

What local establishments have special celebrations for your 21st birthday? Dave Korte, Pontiac junior.

At the Coral Gables, the house buys the first drink and a small birthday pizza. The bandleader at Dines offers a birthday salute, and the management a cake. Jim's also offers a cake. Tom's Party Store and the Country Store each present you with a six-pack of beer for a penny; at Monte's, the second pitcher is free.

In chess, if your rook is under attack can you castle with that rook? William Thrash, East Lansing doctoral candidate.

Yes, you can. But you can't castle when your king is attacked. Also, the king can't pass through a square that is being attacked.

Regarding the change in the grading scale, will you still need a 2.0 at the end of your sophomore year? Name withheld upon request.

If, and only if, the new grading system is approved by the Academic Senate May 22, students will not need a 2.00 grade point average at the end of the sophomore year. They will, however, need a certain minimum GPA that will be lower than a 2.00. This detail will be included in a new step scale to be formulated by the Assistant Deans' Group in consultation with the Office of Evaluation Services, the Office of Institutional Research and other appropriate University offices.

Does the University accept students to work as operators on campus? Marie Hall, New Brunswick, N.J. sophomore.

The Placement Bureau says yes. You can apply for the job in the basement of the Museum.

I wrote a check for $3 to MSU and it bounced. Then I received a notice from the University advising me to pay for the check as well as a $2 service charge. What happens if it's not paid? Name withheld upon request.

If the check isn't taken care of, you may be withdrawn from the University, as well as face possible prosecution. If the service fee isn't paid, you face a hold on your registration and transcripts as well as a damaged credit rating.

How many IBM scoring pencils does MSU purchase a year? Why are they purple, rather than green? James Williamson, Muskegon junior.

The MSU purchasing Dept. handles approximately 72,000 purple IBM pencils per year. They also come in green and yellow tones, but only the purple ones have carbon in the lead, which is necessary in the scoring process. However, green and yellow pencils may be specially prepared with graphite at extra expense.

Why is it necessary for all doctors at Olin to have lunch from 11:30 til 1:30? Bob Russell, Bloomfield Hills senior.

According to Dr. James Feurig, this is a misconception. He stated several reasons for the shut down in the out-patient area. The clerical and lab staffs must work a 40-hour week with a definite time for lunch. An attempt to work with a skeleton staff or replacement personnel ran into labor trouble fall, 1965. Feurig supposed that this is a University regulation.

Academic Council OKs addition of 3 students

By LINDA GORTMAKER
State News Staff Writer

Election of two undergraduate students and one graduate student to the Academic Council was approved by the council late Thursday afternoon as an amendment to the revised version of the Faculty Bylaws.

The bylaws underwent their second consideration by the council this week and another meeting has been scheduled for Monday, at which steering Committee Chairman John F.A. Taylor hopes for final approval.

"We're still hoping that all the materials will be in the hands of the Senate for their consideration of the bylaws May 29," Taylor said.

Other major action at Thursday's meeting included a motion by Clarence L. Winder, dean of the College of Social Science, to change the present composition of the Academic Council to consist of three sub-groups and the President and the Provost.

The three subgroups would include:
--an Elected Faculty Council of elected faculty representatives and the members of the Steering Committee.

--an Appointed Council or deans
--ex officio members including the three student representatives

The Elected Faculty Council and the Appointed Council would be the voting members of the Academic Council, which would meet regularly to assemble these three groups. The President or the Provost as presiding officer would vote, if he wished, to break ties.

"On the whole, there was a positive response at the meeting to a general feeling that faculty members and students should have a more effective role in formulating University policies," said Gerald J. Massey, associate professor of philosophy and chairman of the Faculty Affairs subcommittee that drafted the original version of the bylaws that was defeated by the Senate in January.

Milton B. Dickerson, vice president for student affairs, presented the amendments to the council providing for student representation.

"The experience of students on faculty committees this year and the direct lines of communication they have established with student government influenced me to have students on the council," Dickerson said.

Dickerson said that students are concerned with many of the same problems as faculty--i.e. the grading report.

"There were working on the grading report this year and last spring as if they were Council members, anyway," he said. "This action just formalizes their participation."

JMC simulated GOP convention to begin tonight

Today is the day for all Republicans on campus to see their favorite student-delegates and candidates.

The four-day simulated convention to choose a Republican nominee for president, sponsored by Justin Morrill College (JMC) begins today in Wonders Kiva.

The convention will attempt to predict the outcome of the Republican convention in Miami this summer and students will act out the script-like roles of delegates.

Negro educator to head 'U' panel on race relations

By JIM SCHAEFER
State News Staff Writer

A former administrator at the University of Nigeria and federal civil rights legal counsel was named by the Board of Trustees Thursday as Assistant for Equal Opportunity to President Hannah.

The board unanimously approved Hannah's appointment of George M. Johnson, professor of education at MSU.

Johnson's capacity as assistant to the President will be to implement the race report by the Committee of 16, which was unanimously approved without revision by the board yesterday.

Johnson was at the meeting to present the report to the board. In his remarks, he noted that the report, completed by the committee on April 25, was approved in principle by the Academic Council on May 7. He also noted additional favorable responses by members of the academic community.

He took particular notice of the organization of graduate students, which offered tutorial services for students.

"They're only waiting to be put to work," he said. He added he hoped to have other recommendations by the June meeting of the trustees.

In nominating Johnson for the post, Hannah noted the need for another full-time administrator.

"I have never spent as much time on anything as I did on this," he said. He noted that the "peculiar requirements (of the post) need a black man to be most effective."

In giving their affirmation, the trustees supported Hannah's suggestion that the post be effective immediately. They also allotted $10,000 to get the program started "for the balance of the year."

Hannah noted that Johnson will do much of his work with the core of six people who formed the subcommittee he headed on the Committee of 16.

"We're doing what we should have done long ago," Hannah said.

In accepting the appointment, Johnson warned the trustees not to "entertain any illusions about this being easy."

As an example, he pointed out the difficulties of white-black understanding: "It is simply impossible for a white person to imagine what it is like to be a Negro in the year of our Lord, 1968. There are inconsistencies, incongruities. Not a day passes, but one is reminded of being an American Negro."

"It is more baffling," added Johnson, "to the young Negro."

"One of our hopes is to appreciate how they think and to close the generation gap."

In his official capacity, Johnson will implement the race report which includes:

--an all-out effort to increase the enrollment of Negro students, at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

--an aggressive search by the University for Negro faculty for all colleges and all departments of the University.

--a vigorous program to increase the number of Negroes and members of minority groups in the administrative, professional, clerical, technical and operational staffs of the University.

--establishment of a Center for Race and Urban Affairs.

Reports by two administrators at the meeting indicated programs to implement the race report have already begun.

Gordon Sabine, vice president of special projects, indicated success in his efforts to increase enrollment of Negroes at MSU.

"We will have substantially more Negro students in the next freshman class," Sabine said.

He also mentioned the Detroit Project, reading programs and revised evaluation techniques as ways of encouraging the Negro student.

Milton Muelder, dean of the School for Advanced Graduate Studies, said the Graduate Council had approved the portions of the race report relevant to the council.

He also noted that all of the public colleges in Michigan have been contacted for lists of black students enrolled.

Muelder said he would do all that is humanly possible to invite the students for graduate studies at MSU.

U.S. OPTIMISTIC

Harriman depicts Hanoi as still 'uncompromising'

PARIS (AP)--The U.S. delegation, clinging to hopes that talks will lead to a break in the Vietnam war, pictured the North Vietnamese Thursday night as using a stony, uncompromising stand as a means of probing for possible agreement.

With preliminary peace talks in a two-day recess until Saturday, the chief U.S. negotiator, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, reflected guarded optimism based, he said, on indications that North Vietnam wanted to reach understanding with a U.S. President whose political ambitions had been abandoned.

Harriman gave those views in one of a series of interviews he gave during the day.

He indicated it was logical for the North Vietnamese to want to complete the negotiations while President Johnson was still in office.

"I have been told by people that perhaps should know that they--the North Vietnamese--were very much impressed by his withdrawal from his political career," the 76-year-old diplomat said, "and that gave them the sense that he was sincere and that they wished to try to come to an understanding with a President who had no political ambitions, no political designs."

Harriman said he could not say of his own knowledge that Hanoi felt that way, but that he had some indications it was so. He said he believed there were distinct areas of agreement between the two sides.

However, a North Vietnamese spokesman appeared to chill the atmosphere of careful hopefulness by insisting that the two delegations' positions remained "very far apart." The talks are snagged on apparently formidable issues.

The U.S. delegation tends to regard harsh statements of the Hanoi delegation as largely propaganda attempting to appeal to world public opinion, and thus subject to soft-peddling if,

Battles rage in S. Vietnam despite talks

SAIGON (AP)-- The enemy stepped up attacks across South Vietnam Thursday in what appears to be "fight and talk" strategy, continuing savage battles that last week killed a record 562 Americans.

There was renewed fighting in the far north, where the U.S. Command said American casualties were heaviest last week, in the central highlands and around Saigon.

The Americans killed last week exceeded by 19 the previous high in the week of February 11-17 during the Tet offensive. Besides the hard fighting in the north, last week saw the second enemy offensive of the year crushed around Saigon.

The U.S. Command said 5,552 enemy soldiers were killed last week, well below the peak in the Tet offensive. South Vietnamese headquarters reported 675 troops killed, the government's third highest weekly toll in the war.

There was widespread speculation that the enemy offensive last week and the hard fighting this week are deliberate moves to demonstrate enemy strength in an effort to influence the negotiations in Paris.

This would be in keeping with Communist theories of fighting while talking and negotiating from a position of strength. Some South Vietnamese sources said intelligence reports indicated the enemy will try to keep pressure on Saigon and other populated centers by shelling and harassment as part of a plan to influence negotiations.

TEAMSTER COALITION?

New UAW alliances hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Auto Workers, thrust out of the AFL-CIO's "House of Labor" for refusing to pay dues, began hinting Thursday at a shifting of alliances in organized labor.

"There are going to be a number of defections from the AFL-CIO and new coalitions will be organized," said an Auto Workers source after AFL-CIO President George Meany officially suspended the federations's biggest union.

Meany made the action official in a letter to Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who joined him 13 years ago to combine the Congress of Industrial Organizations with the American Federation of Labor.

The Auto Workers with some 1.5 million members becomes the second biggest independent labor union after the 1.8-million-member Teamsters.

The suspension reduced total AFL-CIO membership in 127 remaining unions to about 13.6 million workers.

Sources in both the Auto Workers and the Teamsters union hinted at a new and stronger working relationship, although discounting prospects of any immediate attempt to form a new labor federation to challenge the AFL-CIO.

Meany, president of the old American Federation of Labor, and Reuther, head of the old Congress of Industrial Organizations, merged the two competing labor groups into the AFL-CIO in 1955.

Two years later the federation kicked out the Teamsters union on charges of corruption.

Teamsters and Auto Workers sources declined to confirm a report that Reuther visited Acting President Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters union here Tuesday, but indicated chances are good for a closer relationship between the two big unions.

The Teamsters, since being expelled, have been cool to the AFL-CIO hierarchy, but have maintained working relationships with many of the federation's unions including the Auto Workers.

Meany, in a letter to Reuther that began "Dear Sir and Brother" and closed with "Fraternalty yours," said the Auto Workers were automatically suspended for failing three months and nearly $300,000 behind in dues.

The Auto Workers, who voted at their recent convention to withhold AFL-CIO dues in an attempt to force the federation to meet its demands for changes in policy, contended they had been expelled.

The suspension strips the Auto Workers of the use of the "AFL-CIO" designation and removes Reuther from his last remaining post in the federation, president of the 6-million-member Industrial Union Dept., composed of some 60 unions.

The Industrial Union Dept. said it will elect a new president at a meeting June 14.

Meany, who left Thursday for an international labor meeting in Brussels, asked that the election be delayed until then so he can address the IUD.

Reuther also left for Europe earlier this week, headed for a different labor meeting in Italy.

KARL STILES

Former chairman of zoology dies

Karl A. Stiles, 72, prominent scientist and author and former chairman of the Dept. of Zoology, died Thursday in a Battle Creek hospital.

Mr. Stiles, chairman and professor emeritus of zoology, was well known for his studies on human heredity, particularly for his papers on genetic factors of mongolism, and as the co-author of the textbook, "College Zoology," used at hundreds of colleges in the United States and foreign countries.

Mr. Stiles was also author of 20 books and manuals and 47 professional articles regarding zoology and biology.

Born on Nov. 19, 1895 in Banfield, Mr. Stiles received his B.A. degree at Battle Creek College, in 1917. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Michigan in 1931 and 1935.

From 1934 until he joined MSU in 1945, Mr. Stiles was on the faculty of Coe College, as professor and head of the biology department and as chairman of the division of natural sciences.

Mr. Stiles served as head of the Dept. of Zoology from 1953 to 1961 when he went on terminal leave prior to his formal retirement in 1962.

In 1966 Mr. Stiles received an honorary doctor of science degree from Ferris State College.

He was a fellow of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, a member of the governing board of the American Institute of Biological Sciences and a member and officer of several other scientific societies.

Mr. Stiles also served on the editorial boards of the journals, "Bios" and "Acta Geneticae Medicae Gemellologiae." He was also editorial consultant to the Rinehart Co.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Gorsline-Runciman funeral home in the East chapel, at 1730 E. Grand River Ave. with Rev. Roy J. Schramm officiating.

STEP to get 3 new cars

Three new nine-passenger station wagons have been promised to the MSU Student Education Project (STEP) by the Oldsmobile Division, Lansing.

The group will be loaned the cars from June 13 until July 20, according to Robert B. Jarboe, manager of group selling activities at Oldsmobile.

STEP volunteers plan to use the cars for transportation to and from Rust College, Holly Springs, Miss., where they will tutor entering Rust freshmen, and for weekend fieldtrips while in Mississippi.

"The cars are a necessity, not a luxury, since STEP recruited students, not automobiles," said Larry Klein, student coordinator. He said the students themselves could not provide enough reliable transportation.

In the past, the student cars which made the trip to Mississippi have "just barely made it," Klein said.

The Oldsmobile Division loaned STEP a station wagon last year, also.

ALL-TIME HIGH

Gold bullion price jumps, speculators refuse to sell

LONDON (AP) -- The price of gold bullion jumped to an all-time high of $41.75 an ounce on the London gold market Thursday, but most gold hoarders refused to sell.

Speculators held on to their gold-much of it bought at the official price of $35 an ounce-and waited for even higher prices and a bigger profit.

The closing price was set between $41.20 and $41.50. The price on the Paris market shot up to $41.40.

With buyers greatly outnumbering sellers, London's five bullion dealers did not have enough gold to meet the demand, so the record price was posted to fend off buyers.

At one point before the official afternoon price fixing-set at a new peak of $41.25, up 40 cents from the morning price-bullion was changing hands at $41.75. The buying quote reached $42 but no bullion was believed to have been traded at that figure.

Trading was kept to a small scale and there was nothing resembling a new gold rush.

The fluctuating gold price, however, struck at the pound on the foreign exchange market and sterling dipped by 27 points, to $2.3877. The Bank of England's reserves were left untouched, however, and the pound began recovering.

Market sources said the uneasiness of the pound was boosting the demand for gold.

The dollar stayed firm-as indication that speculators were not abandoning paper money for gold the way they did in this spring's gold rush.

"None of us can really define the reason for this buyers' demand," said one bullion firm spokesman.

6 presumed dead rescued from mine

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (AP) -- Six coal miners returned from "10 days of living death" Thursday when untiring rescuer teams reached them in a deep pocket of a flooded West Virginia mine.

The men-presumed dead and without food for the last six days-reached the surface at 4 a.m. EDT, about 233 hours after they entered the mine on May 6. Ambulances rushed them to a nearby Richmond hospital where, almost incredibly, all were termed "in good shape."

"It was a one in a million chance that they would somehow get to an air pocket and survive," said mine official H.E. Sundstrom.

The bodies of four other men pinned with the six two miles from the mine's entrance were brought out about four hours later. They apparently drowned when the water from an adjoining mine poured in through a wall breach and trapped the 25 workers.

Another 15 miners, isolated closer to the mine's entrance, were rescued in the pre-dawn hours last Saturday.

"Thank you God," shouted Larry Lynch, the first miner to reach the mine entrance in the pre-dawn hours. "You delivered us from this living death."

Lynch refused to climb into a waiting ambulance until all six men came out of the pit. "I made a vow all six of us would be out here together to thank the Lord," he told a wildly excited throng of rescuers, mine officials and relatives.

Lynch led a brief prayer at the mine entrance before Dr. Lee B. Todd gave them quick checkups and they left for the hospital.

At Sacred Heart Hospital, Dr. John Echols said all were in "good condition" and probably would be allowed to return home Friday and Saturday.

The men sipped hot chocolate in their hospital beds and enjoyed hearty meals. They had not been weighed, but doctors said none appeared to have suffered any significant weight loss.

Freshman hours gets further study

Voting on the women's hours proposals initiated by the Women's Inter-residence Council (WIC) proved inconclusive as none of the proposals received a clear majority of the votes.

The proposals were returned to the WIC policy committee Tuesday night for further study over the summer.

Sue Landers, WIC president said Thursday that the matter of women's hours will be studied in depth during the summer and new proposals should be ready by fall term.

WIC members will study women's hours at other Big Ten colleges, and will get information from the National Student Association, educators and lawyers.

In the hours proposals voting, Proposal I, which eliminated hours for second and third term freshmen, received 1,462 votes. Proposal two, which eliminated weekend hours for second and third term freshmen, received 1,541 votes.

Proposal three, which eliminated all women's hours, received 701 votes. Proposal four, which is the present policy, had 392 votes, and all other suggestions received 96 votes.

At their meeting Tuesday night, WIC also announced its support of the Student Training Education Project (STEP) and allocated $150 to aid the program.

For all-volunteer army

The need for a replacement of the cumbersome and inequitable draft with a new system of military manpower procurement has long been felt.

Despite General Hershey's pronouncements to the contrary, the draft is not the best system for obtaining men for the armed services.

Its countless exemptions and deferments have created a plethora of confusion that no one let alone the local draft boards who are charged with its administration, really seems to understand.

Why, if "service to one's country is a positive good" as General Hershey has said, is not everyone required to serve?

And since everyone is not and will never be required to serve, by what right does the selective service system arbitrarily select someone from his civilian life into a job which he probably does not like, at a rate of pay below the minimum wage?

The best solution to this problem would appear to be that of a totally volunteer army. Not only would it be more consistent with the ideals of this country, but it would go a long way toward ending the divisive unrest pulling at the very structure of American life.

It is of course obvious that such a change-over would have to be accompanied by large pay increases for military personnel in order to supply the services with the necessary people to man the defense establishment.

It appears that the real cost of a smaller, more efficient volunteer army would not be as great as it seems—not compared to the cost of taking unwilling men out of civilian life, training and putting them into jobs for which they will not be fully prepared and which they will leave in two years, requiring new men to be trained, and so on.

The dangers of a volunteer army have been highly exaggerated. The charge that it would lead to increased independence and possible political designs on the part of the armed forces ignores the fact that we have had a volunteer army without such designs, and that conscript armies have been the source of many coups d'etat in other countries.

It is the fiction that service in the Armed Forces is the duty of every citizen that maintains the draft. The reality of today's world situation should be enough to force consideration of a more equitable system, one that would leave in the hands of Congress the decision as to the size of the army—whether by increasing pay scales, or in the case of all-out war, some other system.

For now, continuation of the draft can only result in more disruption than its maintenance is worth.

The extraordinary path of the open housing bill

The State House of Representatives did some extraordinary vote switching Wednesday afternoon to approve a version of the open housing bill considerably liberalized from the one the Senate earlier passed.

The atmosphere in the House was dramatic and emotion-charged as the representatives considered, then approved an amendment which would cut the coverage of the bill from about 80 per cent of all real estate transactions to 50 per cent. Then the Republicans called a caucus which must have been nothing short of phenomenal.

Upon returning to the chambers, the Republicans demanded a re-vote on the amendment, and it was defeated. After several more speeches, the bill, with 22 House amendments, passed by the astounding margin of 76-31.

The liberalized bill will now go to a conference committee for the Senate to concur or non-concur with the House vote. Senate leaders have already expressed their support for most of the amendments, and a suitable settlement appears to be in the offing.

The final bill will be considerably stronger than the federal bill passed a month ago, and will serve as a good supplement to it in the state of Michigan. Above all, it will signify the state's commitment to non-discrimination in housing.

Such legislation will change but a few attitudes. It does make it difficult, though, for home sellers or renters to put discrimination into action. There are ways to get around the bill, but the general guidelines are set.

Real estate brokers would be subject to stiff fines if found guilty of discrimination—$1000 for a first offense, $2000 for subsequent offenses. Individuals found guilty under the law could be forced to pay $500 in damages to the person against whom they discriminated.

If the likely happens, the Senate approves the House version of the bill, Michigan will have a powerful way to restrict discrimination in housing. One more step toward equality will have been taken.

JIM BUSCHMAN

The top, and where it's at Every true writer has ambitions of making it to "the top." Of course, opinions differ on what exactly "the top" is. Some guys want to write the Great American Novel. The goal of every journalist is to edit the New York Times. Ad majors dream of landing the Benson & Hedges account.

Not everybody is that ambitious, however. The most successful writer I know is a guy named Harvey who composes poetry for sympathy cards. The other day he showed me some of his latest stuff, which read:

To you, dear friend, so deep in grief
We hope this card brings fast relief
We never saw a man so true
Remaining all these years with you
So do not mourn, for this we know:
If you gotta go, you gotta go
Harvey doesn't want to be the next Robert Frost. He knows he has a talent for bringing cheer to the bereaved, and this is enough for him. He doesn't need fame and fortune.

But I do. I could never be like Harvey. I want people to recognize me wherever I go. I want to be my name up in lights. I want to be a guest on Johnny Carson.

And that's why I'm going where I can make it all happen. I'm moving to Hollywood.

I've decided that television is the place where I'm needed the most. TV has really gone downhill in the last few years. They could use a boost. I've already started work on a "Bonanza" script which should give the TV people a good idea of my talent.

It's a great story—a Western drama filled with contemporary symbolism. In the opening scene, the Ponderosa Ranch has just been picked as the site for the settlers-Indians peace talks. Ben Cartwright and Little Joe, representing the settlers, are demanding an end to all Indian infiltration in the United States. The Indian delegation, led by Jay Silverheels, is still denying that they HAVE any Indians in the United States. At this point Hoss returns from his meditation session with the Maharishi Yogi Berra in Idaho to announce that he is planning to marry a twelve-year-old saloon singer from Salt Lake City. Meanwhile, the Interstate Trail Commission has just revealed construction plans for a four-lane, divided wagon trail cutting right through the Ponderosa. At this time...

But why should I give away the whole plot? Pretty soon you can watch it on TV like millions of other Americans.

I also have some great ideas for children's shows. There is really no reason why kids today should be so sheltered. Captain Kangaroo ought to sound like this:

"Hi there, boys and girls. Welcome to the Treasure House. I was just looking at this model airplane here. It's exactly like the one that crashed in Texas yesterday, killing 104 passengers and ALL the crew members. How about that?"

"We were going to visit with Mr. Moose this morning, but he isn't here anymore. Moose season opened this week and one of YOUR daddies shot him. I didn't like having Mr. Moose around anyway. Animals smell bad."

"That's Mr. Greenjeans over there sniffing the flowers. He always wears green overalls and a bright red shirt. Mr. Greenjeans is a little strange."

"Well here comes Bunny Rabbit. Hi, Bunny Rabbit. You know, kids, rabbits are very interesting because they can multiply so quickly. Do you know what multiplication is? Well, this morning Bunny Rabbit is going to show us..."

I'm looking forward to an exciting career as a television writer. I've started wearing sunglasses even when it's dark, and I'm smoking little cigars with a plastic mouthpiece. I now address everyone as "baby" or "sweetheart"—except my girlfriend, whom I refer to as "doll." I'm also buying a steel-gray XKE on credit.

Yes, I'm definitely ready for Hollywood. But sometimes I wonder—if Hollywood ready for me? I'd hate to get out there and discover I was a genius ten years ahead of my time. I'd feel terrible making the American public wait that long.

OUR READERS' MINDS

Have faith in the public

To the Editor:

What is embarrassing and dismaying about Thomas Greer's May 6th letter of invective against Max Lerner and Hubert Humphrey is not his dislike and foreboding over Mr. Humphrey's possible election in November. Knowing Tom, this is understandable.

But it is two other positions implied by his letter that trouble us.

One is his opinion that Humphrey's election would be "an unbearable irony." If Humphrey's appeal is enough to have him nominated and elected, does this mean Greer's faith in the American system of free elections will be shattered?

The letter displays apparent lack of confidence in the capacity of American voters to (1) hear the candidates, (2) judge their sincerity, (3) appraise their intellectual muscle, (4) choose from among their plans, and then (5) vote well.

More importantly, as a professional historian and observer, Tom owes us more than invective and scorn. He owes us at least the scholar's balanced view of world affairs, and his scoffing at "anti-communism" passes over the ABCs of international affairs.

The raw truth is, international affairs have still not worked their way out of the jungle. The jungle law of brute survival still prompts the actions of nations. Add to this the urge to dominate and the conviction in many nations (it is Paragraph One in communism) that the ends justify the means, no matter how unfair and even horrible the means, and you have our dilemma in a nutshell: to survive and help others survive until time brings better rules, and yet at the same time nourish our ideals for a better world.

The best we can do now is chop a path through this jungle for free people to follow. Meanwhile we have strangling vines of our own at home. History shows us the jungle ceaselessly closes in, and we forever seem to be forced to push it back lest our ideals die with us in the jungle.

A growing number of voters have taken a new look at Asia since Mr. Johnson stepped aside. More and more people are comprehending the nature of the jungle we are caught in. We are beginning to see it was not Johnson but the jungle. We are awakening to the notion that it takes a tough, intellectually muscular realist, not a dreamer alone or an opportunist alone or a "handsome" person to handle the jungle successfully.

The new President, whoever he is, will inherit the same old ugly jungle, the same desire of each nation to survive and perhaps to dominate. He will have to deal with this REAL world, while not letting go of the ideal world we want.

The voting public has lived longer in the real world than many odds in the Ivory Tower world. The voting public sees that if we as a nation don't play it cool, the very ideals that sprout and flourish in the Picture Book World of the Ivory Towerites might die in the rubble.

Tom's energetic work in favor of banning bomb tests is praiseworthy. But not to communicate to us that it will take toughness, wariness, patience, caution, hard bargaining and some muscle to back up the ideals diminishes his stature unnecessarily.

The American voter thinks and votes with a harder wisdom than Dr. Greer may want to admit. Even Negroes, with hopes still unfulfilled but rising, have a tremendously better chance for fulfillment in the USA than in, say, the USSR, where discrimination against black students led to their demonstrations in Moscow and elsewhere recently. Witness also the ominous economic-survival-urge of British workers.

American voters regardless of color, creed or age are becoming aware of the great risk of playing Russian-Chinese-North Vietnam Roulette by communist rules.

It is too early in history for us to reach out for a revolver that may have every chamber loaded with a bullet. This is a game you only play once.

The voter, like Max Lerner, has a hard, real wisdom, not a mystical wisdom. Perhaps Tom's suspicion that this may be true is what distresses him. We share, in a way, Tom's wish that the jungle would simply go away. But November's voters will probably hard-headedly vote to continue chopping away at it, and not just drop pennies down the Wishing Well.

POINT OF VIEW

Getting to know you

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following Point of View is the first part of a two-part series which was first published in the Students for a Democratic Society's (SDS) Catch-23, May 6, 1968. On May 5, Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand spoke on campus and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree by MSU.

There is undoubtedly historical precedent for using professors to aid and apologize for the endeavors of politicians. Certain German academics turned their talents to the philosophical justification of Nazism and the implementation of Hitler's "educational" programs. Professor Wesley Fishel and other members of the MSU Vietnam Project helped to put Diem's repressive regime in power and worked to keep it there. To some, this sort of behavior no longer appears reprehensible. Instead, they have made service to government—no matter what its objective—an article of faith. Clark Kerr has described the "Multiversity" as the "wave of the future." In his view:

The politicians need new ideas to meet new problems; the agencies need expert advice on how to handle the old. The professors can supply both.

Kerr goes on to describe this multiversal service station "... as an imperative rather than a reasoned choice."

There are some of us who do not like the consequences of Kerr's imperative; who regard a reasoned choice as the university's only imperative. It is therefore not clear to us that MSU's involvement with Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand is at all justified. While this University is presently helping his government under an A.I.D. contract and today proposed to award him a doctor of laws degree, it has apparently chosen to ignore the nature of the government he controls.

In his book Thailand: The War That Is, The War That Will Be, Louis Lomax describes the nature of Gen. Kittikachorn's government in these words:

"To the eternal embarrassment of the American government, which has committed men, money and political fortune in the land of Siam, Thailand is a mean, military dictatorship, dedicated to the proposition that the function of the government is to let the people enjoy life so long as they don't express a desire to participate in the process of government. The people have no legal rights whatsoever; newspapers are censored and public gatherings for political purposes are outlawed. Agitation for free speech and political activity can and will get one jailed, or even shot."

In fact, one must even be careful of the entertainment one seeks inside the good general's country; for in 1966 his censor banned the showing of "Doctor Zhivago" because it depicted the violent overthrow of a monarchy.

Because of this wretched state of affairs, Gen. Kittikachorn is faced with an insurgent movement within this country. In 1965 a Thai Liberation Front was proclaimed and it has continued to harass him. For those who see foreign provocateurs behind every bush, we might note that Sen. Fulbright feels there is cause for concluding that "The Thai Government has largely itself—and not external forces—to blame for the disaffection that exists in the country and particularly in the northeast." Recently the Royal Thai Air Force has been conducting bombing raids against unsympathetic tribal villages in the northeast.

IS THE PROBLEM, THEN, ONE OF OUTSIDE DEMONS IN THE FORM OF A "COMMUNIST INSURGENCY" OR IS IT YOU, MR. PRIME MINISTER AND YOUR REGIME IN BANGKOK?

Although he has been unable to gain the confidence of his people, the General has had great success with the U.S. State Dept. and Defense Dept. Over a period of years, our government has constructed a vast complex of air and sea bases inside Thailand's borders and there are an admitted 25,000 troops (Lomax claims 50,000 as of 1967) stationed there. At present, 80 per cent of the air raids carried out against North Vietnam originate from the bases there. In addition, the General has received over $900 million in aid since 1950. The problem with all this plenty is that not all Thais believe, with the General, that "Thailand is cooperating with the U.S. because we realize our intentions are the same." The General has therefore made strenuous efforts to hide the facts of his involvement with the U.S. from his people.

The board approved these changes: J. Cabby Lewis III, from professor of television and radio and coordinator, television broadcasting, to professor, television and radio, Oct. 1; appointment date of William B. Weil Jr., professor and chairman, human development, from Aug. 1 to July 1; Stanley R. Crouch, assistant professor, chemistry, from temporary to regular appointment, Sept. 1; James F. Harrison, assistant professor, chemistry, from temporary to regular appointment, Sept. 1; and Michael W. Rathke, assistant professor, chemistry, from temporary to regular appointment, Sept. 1.

The board reassigned Ronald H. Nelson, professor and chairman, animal husbandry, to the Argentine Project, July 1 to July 31.

The appointment of Dale E. Hathaway, professor, as acting chairman of agricultural economics was approved effective July 1 to Dec. 31. The department's chairman, L. L. Roger, will serve during this period on a special assignment to the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

In other actions, the board corrected resignation date for Lynn C. Myers, instructor, Bureau of Business and Economic Research, from April 30 to May 31; and rescinded resignation of Anthony R. Collins, and promoted him from instructor to assistant professor, theatre, Sept. 1.

Retirements
Retirements approved included (first year of MSU employment in parentheses): Ralph L. VanderSluis, associate professor, mechanical engineering, July 1, 1969 (1926); James E. Powell, professor, mathematics, Jan. 1, 1970 (1926); and Hoyt C. Reed, associate professor, social science, July 1, 1969 (1945). All will serve one-year consultancies prior to retirement.

The board also approved the retirements of Harold Gaston, assistant professor (research), horticulture, Sept. 1 (1926), and Lura Whitehead, senior departmental secretary, dormitories and food services, Oct. 1 (1951), and changed retirement date of Ruby Sudberry, food service helper, dormitories and food services, from July 1 to May 15.

Resignations and terminations approved included: Don L. Hine, district marketing agent, Detroit, May 31; Gail L. Imig, home economist, Manistee, Lake and Mason counties, June 30; Leslie J. Latvala, 4-H Youth agent, Marquette and Alger counties, June 30; and Robert A. Elson, assistant professor, music, Aug. 31.

The board approved these resignations and terminations, all effective Aug. 31, in romance languages: Louis P. Cormier, professor; Carlos G. del Prado, associate professor; Robert R. Bishop, assistant professor; Robert N. Mooney, assistant professor; and Renee I. Sone, associate professor.

Other resignations and terminations, effective Aug. 31, included: Lendel Kotchevar, professor, hotel, restaurant and institutional management; Donald L. Madden, assistant professor, hotel, restaurant and institutional management, and accounting and financial administration; Leonard E. Zehnder, assistant professor, hotel, restaurant and institutional management; Louis J. Wolter, instructor, advertising; and James R. Andrews, assistant professor, audiology and speech science.

Additional resignations and terminations approved were (Aug. 31 unless otherwise noted): James R. Brandon, professor, speech and theatre; John X. Jamrich, associate dean and professor, education, June 30; Donald J. Leu, professor, administration and higher education, June 31.

White racism to be topic at 'teach-in'

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) have invited speakers from Chicago to talk Friday and Saturday on "Black Liberation and White Liberation" as part of a teach-in on "White Racism."

John Watson, a writer for Inner City Voice, a militant Chicago underground newspaper, and Jason Lovette, a Black Students' Alliance representative, will speak on "Black Liberation" at 7:30 p.m. Friday in 106 B Wells Hall.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, in the same room, the teach-in will include Mike James and Junebug Boykin, members of "JOIN (Jobs or Income Now) Community Union," Noel Ignatin, a trade union organizer and member of the Progressive Labor Party and Mike Spiegel, national secretary of SDS.

James Hooker, professor of history, will continue the teach-in at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, speaking on "Racism and Colonialism."

Trustees OK first theater chairman

The appointment of Elwin C. Reynolds, associate professor of speech, to chairman of a newly formed Dept. of Theatre was approved Thursday by the MSU Board of Trustees.

Reynolds will become chairman July 1 when the present Dept. of Speech and Theatre is dissolved and theatre becomes a separate department.

When the Dept. of Theatre is established, the rhetoric and public address section of the Speech and Theatre Dept. will be merged into the Dept. of Communication.

Reynolds earned his B.A. degree from Idaho State College in 1950, his masters and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1952 and 1956 respectively.

Before his appointment to the MSU faculty in 1962, he was an instructor in speech at Ohio State University for six years.

Reynolds is former vice-chairman of the Theatre Management Project of the American Educational Theatre Assn. (AETA), and member of the American Community Theatre Assn. and Children's Theatre Conference.

Harold E. Gray, director of Technical Services, has been appointed by the Board of Trustees as director of Evening College beginning July 1.

Gray succeeds Robert E. Sharer, who will retire on July 1. Sharer has been with MSU since September of 1952.

Gray joined the MSU faculty in 1955 as an asst. professor of general business. He became regional director for Continuing Education at Benton Harbor in 1965.

Gray received his bachelor of science and masters degrees from the University of Illinois. He obtained his doctorate in education from Stanford University in 1951. In 1964 he was granted a sabbatical leave for advanced study at Harvard University.

The Board of Trustees approved the appointment of Lawrence I. O'Kelly, a clinical psychologist at the University of Illinois, as chairman of the Psychology Dept.

The appointment of O'Kelly, who is supervisor of the Laboratory of Comparative Psychology at Illinois, will be effective August 1.

O'Kelly succeeds Clarence Winder who became Dean of the College of Social Science last September.

A member of the Illinois faculty since 1949, O'Kelly is a physiological psychologist with research interest in motivation.

At Illinois he was acting director of the university's psychological clinic between 1949 and 1951 and acting director of the Aviation Psychology Laboratory in 1959-60.

MSU's baseball team resumes its chase of league leader Minnesota with a pair of doubleheaders this weekend offering a chance to catch up with the Gophers.

MSU will face Illinois at 2 p.m. today and Purdue at 1 p.m. Saturday at Old College Field in its final league action at home this season.

The Spartans trail Minnesota by one game going into the weekend action but are scheduled for four games while Minnesota has a two game series with Iowa.

Pitching for Illinois will be senior righthander Bill Murray, who has a 4-0 overall record and 2.10 earned run average, and sophomore left-hander Tom Calza, who has won two and lost two.

MSU will go with its junior duo of lefty Mel Behney and righthander Dan Bielski. Bielski has been bothered with an allergy for the past two weeks, but still managed to win two games last weekend.

Kendrick (394). Five other MSU regulars and three of the regular pitchers are batting better than .300.

Purdue, who must face Michigan Friday before coming here, have been the "doormats" of the league so far and have failed to win in eight conference games.

The Boilermakers rank last in the league in pitching and only slightly higher in batting. MSU will likely pitch Phil Fulton and Zana Easton against Purdue.

MSU could set many team and individual records this weekend.

Ex-sprinter named 'S' track aide

James Bibbs, former Eastern Michigan sport great and lately the track coach at Ecorse High School, will join the MSU varsity track coaching staff.

His appointment as an assistant track coach and assistant professor in Health, Physical Education and Recreation was approved Thursday by the State Board of Trustees. It will be effective July 1.

He becomes the second Negro to be hired as a coach at MSU. Earlier this term Don Coleman was named an assistant football coach.

Bibbs has been track coach at Ecorse since 1964. During that period Ecorse has placed fourth in the state A meet in 1964, third in B, 1965, second in B, 1966 and first in B, 1967.

His outstanding collegiate achievement was running the 60-yard dash in a world-record tying 6.1 in 1951. He earned All-America listing that year. He also was the IAC 100 and 220-yard dash champion in the 1949, 1950 and 1951 seasons when Eastern captured team titles.

Bibbs is a native of Ecorse, born March 12, 1929. He earned a B.A. degree from Eastern Michigan in 1951 and is about to achieve a master's degree in physical education at Wayne State.

He taught in the Detroit public school system prior to taking the Ecorse assignment.

IT'S CLOSED TO THE PUBLIC

Green-White game not the same

By TOM BROWN
State News Sports Writer

Saturday's final football scrimmage will be on Head Coach Duffy Daugherty's mind for a long time.

It's called the Green and White game, but the Spring close-out will be Daugherty's last look at the 1968 Spartans until pre-season drills begin in late summer.

The game will be different from those in the past. Daugherty has ordered the gates closed to the public to prevent scouting by early season opponents.

Daugherty, entering spring practice on a rebuilding note, admitted that an offense and a defensive backfield were prime objectives.

Daugherty said that he is looking for a back who can give the squad impetus during the fall.

"Any of our backs, La Marr Thomas or Don Highsmith for example, or one of our quarterbacks," Daugherty said, "could develop and give us the boost we need."

Backfield Coach Al Dorow said that Bill Feraco's experience has kept him the No. 1 quarterback, but Bill Triplett and Scooter Longmire will battle for the back-up spot Saturday.

Reggie Cavender will continue to battle for fullback, while Highsmith, Thomas and Tommy Love will fight for the tailback spot.

But the biggest surprise, Daugherty said, was the play of Charley Wedemeyer at flanker.

"I can't say that Charley is the most improved player," Daugherty observed, "because we have always known that he was a good athlete. Our judgment certainly improved most with Wedemeyer."

Both Daugherty and Defensive Backfield Coach Vince Carillot were enthusiastic with former flanker Frank Water's play at defensive halfback.

"Waters, and Al Brenner probably, will see a lot of action on defense this fall," Daugherty said.

Clifton Hardy, Ken Heft, Bob Super, Jay Breslin and Gordon Bowdell are other candidates in the backfield, with Rich Saul at rover, backed by Gary Parmen-

Defensive line duties will be filled by ends Gary Nowak, Mike Mahady, Ken Little, Wilt Martin; tackles Rich Benedict, Charley Bailey, Nick Jordan, Mike Young and Ron Curl, with Tody Smith seeing action also.

Bill Dawson will fill middle guard while Don Law, Cal Fox, Dave Schweinfurth and Frank Traylor will head up the line-backer corps.

Up front on the offensive line for the Greens, will be ends Brenner and Frank Foreman, tackles Craig Wycinski and Dave VanElst, guards Ron Saul and Don Baird and center Ed McLoud.

Helmut Goral and Joe Valerine will see action at center with Mike Tobin and Errol Roy at the guards, Vic Mittelberg and Ron Joseph at the tackles, and Bowdell and Ron Slank at the ends.

Golfers begin title match today

LYNN JANSON

By GARY WALKOWICZ
State News Sports Writer

Spartan golfers John Bailey and Lynn Janson are expected to return to their top form this weekend when the Spartans begin play for the Big Ten championship.

They will be among the 60 golfers who will play 36 holes today and Saturday on the University of Indiana course to decide the league title.

If Bailey and Janson return to their old forms, then Coach Bruce Fossum thinks the Spartans have a good opportunity to win their first conference title.

Co-captain Bailey hasn't played well most of the year, according to Fossum. But, in the last several weeks, he has showed signs of returning to the form which placed him 10th in individual scoring at last year's Big Ten meet.

"John has had trouble with his swing this season, but he's ready to play now," Fossum said. "He always plays well for us in the big tournaments."

Janson has been bothered by a pulled back muscle for most of the season and missed several tournaments because of the injury.

"This will be the first time we have been at full strength all year," Fossum added. "I think we're more geared for this tournament than any of my teams have been in the past. We have our best shot at the championship since MSU has been in the conference."

Steve Benson, Larry Murphy, Lee Edmundson and George Buth are the other golfers upon whom MSU's championship hopes rest.

Murphy paced MSU to a third place finish at last year's Big Ten tournament with a score of 310. He finished sixth in the individual scorings.

In the Northern Intercollegiate Tournament, it was again Murphy who led MSU with a 296 total for the 72-hole event.

Benson has been leading Fossum's forces all year in scoring average. He will go into the Big Ten meet with a 75.5 average.

Fossum said that sophomore Edmundson could have a good game on Indiana's 6,796-yard, par 71 course.

"The course is tight and tree-lined. There will be a premium on accuracy. Lee's very steady off the tee and should do well on this course," Fossum said.

Fossum said Buth has played strong golf for the Spartans since his surprising showing in the Northern Intercollegiate Tournament. In that tourney Buth played consistent golf with rounds of 76-74-73-76 for 299, MSU's second low score.

Buth followed that performance with a 75 in a dual meet against Michigan and rounds of 73 and 79 in the Spartan Invitational Tournament.

'Darkhorse' track team begins Big Ten title quest

By DON KOPRIVA
State News Sports Writer

MSU's track team, cast into the role of a "dark horse," begins its quest for the Big Ten's 68th annual outdoor carnival title at Minnesota's Memorial Stadium in Minneapolis.

Although Wisconsin is favored and Michigan appears to be the top challenger to the Badgers, Spartan Coach Fran Dittrich feels his team will "be right in there" when the finals come Saturday.

Minnesota, Indiana and MSU rate as potential titlists if all their top performers can place high.

The Spartans have been rather erratic of late, exhibiting flashes of greatness like the Ohio Relays or showing the opposite like the losses to Wisconsin and Notre Dame.

MSU will be seeking its first conference title since 1965. The Spartans were favored both indoors and outdoors in 1967 and finished close seconds each time.

Topping the MSU list of entries will be defending champion pole vaulter, Roland Carter.

The Carson City senior, with an all-time league best of 16-3, will try to regain the championship he lost inside to Wisconsin's Joe Viktor. Carter defeated Viktor last Saturday.

Charley Pollard, junior hurdler who has been defeated so far by Wisconsin's Mike Butler and U-M's Larry Midlam, will try to improve on his fourth place of last year.

Pat Wilson, who was second in the 660 last year to Spartan John Spain, now out after a back operation, will try to take the 660 title. Sophs Jim Bastian and Bob Grimm will back him up.

Don Crawford and Bill Wehrwein will vie for top spots in the 220, 440 and the long jump or triple jump.

Ruggers at home

The MSU Rugby Club will play the Windsor Blacklocks on Old College Field, at 3 p.m. Saturday. MSU will be out to avenge three losses to the Blacklocks last fall.

The MSU Lacrosse Club will play Notre Dame Saturday at Notre Dame. It is the last game of the season for the stickmen.

Crawford and Wehrwein will also head MSU's 440 and mile relays. Probable runners on the 440 relay include Pollard and Rick Dunn.

Mile relay possibilities include Rich Stevens, Wilson and Dunn.

Stevens and Roger Merchant are MSU's entries in the 880, while sophs Rich Paull and Rich Elsasser hope to lower their times in the 44-yard intermediate hurdles.

Dean Rosenberg, sixth in the indoor mile, will seek to improve that position outside, as will teammate Dale Stanley.

Steve Derby, sixth in the indoor high hurdles, will enter the 120-yard high, while soph Ken Leonowicz is entered in both the three-mile run and the steeplechase.

Miners tell of rescue; belief in God fortified

RICHWOOD, W. Va. (AP) — "I went in a sinner and came out a Christian."

Tears rolled down the cheeks of Eugene H. Martin, 34, of Clintonville, as he recounted 10 days of horror in a black pit.

His description of six men in a 36-inch high coal mine tunnel, trapped by rising water, cold and hungry contrasted with the crisp cleanliness of a Catholic hospital room and white-robed nuns gliding by with trays of food.

"We prayed and we waited. We just sat there and talked. Sometimes we heard the drills boring above us—but they missed us by about 200 feet I guess. We even heard some guys shouting down the borehole on the first day."

"We yelled back but they never heard us. We also heard them blasting, trying to get that tunnel through from the other mine. But then it stopped and we heard nothing."

Martin said he was working in the tunnel a short distance away from the main group of men "when that water hit me like a river."

"I hollered to the other guys to help me, and they pulled me out onto high ground," he said.

"There were six of us together right to the end. I don't know what happened to the other four guys. I guess they just washed away and drowned. I don't want to talk about it."

Larry B. Lynch, 28, of Richwood attributed the six miners' miraculous escape to "three miracles."

"Jesus kept the water from drowning us... we weren't electrocuted when we tried to get out through the water before we turned back... and the air stayed remarkably good."

"I don't go to church because I don't believe in denominations. I have a great love for people, and I think it is greater now," said Lynch.

"I didn't suffer physically. I don't think I lost much weight," John Moore Jr., 46, of Buckeye said the water "sprayed us like a giant hose."

"I organized the men to put up a homemade tent and rationed out the sandwiches. We had two sandwich pans with us—about five or six sandwiches. They lasted us two days. The food ran out a week ago Thursday, but we had plenty of water... God knows we had plenty of that."

"Moore is the one who pulled them through," said rescue supervisor H. E. Sundstrom. "That man was fantastic. He knew just what to do."

"We're out by the grace of God," said Joseph Fitzwater, 33, of Rupert. "If you believe in Him nothing is impossible."

"When the water broke Larry Lynch threw up his hands and prayed to God. He asked God for a miracle—and it happened."

Seniors of the Week

Sue Hughes and Ted O'Neill are this week's seniors. Both are good students but Sue is the more whimsical of the two as evidenced by her pets who insisted upon being photographed with her.

Sue is chairman of Off Campus Council and a member of the Student Board. In the past, she has been on the steering committee of the United Students and was secretary of Off Campus Council last year.

Bow tourney here Saturday

The first annual Michigan Intercollegiate Invitational archery tournament will be held Saturday on the range behind Jenison Fieldhouse.

The morning shooting session will begin at 10 and the afternoon session at 2 p.m. College teams from all over the state are expected to attend. Eight MSU students will participate.

Mrs. Bob (Lois) Burcaw is the favorite in the women's division while Burcaw, Mike Anderson and Dick Macleod of MSU are top threats in the men's division.

level when the draft and post-graduate education are finished," is a member of the Honors College, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Blue Key and Delta Chi fraternity, of which he is past president.

Majoring in American Studies, he was a Rhodes Scholarship nominee and a Woodrow Wilson honorable mention recipient.

Though the future is uncertain, Ted looks back wistfully on his experience at MSU.

"I've gained much personal direction from the two directors of the Honors College, Dr. Wilson and Dr. Kelly. They have acted as advisers as a friend would," Ted said.

"Especially on a campus like this, centers of encouragement and direction are valuable, no matter how well you're doing."

It might be added that, going along with Sue's theory on people, Ted like cats very much.

Senate rejects ban on mail-order rifles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected Thursday an attempt to outlaw mail-order sales of rifles and shotguns, but backed a ban on such sales of handguns.

These were the highlights in a long day of voting on amendments to a broad crime-control bill sponsored by the administration.

The amendment to extend the ban on interstate, mail-order sales to rifles and shotguns was offered by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., whose brother, President John F. Kennedy, was slain with a mail-order rifle. It was defeated 53 to 29.

Later, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., sought to remove the bill's prohibition against mail-order sales of handguns and over-the-counter sales of such weapons to nonresidents of a state. This was rejected 45 to 37.

Hruska sought to regulate such sales by an affidavit and pre-sale notice procedure instead of forbidding them.

In other actions the Senate: —Rejected, 47 to 30, an amendment by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., to outlaw sale to private individuals of antitank guns, bazookas, mortars and other such military weapons.

—Defeated, 52 to 28, an amendment by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., to regulate mail-order sales of rifles and shotguns by a pre-sale affidavit procedure.

—Defeated by voice vote a move by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, to provide mandatory additional penalties for persons convicted of federal crimes of violence if firearms are used.

—Adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., to establish a $10 license fee for firearms dealers. The bill had called for a $25 fee the first year and $10 thereafter.

—Rejected on a standing vote a motion by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., to strike from the bill's safe-streets section a provision for grants to communities to help improve law enforcement.

Hruska argued his proposed regulation of handgun sales would be more effective than the bill's provisions, but opponents called his substitute inadequate and unenforceable.

Judaism faced with survival fight

By JAMES ROTHENBURG
Judaism in the U.S. is facing a crisis of survival, according to statistics with special emphasis on the college-age Jew.

Because of a low birth rate and a soaring frequency of intermarriage, Judaism is declining in the total picture of the American population.

Today, Judaism is losing 70 per cent of the children born to mixed couples.

Special attention can be called to the Jewish student on college campuses across the country. A recent study by sociologist Erich Rosenthal showed that Jews who have college educations have a 35 per cent higher rate of intermarriage now than in any preceding U.S. generation.

The reported reason for this high rate of intermarriage is a wide liberalizing trend in the U.S. with its emphasis on college campuses.

Thomas B. Morgan, a Look magazine reporter, said that the crisis is most acute among college-age Jews. He said that they are not only questioning home-grown values, but are also on the lookout for a mate.

Arthur T. Jacobs, administrative secretary of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, has estimated that there may be only 5.5 million Jews in America at the end of this century in a projected national population of 350 million.

If this prediction comes true, the Jewish share of the total in the year 2000 will have fallen from its present 2.9 per cent to 1.6 per cent.

Rev. Dan Potter, director of the Protestant Council of New York, said that in the past many denominations opposed intermarriage and clung to their own groups for a feeling of status. The rise of the American urban middle class eliminated the status reasons for intermarriage, he said.

"Today, the children of intermarriages between Christian and Christian, as well as between Christian and Jew, tend to grow up with less loyalty to a particular denomination than their parents had," Potter said.

"In these circumstances," he added, "Christians and Jews alike ask, 'Why not marry each other?'"

Jews and Christians are now being thrown together in everyday life more than ever before. The era of the Jewish housewife who shops at the Jewish grocery store, buys her meat at the Jewish meat market and patronizes the corner Jewish drug store is drawing to a close.

Jews in the U.S. are finally being caught up in the American melting pot. The Jewish college student no longer feels he must associate himself completely in a world of Judaism. He is stepping out of his group and is mingling and interchanging ideas with others.

'Strike' paper sues Teamsters

DETROIT (UPI) — A suit asking more than $9 million in damages from the Teamsters unions was filed Thursday by the publishers of one of the "strike" papers that hit the streets after the city's newspaper blackout began six months ago.

The Daily Press filed the suit in Oakland County Circuit Court against members of the Teamsters International and Local 372, which struck the Detroit News Nov. 16. The Detroit Free Press ceased publication the next day.

In its complaint, the Daily Press asked for actual and punitive damages adding up to $9.02 million against the Teamsters. The suit seeks 11 writs of garnishment, tying up that amount of Teamsters money.

On or about Jan. 22, the Press complained, the union ordered its members employed at the Press to stop working. The suit charges a valid contract was in force between the union and the interim paper.

Ensemble performs on Sunday

The Stuart Noordyk Singing Ensemble will perform at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Social Hall at Peoples Church, 200 W. Grand River Ave.

The ensemble is composed of persons from various denominations within the Grand Rapids area.

The ensemble performs various types of selections, from Evan's "Beatitudes" to Waring's arrangement of "Dry Bones."

The program Sunday is being sponsored by the Family Night Committee of Peoples Church.

Mennonite men stress love as military objection motive

Love, not resistance, is the motive behind the conscientious objector position taken by 13 Mennonites working on their military obligation on campus.

Without condemning those who choose to accept military service, Mennonites, whose religion stresses non-resistance, believe that their religious beliefs point to a way of helping rather than hurting people. Although most would not hesitate to use their bodies to shield someone from attack, they would not fight an attacker.

Taught by their church that they are to follow the example of Jesus who did good and cared for people, Mennonite men reaching the age of 18 have open to them three areas of non-military service.

PAX (peace), an overseas program, takes two to four years depending on the distance, as language training and orientation are required. The men work at school and hospital construction or in agriculture. They are financed either by their church or family.

The Voluntary Service program centers within the church or church affiliated institutions such as hospitals or homes for the elderly. Some men work in the west among Indian Americans or migrant workers. Living on the job, the men receive room and board and $10 per month the first year and $20 per month the second year.

Civilian Public Service is a church and government approved work program in non-religious institutions. Men in this service who are given a Wokalt Status pay for their own room and board and receive wages equal to that of the military draftee from the institution served.

Temple University uses I-W men for testing diets, and usually the service requirement for them is reduced to 18 months because of the hardship involved. Goodwill Industries in Flint uses I-W men, and all of the Mennonites working at MSU are of I-W status.

Regardless of the program chosen, each man must serve two consecutive years to fulfill his military obligation but he is eligible for recall even after completing his term. Employer and government approve his work, and his draft status is always open to review. Some Mennonites have had to defend their beliefs in court.

John Kaufmann, a graduate of Goshen (Indiana) College, is completing his second year in MSU's crop science department. When his alternate service requirement is completed, he will remain at MSU for graduate studies in botany. Kaufmann said he took the conscientious objector's classification at 18 because "I knew that I could not kill and still obey the words of Jesus to love my enemies."

Some Mennonites have taken the I-A-O (noncombatant military service) position, according to David Martin, a Goshen College graduate now working in turf-grass research at MSU. But, he continued, "I can't be part of a military organization."

Lydia Glick, a Mennonite missionary to Somalia now completing linguistic studies at MSU, "it was more than non-resistance—alternate service was a means of demonstrating love."

Cecil Yoder finished his term of I-W service two years ago and is now a student at MSU. He would have chosen the PAX program but could not afford the cost of going abroad. He came to MSU for what he described as "a very beneficial experience."

Reaction to the Mennonite stand on non-resistance comes from mothers, whose sons are killed in battle. They say to Mennonites "My son died defending you." In reply, David Martin says, "Certainly I feel deeply her sorrow, but her son did not die because I asked him to. I wish there had been a different way for that family."

MSU Trustees accept Kellogg grant for Oakland

The MSU Board of Trustees accepted Thursday, in behalf of Oakland University, a $230,000 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

The grant is for support over a four year period of Oakland's Continuum Center for Women. The Center helps women find creative outlets outside the home for their talents and energies.

The Center handles psychological testing and counseling, guidance and a permanent bureau of specialist advisers in career placement and employment.

The program was begun by a two-year grant from the Kellogg Foundation.

Catholic clergy see firm Church future

Whether or not its influence is felt throughout the world, the Catholic Church is a force for good and will remain necessary, Sister Brenda said in an open discussion on the Catholic Church at Owen Hall Wednesday night.

Sister Brenda, a graduate student in history, was one of five panelists from Owen Hall discussing the topic "Is the Catholic Church Dying?" Other panelists included Rev. Gerald Cavanagh, leader of the panel and a graduate student in management, Rev. Thomas Rutledge, graduate student in psychology, Sister Christelle, graduate student in mathematics and Sister Ghislaine, graduate student in home economics education.

The central issues of the discussion, which was sponsored by the Owen Hall Association Education Committee, were the changes of the church in contemporary society.

A national survey conducted by United Press International revealed that in the last two years, 711 priests and 1,827 sisters have returned to the laymen's life.

Sister Brenda pointed out that, although the number leaving has increased, the percentage remains small.

"The atmosphere has changed in the past few years so the stigma of leaving isn't like in the past," she said.

Many of the priests and sisters realize they made a mistake earlier and leave to find an alternate route in fields such as social work, where they may feel in a better position to attain their goal, she said.

In response to a statement from the floor that the church is not keeping pace with secular developments, the panelists said that there have been radical changes made in a comparatively short period but admitted that there are areas where the Church has to take further leadership.

It is a characteristic of maturity not to expect one absolute answer, and the Church is again realizing that it can work from an accepted set of principals and yet have different points of view, Sister Brenda said.

The fact that changes in the Church have to be viewed in the context of today's society was also discussed.

The role of the woman in the Church today parallels the emancipation of women in the world in general, Sister Ghislaine said. There is no doctrinal or other reason why women should remain subservient, she said.

On the question of celibacy, Sister Brenda said that the vows are as realistic today as in the past. Religious life is community life and marriage still does not seem possible, she said.

Rutledge pointed out, however, that cloister living is becoming more active.

Cavanagh believes there will be more of a challenge to Catholics of the future.

OCC publication petitioning opens

Petitions will be available for one week in 313 Student Services Bldg. for the positions of chairman and members of the Publications Committee for Off Campus Council (OCC).

An OCC spokesman said applicants must have writing ability, in order to write an off-campus housing booklet, and plan to be here during the summer term.

Asher House goal: mutual brotherhood

With the common bond of religion, the men and women of Asher House attempt to assimilate brotherhood into their daily lives.

Their religion, Christian Science, is coordinated through inspirational meetings, church and Christian Science organizational meetings.

Brock Hotelling, president of Asher House, said that if religion is to mean something, it should be useful in everyday life, not just a once-a-week item.

Both men and women are active in intramural and Interfraternity Council sports. The men have won the Jr. 500 for the past three years.

The foundation goes to high schools for many of its prospective members. Incoming freshmen are invited to campus for a weekend, and interviewed by the Board of Trustees.

Once accepted, these prospective members live in the foundation for a term, and go through a pledging period.

Asher Foundation began 23 years ago when eight men came back from the war and decided to live together.

From there, the idea grew, and in 1956 a women's section was begun. In 1965 the men and women moved into their new home on Abbott Road.

While the men and women eat and use the same recreational facilities, the foundation is set up similar to a coed resident hall situation.

Student cabinet directors outline expanded goals

New directors of the ASMSU Cabinet were formally introduced Tuesday by Greg Owen, cabinet president.

In his presentation, Owen stated general goals for the cabinet and expressed the hope that it could "really get something done and do things for the student body."

Foremost among the cabinet's goals will be expansion of programs and services available to students, such as the travel bureau, legal aid and draft services.

An increase in the number of available programs will also be sought such as the origination of a student discount service.

It is hoped that the Great Issues program can be expanded by inviting more controversial speakers to participate and by enlarging the program's format.

Pete Ellsworth, ASMSU Board chairman, said that the board has been disappointed in the cabinet in the past and that it was advisable for the board to "take a greater interest in the cabinet" and for the two to "work closely together."

New cabinet directors working with Paul Graf, vice president for services, are Harry Chancey, legal aid; Ann Israel, discount services; Howard Finkel, elections; Jim Barnes, Spartacus; Alan Kaufman, insurance; Abby Forster, travel; Marti Brunner, tutoring; and Joe Ciappa, draft services.

Rick Feinberg, vice president for programs, will work with cabinet directors Sid Spector, course evaluations; Steve DeCenzo, college bowl; Gary Vanden Bos, opinion research; Gary Klinsky, mass media; and Mary Ellen Waisnoras, organizations.

Under the supervision of vice president for special projects Don Banghart are Roger Anthony and Ruth Ann Long, co-directors of popular entertainment; Jim White, homecoming; and Jeff Licht and Ann Michaels, co-directors for Great Issues.

Working with cabinet president Greg Owen will be Jewel Lasky and Dave Davis, co-directors of personnel; and Fred Dille, freshman orientation.

'U' accepts grants for needy students

Gifts and grants totaling $3,692,817 were accepted Thursday by MSU's Board of Trustees.

Included were two grants from the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare totaling $2,007,214 for financial aid programs to needy students for the next academic year.

One grant, amounting to $1,145,930, is the third renewal of the Educational Opportunity Grant (EOG) program. Outright grants ranging from $200 to $800 are made directly to students in serious need. About 800 students are expected to be assisted with EOG.

The other grant, for $861,284, is the third renewal of the College Work-Study program. Some 1,000 MSU students are paid under the grant to work at campus jobs to help defray the cost of their education.

Henry Dykema, director of financial aids, will administer the grants.

The National Institutes of Health granted $197,872 for an addition to Olin Health Center, using mass production building engineering and techniques.

Construction will begin next year. Robert D. Schuetz, associate director of the Institute of Biology and Human Medicine, will administer the grant.

An Upward Bound program for high school students from low income families in Central Michigan will be conducted for the third time in Justin Morrill College this summer. Some 65 students will spend six weeks at MSU under a $73,798 grant from the United States Office of Economic Opportunity.

The program provides motivation and remedial education for the students. Alex J. Cade, associate professor of psychology, is director of Upward Bound.

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek granted $68,000 to purchase a 158-acre farm adjacent to the Kellogg Biological Station. The property is known as the Baitwick farm and is owned by John W. Bailey III. It is located in Ross township, Kalamazoo County.

A National Science Foundation grant of $55,900 will support continued research by Aureal T. Gross, professor of geology and botany. He is studying pollen spores and other plant materials found in sediments in the Gulf of California off the Mexican Coast. He seeks to establish principles for identifying rock sections and environments of ancient periods.

The fourth annual summer institute in geography for elementary school teachers will be conducted under a $54,103 grant from the United States Office of Education. Some 38 kindergarten through eighth grade teachers will attend the eight-week session. Paul C. Morrison, professor of geography, is administrator of the grant.

Cleo Cherryholmes, asst. professor of political science, will direct a summer institute for 35 junior and senior high school civics and government teachers. A $51,225 grant from the United States Office of Education will fund the institute. The institute will make an analysis of American political institutions.

A grant of $48,613 from the United States Public Health Service of Bethesda, Md., will support the work of eight pre-doctoral students and one post-doctoral researcher in the basic science aspects of food science. The work will be done in food engineering, microbiology and chemistry. Bernard S. Schweigert, chairman of the Dept. of Food Science, will administer the grant.

Funds for scholarships totaling $21,855 were also accepted by the Board.

Along with this, the doctors use the time for luncheon conferences and checking on the patients upstairs.

What is the law about trains holding up traffic? Whom do I contact to report a violation? Laura Robie, Lakewood, N.Y., graduate student.

According to Michigan statute, trains cannot block a crossing for longer than five minutes. Violations should be reported to the police agency having jurisdiction. The MSU Dept. of Public Safety has jurisdiction of the two crossings over Farm Lane.

Why can Union Board charge more ($356) for flights to Europe while NSA and IAESTE charge only $256? Larry Haff, Glen Rock, N.J. senior.

The Union Board flights to London depart from Detroit, while the NSA and IAESTE flights to Paris depart from New York. Therefore, the difference in departure locales accounts for the additional cost of the Union Board flights.

How many calories are there in a cup of soft serve? Carol Sybinsky, Mt. Pleasant, Pa., junior.

An eight-ounce portion of soft serve equals about 270 calories; this would be about a glass. Depending on the manufacturer, the calorie content varies with the different amounts of fats used.

Do U.S. Senators have access to classified files of the government, CIA files, for example? Richard Simpson, Worthington, Ohio, senior.

Members of Congress do not have the legal right to inspect classified documents of the executive branch (State Dept., CIA). But as a matter of course they are often given the privilege of seeing them, on frequent occasions and on a case-by-case basis. They "have the need to know" and are under oath not to reveal the contents. Revealing the contents is punishable by law.

Where can one live off campus and keep a pet? Susan Percival, Shrewsbury, Mass., junior.

Richwood Manor, leased by the Hacker Realty Company, does allow pets. Both furnished and unfurnished apartments are available.

U.S. optimistic for peace

as a U.S. spokesman said the Americans fervently hoped, the talks should go into closed sessions without public exchanges of accusations.

"We are now involved in a major propaganda campaign," Harriman told a correspondent at his hotel. "But one day they will get tired and get down to constructive discussions."

A French reading, by a diplomat who is close to the situation, is that North Vietnam eventually will agree to some sort of compromise involving an end to all bombing of North Vietnam. The Americans want some de-escalation from Hanoi.

Up to now, Harriman told one interviewer, Hanoi has exhibited "no constructive restraint" in the infiltration of arms and men into South Vietnam. The Americans had hoped for such a sign after a partial limitation of the bombing.

Harriman told another newsman the North Vietnamese "have got to indicate specifically that they are ready to re-establish" the demilitarized zone before the United States can negotiate on such a step as a complete bombing halt.

"It isn't clear what they expect to achieve, even if they do," Harriman said. "Of course their immediate objective is to stop all the bombing of the North."

But the bombing is part of the U.S. military operation, Harriman pointed out, and thus is unlikely to be stopped fully without some matching restraint on the other side.

Commenting on the possibilities of a coalition government in South Vietnam, Harriman said the Viet Cong was "not a whole."

But his statement did not appear to exclude individual members of the Viet Cong's political arm, the National Liberation Front. Harriman put it this way:

"Now there is one thing to have a political party which operates as a political party. It is another thing to have a force like the VC that are using terror, using violence, using threats, threatening families. . . . That sort of thing cannot be considered what we would accept as political procedure."

However, he said that otherwise all Vietnamese should be allowed to play a part in the country's future.

On the North Vietnamese side, Nguyen Van Sao, a press officer for the conference, retorted that Harriman's claim of areas of agreement was "only a matter of words and not of substance," and that the American was "only putting up a smokescreen to camouflage the real situation."

'U' appropriation

Oakland announced last week that it had temporarily refused any more applications for admission for next fall. Chancellor Durward Varner noted that the Senate had allocated funds for the university on the basis of a projected enrollment of 4,700.

"We're 50 per cent over that figure now," he said. "We've been overwhelmed. We can't possibly open the new student health center unless the money comes from some other source."

Oakland administrators had conferred privately with Gov. Romney last January to ask for more money. He later urged the House to restore $200,000 the Senate had trimmed and recommended an additional $280,000.

Funds recommended by the committee for the state's 10 other colleges were:

University of Michigan, $63.5 million, increased $2 million from Senate recommendation; Central Michigan, $9 million; Eastern Michigan, $11.6 million; Ferris State College, $7.5 million; Grand Valley College, $2.4 million; Michigan Technological University, $8.2 million; Northern Michigan, $6.3 million; Wayne State, $38.3 million; Western Michigan, $16.1 million; and Saginaw Valley College, $904,900.

Junior and community colleges received $24.5 million, about $291,000 less than the Senate recommended. They had asked for about $24.7 million.

in Erickson Kiva on some of the specific problems in managing a convention and selecting a site for it. She has been convention coordinator since 1966.

At 8 p.m. tonight the caucus session will be held in which the managers will have an opportunity to campaign for their nominees and to determine the nature and order of nominating and seconding speeches.

Friday night's session will be a presentation of the proposed platform that students enrolled in the JMC Issues course have been working on for six weeks.

The initial stages of the platform planning began on the individual level where students focused on certain issues in subcommittees and then submitted their planks to the platform committee in open hearings. The platform committee made its final decision on the finalized platform on Saturday after working on it for seven hours. It was then passed on to the drafting committee which met for nine hours Monday night to finalize the platform in written form.

Saturday will end the convention with the nominating session beginning at 9 a.m. in Wonders Kiva and will last until a candidate is selected.

JMC will sponsor a Democratic symposium and convention next week, May 20-25, and the same student-delegates will participate in this convention. The three keynote speakers will be: James Harrison, Democratic candidate for Michigan's Sixth District; Zolton Ferency, former Michigan Democratic chairman; and Congresswoman Martha Griffiths.

Damage in millions as wind rips Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The most massive and destructive onslaught of tornadoes this spring left 70 persons dead in parts of the midcontinent Thursday.

More than a thousand persons were injured, three were listed as missing and damage to homes and buildings ran into millions of dollars.

The vicious winds cut through parts of a nine-state area of the midcontinent late Wednesday and early Thursday and literally shredded several communities.

Deaths attributed to the tornadoes and severe weather were 43 in Arkansas, 14 in Iowa, 10 in Illinois and 1 each in Missouri and Indiana.
