning application procedures is in the bulletin of information obtained with the application card. Students will not be permitted to take the test unless they have both the ticket of admission and the test center address card.

Each student will be fingerprinted when he reports for the test to avoid the possibility that any unauthorized persons might take the test.

The examination, which is scored by the Selective Service Testing Section, is based only on the number of questions answered correctly.

Students who give or receive assistance during the progress of the test will be dismissed from the examination and their local draft boards will be notified.

The test will consist of mathematical problems designed to test ability to comprehend and use numerical relationships, and the ability to read with understanding and to solve new problems by using general knowledge.

MSU To Build 24-Hr. Post Office

MSU will have the nation's first experimental on-campus self-service post office within 60 days to be on the northeast corner of Shaw and Farm Lanes.

The post office will be constructed jointly by MSU and the U.S. postal department.

It will be built free-of-charge to the Post Office Department's specifications by the University.

The Post Office Dept. will provide, install, service and maintain the vending and associated postal equipment.

If successful, the self-service post office, which will be unattended and open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, will be a forerunner of others for colleges and urban developments, according to Deputy Postmaster General Frederick C. Belen.

The post office has been designed especially to fit the postal needs in densely-populated situations where pedestrian traffic predominates, he said. The postal unit will be designed in "kiosk" fashion, having six sides, an overhanging canopy and a pointed steeple-like roof. The roof design is to harmonize with existing MSU architecture.

Installed in the post office will be stamp machines and a currency/coin changer. Complete basic postal information will be available and a direct-line telephone to the nearest post office.

General services, such as supplying money orders and package insurance, will not be available in the new post office. This type of service must be obtained through the regular post offices, said A. Ray Krider, East Lansing's postmaster.

Also included in the new post office will be an automatic re-weight parcel post scales. A depository will accept parcels up to 19 x 23 inches.

'Fast Time' Switch Nearly Automatic

WASHINGTON (UPI)--House-Senate conferees agreed Tuesday on a bill to put the nation on Summer Daylight Saving Time automatically starting next year.

After a brief meeting, the conferees accepted a "fast time" bill previously passed by the House and eliminated a weakening amendment put in by the Senate.

For this year, the bill would require any state or locality going on daylight time to make the time switch on the last Sunday in April and continue until the last Sunday in October.

Starting next year, the bill would establish automatic daylight saving time throughout the nation from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October, except there would be this escape hatch: a state legislature could vote to keep the state on standard time.

Both Guns And Butter Needed, Grads Told

The U.S. must find without delay means of financing its defense commitment in Viet Nam without curtailing support of vital domestic needs, U.S. Rep. Martha W. Griffiths told winter term graduates.

The veteran Michigan congresswoman, who chairs the subcommittee on fiscal policy of the Joint Economic Committee, proposed temporary suspension of the investment credit tax, consideration of temporary income taxes and credit restraints as methods of "slowing down the economy" with the "least permanent damage to the future."

"We cannot afford not to have both guns and butter," she told the some 1,100 graduates at winter term commencement exercises.

"Whether it is because of Viet Nam, the tax cuts in the past two years, the national expenditure program, or a combination of all of these factors and some others," she said, "the most debated question in Washington today is the problem of inflation."

In view of the rising costs in Viet Nam, she noted, "there are some who feel that the domestic programs should be curtailed."

But Rep. Griffiths pointed out that President Johnson has said that "Viet Nam, or for that matter the defense establishment, will not be paid for by the poor."

"Defense should not be paid for by the young," she added. "It cannot be paid for by the aged. In addition, the programs of land reclamation, soil conservation, and water and air purification are too essential to this and all succeeding generations to be cast aside."

"Even the moonshot cannot be downgraded," she said. "Russia is shooting for Mars."

Rep. Griffiths reported that this week the subcommittee she chairs will begin consideration of the nation's fiscal policy.

"In my judgement," she observed, "whether you have peace or continued problems in Viet Nam, at least some can anticipate yet this year a tax decrease or increase."

Rep. Griffiths received an honorary doctor of laws degree at the ceremony.

'U' Budget

Lane said that he would like to see more promotion for summer school being used so that the many students who came to him looking for jobs in the summer would be able to attend school instead.

"I couldn't agree with you more," Huff said. "We will try to put more effort into our programs for getting students to attend."

Huff said that although MSU had been criticized by the committee in the past for having so many out of state students, only 17 per cent of their present enrollment was out of state students.

"We have raised our admission standards and tuition for out of state students," Huff said. "Our enrollments continue to grow and are getting to an unmanageable point for us."

Huff said that the real problem at MSU was not only in numbers but in mix.
