Williams told police that he was attacked by the boys without provocation, Hanger said. He was in serious condition.

Shortly before Williams was shot, another Pontiac Central student, John Greyer, 17, was hit by a car. He was in fair condition. Pontiac Police, helped by state, county and other law enforcement officers in the area, arrested 11 juveniles and four adults, and said they would be charged with disorderly conduct. Except for Williams and Greyer, no serious injuries were reported Wednesday.

The disturbance lasted slightly more than two hours. At midafternoon City Manager Joseph Warren said the situation had cooled and "I don't think that we've reached the point where a state of emergency is needed."

TWO DAYS' FIGHTING

Torres takes power; Bolivian leftists rule

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres swept to power Wednesday with a show of strength that toppled his rightist opponents. Ten leftist demonstrators were reported killed in a mining town by military officers in the only known bloodshed of the two-day conflict.

Torres promised cheering crowds of Bolivians in La Paz "a popular nationalist government."

Radio reports from the mining town of Oruro, 120 miles southeast of La Paz, said officers of the 2nd Division fired into the demonstrators when the leftists appeared about to assault divisional headquarters.

At least 10 persons were reported killed and an undetermined number injured.

The 2nd Divison supported Torres' opponent, Gen. Rogelio Miranda. In La Paz, Miranda, the conservative army chief of staff who forced President Alfredo Ovando Candia to resign Tuesday, was said to have taken refuge in a foreign embassy along with members of his junta.

Torres appeared to have solid support from students, farmers, workers and powerful segments of the armed forces.

Thus Bolivia followed the pattern of a leftist military regime that took over in Peru in 1968. And the victor in Chile's recent presidential election was Salvador Allende, the first Marxist to be elected in Latin America. Bolivia, Peru and Chile are bounded by Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil, where rightist military regimes hold power.

Some of Torres' planes bombed the government palace Tuesday in a raid that caused little damage and no casualties.

After receiving the resignations of two junta members early Wednesday at his air force headquarters outside La Paz, Torres rode into the city to the cheers of people massed along the streets. Air force planes paid him the honor of flying low over his line of march.

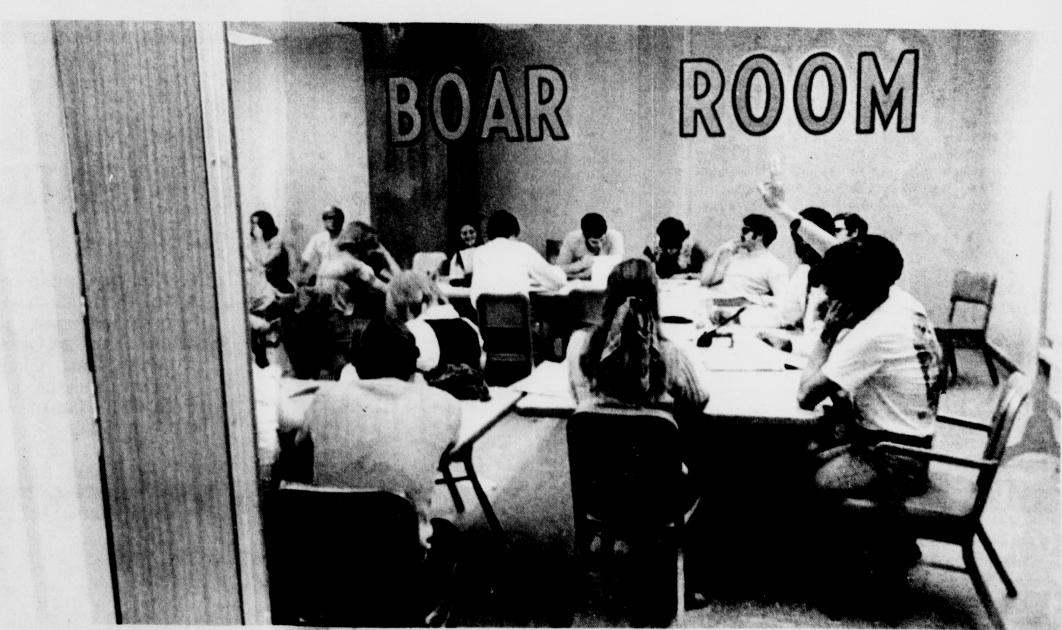

Ebullient Torres' supporters, including students and workers, raced through La Paz, sacking the homes of military men and civilians suspected of being rightist and occupied the buildings of three leading newspapers.

In a speech to cheering crowds, from the balcony of the governmental palace after taking the oath, Torres declared his was "the revolution of the people, who manifest their unwavering will to take the route of national liberation.'

Torres said his government would rest on four pillars, the peasant farmers, the workers, the students and the armed forces. All will be invited into the new regime, he

The House passed Wednesday a sweeping anticrime bill giving the federal government new and expanded legal powers for use against organized crime.

The bill would also give the government greater authority to deal with terror bombings, including the power to send federal agents onto college campuses to investigate explosions and fires.

With sentiment for a strong law and order bill running high as election day approaches, the House brushed aside all attempts to soften the measure and then passed it by an overwhelming vote.

The Senate has passed a similar bill.

The Black Panther Party has changed its emphasis from fighting racism to fighting capitalism, a former editor of the Panthers' newspaper testified Wednesday in Washington.

The target shift occurred, Frank B. Jones told a House subcommittee investigating the Panthers, "because they came to feel capitalism is the over-all problem that causes racism."

When the Panthers changed "from a paramilitary, self - defense organization to a political party," he said, "there was a party purge to remove anyone who didn't make an attempt to understand the political motives."

Jones, who was managing editor of the Panther newspaper from February, 1969 until May, 1969, was questioned extensively by committee counsel about the paper.

A Buffalo policeman was wounded fatally, a prisoner was killed and a second policeman was wounded Wednesday in an exchange of gunfire outside Meyer Memorial Hospital.

Patrolman Joseph O'Neil, 57, died while undergoing surgery of a bullet wound in the torso.

Police said he and Patrolman Edward Young, 62, were shot by Elijah Wilkins, 33, of Buffalo, as they and a third policeman were taking Wilkins to the hospital. Wilkins grabbed a gun from one of the policemen and began firing as all emerged from a patrol car.

United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said Wednesday there has been "enough progress" made on local negotiations with General Motors Corp. to resume talking about national economic issues Friday for the first time since the UAW struck the giant automaker 23 days ago.

Woodcock announced that all members of the union's national bargaining committee are being called into Detroit. He also announced the UAW's ruling International Executive Board (IEB) has called a special convention in Detroit Oct. 14 to discuss the union's dwindling strike fund and possibly decree a special assessment on non - striking UAW members.

Woodcock said Earl Bramblett, chief GM negotiator, has agreed to resume bargaining on national issues. Bramblett was not immediately available for comment.

Woodcock said, "Enough progress has been made in local negotiations in key General Motors plans, despite the absence of final agreements, to justify calling back the committees and requesting the corporation to resume national bargaining on Friday. We'll start from where we left off before."

Campus News

The University of Wisconsin College of Letters and Science has canceled 200 of its 2,000 courses this semester because of a budget squeeze.

Cancellations could run as high as 300, Stephen C. Kleene, dean of the college, reported.

Almost every department on the campus was asked to cut back on its 1970-71 budget to make up a projected $5.3 million deficit on the Madison campus.

Enrollment in Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) on the campus was down 132, or 25 per cent from last year, according to ROTC spokesmen.

Nasser's successors seen taking tougher Mideast line

Noncritical week plan only practical answer

The Academic Council recommended Tuesday that all examinations scheduled between Oct. 26 and Nov. 6 be postponed. The stated purpose is to allow students who wish to take part in the upcoming elections to do so without penalty.

This action appears praiseworthy, but in historical perspective it becomes suspect. Last June the Academic Council voted down the strike - inspired fall term recess plan. Instead of closing the University for a number of weeks, the Council encouraged "colleges and departments to plan special academic programs, where appropriate, to broaden student participation in the political process."

The implication was clear: to make everyone happy - including the legislature – personal choice would be paramount. Students who wished to work on the campaign trail would be through independent study. Others not interested in the program could continue classes as usual. And above all, MSU would not be officially

Colleges and departments for the most part have, however, failed to comply. To date only three departments have arranged political action options, according to Dick Kruch of the ASMSU Legislative Relations Bureau.

In this light it seems reasonable to expect that at the very least the Academic Council could designate Oct. 26 thru Nov. 6 as a noncritical week, i.e., there will be no tests on the material covered. Certainly, the members of the council will agree that the important thing is the learning and not the testing.

The essential problem with the present situation is that it depends on the good will of individual professors. A particularly unsympathetic instructor could go out of his way to allowed to earn academic credit schedule "necessary" exams during election week. This potential for arbitrariness undermines the entire intent of the election - recess plan.

Acts, not more rulings, needed on trustee case

The Michigan Constitution: "formal sessions of such institutions (of higher learning) must be open to the public." Last year Michigan Att. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled state university governing boards must transact all business in public.

Nonetheless the University of Michigan regents and MSU trustees continue to violate the law by holding private meetings. At U-M discussion of such matters as salaries and land acquisition are held behind closed doors. In public meetings matters on the agenda are referred to by code numbers, not by the issues involved. It is not until some time finds out what the board has decided.

number, salaries and other financial matters are regularly discussed in the power; he needs to exercise it.

private. In addition the MSU trustees voted by telephone once last spring to reverse a previous decision made at a public meeting.

Such practices continue because the attorney general's office has failed to enforce its decisions. State Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, has now requested a ruling on whether U-M's regents have the power to conduct closed meetings in the light of Kelley's 1969 ruling.

What is needed more than another ruling, though, is some action on Kelley's part. Essentially he is ruling on the same matter he had ruled on in the past. Some definitive action after the meeting that the public on his part will serve as a deterrent to future secretive activity on the part of university governing groups. While the MSU trustees have not It is doubtful if the trustees would sunk to voting in public by code collaborate in private at the risk of prosecution by the state. Kelley has

Dwindling student aid boosted by bond sales

Last week the East Lansing State double in less than 14 years. The Bank launched an experiment in creative capitalism. Under this plan $25 thru $10,000 denomination bonds will be sold to finance ailing student loan fund coffers.

The innovation is most welcome. Michigan Higher Education loan sources, which the bond sales will fund, have dwindled to the point of virtual invisibility, while the number of students seeking funds continues to increase.

Through this program the bond holders will see their investment way you look at it.

bank will reap a return and, above all, many students will have the opportunity to continue their educations.

Thus far the East Lansing State Bank is the only institution in this area to attempt this bond scheme. If other banks throughout the state picked it up the effect could be profound.

To succeed, however, the program needs public support. Think about it: it's a good deal no matter which

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

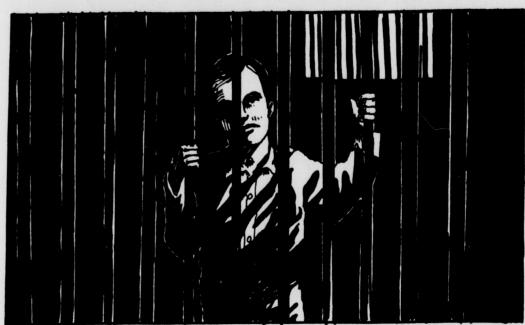

It is an overwhelming situation I find myself in now, because I have been systematically blocked from writing or seeing anyone of the "free world" for nearly two years. Therefore my confidence and ability to communicate is drastically marred. Please do not be alarmed - they have not destroyed my mind, and fortunately I have so far been spared mutilation. But, if I at times confuse the issues I will attempt to present here, then let this confusion in itself serve as proof of the urgency of this communication.

When I first arrived at Marquette Prison in July, 1967, there was a black inmate named James Newton being kicked and brutally beaten about the head with heavy metal cell keys. I later found out that it was because he had been talking during the all - day silent period. There were about 55 of us who arrived, chained together, on two buses, and three - fourths of that 55 were black men. Among the 55 prisoners, 15 of us were closely aligned. Our cause was survival. One of the 15 was a white soul brother named Earl Moore. He was told on our first day in Marquette that if he remained with the rest of us as he had been, the prison administration would see to it that his entire stay would be made much harder. But he stood fast, and remained with us until he was discharged.

On our third day here one of our fifteen, named Dease, became extremely ill. We asked the guard on duty if he could see the doctor. He was refused. Upon refusal he began to call out in hopes of attracting the attention of a more sympathetic guard. This summons brought the reluctant attention of Capt. Geroge Summers and a half - dozen guards, who threateningly told him to shut up or he would get "a taste of Marquette discipline." By this time Dease was so ill he could not reply or even move. What followed the name "Nazi Charlie." He tried very hard, to say the least, to live up to his name, with such tyrannical and filthy deeds as spitting on inmates' food, using the same gloves that are normally used for picking up toilet brushes and dirty clothes to pass out bread and other food, wiping his dirty hands on clean pillow cases and towels which were then given to the inmates of F-Block to be used for the following week, and on and on. Brothers and sisters, black men are barbarically punished here for as little as ten minutes later and in the years that followed was beatings, gas, and constant humiliation.

In the spring of 1968 we were all in F-Block, which is a solitary confinement unit ("the hole") where, among other degradations, food is served unsanitarily by guards. And the guard in charge of F-Block at that time was a sergeant who is known by

"having an improper attitude" toward the all - white prison administration. (There is not one black guard or black official in Marquette Prison!) The treatment of black inmates in the past and at present, inflicted by the white guards under the direction of the all - white administration, has successfully gained for them the status of over 100 years ago, that of "master and slave." The Department of Corrections is well aware of the atrocities committed against the black inmates here, because it has been informed again and again of the treatment inflicted upon us. Yet they do not intervene or act in the interest of the inmates, and Department of Corrections officials (such as Perry Johnson) who have contributed heavily to this situation have only been rewarded with promotions and attacking "Sonny" by a guard who said that "Sonny" needed to be "taught a lesson." The administration was aware that this other inmate was murderous and psycopathically violent, yet they permitted him out in the population and egged him on to acts of violence against his brothers. The death of "Sonny" McCree was covered up and labelled "an accident" by the Marquette Prison administration.

Not long ago four black mmates -Raymond Callahan, Lamo at Dozier, Nabors and Griffin were unmercifully beaten and gassed because they had the nerve to ask that the doors be closed while there were still freezing temperatures outside. Not only were these four inmates beaten and gassed and carried off to F-Block in laundry baskets (after being beaten unconscious), but the whole population of B-Block, where they were kept, was subjected to massive tear. gassing even though they had no part in the affair. And in the following months (the incident occurred in February 1970) the four men have been periodically beaten and gassed while kept in F-Block, or "the hole." Raymond Callahan was so brutally beaten, harrassed, and totally humiliated until his whole personality was broken down and he can hardly talk any more. He is now being kept under psychiatric care in Jackson Prison.

I will now give you a roll call of the black men and one white man who dared to be men up here: LeRoy Frost, Charles Mcline. Aaron Jackson, Danny Patterson, William Barnett, Clarence Hester, Norman Richardson, Otis Adams, Jerome Loines, Archie O'Quinn, Robert Zeigler, Willie Harris, Clarence Hinton, Lenny Tyson, Leroy James, Charles Payton, Ronnie Griffin, Lamont Dozier, Larry Coney, Curtis Clark, Earl Moore, Raymond Callahan, Gregory Callahan, Robert Shipp, Ronnie Howard, George Douglas, Roger Johnson Gregory Mercer, Earnest McFarlin, Eugene Wilson, Melvin Lemmons, Chester Dickerson, Lemmie Smith, James Newton, Eric Woods, Joe Young, Harold Glover, James Britton, Pancho Silva, Dease, Nabors, and myself, Ernest Croney. All of these brothers have been beaten and/or gassed, many of them a number of times, for refusing to submit to the humiliating and tyrannical treatment offered by the advancements instead of reprimands and dismissals. (Perry Johnson - is not Warden at Jackson Prison - he was Assistant Deputy Warden here during one of the worst periods of mistreatment and brutality against black

There is no redress of grievances here at all, and inmates are even punished for attempting to bring their plight to the attention of other government agencies and/or the mass news media. There are even institutional mail regulations here which prohibit inmates from writing about the conditions inside this place.

Throughout Michigan's penal system black inmates are handicapped and tortured in this neo - colonialized slave system, more so in Marquette. I have seen a black man beaten and hanged by prison guards in Ionia Reformatory. His only "crime" was being black and alone. It was labelled "suicide." Recently here in Marquette, a black man named "Sonny" McCree was killed by another inmate who had been talked into Marquette Prison administration.

only "crime" was being black and alone.

A number of black inmates here have attempted to bring an end to this situation by petitioning the state and federal courts for an end to beatings, gassings, unfair treatment, severe mail censorship (including, as in my case, being cut off from writing anybody for months at a time, even their own sisters and brothers, mothers and fathers at home), and other humiliating violations of the law. Yet these petitions and suits have consistently been denied by the state and federal courts, usually on legal technicalities that stem from the fact that the inmates prepare their own briefs and petitions without an adequate knowledge of how to do them right. But the longer this goes on, the more determined the black prisoners here become to put an end to these conditions of degradation and despair, by any means necessary. All Power to the People! Wharton vs. the constitution

President Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., in his statement following the acquittal of eight students charged with trespass for staying in the Union past closing hours, comes forth once again with the hard line. Expressing no regrets (let alone apologies) for his role in the arrest of the 132 students (who were merely in peaceable discussion groups in Union conference rooms, admittedly after hours), Wharton defends the arrests and proclaims the University's "unequivocal intention" to enforce all its rules.

In referring to the Federal District Court's refusal to issue an injunction to halt the prosecution and thereby having held "that the University had acted in good faith," Wharton fails to mention that first the prosecution had to drop the charge of "loitering" - partly because the loitering ordinance might have been unconstitutional, partly because the two charges of loitering and trespassing would mean double jeopardy. Apparently Wharton and the prosecutor were quite prepared before the Federal Judge showed his disapproval - to have the students go to jail 120 days (if convicted of both charges) for the heinous offense of meeting in the Union until 1:30 a.m.

The whole episode from its inception last spring shows that Wharton was simply seeking scapegoats, perhaps to appease right - wing critics of the student strike. The very morning of the arrests he was on television congratulating himself on the "University's" determination: to enforce its regulations. In the television statement and in letters distributed to every faculty box that day, Wharton made the clear implication that the students arrested were somehow involved in instances of violence that took place that evening. Since there was not a shred of evidence for this, nor were any such charges ever made by officials, Wharton's innuendoes were gross violations of the spirit, if not the letter, of due process of

Father hardly shocked

To the Editor:

The Lansing State Journal's Sept. 23, 1970 report on my daughter Angela's presence in Cuba on a "harvest" mission the quotation marks are their cheap form of innuendo - very strongly implied and indeed seemed to quote me as saying that I was shocked to learn that she was there. She is there with the full knowledge of myself, my wife, my other daughters, and many of our friends. If I used the words "this comes as a shock," and I have not the slightest recollection that I did, they could only have been at receiving a trans - Atlantic call from the United States which was initiated by the question whether I had a daughter named Angela. No parent will fail to understand what I felt at the moment.

Angela went to Cuba, at considerable personal expense, to work and "see for herself," not to be trained in any guerilla tactics. Until such time as that allegation can be verified it would seem to me that responsible journalists would refrain from the repetition of harmful conjecture.

Appeal may affect job renewal

By STEVE WATERBURY State News Staff Writer

The results of an appeal by two untenured MSU faculty members to the Michigan Employment Relations Commission could affect the procedure used in the future for renewal or nonrenewal of faculty appointments at MSU.

The appeal, filed in the spring by Eileen R. VanTassell and Bertram G. Murray Jr., charges that the presence of Emanuel Hackel, chairman of the Dept. of Natural Science, on a departmental committee, turned it into a "company union."

Trial examiner James P. Kurtz ruled at an April hearing that it was not necessary to know the exact procedures followed in the PROPOSAL C VOTE departmental committees in order to determine if Hackel dominated the committees. Any supervisory person sitting on an employes' organization is presumed to dominate the organization, he said.

Domination of a labor organization by management personnel, such as a department chairman, is illegal according to the Public Employment Relations Act.

A ruling by Kurtz on whether department advisory committees and ad hoc committees of tenured faculty members are labor organizations is expected this month.

If Kurtz rules that such organizations are labor organizations, it could lead to an end of the practice of

Band performs Maori folk songs

A 60 - piece brass band from New Zealand brought over 1,000 listeners to a standing ovation at the Auditorium Tuesday

After playing a selection of music ranging from New Zealand Maori folk songs to "Tyrolean Tubas", the crowd applauded until the band struck up John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes

In response to a second standing ovation, the National Band of New Zealand, world champion at last year's Music Festival of the World, launched into a selection from "The Music Man" entitled '76 Trombones."

Garbed in green and white woven cloth with wooden beaded skirts, the seven female Aotearoa Maori Dancers danced to the slow rhythmic psalms of Maori folk melodies.

The sole male Maori dancer yelled chants accented by brass accompaniment while the women responded.

The first dance began when the bare chested male dancer jumped violently onto the stage throwing a native weapon at the audience. This symbolized the Maori warrior's challenge to the New Zealand people to accept a peace offering. The band director accepted the weapon and a symbolic peace was created, bringing the female dancers out onto the stage, swaying and singing to depict Maori emigration to New Zealand.

The appearance of the National Band of New Zealand and the Maori dancers at MSU was one stop on a world tour which has already taken them to Russia, Canada, Scotland and Japan's Expo

Curiously, despite being an urban - oriented black comedian, he finished lower in the major city ratings (14th) than he did in the national rankings, which give more weight to the provinces. What this means, obviously, is that he is a very popular guy all

Of interest, also, was the fact that ABC-TV's new Monday night, prime time pro football games had little or no ratings impact on CBS-TV's powerhouse competing lineup of "Gunsmoke," Lucille Ball, "Mayberry R.F.D.," Doris Day and Carol Burnett. They all did well.

On the other hand, NBC-TV's strong Monday schedule of Red Skelton, "Laugh-In" and a weekly movie fared considerably less well against the football game and CBS-TV's potent shows. "Laugh-In," which almost always ranks among the top three or four programs, finished in a three - way tie for 16th place in the national ratings.

Game's originators find sudden success

By BARBARA FARY State News Staff Writer

Who says Horatio Alger types can't make it big

Certainly not the three MSU advertising majors who invented the "MSU Game" one foamy evening this year. Their collegiate drinking game is selling well to college students across the Midwest and has grown into a company called Collegiate Enterprises, soon to operate on a nationwide scale. The "MSU Game" was introduced in East Lansing stores in July. Over 2,500 copies have been sold so far in the Midwest at $7.95 per game. The financial forecast is for 100,000 orders to be filled next year and distributed nationally. The students whose imagination led to profits are Dick Murbarger, 24, of Muskegon; Mike Kenealy, 23, of Bloomfield Hills and Mark Doble, 23 of Troy. The trio patterned their game after "Pass-Out." another popular party game, drawing on everyday happenings in the life a college student — registration, classes, buses, football games, graduation and, of course, drinking. MSU's cartoonist, Phil Frank, was commissioned to illustrate the game. "The 'MSU Game' is better than 'Pass-Out' because it is more than a drinking game," Murbarger said. "There is interaction between players through the game cards they pick. It's a lot of fun and a good way to unwind."

Sales are reported high at East Lansing bookstores. The game is also catching on at other campuses, renamed to fit the college (OSU Game, U.M Game, etc.) In towns without campuses the game is sold as "College Daze."

"Sales were good in the summer although there weren't many kids on campus," Murbarger said.

"We picked up well at registration and now are confident that our sales campaign and word of mouth will increase sales again. Once someone plays the game they are sure to start telling their friends how much fun it is."

Murbarger and his coworkers are acting as sales representatives for Collegiate Enterprises and are doing all the display and distribution work themselves.

When their game goes national they will relinquish these duties to have more time to travel around the country, selling gifts and articles geared to the college market.

"It's turned into a full - time business," Murbarger said.

"The "MSU Game," billed for "mature couples only," consists of a playing board, three sets of game cards, dice and markers. Players provide their own drinks.

The object of the game is to complete registration and attend a series of classes, pass them and graduate. A variety of obstacles familiar to college students are placed along the way to thwart this grand ambition and "force" players to consume great quantities of their favorite brew.

Traveling around the board, players collect cards with instructions like: "You have mono. Expose all the players of the opposite sex to the illness with a smooch," "Nibbleonanear," or "Take test to waive Physical Education requirement. Do 5 push-ups or 10 sit-ups. If you fail, go immediately to stadium and work out for two turns. Take a

Graduation is many, many drinks later. And as in real life, it is possible to stagger to commencement and get the sobering word: "Congratulations for making it to graduation, but we have received word that you were never formally admitted to our fine school. Return immediate to start and go through registration again."

McLee.. quiet guy with exploding tackles

By JEFF ELLIOTT State News Sports Writer

Try convincing Notre Dame's Larry Parker that Spartan roverback Brad McLee is a quiet, easy - going guy and you'll be about as successful as the Spartans' offense was last week.

When McLee hit Parker after a short gain in last Saturday's game, it brought a chorus of oohs and McLee packs 192 pounds (99 and 44/100 per cent of which is solid muscle) into his 5 - 10 frame. In college football today, anyone under 6 - 0 is considered to be playing under a handicap. McLee doesn't think so.

"I don't think my size is that much of a handicap to me," he said. "The only time it might hinder me is when covering a tall end. But I've got pretty good jumping ability for my height so it kind of makes up for it."

McLee might have gotten that jumping ability from his high school days when he played basketball. He still plays the game non-student tickets are being sold during the off - season to keep in

'S' cagers prepare for a new season

By RICK GOSSELIN State News Sports Writer

It could be a long, cold, cruel year for the winter inhabitants of Jenison Fieldhouse. A very long winter.

Without the services of Big Ten basketball's most outstanding sophomore of last season, Ralph Simpson, people assume MSU Coach Gus Ganakas might just as well pack his troubles and his supporting cast of Spartan players and sit out the season.

But not so. Ganakas isn't that type of coach, nor are his players the type that sulk. They proved that against Illinois on the season's final day last year, dumping the Illini without the services of the soph scoring magician.

The only difference this year is that the Spartans must reach a peak for 24 games, as compared to just the one in the season finale of last year. But with college basketball powers like Notre Dame, Houston and Southern Cal on the schedule, life could be sheer misery for the Spartans.

"You don't lose a player of Simpson's stature without being hurt," Ganakas said. "We'll just have to pick up the pieces and start over again.

The crowds that showed up game after game to see the former Pershing High star perform attested to Simpson's magic regarding the program.

'Ralph created a tremendous amount of enthusiasm for basketball which helped our entire program," Ganakas continued.

As far as the school is concerned, few people will ever realize the esteem that Simpson held for his college basketball

Earlier in the week, Simpson was in town and stopped in to see his former coaches. He told them that if they ever needed help in recruiting a prospect, just check his schedule as a Denver Rocket, let him know when he would be geographically close to the prospect, and he would gladly go over and talk to the player.

"You get a player of his calibre He also told Ganakas that he Much of the squad will be the once in a long time, and when you was going to try and finish his former members of last year's get him, you just hope that you schooling by attending during the freshman squad that won 11 of basketball off season. 13 games.
