By STEVE REPKO State News Staff Writer

Walter Adams, distinguished University professor of economics, told a U.S. Senate subcommittee in Washington Thursday that the petroleum industry is a "government - subsidized cartel" reinforced by private restraints which systematically stifle and suppress competition.

Adams, who testified jointly with University of Rhode Island economics professor Joel B. Dirlam, delivered a 15 minute prepared statement to the Senate subcommittee on integrated oil operations chaired by Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D -Colo.

Adams and Dirlam were then questioned for about 90 minutes by subcommittee members.

"Adams was one of the best witnesses we had in three months of testimony," said John Wilson, aide to Sen. Haskell.

Wilson said Adams was questioned extensively by Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R -La., and Sen. James L. Buckley, Conservative Republican - N.Y.

"They were intent on challenging Adams," Wilson said, "but it only gave him an opportunity to amplify and expand his views."

Adams said that price supports through production quotas established each month by the U.S. Bureau of Mines sets an artifically high price on crude oil by limiting supply.

He also said the 22 per cent oil depletion allowance combines with import tariffs and foreign tax credits to provide the major companies with $10 billion annually, which is used to restrict competition by financing "an agressive horizontal, vertical and conglomerate acquisition program."

"Most ominous in the long run is the control acquired by the major oil companies over competing energy sources," Adams said.

"Not content with their dominance over petroleum, these firms have embarked on an apparently systematic effort to gain a foothold by buying up coal and uranium companies and by leasing government oil shale lands." he

Joint bids among the major companies in leasing federal oil lands was another area attacked by Adams.

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) - The If both demands are not met, they said, kidnapers of Patricia Hearst accused her father of "throwing a few crumbs to the people" Thursday and demanded he add another $4 million within 24 hours to a $2 million food giveaway.

The kidnapers said the $6 million worth of food should be available within a week.

"all further communications shall be suspended and the prisoner will be maintained according to the terms of the international codes of war concerning prisoners of war." A source close to newspaper executive

Randolph A. Hearst said commitments for another $4 million in free food would be sought immediately from grocery stores and others in the effort to secure freedom for Patty Hearst, abducted 17 days ago.

A family spokesman said Thursday night Hearst does not have another $4 million and has been working continually since the latest demand was received "trying to come up with an appropriate response. Mr. Hearst is attempting to do everything in his power to demonstrate the sincerity of his intentions toward the SLA demands."

It was uncertain whether this would be acceptable to her guerrilla captors or whether they would settle only for a personal $4 million contribution. Hearst has placed his personal assets at around $2 million

The kidnapers demanded that "the of $6 million be allotted to your designated people in need or charity organizations, within 24 hours of receipt of this order, and that the food be available to the people within one week of receipt of this order."

"Once we see compliance with these specifications and the program well under way, then, as we have previously stated, we will begin negotiations for the release of your daughter," the SLA said.

The transcript of the latest communique from the mysterious and multiracial SLA was made public in segments and the 24 - hour time limit was not known until a latter portion became

In the message, the SLA claimed the Hearst corporate and personal wealth "does in fact go into the hundreds and hundreds of millions.

"Even if Mr. Hearst was to give all that to the people he could never pay the people back for the past losses of freedom, nor for the current suffering that they are now under," the SLA said.

Contents of the message were first relayed by television newsman John Lester, selected by other correspondents to meet with the Hearst family as "pool" reporter. He quoted the message as saying Miss Hearst would be held in accordance with the Geneva Conventions and her status will not change until the status of SLA "soldiers" Joseph Remiro and Russell Little changes.

Graduate school dean Clarence Minkel expressed disappointment that the negotiated agreement fell through.

"We put a lot of time and effort into the agreement only to be right back where we started," Minkel said Thursday. "Whatever is done now will have to evolve through court cases involving specific issues with specific individuals relative to conditions in specific departments."

Atlanta editor kidnaped; FBI searches for leads

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Federal agents combed the office of Reg Murphy Thursday seeking some lead to the newspaper editor's mysterious disappearance. A telephone caller said Murphy, 40, had been kidnaped by the 'American Revolutionary Army."

Murphy, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, left his home with a stranger Wednesday night. About two hours later, a series of three telephone calls to the paper, a television station and Murphy's home said the editor was the captive of the previously unheard - of group.

"We're simply waiting," said William H. Fields, executive editor of the Constitution and Atlanta Journal.

At the glass and marble Journal -Constitution building, nonemployes were prohibited from entering and FBI agents checked waste baskets, drawers and memo pads in an effort to find out more about Murphy's actions the night he disappeared.

In Washington, the FBI would say only that it was looking into the case "in connection with our jurisdiction under the federal kidnaping statutes."

Staff defines impeachable offense

The staff of the House Judiciary Committee has agreed on a definition of impeachable offenses that could greatly broaden the possible grounds for impeaching President Nixon.

In a 50 - page brief issued Thursday, the majority and minority counsels concluded that an impeachable offense need not be a criminal act.

The brief stated that effects such as "undermining the integrity of the office, disregard for the constitutional duties and oath of office, abrogation of power, abuse of the government process and adverse impact on the system of government" are impeachable offenses.

The brief is merely an advisory document, and though it will influence committee members, it is in no way binding.

Last - minute deletions allowed the report to be jointly endorsed by Republicans and Democrats. In other related matters:

• An out - of - court settlement may be near for five of the six Democratic suits against Nixon's campaign committee.

• A federal grand jury Thursday indicted Jake Jacobsen, a former dairy organization lawyer, for lying under oath about dairy industry campaign contributions.

• Jury selection in the Mitchell - Stans case entered its third day.

Pay raise veto blocked in House

A House veto of President Nixon's proposed pay raises for top federal officials, including $10,000 a year for congressmen, was blocked in committee

Fourteen members of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee were absent, blocking the measure by preventing the quorum needed to vote it out for full

Meanwhile, the presidents of four broadcasting systems urged Congress Thursday to pass a proposal allowing broadcast coverage of congressional sessions.

Cameras and microphones are presently banned from sessions, leading to what the executives called a double standard toward the print and broadcast media.

Nixon wants stronger drug laws

President Nixon asked Congress Thursday to pass new drug laws to create stiffer penalties for narcotics peddlers.

In his special message, Nixon said he was "determined to maintain and increase the pressure on those who traffic in human misery."

Nixon urged new legislation to provide mandatory minimum sentencing of narcotics traffickers for first time offenses and to enable judges to deny bail under certain conditions.

Other proposals in the legislation would increase the maximum federal imprisonment penalty for peddling nonnarcotic drugs, including marijuana, from the present five years for a first offense to 10 years.

Interest shown in Detroit houses

An announcement last week that the City of Detroit might sell 2,000 vacant homes for $2 to $5 each has led to an average of 200 calls a day from prospective buyers to the office of Mayor Coleman Young.

The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) offered to sell the city 2,000 of its 12,000 repossessed and run - down homes in Detroit for $1

Young said that if details with HUD could be worked out, the city would resell the homes at a nominal price to anyone willing to rebuild and live in them.

Former aide to Daley indicated

A former press secretary and public relations aide to Chicago Mayor Richard Daley was indicted Thursday on a 12 - count charge of mail fraud.

Earl Bush, who had been Daley's aide since 1955, was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of concealing his ownership of an advertising firm which had an exclusive display advertising contract from the city for O'Hare International Airport.

Bush was dismissed from his position with Daley last summer amidst reports that his personal business activities were being investigated.

A U.S. attorney said there was no evidence that Daley knew of Bush's outside activities.

Cambodian troops take temple

Government troops in Cambodia Thursday retook the rebel foothold of the Ha pagoda on the Phnom Penh side of the Prek Thnot River.

Fighting over control of the strategically important pagoda has seesawed in recent weeks. It is on the north side of the river, where government troops are in position. Most rebels are on the south side of the river.

Insurgents did attack government forces three miles east of the temple at Bat Ta Chi.

In Vietnam, though Saigon has blamed the Communists for cease - fire violations, there was considerable evidence from field reporters that Saigon has also been launching operations.

Bar owner evicts gay dancers

By LARRY MORGAN State News Staff Writer

Fourteen members of the MSU Gay Alliance went dancing late Wednesday night at Rocky's Teakwood Lounge, 3600 S. Logan St., Lansing, but danced only a few minutes before they were asked to leave by owner Rocky Farhat and two other employes.

Most of the men left the floor without any violence. However, one of the men, who would not leave, was pushed into a dish room off the dance floor, and convinced not to dance with any other men. ## EDITORIALS Ballenger mail survey unethical political ploy

State Sen. William Ballenger, R-Delta Township, has gotten into a bit of trouble for mailing surveys outside his district.

The surveys, which asked only four questions, were used to gauge public opinion on Daylight Saving Time (DST) and were mailed at a cost of $5,000 under Ballenger's legislative expense allowance. Originally 200,000 surveys were to have been mailed, but Ballenger stopped the mailing of half after the DST bill came out of the Senate State Affairs Committee Feb. 13.

Almost one-third of the 100,000 surveys were delivered to voters in the 6th Congressional District. Ballenger is an unannounced Republican candidate for the 6th District seat which will be vacated by Charles Chamberlain in 1975 and may have used the surveys more to gain personal publicity than for information gathering.

Ballenger seems to have made a mistake in picking DST as a mailing issue. It was apparent as early as January that winter DST was not going over very well in many states.

Ballenger said he did not expect the DST bill to leave the Senate State Affairs Committee for at least two months. But even if the bill had not been acted upon as quickly as it was by the House and Senate, it is unlikely that Ballenger would have gotten a significant response from the people surveyed. A 1973 questionnaire sent by Ballenger to 55,800 of his constituents brought only 4,000 responses in five months, or a 15 per cent return.

MSU professor Charles Larrowe, a Democratic contender in the 6th District race, announced that he would file a class action suit against Ballenger demanding that he repay the state $10,000 in costs for the 100,000-piece mailing.

Larrowe's suit smacks of political gimickery. It appears to be a play for publicity more than a sincere attempt to censure Ballenger for his unethical activity.

There is little question that Ballenger's mailing was legal. State Senate Rule 72 orders the secretary of the Senate to mail at the request of any senator to any persons any documents deemed for "official business" by that senator.

It may have been perfectly within Ballenger's right to mail the surveys to the 6th District, but it was clearly unethical. As co-chairman of the Special Senate Study Committee on Political Ethics, Ballenger should have known better.

In a time of Watergate and heightened public interest in strict political ethics. Ballenger should watch his future mailings.

Knock before entering

The state Senate would be well advised to follow the example set by the House this week and pass the bill requiring landlords to give one - day notice to tenants before entering an apartment.

This measure could possibly be the only tenants' rights legislation passed this year. The legislature has a notoriously poor record of giving low priority to protecting the needs of tenants and has stalled on similar legislation this year.

The state legislature has not passed any tenants' rights bills since last April when it passed a watered down version of a security deposit bill. Since that time, legislation calling for a 5 per cent interest rate on security deposits, formation of tenant collective bargaining units to negotiate with landlords and legislation allowing for protected rent strikes have been introduced but not acted upon.

This current bill, sponsored by Rep. Gilbert Di Nello, D.-East Detroit, will require landlords to give one - day notice to tenants before entering an apartment. The notice would include the reason for entrance and could be denied if tenants replied within 24 hours.

There is a clause in the bill that would allow the landlord to enter without permission in an emergency situation. However, the burden of proof as to what constitutes an emergency would lie with the landlord.

The House should be commended for passing this bill. Tenants' rights legislation is long overdue and the Senate should follow the example of the House.

CHRIS DANIELSON Nixon parallels Old George

As the nation - or at least those of us who do not ascribe fully to the Monday Holiday Act - remembers George Washington today, it is hard to avoid viewing his life and times in light of a present - day leader who has embarked on his own Project Independence.

Richard Nixon drew such a parallel himself when he exhorted a nationwide television audience to strive to make America an independent industrial power just as the patriots of 1776 had striven to become an independent political power.

While the outcome of Nixon's fight for independence will be unknown for at least a decade, the remarkable perseverance of this man leads one to expect that at least the first steps in this quest which he will take during his next three years in office will rival Washington's early successes.

It is indeed ironic that Washington and Nixon rose to positions of national leadership from which they could spearhead the drive for independence when one considers the early careers of

Washington surrendered his first military command on - of all dates - July 4, 1754, after starting the French and Indian War five weeks earlier by ambushing a small French detachment which he claimed was on a spying mission. He subsequently became disillusioned farm after resigning his commission in

However, less than 20 years later, Washington returned to military ranks and led the victorious Continental Army through the Revolutionary War.

Nixon began his public career in the Office of Emergency Management during the early part of World War II, but became disillusioned with bureaucracy and left to join the U.S. Navy. Just as Washington never had to bear.

Much of the loudest and most vicious criticism of Nixon has centered around his financial affairs, including his campaign funds from 1950 to 1972 and his real estate holdings.

While political campaigns were nonexistent in Washington's time, study of his Revolutionary War expense account by historian Marvin Kitman has shown that Washington's "expenses" totaled well over

Like Nixon, Washington was also a wheeler - dealer in land. He bought up fellow French and Indian War veterans' war bonus property comprising 10,000 acres in the Ohio River Valley — which was the colonial West as San Clemente is today's.

career, Nixon faced political wounds including the near - crippling slush - fund allegations in 1952 and the heartbreaking presidential and gubernatorial losses in 1960 and 1962.

Yet, he triumphantly returned from his law practice in 1968 to become the 37th U.S. president.

At this point, it is instructive to examine the presidential careers of Washington and Nixon and see how the unrelenting scrutiny of the mass media has with the British army, and returned to his produced trials for Nixon that Washington

Included in the Father of the Expense Account's tally were a trip from Cambridge, Mass., to Philadelphia which cost more than 13 fares to Europe and included large quantities of vintage wine.

Congress approved Washington's entire expense account without a murmur, Kitman relates, but later insisted that he accept a presidential salary of $25,000 rather than working for only "expenses"

Washington had his own troubles with subordinates and political opponents, too Charles Lee and Benedict Arnold, two Washington's generals who won their share of the battles, quit after receiving reprimands from their leader, with Arnold selling out to the British.

And Washington made no reply to vehement critics who published forget letters in the 1790s impugning his loyally during the revolution, just as Nixon the to avoid reference to the insinuations John Dean and others.

Washington is said to have favored the conservatives during his presid alienating the poorer farmers by protecting tariffs which raised the price of foreign goods. Nixon is being attacked now for allowing foreign oil import quotas to produce scarcity and higher prices in this country today.

While it is questionable that Nixon wi merit Jefferson's accolade to Washington - "(his) integrity was the most pure I have ever known" - in the eyes of history, also seems unlikely that Washington would have fared well with today's press an

Dear Dick: confess your sin

Hope you slept comfortably the last few nights, Dick ole buddy ole pal. But if you are finally starting to get it through your thick skull and beginning to realize what you did to this country, well ole man, just reach for the Excedrin 'cause your ship has just begun to sink with all hands on deck.

Notice what happened in Grand Rapids Monday in that special congressional election? You know Dick, in the one time furniture capital of the world, home of the original Christian Reformed conservatism ethic, stomping grounds for your very own vice president?

C'mon Richard, think hard. Grand Rapids had that election to fill the seat of the guy who played football once too often without a helmet, the guy who looks like he may walk and talk on a leash like Spiro first used to, the guy who now sits at the right hand of the President hometown, the town that never elected the crew - cut jock by less than a 60 per cent mandate. Hey Dick, but guess what -Gerry's magic didn't carry over this time. The people of the 5th District now have a Democrat taking their message to Congress for them and their demand is loud and clear: they want you hog - tied, staked out and left to roast in your very own sunset off San Clemente.

Can't you see what you did, Dick? Now don't go whistling for ole Checkers; he would probably bite you and catch rabies. Don't you see how your mire and filth and deceit have turned the people against you? Even the staunch Calvinists of a district that has voted Republican for 64 years no longer want anything to do with your grubby little charade.

Isn't it time you gave us our first honest break and faced this gig like a man? Don't hide behind executive privilege and say, "talk to my lawyers" - tell us the truth yourself. Don't get any ideas about sneaking out the back door; we want you around for the showdown in April. When you watch the impeachment carnival brew in the House, look for Richard Vander Veen and heed the message of his mandate. Watch as some incumbent Republican representatives get worried about their own political skin and cast that vote of no confidence. Can you blame them, Dick? Why should they have to atone for your sins of omission?

The Grand Rapids election wasn't a bursting bomb because Robert VanderLaan didn't make the right moves. He's a professional politician, Dick, and a darn good one at that. Only thing is he could not breath too well with a babbling monkey hanging on his back.

Grand Rapids is just a sign of things to come, just a little glimpse of future shock. It's too bad that you are insistent upon dragging the elephant down by its trunk as you act out the final moments of your extorted glory. Lotta good politicians 'round the land will bear the burden for your petty greed.

So, dear Richard, it is you that control the final curtain. Only you have the fact that can clear our minds and end this plight for once and forever more. Only you know the total truth that can path the leaking holes in your Ship of State Only you have the power to show us why one year of Watergate should be enough But whatever you do, Mr. President don't expect half this country to suffocat and die with you. We don't owe you that

STATE OFFICIALS ARE preparing a well-documented case in an attempt to alter federal government plans to abandon 2,800 miles of railroad track in Michigan.

Gov. Milliken said this week that the planned cutback of 37 per cent of the state's tracks, proposed Feb. 1 as part of consolidation of seven bankrupt railroads, "is not substantiated by evidence now available to us."

State officials have acknowledged that they will fight to minimize the amount of track abandoned, using as evidence a comprehensive analysis of Michigan's railroad network.

THE 55 M.P.H. speed bill has been voted out of the House Roads Committee and will probably see floor action sometime next week.

MSU Credit Union hears panel explain health units

State News Staff Writer

A boost was given to the idea of establishing a nonprofit health maintenance organization (HMO) in East Lansing Wednesday night at a meeting of the MSU Credit Union.

About 50 people listened to a panel of speakers from MSU discuss the benefits and the drawbacks of establishing an HMO, a

On the panel were Dr. Sidney Katz, director of the Office of Health Service, Education and Research; James Lyon, assistant to the associate dean of the College of Human Medicine, and Dr. Joseph Patterson, chief executive director of the MSU Health Care Authority. Loren Hatch, University Health Center staff physician, moderated the discussion.

"We are not the three wise men bearing gifts," Patterson said. "Nor do we know all the answers about HMOs.

"We were in Washington, D.C., last week (for a national conference explaining HMO legislation), and the people who are supposed to be implementing the new HMO program were there seeking answers from us."

Patterson cautioned that HMOs are not a panacea for existing medical care system, but said they would provide an alternative to the consumer so he can choose the best type of health care.

"I believe in pluralism in medical care," he said. "And I encourage the people of this community to seriously consider the establishment of an HMO."

Katz presented a cost comparison between the Kaiser HMO in California, Blue Cross - Blue Shield group insurance and private

In 1964, he said, the cost for a family of four in the Kaiser HMO plan was $373 a year. He added that the Blue Cross - Blue Shield rate was $110 higher and private insurance was $40 - 50

Under the national legislation, which was signed by President

Nixon in December, the basic services an HMO must provide are:

Physician services, including consultant and referral services.

• Inpatient and outpatient care. Medically necessary emergency treatment.

• Short - term out patient mental health care. Referral service for people with alcohol and drug abuse

 Laboratory and radiology diagnostic services. • Home health care.

 Preventive medical care, including family planning, dental care for children and eye examinations to determine a need for

"Under these guidelines," Patterson said, "there are very few groups that could call themselves an HMO." After the panel presentation and a question - answer period. Barb Green, chairman of the Health Action League of East Lansing, explained the steps her group had taken in establishing a nonprofit HMO in the area.

"We are currently undertaking a small feasability study for Ingham County," she said. "We are looking for groups, like this credit union, that are interested in HMO.'

NEW YORK TIMES

Early in January a young man left a Denver theater that was showing "The Exorcist" and walked to the nearby Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

"He was half naked-with bare feet and no shirt-and clearly distraught," said the Rev. James W. Rasby, pastor of the Cathedral. "We called an ambulance, but he was so upset that it took the police, the attendants and two priests to get him into

The Division of Film and Broadcasting of the U.S. Catholic Conference rated it A-4, which means that, while moral in itself, it could confuse or offend adult viewers.

The effect of the movie's horror scenes on many viewers has been profound. Theater officials say that it is a rare showing in which at least one viewer does not faint or become sick to the stomach, and Catholic clergymen report that they are frequently being called upon to assist such persons.

In Detroit, ambulances are called almost daily by the two theaters showing "The Exorcist," employees said. The manager of the Americana II said that at least 36 patrons had fainted since the movie started in January. He said one Detroit-area resident brought a "sick bag" to the the theater.

On the West Coast, pastoral problems have been intensified by the disclosure by the Rev. Karl Patzelt, a Jesuit priest at Our Lady of Fatima Russian Catholic Center in San Francisco, that he recently performed a series of 14 rites to free a young couple and their son from the presence of a demon in their home in nearby

While pastors lament the psychological effect that the film has had on some viewers, theologians, Biblical scholars and church officials have become fearful that the film is creating widespread misconceptions about church teachings and practices, especially

The ritual of exorcism is rooted in numerous incidents, described in the New Testament, in which Jesus or His followers cast out demons and unclean spirits from distressed individuals

The ritual of exorcism, which persists in vestigial form in the modern rite of baptism, was developed as a means of regularizing the church's approach to such situations and is essentially a prayer invoking the power of God.

The popularity of the novel and the film version of "The Exorcist" has focused attention on several traditional theological arguments, including whether the devil exists as a real person. The traditional position of the church is that he does. In the last decade or so, however, some theologians have begun publishing articles questioning this view.

"I am a firm believer in the presence of sin," said the Rev. Charles Curran, a young theologian at the Catholic University. have my doubts, though, about a personal being called the deril." Priests have suggested numerous reasons for the film's popularity, including a hunger for heroes and myths.

Some priests have praised the movie for raising basic questions about human nature. The Rev. Elwood Kieser, a Paulist priest and television producer, for instance, said the film "shows the divine in man and the demonic in man really fighting it out."

But Gary North, director of residence halls programs and committee member, said earlier that halls were hard pressed to fill the alternate wing options with returning students and were often forced to place incoming freshmen and transfer students in them.

Though the committee called the maintenance of guaranteed single rooms "highly desirable," they admitted that a potential shortage of spaces could make the singles impossible to guarantee.

"Considering the fall 1973 experience with overassigned rooms and the conversion of 300 housing spaces in Fee Hall to offices the committee recognizes that it may be necessary to offer single rooms on a conditional basis, based on space available," the report stated.

While recommending that the current 950 limited visitation spaces available on campus be continued, the committee asked that "a review of current communication methods be conducted in an effort to determine more appropriate ways of describing the limited visitation options to entering students.'

North said that freshmen often decide they don't want to live in a limited visitation house after they arrived on campus.

Besides the limited visitation spaces, there are 1,400 quiet house spaces available. Alternate floor or wing options are available in 11 residence halls.

Nonnamaker said that all of the report's recommendations fall within the trustees' established guidelines except the coed housing proposal, which must have board approval. Similar proposals have been defeated twice in the past, and informal discussions indicate that the board would evenly split the votes on the current proposal.

The committee consisted of two representatives each from the Residence Hall Assn., Residence Halls Programs Office, residence hall management and deans of residential colleges.

Hall residents simulate reality

The group began the program with a wine - and cheese party the first night, and ended it with a group exodus to the local bars the final night, in between holding informal discussions and role -

"An amazing thing is that so many stereotypes were broken down," Barry said. "Women now do not see we men on their floor as a bunch of sex maniacs. We found that women were not always bitching about their problems, or were as stupid and dumb as we thought. They found that men have problems too. We found we were pretty similar." A recent proposal which would allow men and women to live on the same floors in residence halls was not and will not be proposed to the board of trustees. Most observers say the board would split evenly in a vote, defeating the proposal.

Similar proposals were defeated twice in the past four years on grounds of immorality and expected disapproval of legislators and parents.

"We weren't dealing with sex per se, but personhood," resident assistant Jane Bamberger said of her floor's experience "We need to accept each other as people, and out of the program I found that was possible.

"When you're exposed to each other for a long time that happens, and you fall out of a lot of the games, a lot of the roles you played before."

Surveys taken each year by the McDonel Hall Co-op, the hall government, have consistently shown high support for coed housing quo. options, which have not been instituted due to the popularity of the hall.

Gary North, director of Residence Halls Programs, said coed housing options were originally introduced to the least popular halls to boost the number of students who wished to return to the halls, and they have been particularly successful in hiking the popularity of Mayo and Wilson

Last winter, 53.6 per cent of the hall's survey respondents said they would opt to live in a coed by suite option and 29.4 per cent favored a coed by wing option. Only 5.6 per cent were content with the status

A survey early this term showed a significant shift in percentages. Only 23.5 per cent of the 661 respondents said they would live in a coed by suite option, though 32.4 per cent approved a coed by floor option.

Residence hall officials and staff say the apparently lower support of coed by suite option may reflect a lower priority for the question, which was supported by an informal State News survey. Though students in 1970

spoke of civil liberties and human rights in defending coed housing, none of the 30 students interviewed by phone mentioned the terms. All felt the option should be offered, but most supported it because it was more realistic or because they could see no reason why it should not be offered.

"Through coed housing you would be learning to live out in the world," Neil Seymour, 242 Snyder Hall, sophomore, said. "You're not going to be living in a guys' or girls' dorm all your life, and that would be one way of learning to live with reality."

"It isn't like we're in high school anymore, and if we're not mature enough now we'll never be," Don Doan, A423 Emmons Hall, freshman, said. He said he felt if guys could live with "girls they respect" a good deal of horseplay and vandalism would cease. Of the 30 students, only eight said they probably would not live in such an option, most for reasons of privacy, or because "not much is going to improve any dorm enough to make me stay."

'Day for Night' loving tribute to the Cinemal

By EDD RUDZATS State News Reviewer

After seeing Francois Truffaut's film, "Day for Night," end. it's easy to see why he dedicated it to Dorothy and Lillian Gish. All the magic and allure so vibrantly a part of filmmaking has been fondly recaptured in this film about the trials and complications that can occur when making a film. Truffaut's film is such a lyric, loving tribute to the cinema that it easily captures the heart of anyone who loves going to the movies. It's witty, charming, frothy and technically a virtuoso display of Truffaut at

In essence, "Day for Night" is a film within a film, focusing on all the problems that Ferrand, the director of a mediocre love story called "I Want You to Meet Pamela," encounters in trying to get his work "in the can" as they say. Slightly reminiscent of Fellini's "81/2" in the way it explores the difficulties of film production, "Day for Night" has less to say about the creative process behind a film's inception than it does about the mechanics of shooting the film itself. But this does not diminish

"Making a film is like a stage coach ride," says Ferrand in reference to "I Want You to Meet Pamela," the film around which that "Day for Night" revolves. "At first, you hope for a beautiful trip, then you wonder if you're going to make it at all." That accurately sums up the sentiment of "Day for Night," as the audience goes through the day - by - day traumas that Ferrand must face to bring his production in on schedule.

"Pamela" is an insipid tale of two young lovers who become embroiled in the melodramatic soap opera situation that results when the boy takes the girl home to meet the folks. The complications of the plot arise from the girl's growing awareness of her love for the boy's father and the father's recognition of his overpowering love for his son's fiancee. "Day for Night" deals with the problems that the cast and crew have to cope with in attempting to live their own lives and to fulfill their appointed function within the framwork of the film's production.

There is a surplus of problems. The leading man and the script girl became engaged at the outset of the shooting, but now bicker constantly and seem on the verge of parting, causing Alphonse to wander about asking the crew, "Are women magical?" The aging actress hired to play the mother, once an enormous box - office draw, is now plagued by a faulty memory brought on by drink. It leads to almost 25 takes for each of her scenes and to having parts of dialog taped to the walls to refresh her memory. The former matinee idol. now playing the father, it constantly at the airport awaiting his lover, and the director is hard of hearing. The British actress, on loan from another studio for the title role, has only recently recovered from a nervous breakdown. The film cannot get actor's insurance as a result. Along with all this is an uncooperative cat who refuses to lap up milk from a saucer on

But the emphasis in "Day for Night" is light - hearted, making every small trauma seem like the end of the world and thereby poking fun at the temperamental nature of film people. The sequence with the cat is hilarious, and Valentina Courters; performance as the tipsy, aging actress is a gem. Even Francoli Truffaut gets a chance to act, having cast himself as Ferrand, the burdened director. The most familiar name is Jacqueline Bisset a the British actress, but those familiar with Truffaut's work will recognize Jean - Pierre Leaud and Jean - Pierre Aumont, Both have previously worked for Truffaut.

"Day for Night" is such an affectionate piece that even while it is exposing the mechanics and hocus - pocus of film making its easy - going manner and obvious love for the medium make it easy going manner is a delight from beginning to end. It draws the audience casually into its center and provides it with sophisticated entertainment that is perfection itself.

Definitely worthy of all the praise it has received, having been voted the best picture of the year by the National Society of Film Critics and the New York Film Critics Guild, "Day for Night" is without a doubt the best picture on film making ever made. It's

Street corner group pertorms modern-day social commentary

By PAUL GOODMAN What happens when a rag tag young acting troupe performs a play attacking women's role in society in front of a group of Flint junior executives?

The result was a mixture of shock and nervous laughter combined with hilarity and outright admiration when an East Lansing group, the Street Corner Society, performed "The Woman Play" in Flint.

The play is beautifully simple. An everywoman, Norma, played by Debbie Golata, experiences the societal conditioning of a woman being assimilated into a masculine culture.

The remainder of the group acts as a chorus, filling the roles of parents, Norma's peers, the cast of a television game show and rapists, continually lecturing Norma on the role of women. The effect is comic and the topics are deadly serious.

The Street Corner Society is practically an East Lansing institution. In one form or another the group dates back to the fall 1969 antiwar moratoriums. Since then members have played their antiwar skits and social commentary througout Michigan and on six tours of the Eastern states.

Only Will True and Dana Charette remain from the original cast. With the exceptions of Jim Stickney, a Lansing Catholic Central High School graduate, all the current members are, or have been, MSU students.

Now they are part-time actors holding other jobs to support themselves. True said he would like to see the group develop into a full - time profession. In the meantime, the group provides an alternative to other MSU theater groups.

The new street corner group has all the originality and spontaneity of the original group but a different personality. The members write their own material. In addition to "The Woman

Play" there is a review show

which is a social commentary on current events and modern society. Their drug show has been used for drug education. As the name indicates, they have performed on street corners, in parks, classrooms and wherever space is available.

The group uses few costumes

The group is liable to shock the traditional theater goer. There are no acts or scenes. There is no separation between performers and audience. When Norma is raped it happens on the feet of the first row patrons. If you are there you are involved - the rhythm of the play sucks you in.

The style obviously shocks an audience but it brings a message. Theresa Bella, who plays Woman I, saw the play before she joined the group. "I used to come and watch and then it hit me - this was my life," she explained. "The women in the audience nod their heads and go 'Yes I've been there.' Some discover what a woman is for the first time," sqid Judy Wright, who plays Woman 2.

Charette summed it up by

The East Lansing bar scene almost lost an excellent performer for this weekend when John Stewart tried to cut short his week long engagement at the Stables. He had a pretty good reason, for Johnny Carsons "Tonight Show" wanted him to tape a segment

Keeping up with cancellations, Dooley's had Dr. Bop and the Headliners scheduled for the near future, but they begged off a couple days ago. Coral Gables is looking quite happy with its upcoming Wednesday Raspberries concert, and the show should be a good one though several members of the original group have gone their separate ways.

Another rebuilt group, Badfinger, will be appearing at the Brewery on Monday and tickets are going fast. Eric Burdon was scheduled to do the Brewery soon, but he also canceled when he couldn't get a band together. Luther Allison is Wednesday and the Soft Machine concert on March 11 is looking even better with the addition of the old Flock as a warm - up band. Both groups delve into jazz - rock, and the Brewery concert should be a different approach for the hard - rocking club.

After Dark, July, 1973 San Francisco is bored with pornography. Over 17000 pornographic features have been exhibited here, none of which have particularly excited the public. When Jim and Artie Michell, the entrepreneurs who operate the Offarel Cinema, opened their own film "Behind the Green Door" they really had no right to expect a reaction any

Now 60 weeks later the film is still running. Eight times a day from 10 am to midnight the Green Door grinds on and there are always more eager patrons waiting to see it. (They must be eager, they pay four dollars to get in!)

There have been three extremely successful pornographic films, Deep Throat, Devil In Miss Jones, and Behind the Green Door. But of these the Green Door is the only one to have been successful here in the pornographic Center of America. Deep Throat was mildly but amusing but nothing more, Devil in Miss Jones was mildly disturbing but nothing more, The "Green Door", however is genuinely erotic. It's a very sexy film. It is intended to arouse and it succeeds as no previous pornographic film has before. This I believe is why the film is doing fantastic business. It is the most erotic film I've ever seen. It is hard core, its shows absolutely everything but it is all done tastefully. You may be offended because it is so extremely explicit, however, if you are open to this kind of filmic experience, I strongly

This is not to say that the film has not faults. The plot (putting it charitably) is thin - there is not very much dialogue and Marilyn Chambers (the Ivory Flakes Girl) is not a supremely accomplished actress. But when you're watching the film, these problems somehow seem inconsequential. Again the film will not be to everybody's taste. However, if you enjoy this type of entertainment then "Behind the Green Door" is really the one to see.

The study, prepared for a conference of foundations, said the minority population of blacks, Indians and Chicanos is 13.1 per cent of Michigan's total population of 8.9 million.

More than 80 per cent of the minority population of 120,637 Chicanos, 99,006 blacks and 16,854 Indians live in and around Detroit and Flint, the study showed. While blacks are increasing their political strength, the study said, Michigan still has no elected Chicano or Indian officials at any level.

Professionally, the study said, minorities have increased substantially in technical, clerical and craft occupations while the number of non whites in menial jobs has

The study also said that about one-half of the Spanish-speaking families in Michigan earn more than $10,000 a year with almost one-fifth exceeding $15,000. The group's per capita family income, it said, is $9,817.

The per capita figure for black families is $8,501 and for Indian families $7,955. The annual income for white families, the study said, is $12,243.

Wildcats next for cagers

By CHARLES JOHNSON State News Sports Writer

The MSU basketball team will try to get back on the winning road Saturday when it takes on Northwestern in a game at Jenison Fieldhouse.

Tip - off time is 2:05 p.m. Coming off a dissappointing loss to Minnesota last week, the Spartans are now in fourth place in the Big Ten behind Indiana, Purdue and Michigan.

The loss to Minnesota just about dispelled any hopes the Spartans may have had for taking the Big Ten title. However, this year, the addition of the Commissioner's Tournament in St. Louis may open the way for MSU to see post - season action.

The Commissioner's Tournament will pair off the second - place teams from nine major conferences. The only major basketball conference which hasn't committed its second - place team is the Atlantic Coast Conference, which boasts Maryland, North Carolina State and North Carolina.

If the Spartans fall short of second place, a third - place finish still might be enough for a bid to the National Invitational Tournament in New York City. The Spartans' current overall record is 12 - 8. Saturday's game with a 3 - 7 conference record, but a couple of talented performers make them a tough team. Center Bryan Ashbaugh is the Wildcats' leading rebounder with a 10 - point game average, good for sixth place in the Big Ten. Guard Bill McKinney, who scored 30 points last week against Illinois, has a 17.6 scoring average.

Wrestlers travel to corn country, face highly rated lowa, lowa State The MSU wrestling team journeys to the corn country this weekend in hopes of belting a couple of contenders to the national throne, Iowa and Iowa State. Both squads are highly rated. Iowa boasts a 10-2-1 mark, ranked second nationally, and the Iowa State Cyclones, defending national champions, are 11-5.

Crowds of 5,000-plus are expected and they will be partisan. "This will be like walking into a war," Spartan mentor Grady Peninger said. "These are two fine teams with tremendous followings and it's tough wrestling them at home.'

The two intrastate rivals met last week in Iowa State's Hilton Coliseum before a crowd of 10,593 rabid wrestling fans with Iowa emerging the victor, 23 to 12. The Iowa Hawk's two setbacks came against rival Northern Iowa and the University of Michigan. They also tied Wisconsin, which MSU lost to, 18 to 16.

Iowa boasts six wrestlers who have gained the winning nod on 2 different occasions this year, with junior phenomenon Dan Holm, 158, leading the pack. He's 27-4-0.

JACOBSON'S WILL BE CLOSED FOR INVENTORY next TUESDAY, FEB. 26

"They've got great talent," Peninger said. "There's no disputing that."

Defending NCAA champ Iowa State was somewhat depleted by graduation, but the Cyclones remain strong in the quest for their fifth national championship in six years.

Absent from the Cyclone roster is two-time NCAA heavyweight campion Chris Taylor, voted the Big Eight's "Athlete of the Year" in 1973.

"I guess it's safe to say Iowa State is talented, too," Peninger laughed. "We are going to have our hands full. I know that." This weekend's action will be the Spartans' final tune-up before the Big Ten match at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., March 1-2.

Big home weekend for fencers

The Spartan fencing team concludes its dual meet season at home Saturday against Illinois - Chicago Circle and the University of Detroit.

The meet will be the final tune - up for the Spartans before the Big Ten meet March 2 in Columbus, Ohio. The team is currently 7-7 for the season and coach Charlie Schmitter is "hoping for a little more balance" this weekend. Schmitter feels his team has a good chance against Detroit.

Illinois - Circle has personnel problems, according to Schmitter, but they have a good coach. Schmitter praised UICC sabre fencer Fred Rhodes. He said that the bouts between Rhodes and MSU's Fred Royce and Ed Haughn should be very interesting. He called his sabre team "a solid winner for the season" and said they'll have to do it again Saturday. Schmitter feels that if his team is healthy, it should be a serious threat for the Big Ten title.

Women gymnasts slated for final home meet

The undefeated women gymnasts will end their home season tonight when they take on Western Michigan University. The meet will begin at 7 p.m. in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Floor exercise and vaulting are the strong events for the squad with depth being a prime element in the Spartan's success. Leading MSU will be junior Raeanne Miller, who excels in floor exercise and on the uneven parallell bars and Ann Weaver in the Women swimmers in Indiana Invitationals

The women's swimming team will continue its quest for an undefeated season record this Saturday as it travels to Bloomington, Indiana for the Indiana Invitationals.

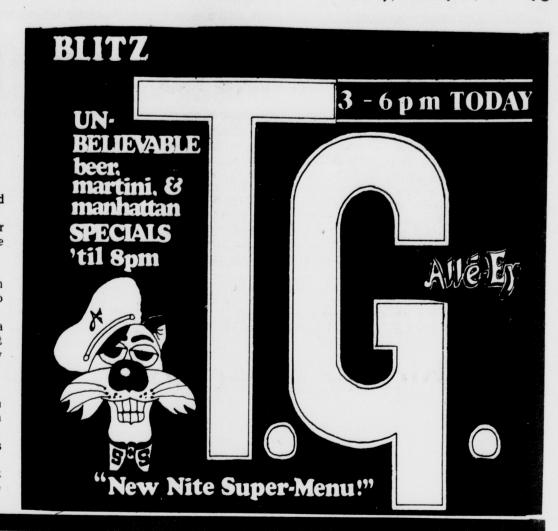

The Spartans are confident going into the meet, coming off a first - place victory in the Big Ten championship meet last weekend. It was the second consecutive Big Ten title earned by the Spartan tankers.

Men gymnasts take on Southern Illinois

The men's gymnastics team continues to face tough season competition this weekend as it takes on powerhouse Southern Illinois at Carbondale.

The Spartans record stands at 2-9. The green and white squad's lifetime record against SIU is 3 - 11.

George Szypula, coach of the men's gymnastics team, said that the Spartans will have to have a strong showing to defeat the Southern Illinois squad.

MSU trackmen travel to Indiana for final tuneup

MSU's track team has its final tuneup before the Big Ten meet as it travels to Indiana to face the defending conference champion Hoosiers.

Best bets for the Spartans are Marshall Dill in the 60 - and 300 - yard dashes, Herb Lindsay in the two - mile, Bob Cassleman in the 600 - yard dash, Stan Mavis in the mile, Mike Hurd and Paul Zolynsky in the high hurdles, John Ross in the long jump, Dane Fortney in the 1,000 and Charlie Davis in the 440 - yard dash. MSU also boasts a 3:13.4 mile relay foursome with Cassleman and Dill doing the final two legs.

Two pro athletes die

SAN DIEGO (UPI) -Former major league baseball outfielder Bob Christian died of leukemia at a local hospital Wednesday.

Christian, 28, hit .217 with the Chicago White Sox in 1969 and .467 with the White Sox in 15 games in 1971. He also was with Detroit and the New York Yankees briefly. Another professional athlete, veteran defenseman Tim Horton of the Buffalo Sabres hockey team in the NHL, was killed early Thursday when his car went off the road between Toronto and Buffalo.

TEAC 450 (lower left in picture) The TEAC 450 is the first stereo cassette deck with less than 0.07% wow and flutter. This is lower than in most open reel decks. A rigidly selected High Density Permaflex head is employed to assure wide, flat frequency response. Switched bias and equalization tailors the deck to regular, high energy, or CrO2 tapes. An enhanced Dolby system effectively cleans up tape hiss and noise. This is one cassette deck that stands as an obvious challenge to the superiority of open reel decks. Suggested retail $449.50.

English Dept. will consider hiring woman poet for residence post

By LINNEA BOESE

State News Staff Writer Diane Wakoski, one of the first women poets to assault the American scene and write viciously about women's problems, is coming to MSU Tuesday to read her poetry and look around the campus.

If she decides she likes what she sees, and the Dept. of English officials decide she is the poet they want, Wakoski could become MSU's next poet - in - residence.

A five - member search committee has been looking for a poet to fill the vacancy left when A.J.M. Smith, poet in - residence for 35 years, retired three years ago. Smith is a Canadian poet.

The position is a regular tenured teaching position, Linda Wagner, professor of English and member of the search committee, said. "Creative writing students

New York congressman charged with corruption

Angelo D. Roncallo, R-N.Y., and four officials of the town of Oyster Bay were accused Thursday of shaking down an engineering contractor.

A sixth man, also an Oyster Bay official, was charged with perjury before the federal grand jury that returned the indictment.

The charges against the first-term congressman and his co-defendants did not specify just how much money Roncallo is supposed to have received.

The contractor was told a 5 per cent kickback was required for doing business in Oyster Bay, according to the indictments, which were announced by acting U.S. atty. Edward Boyd V.

In Washington, Roncallo said the indictment was "part of a political witch hunt."

'There is no basis or foundation for such allegations nor is there any truth in such allegations," said Roncallo in a prepared statement he read to the news media.

"I completely and emphatically deny the charges. I am innocent and I know I will be vindicated on trial," Roncallo said.

"I will ask for an immediate trial. It is my opinion that this opinion was overreaching on the part of the U.S. attorney in the eastern district motivated by self-gain and ambition."

Roncallo, 46, of Massapequa was the first congressman elected in the new 3rd District which was created for the 1972 election. He formerly was Nassau County controller and Oyster Bay Republican part

Conviction could bring 2 years in prison and a $10,00
