WASHINGTON (AP) - North Vietkey, R - Calif, said in a telephone interview Sunday night. "We didn't see the letter." namese leaders say they were promised $3.25 billion in aid by former President At the White House, Press Secretary Richard M. Nixon and they indicated that Ron Nessen said Monday that "just as a might produce information on Americans matter of policy" he would not discuss any in action, according to a congresscommunications between Nixon and North Vietnamese officials, if indeed there were "They told us they had a letter from Nixon promising $3.25 billion in assistance any. Nessen said the subject of postwar aid was discussed publicly during negotiations on the Paris agreement that ended direct American participation in the Vietnam war, but he said the "whole issue became moot" because Hanoi "violated the accords . . . by starting the war up again" and failing to give a full accounting of Americans killed or ssing in action in North Vietnam.

McCloskey visited Hanoi last December along with Reps. G.V. Montgomery, D -Miss.; Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R N.Y., and Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D - N.Y. He quoted the North Vietnamese as saying that the promised American aid was what was meant by a provision of the Paris agreement of "healing the wounds of war." The North Vietnamese linked receipt of the aid to the release of information on Americans still listed as missing in action in Vietnam, he said.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said during a news conference on Jan. 24, 1973, that the United States made no secret understandings to obtain the Vietnam peace pact. He said the amount of United States aid to be given North Vietnam had not been agreed on.

McCloskey quoted the North Vietnamese as saying the memo from Nixon was received in early January of 1973

The Paris peace agreement called for the establishment of "a new, equal and mutual-ly beneficial relationship" between the United States and North Vietnam.

There was no mention of figures, but American officials previously had been estimating an expenditure of $7.5 billion over a five - year period for reconstruction and rehabilitation in Indochina. About $2.5 billion was estimated for North Vietnam and the remaining $5 billion for South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

Michigan Tenant Rights Coalition seeks support for protection bills

By RALPH FRAMMOLINO State News Staff Writer

East Lansing's Tenants Resource Center (TRC) is part of a 15-member tenant and consumer group coalition that has been formed to back two State House bills aimed at guaranteeing renters against landlord evictions and invasion of privacy.

The Michigan Tenant Rights Coalition (MTRC) announced Monday that it will be trying to counter landlord lobbying efforts to amend House Bills 4957 and 4958.

The bills, introduced by Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, in April of last year, would prohibit lock-out or forcible evictions by landlords and restrict their entry into a tenant's unit unless in cases of dire emergency.

Landlords, who worked out compromises on the bill when it was in the House Urban Affairs Committee, are supporting amend-ments slated for House introduction that would allow them exemptions from the bills stipulations.

Charles Incar, director of the TRC, said that the East Lansing center has "provided a crucial" contribution to MTRC's existence by hosting meetings to form the group and providing one third of its lobbying permises between landlord and consumer groups made while the bills were in littee. She said that landlords are now lobbying to add amendments to the bill on the House floor which would nullify the bill's purpose.

Dunlop said the MTRC will be talking to legislators Tuesday through Thursday in order to win more support for the bills.

"We've been through a list of representatives already and we weeded out those who were either all for it or all against it." Dunlop said.

She said that MTRC has found 85 of the 110 representatives are still undecided about the bills.

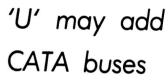

Dunlop said that in Grand Rapids alone there were 107 cases of landlords locking tenants out between October 1974 and October 1975. She also added that from October 1975 to January 1976, there have been 90 cases of renters locked out by landlords Dunlop said that she hopes the coalition will become a permanent entity.

"We want to keep the groups together and expand it," she said. "There are other tenant groups who are just starting that we have contacted."

Dykema, director of the MSU of Financial Aids, said that Congress e possible courses of action to boost out of money available for the Basic on Opportunity Grants.

•There could be a cut-back in grants already promised to students.

"That would mean that students on a ester system who have already receive ed their grants would have to pay back a certain amount. MSU students would not have to be involved in the repayment, but would be cut back in their spring term awards," Dykema said.

"This probably will not be the solution because it is an election year," he added.

•Congress could pass a supplementary appropriation to make up the deficit. Dykema said this would be possible but there is a good chance the measure would be vetoed by President Ford.

•Congress could authorize the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to use part of the funds already appropriated for the program next year. Dykema explained that the program is forward funded, meaning that funds have already been allotted, and that the monies are available

"I think the third alternative is probably what's going to happen," he said, "My question is: What will happen next year? There will be more students eligible and if the money is taken and not replaced the grants for next year will have to be

A reduction in basic grant money, Dykema said, would place a great strain on by Keins said, would prace a great station of other funding programs such as private gifts and scholarships, since the state scholarship program has already been cut by $50 for spring term.

The average federal award given to MSU students in the program is $880, ranging between $200 and $1400 a year.

The program was so undersubscribed last year that the U.S. Office of Education had $160 million of its $475 million appropriation left over, a federal spokesman said.

But this year's appropriation of $660 million, even with the $160 million carried over from last year, still wasn't enough.

Applications for the grants, which are sent directly to the federal government, are being received at the rate of 25,000 a week. As of last Wednesday, the education agency had received 2.38 million applications and estimate that 1.4 million students will be eligible.

Several proposals are being considered to ease the problem of transporting off-campus students to MSU.

Solutions range from driving MSU buses off campus to pick up students to having CATA take over the entire campus bus system.

The possibility that MSU would run its system off campus is probably small, since MSU administrators have said repeatedly that MSU is "not in the bus business

The plan under the most serious consideration would have CATA run a few buses on campus on a limited trial basis, without interfering with regular MSU runs. Eventually, the system could be expanded to replace or change the MSU system. But group members are tight-lipped about the "We talked in generalities about the

. . they (the Jews) have done more than any other people in history to expose and condemn racism. To condemn the doctrine of Zionism as racism is a travesty of the truth," wrote Cleaver. In reviewing the UN vote, Cleaver called for a reexamination of the credentials of members of the General Assembly and questioned the sense of letting a vote from a 'miniscule popula-

A native of Ashland, N.H., Whipple attended Yale and graduated with honors from Johns Hopkins Medical School, where he later worked as an associate professor and resident pathologist.

Blackbirds stump legislature

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emergency legislation passed last week in an effort to rid Kentucky and Tennessee of millions of blackbirds seems to have no effect on the problem, the Fisheries and Wildlife Service said Monday.

The subcommittee held a hearing on the blackbird problem after both houses passed the bill unanimously. Officials from both states testified that the blackbirds are causing serious health problems and crop losses. The bill awaiting President Ford's signature would reduce the blackbird population by authorizing applications of the detergent, Tergitol, to the birds' winter roosts.

Soviets confirm MPLA stand

By The Associated Press

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev issued on Monday a new spression of Kremlin solidarity with Popular Movement -MPLA - forces in Angola

At the same time, 40 Dutch mercenaries were reported ready to join the two factions fighting the MPLA, with hundreds more being recruited.

There were also reports that the MPLA was considering nationalization of the Cabinda oil field if gulf Oil Co. of the United States does not resume production soon.

The reports, by British correspondents who interviewed MPLA Prime Minister Lope do Nascimento, said the Angolans would develop their own oil if the Americans continue their "economic blockade." Gulf shut down its 150,000-barrel-a-day production in December at the insistence of the State Dept., which did not want the MPLA to get the oil revenues.

Call the MPLA the "legitimate government" of Angola, Brezhnev said Soviet solidarity "fully agrees with numerous decisions of the United Nations and the Organization of African Unity concerning problems of decolonization and abolition of and apartheid."

He did not mention Soviet aid to the MPLA - a subject of growing tension between him and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger

The Amsterdam daily De Telegraaf reported that 40 new mercenaries would leave this week to help the combined National Front and National Union - FNLA UNITA - force. They include sharpshooters, explosives experts, tank mechanics, parachutists and former commandos, it said.

The contingent is among hundreds of West European mercenaries being recruited by a British organization called Security Advisory Services to fight in the former Portuguese colony on the African coast, De Telegraaf said. About 100 men flew out of London's Heathrow Airport last week, and some of them said they were going to fight in Angola.

Tight inspection sought by Butz

WASHINGTON (AP) Agriculture Secretary Earl L. utz ordered a series of actions Monday to tighten grain inspection procedures, including federal checks on U.S. grain after it arrives at foreign ports to see if it meets buyers' specifica-tions. receiving dirty, misgraded, short-weighted grain. Officials said the overseas inspection program would be initiated on a "trial basis" but did not indicate when it would

A British diplomatic correspondent, Norman Kirkham of the Sunday Telegraph, earlier quoted sources as saying more than $20 million is to be spend on Western mercenaries for Angola. Most of it, Kirkham reported, will be U.S. money from the Central Intelligence Agency.

De Telegraaf said the Dutch mercenaries are being paid about $300 a week for a six-month contract and after the end of the contract will get an air ticket for wherever they want to go. Clock synchronization urged BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Common Market authorities have taken a first step in an attempt to get Western Europe's clocks all running on the same time.

The European Commission, the Common Market's joint executive, has proposed that beginning in 1977 all the member countries which are going to have daylight savings time start and finish at the same moment. There will be no attempt to synchronize the clocks this year.

The commission's proposal is based on difficulties in the present railroad and airline system time tables and other communications among the nine member countries.

Proposal for no-smoking ordinance follows cancellation of former ban

By CAROLE LEIGH HUTTON

State News Staff Writer The current smoking ban proposal facing MSU student and administrative decisionmakers is not the first of its kind. Eight years ago the board of trustees rescinded a similar ordinance on the grounds that it was unenforceable.

The former ordinance prohibited smoking in all classrooms, lecture halls and teaching laboratories as well as in private offices, conference rooms and non teaching laboratories.

An ordinance banning smoking in all farm buildings, barns and areas where combustible materials are stored remains in effect at MSU now

MSU fire safety officer Sam Gingrich said that he thought the ordinance was repealed back in 1968 or '69. "It was just too hard to enforce I guess," he said.

Reflecting on the days when smoking was prohibited on campus, Gingrich said, "If you go way back, when you smoked the students would throw you into the Red Coder." Cedar."

Leniency gradually crept into the system and eventually the smoking question was answered simply by whether or not the instructor wanted to smoke during his class

In the 1960s smoking was increasingly popular and became more and more prevalent on campus and in classrooms. The trend at that time was a 'do your own thing' type," Gingrich said. "If the students wanted to smoke, they did." Some people on campus feel that the pendulum is now swinging the other way as people have become more informed about the alleged dangers of second-hand smoke.

Trustee Blanche Martin, D-East Lansing, said that the past ordinance will have no effect on the present proposal. "We just haven't had the chance to discuss it yet," he said meeting, though."

"The only way a smoking ban can be enforced is if the students want it to be," Gingrich said. "We can't have a policeman in every classroom."

Tuesday night the ASMSU Board will decide whether or not to put the nosmoking proposal on a general student referendum for spring term registration. "I think that would be a good idea,"

"We'll probably get to it before the next Gingrich said. "Something like this needs the support of the students." Student response received by ASMSU has been favorable towards a ban, as have letters to the State News. Gail Reichstein, 320 Campbell Hall, has been independently circulating a petition in support of the smoking ban. She has obtained about 100 signatures and has not stopped.

WILSON LEAFLET BATTLE RAGES Mix-up mars boycott plans

By IRA ELLIOTT State News Staff Writer

Confusion underlies the plans for a Wilson Hall cafeteria boycott scheduled to take place during dinner tonight, with organizers zealously urging the boycott on and management holding firm to a "no comment" stand.

Early Sunday, leaflets were distributed via Wilson residents' mailboxes calling for the boycott, attacking the cafeteria's food quality and service.

By Sunday night the Wilson Hall Student Assn. Committee on Food Service and Quality was formed by the Wilson Hall student government to look into the problem. The Service and Quality Committee consists of volunteers from among those who attended the Sunday night meeting, two of the original boycott organizers said. But Chuck Lillis, vice president of the Wilson Hall government, who was appoint ed to chair the committee by Wilson's student president, said there is no committee yet. "Up to the present time it's a committee of one, and I've seen a lot of committees of one," Lillis said. Operating on the assumption that he alone was the committee, Lillis issued a leaflet stating the committee "urged all Wilson residents not to participate in the proposed boycott."

In response to Lillis' statement a third leaflet was distributed, signed by Paul Engel and Greg Gehling, an original boycott organizer.

Their statement rebuts Lillis' pamphlet, saying Lillis "admits overstepping his bounds " and points out the committee has not yet taken a stand on the boycott. But Lillis said whether he "overstepped his bounds" depends on "your point of view." He said releasing a statement on behalf of an unofficial committee was legitimate. In Lillis' letter he states that a boycott would be ineffective because "there is an all University Residence Hall policy which prohibits a residence hall from issuing more than 10-12 meal transfers to another hall." Though there is no official policy which states this, Gary North, coordinator of residence halls programs, said halls generally try to limit transfers to about 10 or 15 per meal to individual halls.

"Because of a possible overload we make an effort to limit meal transfers," North said.

Lillis called the boycott itself "destructive" because it offered no solution. "The proposed boycott made the point, anything now will be superfluous," Lillis said. "But if they (students) want to boycott, let them. Maybe it will have some good effects.'

Lillis said his committee's purpose was to discuss grievances with James Lavallee, food service manager for Wilson Hall. He went on to say he expected a "substantial number of students to boycott.

Gehling also charges Lillis distributed his leaflets without proper authorization from the hall's head adviser.

But Lillis contends his action was acceptable, because of his position as committee chairman and hall vice president.

Lavallee had no comment on the grievances or boycott.

Thomas Schwab, manager of Wilson Hall had nothing to say about the situation, either. Nor would he say when he would have a statement.

However, Robert Underwood, residence halls manager, said the Wilson cafeteria employes were "working hard to communicate with management.

"I don't know what a boycott will prove," Underwood said. "I think management is trying to work within Wilson Hall to correct the situation."

Asked if he thought there was a situation which needs to be "corrected," Underwood said as far as he could see there were "no substantive complaints.

Unusual acts occupy center ring during MSU basketball half-times

By JOE SCALES State News Staff Writer

When most people think of college sports half-time activities, the first thing that probably comes to their minds is the sights and sounds of a marching band parading on a football field.

What probably do not come to mind are frisbee exhibitions. the "Star Spangled Banner" in sign language and bicycle races on rollers.

These, though, are a few of the unusual half-time activities that have been lined up by Ed Rutherford, coordinator of pre-game and half-time activities for the MSU basketball games held in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Rutherford, who also helps coordinate half-time activities at MSU football games, said that one of the best he has had was a frisbee-throwing group from Eastern Michigan University The small group of men from Eastern carried out trick throws and catches with a frisbee by using hands, legs, feet, toes and fingers. There was one feat where two men threw five frisbees at once between the two of them.

Two other unique acts were a group of deaf-mutes, who came in and performed the "Star Spangled Banner" ' in sign language, and members of the MSU Cycling Club, who had a ulated bicycle race on rollers.

"Instead of riding around the gym, the bicycles were mounted on rollers with meters hooked to them," Rutherford said.

Other activities have ranged from high school bands to 7th and 8th graders battling it out in basketball games to MSU gymnastics.

"I was very impressed with the men's and women's gymnastics," Rutherford said

Since there is no budget for the activities, the people who perform are doing it on their own with no pay.

"They do get publicity, though," he said, "especially if it is a televised game.'

Rutherford tries to schedule special acts for the televised games. That is why he brought the frisbee throwers back on Jan. 10 for the televised game against Ohio State. For future games Rutherford is trying to line up a wheelchair basketball game between handicapped people and possibly some judo and karate exhibitions.

Rutherford, whose job as coordinator is like something between an usher and an orchestra conductor, is in charge of getting the acts moved in and set up and keeping them on schedule

This includes the varied tasks of getting and keeping groups of 7th graders settled, to directing the cues and knowing the signals during the televised games. "We have to be exact down to the minute during the televised games," he said.

Rutherford said that the job is not always easy. "We've had problems getting in the equipment," he said. "Once we broke the parallel bars getting them in and had to fix them before the gymnasts could use them.

Then he laughed and said, "But we've never kept the team from getting back on and playing."

Rutherford said that he was assigned to his position by Burt Smith, former athletic director, and that he was going to stay in it as far as he knew.

"I meet a lot of people," he said. "It's a very interesting job.'

graphy departments, have begun unionization proceedings. Seventy-five per cent of the two departments have signed authorization cards expressing an interest in organizing a union

The cards have been submitted to the International Typographical Union ITU, the oldest trade union in the country. The ITU has organized production workers at the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News, and also represents several other editorial departments.

Thirty per cent interest is legally required to begin union proceedings with the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) which will receive the cards from the ITU. Now that 75 per cent of the editorial staff has expressed an interest in the union the NLRB, if usual proceedings prevail, will begin hearings to determine the appropriate bargaining unit.

The move to unionize resulted from prolonged dissatisfaction over low salaries and a diminishing editorial budget. State News staffers attempted to negotiate with the board of directors and General Manager Gerald Coy, but they were told that the budget was not an editorial department concern.

Cheboygan oil firm

ripped by explosion

CHEBOYGAN (UPI) - A powerful explosion at an oil distribution company near the downtown area Monday injured several persons, caused heavy damage to adjacent businesses and broke windows in a four block area.

Fire officials said there was no indication what caused the blast at the Norco Oil Co. facility on Main Street. A tank truck burned out of control at the firm while firemen battled to keep flames away from a lumber company next door.

According to editorial staff members who informed Coy of the unionization plans Monday, the general manager voiced adamant opposition to the idea.

Many editorial workers, however, have previously voiced opposition to what they see as decreased emphasis on editoria functions. Reporters' salaries range from $20 to $30 per week for an average of more than 20 hours work.

"In my opinion, union affiliation is absolutely essential," a staff member said. "It is the only way we can establish a substantive dialog with the management of the State News."

Pugilist at the UN

Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Har- truth in a body where truth usually vard don turned verbal pugilist at the UN, has done the seemingly impossible: he has made the United Nations the locus of interest and debate again.

But recent reports indicate that he may have resigned his post as U.S. representative to the world body.

Such a resignation would be unfortunate indeed. Moynihan is loud, to be sure - sometimes his rhetoric almost screams. He is blunt. He offends. Sometimes the extremity of his presentation has lost support for the American cause.

But through it all, Ambassador Moynihan has shown a commendable courage to speak out, and an unusual boldness to defend the takes a back seat to ideology and self - interest.

It was time for the United States to adopt a stronger tone at the UN. Our former policy - meekly and mildly to accept whatever outrageous charges other countries might bring against us or our allies showed a lack of confidence in our position. Moreover, it indicated a lack of respect for the UN and for our opponents in the UN. Indeed, it could be viewed as condescending to treat the anger of the Third World like the tantrums of children, that is, to ignore it. Far better to combat Third World spokesmen as responsible moral agents.

Ambassador Moynihan, despite his flaws, was the first to see this. We hope that he will continue.

crime in the CIA, not scandal in the White House, when it stumbled across Ms. Campbell's name in an FBI document

They brought back a record of 70 calls from Ms. Campbell - although no evidence that any were made from Giancana's Chicago home, as has been attested.

Ms. Campbell, who now lives in a California trailer, was brought in for questioning by staff members on Saturday, Sept. 15. The session went from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. She was a cooperative witness. One staff member describes her as "attractive but quite hard."

Defends Chou

The defamation of the late Premier Chou En - lai in Buckley's column and Barry's viewpoint is a regurgitation of the innuendoes and lies invented by the China lobby and witch . hunters of the fifties. Now, as then, these unsubstantiated attacks are intended to discredit the revolution that has transformed China from a land of famine and despair into a prosperous and unified community.

A whole edition of the State News would not suffice to answer adequately the undocumented accusations spewed out by Buckley and his disciple, Kent Barry. The latter adds yet another dimension to his deceit by suggesting that he speaks for Amnesty International in his viewpoint.

All of us are aware that Buckley's decadent wit is ever active in the defense of rich and powerful interests at home and abroad, that his laughs are always gained at the expense of the exploited and distressed. No wonder that he cannot begin to understand, let alone appreciate, the dedication and sacrifice of a revolutionary humanist like Chou En - lai who abandone status and privilege to shoulder the burdens of the impoverished peasantry, wor kers and women of China and who joined them in building out of the ruin of war and invasion a society which feeds, clothes and shelters all.

LETTERS To the Editor

Professor Bruce Smith's honest and dignified appraisal of the late premier's life and contributions is a more accurate expression of the good will of the majority of the American people towards China's continuing struggle to build a just society. Joseleyne Slade Tien, Asst. Prof. ATL

Not harmless?

As a student in the College of Engineering, I feel it is my right to know its status with respect to the ECPD (Engineers Council for Professional Development). The administration tells us not to worry, it's nothing serious, and yet they won't let us in on the report's criticisms. Why not if it's so harmless?

Two hundred students to one professor who has been repeating the same lectures for thirty years is, of course, a trifle and not to be worried about. Although this sounds corny, I do want to get a good 'quality' education. I hope the pressure from the ECPD causes the College of Engineering to make some improvements in its programs.

The Owen housing resolutions constitute the mechanism and the first step toward the solution of the East Lansing housing shortage and the second-highest rental rates in the state of Michigan. I would like to thank Brad Martisius for his coverage of the housing developments and Larry Owen for his excellent recommendations.

Unfortunately, Mary Sharp appears to be disguising her bias regarding city involvement in the solution of this problem by misrepresenting, confusing and delaying the Owen initiative. Obviously, the reorganization of city staff into an Office of Housing Policy and Program Development, the hiring of a housing coordinator (that should have been done by the city manager seven months ago) and the feasibility study for a major housing development downtown are not redundant nor is Larry Owen inexperienced in the functions of governm Mrs. Sharp should be reminded that the housing problem was unquestionably the major issue in the last election and Larry Owen won landslide victories over Sharp's two favorite candidates by 3 to 1 and 2 to 1 margins.

A major high-rise housing development at the Albert/MAC site which could be publicly built and then privately owned offers the following possibilities: businesses on the ground level, underground and upper level parking, low-cost housing for students and the elderly and full cost penthouse condominiums for young working people.

This development also has the following advantages: increased competition to encourage lower rental rates, good accessibility to downtown and campus, increased sales for local business, reduction of housing pressure on residential neighborhoods and an increase to the local tax base.

In addition, the Bicentennial fountain and sculpture project advocated by Mrs. Sharp

Not congruent

I was shocked to read in the Detroit Free Press that this University "is giving college credit toward a college degree for doin high school work in mathematics and English." To give college credit for high school level coursework is not congruent with my conception of a university that portends to be an institution of higher learning.

Such a practice poorly exemplifies the academic rigor of which this University boasts. Such a policy discounts the value and regard which so many of us (under-grads, faculty, alumni, employers . . .) associate with an MSU degree.

The faculty committee owes the students, faculty and alumni of this University as well as the taxpayers of Michigan an explanation for this practice. What is the rationale behind granting college credit for "high school make - up work?

Get the Facts! Mercy me!

Careful journalism is needed in order to nake unfound accusations a rarity instead of common occurence in the news.

'Mea Culpa" takes the cake by eating up supposed guilty parties without a fair trial. It is time for Americans to take pride in themselves and again do good deeds instead of sitting back and criticizing all of the "bad going down." How can a person criticize a deed without all of the facts, or without having faced such a situation himself?

Integrity and fair play seem obsolet even in the field of journalism. Untold revenues from football in the fifties, sixties and seventies at MSU have made many classes here possible by helping balance the budget and leaving other money for new buildings, professors and new programs. Let us strive for greatness not degradation. Does "Mea Culpa" reflect the feelings of 50 per cent or more of the students at MSU? Let's have the facts, then we can make righteous accusations!

Do the police have the right to search your car if they stop you for a traffic violation?

A general answer is that the police have no right to search your motor vehicle if you are arrested for a simple traffic violation. In the case of People vs. Gonzoles, the court held that the stopping of a motor vehicle for a citation is technically an arrest under the law. Subsequent cases concerning search and seizure have held that the police officer has no right to search the driver's vehicle unless he has other reasonable facts which would lead him to believe that another crime was being committed.

The purpose of a pre - trial conference is to discuss the issues of law and facts which may be presented at a later trial. Further, it has been customary, at this time, for the defendant and the prosecuting attorney or

Matters to be discussed and decided upon the pre-trial conference are the following: whether or not any motions to dismiss the case on a constitutional basis will be filed by the defendant, whether an independent hearing will be held prior to trial regarding any admissions or confessions which may be used at the trial, any motions to file regarding supression of evidence gained as a result of a lawful search and seizure, the number of witnesses to be presented by the prosecution and the defendant, notice of alibi defenses, whether or not the defendant wants a jury or non jury trial, the possible duration of the trial and any other legal questions which may be presented to the court during a trial.

Concerning your question about confer ring with a prosecutor prior to the pre-trial conference, it is my opinion that the City of East Lansing and Ingham County Prosecutor's office discourage this kind of contact prior to the pre - trial conference or trial. They simply do not have the time for it and they feel that it puts them in a position of having to advise you of your rights prior to talking to you about the case. Frankly, it has been my experience that individual defendants who have attempted to confer with the prosecuting authorities did not help themselves in a meaningful way.

Can a landlord legally lock you out of your apartment for non payment of rent and how much notice does a landlord have to give a tenant before the tenant can be evicted?

No. The landlord is obligated to get an eviction order from the district court. There is a 10 day notice when the order is entered.

Four people move into a four - man apartment and sign a lease for nine months. One of the four tenants decides to move to Mexico during the nine month period with no intention of paying any of the remaining rent. Who is legally responsible for paying the difference and is there any way of collecting the rent from the tenant who moved out?

It depends on whether the lease was a joint and several lease. If so, the difference must be paid by the three remaining tenants. They would have a right to proceed against the fourth for his share if he can be found. If not, then each pays only their share. The information in this article was provided by ASMSU Legal Services Attorney Ken Smith The landlord tenant responses were provided by East Lansing Attorney Phil Dean

I think when the country was controlled by Christians no one heard that Moslems were being locked out of food and opportunity - as was the case for Christians under the Moslem - Turkish empire. Christians in Lebanon have faced a long history of discrimination at the hands of the Moslems, and it was only the French who finally gave us the opportunity to build and

The longest country in Europe. Two months for $195.

Student-Railpass covers 100,000 miles of track in thirteen European countries, all the way from the Arctic to the Mediterranean. And $195 buys you unlimited Second Class rail travel for two whole months.

On a student's budget that's some deal. In fact, the only thing cheaper is thumbing it or wearing down your heels. Besides that, the trains are clean, comfortable and fun. You can go and come when you'll meet more Europeans than you would on the roa Trains are dynamite. But how about ferries, lake cruiser river boats and hydrofoils? Student-Railpass covers the too. And it'll even get you discounts on motorcoach trips If you want to do it big and mingle with the First Class types, think about Eurailpass. Same places, same trains (First Class, though), in two-week, three-week, one-mor two-month and three-month passes.

To get a Student-Railpass, you have to be a full-time student, under 26. And both Student-Railpass and Eurailpass are sold here through a Travel Agent. You won't be able to buy them in Europe. So plan ahead We've got a big country waiting.

Gallagher displays great talent

By DAVE DIMARTINO State News Reviewer

Rory Gallagher is the type of performer who receives standing ovations even before he begins to play.

When he finally does play, things tend to get a little bit crazy.

Thus, the Irish guitarist's performance at the Campus Theater Saturday night was an unusual, high - energy affair. The second of Paul Stanley Productions' midnight concert series, it was a marked change from the relatively laidback Larry Coryell concert held just a week before in the same theater.

For starters, due to a few gross sound system problems, the crowd outside the theater was forced to wait in line until at least a half hour after the show was scheduled to begin. Once inside and out of the cold, the increasingly restless audience was again forced to wait until the sound system was correctly adjusted. If anything, a crowd as rowdy as Saturday night's audience did not need to laugh. A little rock and roll most obviously was called for. Unfortunately, a small local theatrical comedy group, The OK Used Theater Company, was scheduled to open the show, and due to an improperly adjusted PA system, their performance went largely unheard throughout most of the theater. The group's visuals were slight, though humorous, but by and large, were as effective as any comedian might be when in front of 1,300 people without a good microphone The group's effort, at any rate, should not go unnoticed.

Saturday night's audience was more than ready for Rory Gallagher, and as the guitarist and his band walked onstage, loud whoops filled the air as the crowd cheered the group. Once fully plugged in, Gallagher up with an approopened Hiatt, a folk - rock musician.

When he was 12, Hiatt began taking guitar lessons from Orpriately "Messin' with the Kid," and the concert officially began.

Surprisingly, most of the earlier bugs in the sound system were ironed out by the time of Gallagher's entrance. therefore there was little to distract the audience during the guitarist's impressive performance.

As usual, Gallagher and his band played superbly. The very tight back - up group - which featured bassist Gerry Mc-Avoy, pianist Lou Martin and ner Rod de'Ath - acdrum companied their leader as solidly as possible . Pianist Martin played as if in a frenzy, shaking bums, "Hanging Around the Observatory" and "Overcoats."

Each album is diversified. Some his head violently back and forth with each beat. while de'Ath's drumming was consistently inventive, and in step with McAvoy's rapid - fire bass playing.

Of course, the audience knew that it was Rory's show throughout. His guitar playing and stage personality are such that he is truly one of the few "great guitarists" left who are as magnetic as they are talented.

Gallagher's pacing was tre-mendous. After his "Messin' with the Kid" entrance, he rummaged back into his past repertoire and generally played the most popular songs of his career, including "Walk on Hot Coals," "Cradle Rock," "Too Much Alcohol," and the surprising encore of "Laundro mat." the opening cut on Gallagher's very first solo LP.

Interspersed with audience favorites were selections from Gallagher's new album, "A-gainst the Grain," including GLADMER THEATRE

Shows at 7:00-9:00 P.M.

"CHALLENGE TO BE

"Souped - Up Ford," "I Take What I Want," "All Around Man," and a new classic, "Out on the Western Plain." Luckily for Gallagher, his newest ma terial is certainly as good if not better than the bulk of his earlier writing, thus his performance was wholly enjoyable from start to finish

Gallagher's guitar plàying, while always excellent, was really outstanding when he displayed his ability on slide guitar, particularly during the acoustic segment of the show. As an all - around guitarist, Gallagher clearly has few peers in the rock and roll business. A perfect tone, a piercing but listenable volume and a superb incorporation of harmonics mark every note he plays.

Gallagher so thoroughly enthused the audience that ovations between songs seemed no problem. Even after a very lengthy show - the concert ended at 3:30 a.m. - the guitarist was laughing, and the audience was ready to hear more.

For the fourth time in three years, the ever - popular blues duo of Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee will headline shows produced by Mariah Coffeehouse.

The two musicians will appear in 8 and 10:30 p.m. shows Friday and Saturday in Mc donel Hall kiva.

McGhee, who plays guitar, and Terry, who plays har-monica, have been described by critics as "two of the greatest performers and musicians, blues or otherwise, around today" and "a nonpareil blues team

"I don't write anything from imagination," said McGhee in the new book, "Blues," by Robert Neff and Anthony Connor. "Blues is not a dream. Blues is truth. I can't write about something I haven't seen or experienced. Whiskey, money, maybe politics — these are my leading topics."

"When me and Brownie first came to New York in 1940, we lived for about seven or eight months in an old big house on Sixth Avenue with about 25 or 30 people " and " 30 people," said Terry in the Neff - Connor book. "We all "We all started out from that, and everybody started doing better

"I am personally worried," seriously.

He said the CATA plan would provide, first, partial integration of MSU and CATA routes, allowing CATA to come on campus with a few routes without disturbing thegular MSU routes.

Burns said the routes being considered include extending the N. Hagadorn and Burcham Dr. routes to Shaw Lot and Farm Lane, and perhaps putting CATA buses on married housing routes.

OUT, CLYDE, OUT!

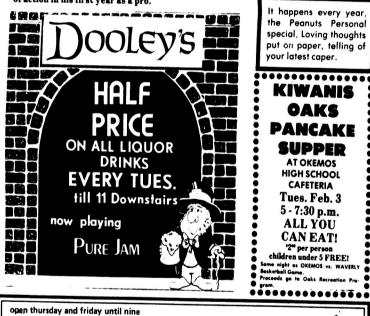

Former MSU star Lindsay Hairston has made the move from college to professional basketball and now plays for the Detroit Pistons. A rash of Piston injuries has given Hairston a chance to see plenty of action in his first year as a pro.

Although Hairston received offers from over 100 other schools, he has no regrets about choosing MSU, which is not your basic basketball powerhouse.

"I never look back on what might have been," he said. "You know what they say about the bird in the hand. I was very happy at MSU. Coach Ganakas is a beautiful person and I met a lot of good people there. I go back quite a bit." With his showing so far this
