JIMMY RAYE TAKES AIM AT THE HOUSTON DEFENSE AND AN UNDEFEATED SEASON

'Kingston Trio' on soccer bill

By NORM SAARI
State News Sports Writer

Rivalry is the psychological effect that can give a team or player incentive to perform on a stronger competitive basis.

And for two members of the MSU soccer team, the rivalry could be showing Saturday at 10 a.m. as the Spartans host Purdue in their opening game of the season.

It centers around a trio of J-macians. On the MSU side, last year's leading goal scorer Tony Keyes and promising sophomore Trevor Harris are concerned. For Purdue, it's John Plummer.

Keyes and Trevor are forwards who both prepped at College High in Kingston and were star city league soccer players. They played their championship game against a team sparked by defenseman Plummer.

"He is a big man and makes you think what to do," Keyes said about Plummer. "On defense, he is rough and tries to play you close. You have to use your quickness in order to get by him."

Keyes, a junior, is only 5-7 and weighs 140 pounds. His partner on the Spartan offense, Harris, who will be taking over for injured Guy Busch, is 5-11 and weighs 175 pounds, but Plummer is 6-1 and weighs in at 220.

Soccer Coach Gene Kenney rates Harris as one of the finest center forwards he has ever coached.

"His array of shots is outstanding," Kenney said. "He is accurate with either foot and his head is in getting the ball into the goal."

Harris also possesses one of the fastest shots in soccer. Although never officially timed, a close estimate is that he can kick the ball about 65 miles per hour toward the goal.

Last year, the Spartans met Purdue in the opening game of the season and defeated the Boilermakers 10-0. Their offense centers around Borre Westerlin, a forward who scored seven goals last season.

"We are in the best running shape I've seen in my 12 years of coaching here for this early in the season," Kenney said. "If we play a good game, we should be able to take them."

Along with Keyes and Harris, starting on the Spartan forward line will be Gary McBrady at outside right, Ernest Tuchscherer at inside left and Tom Kreft at outside left.

McBrady scored seven goals and assisted on eight others last season. Tuchscherer is a sophomore, but one of the most promising men in the line-up. He was selected last spring to play on the U.S. Olympic team. Kreft, a junior, scored 10 goals and assisted on eight others last year.

Defensively, starting for the

The Spartan defense was nicknamed the "wall" last year after they allowed their opponents only six goals for the entire season.

Starting goalie will be Joe Baum, a junior. Baum earned the starting position this year when last year regular Kevin O'Connell decided not to return to school this fall.

Ruggers to face Blackrock

The season starts Sunday for the MSU Rugby Club as it meets Blackrock at Windsor.

The entire front line returns for the Spartans this season and Club President Mike Auer reports several new students have shown interest in the club.

"Possibly, we will field the strongest MSU Rugby Club ever," Auer said. "The turnout of newcomers was very encouraging and we should be able to form a B team."

Auer also was able to find a replacement for Coach Neville Doherty, as his graduate program in agricultural economics forced him to move to Washington, D.C., for a work-study program.

Two native Englishmen found to assist new players and coach the team are Paul Robinson, a Fulbright Scholar, and Brian Keefe.

Rugby is considered the national sport in the Commonwealth nations. Along with the two new coaches, new players who have rugby experience are Jerry Witherrill, a fullback who played two years in England while stationed with the U.S. Marines, and David Leece, a "hooker" or center from Australia.

Auer, a Harvard grad, also said John Balch, a graduate of Yale, will be playing in the scrum.

Returners who are expected to lead the MSU attack include Lin Feun, Kent Harder, Clark Ramm, Rick Allen, Mike Edgeworth, Mike Appleford, Ron Bacon and Mike McCarthy.

The ruggers operate as a club sport and do not receive any financial backing from the university.

"But we prefer to remain this way," Auer said. "As we can do all our own scheduling, decide eligibility and conduct practices with our own autonomy."

In addition to the ten-game fall schedule, the ruggers play a spring schedule of midwestern independents and Big Ten teams.

Garrett, Conti lead gridgers

Two football seasons, one Rose Bowl game, two Big Ten championships, two undefeated regular seasons, and two near national championships later, Tony Conti and Drake Garrett find themselves replacing two All-Americans, Clinton Jones and George Webster as this year's Spartan co-captains.

Garrett, a 5-8, 185-pound all-state halfback from Dunbar High School, is an experienced defensive back with two letters to his credit.

In his sophomore year, he was a punt and kickoff specialist and led the team in both departments. Last fall, he led the team in interceptions with three.

His speed and quickness are his greatest asset. An early practice ankle injury has been hampering him, but Garrett feels that he will be ready for the opener against Houston. Garrett is majoring in physical education.

Conti, 5-10, 225-pound all-state guard from Mt. Clements St. Mary's showed his ability last year at guard where he earned a spot on the UPI all-Big Ten first team. This season he has been playing both tackle and guard.

"Both positions have their good points, but guard is a little more fun because you get to pull out more for blocking," Conti said.

Conti has been known by his coaches as one who plays over injuries. Conti's major is liberal arts.

Being a co-captain means extra responsibility, according to Conti and Garrett.

"Mondays after games, I could take it a little easy," Conti said, "but now I lead offensive running drills and if I dog it, everyone might."

Garrett has received the "Oil Can" award for the last two years.

"I now feel less inclined towards clowning," he said, "because I'm serious about the game and that's the example I want to set."

"As for spirit, I believe this is something that comes after the first game, but right now everyone seems to have the drive."

"We have a young team, especially on defense," Conti said, "but the men are there to fill the gaps left open from last year's graduation."

Beaumont boys meet once again

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

Don't be surprised to see MSU defensive back Jesse Phillips exchanging words with Houston flanker Don Bean after they run into each other Saturday.

He'll just be asking what the latest news is from home.

Phillips, Bean and three other players on each team hail from Beaumont, Texas, a town which has thrived on football and has produced some outstanding players in the past few years.

Others from Beaumont, who may be playing Saturday, are MSU's Tody Smith, Frank Traylor and William Ware, and Houston's second string quarterback Ken Bailey, starting defensive tackle Cliff Larson and safety Gus Holloman.

All four MSU players prepped at Pollard High School in the city, where Smith's father is coach. His older brother Bubba gained fame at MSU the past two years, and is now starring with the Baltimore Colts.

Houston's players came from rival schools in the town of around 135,000. Bailey and Larson went to Forest Park while Holloman graduated from French High School and Bean from Hebert.

"Bean lived just a few blocks away, so I know him real well," Phillips said. "I've played against him and Hebert before, and I've seen (Warren) McVea play."

As an example of how tough the competition was, Bean played in the same backfield with Jerry Levas, the star flankerback for Southern Methodist and former U.C.L.A. halfback Mel Farr, now with the Detroit Lions.

Phillips is the only Spartan from Beaumont who will get a starting assignment, while Bean, Larson and Holloman will start for Houston.

Bailey saw much action last week when regular quarterback Dick Woodall was injured. But Woodall is recovered now, and Bailey will back up once more.

Smith has been bothered by an injured foot, and whether he'll play or not is Daugherty's decision. But Traylor and Ware are both back-up men and stand an excellent chance of clashing with the hometowners.

Smith seriously considered enrolling at Houston, before finally deciding on MSU, and is said to have considered transferring there last year.

"I was in and out of Houston and they were in and out of Beaumont all summer and we worked out together so I know them all."

But you can bet that if Bailey fades back, pursued by Smith and Traylor, and passes to Bean, covered by Phillips, friendships will be forgotten.

Grid team smaller than in '66

First-stringers on MSU's 1967 football squad go lighter collectively than their counterparts on the Spartans' unbeaten 1966 Big Ten championship team.

A check of figures after players had their official weigh-in several weeks ago show the biggest changes are with the defensive unit.

Coach Duffy Daugherty's current defensive line regulars average out to 219 pounds per man, compared to the 229-pound average of the 1966 defensive unit. The defensive backs this fall average 186 pounds as contrasted to the 190-pound average of a year ago.

On the offensive line this fall, the average turns up at 210 pounds per man. One year ago it was 212 pounds per player. And in the backfield, this year's average is 194 pounds, and in 1966 it was 196 pounds.

Spartans seek Cougar tail

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

A team from deep in the heart of Texas with a number of stars who shined big and bright under the Astrodome roof one week ago provide the opening test for the MSU football team Saturday at Spartan Stadium.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. with a crowd of 65,000 expected to be on hand.

Houston, under Head Coach Bill Yeoman, once an MSU assistant, beat Florida State 33-13 last Friday night. The victory proved the Cougars haven't lost much from the offense that was the best in the nation last year.

Head Coach Duffy Daugherty said that scout Dave Smith's report was so glowing that, "If I'd listened much longer, I'd have lost my optimism."

Cougar star Warren McVea, an All-American last year as a junior, rushed for 103 yards in 15 carries and one touchdown in the game for 6.8 yards per carry short of what he averaged last year.

And he played only 18 minutes.

Houston's split end, Ken Hebert, the nation's leading scorer last year, had a less auspicious start. He caught only one pass (for 9 yards), kicked three of five extra points and averaged 43.5 yards per punt.

Last year he caught 38 passes for 800 yards and 11 touchdowns and scored 113 points.

Don Bean, a flanker with 9.7

second speed for the 100 yard dash, led the nation in punt return average last year. Safety Gus Hollomon, the school record holder for pass interceptions, and offensive guard Rich Stotter, an All-American candidate, also had fine showings in the opener.

Stotter, at 225 pounds, and Bill Pickens, 230, are a fine combination at the guards, having played together for two years. Stotter is joined by Bill Cloud, a 220-pound starter last year at left tackle.

Right guard Mike Young, in his first starting assignment, and All-Big Ten tackle Nick Jordan will be contesting with Cloud and Stotter in what should be interesting match-ups.

Houston's quarterback will probably be Dick Woodall, a senior who completed two of six passes before being injured against Florida State. Woodall saw 52 minutes of action spelling Bo Burris last year.

Burris' cousin, sophomore Ken Bailey, did a fine job after Woodall was injured last week.

Woodall has had only one pass intercepted in his varsity career, and should provide a stiff challenge to MSU's defensive secondary.

The Cougars will present a proven pass defense, but a line that has only the Florida State game to attest to its strength.

The secondary intercepted five passes while giving up 162 yards to the air attack that comprised 70 per cent of Florida State's offense.

The Cougar line, meanwhile, gave up only 44 yards on the ground, an average of two per play.

At safeties, Hollomon and Detroit native, Tom Paciorek, both seniors, are the top interceptors, while juniors Johnny Peacock, a starter last year, and Mike Simpson are experienced halfbacks.

The defensive line is composed of two sophomores at ends, and two juniors who lettered as reserves last year at the tackles. It averages 212 pounds per man.

The linebackers will be senior Greg Brezina, sophomore Mike Johnston, and junior Wade Phillips. Brezina and Phillips were both starters last year.

The job for that defense, will be no smaller than the one that MSU's defense must face, however.

Houston will have to contend with quarterback Jimmy Raye, MSU's second leading passer last year, and Al Brenner, a top end. The running attack will come from Dwight Lee, Bob Apisa, and either Frank Waters or Lamarr Thomas.

New faces wear old 'S' numbers

New faces will be wearing old numbers that Spartan fans are accustomed to seeing on the football field Saturday afternoons.

Familiar numbers like 26, 95, 41, 84, 77—worn by Clint Jones, Bubba Smith, Charlie Thornhill, Gene Washington and Jerry West, respectively last season—will be worn by new names Saturday when the Spartans open their 1967 season against the University of Houston at Spartan Stadium.

All of the new players wearing the "popular" numbers are sophomores and all hope the numbers will be as successful for them as they were for their predecessors.

Jones, Smith, Thornhill, Washington and West all made someone's All-American list last year and each received Big Ten Conference honors.

Wearing No. 26 this year will be Jack Pitts, also a halfback like Jones but on defense. Pitts was groomed as a quarterback his freshman year, but was switched to defensive halfback last spring.

A 6-0, 175-pounder from Decatur, Ga., Pitts is starter on defense for the Spartans Saturday.

"Pitts has come a long way on defense, considering he has only been at that position since last spring," said Duffy Daugherty. "He's an all-around athlete and will be of great help for us this year."

No. 26 has been worn by some of the most outstanding football players in Spartan history. Before Jones, Herb Adderly and Clarence Peaks wore it.

Don Law will be wearing Bubba Smith's No. 95. Law, a 6-0, 227-pounder from Brownsville, Pa., is listed as a linebacker, but Daugherty is thinking of using him at defensive tackle.

Thornhill's No. 41 will be worn by fullback Kermit Smith, a rugged 210-pounder. Smith, from Baytown, Texas, will run in reserve behind regulars Bob Apisa and Reggie Cavender at fullback.

No. 84, worn so successfully by Washington the past three years, will be taken over by Frank Foreman, also an end and one of the most promising sophomores on the Spartan squad. Foreman is nursing an injury presently, but the Spartan coaches are going to be relying on him heavily when he returns.

Foreman is a 6-2, 189-pounder from Louisville, Ky.

West's No. 77 will be on the jersey of Craig Wycinsky, an offensive tackle. Wycinsky is listed on the No. 2 offensive line behind right tackle Ron Saul.

Wycinsky is a 6-2, 210-pounder from Novi.

Other graduating seniors who were starters last season and whose numbers will be worn by new players are Pat Gallinagh (No. 55), Jerry Jones (No. 29), Nick Jordan (No. 72), Dick Kenney (No. 42), Jeff Richardson (No. 57) and Jim Summers (No. 20).

Perhaps the most familiar number last year was George Webster's No. 90. But Daugherty asked that it be retired, making only the second MSU football number retired.

College football rolls into full gear

By DANNY DAUGHERTY
State News Sports Writer

"We're Number 1," a cheer that once again may spring up on as many as five campuses, sets the scene for the 1967 football season.

With nine different polls in existence, and the lack of a national championship playoff, college football finds itself in a controversial position. Last year MSU, Notre Dame and Alabama all claimed to be the best team in the nation.

This year promises to present the same kind of situation because several of the top rated teams will not meet.

The ten best teams across the nation were among the top five in the preseason polls but their order differed. The Associated Press poll, composed of sportswriters and sportscasters across the country, picked Notre Dame No. 1, followed by Alabama, Michigan State, Texas, Miami of Florida, Georgia, Southern California, UCLA, Tennessee and Colorado.

Sports Illustrated also put the Fighting Irish first with Georgia, Miami of Florida, Texas, Alabama, MSU, Tennessee, USC, Arkansas and UCLA following.

Several important games were played last Saturday and the results have already affected the polls. UCLA beat Tennessee in the last two seconds and proved that the Gary Beban led Uclans could once again be the power in the west. First, however, UCLA must beat USC who trounced Washington State, 49-0.

This Saturday, two contests will shed some more light on who will end up on top this year. MSU plays a strong Houston team which has been rated in everybody's top twenty and is given a good chance to break into the top ten or even higher.

The other game and the most important of the two is between Texas and Southern Cal. Both are in the top ten. Southern Cal has a slight edge because it is the home team but Texas is rarely beaten by a team two years in a row. Texas was beaten last year, 10-6.

The Big Ten will meet many of the nation's best in non-conference play this year. MSU will meet Houston, USC and Notre Dame in what could be the toughest nonconference schedule in the Big Ten and perhaps the country.

Illinois will play Florida Saturday and even though the Gators will not have Heisman winner Stever Spurrier with them this year, they have an outstanding halfback in Larry Smith.

Also on Saturday, Indiana will take on Kentucky and Northwestern will entertain the Hurricanes from Miami. Next week Minnesota plays Nebraska, who although beaten by Alabama in the Orange Bowl last season, should be strong this year, and Northwestern will play Missouri.

Apisa tops list of Spartan stars

Though last year's Spartan All-American list of five was the largest in MSU history, this season's could prove to have even more.

Several pre-season pools have picked a handful of Spartan players, numbering from two to six, for All-American honors.

Included in that group is Bob Apisa, a two-year All-American and Big Ten selection. If he is selected to the honored list again this season, he will become the first in Spartan history.

Apisa already has the most impressive offensive showing of any Spartan fullback. Twice he has overcome knee surgery after the end of the season and come back the following year for another successful season.

In this two-year career at MSU, Apisa has scored 18 touchdowns. As a sophomore, he scored in each of his first seven games, finishing with nine touchdowns. He was fourth in the Big Ten in scoring and third in yards gained.

Last season, despite missing most of the last four games, he again scored nine touchdowns and rushed for 445 yards.

At 6-1 and 214 pounds, the native-born Hawaiian has the power and speed to make him perhaps the most feared fullback in the conference.

Also up for All-American as well as conference honors is Jimmy Raye, who guided MSU through an undefeated season last fall.

Though small, at 5-10 and 174 pounds, Raye showed last year that he can pass with the best of them. He led the Big Ten with a 10.2-yard average gain per pass attempt and made ten touchdowns, the second highest season mark in Spartan history.

Raye is also a threat as a runner, which makes his passing game more effective. He gained 436 yards on 122 carries last year and scored five touchdowns.

He finished second to Purdue's Bob Griese last season in average yards gained per attempt in both passing and rushing--6.7 to 6.9.

Another backfield player who promises to receive much national attention is Dwight Lee. A senior, Lee was known better as a blocker for Clint Jones the last two years.

With Jones gone, Lee has been the Spartans' top scorer in spring and early fall scrimmages. A 6-2, 202-pounder, Lee has also been used at fullback.

On the offensive line, the Spartans have Tony Conti, Joe Przybycki, and Al Brenner who have received early national recognition. Conti, a 5-10, 216-pound senior is co-captain of the team and will handle the right guard position. He made first team All-Big Ten last fall.

Przybycki is a 6-1, 244-pound tackle, the biggest on the line. This is his third straight year as a first string player at the tackle position.

Brenner appears to be the successor to Gene Washington at end. A junior in his second season as a starter, the 6-1, 194-pounder caught 22 passes for 357 yards and one touchdown last season.

On defense the Spartans have three potential All-American and conference players--George Chatlos, Jess Phillips and Nick Jordan.

Chatlos saw considerable action as a defensive end last season while backing up Bubba Smith and Phil Hoag. A 5-11, 210-pound senior, Chatlos caused seven fumbles last season.

Phillips has been assigned to handle the roverback position which is perhaps the toughest on the Spartan defense.

Phillips has been a mainstay on the Spartan defense for the last two years playing the safety position. He was named to the Big Ten's first defensive team.

Jordan is the biggest man on defense with Tody Smith and Roger Ruminski out of the lineup. He made all-Big Ten last season on defense.

Duffy counters punt rule

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Editor

Three major changes in college football rules have occurred since last year, but the one which will have the most effect on teams this fall is that concerning punts.

The new punt rule states that no interior lineman can leave his position until after the ball is kicked. Only eligible receivers—ends and backs—can go downfield after the ball is snapped from center.

Previously, interior linemen could rush downfield to cover a punt receiver as soon as the ball was snapped by the center.

The idea of the new rule was to encourage crowd-pleasing punt returns and to discourage "swarm coverage" that led many safety men to signal for a fair catch.

Many coaches, however, insist that the fine balance between offense and defense has been tossed far out of kilter by the new rule.

Spartan football Coach Duffy Daugherty is among those who have protested the punt rule. Others include Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian, Army's Tom Cahill, and UCI's Tommy Prothro.

Each insists that it will cause an increased number of knee injuries to the "delayed" interior linemen.

"The knee injuries occur on leg blocks. This new rule will enable receiving teams to double teams those coming down after the kick," Daugherty explained.

Most coaches experimenting with the new rule during spring and early fall practices found that it did do one thing—create situations for longer run backs.

There was little mention of an increase in knee injuries as few coaches failed to use the new rule in scrimmages for fear of risking injuries to key players.

Daugherty thinks he has found an answer to the rule. To prevent the long run back, he plans to use two punters, one right-footed and one left, depending on which side of the field the Spartans are lined up on.

"If we are on the right side of the field I'll use my left-footed kicker, Jack Pitts," Daugherty said. "He'll kick for the corner but if he were to shank the ball off the side of his foot it would go into the center of the field where we would have our best coverage."

"In the same way, if we are on the left side of the field I'll use my right-footed kicker, Dick Berlinski," he said.

If the team is in the middle of the field?

"I'll use the kicker who is best kicking that day," Daugherty said.

Other coaches like Daugherty have tried ways to beat the new punt rule. Ohio State's Woody Hayes said he might go for a field goal instead of punting. The new rule doesn't cover place-kicks.

Can you imagine a team trying for a field goal from its own end zone?

The other two rule changes were that the clock would stop automatically after the exchange of the ball, and that coaches can now legally coach from the sidelines while the game is in progress. Part of the last rule change is that more than just one player can now talk to the coach during a timeout.

"On coaching from the sidelines," Daugherty said, "we coaches can do legally what we've been doing for years—use hand signals to communicate with the players."

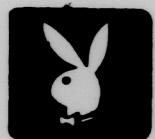

"It's going to make honest coaches of us all."

Good Point!

Jack Pitts (l) and Dick Berlinski (r) will be the two punters Duffy Daugherty will use Saturday. Pitts is left-footed and Berlinski, right and either will be used depending on the Spartans' field position.

Pro football No. 1

NEW YORK (P) — Professional football has supplanted major league baseball as the national sport in the opinion of sports editors surveyed by the Associated Press Managing Editors' Association.

The sports editors, asked to give an estimate of what percentage of their readers followed each sport, rated professional football at 78 per cent followed by college football at 77 and major league baseball at 75.
