

ASMSU tax hike proposal rejected

By TRINKA CLINE
State News Staff Writer

There will be no tax increase effective winter term. By over a 2-1 margin, the student body rejected the proposed ASMSU tax increase from 50 cents per student per term to 75 cents.

Unofficial results showed 5,838 votes opposed to the increase and 2,241 in favor. Terry Hassold, ASMSU Cabinet President, said, "I'm very disappointed. It has been my feeling that with the increase we could have expanded a number of programs and made student government more meaningful and beneficial at MSU. The only heartening thing to me personally has been the large turnout—one of the largest."

W.C. Blanton, senior member-at-large, said he felt the results showed primarily a vote against the resolution concerning the anti-war march in Washington, D.C. During the open forums and discussions the Vietnam resolution was a high point of controversy.

In the resolution, the board did not take a stand, but encouraged students opposing the war to participate in the march.

Blanton said he hoped students remember the power they have shown in the referendum: "We cannot raise the tax over the objections of 5,000 people, and John A. Hannah cannot stop a visitation policy against 5,000 people who want it."

He added that he remembered working against an earlier tax increase and the radio tax when he lived in a residence hall. "It was a reaction against people I didn't think should be doing what they were. I didn't understand why they needed so much money for telephones and postage and expenses people have fussed about prior to this vote. I understand the vote."

The board voted two weeks ago to bring the tax issue before the student body in a referendum. In order for an increase to take effect winter term, if approved by the students, the University Business Office had to be notified by early this week, according to Pete Ellsworth, ASMSU vice chairman.

Although the board's announcement was the first official notice that a tax increase was needed, it was not the first time the possible need of an increase was discussed.

From the beginning of the Third Session in April, the board has had no general fund with which to work. By the first of fall term, many board members agreed some new source of funds would be necessary in preparing the 1968 budget.

Popular entertainment has been considered as a potential source. Presently the pop entertainment committee operates under a philosophy of aiming to "break even" rather than to make any significant amount of money.

The Third Session has stressed the need to leave the next board with at least $4,500 in the general fund for expenditures that cannot be anticipated several months in advance when the budget is being prepared.

Several board members also feel it is important to begin building a special projects reserve fund to back up pop entertainment and Water Carnival in case of sudden, large losses.

Greg Hopkins, ASMSU chairman, said that in addition to maintaining the present level of programs, interest in some projects justifies expansion and several new programs should be initiated. To do this, he said, more funds than obtained from the 50-cent tax would be needed.

A survey of Big Ten universities last week indicated that ASMSU is the only Big Ten student government directly taxing students, operates on the largest annual budget and handles one of the broadest ranges of services and programs.

Two Big Ten schools, Purdue and Northwestern, reported approval by the student body of direct assessments per student, but rejection of the idea by the administration. One student government official at Northwestern, where nearly half of the students voted on the tax issue, predicted acceptance by the university this year or next.

The student body at Indiana University, with the smallest student government budget, voted down a direct tax by a 3-2 margin last year. Most universities subsidize the student government from tuition and fees paid by the students.

I don't see why . . .

Romney calls bomb halt 'unwise' - differs with Percy

WASHINGTON — Republican presidential hopeful Gov. Romney said today it would be unwise to stop the bombing of North Vietnam without knowing whether the halt would bring some "worthwhile result."

Thus the Michigan governor appeared to differ with another GOP presidential possibility, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, who proposed over the weekend that President Johnson order periodic, unannounced halts in the bombing to test communist willingness to negotiate.

Romney dealt with Vietnam and his political hopes as he opened his first week as a formally announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. He threw his hat into the ring with a speech in Detroit Saturday.

In preparation for his tour abroad next month Romney came to the State Department Monday morning for a briefing by three assistant secretaries of state. They are William P. Bundy, assistant secretary for Asia, John Leddy, assistant secretary for Europe and Lucius Battle, assistant secretary for the Middle East.

Earlier Romney was interviewed on NBC's "Today" show, where he expressed belief that to stop the bombing of North Vietnam without "knowing" it could lead to some worthwhile result "would not be a very wise thing to do."

On the other hand, Romney suggested that if the United States knew a bombing halt would be a step toward Vietnam neutralization, for instance, then it would serve a useful purpose.

Romney acknowledged that his complaint of having once been brainwashed on the Vietnam war had hurt him in his drive for the GOP presidential nomination. But he contended his drop in the public opinion polls was due to the way his views were presented by the national press.

The press, Romney said, had been doing "a superficial job on what I've said."

And this had resulted, he added, in the charges that he was inconsistent in his positions, particularly on Vietnam.

As for the domestic scene, Romney contended "We're in a fiscal mess." He said he would not favor a tax increase without spending controls.

Romney said he would bring about reductions in spending by cutting space, highway beautification and other programs "not as essential as others."

Romney planned to spend most of the day in the closed briefing chambers of the administration, boning up for a three-week trip to Europe, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Romney will undertake this on-the-spot study of over-seas problems next month prior to campaigning for the New Hampshire primary, March 12.

Former Vice President Nixon, Romney acknowledged, now is the man to beat in the GOP sweepstakes, saying: "Nixon has more party support than anyone else."

But Romney, talking to newsmen after the broadcast interview, contended that a New Hampshire primary defeat would not be fatal for him because he is an underdog. On the other hand, he feels a victory in that primary is more vital to Nixon's hopes. And Romney said he would be the victor in New Hampshire by taking his views to the people.

His standing in the public opinion polls dropped after he charged that he had supported the original commitment to South Vietnam because he got a "brainwashing" from American generals and diplomats.

New proposals will be heard on U.S. surtax

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, holder of the key to tax legislation as chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, announced the committee will meet Nov. 28 to hear new administration proposals for reduced budget spending.

Deep spending cuts are the conditions set by the committee for considering President Johnson's proposal for an anti-inflationary 10 per cent surtax on individual income and corporation taxes as of Jan. 1.

Congressional sources said the administration plans to make a strong push to meet that deadline, despite the short time remaining. That could mean prolonging the session until Christmas.

The surtax had been considered dead for this session; Johnson so conceded on Friday at a news conference.

But on Saturday Britain devalued the pound from $2.80 to $2.40. On Sunday the Federal Reserve Board moved to defend the dollar from speculation by raising its discount rate.

Mills, an Arkansas Democrat, disclosed in a speech at Hot Spring, Ark., that Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler advised him, during the weekend, that the administration has prepared a new plan for spending cuts for the committee to consider.

Fowler, Budget Director Charles Schultze, and Chairman William McCleskey Martin of the Federal Reserve Board will be the witnesses at the Nov. 28 hearing, Mills said.

When it shelved the tax bill, the Ways and Means Committee said it would take up the issue again if Congress and the administration came to an agreement on reducing government costs.

Final decision delayed on dorm dress regulations

By LINDA GORTMAKER
State News Staff Writer

Milton B. Dickerson, vice-president for student affairs, has delayed final consideration of a proposal that dress regulations be abolished in women's residence halls until Women's Inter-Residence Council (WIC) answers further questions.

In a letter to WIC President Joan Aitken Monday, Dickerson questioned if approval of the proposal "would have any effect upon the current autonomy of individual residence halls" and if the proposal would violate Section 5.2 of the Academic Freedom Report.

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs approved the policy last week, while ASMSU passed it the week before. Chairman T. Clinton Cobb stated, "The committee felt that the matter of dress for women, as well as men, is better left to the individual to decide."

Dickerson asked in his letter, "Is there some way to separate residence hall regulations from other regulations which halls themselves make?"

He said comments from students last week also prompted him to raise this point.

Section 5.2 of the Academic Freedom Report recommends that after a governing group has made decisions affecting a number of living units, the living units should be asked for any suggestions of change. Dickerson's letter asked, "Have the halls individually had a chance to voice their opinions on the matter?"

Miss Aitken said WIC will discuss the questions at tonight's meeting in Wilson Hall. She declined from giving any further comment until after their meeting.

Dickerson had passed earlier this term a proposal stating that each women's residence hall could determine their own dress regulations.

At the faculty committee meeting when the proposal was passed, Cobb said "there was a divergence of opinion whether there should be dress regulations at all."

An official WIC proposal following approval of this policy "strongly recommended" that "hall councils of women's residence halls set no dress regulations, leaving the decision of appropriate dress up to the individual."

UN Red China debate before Assembly again

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Nationalist China's Foreign Minister Wei Tao-ming asserted today that the seating of Red China in the United Nations would lead to war by encouraging Peking in aggression.

Wei addressed the U.N. General Assembly immediately after Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath launched the annual debate on the Red China issue with an appeal to seat the Peking government as an "indispensable" step to safeguarding the U.N. charter.

Sambath called for the immediate expulsion of all Chinese Nationalist representatives from "the positions they hold unlawfully." He said all neighbors of Communist China, with the exception of Thailand, which he characterized as a colony of the United States, support the substitution of the Peking government for the Taiwan government in the United Nations.

As usual, all representatives of the Soviet bloc walked out when Wei began speaking. The assembly president, Foreign Minister Cornelius Manescu of Romania, had left the rostrum a few minutes before the Cambodian ambassador concluded. One of the vice presidents, Ambassador Jose Rafael Molina-Urena of the Dominican Republic, was in the chair during Wei's speech.

Philippine Ambassador Salvador P. Lopez came out strongly against seating Communist China. He declared Peking "does not appear to want to have anything to do with the United Nations at all."

The China debate is to resume Tuesday, and a vote is expected Friday on a resolution by Cambodia and nine nonaligned and Communist countries seeking to substitute Communist Chinese for Nationalist Chinese delegates in the United Nations and all related organizations.

Sources close to the Chinese delegation anticipate a vote of 59 to 45 against the pro-Peking resolution. Last year the vote was 57 to 46 on a similar resolution.

Liaison group to study student voting

By RON ROAT
Associate Campus Editor

With the MSU-East Lansing liaison committee members finally selected, the issue of the future of student voting in East Lansing will again be raised.

The committee, set up last spring but never activated, will be considering, among other issues, the registration of students as voters in East Lansing elections as East Lansing residents.

The committee, composed of four MSU representatives, including William Vincent, professor of humanities; Pat Smith, director of off campus housing; Joan Aitken, president of Women's Inter-Residence Council (WIC); and Bruce Dove, executive vice president of Inter-Fraternal Council; and four East Lansing representatives, including Mary P. Sharp, mayor pro-tem; Art Kramer, resident; Art Carney, assistant city manager; and George Eyde, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The problem, as argued by both sides, is extremely vague. The Michigan election law of 1965 refers to students once. "No elector shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence . . . while a student at any institution of learning."

The law also states, however, that every election clerk in Michigan "shall have power and it shall be their duty to require any applicant for registration to answer under oath any question touching his qualifications as an elector . . ." What questions should be asked, to determine exactly what, are completely up to the clerk involved.

"As you can see, that puts me right in the middle—between the law and the students," Mary J. Slavik, East Lansing city clerk, said.

News background

Miss Slavik explained that she is just as concerned about the vagueness of the Michigan voting laws as are many MSU students. That is the reason, she says, she has written letters and talked with officials in Lansing to encourage the legislature to clarify the issue.

She charged that most of the publicity about voter registration in the State News has been incorrect and one-sided.

Miss Slavik points to a State News editorial of March 6 of this year which begins, "According to the East Lansing city charter, anyone who is a Michigan resident and a qualified voter may change his registration to East Lansing. Thus, any student who declares his permanent residence as East Lansing would be eligible to switch."

She points out first that city charters and city laws have nothing to do with voter qualifications. State law determines them. Then Miss Slavik said that switching residence is simply not that easy.

Michigan statutes define voting residence as ". . . that place at which a person habitually sleeps, keeps his or her personal effects and has a regular place of lodging."

The only qualifications mentioned in the Michigan voting law is that the resident must be 21 years old, a resident of Michigan for 6 months and a resident of the city by the fifth Friday before the election.

52 CLASSES VISITED

Course study
off to good start

ASMSU course evaluation personnel have visited 52 classes thus far, and Leigh Burstein, committee chairman said that student response has been very good.

Twelve sets of questionnaires, a total of 363, have been processed by evaluation services and are now at the Computer Center for IBM processing.

This shows an average of about 30 questionnaires per class in classes which average 30-40 students.

Burstein also said that faculty response has been good. Of the 180 letters sent to faculty, evaluation services received 125 acceptances.

Two main objections were made by 25 instructors who said they did not wish to be evaluated. They either did not want to give up the class time required, or they thought the questionnaire was not adequate.

Burstein said he has met with several faculty members concerning changes in the questionnaire for next term.

One problem that course evaluation has been confronted with is the lack of student assistance in distribution.

Burstein predicts that an average of 15 courses each day will be visited for the remainder of the term.

"As we evaluate more courses, we will need more people to go into the classes," Burstein said. Students interested in participating in the distribution should call either the course evaluation office at 355-8281 from 3-5 p.m. or Bill Thomas at 351-0587. 26 classes are scheduled for evaluation today.

They are: Natural Science 191 sections 40, 41, 42, 222, 223, and 224; ATL 111 sections 321, 300, 302, 307, 308, 329, 313, H53 and 17; Economics 201, section 2; Social Science 231 sections 24, 18, 8 and 2; Humanities 241 sections 33H, 210, 307, 215S and 216; and Psychology 151 section 904.

Traffic finally moves as Hagadorn is paved

Traffic was finally flowing Monday along Hagadorn Road, a major East Lansing artery which is currently being widened.

Hagadorn Road, carrying much traffic between Grand River Boulevard and M-78 and north from campus, has been under construction for expansion from two to four lanes.

Contractors finished paving the asphalt base Thursday and Friday.

Robert Bruce, city engineer for East Lansing, said that this first coat of paving on Hagadorn is a two-inch layer of heavy mix asphalt. He said the final one-inch layer would not be laid until spring or summer.

The paving of Hagadorn Road is one of several projects affecting the city's streets due to repair of water mains, gas lines and the streets themselves.

Another street project, done by special assessment on Arbor Drive, would be graveled and hardened for the winter, Bruce said.

The city engineer also noted that several streets have cuts in them because water mains are being installed. He said the contractor had to repair the streets involved in his job.

Bruce said repairs by Consumer's Power Company affected some streets, though much of the work is being done in the parkways.

R.H. Lawlor, division manager of the Lansing division of Consumer's Power, said his company was making "rather substantial" repairs in the Saginaw, Coolidge, Abbott and Red Cedar River area.

Lawlor couldn't estimate how much of the construction involved cutting into streets, but said some 33,000 feet of pipe were being replaced due to corrosion and wearing out.

"East Lansing is a relatively old section of the gas system," said Lawlor. "These repairs should bring it up to a first class system."

"The project," said Lawlor, "should be completed by Dec. 15, or sooner. We're almost three-fourths done now."

Democrat wants Romney to resign

A Democratic state representative says he will seek an amendment to the Michigan Constitution to force Gov. Romney to resign.

Rep. Alex Pilch, D-Deerborn, says he's asking that a bill be drafted making any elected state official resign upon becoming a candidate for any national office.

Romney announced Saturday that he will seek the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

The season for junkets has begun in the Michigan Legislature with lawmakers scattering to all points of the U.S. and Central America on legislative study trips.

A calendar of trips for house lawmakers showed travel plans for at least 11 legislative study groups, including four House members going to Central America to study the area's common market plan.

Other lawmakers will use part of the three week recess in the legislature for trips to key cities in California, Texas, Florida, New York and other states.

Over Romney's vigorous objections, the lawmakers recessed until Dec. 12 so they could go home and contact their constituents about a proposed open housing law.

Republican State Representatives Phil Pittenger and Tom Brown of Lansing will take their long-awaited tour of the State Capitol next Tuesday, Nov. 21 at 9:00 a.m.

The two Lansing lawmakers are opposing a proposal by Sen. Garland Lane of Flint for the construction of a new Capitol building in the near future. Lane says the present Capitol is unsafe and proposes to prove it.

Brown and Pittenger say the tour is to convince the House members that Lane is incorrect.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said Monday that ten-month figures for 1967 show nearly 44,000 actions have been taken against Michigan motorists by the State Dept., including cancellations, revocations, suspensions, restrictions, denials and referrals to county driver safety schools. This is an increase of nearly 4,000 over last year and a hike of about 17,000 in these categories over 1965.

Hare said, "At the rate we are now going, we'll shatter all records for these actions against Michigan's errant drivers."

Vietnam peace supporters set initial meeting

The Students for Peace in Vietnam (SPV) will hold an organizational meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in 31 Union.

The meeting is a follow-up of the Conference on Vietnam and Beyond, held on campus Saturday.

The purpose of SPV is to provide "a structure through which students opposed to the war, both militants and pacifists, can act," David Lindeman, Springfield, S. D., sophomore, said.

SPV is a new campus organization formed as a result of the October peace demonstrations in Washington, D.C.

Tentative plans include draft counseling, student education on Vietnam, teach-ins and participation in a worldwide student peace demonstration on March 19.

ARMED 'RUSSIAN' Chartered plane hijacked to Cuba

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) -- The pilot of a twin-engine plane chartered for a flight to the Bahamas was forced into Communist Cuba Monday by an armed hijacker he described as a Russian.

"This man is armed and he intends to take this plane to Havana," the pilot, J.V. Raymond of Pompano Beach, radioed shortly after takeoff from Hollywood.

The message was received by the Federal Aviation Administration at Miami as Raymond was flying southward toward the Florida Straits.

The FAA reported the plane landed in Havana at 2:16 p.m. EST.

The FAA received a radio message from Havana that the hijacker would be allowed to disembark and that the plane would be free to return to the United States. Naismith speculated the plane might stop first at Key West on its return flight.

Naismith said his firm rented the plane to Marisy and picked him up by helicopter at Miami.

"The man was between 25 and 30 years old, dingy blonde and about 135 pounds," Naismith said. "He had a slight accent but spoke excellent English."

An FAA source confirmed that Raymond said, "There is a Russian aboard." Earlier, the FAA said it had not heard the word Russian.

In Havana, the Cuban Foreign Ministry said it had no information about the plane and Cuban radio made no reference to it in broadcasts.

Newsmen who approached Liberty Airport near Havana saw what appeared to be a twin-engine blue and white or blue and green plane parked on the landing strip surrounded by Cuban security cars and a van. The vehicles drove off and the plane was pushed to the side of the runway.

It was the same field where Maj. Richard Harwood Pearce landed in a small plane when he defected to Cuba last May. He was the highest-ranking U.S. officer to defect in the cold war.

George Naismith of Crescent Airways in Hollywood said the Piper Apache 2 was rented by a man who identified himself as Felix S. Marisy and said he wanted to go to Birmini, 60 miles east of Miami to pick up his wife.

"Two fighter jets from Homestead Air Force Base south of Miami were scrambled up to head off the plane but fell back when the hijacker went on the radio and warned he would kill the pilot and co-pilot, Jeff White, if the two F104 interceptors did not get off his tail.

The plane left Hollywood's North Perry Airport at 11:50 a.m. and was last heard from at 12:29 p.m. as it winged southward toward the Communist island, 90 miles south of Key West.

Ten minutes after the plane became airborne Raymond radioed the FAA and said: "I've been hijacked and told I'm going to Cuba."

Naismith said the plane carried 4 1/2 hours of fuel, more than enough for the two hour flight from Hollywood, just north of Miami, to Havana.

The FBI was immediately called into the case.

Albion president bans ZTA sorority

ALBION (UPI)--The sorority to which Lynda Bird Johnson belonged while at the University of Texas was banned from the campus of Albion College Monday in a dispute over the pledging of a Negro coed.

College President Louis W. Norris said all relations between Albion and Zeta Tau Alpha have "been terminated" effective immediately.

"We have been forced to take this action because of the refusal by the national organization to remove the probation of the Albion College chapter for its pledging of an Albion (Negro) student," Norris said.

The president's daughter belonged to the same sorority at its University of Texas chapter while she was in college.

Norris said the local chapter could continue as a local sorority. Last Friday, chapter president Janice Ballinger, Caracas, Venezuela, resigned from the national sorority and announced plans to organize a local sorority.

The sorority's national offices, at Evanston, Ill., suspended the Albion chapter after it pledged Cecelia Williams, a junior from New Baltimore, Mich. The sorority has had a chapter here for 38 years, and was one of eight national sororities on the campus.

'Strike papers' issued in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) -- The first "strike paper" hit the streets of Detroit today and two others were being readied to try to fill the vacuum created when the Detroit News and Free Press suspended publication.

Volume 1, number 1 of Detroit's Daily Express, a 16-page offset publication, was published in suburban Wyandotte with the help of some Free Press editorial personnel.

Also scheduled to begin publication were the Detroit Daily Press today and the Detroit Dispatch Tuesday.

A fourth newspaper, the Daily Times, halted operations today with its first edition ready to print. Mort Feder, the backer of the Times, said pressmen refused to work when the plates were ready to be put on the presses.

All four newspapers said they would use editorial personnel laid off by the Free Press, a morning newspaper which suspended publication after its Friday editions.

The Detroit News, an afternoon newspaper, was forced to suspend publication Thursday when 600 truck drivers represented by the Teamsters Union struck in a dispute over a new contract and set up picket lines.

The Free Press said it suspended publication on grounds refusal of News union members to cross the picket lines violated work contracts with both newspapers.

"The refusal to publish at the News is, in effect, a strike against both newspapers," John B. Olson, General Manager of the Free Press, said.

Editorial personnel at the News, not represented by any union, remained on the job.

No negotiations were scheduled today. The Free Press said it was scheduled to meet Tuesday with representatives of the American Newspaper Guild and the Teamsters Union, and the News was scheduled to bargain with its photo engravers Tuesday night.

On Friday, negotiations were scheduled between both newspapers and the International Typographical Union.

The Express carried national and international news in addition to state and local news, and a spokesman for the Daily Press said that newspaper also would include national and international coverage.

The Daily Press published 122 issues during the 134-day shutdown of the News and Free Press during a similar labor dispute in 1964.

US lesson: you can't teach an old horse new tricks

The celebration of the first anniversary of the "Orange Horse Rally" last Thursday marks something of equal importance...

year's revival. In the words of one of the coordinators, "Boy, was it depressing."

It is quite significant that the first action undertaken by US this fall was a useless revival of an occurrence out of their illustrious past.

US can trace its initial major publicity to the Bessey sit in. It was then that the organization was formed and became known campus wide.

The dichotomy between the two rallies is graphic illustration of the difference a year made. Last year's rally was a focal point for organization of student activists...

Settling for second best

The decline of the Big Ten has been proclaimed from coast to coast in recent months, and indeed, the conference seems weaker overall this year than perhaps at any time in the past.

Yet the fact remains that this fall, like last fall, the Big Ten possesses one team that surely ranks with the top two or three in the nation. And because of one of the conference's antiquated rules...

Because the Big Ten will not allow a team to appear in the bowl two seasons in a row, Purdue, which went last year because conference champion MSU was ineligible...

Surely the only one benefiting from this rule is the team fortunate enough to finish in second place. The fans, the conference champion, and indeed the entire Big Ten will continue to suffer needlessly until the outdated prohibition is rescinded...

OUR READERS' MINDS

To the Editor:

The article by Marion Nowak in College, November 16, 1967, State News, entitled "Romney: A Paradoxical Man," raises some questions that should be answered.

The article contends that Gov. Romney defeated his opponent in 1962 by "a more attractive, magnetic personality than his opponent John Swainson." In actuality, Romney won the '62 election because of one issue...

The article asserts, "will he be content to be merely the governor of Michigan?" inferring that the governorship is not enough challenge for Romney...

ney's influence is so weak he can't get his open housing bill passed through the Michigan legislature let alone the U.S. Congress...

When an attempt is made to compare Romney's ability to pass legislation to that of LBJ, we find there is no basis for comparison. In the four years of the Johnson Administration more landmark social legislation has been passed through Congress than any president in a century.

We, the undersigned, being members of a committee of concerned students and responsible for the proposed amendment to the ASMSU Constitution...

Specifically, we are proposing that the system of electing members-at-large (each responsible to approximately 35,000 students) be changed at the next election to a system of representation by resident complex...

MAX LERNER

A kind of savagery is descending on the war—in fact, on both wars—the war in Vietnam itself and the internal conflict in America over war policy.

There seem to be two groups of Johnson advisers in the current war policy review: the formal ones -- Rusk, McNamara, Gen. Westmoreland, Ambassador Bunker, Robert Comer--each of whom has a functional role in war policy...

Unmeasured cost of war: savagery of the mind

"The only words to describe the war's impact, at least in America, are a mounting rigidity, a rising anger and, always, anguish."

of tenacity--to hold on and on and on, in the face of both wars, with the conviction that in the long historic pull tenacity will be vindicated.

Rigid mind

In power terms they may be right. History is written by the survivors, and no one should underestimate the sheer power mass of wealth and war weapons that America possesses.

least in America, are a mounting rigidity, a rising anger and, always, anguish.

Take the case of the rigid mind. I start with the completely stalled peace front, on both sides. Clearly Ho Chi Minh has decided that nothing will budge him from his rigid refusal to negotiate until the bombing has stopped and American soldiers are out of Vietnam...

Whatever other qualities Dean Rusk has--mainly tenacity and survival power--he does not seem to have the imaginative flair for new alternatives that McGeorge Bundy, for example, is showing in the Ford Foundation projects for the inner city.

As Ken Galbraith has pointed out, the rigid mind is not a monopoly of those directly in the war. It is shared by the antiwar groups. There is a wearisome repetition of the same formulas for de-escalation, without any reference to Ho's rigidity or the Russian policy change.

Hershey wrong

Under every circumstance, the right of dissent must be cherished, not only to protect the minority but also to insure that competition of ideas on which majority rule rests. But the angers are a fact that the peace groups must recognize.

Who to doubt?

To the Editor:

At LBJ's direction 2,000 human beings are murdered in Vietnam each week; some of these are Americans, some are Vietnamese. Some question has been raised as to the validity of this endeavor: Judge Edgerton of the U.S. District Court of Appeals says it is illegal; General Hester says it is economic imperialism; Senator Fulbright says American military force should not intervene in Vietnam's Civil War.

Although the statements and loyalty of these hippies is uncertain, some doubt has been raised. It is just that the murderer, not the victims, should be given the benefit of this doubt.

OFFENSIVE STARTERS MAY SWITCH

Duffy unsure of depleted defense

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

Duffy Daugherty was probably tempted to open practice Monday for the Northwestern game by calling the team together and asking who could play defense.

MSU's defense started the year with nine first and second-string players injured or lost for the season. The ranks of defenders have now been depleted to such an extent that MSU doesn't have a two-deep defensive lineup, according to Daugherty.

The situation has now even reached the point that starting offensive linemen Tony Conti and Mitch Pruitt are likely to be moved to the defense.

Daugherty was doubtful MSU's leading tackler, Junior Charlie Bailey, would be able to play against Northwestern. He listed sophomores Don Law, Ken Hines, Frank Traylor, and Bill Ware as those who suffered injuries in the 21-7 loss to Purdue.

MSU started the season by substituting back-up defensemen, and resorted to switching starting players to different positions and borrowing players from the offense as the season has progressed.

Charlie Wedemeyer and Ken Heft moved to the defensive backfield for the Minnesota game and have stayed there for the last four games.

Heft started at halfback against Purdue and had six solo tackles. "Give him a spring practice at defensive back and he'd be a real good one. He's aggressive and a hard hitter," Daugherty said.

A tentative defense against Northwestern at this time would find Rich Saul and either Jim Juday or Bob Lange at the ends, Traylor and Ken Little at tackles, Rich Benedict and Nick Jordan at the guards, Chalos or Kermit Smith at linebacker and a choice of eight defensive backs.

Mike Young and Clinton Meadows are the only backup men for the four interior line positions, according to Daugherty.

A senior offensive unit will start against Northwestern, but if they are unable to move the ball, the underclassman second string will be substituted, Daugherty said.

The underclassman unit was more successful than the seniors against Purdue, and accounted for MSU's only touchdown.

Daugherty named Reggie Cavender as the "Spartan of the Week" for his play at fullback against Purdue.

Cavender was MSU's leading rusher with 71 yards in nine carries and provided some excellent blocking for halfback Lamar Thomas on power plays and end sweeps.

Baseball growing in Europe

By GARY WALKOWICZ
State News Sports Writer

Baseball, the good old American sport, is rapidly becoming popular in Europe.

So said Jan Hartog, commissioner of the Royal Dutch Baseball Assn., who was in East Lansing last Friday and spent the day with MSU Baseball Coach

Danny Litwiler.

Hartog said that European baseball started on an organized basis in Holland in 1912. There was, however, little interest in baseball until after World War II when the U.S. servicemen in Europe often played the game.

Holland today leads Europe in the number of teams with over 500. Italy is a distant second with about 250 teams.

The Dutch also play the best baseball, Hartog said. "We have won the European championship every year since 1956."

He said that Italy has the second best teams and that Spain ranks third.

The other European countries that have teams are Belgium, Germany, France, Sweden, England, Ireland, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The quality of play in Europe has improved very rapidly, according to Hartog. He said the best European teams were about equal to the good college teams in America.

Hartog said that when U.S. service teams first began playing the European teams, the service teams had little trouble winning.

Now, however, the European teams rarely lose.

Fan interest has also grown, Hartog said. "Baseball is our second most popular sport, behind soccer, of course."

Most Europeans are interested in American baseball and listened to the recent World Series via the armed forces network. There have even been telecasts, recently, of some of the more important European games.

One factor in the development of baseball has been the importing of American coaches to conduct clinics. Litwiler was the first coach to conduct such a clinic in Europe.

"I enjoyed it very much. The people were extremely nice to me and were very enthusiastic about baseball. They really wanted to learn," he said.

Hartog said that the Dutch league has been sending one player a year to a major league training camp to learn new ideas and then bring them back to Holland.

Hartog has been touring the U.S. trying to further European baseball. He met with the State Department in Washington, hoping to arrange more good-will promotions.

"I hope that we soon have a Major League team touring Europe," he said.

He was in New York City where he met Baseball Commissioner William Eckert and Michael Burke, president of the New York Yankees. He also traveled to Cooperstown, N.Y., to see the Baseball Hall of Fame.

"The Dutch league is organized differently from the way it is in America," he said. "All of our baseball is under one organization, even our Little Leagues

MSU finished with 259 points, trailing winner Villanova, who had 47; Navy, 156; Notre Dame, 168; and New York University, 199.

Roger Merchant took 27th place, highest Spartan finisher in the race. His time for the five mile course was 25:44.

Other Spartans to place were Dean Rosenberg, 54th, with a 26:16; Rich Stevens, 62nd, 26:27 and Dale Stanley, 93rd, 26:49.

AMMAN, Jordan. — Israeli gunners shelled a United Nations camp for Arab refugees Monday, killing 14 and wounding 28 in the third straight day of shooting along the Jordan River cease-fire line, Jordan's army charged. There was no refugee camp, where about 25,000 refugees live in huts two miles east of the river. The camp was set up by the U.N. Relief and Works Agency after the 1948 Palestine war. The shelling appeared a re-

Average students better in business

By FRAN ZELL
State News Staff Writer

Average students are more apt to move up in the managerial world than are those who graduate with honors, according to Eugene Jennings, professor of management. Jennings has developed a computer-based technique dubbed "mobilography" that permits early identification of managers likely to win their company's top jobs. The result of a 16-year study, mobilography is expected to bring a higher degree of precision to the process of managerial development and personnel selection and meet calls for a balanced combination of technical and managerial skills, Jennings explained. The bright student tends to overdevelop his technical skills, relying on them too long. "Effective decision-making in management calls for intuition more than technical precision," he said. Jennings said a student's major is more important than his grades. "Your major gives you the skills you need to enter a managerial position. A degree in science, engineering, or accounting is a key to the world of corporate management," he said. "The worst thing a student can do, is earn two degrees in business. A bachelor degree in engineering or science and a masters in business administration is the best combination for executive mobility in a technical world," he said. Jennings then pointed out that one's corporate division and job are even more important than the major. "Your major is helpful to get a job, but after you are with a company awhile, no one remembers what you majored in," he said. "Besides the technical skills you learned will have changed anyways." Priority divisions of a corporation produce the most presidents, Jennings explained. For example, a General Motors president is more likely to emerge from the Chevrolet rather than the Pontiac division. Jennings calls this phenomenon, "visiposure." The word is a combination of visibility and exposure, with visibility being the ability of the aspirant to see the top of the corporate Olympus and exposure the position of being seen by men above. Jennings also predicted that the young generation in college today will have a tougher time of getting to the top than ever before. This dilemma is caused partly by the large number of young executives and young and restless "passed-overs" who exist today, he said. The population explosion will cause more competition than ever, he pointed out. Mobility is now based on economic growth, which is bound to reach a plateau and slow down in this country before long, he said. "In the business world, we learn from mistakes," he said. "It is a painful process made even more difficult because colleges emphasize technical skills and teach success."

San Jose State riot follows rally

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Rioting broke out among a crowd of 2,000 at San Jose State College Monday following a student antiwar demonstration. Police fired tear gas grenades. Witnesses said about 50 police officers charged into the crowd in a flying wedge amid screams of the demonstrators. Five grenades landed in the crowd and at least three persons were injured. The antiwar demonstration was against the recruiting activities on campus of the Dow Chemical Co., makers of napalm for use in Vietnam. Police Capt. Howard Donald told the crowd to disperse. "You are in an unlawful assembly on state property," he said. Police then formed two columns which moved through the crowd. Several students were knocked down. One student threw a folding chair into the police wedge. Three large plate glass windows in the front of a building were smashed. Inside the building, the police regrouped, put on gas masks and fired tear gas grenades into the crowd.

The job itself

'Romeo' ends term for PAC

Dorm appliances

Irons, televisions and toasters may make life in the dorm more amenable, but the practice is against University safety regulations.

Will young love triumph? Will Romeo get the bird or only a nightingale at dawn? Will Italy abolish Capulet punishment? Will Renaissance medicine be able to excise the tombers from the ancestral vaults? These are but a few of the questions to be answered as the Performing Arts Company (PAC) rounds out its fall term schedule with the archetype of all soapers, "Romeo and Juliet."

One of Shakespeare's early plays, "Romeo and Juliet" has endured through the ages as a result of its moving beauty, subtle construction, rhymed couplets (or Capulets) and required reading lists.

The PAC version will star Joel Plotkin, who narrated "The Skin of our Teeth," as Romeo and Marti Maraden, who recently joined PAC, as Juliet.

The PAC reports that it will perform the play in a more or less authentic style, including the use of incidental instrumental music. Director Sidney Berger commissioned Mary Rhoads who composed the music for last year's PAC production of "A Man's Man" to write music for "Romeo and Juliet" in a style which would approximate that of the Renaissance while providing background for the on-stage action.

This accompaniment will be performed by Tom Clark, who has proven his musical ability in plays such as this summer's "Once Upon a Mattress," along with guitarist Loris Chobanian and Judy Beckon on the cello.

The play is slated for Fairchild Theatre, Nov. 28- Dec. 3.

usual for his performance in "The Girl and the General." During the shooting of a scene in which an attempt is made to hang Steiger, his safety harness slipped, inducing a subtle shade of purple on the actor's countenance. Steiger was finally cut down, but not before Director Campanile had captured the entire episode on color film.

Patrick McGoohan, the excellent British star whose "Secret Agent" and "The Prisoner" (the latter not yet seen in the U.S.) TV series won him critical accolades, will star along with Jim Brown, Ernest Borgnine and Rock Hudson in "Ice Station Zebra," MGM's forthcoming Cinerama release.

The Beatles will return to the "Ed Sullivan Show" this Sunday via film. In this rare appearance they will be seen singing their new "Hello Goodbye" . . . ABC will fill its Saturday afternoon schedule this Thanksgiving weekend with "doubleheader" football. The Ohio State-Michigan game will be followed immediately by Georgia vs. Georgia Tech . . .

"It Takes a Thief." Wagner plays a master thief paroled to ply his trade for a government intelligence agency . . .

Followers of "The Avengers" will have another opportunity to see Diana Rigg as Mrs. Peel before Linda Thorson takes over the costarring duties. When the series returns to ABC on Jan. 10, the first eight episodes will star Miss Rigg.

FIRE HAZARDS

Dorm turn ons blow the fuses

By AIMEE PATTERSON State News Staff Writer

"Light toast, black coffee, don't burn my blouse--oh and turn up the TV please?"

We live in a mechanized age, electrical conveniences are there for the taking. Some students, however, apparently feel it's more fun to take them places where they aren't supposed to be. Room folders in every resident hall on campus set down rules prohibiting the use of certain electrical appliances in student rooms. Yet students violate these rules every day.

From popcorn poppers to electric heating coils to sun lamps, students regularly overload dormitory circuits, creating fire hazards when they could walk the 10 or 20 extra feet to an ironing room which is wired to take the overload.

With safety as the major motive behind the rules, the University states that it cannot "authorize or condone the use of sun lamps or heat lamps." According to estimates from Olin Health Center, 50 to 60 students per year are hospitalized because of burns caused by the use of sun lamps, and another 175 to 225 burned students are outpatients during the school year.

According to fire department records of the past year, of 13 electrical fires recorded, two fires totaling $450 and $588 each were caused by the use of Christmas candles in rooms. Three others were started by hot plates.

Students in Mason Hall can also recall the fire drill during the first week of school which turned out to be the result of a real fire--a popcorn popper in a room became overheated.

According to John W. Steen, manager of Mason-Abbot, the rules are also for sanitary reasons. "Food left on a hot plate may attract roaches and rodents which will affect other students as well," Steen said.

Though many students believe the rewiring of some of the older dorms will allow the use of appliances in rooms, this is a mistaken notion. According to Steen, the new wiring extends only to the wiring panels on each floor and not to the individual rooms.

So if turn on you must, take your TV, toaster, coffee pot and iron to the ironing room for a safe and sanitary evening "at home."

Bomb found near U.S. entry at UN

NEW YORK (AP) -- A potentially dangerous homemade bomb, carefully wrapped in white tissue paper and masking tape, was discovered in a flower garden near the entrance to the U.S. mission to the United Nations on Monday, 15 minutes after Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg entered the building.

Police dismantled the device without incident. Fletcher Huggins, a maintenance man, said he saw a brown paper bag among the flowers. "I picked it up, and this thing fell out. I just left it there," he said.

The device was seven inches long and two inches in diameter, capped at both ends. It contained a chemical timer and a smokeless powder.

Students ask examination on drug possession charge

An MSU student and his roommate, a former student, demanded examination at their arraignment Monday on charges of possession of narcotics.

Richard S. Busch, East Lansing junior, and John H. Lewis, of East Lansing, were found with marijuana early Sunday morning at their residence, 520 Spartan St., by the East Lansing police in conjunction with the Michigan State Police and the University police.

Judge William Harmon set bond at $2,000 for Busch and $3,000 for Lewis. Preliminary examination is set for Jan. 15, 1968. There has been no crackdown on narcotics, Detective Richard Murray of the East Lansing police said. "Narcotics have become more prevalent."

Domino's Pizzeria, plagued all term with thefts, installed a watchman in one of their cars a week ago. As two students came near the car he jumped out but the students got into a car and drove off.

Prof speaks on urban ed. at conference

Those who supervise teacher education programs must face up the issue of quality education in urban schools, according to Robert L. Green, associate professor of educational psychology. Green spoke at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission Conference Friday in Washington, D.C.

Green told the conference that school leaders must project both long-term and short-range programs to up-grade declining city schools.

He suggested compensating for the training of teachers and administrators through in-service workshops and institutes for school boards and members of the state legislatures to inform them about urban life.

"Recruitment of highly motivated and dedicated teachers is one of the most critical problems confronting urban education today," said Green.

He said teachers must respect social class and racial differences as well as being academically competent.

There is a small number of Negro teachers in urban education, according to Green, because they do not wish to return to an educational environment they are still striving to overcome.

Green said white and Negro teachers both consider teaching assignments in urban schools as low-status.

Fewer windows. Fewer doors. Fewer seats. We improved the VW Station Wagon.

We replaced the 13 little windows with 8 big ones. (Including a wraparound windshield.) There's one sliding safety door instead of 2 side doors. (It locks automatically, open or closed.) 7 seats are standard instead of 9 (which is optional). Because an aisle through to the back is standard. On the other hand, there are more heating outlets. There's more power in the engine. And more interior padding. We changed just about everything in the 1968 bus. More or less.

do' you are cutting the apron strings. This is the important thing."

Miss Slavik said that one of the first things that must be cleared up is the student's identification.

"We ask them for their driver's license which has all the information required for our records," she said. "But if the address is not East Lansing, then their residence is not in East Lansing."

Miss Slavik pointed out, however, that the driver's license can be changed in a matter of minutes by the police if the students requests it. The change requires no fees.

"Why should we register students with a local address elsewhere in the state," she said. "Some students cannot understand that."

The issue will be clarified to a certain degree when East Lansing's Human Relations Commission approves a brochure being prepared on the topic by the East Lansing Election Commission.

City Manager John M. Patriarche said the report on election qualifications would probably be ready in 60 to 90 days. William

Voter registration

Costick, acting secretary of the commission, said student voting qualifications were part of "civil rights and the commission is interested in clarifying this issue."

According to Miss Slavik and the city manager, East Lansing has already registered "several thousand" students as voters, chiefly in the married housing areas. University Village is located in precinct eight, Spartan Village in precinct ten and Cherry Lane Apartments and the rest of the MSU campus is in precinct seven.

Miss Slavik referred to President Hannah's statement that only one per cent of the student body are trouble makers and that it is these people who are causing the problems in East Lansing.

"It isn't the clean cut kids that cause the problems over here," she said. "And they seem not to come over here to register to vote, but to cause problems."

Miss Slavik puts the blame for the current dispute on former ASMSU Chairman James Graham who she says "started the agitation." The city manager says the problems have resulted from the "hard core case" and the publicity surrounding it.

But Miss Slavik explains that other Michigan cities containing large universities, such as Ann Arbor, Mt. Pleasant and Kalamazoo, are also "having problems" with students wanting to register to vote. She says she keeps in contact with the city clerks in these cities about the matter.

East Lansing citizens have sometimes complained that students are transient and are not here long enough to become aware of the continual responsibilities of local government.

Another criticism comes from Art Tung, the student commissioner on the Human Relations Commission, who says the problem of students voting in East Lansing comes up every major election.

"Many of the troublesome students come in the office and tell us they want to vote for a city commissioner in the local elections," said Miss Slavik. She considered their vote at times more of a protest vote than a natural desire to be properly registered.

Tung seems to feel that East Lansing's fear of students voting in local elections is unfounded. "We did a check on Spartan Village," he said. "They actually voted more strongly for a dry city than did the residents."

He said that students are actually far more conservative than East Lansing residents.
