MAJOR POWER PLAY IN RED CHINA

Allies See Flight Ban As Threat

PARIS (UPI)—Allied officials charged Thursday the French move to control NATO military flights over France was an apparent effort to gain bargaining strength in forthcoming show-down negotiations.

At the same time the French government moved ahead with plans to develop an independent nuclear striking force designed to make the nation self-sufficient militarily.

It issued orders placing all public services in eight small towns in central and eastern France under the control of the state. The towns in question are the future sites of underground silos to hold some 30 guided missiles.

While western governments withheld immediate comment over President Charles DeGaulle's new order concerning military flights over French territory, allied officials here viewed it initially as a bargaining tactic.

They said DeGaulle's aim apparently is to block any stalling tactics by other NATO countries and to force them into talks about the removal of U.S. and Canadian bases from French territory once France pulls out of the Atlantic alliance July 1.

DeGaulle informed the United States and other NATO countries that their rights to carry out military flights over French territory can be cancelled on one month's notice, effective June 1. Hitherto such air rights were granted on a yearly basis.

Allied officials said it still is not clear whether NATO member countries will have to make a new application to France each month or whether the authorizations will be granted automatically.

Suharto Says Door Open To Peace Bid

JAKARTA (UPI)—Military strongman Lt. Gen. Suharto declared Thursday that Indonesia was leaving the door open to a peaceful settlement of its undeclared war against neighboring Malaysia.

Preliminary peace talks between Indonesia's Foreign Minister Adam Malik and Malaysia's Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak were expected to be held soon, possibly in Bangkok, according to informed sources in Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital.

In an interview carried by the official news agency Antara, Suharto said he favored peace based on the principle of non-violent means to resolve differences.

President Sukarno launched a "crush Malaysia" guerrilla war when Malaya, Singapore and the North Borneo Territories of Sabah and Sarawak joined to form the Malaysian Federation, viewed by him as a neo-colonial threat.

IFC Suspends Quick Active Plan

Inter Fraternity Council (IFC) suspended an amendment to its constitution which would have enabled a student to pledge and go active the same term.

IFC passed the amendment two weeks ago and suspended it at its meeting Wednesday night to allow time for study by a committee before its permanent adoption, said Larry Owen, IFC president.

Fraternity compliance to the suspended amendment would have been voluntary, and would have enabled a student to pledge a fraternity, and go active in the house the eighth week of the same term.

"The amendment was designed to make the house more cognizant of a student's academic potential," Owen said.

According to Owen, a fraternity would be less likely to pledge a student with a grade point close to the minimum 2.2 all-University grade point, because the house would be less sure the student would be able to maintain the minimum grade point as an active.

Under the present system, the fraternity can see how a student will perform academically when he is a pledge, which indicates how he will perform when he becomes an active, Owen said.

Under the amendment, a house would have to be sure a student would keep his grades up after he becomes active if the house is at all concerned with the academic performance of its members, Owen said.

Owen said the amendment also would lend financial stability to the house because the fraternity would know exactly how many new members would be moving into the house by the beginning of spring term.

This would eliminate the possibility of a fraternity accepting less pledges than vacancies expected in the house, which is sometimes the case in small fraternities, Owen said.

The amendment, if re-adopted by IFC, would begin a trend away from hell week and fraternity hazing, Owen said.

Fraternities currently have hell week registration week following the pledge term. The amendment, if followed, would force fraternities to have hell week in the middle of the term, Owen said.

Council Deadline

The deadline for petitioning for the 1967 Senior Council is 5 p.m. today. All interested students should come to 334 Student Services Building before that time.

President Launches Crime War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson launched the government Thursday on a long-term drive to wipe out organized crime. He called it "guerrilla war against society."

Johnson recognized that the job would not be easy. "There will be no instant victory," he said, but added that an alliance of federal, state and local police forces can lick the underworld.

The President made the remarks after a White House meeting to discuss the administration's redoubled anti-crime campaign. Present were officials who will lead the drive, including Atty. Gen. Nicholas D. Katzenbach and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Johnson said he wanted Katzenbach to be the focal point for the attack. He was given the responsibility of rallying all the government agencies concerned with crime, including the FBI, the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service.

In his statement, Johnson said earlier wars on the underworld had shown results. "Federal prosecutions in organized crime have risen from 17 in 1960 to 491 last year," he said.

But the President said the nation must be realistic about the nature of organized crime. It cannot be uprooted by any short term ethics, he said, adding that it must be smothered completely.

"As we apply pressure in one area, such as gambling, racketeers shift to another, such as infiltrating legitimate business," Johnson said. He said this makes the job tougher, but the campaign against racketeering must "not only be continued, it must be accelerated."

Katzenbach conceded that the government was "not close" to putting the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate out of business, but he said "we are hurting them."

Britain Says N. Viets Determined To Win

LONDON (UPI)—Britain has informed the United States that North Viet Nam actually feels it can win the war in the South and remains uninterested in peace talks, it was learned Thursday.

The British view emerged after talks between Prime Minister Harold Wilson and special U.S. envoy W. Averell Harriman, who stopped off in London enroute to Geneva.

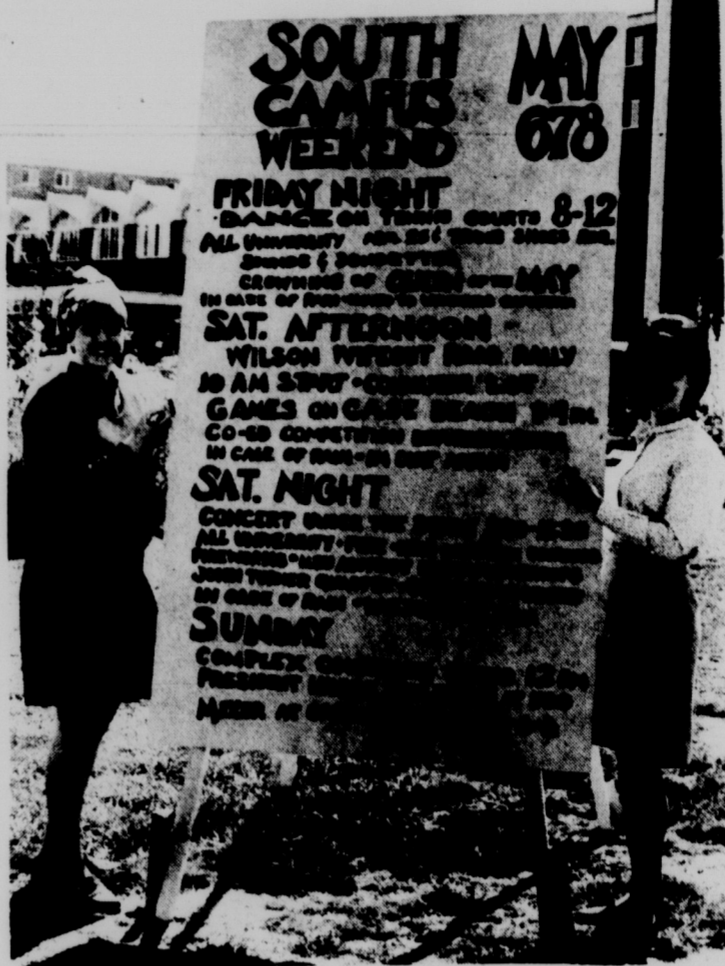

Harriman was told that Hanoi still believes it can win the war but Britain would continue to watch for opportunities to promote peace moves. Britain is co-chairman with Russia of the Geneva conference which settled the Indo-China War.

The Wilson-Harriman talks coincided with a statement by Lord Wailston Wednesday in the House of Lords that he saw no hope of an early settlement in Viet Nam.

(In Canberra, Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt said Thursday he was "confident the Viet Cong cannot win." He reported on his recent trip to South Viet Nam, declaring "the military position is now secured. The Viet Cong has suffered heavy losses and their casualties have been increasing.")

Neither Moscow, Peking nor Hanoi have reacted to any of Britain's approaches for a Viet Nam peace conference but the London government was again expected to raise the issue with Russia later this year.

No details of the Wilson-Harriman talks were released but it was known the Viet Nam war was the main topic discussed. Harriman in Geneva will meet with International Red Cross officials hoping to arrange better treatment and protection for U.S. prisoners of the Viet Nam war.

Policy Fight Splits Party Intellectuals

Result Could Affect Viet Nam Position

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China admitted Thursday the government is involved in a power struggle over its domestic and foreign policy, the outcome of which could affect Peking's position on the Viet Nam war.

An editorial in the Liberation Army Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Armed Forces, hinted at possible new purges. It said the power struggle was occurring among intellectuals and within the Communist Party itself.

The paper said a new group of "scholars, specialists and professors" had emerged which "opposes the party and socialism, dons all sorts of cloaks, makes grand gestures and deliberately turns simple things into mysteries."

Disclosure of the new wave of debate in Red China came two days after the foreign ministry in Peking denounced reports that Party Chairman Mao Tze-Tung, 72, was gravely ill. Mao has not been seen in public since last November.

The Liberation Daily editorial, broadcast by the New China News Agency, declared the dissidents in Peking had launched "offensives" against Red China's present policies and were "in tune with the international anti-China chorus raised by the imperialists, modern revisionists and the reactionaries of all countries."

This is Red Chinese vernacular for people, Communist or otherwise, who advocate peaceful coexistence in general and a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war in particular because of the danger that the Southeast Asia situation could erupt into nuclear war.

It was not openly stated but the editorial appeared to have a bearing on Communist China's position in Viet Nam, issues of economic and social policy and intellectual freedom.

The paper said the anti-government group was working "in coordination with the anti-party activities of the right and opportunist elements within the (Communist) party" itself.

It said the new group was "waving Red flags to oppose the Red flag, and donning the cloak of Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tze-Tung's thinking to oppose Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tze-Tung's thinking."

The daily seemed to be saying that both sides in the dispute were quoting Marx, Lenin and Mao to support their respective positions. It tended to confirm the rumors that Mao either is dead or incapacitated since if he were able to speak on the subject there would be no question of how to interpret his writings.

The army publication added it feared capitalism would be restored "either by violent means or by peaceful evolution or by a combination of both."

UFO Sighted Tuesday By Case Men

A white light with green and red lights flashing and spinning around it appeared Tuesday at a 40 degree angle above the corner of North Case Hall. The UFO appeared at midnight and was seen by 15 Case men moving in a seeming straight line away from the residence hall until approximately 1 o'clock, said Tom Snyder, Decatur senior.

Snyder called the airport to see if there were any planes in the immediate area. The last UFO cited on South Campus turned out to be a North Central plane, he said.

The Capitol City Airport receives several calls each bright night, Larry Lyman, tower guard, said. Under certain atmospheric conditions certain stars tend to flicker and appear to change color, he said.

Usually when people think they see things from other planets it is an airplane or a helicopter. Lately the University of Minnesota has been sending up weather balloons which float through the atmosphere gathering data, Lyman said. This is also a favorite object reported, he added.

Justice Dept. Files Suit Against Selma Election

SELMA, Ala. (UPI)—Six boxes of predominantly Negro votes that could have beaten segregationist Sheriff Jim Clark were thrown out by local officials Thursday spurring the Justice Department to file suit to have Wilson Baker declared the primary winner.

Clark had protested that he found three of the six boxes unguarded before votes were counted in Tuesday's Democratic primary. They were voided by the Dallas County Democratic Executive Committee.

The Justice Department immediately filed suit in federal court in Mobile, Ala. Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. John Doar was in Selma awaiting the committee's decision and federal observers were present when the votes were counted.

Without the votes, Baker, Selma's former public safety director, would have won a plurality but not a majority. That would have put him in a runoff against Clark, who beat Baker in a runoff four years ago after trailing in the primary.

Alstin Keith, head of the executive committee, charged the Justice Department would "do anything to stomp Jim Clark's guts."

"It's a personal vendetta between the Justice Department and Jim Clark," Keith said.

During Selma's racial turmoil last year Clark, in the eyes of Negroes, became the symbol of resistance to their historic Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march. Baker took a more moderate stand during the demonstrations that rocked Selma.

Stock Market Takes Plunge

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market Thursday received its worst pounding since President Kennedy was assassinated on Nov. 22, 1963.

The closely watched Dow Jones Industrial average plunged 15.09 to 899.77, its sharpest loss since the day of Kennedy's death when it fell 21.16, to 893.60.

Frosh Poll Helps Policy Planning

By STEVE GATES State News Staff Writer

A survey is being conducted among freshmen to determine changes in their attitudes since they entered the University last fall.

Results of the survey being conducted by the Office of Evaluation Services will be used to evaluate University policy with in-coming freshmen, Irvin J. Lehmann, associate professor in the Evaluation Services office said.

Questions on the inventory were designed to discover the students' attitudes on a number of aspects of college life and current world situations, he said.

Lehmann said that about 60 to 70 per cent of the 86 questions on the inventory were taken from the orientation tests freshmen took last fall. The rest of the questions are concerned with current U.S. and world issues.

The results of the evaluation may not benefit the student directly, Lehmann suggested. However, the results may be used to suggest policy changes and implementations to the University, he said.

He guaranteed that the students' answers to the questionnaires would be kept confidential.

He explained that the students' names are asked only so that the correct student number may be looked up if it is recorded incorrectly on the answer sheet.

Lehmann strongly urged the students to answer the forms truthfully so that an accurate analysis could be made. He said that the form gave any student an opportunity to criticize or praise the policies of the University.

The questionnaires will be analyzed separately for on- and off-campus students. By comparison with questionnaires taken by students in previous years, Lehmann hopes to determine how college students today differ significantly from past students.

The evaluations are being requested only from freshmen because the results of a lengthy survey, beginning in 1958, indicated that the major change in students' attitudes usually occurs during the freshman year. Few major changes are observed in the other years of college, Lehmann said.

Freshmen have been requested to return the form by next Thursday.

Johnson's New Proposal On Civil Rights Reasonable

CONGRESS PASSED ONLY one civil rights bill in the first 96 years since the Emancipation, and it was ruled unconstitutional. But since 1957 it has passed four major bills and now President Johnson has proposed a new one.

Major provisions of the President's new bill include:

- stronger federal laws to ensure the rights and protection of both Negro and white civil rights workers.
- establishing detailed procedures and guarantees for jury selection in both federal and state courts to prevent racial discrimination.
- enlarging the attorney general's powers to seek desegregation of schools and public facilities.
- establishing a national policy, for the first time, against racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

THE FIRST TWO provisions are closely interwoven and it's regrettable that the federal government must step in and attempt to rectify present injustices and prevent future ones. But more than one southern state has shown an extremely casual attitude when a civil rights worker disappears or is found dead. And what is worse, when a local redneck or Klansman is arrested and brought to trial, the juries just happen to find the white defendants not guilty, regardless of the evidence.

And if anyone wonders why the federal government is projecting itself further into state affairs, he need only to remember names like Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, Michael Schwerner, James Cheney, Andrew Goodman, Lemuel Penn, Jonathan Daniels and Medgar Evers, to name a few.

BUT THE MOST noteworthy feature of the new bill is the provision which would establish a national fair housing law. In previous civil rights legislation, almost every provision applied exclusively to the south.

A national fair housing law unquestionably applies to the north as well as the south. In fact, the most glaring housing discrimination can be found in the urban ghettos of the north, not to mention the middle class suburbs where Negroes for some reason have great difficulty finding a home for sale or rent.

IF THIS PROVISION becomes law, and it will face formidable opposition in the Senate, it could mark a major step in breaking the housing barrier, which has so long taunted Negroes. But even if Congress passes such a measure its effectiveness and enforcement remain as question marks.

Each of the provisions in the President's civil rights bill is desirable and necessary, as have been the numerous provisions in previous civil rights bills.

BUT AS PRESIDENT Johnson said in his civil rights message to Congress, "No civil rights act, however historic, will be final. We would look in vain for one definitive solution to an injustice as old as the nation itself--an injustice that leaves no section of the country and no level of American life unstained."

This will probably not be the last civil rights bill, nor will it achieve all the goals it sets forth, but it could move us that much closer to equal opportunity and equal treatment under law for all Americans--both black and white.

States Cannot Shoulder Burden Of Depollution Alone

A VOCAL SEGMENT of the population constantly complains about federal aid. With the conviction of Bible-belt preachers they harp on the sins of federal aid; how it reduces the autonomy of the states, and how the federal aid "give away attitude" destroys the citizens' moral fibers. Bunk.

If the federal government didn't step in sometimes, many vital problems would receive no attention. Water pollution is a prime example.

TO DATE, the state of Michigan has not spent a penny towards helping municipalities end water pollution. Any help that towns have received in their attempts to control pollution has been through federal aid.

Though the state has helped in enforcing water pollution laws, this has not been enough. Moral support cannot clear up a polluted Red Cedar.

IF THE RED CEDAR was to be cleared up, we could only look to the federal government for help. Area municipalities certainly could not be expected to de-pollute the river with their own funds.

Those who press for less federal government aid to states should realize from this example that a state cannot or will not always take care of its own problems. Today every state has the tremendous financial responsibilities of building highways, and providing for mass education.

THOUGH STATES MUST try to provide for the welfare of their residents, the impossible cannot be expected.

Unless it greatly increased taxes, Michigan could initiate an all-out attack on pollution only at the expense of other programs. Clearly, if we are to de-pollute our rivers and yet not reduce existing highway and education expenses, federal aid must continue.

NEW COLLEGIATE ACTIVITY:

John Goldbricks Far From Home

By LEW ALPERN
Collegiate Press Service

A recent survey of college students indicates the most popular new activity among the hope of the future is not sex, nor narcotics, nor cramming themselves into phone booths. Today's college students are now channeling all their free time and effort into academic goldbricking.

"The trend is away from fulfilling responsibilities," says one University of Michigan student, "but goofing off is not enough. You have to do it without getting caught and it must be done with style."

According to the poll, on hundreds of campuses around the country, there is actually hot competition to see who can get away with doing the least by using the most credible excuses. And champion goldbricks usually enjoy a degree of respect unequalled by even cum laude graduates.

One theory credits the trend to compulsory freshmen orientation programs. According to this theory, anxious young freshmen eager to purchase college sweatshirts and explore fraternity and sorority houses boycott orientation programs and discover how easy it is to talk their way out of it. They take their new-found experience and adapt it to skipping classes, missing tests and fabricating papers.

Another theory holds that goldbricking comes from compulsory ROTC programs. "Here at Penn State everybody has to take Army or Air Force ROTC. Since everyone must do it and nobody is particularly interested in it, you try to get away with as much as possible. Eventually this attitude spreads to all other phases of your college life."

"I just couldn't understand it," says one junior from Syracuse. "I came here for a good education, but once I arrived they treated me like a traitor. I had no friends or no dates, and I couldn't buy a bid from a fraternity."

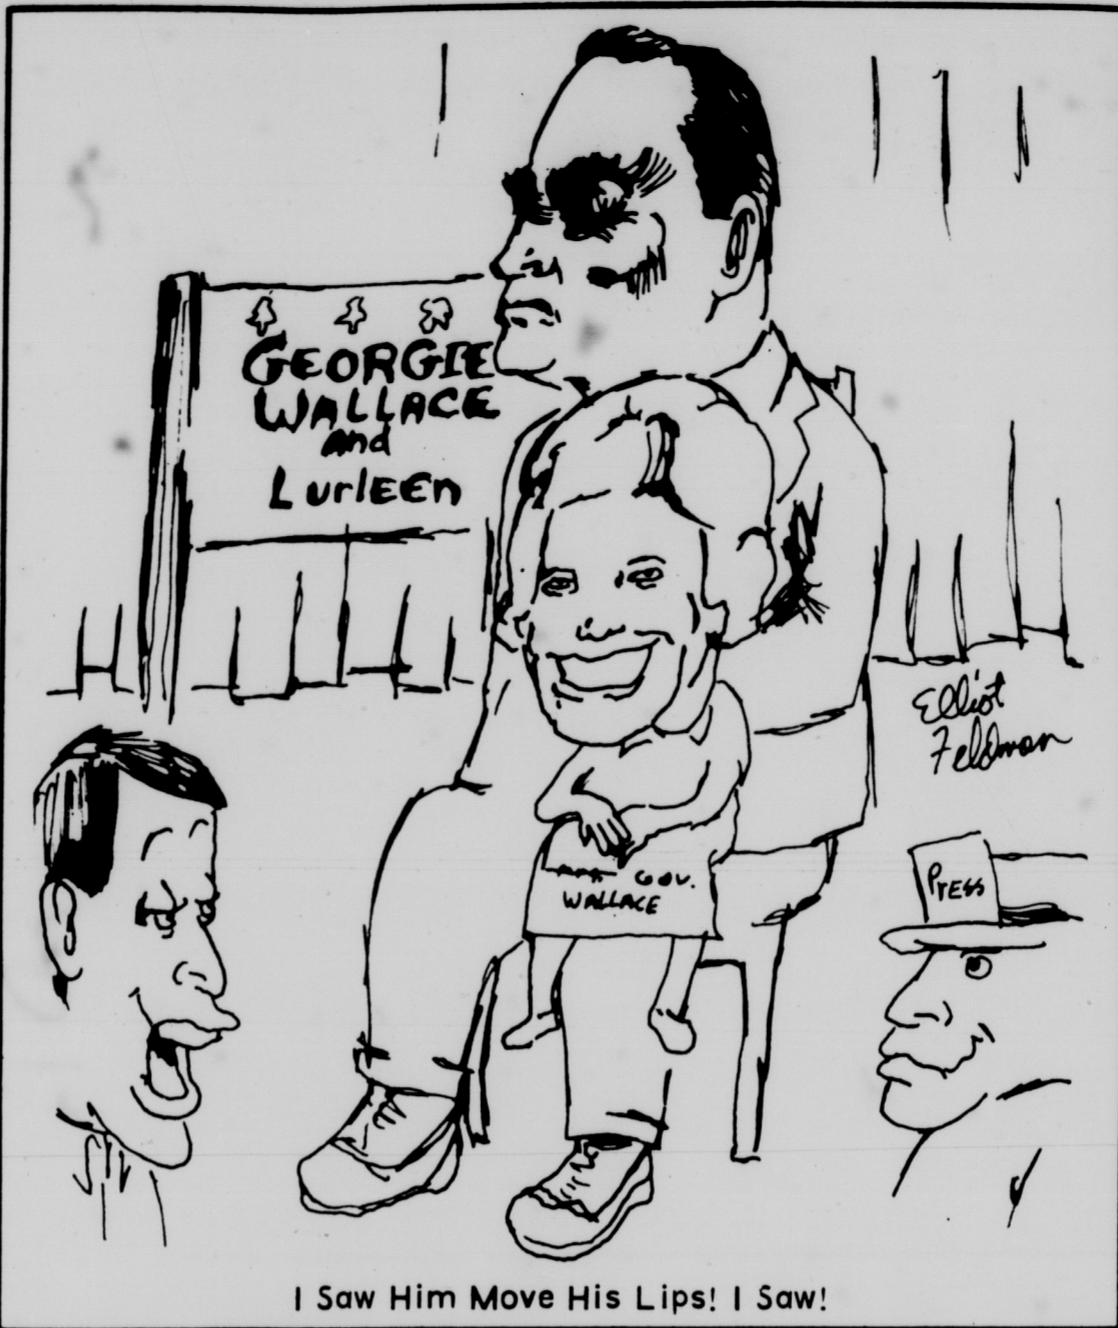

"Now I wanted an education as much as the next guy, but I also wanted to talk to someone while I was here. It took me no time flat to get wise, and you know something, the minute I stopped applying myself, I became popular."

"The way I always looked at it," says one Beaver College coed, "it really doesn't pay to learn. Nobody in this school cares about anything but your grades, so if they don't care what I learn, why should I? Besides, the faculty here is so gullible that it really is a challenge to see how much you can lie, and still make them believe you."

Big lies are favored among collegiate goldbricks. Popular opinion holds that the bigger the lie, the greater the likelihood the professors will believe it. Most college faculties have heard the small lies so often, that professors won't believe a legitimate illness excuse.

Says one UCLA graduate:

OUR READERS SPEAK

Of Garbages And Things

To the Editor:

Last Friday I enthusiastically worked as a substitute in West Landon's kitchen to help out a friend. After one hour, I left with a thoroughly disgusted attitude at the appalling waste of food. As I dished out subsistent portions of one main dish which consisted of a choice of several clams or one hamburger, I complied with the rules of no seconds to anyone. With the closing of the line, I thought maybe the kitchen wouldn't miss one clam, so I helped myself to the delicious morsel before the left-overs were carted to the back. Upon leaving, I glanced in the kitchen just in time to see the remaining batch being thrown away. Is there any justifiable reason for this complete and utter waste of food and students' money? No wonder the university is raising dorm fees next year. They need the extra money to pay the garbage-collectors to haul away unnecessary, excess garbage.

Fuss About Buses

To the Editor:

The time has passed for poking fun at the MSU Bus System. It is now time for some serious problem seeking and solving.

I think that everyone will agree that the system and its drivers put forth an heroic effort during winter term. Buses were crowded during the day, but they were running as closely to schedule as they could. It seems that these times have passed and now the fleet is content to rest on its laurels.

A look at the new "Route Schedule" reveals the basic problems:

1. The schedule itself is unreadable. It is impossible to compute connections or arrival time.
2. Spartan Village, Cherry Lane and Case-Wilson-Wonders customers must wait 12 minutes between buses, as must Brody and University Village customers.
3. Vet Clinic customers have an even more challenging problem. Their stop doesn't even appear on the schedule map, and the trip is only made by certain buses.
4. Full daytime service ceases at 4 on the Circle-Free route, 5 on the University Village-Brody route, 5:30 on the Spartan Village route and 6:30 on the commuter route. The academic day ends at 5 and the East Lansing business day at 5:30.

5. Weekend service is on a 20-minute basis everywhere.

6. Bus service stops at 10 at night, while almost all nighttime functions are still in progress at that time and women's closing hours are still from 1-1/2 to three hours off.

The main problem of the MSU Bus System is that it does not feel the pressure of its customers' wishes. We are told that new plans are afoot to service Holmes and Hubbard halls in the fall. Surely the customers should be consulted on this matter. In order to facilitate this the following proposals don't seem unreasonable:

1. A consumer board representing all areas served by the system and all levels of academic life, to advise and approve all route changes.

2. Weekly bus passes sold at $1.20 to keep the system constantly vigilant in the service of its customers, lest sales drop.

Now that the problem seeking is done, how about some solving?

To the Editor:

As an observer of the motorcycle phenomenon by necessity, and a close reader of texts by profession, I was struck by a number of statements and phrases in your front-page article of April 29 that may reveal the underlying meaning of the new Hondamania. I quote without explicatory comment:

"There is a certain thrill"; "You feel as if the cycle is an extension of yourself"; "you never get over it"; "Motorcycles are for kicks!"; "There is a feeling of exhilaration completely controlled by your right hand."

Anticipating the reaction that I am perpetrating a spoof, let me state that I am every bit as serious in making these observations as I am when I teach or write for publication in scholarly journals.

Rights Bill Is Striking

CIVIL RIGHTS legislation seems to have become a habit with Congress. It has passed three civil rights bills in the last six years and two in the last two years. Now President Johnson is asking for more. Some people thought that the ultimate in civil rights legislation had been reached after the enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 laws. But they were wrong. It was only the beginning.

The President's new bill would give further protection of civil rights workers, eliminate discrimination in jury selection, further empower the Attorney General to intervene in public facilities and school desegregation, and establish a national open housing policy.

The first three provisions are further extensions of measures included in earlier legislation. In each civil rights bill to date, the powers and authority of the attorney general have been extended.

BUT BY FAR the most striking section of the new civil rights bill is the proposed national fair housing provision. For virtually the first time in the history of civil rights legislation, a major provision is aimed at the north as well as the south.

It would ban discrimination in the sale, rental and financing of all dwelling units. Covered specifically would be owners, real estate brokers and lending corporations.

And that, my friend, means trouble, right here in River City (East Lansing) with a capital T that rhymes with B that stands for "block busting."

It will certainly be interesting to view the reaction of those liberal, broad-minded, northern civil rights advocates who disdainfully repudiate the gross injustices in Alabama and Mississippi and encourage the government to give 'em hell in the south. But not here.

ALREADY, EVERETT DIRKSON, Republican minority leader and the man who played a prominent role in the writing and passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and last year's Voting Rights Act, has registered his disapproval of the fair housing section of the new bill. He says it's unconstitutional.

The fair housing section is based on the interstate commerce clause and the 14th amendment, which states "no state shall deny to any person . . . the equal protection of the laws." The interstate commerce clause, in recent years, has been interpreted so broadly by the Supreme Court, that it has been the basis for many far reaching laws. The Supreme Court has proclaimed that Congress may "choose means reasonably adapted to the attainment of the permitted end, even though they involve control of intrastate activities."

Ironically, not a whimper of constitutional protest came from Everett Dirkson when he fought for Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which banned racial discrimination in public accommodations. It is significant that Title II had the same constitutional basis as the proposed fair housing section.

Nor did Dirkson protest when in 1965 Congress established strong sanctions against states that deprived Negroes of the right to vote. One might reasonably ask why. Though it's always difficult to impute motives, just coincidentally, these measures applied only to southern states, not to the north, not to Illinois, not to Chicago and its suburbs.

THIS MAY WELL be the reaction of many northern "civil rights advocates." The real test will soon come. And we will see (though hopefully not) that there is a large difference between allowing Negroes to vote in Alabama, to attend integrated schools in Mississippi and to eat in the same restaurant with whites in South Carolina, than it is to welcome a Negro family in the house next door.

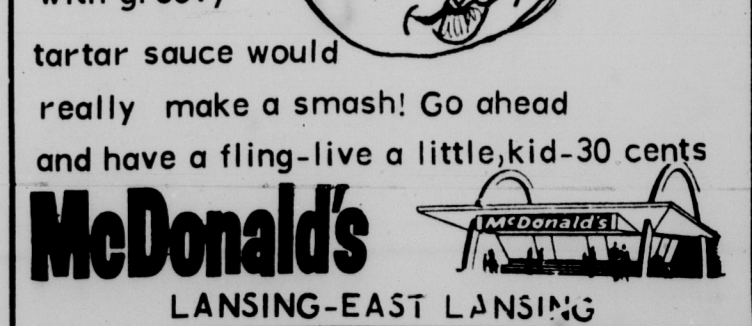

Looking ahead, Congress will probably pass most of the provisions of the new bill. But it is doubtful whether the fair housing section will survive. As they say in politics, half a loaf is better than no loaf at all. This is true, but if the remaining half loaf doesn't include the fair housing proposal, it will be a hollow one.

LANSING-EAST LANSING

World News at a Glance

Suggests China Entrance To UN

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Sen. J. William Fulbright suggested Thursday that the United States could head off a fatal clash with Communist China by putting forth limited friendly feelers and then leaving Peking "strictly alone."

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said a first step might be to end U.S. opposition to seating Communist China in the United Nations, followed by "positive suggestions for more normal relations."

Student Violence In Spain

Madrid (UPI)--Mounted police charged into rock-throwing student ranks Thursday to prevent them from staging an anti-government march in the heart of the capital.

The embattled students pulled down trolley car lines, creating a huge traffic jam in the worst outbreak over demands for the establishment of a free students union. The violence erupted following a campus rally attended by more than 2,000 students.

U.S. Resumes Bombing

SAIGON (UPI)--U.S. planes bombing North Viet Nam for the first time in three days Thursday encountered some of the worst anti-aircraft fire of the war and lost an air force F105 Thunderchief.

The Communists said the Thunderchief was only one of seven planes lost in the raid.

Wheat Allotment Increased

WASHINGTON (AP)--With the U.S. wheat surplus being depleted to help feed hungry areas abroad, the Johnson administration raised by 15 percent Thursday the acreage farmers may plant to wheat for the 1967 crop.

The 1967 planting allotments aggregating 59.3 million acres represent an increase of 7.7 million acres over this year's crop.

Such plantings are likely to produce the largest wheat crop on record.

Dodd To Cross-Examine In Untelevised Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)--The Senate's forthcoming inquiry into Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's conduct will not be televised. And the senator himself will be permitted to cross-examine witnesses -- though indirectly.

These ground rules for the Senate Ethics Committee's hearings on charges involving Dodd's relationship with a lobbyist for West Germany became known Thursday.

The rules were established more than three months ago by the newly formed committee and were intended to apply to all hearings. The investigation of charges that Dodd was guilty of misconduct for allegedly performing chores for lobbyist Julius Klein is the first undertaken by the group.

The rules of procedure adopted to govern all hearings specifically ban television, motion picture and other cameras or lights from the hearing room. There was no mention of radio and the question of whether radio coverage of the proceedings might be permitted is expected to be taken up by the committee at its next meeting.

Dodd will be allowed to cross-examine witnesses but will be required to submit his questions in writing to the chairman, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., subject to the consent of a majority of the committee. The questions would then be asked by the chairman, a member of the committee counsel -- not by Dodd personally.

The committee announced April 29 that public hearings would be held on the Dodd-Klein relationship as a result of charges raised by columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

Senate Favors Income Tax Credit

WASHINGTON (UPI)--A majority of the 100 senators, some of whom moonlight on the lecture circuit to make ends meet, favor a federal income tax credit to encourage political contributions, a United Press International survey showed Thursday.

Of the 71 senators who responded to the poll, 27 said their annual salary of $30,000 plus allowances was not enough to cover the non-campaign expenses of their office. Many others said it was a "close race."

Some form of limited tax credit, perhaps permitting taxpayers to knock $10 off their tax bills for contributions to candidates, was endorsed by 51 of the senators. The idea was proposed by a presidential commission in 1962 but has never gotten anywhere.

This was among several suggestions that Senators approved to help hard-pressed legislators facing the added financial burden of running for re-election. Of the others:

--One third, or 33 senators, favored "higher ceilings on receipts and expenditures coupled with more strict accounting on actual amounts and sources" of campaign funds.

--Fifteen thought there should be more "free time" on television and radio.

--Forty-two favored "some kind of financial disclosure law for federal officials, including members and top employees of Congress." Eighteen were against.

--Eight backed some form of federal subsidy for campaign expenses.

ASK HIM TO RESIGN

Barry Blasts Fulbright

WASHINGTON (UPI)--Former Sen. Barry M. Goldwater accused Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Thursday of giving "aid and comfort to our enemies" and called for him to resign as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, made his attack on Fulbright in a speech at the opening session of the national GOP Women's Conference. Fulbright, an outspoken critic of the U.S. role in Viet Nam, declined comment.

The former Arizona senator said he was ashamed during recent televised hearings on Viet Nam to hear Fulbright and other Democrats charge that the nation had become "arrogant and self righteous and expansionist and immoral."

Any American making such charges in a time of war is abetting the enemy, Goldwater said. "And I don't care whether the American is a misguided Vietnik or chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee."

In demanding Fulbright's resignation, Goldwater said the post gives "a phony official stature to his expressions of guilt because his country is militarily powerful enough to defend freedom."

He termed the Arkansas Democrat "a prominent spokesman for a power-seeking liberal contingent that believes that it is fashionable and scholarly to downgrade their own country and find virtues in our enemies."

Goldwater also accused the Johnson administration of failing to seek victory in the Viet Nam war and trying "to keep both the 'hawks' and the 'doves' happy until after election."

Batsmen Rest Big 10 Hopes On Weekend

By RICK PIANIN
State News Sports Editor

If the Big Ten baseball standings were graphed as a bell-shaped curve at this moment, the Spartan batsmen would barely pass the course with a "C."

The sixth-place Spartans, holding a 2-3 league mark, have a good chance this weekend to avoid a mediocre season with a good showing against Purdue and Illinois, here at Old College Field.

Purdue will play State in a lone Friday afternoon affair, beginning at 3:30, and then will make way as Illinois moves in for a Saturday twin bill, beginning at 1 p.m.

For the Spartans, the Purdue game should be a warm-up for the Illini doubleheader. A loss to the Boilermakers would be more than just a letdown for MSU—it would be humiliating.

Purdue occupies the ground floor of the conference, with a shaky 0-5-1 record. The Boilermakers are last in team batting, eighth in pitching and fifth in fielding.

Outfielder Steve Hoffman, a sophomore, paces the Boilermakers with a .350 batting average. His closest rivals are outfielder Ray Starnes, a junior who sports a .286 conference average, and shortstop Frank Ganser with a .286.

Purdue will go with either pitcher Mitch Ward (1-0-1), a senior with a 2.48 ERA for 361/3 innings, or Steve Krull (1-3), who holds a 2.75 ERA for 391/3 innings.

MSU Coach Danny Litwiler will send senior righthander Jim Goodrich against the Boilermakers. Goodrich beat Wisconsin last week and has a 4-2 overall mark.

The Spartans hold an edge over Purdue in all-time conference play, having won 15 of 21 games. Illinois, 3-1 in the Big Ten and tied with Iowa for fourth place, will pose the real threat of the weekend to MSU.

A sweep of the doubleheader would certainly give State the momentum to finish high in the conference. Only two weeks remain in the league season.

The Illini suffer the dilemma of having a terrific pitching staff backed up by second-rate hitters and fielders. Illinois pitchers have given up a meager average of 1.80 runs per inning, which is fourth best in the conference.

MSU pitchers hold a cumulative 2.09 average, which ranks fifth in the Big Ten.

However, Illinois runs into big trouble at the plate, as the team is batting only .207. The Spartans haven't fared much better, for that matter, with a .214.

Illinois doesn't have a player listed in the top 23 hitters in the Big Ten. To make matters worse, shortstop Dan Humay, who leads the team in overall batting with a .412 average, is out with a shoulder injury.

First baseman Jerry Szukala has been hitting at a .322 overall clip, although both he and Humay have been unable to display this punch in Big Ten competition.

This loss of Humay at shortstop will weaken an already flimsy defense. Illinois is rated eighth in Big 10 defense, compared to the Spartans third-place standing.

The Illini will probably go with sophomore pitchers Bill Murray and Dennis Wojs. Murray (1-0) hasn't given up an earned run in eight innings of conference play, and has a 1.80 ERA in 25 innings overall.

Wojs hasn't fared quite so well, holding a 2.80 overall ERA for 25 2/3 innings work.

MSU will probably send out junior righthander Dick Kenney (3-0) to pitch the first game, and follow up with senior lefthander John Krasnan (0-1) in the nightcap.

MSU's questionable hitting has showed some signs of improvement in the last few days, especially after the Spartans took a doubleheader from Central Tuesday, 10-4 and 4-0.

In Big Ten hitting, Spartan third baseman John Biedenbach ranks No. 3 with a solid .421 average. He collected two hits in eight attempts in the Central twin bill.

Outfielder Bob Speer is second in team hitting with a .301 conference mark, followed by shortstop Steve Polisar with a .273 average.

TOPS WINGS IN OVERTIME, 3-2

Montreal Wins Stanley Cup

DETROIT—The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Detroit Red Wings for the fourth straight time, 3-2, to capture the Stanley Cup Thursday night. But the Wings pressed them into a sudden-death overtime before finally falling.

Montreal's Henri Richard deflected the puck past goalie Roger Crozier at the 2:20 mark of the first extra period to win the playoffs for the Canadiens.

The victory climaxed a great comeback by the Canadiens, who lost the first two games of the series on their home ice. This is the seventh time in the last 11 years that Montreal has won the Stanley Cup.

Roger Crozier was named the outstanding player of the playoffs. Jean Beliveau started the scoring for Montreal with a goal at the 9:08 mark of the first period. Montreal made it 2-0 midway in the second period, when Leon Rousborg beat Red Wing goalie Roger Crozier on a short shot. The Wings countered several minutes later, as Norm Ullman scored on a power play.

With time running out in the final period, Detroit's Ab McDonald slipped a shot past two defensemen and Montreal goalie Gump Worsley to knot the score at 2-2 and force the sudden-death overtime period.

Indians Defeat Yanks Again

NEW YORK—Dick Howser and Chuck Hinton, replacements for the injured Larry Brown and Leon Wagner, knocked in the first two runs, and the league-leading Cleveland Indians went on to a 4-0 victory Thursday over the hit-hungry New York Yankees.

QUEENS' COURT—Sue Weissmann, below, and Jill Mawhinney volley for important points as MSU's women tennis team defeated Calvin College Wednesday, 6-3. Jill, Penny Dibert and Vicki Beste were victorious in singles, while all three doubles teams won.

Dawn Goodrich and Marcia Strait took No. 1 doubles for MSU, while Jeanne Davis and her partner Vicki Beste won second doubles. The sister combination of Penny and Pam Dibert topped off the day by winning No. 3 doubles.

TOPS MEL OTT'S RECORD

Mays Belts His 512th HR

SAN FRANCISCO—Willie Mays, who hit his first major league homer as a 19-year-old, smashed the National League career record 15 years later with his 512th and still has targets ahead.

The San Francisco Giants center fielder tagged the first pitch from Los Angeles Dodgers left-hander Claude Osteen in the fifth inning Wednesday night and sent it over the right field fence to end 10 days of frustration and mounting pressures.

That was his seventh homer of 1966, broke Mel Ott's record of 511 set in 1946 and made Mays the greatest home run hitter in the league's history two days before his 35th birthday.

Only three players have hit more, all in the American League—Ted Williams with 521, Jimmy Foxx at 534 and Babe Ruth at 714. If Willie passes Foxx—and he should—he'll become the greatest right-handed homer hitter in major league annals.

Mays watched the baseball clear the fence in Candlestick Park and could almost feel the pressures ease. The solo shot put the Giants ahead 5-1, and they went on to win 6-1.

"You have to have pressures when everybody is wondering when you'll hit that home run," Willie said later. "I've been a little excited and not hitting at all."

After collecting No. 511 in Houston on April 24, Mays' batting average dropped from .348 to .284, and he had only three hits in 23 plate appearances.

Osteen put him down twice swinging before Willie finally connected.

"I would like to concentrate now on my batting average," Mays asserted. "But I'm not going to stop swinging. I have to be more relaxed now, but if ever I come close to another record, I guess it'll be the same again."

Take your good time going home.

Fly half-fare on Eastern via Florida.

Florida swings in the spring—but it really swings in the summer. Lower off-season room rates are in effect. And Eastern will take you to Daytona or Ft. Lauderdale or even Miami for half-fare.

So take a detour and enjoy it on your way home. Or go home first and down to Florida later.

Just use your Eastern Youth ID card, or similar card from another airline. If you don't have such a card, it's a snap to get one—provided you're under 22 and can prove it. For the specifics, stop by a Travel Agent or any Eastern ticket office.

Once you have your card, you can get an Eastern Jet Coach seat for half-fare. You can't make an advance reservation. But if there's a seat available at departure time, you can fly to any Eastern destination within the continental U.S. including Florida.

MSU Trackmen Meet Bucks Here

By DAN DROSKI
State News Sports Writer

MSU's trackmen open their home season Saturday as they face Ohio State in a dual meet at the Spartans' outdoor track.

The field events are scheduled to begin at 12 noon, with the running events to follow at 12:30. The meet will start a half hour earlier than usual, allowing spectators to see both the track meet and the annual Green and White football game.

Head Coach Fran Ditttrich will get an opportunity to enter his athletes in their various specialties for the first time this season. The previous outings have been at the Ohio and Drake Relays, where relay units dominated the entries.

The Spartans high hurdle entry should be one of the team's strong points, as Bob Steele, Fred McKay and Big Ten champion Gene Washington give MSU great depth in the event. Washington and Steele placed first and third, respectively, in the conference indoor meet, while McKay just missed qualifying for the finals.

Jim Garrett will lead the Spartans in the long jump as he begins defense of the Big Ten title he won indoors. Garrett will then team up with Co-Captain Das Campbell to give MSU a solid one-two punch in the 100-yard dash.

Garrett and Campbell will join Gene Washington as the Spartans' three entries in the 220-yard dash. This will be the first time Washington has competed in the 220 this season.

Rick Dunn and Rich Tompkins head up MSU's entry in the 440-yard dash while Mike Martens and John Spain will be competing in the half-mile. Spain is the sensational young sophomore who has already covered the distance in 1:50.7.

Ditttrich has designated Mike Martens and Rich Tompkins to compete in the 660-yard run with Keith Coates and Art Link running in the mile.

Defending indoor champ Dick Sharkey and George Balthrop will be running in the two-mile race, while Bob Steele is the Spartans' No. 1 man in the 440-yard hurdles. Steele placed first in the Ohio Relays and fourth at the Drake Relays.

Tom Herbert, Dennis Lamb and Dennis Omeara are MSU's entries in the shot put, with this same trio competing in the discus.

The Spartans' high jumpers include Mike Bowers and Fred McKay, with sophomores Roland Carter, James Stewart and John Wilcox entered in the pole vault.

Three Booters Win Olympic Tryout Berths

Three Michigan State soccer players have won Olympic team tryout berths and another has been designated as an alternate.

Guy Busch, Gary McBrady and Pete Hens were picked in collegiate tryouts last weekend at Ohio State University. Kevin O'Connell was an alternate selection.

At the end of next year's season in November, the three will go to St. Louis for midwest tryouts. National tryouts later will determine the players to represent the U.S. in the 1968 Olympic games at Mexico City.

The selections there will also make up the team for the Pan American Games next year.

Busch, Hens and McBrady, all sophomores, were starters on State's 1965 team that finished second in the NCAA championships to St. Louis.

Busch set an individual Spartan record for goals last season and was named to the All-American team.

Hens, named the outstanding tryout performer, was an All-Midwest conference selection.

SPARTANS '66 ON DISPLAY

Green, White Gridders Tangle Saturday

By LARRY WERNER State News Sports Writer

Those days of "sweat and bruises" characteristic of the tedious five weeks of spring football practice will be climaxed by "the day of green and white" Saturday.

MSU's 1966 football team will be on display at Spartan Stadium with kickoff slated for 2 p.m. in the annual green-white intrasquad scrimmage. The game traditionally winds up spring drills for the Spartan gridgers.

Coach Duffy Daugherty has stacked the Green team with proven veterans who should manage to win over the Whites.

Freshman Coach Ed Rutheford and Quarterback Coach Al Dorrow will direct the White squad, composed of second-stringers pressing for starting jobs and freshmen who will make their first appearance with the MSU varsity.

"We expect the Green to dominate because of their preponderance of game experience," Daugherty said.

Saturday's games will represent the last chance for fans to view the Spartans in action before the season opener with North Carolina State, Sept. 17.

The freshman football team, acclaimed last fall as one of the finest in years, has donned varsity togs and will be subject to public evaluation, as will a number of reserves now in starting roles.

"The fans will have a chance to view the freshmen and some of the boys who were hurt or saw little action last year," Daugherty said. "There will also be a chance to see players like Jess Phillips and Drake Garrett, who are playing new positions." Daugherty promises a wide-open game with a lot of passing. Doubts as to whether Jimmy Raye has actually developed a passing game to complement his outstanding running should be dispelled or substantiated after the Green-White affair. "We'll fill the air with footballs," Daugherty said.

A couple of surprise performers will make appearances in Saturday's contest. Gene Washington, hurdle star on the track team, in the spring, and All-American end on the football squad, will assume both identities. Washington will participate in the track meet with Ohio State at 1 p.m. and will start at right end for the Green.

Charlie Wedemeyer, who has been ailing with a back injury, is expected to make a brief appearance with the Green unit.

Raye will start at quarterback for the Greens with Clint Jones and Dwight Lee at the halves and Reggie Cavender at fullback.

Except at two spots, the Green offensive line will be manned by lettermen.

Washington and freshman Al Brenner will hold down the end posts with Jerry West and Joe Przybycki at the tackles and Norm Jenkins and Dave Techlin, a converted tackle, at the guards. Sophomore Ron Ranier will start as the Green center.

Jenkins suffered a minor hip injury in Wednesday's session, and, should he be unable to go, soph Mike Bradley will draw the nod.

Bob Super is expected to open the game at quarterback for White. Dick Berlinski and Ken Heft will be at the halves with John Grogan at the power-running slot.

Maurice Haynes and Jim Judy (brother of Steve) will draw starting bids at the ends for White. Dick Reahn and Terry Lewis will open as White's offensive tackles, and Tony Rutheford will team up with Mitch Pruitt at the guards. Larry Smith will be the center.

On defense, the Green line will include Bubba Smith, Pat Galinaugh, Charlie Bailey, Nick Jordan and Phil Hoag with Charlie Thornhill and Bob Brawley at the linebackers. George Webster will be at roverbak with Drake Garrett, Jerry Jones and Sterling Armstrong deep.

George Chatlos, Roger Ruminski, Jeff Richardson, Jack Zindel, Tony Conti and Tom Ammirato will comprise the White defensive wall. Mike Youngs and Ted Bohn will be the linebackers.

Jimmy Summers, Paul Lawson and Clint Harris will be in the deep spots.

Admission for the game will be 50 cents for students and $1 for the general public. Seats will be on the first-come, first-serve basis with no reserved seating.

Netters Play Bucks, Illini At Columbus Saturday

By GAYEL WESCH State News Sports Writer

The MSU tennis team heads into the last half of the Big Ten season as it faces league opponents Ohio State and Illinois at Columbus Saturday.

The Spartans have a busy day scheduled Saturday, playing Illinois in the morning and Ohio State that afternoon.

MSU has racked up 24 points in league competition while losing 12, but it will need two victories this weekend to keep up with defending champion Michigan.

"We've got to beat Illinois by a big score if we plan to stay in this thing," MSU coach Stan Drobnac explained. "But we can't let down against Ohio State. We beat them, 9-0, last year but you can't sell any team short."

State will be going with the regular lineup on Saturday with Rich Monan at No. 1 singles, followed by Mickey Szilagyi, Laird Warner, Jim Phillips, Vic Dhooge and Mike Youngs.

Monan and Szilagyi will be at first doubles, Phillips and Dhooge, at No. 2, and Warner and Youngs, at No. 3.

Illinois should be the roughest of the two opponents for the Spartans. MSU took a narrow 5-4 victory from them last year, and the Illini have six lettermen back.

Illinois is currently 7-2 overall but was rained out against league foes Michigan and Purdue. The Illini were fifth in the Big Ten last year, 20 points behind fourth-place MSU with a total of 62 points.

Ohio State is out to improve on a ninth place finish in the Big Ten last season. The Buckeyes tallied a mere 30 points during the year.

'S' Golfers At Indiana For 14-Team Tourney

MSU's golf team travels to Indiana Saturday as it competes against 14 other teams in the Northern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament. Eight squads will represent the Big Ten, with Wisconsin and Northwestern the only teams missing.

The Spartans will be paced by seniors Ken Benson and Rick Mackey and junior Sandy McAndrew, as these three golfers are exempt from qualifying for the trip.

Coach Bruce Fossum and his six players left the campus at 1 p.m. Thursday, but they will not be allowed to practice on the Indiana course because tournament rules forbid any pre-meet play.

Indiana's home course advantage should make it one of the tournament favorites.

The Hoosiers are led by seniors Jim Jewell and Bob Borthwick, but sophomores Skip Helm, Jim Baske and Jim Cheney have all been playing well and they should give Indiana the balance necessary to win a tournament of this caliber.

Purdue also has a very strong squad with four players back from a team that won the Big Ten title by 14 shots last year. Returning lettermen include Jim Duffy, Mike Gery, Rick Radder and Dave Schmaker. The Boiler-makers' fifth man is Steve Mayhew, a player who averaged 77.4 last season.

Ohio State's linksmen are paced by Ed Sneed, the team's No. 1 golfer and the low scorer in the match between the Spartans and the Buckeyes.

Michigan's golf team has four lettermen returning from last year's second place club, but the Wolverines are not as tough as they have been in previous seasons. Michigan is led by Bill Newton, the individual winner in last year's conference tournament.

Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa are all rebuilding this year, and they are not expected to finish high in the team standings.

LABOR EXPERT SAYS

Price Rise To Continue

All goods will cost more in the next few years, Ewan Clague, former commissioner of labor statistics, said here Wednesday. Clague reminded the MSU Chapter of the Industrial Relations Research Assn. that the price of meat has risen 16 per cent over last year and that services, such as laundry and haircuts, are also costing more. The healthy economic expansion of 1961 to 1965 hit a point of serious inflation with the onset of the war in Viet Nam for two reasons, Clague said. First of all, the 300,000 newly-inducted servicemen put a squeeze on the labor force resulting in higher wages for the eligible workers.

Cancellations Out, Flights Still Open

No more cancellations will be accepted on the MSU Flights to Europe. However, seats are still available on the flights. Seven seats are available on the eight-week round trip charter at $270. Three seats are available on the four-week round trip charter at $353. Four seats are available on the 11-week Pan American Airlines flight at $353 round trip. For further information students may call 355-3355 or 355-7420.

Folklore Society

The Folklore Society's fourth and final workshop on showmanship will feature a three-member panel who will give critiques of student performances at 8 p.m. Monday in the Museum Auditorium. Any students or groups may perform, according to Charles Smith, adviser. Acts will be limited to five minutes or two songs.

separated from political factors. It is politically important, said Cruikshank, not to put restraints on the Great Society's programs. Liberal elements of the country want all these programs. At the same time President Johnson must continue the war effort in Viet Nam, he said. Keeping both policies going, Cruikshank said, naturally puts a tremendous strain on the economy. Cruikshank, visiting professor of industrial relations, ended by saying that the political bargaining for higher wages and the rising forces of groups demanding a greater share of the national product will result in stronger pressures on the whole economy of the country.

Urban Planning Flying In Instructor

An instructor is to fly in from New York City today to teach a course that is a descendant of one taught at Michigan Agricultural College in 1865. The School of Urban Planning, which has graduated only 318 students to date, supplements its teaching faculty by employing practicing professionals who come in regularly from New York and Washington, D.C., to work with students, Myles Boyland, director of the school, said. Although the first students to earn bachelor's degrees in the professional study were graduated in 1950, in 1965 a one-half year course in "Landscape Gardening" was required of all students at Michigan Agricultural College. This was the first organized course in landscape architecture to be offered in the United States. Boyland said that as long as there have been cities, there has been a need for planning and landscaping. In 1939 MSU introduced courses in urbanism and urban planning to supplement the landscape architecture program. These courses marked the University as one of the earliest to offer such instruction. In 1949 the true pioneering venture took place. A four-year undergraduate major in urban planning was introduced as the companion to a proven, more mature bachelor's program in landscape architecture. Today only the University of Illinois and the University of Washington in Seattle have similar programs. MSU initiated its master's degree program in urban planning in the late 1940's. In Michigan today such degrees can be earned only at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

"Plisetskaya Dances," a Russian film starring renowned prima ballerina Maya Plisetskaya, of the Bolshoi Theatre Ballet Company, will be shown at 7 and 9 tonight in Fairchild Theater as part of the International Film Series.

Through out the country there are only 18 professionally recognized schools. MSU graduates 10 per cent of all majors in the field. MSU itself takes advantage of the skills it teaches. Boyland said that the Office of Campus Planning was established in cooperation with the bachelor's level program. Since then both have grown, and campus planning was separated to become a staff function of the administration. However, Boyland noted, MSU likes to stock that staff with its own urban planning and landscape architecture graduates. Boyland said that a school, such as urban planning, works to give the student philosophy, theory or general knowledge of the field. He said that along with work and experience comes the "speciality" aspect.

Campus Radio Petitions Due

Today is the deadline for petitioning for the 10 All-Campus Radio Station department heads. Applications are still available at 334 Student Services Building. Open positions include central station manager, program director, chief engineer, news director, production director, business manager, music director, traffic and continuity director, promotion director and chief staff announcer. Any student in good standing with the University may apply for a position. Applicants will be notified when to appear for personal interviews after the petitioning deadline.

Film Of Plisetskaya Ballet In Fairchild Show Tonight

By BOB ZESCHIN
State News Reviewer

Balletomanes at MSU will have a rare glimpse at one of the most electrifying dancers in the world tonight.

Currently stunning New York audiences on the Bolshoi's third American tour, Plisetskaya is generally recognized as the finest female dancer in the world, and happily, is caught by the camera at the peak of her ability. The movie itself is a biography through dance, showing Plisetskaya from a leggy 12-year-old in the Bolshoi school to her current successes as Juliet and Odette-Odile in "Swan Lake." Plisetskaya is seen in excerpts from 10 ballets, and in every single one her dancing is phenomenal. She can spin with a vengeance, stay on point for hours and leap breathlessly, literally hanging in the air. Best of all, she infuses her dancing with drama and a sense of theatre rare among actors, let alone dancers.

As Kitri in "Don Quixote," she is a gay and kittenish village spitfire, brimming with high spirits. She becomes all warmth and femininity in "The Little Humpbacked Horse," a popular Soviet ballet rarely seen in the West.

It is as Juliet in the Prokofiev ballet that shows Plisetskaya at her best. She is at first a carefree young girl, gently maturing through love to become a woman in the finest sense of Greek tragedy.

Plisetskaya could not be called beautiful in the conventional manner. But when she dances, it's impossible to take one's eyes off her. Her magnetic stage presence triumphs over poor photography and dominates the film.

Like all great art, Plisetskaya's dancing can be enjoyed by mass audiences as well as connoisseurs. Her talents are overwhelming and are solely responsible for making "Plisetskaya Dances" a superb ballet film.

ATL Associate Prof. To Lecture In Europe

David D. Anderson, associate professor of American Thought and Language, will lecture on American literature this summer throughout Eastern and Southern Asia.

Anderson, who will be on leave in 1966-67 as a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Karachi, Pakistan, will speak in Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Malaysia, Thailand, Ceylon and India.

Following the academic year in Karachi, he will lecture throughout Europe during the summer of 1967.

Anderson is the author of several books on American literature and has authored over 60 articles and short stories, both in the United States and abroad.

Hans Nathan, professor of music, presented a paper at the recent meeting of the American Musicological Society.

The paper, entitled "The New Musical Trends Around 1910 And French Opinion," was read at the spring meeting of the society held at the University of Illinois.

Daniel O'Keefe, director of the School of Social Work, is named director of the Community Services Council. O'Keefe replaces Barrett Lyons.

Herbert J. Oyer, chairman of the Speech dept., has recently completed a book entitled "Auditory Communications for the Hard of Hearing". This book is concerned with the problems of training the hearing handicapped in auditory communication.

Information for effective training sessions, principles which are basic to the "auditory training" process, and examples of therapy planning are presented in Oyer's book.

Jerry M. Anderson, assistant professor of speech and director of forensics, received the "Outstanding Teacher Award" at the Central States Speech Assn. Conference this week in Chicago.

Milton Rokeach, professor of psychology, has been selected to serve on a newly organized advisory council for the mid-west division of the International Studies Assn.

FACULTY FACTS

The council will suggest ways to improve the study of international affairs through special conferences and by suggesting topics for "Background," the association's journal.

The association is composed of midwestern teaching scholars, researchers and advanced students interested in integrating knowledge in the field of international studies.

Among those representing MSU at the recent national convention in Chicago of the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, were Roy K. Niemeyer and Susan Hiler of the Dept. of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Ray Harper, assistant professor of elementary special education, and Archibald B. Shaw, chairman of the Dept. of Administration and Higher Education, have departed for Thailand where they will participate in the Thailand Project of the Institute of International Studies in Education. The two will remain in Thailand through May.

Armand L. Hunter, director of the Continuing Education Service, is an awards chairman for "Product of the Year" and "Agricultural Development of the Year" awards competition during the 1966 Michigan Week.

Auto Sales Slump In April

DETROIT (AP)--The auto industry was jolted Thursday by a drop in April sales and announcement of a production cutback at General Motors, the world's largest automaker.

Some industry sources were quick to blame the drop on bad publicity resulting from the auto safety issue.

GM's brief announcement said four of its 23 assembly plants worked short time this week "to get production schedules in line with current stocks in the field."

It was the first time in five years that GM had slowed its production pace for inventory reasons.

LANSING (UPI)--Between 75 and 100 new Michigan State Police cars had to be fixed to correct a potentially dangerous brake defect, officials disclosed Thursday.

Michigan Roundup

Some 1965 police cars also had to be modified to correct flaws in the steering mechanism, Al Buddin, State Police assistant director of business administration said.

The defects were brought to the state's attention by the car manufacturer, Buddin said car makers have done a much better job recently in alerting the state when a modification is needed.

ANN ARBOR (UPI)--An archeologist sifting the ruins of an ancient fortress near Amman, Jordan, has uncovered what may be the oldest Arabic inscriptions yet found, a University of Michigan spokesman said Thursday.

The writings, dating back to the seventh century before Christ, were found in a long cistern that was part of a complex probably destroyed by King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylonia in his wars of the fifth century B.C., the school said.

DETROIT (AP)--The Detroit News published its first editions on schedule Thursday after suspending publication of most Wednesday editions due to a work stoppage.

The News, an afternoon paper, said members of the Plate and Paper Handlers Union refused to return to work Wednesday following what the paper said was an unauthorized meeting.

The plate and paper handlers returned to work following an all-night meeting with management and state and federal mediators.

Protestants OK Union Stand In Document

DALLAS (UPI)—Leaders of eight big Protestant denominations unanimously approved Thursday a 15,000-word document outlining some of the basic principles to be followed in establishing a united church.

The new church, scheduled to come into being sometime during the 1970s, would be the largest Protestant body in the world with upwards of 24 million members.

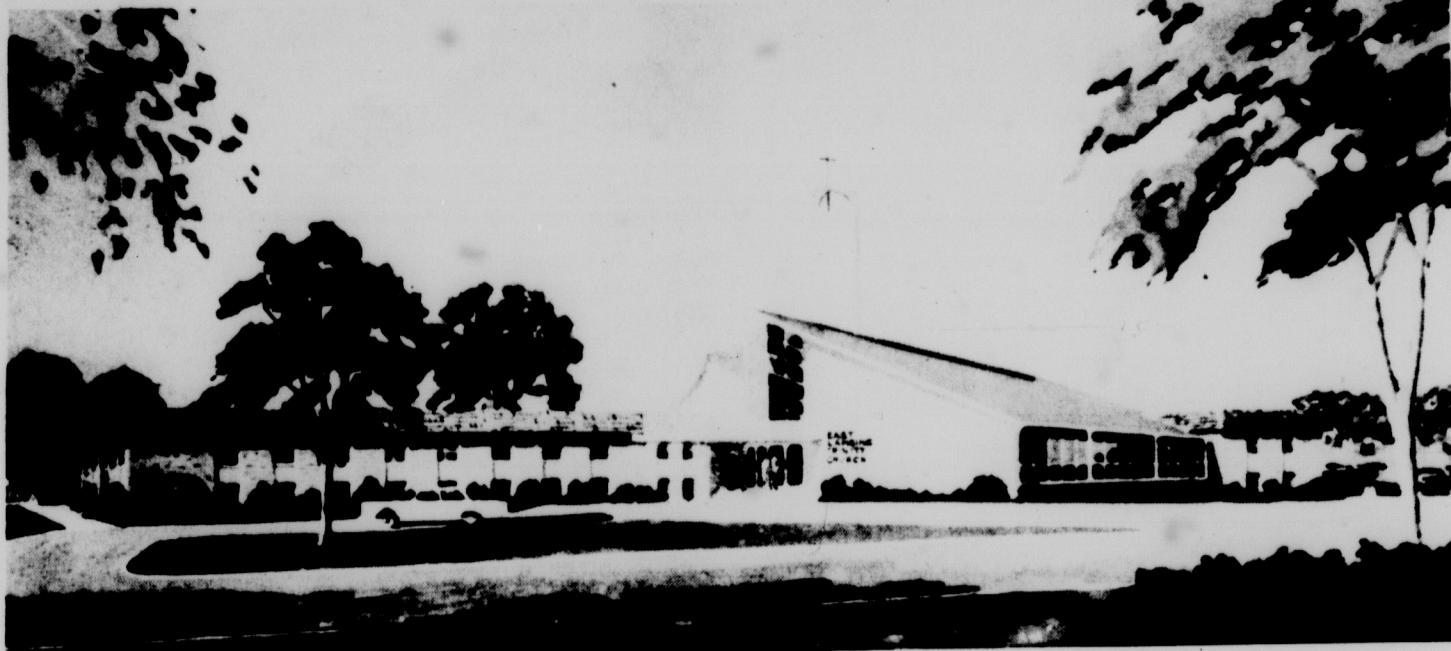

The document approved Thursday is not a detailed plan of merger. It expresses a consensus of doctrine, worship, sacraments and the ministry of a united church. It passes over the controversial question of how the new church is to be organized and governed—specifically how much power is to be vested in its bishops and how much reserved to congregations and representative councils.

This will be a major subject for discussion at the next meeting of the eight denominations—formerly known as the Consultation on Church Union—in Cambridge, Mass., April 30-May 4, 1967.

Meantime, the statement of principles already agreed upon will be referred to the participating denominations to be passed along to their local churches for "study and comment" with the understanding that it later will become the basis for negotiating an actual plan of union. It is anticipated that this stage of negotiations will begin in 1968 and will take from two to 10 years to complete.

At the final public session of a four-day meeting, a sharp debate broke out over an attempt by Methodist delegates to insert a sentence regarding the right of bishops to appoint ministers to pastorates. This was immediately challenged by representatives of other denominations which have a tradition of congregational autonomy in choosing ministers. They pointed out that this whole question of the powers of bishops was supposed to be postponed for consideration next year.

The heated debate resulted in adoption of a compromise sentence, described by one delegate as "carefully-worded ambiguity," which states that bishops will have a role in appointment of ministers along with other agencies and office bearers in the church, thus leaving open the question of exactly who has the final say.

NEW CHURCH--This is an artist's drawing of the new East Lansing Trinity Church. The church, which will cost $600,000, is to be located east of Hagadorn Road.

Trinity Church To Expand

The gift of a 4.3 acre site worth $90,000 has opened the way for East Lansing Trinity Church to build a new $600,000 sanctuary and educational unit.

The new church will be completed by 1967.

Herbert Kierstead and Daniel Smith, developers of the Walnut Heights subdivision, deeded Trinity Church property next to the subdivision in 1964.

The church could not accept the deed until the city council completed rezoning in 1965, however.

The property is located on Timber Lane adjacent to the East Lansing Board of Education property east of Hagadorn Road along Burcham Drive.

A new YMCA and city park will also be built near the new church.

The story of Trinity Church, an interdenominational body, is the story of continual expansion. Organized in 1952, the congregation has gone through three meeting places.

The small group of campus-related Christians that formed the original congregation met in Bethel Manor on East Grand River.

The members outgrew the space there in one year and moved to the Masonic Temple. They outgrew the temple and then moved into their own $55,000 educational unit in 1958.

But Trinity kept growing and by 1961 it enlarged the educational unit at a cost of $53,850.

Now even the expanded educational unit is overcrowded. Groundbreaking for the new church, to be built in a contemporary design, will take place this fall. The nave and balcony will seat 750 worshippers.

The new church will include a chapel for small weddings and University student activities as well as the main sanctuary. The chapel will seat 210 people.

Prof Discusses His Christian Role

By CRAIG LACLAIR

The Christian faculty member has both the responsibility to recognize Christ in his work and the opportunity to serve as a Christian witness to his students, said Aureal Cross, professor of geology and botany, at a recent meeting of the Christian Faculty Fellowship.

Cross spoke on "The Christian Faculty Member: Responsibilities and Opportunities".

It is not only the responsibility of clerics and church leaders to reach out to students, but it is also the job of the faculty as well, he said.

The Christian faculty member, according to Cross, has several areas in which he can assume this responsibility.

First, he can concentrate on doing his job well. The job of a teacher and a scholar is a full-time occupation in which one has a big opportunity to influence others.

The teacher should maintain a certain dignity but not a false facade, for the student can often see through this. In class, he should not substitute entertainment for substance but recognize the importance of his subject to the student's other subjects.

Most important, the teacher should develop some Christlike aspects in his own life. He should be faithful to his own calling as Christ was to His.

Secondly, the Christian faculty member should set an example. He should be faithful in his work and maintain honesty in what he says.

Any differences of opinion which the teacher may have with the student should not become the main substance of his teaching but rather should be the basis for developing a common area of thought.

Next, the Christian faculty member should set up some type of personal relationship with his students.

The plaque in Cross's office reads "You are indeed welcome. Please stay as long as is necessary...but remember that we are all busy". He feels that the student will have more respect for the teacher who is always approachable.

Finally, the Christian faculty member can look for other opportunities to serve as a witness.

"In demonstrating Christian life to its fullest," Cross said, "even if we only reach 10 percent of the student body, our action is bound to be felt. We should aim to establish a one to one relationship with our students."

'What Determines Your Standpoint?'

Glenn L. Morning, a Christian Science practitioner of San Francisco, will discuss how a spiritual standpoint in life turns trouble into opportunity in a Christian Science lecture at 8 p.m. Monday in the East Lansing Junior High School.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, East Lansing, is sponsoring the lecture. The title of the lecture is "What Determines Your Standpoint?"

Fr. Hilarion Kistner, who received his licentiate in sacred scripture from the Pontifical Biblical Institute in Rome, will speak on the person of Jesus Christ in Matthew, Mark and Luke at the Sunday forum at St. John Catholic Student Center.

The student supper at St. John's will begin at 6:45 p.m. Sunday. Fr. Kistner will speak at 7:30 p.m.

He will trace the formation of the Gospels, discuss their nature and point out the individual characteristics of Matthew, Mark and Luke.

Fr. Kistner was ordained to the priesthood in the Franciscan Order in 1955.

Protestantism Pioneer Speaks Here Sunday

One of Protestantism's leading young pioneers in relating Christianity to mid-20th century culture and society, Robert W. Spike, will speak at Edgewood United Church Sunday as a part of a series of "Dedication Days" in the new Edgewood sanctuary.

Spike will speak at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday and will lead an informal dialogue and discussion at 2:30 p.m. His morning theme will be "The Church's Mission in a Revolutionary Age."

In the afternoon he will explore some of the modern currents of life within the church in its growing involvement with the arts, with social protest move-

It's Tornado Season, Let's Twister Again

By CRAIG BOIKE
State News Staff Writer

A siren sounds on top of Case Hall. For three minutes it wails a steady tone. MSU has been warned. A tornado watch has been established by the United States Weather Bureau.

Tornado "watch" is terminology used by the weather bureau this year to warn people that conditions are ripe for the spawning of twisters. Previously the bureau had called this a tornado forecast.

Tornado watch is to be distinguished from tornado warning, according to Harold L. Julien, meteorologist at the Lansing Weather Bureau.

A warning is issued by the bureau when tornado activity in the area has been established. The Case Hall siren will use a varying tone of three minutes to warn MSU in this case, according to the Dept. of Public Safety.

MSU has a sophisticated shelter plan to be used in case of either man-made or natural disaster. The plan is revised from year to year, and provides procedures to be taken in the event of a tornado.

Students and personnel under the plan will be directed to safety in various buildings by the person in charge and the staff present. Usually this will involve going to the basement area away from the window or glass open to the outside.

The Dept. of Public Safety will aid in campus direction with loud speakers and sirens.

MSU has shelter spaces for 107,153 people with locations in nearly every building on campus.

Michigan experienced a violent spring last year with 37 tornadoes occurring on Palm Sunday alone. According to Julien it was one of the worst springs on record for violent weather activity in Michigan.

The Lansing Weather Bureau, in issuing its bulletins on violent weather conditions, uses a bank of teletypes that connect it with stations across the state and nation.

One of these teletypes is connected with the Severe Local Storms Forecast Center at Kansas City. It is from this source that the Lansing station receives notice of watch conditions.

The Kansas City station uses computers and reports of weather stations in the nation to arrive at its forecast of severe weather activity for a area.

A map is plotted and sent via facsimile machine each morning and throughout the day showing the center's predictions for severe storms for the day.

Weather watches are issued when necessary. Kansas City and local stations such as Lansing are kept busy keeping up with the center's prediction on changing violent weather patterns.

Once a watch has been established for the local area, the Lansing station swings into action. It alerts the Civil Defense workers and police and fire depts. to the existing conditions.

This is now done by the bureau's new bell and light system. Four numbers on a wall-dial are used to alert police, Civil Defense system or set of sirens to warn the Lansing public. Eventually this system, developed by Michigan Bell, will be extended into schools and factories.

Another new innovation at the bureau is the radio communication systems it uses to communicate with mobile ham units that will take to the perimeter of the Lansing area in case of a tornado activity.

These units will radio information back to the bureau in the case of approaching tornadoes. Radar information is also used by the Lansing station. A teletype is used which is connected to radar stations at Flint, Muskegon and Detroit.

Radar, according to Julien, is not infallible in its identification of tornadoes. Characteristic patterns for identifying tornadoes on the scope have not as yet been thoroughly established, according to the meteorologist, according to the meteorologist.

The Lansing center also makes use of state-wide reports from official agencies such as the State Police in identifying tornado activity. This information is coordinated with Civil Defense agencies.

Local news agencies then work with the Bureau and CD in presenting the public with the latest information on storm activity.

ENTER, TORNADO

Thunder Downdraft Swirls

In Michigan, tornadoes usually occur between 2 and 7 in the afternoon and reach a peak in late May, according to James Harrington, associate professor and instructor of MSU's two courses in meteorology.

This is the time of the day and year when land air is basically unstable, he said.

Tornadoes may be of varying intensities, according to Harold L. Julien, meteorologist at the Lansing weather Bureau.

Usually in Michigan he stated, "they only last 15 to 20 minutes. However," he continued, "in the lower Midwest they are of much longer duration, some as long as two to three hours."

Harrington said that tornadoes are formed in a storm with violent spiraling thunderstorms. These thunderstorms may build up to have cloud formations of between 38,000 and 50,000 feet.

A tremendous amount of energy is bound up in these thunderstorms Harrington warned, especially when certain jet streams (winds aloft in the higher atmosphere) combine to keep this energy from immediate release.

A peak is finally reached by these storms where tornado activity becomes imminent. The downdraft involved in thundercloud formation may take on a whirl motion, which intensifies as it grows smaller.

This swirl becomes a twister eventually, continued Harrington. It dips down to the ground and begins to move with the parent cloud. However, not all twisters touch ground, said Harrington.

TORNADO WARNER--Harold Julien, chief weather meteorologist at Capital City Airport, will use this new system of communicating tornado warnings via seven radios. They are connected to ham operators, Civil Defense workers, State Police, area departments and other radio stations.

Europeans Unite For Big Bug Battle

Man is beginning to win the constant battle against the insect and plant pests in Europe under the research of OILE (International Organization for Biological Control), Milorad Tadic said here Thursday.

Tadic, a major research scientist for OILE who is currently doing research at the University of Arkansas, said the organization's main objective is coordination of the individual research centers in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East.

"Europe has some difficulties in coordinating research," Tadic said. "Political divisions of the member countries divide the battle into too many fronts."

Inadequate research facilities, Tadic said, make research unorganized. "What the research centers have done," he said, "is united their possibilities."

Tadic said that Europe is behind in this research field compared to research organizations in America and commonwealth countries.

Because of the political division and lack of united interest, OILE made it possible for government institutions, private institutions, private universities and individuals to join, Tadic said.

Although OILE is constantly opening new fronts in the battle, it focuses chiefly on insect and plant pests. Research is done in groups in the various member-countries and is financed by the organization, he said.

"OILE maintains good relations with other research organizations in the world including those of the United Nations," he said. Documented research is continually exchanged between these organizations.

Measles Vaccine To Be Administered

Michigan is preparing to administer 136,000 shots of the Schwarz measles vaccine as a result of an outbreak of the disease, which resulted in two cases of encephalitis, or brain fever, in January.

In Ingham County vaccine will be available in limited amounts to those children who would not ordinarily receive immunization through their regular doctors, Dr. Maurice F. Reizen of the Ingham County Board of Health said Thursday.

Since the amount of vaccine is limited, the emphasis will be on prevention of the spread of measles rather than on individual protection, he said.

The vaccine will be made available to children entering school for the first time last fall and, if more vaccine becomes available, to pre-schoolers who will be entering kindergarten this fall.

A crash immunization program halted the near-epidemic in Isabella County in January and illustrated the need for vaccination, reports the Medical and Pharmaceutical Information Bureau, a division of Science Public Relations, Inc.

State legislative action to require a measles inoculation before entering school in Michigan also resulted.

The Schwarz-strain live-measles vaccine was developed in February, 1965. It is the newest of the vaccines, and only one shot is required to give what is believed to be life-long immunity.

The year 1966 was to have been a big year for common measles epidemics. But vaccination of more than eight million susceptible children since February, 1965, has resulted in fewer cases of measles this year than last.

The U.S. Public Health Service, which last year predicted a 1966 epidemic, recorded in the first 14 weeks of 1966 scarcely more than 100,000 cases of measles, an estimated 15-25 per cent of the actual number. This is well below the 1965 figure for the same period and some 65,000 below the five-year median.

Anti-measles drives are in progress across the nation. Chicago has already used 50,000 doses of the Schwarz vaccine in its immunization program.

Private physicians and pediatricians are cooperating with community and state programs from the New England states to California. Some areas estimate that, for every shot of measles vaccine given in a mass program, five are given by the family doctor.

Termed a "needless" disease by public and private health authorities, common measles kills almost 400 children a year and causes many cases of mental retardation and middle-ear damage, among other lasting effects.

Non-Union Co. Withdraws

After a Wednesday afternoon picket against them by Painters Local No. 845, employees of the Dalman Construction Co. failed to show up for work Thursday morning on Spartan Stadium.

In a letter to the University the non-union Dalman Co. stated it wished to withdraw from its present contract for sandblasting and painting the stadium because of union problems. "The contract is still in effect and can only be terminated by the Board of Trustees," said Clair Huntington, supervisor of new construction on campus.

Representatives from the University will meet with Dalman officials, according to Huntington, to discuss the company's problems and decide if they can be solved.

"If no solutions are possible," said Huntington, "a committee will draw up a proposal for the completion of the job, and hopefully submit it to the May meeting of the board."

At the same time the equipment of striking carpenters and bricklayers lay idle for a fourth day as negotiations between labor and management remained at a standstill. No meetings were scheduled for Thursday or today.

Muscular Dystrophy Tag Day Saturday

A Muscular Dystrophy Tag Day drive will be held by Phi Sigma Delta fraternity from 9-4 Saturday.

All brothers will be strategically located at major street corners and shopping centers throughout East Lansing, Terry Lefco, Phi Sigma Delta president, reports.

The Tag Day drive is part of a national campaign of Phi Sigma Delta to collect for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America Inc. Phi Sig chapters all over the country will participate.

Fraternity Vice President Milton Cohen stated that many charities were checked, and M.D.A.A. was found to be the most deserving. 80 per cent of every dollar given to M.D. goes for research, patient services, public health education, professional education and training and community services. This means that a minimum of funds go toward administration and other costs not directly beneficial to the M.D. victim.

Mrs. Milton Wiesel, president of the Lansing area chapter M.D.A.A. Inc., urged all citizens and students of East Lansing to support this nation-wide event of Phi Sigma Delta, and expressed ed the appreciation of all those who count the most, the tens of thousands of children and adults afflicted with muscular dystrophy, to Phi Sigma Delta for sponsoring this event.

Blood Drive

In independent housing Bethel Manor has contributed 50 per cent and Bower House 43 per cent.

The leading men's residence hall is Shaw with East having a 25.6 per cent record and West, an 8.5 per cent showing.

The highest in women's residence halls are West Mayo with 21.8 per cent and Gilchrist with 14 per cent.

The highest precincts on campus are East Shaw, precinct seven, and West Mayo, precinct four.

In competition for the Army and Air Force Trophy the Army has donated 176 pints and the Air Force 91.

Today's blood drive is scheduled for 9 a.m.-3 p.m. and rides are still available by calling 353-6359.

Open Air Cinema Set For Tonight

Union Board will present the film "Captain Newman, M.D." at 9 tonight and Saturday night along the Red Cedar next to the Auditorium. Admission is 10 cents.

The film, which stars Gregory Peck, Angie Dickinson and Eddie Albert, is the first of a Union Board series titled Cedar Cinema.

Spectators should bring blankets if the showing is outside. In case of bad weather, the movie will be shown in 31 Union.

Groups Change Officers

Angel Flight
Members of the Phillip L. Bell Squadron of Angel Flight elected new staff officers for the coming year. They are commander, Major Susan Smith, Escanaba junior; administrative services officer, 1st Lt. Jo-Anne Gilbert, Sturgeon Bay, Wis., junior; and controller, 1st Lt. Carol Lamagna, Lake Orion sophomore. Information services officer, 1st Lt. Germaine Jarvis, Dearborn freshman; operations officer, 1st Lt. Patricia Currie, Westover AFB, Mass., freshman; and adjutant recorder, 1st Lt. Joyce Brenner, Montgomery, Ala., sophomore. The new slate of officers will be installed next week during "change of command" initiation ceremonies.

Sigma Delta Chi
Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, announced its officers for the 1966-67 school year Sunday. Elected were: president, Andrew Morrison Jr., Niles senior; vice president, Rick Plianin, Detroit sophomore; secretary, Leo M. Zamea, Grand Rapids junior; and treasurer, Arthur C. Klein Jr., Owosso sophomore.

Democratic Club
Members of the East Lansing Democratic Club last week elected MSU graduate James A. Harrison to be chairman for the coming year. Harrison said the biggest task ahead of the group is to find 46 Democrats in East Lansing to seek election as delegates to the Ingham County Democratic Convention. The deadline for filing nominating petitions for precinct delegate is May 24. A candidate must obtain 15-20 signatures from registered voters in his or her precinct.

WSU Offering Graduate Grants
Students may apply now to Wayne State University for graduate scholarships in vocational rehabilitation counseling. Scholarships for the Master of Arts degree provide $600 or more per quarter for six quarters plus full cost of tuition and registration fee. Trained rehabilitation counselors help physically, mentally or emotionally handicapped young people, and adults toward private employment and independent lives. Interested students should contact Louis J. Cantoni, 385 Education Building, Temple 3-1400, Extension 7140.

School Tuition Costs 'U' $144,335

By JOANN BAER
State News Staff Writer

Because 5 or 10 per cent more children of MSU students will be attending East Lansing Public Schools fall term, married housing fees are increasing $4. Tuition for children of students living in married housing units is completely financed by the University. During the current school year the University paid the city of East Lansing $144,335. The tuition paid for each student attending a secondary school is $350.69 per year and $234.35 per year if the student is attending elementary school. Of the 571 children living in married housing, 86 attend East Lansing Junior and Senior High Schools. The remainder are either pre-school age or walk to the Spartan Village School, which is for grades one through three, and the Red Cedar School for grades through six. Students in the lower grades walk to school, said Ray Lamphear, married housing manager, but those in secondary school are bussed from various points within their housing complex. These figures are merely approximations, he stated. It is virtually impossible to determine how many school children there are until school actually begins. A second reason, stated by the State Board of Trustees, for the fee hike is the increase in labor costs. This includes costs of materials, which are constantly rising, as well as maintenance and operation, said Lamphear. Costs for the operation of married housing come entirely from a fixed income, so if prices of materials go up, so must fees, he continued. Rent in the single bedroom apartments is $90 at the present time, $96 in two-bedroom apartment. The fee hike will increase rent to $94 and $100, respectively.

The number of children in a family has no bearing on the rent charge, said John J. Roetman, assistant manager of married housing. Rent was not increased on the basis of the number of children but rather on the increased cost of education, he stated.

The increase in fees itself will have little effect on the number of families moving into or out of married housing, he stated. This term there are 2,056 families living in married housing apartments with 283 on the waiting list for one-bedroom apartments and 250 waiting for two-bedroom apartments. There will be approximately 250 families moving out of married housing after spring term, with the same number expected to leave after summer, said Lamphear.

Goldbrickers

"During my first two years, I had 13 deaths in the family (including my grandfather four times), three cases of mono and a ruptured appendix. But by the time I was a senior, the faculty was so hip, that it took leukemia to get me through chemistry."

A coed from NYU tells an interesting story about how she learned the cruel facts of life about missing tests. "I came down with a 24-hour virus the day of my midterm. I had to miss the test and when I tried to explain it to my teacher, he mumbled something about being born yesterday, and told me I was getting a zero."

"Thinking fast, I burst into tears and told him that I had really visited a gynecologist and was two months pregnant. Not only did he forget about the zero, but he waived the exam altogether. It just goes to show, it doesn't really pay to be honest in a corrupt world."

Another popular pastime for the goldbrickers is fabricating term papers. In courses where students are asked to compile their own survey material, this practice is most common. However, fabricated term papers have been known to appear in courses such as literature, philosophy and even history. Of course this practice is necessarily more dangerous than cutting classes or tests, but at schools where the faculty is uninformed, fabrication has prospered.

How do today's college students feel about their new game? Surprisingly, there are few indications of even slight guilt. "Why shouldn't I try to get away with what I can? In this world, it's not what you know, it's how you use it. I'm doing myself less good by religiously trying to learn more, than I am by channeling what I already do know into trying to do less. Besides, if the school really cared, they would have stopped me long ago."

This is your chance, Student #7026941. Drink Sprite and be somebody.

Take heart. Take a dime. Then take a bottle of Sprite from the nearest pop machine. Suddenly it's in your hand. Cold. Biting. Tart and tingling. You cackle fiendishly and rub your hands together. (You should; they're probably chilled to the bone by now.) You tear off to a corner, alone, but within earshot of your fellows. And then? And then? And then you unleash it. SPRITE! It fizzes! It roars! It bubbles with good cheer! Heads turn. Whispers. "Who's that strangely fascinating student with the arch smile. And what's in that curious green bottle that's making such a racket?" And you've arrived! The distinctive taste and ebullient character of Sprite has set you apart. You're somebody, uh...uh, whoever-you-are.

Sprite
SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

'Boys From Syracuse' Weekend Tryouts Set

Tryouts will be held this weekend for "The Boys From Syracuse," a Rogers and Hart musical comedy which will tour the Northeast Command this summer.

Each year several schools are chosen to send entertainment tours overseas during the summer. MSU's company will tour armed forces bases in Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and Newfoundland.

The program is sponsored by the Dept. of Defense and the USO in conjunction with the American Educational Theater Assn.

Sidney Berger, assistant professor of speech, will direct the play. "I especially like this play," Berger said, "because it is filled with humor." "The Boys From Syracuse," first produced in 1938, is based

Bosses' Lunch Set Sunday

The 11th Annual Bosses' Luncheon, sponsored by the Business Women's Club, will be held at 11:45 a.m. Thursday at Kellogg Center in the Big Ten Room. Members of the club, all on the clerical staff, invite their bosses to this event. Approximately 450 members and guests will attend.

The guest speaker will be Edgar A. (Bud) Guest Jr., from Detroit's WJR radio station. His speech is titled, "On the Sunny Side of the Street." Currently heard over Detroit's WJR radio station, he is the son of poet-philosopher Edgar A. Guest.

Committee members for this year's luncheon are: Joyce Thayer, chairman, Dorothy Dixon, Barbara Hanna, Barbara Edelhauer and Nancy Elliott. The club holds meetings on the first Wednesday of each month from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., October through June, in the Union.
