U.S. proceeds with pullout from Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)--The United States took another step Wednesday in reducing its combat commitment in South Vietnam. handing over a Mekong Delta base to South Vietnam's 7th Division.

The fire support base Moore at Cai Lay. 45 miles southwest of Saigon, is being abandoned by the 1st Brigade of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division. About 7,400 men of the 1st Brigade will begin leaving for Hawaii in a week.

In all. 25,000 U.S. soldiers and Marines will have left the war in Vietnam by the end of August. Some soldiers of the 9th Division already have returned to the United States, and when the pullout is completed 11.400 will have left.

The 9th's 1st Brigade has seen plenty of combat with the Viet Cong in the rice paddies, the streams and canals of the Mekong Delta.

The 7th Vietnamese Division is the main one assigned to continue the battle in the Mekong Delta as South Vietnam gradually assumes greater combat responsibility with modern U.S. arms and fire support.

Rising costs cause hike in dorm rates

Estimated increases in costs of la bor, food and general expenses necessitated the $30 increase in residence hall rates approved Friday by the trustees. Roger Wilkinson, acting vice president for business and finance, said

Residence hall rates are now $975 per year, or $325 per term.

The yearly rate is broken down to $615 for board. $330 for room and $30 for mortgage expenses.

Sixty-six per cent of the increase will be used to cover labor costs. 22 per cent will be spent on food costs, and the remaining 12 per cent will cover general expenses.

Included in the category of general expenses are salaries, wages, workmen's compensation and retirement benefits for administrative staff, printing and related expenses, data processing charges. telephone charges and payments to the grounds division and business office

Inflationary spiral hikes consumer food bills 7%

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's worst inflationary spiral in 18 years quickened in June with a 6 10 of 1 per cent rise in living costs, and the government offered little hope Wednesday of any slowdown soon.

The worst news for American consumers was at the grocery store, especially the meat counter, where food prices continued to soar at an annual rate of 7 per cent. Meat. poultry and fish were up 4.5 per cent in one month

Most other services and commediites also showed increased," including medical care, said Asst Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The over-all rise in living costs, the ly half of it caused by soaring food prices, boosted the Labor Dept.'s Consumer Price Index to 127.6.

This showed it cost $12.76 last month for every $10 worth of typical family living expenses in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based. The increase for June was 8 cents on every

A geologist connected with the Apollo 11 flight is betting a case of champagne that the moon shuddered with a moonquake Tuesday, the first ever recorded.

If he's right, it means the moon is "alive" like the earth, that it has a molten core, has layers of different materials rather than being of uniform composition--and probably was born in the same manner the earth was.

Dr. Frank Press said in Houston Wednesday that siesmographs placed on the moon Sunday sent back reports of quivering from some natural event.

International News

Two Honduran warplanes bombed San Salvador's international airport Wednesday and then straffed a border village, Salvadoran military spokesmen said.

No casualties or damage were reported.

The reported attack was the first action in the war since Sunday when Honduras claimed Salvadoran troops captured five more of its villages. It also came only six hours after the end of the 96-hour cease fire ordered by the Organization of American States.

The United States has accepted a Soviet proposal for broadening official contacts by opening an American consulate in Leningrad and a Soviet consulate in San Francisco, the State Dept. announced Wednesday.

But U.S. spokesmen said no formal commitment has been made and that final negotiations are expected soon.

Out of sight tuition

Speaking of the forgotten man, there are those at MSU who inadvertently are caught in an upward flight whose acceleration quite possibly surpasses anything felt by the crew of Apollo 11. Those spoken of are the out-of-state students who, in the last four vears, have watched helplessly as their tuition burden spiraled to the stars. Now, in the eyes of many, the cost of schooling has passed the threshhold of reason.

The statistics cited by the administration indicate that the average cost per credit for nonresident students has increased by only about 60 per cent. This figure is arrived at by summing up all the monies paid by the students and then dividing by the total number of credits carried. Quite probably this figure is correct as far as it goes, but it is an overview and, therefore, not necessarily representative of individual cases. The fact remains that an average load of 15 credits now costs the out-ofstate student $45 more per term than it used to ($465) vs. $420).

The ones truly caught in the bind are those students--and there are many--who are at MSU on one kind of loan or grant or another, and who, of necessity, have had to already apply for renewals based on the old $420 a term figure. To those less-than-sympathetic persons who question why non-resident students came here if they do not like the cost, it should be pointed out that many came back in the days when tuition was around $345 a term and are now trapped.

By decree of the Michigan Legislature, non-resident students pay approximately 75 per cent of the price of their education. This is at least somewhat defensible in light of the fact that Michigan is one of the largest "importers" of students of the 50 states. Out of state students' parents, of course, have not been paying Michigan taxes and, thereby, supporting state schools; but they have been paying taxes in their home states--monies which are, in effect, lost to them.

Why has no one explored the possibility of some sort of arrangement among the several states, whereby an exchanging of funds could be worked out according to such figures as the number of exchanged students? Granted. Alabama, for example, due to differences in taxes and whatnot, may not be able to subsidize the full 75 per cent of educational costs required of out-of-state students, but some assistence should be possible since that student is not costing Alabama colleges any-

There is another possible drawback in the tuition raise -- one which may not show itself for some years. The high cost may slow the flow of non-resident students to MSU to a bare trickle which will be comprised of only the relatively limited class of the rich. This is certainly a blatant kind of discrimination and further, may cost MSU much of the cosmopolitan air so necessarv to the psyche of a multiuniversity.

It need not be pointed out that out of state--or for that matter out-of-country--students have contributed much to this University. In fact, if a census were taken, it is quite probable that they would account for a disproprotionate share of student government offices, Honors College members and suchlike.

In the final analysis, regardless of what arguments are put forth, of what pros and cons are expounded, the raw fact remains that as of fall term of this year, out-of-state tuition will become out-of-sight tuition.

BARB PARNESS

The woman behind the cigar

Behind every successful man, there's a successful woman . . . or so mothers have been telling their daughters throughout all time.

Behind George Washington, there was Martha: who else would have powdered his wig? To the rear of Abe Lincoln was good ol' Mary, ready to step forward and clip his chin whiskers. And in this same tradition stands Pauline Adams, wife and confidant of MSU's own Walter Adams.

Just what kind of a role Mrs. Adams plays in our acting president's life is nebulous. Of course, she might be his chief cook and cigar lighter. But somehow this observer thinks she must be Having interviewed Mrs. Adams for a little over an hour, and having just rapped with her for 60 minutes. I'm sure that she has been a vital and vibrant force in the rank-and-file professor-turnedadministrator's career.

Mrs. Adams is frank--either she takes after her husband or he takes after her-perceptive and thoroughly interesting to talk with. She is a teacher. Her apparent interest in students and their problems and ideas made this reporter totally willing to believe that she wanted to be a teacher from the time she was only 10-years-old.

Actually my impressions of Mrs. Adams are not entirely objective. In a way we're sort of "related." Since Walter Adams was named acting president, I have gone around telling everyone--including Adams himself--how Mrs. Adams is my dentist's partner's daughter.

The funny looks I have been getting assure me that people either don't believe me or don't care. However, when I told Mrs. Adams, she thought it was quite a coincidence.

Anyway, getting back to what we talked about, in addition to the dentist: We rapped about the experience of going away to college; we rapped about the ATL sequence: we rapped about the opportunities available for youth while they are young. She had something to say on many subjects; and what she said seemed to

But Mrs. Adams is more than a "talker." She's an excellent listener. I gave her my impressions of and opinions on many things, including my personal thoughts on her husband and the MSU presidency. To me, our relationship seemed to transcend that of interviewer and interviewee--there was some "real" communication.

That's the woman I saw-the woman who for over 20 years has stood behind Walter Adams. She told me that her husband doesn't want to be the University's next president. And maybe he

I am writing concerning the new flat rate tuition that I read about in the Detroit Free Press Saturday, July 19, 1969. I would like to know who the mathematician is on the board of trustees? The newspaper article says this $13 per credit hor flat rate will be an "average increase of only 4-1/2 cents per credit hour...or 67-1 2 cents per quarter for a person taking 15 hours of work.

This "small" increase comes out to $10 a quarter for a 15 credit load (15 x 13 equals 195, 195-185 (present tuition) equals $10.) This increase is not, truthfully, out of the question, but my husband has to take 20 credits per quarter for the next four quarters to graduate before the 1971 school year. Now, this equals $260 per quarter (20 x 13) and this is an increase of $75 over the professional teachers, more individualized teaching, or extra services to the University? No, this increase goes to cover the new president's salary and to build more residence halls to expand our already crowded University. Instead of choosing classes to fit a schedule, students will now be equating classes with the amount of money available during a certain term while being penalized for taking extra clases. And, thank you for raising the rent in married housing $4 a month. Now I can have hamburger seven nights a week instead of six.

I can suggest three alternatives that I hope the board of trustees will consider: 1) a tuition scale to fit new students. with previous students paying their entrance-level fees, 2) a flat rate per credit hour up to 15 credits and a maximum fee for over 15 credits, not exceeding $195; and 3) open trustee meetings held two terms prior to a tuition change where students can voice their opinions concerning tuition and have time to adjust their own pre-arranged budgets for a tuition increase.

Dean cites med school innovation

Legislative authorization last week for planning a four-year medical school has opened the way for innovations in the traditional medical education. Dr. Andrew D. Hunt, dean of the College of Human Medicine, said recently.

Dr. Hunt said the medical faculty of MSU favors a curriculum that will permit students to accelerate or lengthen their schooling according to their individual backgrounds.

We have already introduced a number of innovations in our present two-year program." Dr. Hunt said." but we have been caught up in the dilemma of breaking with tradition while having to prepare students to transfer to traditional schools."

Dr. Hunt said students in the second year of the present two-vear program will have to transfer to other medical schools to complete their educations. But he added that he is confident the 20 members of the next class will be the first to receive M.D. degrees from MSU

What actually happens when these four get together is anybody's guess. My guesses include: Caine is unhappy because he can't love--his relationship with the stewardess shows this. Quinn tries to arouse Caine's deadened sensitivities using shock, confusion, frustration and Candice Bergen.

Or maybe Caine dreams it all. The line between illusion and reality often disappears in "The Magus." Why does Quinn bother! Is he merely eccentric or is he actually making a film? While the happiness-withinyourself theme is worthwhile, it's not worth two hours of confusion. It deserves better.

Foresters earn credit tor trek

Forestry majors will be out in the woods for credits this

On Sept. 3, two faculty members and 46 students of the Forestry Dept. will begin a three-week, five-credit field trip. "The field trip is actually a class--Field Studies in Forestry," Victor J. Rudolph. professor of forestry, said. "The five credits that students earn on the trip will be reported on their fall term grades.

The trip is offered for forestry majors in between their junior and senior years. It spans the major forests of Ohio, Indiana. Pennsylvania. West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, Rudolph said.

"What we try to do," Rudolph explained. "is expose students to several different forest regions in the country. We have the group visit national, state and municipal parks, industries associated with forestry products and other universities with forestry departments. Cost of the trip is $210 for each member. This covers transportation, lodging and half of the meals.

Grades for the trip will be drawn from the results of two one-hour examinations covering field experience.
