ASMSU constitution changes win Student Board approval

By JOHN BORGER State News Staff Writer

Major changes to the ASMSU stitution, which could replace major rning group presidents with district resentatives as voting members of MSU, won approval from the Student rd Tuesday in a sparsely attended open ing at Case Hall.

The changes now go to the student for a referendum Feb. 12. A clause in present constitution requires that titutional referenda be held within 10 s after approval by the board.

Students will be asked to vote on five or issues: restructuring the Student rd. deleting the "Sleep Amendment," ructuring the Traffic Court, removing ilty control of student government, and ding Cabinet - Student Board functions changing the tax from 50 cents to one ar per term.

The first issue would completely alter present board structure. resentation will be by districts, with campus students electing eight sentatives and off-campus students ting six. This ratio is roughly the same he population ratios for the two areas. In addition, the issue provides that Office of Black Affairs of ASMSU

The clause will insure that minority viewpoints are represented in ASMSU, board members said.

"Black students are an important part of the University, have had no representation up to now, and need a special clause to make sure they are represented," Vice Chairman Chuck Mostov explained.

Rodney Watts, senior member - at large, said that the board needed to contain members who would represent all minority students. He said that a black student elected from South Complex, for example, would not necessarily meet this need, because that board member would be representing his district instead of minority students in the entire University.

The six off-campus representatives will be elected at-large because of the difficulty of districting off-campus residences, the

Scott airs possibilities of U.S. withrawal plan

Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Wednesday he doubts President Nixon would respond to new enemy attacks in Vietnam by re-escalating U.S. troop Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Scott said renewed assaults "might lengthen" the process of U.S. withdrawal but that the Nixon Administration is determined to bring a complete end to the U.S. presence in Vietnam.

He added, however, that "it is possible" some U.S. troops will remain after U.S. forces are withdrawn.

He noted during an appearance on the second of three days of hearing that the American people have accepted the presence of 50,000 U.S. troops in South

Scott urged the committee to approve the proposal by himself, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and 44 others backing President Nixon's peace efforts but urging a mutual cease-fire.

Any new attacks during the withdrawal process, he said, would prompt Nixon to carry out his threat to "resort to the use of such American power as necessary to protect the withdrawal process and the Vietnamization of the war."

By ED HUTCHISON Associate Campus Editor

Gov. Milliken said Wednesday that state police told him about 10 days ago that accusations might be leveled against former Cleveland police chief William P.

Ellenburg. Ellenburg, in office about two weeks, resigned Wednesday morning. He was accused by a reputed former Mafia lawyer of taking bribes, as a Detroit police inspector, of about $1,000 a month from "yes or no" answer by Feb. 13 from party operators of an abortion ring. The members who have been mentioned as accusations were made in Sunday editions possible candidates for the GOP Senate of the Detroit Free Press.

Milliken told reporters that he was "very much aware that charges were to be made," but added "they are just allegations and haven't yet been proven.'

At the same news conference, the Republican governor said he wants a clear and Urban Development. Milliken will go to Chicago Friday for a meeting with other Great Lakes governors and Nixon. Federal programs for controlling environmental problems will be discussed as encouraging the federal government and the President to give us more support," the governor said. The problem of environmental quality has evolved around not realizing the gravity of the situation, Milliken said. Recently, however, there has been tremendous support from the people and a "climate of consent" to combat pollution problems.

Discussing his budget, which is to be sent to the legislature this morning, Milliken said it is "tight, and recognizes fiscal realities, yet does not turn back support for essential programs.'

The budget is to include "special acknowledgement of the unique problems of Detroit." Milliken declined to comment on specific proposals.

'EFFECTIVENESS IMPAIRED'

Cleveland police chief quits; denies charges

CLEVELAND (UPI) -- Police Chief William P. Ellenburg, saying he was under a "cloud" because of allegations he took payoffs from the Mafia while on the Detroit Police force, resigned Wednesday eight days after he was appointed to head Cleveland's troubled 2,600 man force.

Ellenburg, 50, categorically denied the bribe charges made by a Detroit attorney. He said he resigned because the allegations

"would seriously impair my effectiveness." Mayor Carl Stokes, who appointed Ellenburg on Jan. 27, said, "To the best of my knowledge, William Ellenburg is the victim of unproven allegations."

Stokes named Inspector Lewis Coffey, 58, a 32-year veteran of the Cleveland force, to succeed Ellenburg as police chief. Coffey was commander of line policemen during the riots of 1966 and the Glenville shootout in 1968 when 10 persons, including three police officers, were killed.

Stokes and the police force have been at odds since the Glenville incident because he pulled all his white police from the area in an effort to restore calm. Lawerence A. Burns, a reputed former Mafia lawyer, contended in Detroit he made payoffs to Ellenburg and two other Detroit police officials in the 1950s and early 1060s, according to the Detroit Free Press. The Free Press said in a copyright story Ellenburg accepted $1,000 a month from the Mafia to protect an abortion clinic while he served as a Detroit police inspector.

Stokes was in Detroit Tuesday to look into the allegations. He returned here to discuss the situation with newly appointed Safety Director Benjamin Davis, a recently retired Air Force general.

"I was unable to find one single, identifiable shred of evidence against Mr. Ellenburg," Stokes said at a news conference. "I defend the principle that he is innocent until found guilty.

"I won't operate government on trial by newspapers. I owed it to him (Ellenburg) to make this check."

Ellenburg, a 26 - year - veteran of the Detroit force and more recently the public safety director in Grosse Pointe Park, said he had hoped to build the finest police department in the nation here but "events of the past few days have convinced me that it will be extremely difficult for me to reach that goal under the cloud created by the charges now circulating."

Stokes said Ellenburg told him he could refute the charges but it would take too much "time and effort."

Elusive Leopardi may return

By BARBARA PARNESS State News Staff Writer

Giacomo Leopardi, highly regarded faculty member and one-time candidate for MSU's presidency, may be returning to campus shortly. Leopardi, director of the University's Etruscan languages program, is officially scheduled in the spring 1970 course book to teach Economics 899 and 999. Both are research courses.

Leopardi has been away from the University for some time working with rare Etruscan manuscripts in Abruzzo, Italy. His research is being financed by the Lopresti Foundation of Holt.

A foundation representative said the organization prefers to keep its work unpublicized because "being so close to a large campus, we'd be inundated for philanthropoid largess."

Leopardi first came to MSU in the early 60s after he met former President Hannah at a poetry conference in Constantinople. He responded to Hannah's call to bring culture to the University. A spokesman for the Dept. of Economics said Leopardi has been "uncommunicative" about his exact plans for the courses. It is possible that Leopardi will conduct the course from Italy, the spokesman said. Leopardi's frequent and extended absences from campus have led some members of the MSU community to question his existence.

But, to others, Leopardi's return will be enthusiastically heralded.

"He's the last renaissance man,"

Herbert Kisch, professor of economics, said in explaining Leopardi's competency to teach in the economics department.

"He's a combination of a great classicist with an uncompromising dedication to the land - grant philosophy. He's a debonair boulevardier with a strong love for outdoor cafes and Italian wine," Adrian Jaffee, dean of the faculties at Kirkland College, Clinton, N.Y., said. Jaffee was formerly director of MSU's comparative literature program, in which Leopardi also worked.

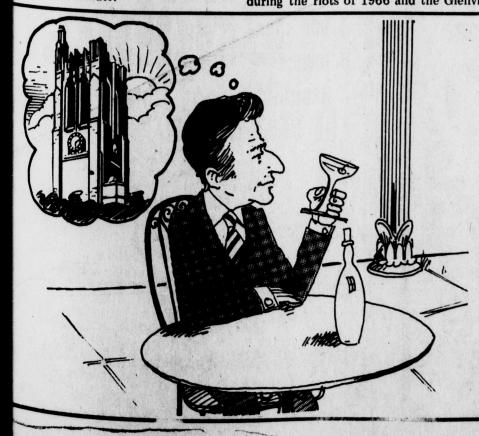

In his absence from campus, Leopardi was offered as a candidate during the search for MSU's new president. On July 23. an advertisement advocating "Giacomo Leopardi for MSU President" appeared on page 3 in the State News. The source of the advertisement could not be discovered. Leopardi's candidacy gained added publicity in August when former President Adams responded to a question on Leopardi's qualifications in the State News, "Letters to the President" column.

"Giacomo Leopardi has long served and with distinction - on the unofficial faculty of MSU," Adams said. "Indeed he has headed our program in Etruscan languages, which has received little attention locally, but in some regions of Italy enjoys the highest repute and approbation.

"While it is against my principles to deprecate a rank - and - file professor," Adams continued, "I must confess that Dr. Leopardi has simply not spent enough time on this campus to be able to deal effectively with the multifarious constituencies of the presidential office i.e., restless students, contentious faculty,

Nixon allots anti-pollution funds

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon said Wednesday he is giving federal agencies three years and $359 million to stop polluting the air

It already has been federal policy to conform with exisiting air and water quality standards, but Nixon said previous orders were "ambiguously worded, poorly enforced, and generally ineffective."

Nixon issued an executive order requiring all federal facilities - including "buildings, installations, structures, public works, equipment, aircraft, vessels and other vehicles and property" - to complete or at least begin necessary pollution abatement actions by Dec. 31, 1972, at the latest.

Agency heads were ordered to send their plans for meeting that deadline to the Budget Bureau by next June 30. Funds appropriated to clean up federal pollution may not be used for any other purpose, Nixon ordered.

Undersecretary of the Interior Russell E. Train, chairman - designate of the President's Environmental Quality Council, told newsmen "this has been one of the big problems in the past - the program agency would reprogram the pollution abatement funds and the job would not be done." By that he meant they would spend the money on something else.

Private party primaries: not the democratic way

The cornerstone of the American electoral process is the theory that the people select their public officials. Completely contradictory to this theory is the common practice wherein the political parties unofficially endorse their own candidates.

Last weekend the heads of the state Republican party got together at St. Clair to determine their standard bearer in the November election for Senate. The conference ended with a list of 25 possible candidates, one of whom will get the unofficial endorsement of the party in the party's primary.

This might give one cause to wonder. The purpose of the primary is to allow the party members to choose the man they would like to run for Senate. The primary becomes meaningless, however, when the party heads have already determined their choice. The unofficial party endorsement as a rule is the kiss of death to the other prospective used the open primary to determine their candidates. Not in recent years have they retired to an obscure locale such as St. Clair to choose their standard bearers as the Republicans just did.

The Democrats have, as a rule, members of candidates.

The GOP has shown a penchant for taking the candidate selection process away from its rank and file members. The St. Clair meeting was not the first time the top party brass got together to "endorse" a candidate. The "endorsed" candidate supposedly cannot receive funds from the party organization to fund his primary campaign. This, however, usually does not keep him from winning.

It would be a definite aid to the democratic process if the parties would refrain from informally selecting their candidates. The people have the right to determine their own candidates. An open primary is essential to this right.

It is time for the political decisions of America to be taken out of the smokefilled rooms and into the voting booth. An open primary is the only way for the members of a party to select their candidates

Repression: the death knell for democracy?

A rumbling train of repression is gaining speed across the land, engineered in the tradition of law and order and conducted by the great white silent majority. The movement is gaining its momentum by breeding on the fear of all that is foreign — fear of long hair, fear of blacks, fear of individuality, fear of nationalism among minorities.

In the past, the movement was limited to eccentric politicians, backwoods Americans, and on occasion, policemen. But the train is gaining passengers from all aspects of society and politics now — most notably the courts.

The entire debate is on stage in Chicago. As Jerry Rubin said, "We're on trial for our hair," not simply for violating an unconstitutional law. But hair is too simple, or at least too subtle an explanation.

It is a trial of the old against the young, of the past against the present, and death against life. Julius Hoffman, at any other time, could be written off as a caricature of the good, upstanding stolid American, but he is too dangerous now to be brushed aside.

Hoffman's style is spreading to other courtrooms — other stages in other cities. Last week 20 people at San Fernando Valley State College received sentences ranging from one to 25 years for occupying the first floor of the administration building. The judge's rationale behind the heavy sentence was that the defendants were "a threat and menace to law abiding citizens."

Ivory-towered East Lansing can no longer claim immunity from the repression train. The sentence levelled at David McCrea for wearing an American flag as a belt has brought the movement home. At first glance the sentence of 30 days in jail and a $100 fine is merely shocking and unexplainable. Not so, however, when placed in a national pattern of repressive response from the courts.

The greatest irony is the investigation being conducted by the Justice Department into the Black Panthers. The situation is analagous to Judge Hoffman issuing a report on the fairness of the conspiracy seven traial.

The train moves on, a great lumbering steady roar of repression. If we are to stop it, new means must be found, for when the courts become a part of that movement, the last sanctuary within the system is gone. The legislatures have done their parts with "down on student" laws, such as the one before the Michigan legislature now. Spiro Agnew is leading the cast of executives dedicated to repression, and now the courts, through the inspiration of judges like Julius Hoffman, have entered the act.

But what to do? We have no answers, only a critical situation. Huey Newton and John Sinclair are still in jail. The conspiracy trial goes on. The Black Panthers are slowly but steadily being exterminated. "America, Love it or Leave it" bumper stickers are more visible than ever. And everybody that is a true, red blooded American, wants to jump on the silent majority bandwagon.

To ignore the wave of repression, however, is to allow the paranoia of a people gone mad to dictate the future of this country.

Mid-East balance of power

The Nixon Administration is literally up in arms concerning the French government's decision to supply the "revolutionary" government of Libya with 110 fighter planes. President Nixon has already told American Jewish leaders of the possible necessity of sending more arms to Israel to offset the French transaction.

The illogic and absurdity followed by the Nixon Administration in the Middle East crises comprise the "EighthWonder of the World." Contrary to popular opinion, France can sell planes to any country she wishes; this would include any Arab nation. Secondly, to sell planes to Libya does not necessarily mean said planes will wind up in Syria or the U.A.R.

The U.S. government, over the years, sells or gives arms to Israel and Jordan; the Soviet Union supplies MIGs and other arms to the UAR, Iraq and Syria. All of a sudden the U.S. government decides there is approximately an equal distribution of destroy capability among the Arab nations and Israel. Conclusion: any other nation (France) supplying arms to a country involved even indirectly (Libya), in the Middle Eastern war is labeled "war monger," "belligerent" or as "abetting the cause of the Arabs."

It is obvious by now that Four Power or Two Power talks will solve nothing. Sen. Javits has called for a regional Middle East peace conference which would include the Moslem states of Turkey and Iran. If a settlement is to result, it must come from talks among the belligerents (Israel, UAR, Syria, Iraq, for the most part).

The Nixon Administration's so - called even - handed Middle East approach is a sham and should be exposed as such. The Arabs know perfectly well that the U.S. Government is pro - Israel. Nixon's polemics that "we are neither pro - Arab or pro - Israeli but pro - peace" are actually pro - garbage.

The Israelis are not naive. They realize the U.S. Government can be coaxed into supplying more arms (Phantoms or Skyhawks) to Israel if it becomes certain that the Arabs receive either the fighters going to Libya or more MIGs from the Soviet Union.

Recent reports show increased Syrian-Israeli fighting in the Golan Heights and more daring Israeli raids on populated Arab communities, i.e., a suburb of Cairo. The Israelis have been "air-lifting" radars from Arab installations. The Arab Commandos continue to raid Israeli towns.

All sources point to a full - scale war developing in the near future. And the two major perpetrators of that conflict are the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

For the U.S. government to deny this is sheer folly. Without American weapons Israel would not nearly be as bold as she is now. Therefore, the U.S. government bears great responsibility for the death and destruction wreaked by Israel.

This is not to deny the transgressions and violence on the part of the Arabs and the Soviet Union's indirect complicity in those acts. Nor am I naive enough to believe that Israel would not have fallen without U.S. support. What I say is that the Israelis -- thanks to U.S. war material -- have often over - stepped reasonable bounds in their retributive acts against the Arabs and this has just intensified the conflict.

At this juncture there seems to be no answer to the quagmire in the Middle East. While we can compliment the U.S. Government for furthering the possibility of greater death and havoc in that area, there remains no way the U.S. can instantly sever its ties to Israel without seeing the Israelis in an extremely precarious position.

The history of U.S. involvement in the Middle East is typical of all of its imperialist adventures. "Even handedness," "being pro peace," "supplying arms to our 'friends' abroad," are all euphemisms for providing the instruments for mutual destruction in the Middle East.

For the U.S. Government to blame the French government for offsetting the supposed balance in "Middle East destroy-capability," is merely a shoddy attempt to transfer this government's culpability to the French. The U.S. and U.S.S.R. governments share the guilt for the arms build - up in the Middle East and the concomitant increase in death and war activity.

Let's rally around Huber's status quo

Supporters of the 18 - year - old vote in Michigan face the task — as ludicrous as it seems — of convincing "mature" voters that sub-21 groups are creatures of intellect and reason. Already, opponents of the 18 - year - old vote are rallying around the status quo.

Enter, for example, one state senator: Robert (Power to the People) Huber, conservative from Troy and all-around good guy white-hat hero to the silent majority.

"That (the 18 - year - old - vote) would be a mistake," Huber declared last week. "Eighteen - year - olds would be running East Lansing and Ypsilanti. They would take over."

Whether or not East Lansing and Ypsilanti need taking over is a moot point, but evidence contradicts Huber's soothsaying.

Kentucky and Georgia have had the 18 - year - old vote for years. Students at the University of Kentucky haven't yet taken over Lexington. Nor do recent reports indicate that students from the University of Georgia have raped Athens.

These are the facts. But predicting a "student takeover" insures better press coverage for a man who is running for U.S. Senator. It also leads him to other reasons for denying suffrage to fellow citizens:

"I want," Huber droned, "to see these people earn money before they vote on

Huber

That's interesting. Huber, who a said on local television that political pois with those people, now wishes to a suffrage to a segment of those people because they presumably don't meet personal standards — they don't a money or pay taxes.

Presumably, businessmen in the Top Birmingham area who avoid taxes through legal loopholes—as well as the very power would be spared having their worth a citizen measured by their money contributions to government.

And, if indeed, earning money we legitimate criterion for suffrage, many 12- and 15 - year - olds could easily the test. Certainly Huber has assumed than he can prove by implying that 18-year olds don't earn money and pay taxes that state legislators often use exotic, needless junkets.

To be fair, however, the prind behind Huber's earn - money to we theory must be analyzed and applies other situations. If earning money quality 1 - year - olds to vote on taxes, the follows that only certain other experience can quality voters to judge other issues.

If Huberism is true, for example prohibitionist must get juiced before volume on liquor law. Legislators should leap the bridges before passing innocuous sublaws. Or perhaps they should cares the mother's ear before judging the worth incest law?

Each of these cases rests on the a principle that Huber rests his 18 · year vote proposition: deal with the experts before voting on it.

Unfortunately, a few rank and bourgeoise are lining up behind their one learned observer recently wrote in Michigan newspaper:

"The democrats want the 18 ye old vote so they can win elections and in office even though America destroyed!

"History teaches that sound judgm comes after 50. I hope all America

Legislative relief remote

o The Editor:

Milton C. Taylor, economics professor at MSU, erroneously told the East Lansing City Council last week that "State Legislators exempt themselves from the Lansing City income tax, so why don't the students get the legislators to sponsor a bill exempting them from the East Lansing income tax?"

The fact is that state legislators are not exempt from the Lansing city income tax nor should they be. It is true that because legislators spend part of their time working in their home districts and part of their time working at the Capitol their tax liabilities to the City of Lansing are correspondingly adjusted. The formula for payment meets with the approval of the City of Lansing.

As a resident of Okemos I am subject to the City of Lansing income tax. Most certainly this is taxation without representation as Taylor suggests, but the courts long ago determined that services provided by an income taxing authority to non-residents are constitutionally justifiable. I do not speak for or against the adoption of an East Lansing income tax believing that such a decision is the responsibility of those who reside in the city and those who are employed there and would be subject to the tax. However, contrary to Taylor, I believe his suggestion that students will find relief from city income taxes in the halls of the legislature are rather remote.

I would expect that the majority of students would not ask for preferential treatment and would feel that they would indeed be second class citizens if they were exempted from a tax which those in much more dire circumstances are required to pay. Certainly if legislators and state employees among all other wage earners are subject to city income taxes, I see no reason why any other group should be exempted.

Jim Brown, R-Okemos, State Representative 59th District

immediate mistakes or errors of judgment? It takes the distance of years, and the enlightenment that comes with those years, to make the "correct" judgment that should have been made (so to be suitable to today's popular stances and beliefs). Because one once, long ago, delivered a speech that goes contrary to the grain of today's wood, is that sufficient reason to plane him out entirely from his possibilities?

If one is denied his right to change, to embrace new beliefs or modify his old beliefs in accordance with the new, then he ceases to grow, ceases to be of any use or consequence -- he socially dies.

As Nietzsche has written: "The snake that cannot shed its skin perishes. So do the spirits who are prevented from changing their opinions; they cease to be spirit."

This is the result of accusation through hindsight.

Credentials, past records, mean essentially nothing. They are illusory indications -- little else. What was there in John F. Kennedy's Senate record to qualify him for the Presidency, or to indicate what he would attempt to achieve once in? Who was the antimovement's crusader, Goodell, before was tapped into the Senate. And why (what pre - established, duly recorded can verify it) that "Conservatives" tended become "Liberal" upon achieving Supreme Court Justiceship -- or vice much to the chagrin of the Chief Exective who put them there?

What I wish to say is this: You only (and therefore should only) judgman on his present merit, his presented. If each man's past is to be exhuming (always, purposely, to his detriment) order to determine his worth -- his about inability to hold public office, his low -- then we are all summarily doomed dismissal

Honors College plans to revise admission policy

By ROSANNE BAIME State News Staff Writer

In the next few years the Honors College will attempt to revise its admission policy to allow students with exceptional ability but a GPA below 3.5 to enter the college.

"We've always had a flexible admission policy," Honors College Director Frank H. Blackington said. "In the past we've always welcomed, if not elicited, professorial recommendations

The college's official policy accepts only those students with a 3.5 GPA or better. Blackington said this rule was always flexible enough to admit students with a high ability, but a slightly lower scholastic record.

He said he foresees a shift in attitudes of the admissions standards to the college away from the precise "numeral" requirement.

"Professorss' opinions prove to be a more adequate judgment of students' abilities. They can take into account the differences in course material and they are now more personally aware of capabilities that might not show up in course work."

Blackington said that the college will make a greater effort to obtain professors' recommendations in the future, rather than to get them on a hit - and - miss basis.

If this happens, he said he foresees an increase in the college's population. Currently there are 1,400 members of the college on the sophomore level and above, and 350 freshmen.

"If our population increases too much," Blackington said, "we might have to start turning away some students who meet the 3.5 GPA requirement and rely completely on professorial

The Honors College was established by the faculty in 1956 in response to the success that individual departmental honors programs had received. Its goal is to encourage the development and achievement of undergraduate students of superior academic ability by helping to establish special honors courses and allowing students to plan their own curricula.

Director Clinton Burbons, who seems so much to want to be in vogue with current trends, had Simon and Garfunkle sing "Sounds of Silence," "Dangling Conversation" and "Richard Corey," had a poem recited, and for the finale at the end of the play, played that erotic French song, "Je t'aime," complete with heavy breathing and aural voyeuristic appeal.

These songs have some slight reference to the play, and with the possible exception of the last one, are very fine in themselves. However, I found Burbons' little added attractions trite and downright silly.

The action takes place in a one-room flat in England. Jimmy and Alison Porter are the unhappily married couple, and Jimmy's friend Cliff, who lives in the next room, is the neutral factor in the constant feud. Cliff is an ally to both sides, the stabilizing effect in unbalanced situation.

Jimmy is a veritable monster who verbally assaults almost all who come in contact with him. He is desperately trying to communicate his anguish caused by his failure to function in the present. Perhaps his true nature revealed when he crawls into the womb-like lounge chair and sulks like a little boy. Persuades to leave

Enter into this happy scene Alison's friend Helena, who promptly becomes Jimmy's newest target. Helena successfully persuades pregnant Alison to leave her husband, so she can step into her shoes.

The second act begins the same as the first, only the female role features Helena, instead of Alison. After being sexually satiated, the two "newlyweds" plan to leave and start a new life elsewhere, when in mopes Alison, her baby dead and herself in need of security. the weakest part of the play) and all goes back to the original arrangement, perhaps a bit better, but minus Cliff

Affected accents With the possible exception of David Lang as Cliff, the British accents were definitely influenced by Midwestern America. Carolyn Asquith's good portrayal of Alison was the best performance of the evening. Chuck Lonegan was a bit too mincing as Jimmy for my tastes, but his interpretation of the role was nevertheless interesting. Georgia Morgan was tolerable when she didn't flub her lines, and Carrol Howhens was most satisfactory in his small role as Alison's father. The theatre is a converted barn at 4208 South Okemos Road, near the intersection of Mt. Hope Road, and if you want tickets, the best seats are within the first five rows of the east side of the theatre. Do not I repeat, do not sit in the last row as I unfortunately did since the seats there have no padding and after the play is over you will no doubt feel the effects.

Triangular priority tops 'U'

By STEFANIE LOWE

The planning and financing of buildings on campus is a difficult and complex task of determining priorities. No one person is responsible for the order in which proposed buildings are listed. All MSU administrators and department or college heads are involved.

MSU's capital outlay needs through 1975 are now before the Michigan Legislature. Those needs fall in three categories: medical school facilities; renovations and additions; and new constructions. When presented to the state legislature no preference is shown among categories, although priority is shown within each. All of the proposed buildings with high priority are rated so because of independently, can be overcrowded conditions.

The building was designed to house the entire College of Communication Arts, which is presently scattered at six different locations on campus, according to Bain. Each department would have specialized rooms containing specific facilities. The building also would include office space for faculty, a library lounge for students and faculty and three theaters housing 800, 350 and 100 persons.

The Communication Arts Bldg. would create the much needed interdepartmental relationships which would, in turn, strengthen faculty student relationships and course offerings," Bain said.

Dr. James S. Feurig, director of Olin Health Center, estimates the cost of the medical complex at $33 to $35 million, with most of the cost to be federally funded. On Nov. 1, 1969 the

lowa alone in Big 10 lead Illini shocked at home

Big Ten basketball action Tuesday night saw one of the league's co-leaders fall and another just keep rolling along.

Illinois lost its first conference game of the year and first in the Assembly Hall in 19 games Wisconsin shocked Harv Schmidt's nationally-ranked crew, 66-65.

Iowa moved into sole possession of first place with a 90-77 win over pesky Minnesota at Iowa City. In the other game, Indiana rallied in the last minutes of play to dump Northwestern, 80-78. Illinois led 41-34 at the half but the Badgers narrowed it to 65-61, with 1:04 to play. Hotshot guard Clarence Sherrod canned two free throws and another bucket on a technical before center Al Henry dropped in a layup with two seconds

Iowa had only a 49-44 halftime lead and was tied with the Gophers at 59-59, with 13:45 to go. But Fred Brown pumped in a jumper and started the Hawks on a scoring binge that lifted their lead to as many as 18 points in the final

Indiana moved out of the Big Ten cellar with a 80-78 win over Northwestern at Bloomington. Northwestern led 67-58 midway through the second half but the Hoosiers outscored the Cats 13-4 to tie the game at 71-71. Rick Ford's fielder gave IU the lead and after a Dale Kelley free throw Jim Harris put Indiana up by three. The Hoosiers and Cats traded shots the rest of the game before Rick Atkinson canned two free throws to ice the game.

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS

Academic Advising, Enrollment. and Registration For 1970 Spring Term

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FROM THE REGISTRAR

The 1970 Spring term Schedule of Courses and Academic Handbook will be available to dormitory residents in their residence hall on Friday, February 6; and to other students at the counter in Room 150, Hannah Administration Building beginning on Monday, February 9.

A summary of what to do — where, when . . . concerning the enrollment and registration procedure for Spring term is outlined in the 1970 Spring term Schedule of Courses and Academic Handbook.

Your discussion with your adviser will be based on a Student Academic Progress Plan which you should develop (or may wish to modify or develop further) in conference with your adviser. Bring your Progress Plan record with you to see your academic adviser according to the arrangement in your college (and possibly department) as outlined below:

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

All undergraduates in the College of Arts and Letters, except Studio Art majors, should see their academic advisers during their office hours on Friday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 13, 16, 17 and 18. ENGLISH MAJORS SHOULD GO FIRST TO THE UNDERGRADUATE OFFICE IN MORRILL HALL 213, MUSIC MAJORS SHOULD GO FIRST TO THE DEPARTMENT ADVISING CENTER, MUSIC BUILDING 155. Advisers will be in their offices at least one hour each morning and afternoon of these four days. Check with department offices for the hours of individual advisers. Make an appointment to minimize waiting in line or if you cannot come at the hours scheduled. You may also see your advisers before these dates during their regular office hours or by appointment.

Studio Art majors should see their Art advisers on Monday, February 16. All Studio classes will be dismissed on that day and advisers will be in their offices from 8 - 12 and 1 - 4.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS '

For the past four weeks, the pair have alternated winning the position. For the season, Muir, the defending Big Ten champ at 160, is 9-2-1, while Radman is

There's a logiam of wrestlers competing for the No. 1 spot at 177. When the season began freshman Sam Davis and junior Tim Moxim won it for the season-opening meet against Maryland

But sophomore Bruce Zindel surged to the front, beating out both of them and holding the spot until last week when Dave Ciolek, another freshman, took the spot.

Ciolek, who has two pins in his two varsity matches, is very strong and could develop into an extremely fine wrestler when he gains more experience.

The Spartan squad is filled with plenty of grapplers who could be wrestling regularly on a less powerful team, but have cracked the starting lineup only briefly or not at all with MSU.

Included among this group are Lon Hicks and Dave Roberts at 126, Mike Ellis (who was No. Spartan graduate to hold the 1 man at 130 last season and injured Jack Zindel at 190. A challenger has to win two straight matches from the incumbent at a spot to win the position and last season there were only a minimum of frontline changes during the season.

Such intra-squad competition not only keeps the No. 1 men from becoming complacent with regard to the security of their spots, but also provides great insurance against an injury severely hurting the team's chances.

This season the Spartans have been pretty fortunate in the injury department, with only Zindel among the regulars being hurt for any length of time.

"Jack won't wrestle this weekend, but we hope to have him ready to go when we meet Oklahoma on Feb. 14," Peninger Abajace is apparently lost for the season, but Johnson just recently fought his way back into the lineup and has been impressive winning three of his four matches at 118.

"The biggest thing Greg has to do now is to get his timing back and his moves down pat. Peninger noted.

If Johnson can perform as well as was expected for him before an injury sidelined for all of last season, it would be a substantial boost to the Spartan's national championship aspirations.

Coming Up: 2000 A.D. An Engineer who starts with RCA in 1970 will be part of an amazing future.

If you measure achievement in technological discovery, no industry can surpass either the past record or future potential of electronics. And, if you're part of a company that is as diverse in all areas of technology as RCA, you are in for an exhilarating ride to the top of your profession. We develop new technologies using the total systems concept.

For instance: large timesharing computers; satellite systems such as TIROS; solar power; printing production; superconductivity; new materials; new sources of energy; broad band communications systems; liquid crystals. But these are just a few of the areas that concern our engineers and scientists today. Tomorrow is coming up awfully fast.

The problems we will be faced with during the next 30 years, and how well we solve them, will determine the future well-being of all mankind.

You can start your engineering career in one of our Rotational Programs to give you a wide over-view of our activities, or, if you prefer, direct assignment to one of our numerous technical areas.

Whatever course you choose, you will find yourself working with a unique group of human beings, who are deeply involved with the future.

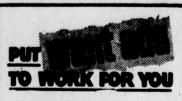

Electronic and mechanical engineers, we would like to talk to you. Take the first step—get in touch with your College Placement Director, or write directly to RCA College Relations, Dept. F. Cherry Hill, Camden, New Jersey 08101 . . .

We not only believe in equal opportunity employment we practice it.

than top - level administration." While the presidential search continued, Leopardi himself saw fit to address a letter to the President's column concerning the publications subscribed to by the president's office.

Leopardi demonstrated concern for Adams' alleged subscription to and subsequent cancellation of Soviet Life.

"Knowing your background, realize that subscribing to a publication such as this (Soviet Life) could not be classified as an indiscretion, and really, Walter, I don't see why you hushed it up," Leopardi wrote. "If Readers' Digest isn't good enough for you, you certainly are in a position to say so." Adams replied that the cancellation was only one change in a complete revision of the publications list. He assured Leopardi that he was now considering adding the Etruscan Language Quarterly to the list, "at no expense to the taxpayers of Michigan." As the presidential search came nearer to its end, Leopardi's interest in University affairs continued to mount. In correspondence with his former colleague Jaffe, he reported on activities planned in Italy for the Oct. 15 Moratorium. The following report appeared in a letter from C. P. Larrowe, professor of economics, in the Sept. 29 State

"MSU may have responded (to the Moratorium), also, though unofficially. I have just had word from Dean Jaffee that our errant professor, Giacomo Leopardi, has unearthed strong anti-militarist sentiment among Italian youth at the University of Turin, where his Lopresti grant has taken him.

"Leopardi confidently expects that on Oct. 15 some 10,000 students will turn out at Turin for an anti - war rally." Leopardi's failure to capture ABRUZ 20

Abruzzo, in the heartland of Italy, is the alleged site of Leopardi's work for the Lopresti Foundation on rare

Etruscan manuscripts. the presidency has been attributed by some to a controversial incident in the Academic Senate involving Leopardi. At the Senate meeting. Leopardi was attacked by his friend Jaffe for allegedly being the source of University of California chancellor Clark Kerr's statement that the three areas of university controversy are football for the alumni, sex for the students and parking for the faculty. A point of order was raised at the meeting that it was inappropriate for Jaffe to attack a colleague when he wasn't present. Leopardi for president supporters initiate that Jaffe's accusations may have hurt their candidate's chances in the presidential race. Although Leopardi was not present at that particular Academic Senate meeting, he has been known to quietly slip into town for a Senate meeting and sign his name on the faculty attendance sheet.

Ask the people involved in highway safety -about Ætna.

Death on the highways.

At Ætna we refuse to accept it as a fact of life. We designed the first classroom driving simulator for high schools. We helped found the National Safety Council and the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. And our engineering people are constantly helping to improve the driving records of the nation's car, truck and taxi fleets.

Because highway safety is everybody's job, we feel a special obligation. Our business may be selling insurance, but our concern is people.

proposed by board

The Union Board at the University of Michigan (U-M) is proposing some changes to the Michigan regents which would make the Union a more central element of student activities.

Until about six years ago, the Union provided the only hotel services available in the Ann Arbor area. It has about 150 rooms for guests, as well as conference rooms and food service utilities.

However, with the extensive growth of other lodging and food service facilities, this aspect of the Union is suffering.

Some of the problems which face the Michigan Union have also plagued the MSU Union in the past couple of years, such as rising wages for employes and a decline in business.

These problems are the result of changes within the University; for example, the expansion of McDonel sponsors dormitory units, difficulty in access to the Unions and the growth of other living units and food services. McDonel Hall will sponsor

Last fall the U-M Union opened a discount store and a formal dance Feb. 28 at Kellogg student credit union in hopes of reviving some vitality within its walls, but it seems further changes are still necessary.
