Researchers call study on plates unnecessary

By RALPH FRAMMOLINO
State News Staff Writer

Two researchers said Wednesday that a report MSU may do for the state legislature on the effect of fully reflectorized license plates on auto accidents is unnecessary.

Researchers Kenneth Cook and David Post said a review of literature dealing with auto accidents and reflectorization has essentially been done twice before and another study of the same subject would only be a duplication.

Cook did a 1975 reflectorization review funded by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. (3M) and Post worked on a 1973 state-funded study at U-M. Both sides reviewed the same five sources.

"I don't see if it (the proposed MSU study) would be a worthwhile exercise," Cook said.

"Barring things subsequent to Cook's report, a literature review would be a basic duplication of his report," Post agreed.

The state legislature is considering contracting with MSU to do a $3,000 to $4,000 review of available data on fully reflectorized license plates and how they affect traffic accidents. Opponents of the idea of full reflectorization said the proposed MSU study was just another ploy to ram a House bill favoring the measure through the legislature.

They accuse certain legislators of trying to benefit 3M because it is the only corporation that can make materials for full-reflectivity.

Cook said the Michigan legislators who are requesting the MSU review already have enough research available.

"I think there's enough data that you can make your decisions," Cook said.

Rep. Thomas Anderson, D-Southgate, who sponsored the House bill that would require fully reflectorized license plates, said that he did not realize that the Cook report was so comprehensive, even though he has had it for at least two months.

"We haven't taken Cook's study as a final wrap-up," Anderson said. "Perhaps we should have."

Cook published a report entitled "Reflectorized License Plates" in April 1975 which reviewed 130 sources published to that date on the subject.

"It (the Cook report) seems to be a very good compilation of everything there," said Post, who worked on a study at U-M in 1973. The U-M study was commissioned by the state government to the tune of $25,000 and considered reports on auto accidents.

Both the Cook and Post studies reviewed the same five studies on luminous plates and car collisions done around the nation. Yet, they came to different conclusions. Cook believed that fully reflectorized license plates did show a trend of accident prevention. Post's report said that evidence was "inconclusive" about the effectiveness of reflectorization.

Since both reports were released, another study of plates and accidents has been made public. This study was done in Australia and indicated that full reflectorization did not affect the rate of accidents.

Anderson said that the final decision on whether or not to conduct another study rests with a joint legislative committee—of which he is part—formed to examine the

BAYH MAY BE DROPPING OUT OF RACE

Jackson 'scoops' up Massachusetts

By WALTER R. MEARS

Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a favorite of white collar workers' bought him a seat in the Massachusetts Democratic primary Tuesday.

Bayh led the field with 23 per cent of the vote in a splintered, nine-way contest.

Morris K. Udall of Arizona was second, too, at a second place showing behind him the top man among liberal Democrats.

Bayh's task now is to convince liberal Democrats that they ought to coalesce behind his candidacy, and he worked at it during a New York news conference.

Bayh is now the only champion the Democrats have.

Bayh finished seventh, with 5 per cent of the vote, on the Massachusetts Democratic ballot — a state he had viewed as crucial to his campaign.

Bayh has not planned to campaign in Florida, with its primary next Tuesday, though his name appears on the ballot.

Bayh had said he hoped to be leading the field of liberal Democratic candidates going poor showing in the Massachusetts primary.

"There's no other decision for Bayh to make," a close adviser said.

A spokesman for the Indiana Democrat, who suffered a major setback in Tuesday's voting, said Bayh probably would announce his plans today.

"Certainly we're disappointed with the results," said Bayh's campaign manager, James Friedman. "But at this point I'm reluctant to speculate on where we go from here."

Friedman said campaign organizers from New York were summoned to the strategy session to see if there is any point in prolonging the campaign through that state's primary April 6.

Bayh had said he hoped to be leading the field of liberal Democratic candidates going

On the Republican side, President Ford won the Massachusetts and Vermont primaries on Tuesday, but a spokesman for Ronald Reagan predictably discounted the victories.

Jackson was moving on to the Florida campaign while insisting it would not be a decisive test. He said New York, which holds its primary on April 6, with 274 nominating votes at stake, would be the

Senate OKs no-smoke bill

LANSING (UPI) — The Senate gave final legislative approval Wednesday to a bill requiring no-smoking areas in large restaurants if patrons request them.

The compromise measure was sent to Gov. Milliken on a 22-18 vote.

As originally passed by the House, the bill required designated no-smoking areas clearly marked with signs in all restaurants capable of seating 50 persons or more.

The Senate amended the bill to place the burden on patrons, requiring no-smoking areas only at the demand of patrons. Opponents objected that the amendatory legislation destroyed the original intent of the bill.

The compromise version, approved by those who had opposed the Senate amendment, requires restaurants to post signs at the entrance notifying customers that a no-smoking area is available upon request.

MILLIKEN DECLARES EMERGENCY

Ice storm paralyzes state

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Gov. Milliken, reacting to Michigan's worst ice storm in 28 years, declared a state of emergency Wednesday in one county and three cities and sent National Guardsmen to help restore vital services.

Milliken's office said the governor declared emergencies in Gratiot County and in St. Charles, Greenville and Belding.

In addition, utilities launched an emergency operation to restore services for an estimated 180,000 homes plunged into darkness and cold when thick ice felled thousands of trees and snapped power lines.

Emergency crews from Chicago, Cleveland and Toledo rushed to the Detroit area to help exhausted Detroit Edison Co. crews restore service.

In Oakland County, jail trustees joined county work crews in attempts to clear roads blocked by thousands of trees felled across roads.

Limbs six inches thick crashed down on houses and streets.

"Every tree in town except one or two fell down," a Gratiot County sheriff's deputy said about Ithaca.

More than 100 National Guardsmen went into action in Gratiot, Montcalm, Ionia and Saginaw counties, where officials said water, sewer, electric and telephone services were interrupted.

Other areas, among them Fowler, were reported completely blacked out.

Saginaw was particularly hard hit with electricity out at three-fourths of the city's 76,000 homes at one time.

Utilities warned it might take until late Thursday to restore full service.

At 6 p.m., Detroit Edison said more than 75,000 of its customers were still without service despite the presence of 91 emergency crews from Illinois and Ohio.

Consumers Power Co. of Jackson said 62,000 customers were still without power by late Wednesday.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co., which reported 20,000 customers cut by the storm, said it might take two days or more to restore full service. It said heaviest damage occurred in Pontiac, Detroit, Saginaw with less serious damage in Flint, Big Rapids, Ionia and Bay City.

Loss of electricity at the State News' printers in Greenville caused Wednesday's edition to arrive on campus hours behind schedule.

State News positions

Petitioning is open for the positions of State News editor-in-chief and advertising manager for 1976-77. In a maximum of 10 double-spaced typewritten pages, each petitioner should outline experience, background and proposed programs for the State News. Examples of newspaper experience should be included if possible. Petitions must be submitted by 5 p.m. April 1 to the State News Board of Directors, 345 Student Services Bldg. All full-time students are eligible for either position.

Plan for higher ed offered

By RALPH FRAMMOLINO
State News Staff Writer

Two state legislators introduced a new plan for funding higher education Wednesday that they said could correct inequities in the present system and pump an additional $94 million over the next three years into colleges and universities.

Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, and Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights, proposed a three-part higher education funding program that would take into account individual instructional areas and the "role and mission" of each institution.

"It's far more objective than the existing formula," Owen said. The existing formula consists primarily of multiplying a dollar figure times the total number of students.

"For the first time we've got an equitable formula," Huffman said. He said the student-based appropriation discriminated against smaller institutions that may have expensive programs. He said that appropriation by instructional area would put the money where it is really needed.

Owen and Huffman said this "role and mission" aspect of the formula is the first of its kind in the country. It takes into account the basic purpose of an institution and the various programs carried on there. It would examine the breadth of instruction, intensity of research and geographic characteristics of an institution.

Owen explained that the new plan would still use a basis of enrollment estimates but, as a second step, give additional equal funding for programs such as education, social sciences and foreign languages. The third part of the plan deals with special grants that do not fit into the first two categories.

"We're going to attempt to retain the growth of the big three (U-M, MSU and Wayne State) and encourage the growth of the other schools," Huffman said. He added that this new formula would be phased in starting with this year.

Thomas Freeman, director of Institution Research at MSU, said that the "role and mission" category was "unique" and that it would serve to benefit the universities by "expanding and elaborating the differentiating aspects" in programs.

"This (role and mission) is the basis of dialog," Freeman said of increased communications between higher education and the legislature. "It is not intended to lock our institutions into a set program."

Freeman and MSU asst. to the President Elliot Ballard said that the University has previously gone on record supporting a new funding system.

The new funding proposal was introduced at a joint subcommittee meeting of House and Senate Appropriations on Higher Education. Owen is chairman of the subcommittee in the House and Huffman is chairman in the Senate. Institutions will be able to have input into the scheme during appropriations hearings.

Labor Relations Cabinet accused of anti-union slant

By IRA ELLIOTT
State News Staff Writer

Efforts of the ASMSU Labor Relations Cabinet to disseminate "objective" information to student employees regarding the Student Workers Union (SWU) has been severely stalled, due to charges that the cabinet's information has an anti-union slant.

A two-page planned mailing is intended to provide student employees with impartial information regarding SWU and unionization, and will be mailed by the cabinet to all 7,000 student voters.

Skowron, interim director of the cabinet, said that he and the ASMSU attorney had to work on the intended mailing "to make sure there are no problems. We want to make sure that nothing in there (the mailings) could be construed as unfair practices," Skowron said.

The official role of ASMSU's Labor Relations cabinet concerning SWU, as defined in a recent May, is to "provide the student workers with information so the student may vote intelligently (in the upcoming authorization election)." The ASMSU Board's role is one of self-professed objectivity, according to a bill passed last year, and cannot take on the question of SWU authorization. The board may, however, grant SWU financial support to enable the union to present its side of the unionization issue more effectively.

The intended mailing met heavy opposition from Curtis Stranathan, ASMSU representative from the College of Arts and Letters and a SWU organizer. He called the mailing "biased for the University and against SWU."

Skowron says, for one thing, if wages will go up, room and board will go up. First, no

Milk price support increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government increased its milk price support effective next month by 5.4 per cent on Wednesday, which an Agriculture Dept. economist said would prevent any significant decline in consumer prices for milk and milk products.

The economist hesitated to predict whether consumer prices would go up because of the support hike, but added that retail costs probably will remain fairly stable.

In announcing the support increase, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said it "is necessary" to help guarantee an adequate supply of milk by helping offset farmers' rising costs of production.

The increase will be effective April 1 and affects the government's support price for milk used to make butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk.

FEC certifies more funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Election Commission approved an additional payment of nearly a half million dollars in public matching funds Wednesday to the campaign of Sen. Henry Jackson.

The FEC certified a $495,071 payment to Jackson, bringing his total federal matching funds to $1.418 million — more than any other candidate except Gov. George C. Wallace.

Matching public funds were also awarded to: Wallace $252,007; Fred Harris $60,350; Sen. Birch Bayh $47,998; Jimmy Carter $44,683; Rep. Morris K. Udall $40,958; Sargent Shriver $22,730; and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp $1,957.

Atomic chief denies charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Safety standards at nuclear power plants are not lax, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission chairman says.

"These charges and their implications do not stand up under scrutiny," said William A. Anders Tuesday to the joint congressional committee on atomic energy.

Anders denied the commission stifles contrasting views in internal staff discussions, despite allegations to that effect by Robert Pollard, project manager who recently resigned.

The committee is holding hearings on allegations by Pollard and the three former GE engineers that the nuclear regulatory process jeopardizes public safety by waiving new safety requirements for older atomic plants, by licensing new reactors despite unresolved safety issues, by using vague safety criteria and by speeding various proceedings to protect economic interests of utilities.

Subsidy overpayments cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report concludes that the Agriculture Dept. approved $8 million in subsidy overpayments to nine grain companies involved in the controversial 1972 Soviet wheat deal.

A department attorney said letters were sent to several firms last week demanding repayment, 18 months after a critical audit.

The General Accounting Office report, released Tuesday, found that the firms used complicated trading techniques to qualify for the subsidies.

Rep. Pierre DuPont, R-Del., who requested the report, said it appeared that the firms had "manipulated" their trading patterns to earn the large subsidy payments.

Ford wants reports cut 10%

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford told all federal agency officials Wednesday to cut 10 per cent by June from the amount of information collected in reports from the public.

Ford has complained repeatedly in speeches about the burden of federal red tape and regulations on individuals, employers and state and local governments.

He wrote to heads of departments and agencies saying Americans are "understandably exasperated by the complexity of reporting to the federal government."

"To put it bluntly," Ford said, "regardless of how necessary a program administrator or agency head may believe reports to be, the American people believe that they are too many, too long, too frequent and take too much time to fill out."

He ordered agency officials to take personal responsibility for reducing requirements for reports.

UN strikers reach agreement

GENEVA (AP) — A strike that paralyzed work at the European headquarters of the United Nations was settled Wednesday, the headquarters administration announced.

Clocks stopped, mail piled up by the ton, computers and elevators were idle and there was no heat in the offices or toilet paper in the bathrooms during the week-long strike by lower grade employees.

Details of the agreement were not immediately published.

Administration spokesman said the agreement was reached at the end of the morning, but lights, electricity and other facilities were not immediately turned on in the mile-long Palace of Nations.

The strike forced the 30-nation Geneva disarmament conference to cancel its meetings and the 32-nation UN Commission on Human Rights moved to emergency rooms outside the UN complex.

Pentagon to buy Israeli parts

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Pentagon has agreed to buy spare military parts from Israeli arms factories, a government minister announced Wednesday as U.S. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon left Israel for Syria.

Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz told reporters that one result of Simon's two-day visit was an agreement for Israeli manufacturers to sell "some spare parts" to the American military.

No details were given, but military correspondents said the sales would likely be parts made in Israel for U.S. arms used by the Israeli defense forces, whose equipment from jet planes to rifles is almost entirely American-supplied.

Simon also signed a $60-million agreement for an American-Israeli industrial research foundation, and criticized the Arab boycott on trade with Israel.

Mozambique closes border

MAPUTO, Mozambique (AP) — The Marxist government of Mozambique declared Wednesday "a state of war" exists with Rhodesia and announced it has sealed off its 800-mile border with the white-ruled nation. The immediate impact was expected to be increased economic difficulties in southern Africa.

A Rhodesian spokesman in Salisbury said that "A state of war" did not mean a declaration of war. The Mozambique Ministry of Information confirmed this but said Mozambique was being put on a war footing. Well-placed sources here said the move is considered a well-timed piece of saber rattling.

Britain, which recently stepped up pressure on the Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia to move toward black majority rule, welcomed what it viewed as economic sanctions by Mozambique.

Last week Rhodesian forces went into Mozambique pursuing "some of the thousands of black nationalist guerrillas" from the Mozambique border, killing 24 guerrillas. Rhodesia, a breakaway British colony, has an army of 3,500 and 10,000 reservists, many of whom have been called up in months because of a growing number of clashes in the three-year-old guerrilla war.

The "state of war" declaration came in an impassioned speech by President Samora Machel, a guerrilla fighter himself.

The 42-year-old Machel said all Rhodesian property and assets in Mozambique would be seized, all communications with Rhodesia and Mozambique would apply full economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

"We welcome the implementation of sanctions," said a Foreign Office spokesman in London. "Since independent Mozambique has made clear its intention of doing this. In the step they have taken emphasizes the gravity of the situation in Rhodesia."

Rhodesia, a land of 274,000 whites and 5.7 million blacks, unilaterally declared its independence from Britain in 1965. Then, Prime Minister Ian Smith has resisted all international pressure to make a constitutional settlement with the blacks, but he has talks recently with Joshua Nkomo, a black leader.

The closure of the border is expected to have a serious impact on the economy of landlocked Rhodesia, but a government spokesman in Salisbury said it would hurt Mozambique more. He said Mozambique's revenue comes from rail traffic and port dues. Rhodesia's imports and exports and that Mozambique also come from Rhodesia. All of this is now expected to stop.

During Portuguese rule, Mozambique handled up to 80 per cent of Rhodesian imports and exports, but the Rhodesian spokesman said most of these now move through South Africa, a neighbor.

The closing is also certain to hurt Zaire, which uses the rail line through Zambia, Rhodesia and Mozambique for much of its exports and imports. Zaire's traditional outlet for much of its goods is through the Atlantic Ocean has been closed for a long time.

Mozambique became independent in June 1975 after nearly 50 years of Portuguese rule, a 10-year guerrilla war and a short revolt in 1974 by white settlers against Portugal's turn of power to Frelimo, the Marxist movement that rules Mozambique today.

Mozambique has a population of about 8 1/2 million living in 303,070 square miles of plains and highlands on the southeast of Africa — an area about that of Texas and Louisiana.

The country has a 1,500-mile coastline on the Indian Ocean. Main ports, Maputo and Beira, with some of the best harbors in southern Africa, are linked by railroad with South Africa, Rhodesia and other neighboring countries.

The capital, Lourenço Marques under Portuguese rule was renamed Maputo after independence. It lies about the same distance from the equator as Miami, Fla. The country has a wide variety of crops, including sugar, cotton, bananas, coffee, hemp, nuts, coffee, tea and tobacco.

Mozambique was a base for African slave trade until slavery was abolished in 1878. In the latter days of colonial rule, members of the black majority had theoretical equality with white settlers. Portugal was accused of not providing adequate schooling and tolerating oppressive work conditions in the colony.

Secret pact's existence queried

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield called Wednesday for an investigation into what the president of Egypt says are secret commitments by the United States to prevent an Israeli attack on Syria and to support Palestinian participation in a Mideast settlement.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat told a weekend news conference that the secret assurances were made last September when Egypt and Israel signed their second Sinai disengagement agreement.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has assured the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the past that there were no secret agreements.

At the White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters "nothing was kept secret in the consultations with Congress" at the time of the Sinai agreement.

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said, "I'm assuming the committee staff has already been instructed to make appropriate inquiries at the State Dept. and that some information will be forthcoming shortly.

Sadat's version of the agreements was disclosed at a news conference he held in Kuwait on Sunday. The text of the news conference was carried in the Egyptian press.

Sadat said that the United States promised to ensure that Israel will not attack Syria. Under the agreement, Egypt and Israel are to refrain from these of force against each other for three years.

Previously, Sadat had said Egypt would not be bound to intervene if Syria attacked Israel, but would be free to take any action it deemed necessary if Israel attacked Syria.

Sadat told the Kuwait news conference that unprovoked Syrian military action on the Golan Heights would not produce an Egyptian intervention.

"If Syria starts a war of attrition as an attempt to show heroism, then let them alone face the consequences," he declared.

Sadat said the United States had promised him the Palestinians would participate in Mideast peace talks, a move adamantly opposed by Israel. Last September, Sadat told correspondents that President Ford had promised him the United States would contact the Palestinian guerrilla movement — a pledge falling short of bringing the Palestinians into the negotiations.

The public American position on the Palestinians is that they should not be included in any formal diplomatic endeavors as long as they refuse to formally acknowledge the existence of Israel.

Power of subpoena given to committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave its ethics committee broad subpoena power Wednesday that could force persons outside Congress to testify in the investigation into the leak of a secret intelligence committee report published in a New York weekly newspaper.

The vote was 321-85.

Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., chairman of the ethics committee, said the subpoena resolution was needed to resolve any doubt that the committee could compel persons outside Congress to testify, if necessary.

The resolution also gives the ethics committee power to subpoena any document it deems important to the investigation.

There is a move in the House, backed by the ethics committee, to take the focus of the investigation off CBS Correspondent Daniel Schorr and put it, instead, on tracking down the person who leaked the intelligence committee's report to him.

Schorr has acknowledged he arranged publication of the intelligence committee's report in the Village Voice newspaper.

Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., said in a floor speech that contrary to press reports the question before the ethics committee is not Schorr.

"The problem is how did that newscaster get that information in the first place," McKinney said.

Chairman of the Democratic Caucus Philip Burton of California spoke against broadening the committee's subpoena powers.

"The subpoena power would extend to each and every staff member whether or not they had anything to do with this affair, and I think that's an outrage," Burton asserted.

Angola's action for ambitious

SLOUGH, England (UPI) — Sgt. Maj. Denis Mance of the Royal Horse Artillery beamed when he saw the line of men outside his army recruiting office here, until they started asking how they could enlist in the mercenaries for Angola.

"We were amazed when they asked for information on enlisting for Angola," said Mance. "Most of them were bored with life and thought it was a good way to make money."

Ambassador post goes to Scranton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania was confirmed by the Senate Wednesday to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Confirmation was on a voice vote with no dissent after Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., described Scranton as "a man of ability, integrity and distinction."

Mansfield said he was sure Scranton would serve "ably and well."

Scranton, a Republican, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday that he will continue forceful reaction to Third World nations' criticism of the United States at the United Nations.

Scranton said that while he approves of the way in which his predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, spoke back to hostile critics, "My style is obviously not like Pat's." Moynihan drew both praise and criticism for his flamboyant performance at the UN. The soft-spoken Scranton said Moynihan had succeeded in raising the morale of the American people.

Scranton told the committee that he will offer cooperation and understanding to all. But, he added, U.S. action to cut off foreign aid to nations that consistently obstruct legitimate U.S. goals "may be useful in certain places and certain times."

But he added that while this tactic might offer useful leverage, "I don't think this is a weapon we'd want to use in great proliferation. We can overdo it. It should be used sparingly."

City council approves housing advisory body

By ELLEN SPONSELLER
State News Staff Writer

In fairly quick action Tuesday night, the Lansing City Council approved a resolution to create a body of area citizens, including one MSU administrator, to advise the city on housing policy and program development. Councilman Larry Owen pushed the resolution through with only minimal dissent from council members Mary Sharp and John Polonsky, and an amendment proposed by Councilman John Czarnecki. The resolution provides for a nine-member committee comprised of East Lansing housing experts to act in a purely advisory capacity to the Office of Housing Policy and Program Development. The committee will be made up of three members of the Lansing Housing Commission, one member of the planning commission, one city administrator, one expert on real estate and finance, one person experienced in government policy on housing and two other council members. All committee members must be East Lansing residents. Owen stressed, as he had in previous council meetings, that the advisory committee would not parallel the duties or enter the domain of the city housing commission, which would let East Lansing draw upon the talents of area citizens. "We want to try to involve the University in housing," he said, adding that the city will be a statutory achievement to get the MSU board of trustees to pay attention to the housing problems in East Lansing," he said. Czarnecki also urged the quick passage of the resolution. "I feel we should move as rapidly as possible on housing," he said, adding that the council will re-examine the issue next year and if the committee does not work, "at least we will know," he said. Though Polonsky and Sharp expressed reservations about the duties and answerability of the committee, the vote for the resolution was unanimous. The resolution was the second step in the creation of the new Office of Housing Policy and Program Development.

Policy, introduced by Owen and approved by the council Feb. 17. Briefly, the new Office of Housing Policy will be responsible for developing a policy for improving housing in the city. It will set tough guidelines for housing standards and work on getting federal Community Development (CD) funds to study housing and recommend ways of improving the tight East Lansing housing situation. The new advisory committee will provide valuable understanding and input for finding solutions for the present crowded conditions, Owen said. In other council action: Owen introduced, and the council approved, the placing of a limited number of newsstands on downtown city streets in the area bordered by Abbott and Collingwood roads, Albert Street and Grand River Avenue. Sharp dissented, saying she objected to putting commercial enterprises on public streets. "Sidewalks should be for pedestrians," Sharp said. The council voted to award the construction contract for the addition to the East Lansing Public Library to the Hanel-Vance Construction Co.

Hanel-Vance's bid of $458,600 for the addition was the second-lowest bid, next to the bid of Design and Build Construction Co. of $428,400. The East Lansing Public Library Board of Trustees recommended that Hanel-Vance's bid be chosen because the firm was more experienced than Design and Build, Inc., the main competitor for the contract. And despite an appeal to the council by a lawyer for Design and Build that the city should award the contract to the lowest-bidding firm, the council voted to go with Hanel-Vance. The council also approved the contracting of a public access consultant by the Cable Communications Commission for an amount not to exceed $900. Mayor George Griffiths was notified that he will be traveling to Sturgis, Mich., on Mayor's Exchange day, May 17. The council appointed Sharp, who is mayor pro-tem, as chairman of Mayor Exchange Day activities for Sturgis' mayor who will be in East Lansing for that day.

Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher Mike Marshall again succeeded in causing a disturbance in the Men's IM Building Wednesday morning even after obtaining a legitimate reservation to use the baseball net in the turf arena. Marshall attracted the attention of intramural officials and campus police when he began cutting a chain, which holds the baseball net to the wall, with a hacksaw and a pair of boltcutters. According to Harris F. Beeman, director of intramural services, Marshall and a friend who had reserved the court came into the building at approximately 11:30 a.m. asking for their reservation slip. However, standard intramural policy is not to give the reservation slip to the student until 20 minutes before the scheduled time, Beeman said. Marshall, who had the court reserved for noon, was apparently unwilling to wait until 11:40 when he would have been given both the reservation slip and the key to the chain-locked baseball net and promptly began cutting the chain until he was able to break it and free the net. The police were then notified and Beeman filed a complaint against Marshall for malicious destruction of property. Marshall was not arrested because police did not witness the incident. Malicious destruction of property is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum $100 fine and 90 days in jail. Marshall already faces arraignment Wednesday for two misdemeanor charges that resulted from previous incidents in the intramural building. Marshall was unavailable for comment.

Ferency asks E. Lansing to bury parking ordinance

By BRAD MARTISIUS
State News Staff Writer

Zoltan Ferency came to the East Lansing City Council meeting Tuesday night and he brought his battlefield with him. Ferency came to ask the city council to bury a parking ordinance that restricts parking on private property. His weapons of persuasion were more than 100 years of Michigan legal precedents. The war began last Dec. 12 when Cecilia Hiller, Ferency's client, got a $10 ticket from an East Lansing police officer who believed Hiller was parked illegally in an apartment parking lot at 235 Delta St. The war escalated two weeks ago when the case was dismissed in East Lansing District Court by Judge Daniel Tschirhart on the grounds that the officers who wrote the ticket followed improper procedure. However, Ferency was dissatisfied. He said the early dismissal did not give him a chance to deal with the real issues. Ferency said the ordinance is unconstitutional. "That ordinance lends police power to the city to enforce private rights," he said. "The citizens of East Lansing have been deprived of a considerable amount of money because of it." Ferency then cited an 1872 case in the Michigan Supreme Court about a boat improperly parked in a wharf. The supreme court ruled then that an act must be left to civil remedies unless it is dangerous to the public. It further said that police power should not be used to deal with most trespasses. "Trespasses are generally left to redress by private remedies," he said. Ferency parried pointed questions from Councilmen Larry Owen and John Czarnecki with his knowledge of trespass and parking laws. Owen asked if civil remedies would be required if a person were to walk into a private house and plop down in the living room, refusing to leave. Ferency replied that criminal laws would then apply because of the likelihood of physical violence. And when Czarnecki suggested that ticketing is sometimes necessary in downtown East Lansing because of the difficulty of getting tow trucks to move cars there, Ferency replied that the city should get into the towing business. "I'm sure East Lansing could use funds to support tow truck activity," he said. "And I'm sure city trucks would do a much better job than those currently engaged in towing." "The point is that the city should do nothing about using police power to enforce private property rights." Finally, Ferency suggested that the city review its records and return the money collected from the ticketing of cars under the questioned ordinance. The city council took no action at the meeting. However, members did retire to a work session afterwards to discuss Ferency's ideas.

Handicappers may gain ASMSU council status

By MICKI MAYNARD
State News Staff Writer

Handicapped students at MSU would receive representation on the ASMSU Board if a bill introduced Tuesday night is approved. A measure that would establish a Handicapped Council was introduced by Interfraternity Council President Kent Barry after a presentation by Len Sawisch, president of STIGMA (Students for Total Integration thru Greater Mobility and Accessibility). The handicapper group has been publicizing the plight of handicapped students on campus, calling for revisions in present University policies which it feels discriminate against them. In his presentation before the ASMSU board, Sawisch pointed out the problems handicappers have with buildings on campus, including the fact that they do not have a choice of dorms in which to live. Barry said Sawisch's presentation prompted him to introduce the bill. "I don't feel the University is doing enough for handicappers," Barry said. "I think they are justified in asking for council status." ASMSU councils serve the needs of different groups. They can request an allocation from the budget and office space from the board. If the handicapper council is approved by the ASMSU Policy Committee and passed by the full board in the future, it will join the Council of Black Affairs, the Chicano Council, the North American Indian Council and the Gay Liberation Council. Sawisch said obtaining council status would be an important move for STIGMA as it would help the group achieve several of its major goals. "At the present time we don't have any money or a set location," he said. "This would help us insure funding and office space. The move would also be good in that the Student Services Building is one of the few accessible buildings on campus." Becoming an ASMSU council, Sawisch said, would give STIGMA members and other handicappers interaction with other minority groups on campus. "This will help us reaffirm our status as a minority group," he said. "This makes handicappers more salient. It will let people know that we're out there." Sawisch said he hopes the ASMSU council position will help other handicappers "come out of the closet." "In this way, our struggle indicates the similarities between ourselves and our gay brothers and sisters," he said.

Disclosure bill out to ASMSU

By CAROLE LEIGH HUTTON
State News Staff Writer

The Student Workers Union (SWU) was once again a dominant issue before the ASMSU Board Tuesday night as a bill was introduced to request that the University provide the board an account of all expenditures made for the upcoming SWU election. Another bill to give the ASMSU Board complete approval rights to all SWU-related mailings from the Labor Relations Board was sent to the policy committee to come up for discussion and voting next week. A group calling themselves Students for Information Concerning SWU made a presentation to the board and asked for an allocation to cover costs of mailing information pamphlets to students. A bill introduced to the board to honor this request was sent to the budget committee for discussion and recommendation.

James Stranathan, College of Arts and Sciences representative, who introduced the bill, said for an account of University expenditures, explained that ASMSU has no power to make the University fulfill that request. "Unlike any other ASMSU bill," Stranathan said, "The administration could take it away. We can only ask."

Stranathan said that the bill calls for the disclosure of any expenses entailed by the University in relation to the SWU election, including legal fees, mailings and time spent by University administrators. "It would be anything that the University spent money on trying to defeat SWU," he said. Anderson, asst. director of MSU Student Services, said that "a great deal of money has been tied up by the whole SWU. We'll have to wait and see what happens," Anderson said. "A major portion of the time now has to do with work on the area of handling charges raised by the SWU." Anderson said that while he would like to see a specific request for what the bill would call for, he does not see "any reason for disclosing any information." The University has not yet sent out any requests to student employees concerning the upcoming SWU election, but has expressed the possibility of doing so in the future. Another action taken by the ASMSU last night, a bill was passed to change the beginning of legal action from the State News and MSU in regard to the refundable $1 tax assessed on the ASMSU body each term. ASMSU President Brian Raymond said the question of the tax was never brought to the students through a referendum and possibly illegal. He plans to sue with the ASMSU attorney concerning the tax today. The board also passed a bill endorsing the University's refund policy proposal made by the MSU Board of Trustees to the

U.S. State Dept. official discusses Japan's Lockheed scandal inquiry

By GREG KRAFT
State News Staff Writer

Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s payment of bribes to gain foreign sales in Japan is being "thoroughly investigated by the Japanese Diet," said the director of the Office of Japanese Affairs for the U.S. Dept. of State while visiting MSU Tuesday and Wednesday. William C. Sherman, whose visit to MSU was sponsored by James Madison College and the Asian Studies Center, also discussed a variety of topics ranging from Japan's reaction to the recent Nixon trip to China to McDonald restaurants on Tokyo thoroughfares. "The payoff scandal was played big in Japan," Sherman said, "but the Japanese feel that the U.S. is withholding information from them."

He also said the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission is investigating the payoff scandal to determine the extent of the bribes. The fact of the payoffs themselves and the individuals involved hasn't really been established, Sherman said, and that is primarily what is being investigated right now. While the bribe scandal may pose a problem for Japanese officials, the recent Nixon trip to China caused little serious alarm among members of the Diet and the press compared to the shock they experienced when the U.S. opened relations with China in 1972 without prior consultation with Japan. The Japanese press was primarily interested in the American reaction to Nixon's visit, Sherman said. "They tend to concentrate on the possible splits that could develop surrounding such a visit," Sherman said. As to any Japanese fears of increasing diplomatic ties between the U.S. and China, Sherman said Japan is attempting to "normalize" its relations with China, also. "They're trading and flying back and forth, albeit with a certain amount of circumspection," he said. Japan was also helpful of consequences when South Vietnam fell to the Communists last year. Vietnam was always far enough away so the war situation did not pose that big of a threat, Sherman said, pointing out that the Japanese did not want U.S. actions in Vietnam to involve them. But, he said, when South Vietnam fell, "Japan did ask the U.S. for a restatement of the Mutual Security Treaty that was signed between them." Sherman emphasized that while Japan and China are warming relations and the conflict in Vietnam has smoldered, the situation in Korea is much more threatening simply because Korea is much closer to Japan. "Korea is the dagger pointed at Japan," Sherman said. Sherman, who has been employed with the State Dept. for 25 years, pointed out that the Japanese foreign policy revolves around that of the U.S. Japan used to hold unilateral relations with only the U.S., he said. "Now, Japan is much more of an active member of a multilateral forum," Sherman said. Sherman turned the conversation to the similarities and differences that exist between U.S. and Japanese domestic problems. Like the U.S., Japan is also experiencing a wave of consumerism, Sherman said, noting that the "movement" is picking up more and more speed. Pollution is also a problem in Japan. Recalling the Minamato incident in 1972, when mercury was released into the water supply with many resulting deaths and injuries, Sherman said, "Japan's pollution ethics are approaching ours." While the American people may be experiencing a post-Watergate apathy, Sherman said, there is not much apathy among the Japanese people. "The Japanese keep a pretty close eye on their politicians," Sherman indicated that freedom of the press in Japan may be even more extensive than it is in the U.S. And if freedom of the press is more extensive in Japan, so too are McDonald's restaurants and other American franchise interests. "There's a McDonald's restaurant on the main street in downtown Tokyo," Sherman said, "and from what I hear, it has the largest sales volume of any unit they operate. And Colonel Sanders. Gee, there must be 20 of 'em. And on top of that, don't forget to add Dunkin' Donuts."

Student hits Physics addition

By CAROLYN FESSLER
State News Staff Writer

Calling himself the "Trustee for future students," a concerned MSU student is questioning the planned location of the Physics Building addition on the grounds that there is already too much cement on north campus. Patrick Lyons, 200 S. Mifflin Ave., Lansing, single-handedly pushed a bill through Tuesday night's ASMSU meeting asking the University to prepare an environmental assessment statement of the addition to the present Physics-Astronomy Building, assuring that all possible alternatives have been explored as well as the possible impact of such a structure. The new addition will extend 100 feet westward from the northwest end of the building on Physics Road into a small, grassy open area. Preparatory work will begin next week for the two-story, 12,000-square-foot wing which will house the high energy physics program. "It seems like the University is doing what is easiest at the moment," Lyons said. "They're throwing up a real quick building and sticking it in the cheapest place. If all the departments on north campus did that, we'd be full of buildings." Lyons' main concerns are that there is little opportunity for public input on new building projects and, in this case, no environmental impact statement was filed. "The impacts I'm talking about are the social and aesthetic impacts on a densely populated and heavily used area of campus," he said.

Robert Siefert, University architect, said an executive order issued by Gov. Milliken requires plans for all state buildings of a significant nature to include an environmental impact statement. "Maybe there should have been a statement done on this addition. I don't know," he said. "I'm just not sure how many people in the state of Michigan will get excited about the Physics Building." "That's just it," Lyons argued. "There is no clear line on what major state action is. I just don't like the fact that I've heard no exploration of alternatives whatsoever, especially why it isn't being built on the south side of the building on a spot that is already developed (G lot)."

Siefert said that the plans for the addition were evaluated closely but that covering valuable parking spaces with a building addition would complicate an already tight parking problem on north campus. He added that maps of future campus construction are available in the Office of Campus Parks and Planning, but admitted that no public hearings are held regarding proposed construction. Lyons feels public hearings are a necessary step in planning a campus. "Without being informed, no one seems to be worrying about the future," he continued. "If I come back in five or ten years to find this place as densely populated as Ann Arbor, it's my fault for not doing anything about it while I'm here."

Was he happy?
"Oh, yeah," he replied, with conviction in his voice.
New Hampshire had spoken, and nothing.

LETTERS To the Editor

Criticism

Guillermo Amaya's article regarding critics of the State News (Feb. 19) is a typical rationalization of people who somehow feel entitled to show others what they know. The sad part about a critic who does not apply himself to the art he is criticizing is the fact that he or she has little understanding of what it takes to reach some degree of perfection.

A true critic must not only be able to appreciate the arts, he should be aware of all the problems involved with any art form and be proficient enough to reach his "ideal" under the same circumstances.

That's what's wrong with most critics who can point out deficiencies in any of the art forms in which they are "well read, informed or aware" of. Ask them to do any better and chances are they'll fall flat on their asses. Amen!

Told by idiot

While one's most immediate reaction to Jerome McGuire's Feb. 27 review of the efforts of the group Journey is "those who can, do; those who cannot, criticize," I beg to point out one small error. When he misquotes Shakespeare, writing "a tale full of sound and fury, signifying nothing," I am sure he now realizes that he should have written, "...a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing."

Sunday night

Sunday night in Wonders Hall kiva a meeting to inform concerned students about the recent racism emerging in the South Complex resulted in the enlightenment of this student to the unreliable, unprofessional administration of this University. The reason being that not one administrator attended the meeting!

Could it be that the administrators were too busy praying to their God for Him to clear their respectabilities after the very recent confrontation with the NCAA? Or maybe they just forgot about the meaningless, silent students of this circus? I am sure they can find a reason for not attending the meeting.

Surely they knew about the meeting! They also must be aware of the growing racism on campus. But it seems to me that they only concern themselves with sport problems. Yet they still keep their jobs; it must mean they are fulfilling the wants and needs of a jock-oriented culture full of high school hard guys.

I wonder why I have always heard that the University of Michigan is better?

VIEWPOINT: KKK

SN story defended

By BEN TOUSLEY

I live in Boston and have no MSU affiliation. But as an impartial observer of your campus, I feel compelled to comment on the recent controversy over Bruce Walker's article of Feb. 18. The Article reports the nocturnal demonstration of three hooded students protesting University measures toward "a separate but unequal society favoring black Americans."

The issue I wish to address is the journalist's professional responsibility, not the practices or beliefs of those hooded masqueraders.

There is nothing in Mr. Walker's Feb. 18 article or in its accompanying photograph which would indicate the reporter's sympathy or antipathy toward the protesting group. Mr. Walker relates the facts of the event clearly and concisely and provides quoted statements of the group's position. This is the essential task of the reporter: to bring information of the newsworthy event to an absent audience.

Why is the event in question newsworthy? Because the fundamental question has been raised in a startling and disturbing display. It is significant and of interest to the entire MSU community as it causes thoughtful discussion of this question.

The only apparent shortcoming in the reportage is Mr. Walker's failure to clarify why the protesters chose the hooded garb of the KKK. In his lead sentence, Mr. Walker establishes that the group was in fact the KKK, but then goes on to quote the group as espousing the nonracist doctrines of "an integrated but unequal society." The group also claimed to represent the "white people and students of MSU." Who, in fact, do they represent? The reader is left in a quandary.

The letters which appear in the Feb. 23 issue of the State News, no doubt chiefly from black members of the community, denounce the State News and Mr. Walker for "condoning such actions by overpublicizing them," for "making news rather than reporting it," and for "perpetuating racism and bigotry." In short, the letters imply that the article, by objectively reporting such an allegedly racist occurrence, is promoting racism and animosity.

To illustrate the fallacy of the assertion, I shall carry this kind of reasoning to its logical applications: The State News is pro-Nixon because it reports the pardoned executive's visit to China; it condones petty larceny and vandalism because it gives such crimes news space; indeed, the State News encourages the Red Cedar to further flood its banks by publicizing its unruly activities with a front-page photograph.

Absurd cause-and-effect reduction? Yes. But no more so than the notion that to inform people of undesired activities is to encourage their support and approval. As evidenced by the instant denunciation in the letters mentioned above, such information may just as easily serve to mobilize opposition. Regardless of the varied reactions objective news reporting might elicit, its prime function remains to make people aware, to dispel ignorance.

To the drafters of those letters, I address the following question: Would you have preferred to have the news of the demonstration totally suppressed, to prevent the viewpoint of this minority from being expressed in public? If so, you reject the responsibility of our democratic press to air all sides of an issue, then to let the public decide who is right.

You likewise reject the democratic right to freedom of expression and of assembly, regardless of race, creed, color or political belief.

Where, if not on a university campus, can these freedoms be honored?

Kennedy's bombast on arms shipments

William F. Buckley

Congress is expected within a matter of weeks to enact into law the bill passed by the Senate last week regulating the sale or transfer of conventional arms to foreign countries. There is a great deal that is superficially appealing about this measure. The trouble of course is that its corollaries are substantially unexamined. At more or less the same time, the United States is announcing that it will no longer act as a policeman for the world, and that it will no longer permit other countries to act as their policemen. So much, finally, for disarmament.

Granted, Congress has not yet voted to embargo the export of arms to anybody. It has specifically transferred the authority to approve exports from the Executive to the legislative branch. It is, on the whole, an attractive measure. It is carried with a nice margin. Senator Kennedy added a provision forbidding the sale of arms to Chile, on the grounds that Chile is suppressing human rights. Senator Kennedy's patience, he reported, is exhausted. On the other hand, Senator Kennedy's patience is infinite in respect of the suppression of human rights in other countries. We have given more arms to Yugoslavia than to any country in the world, and they have been suppressing human rights in Yugoslavia since before Senator Kennedy began his lifelong study of ethics at Harvard University.

In fact you know it, I know it, and Senator Kennedy knows it, that Chile's salient offense isn't that it is torturing people, it is that it overthrew the government of Salvador Allende and thereby incurred the undying hostility of the world's leftwing press, the most durable and most effective apparatus of power in the world. Only a few months ago it had grown men — scholars, diplomats, poets, and popes — jumping through its hoop against General Franco for executing five murderers. The terrorists were merely the proximate cause of a renewal of the campaign against Franco that began the day he won the civil war against the forces backed by the left.

The very same day that Senator Kennedy made his protest against Chile, Amnesty International filed its report on torture in Uruguay. The same day that Henry Kissinger exchanged pleasantries with the governors of Peru, who have not hesitated to use torture to suppress political dissent. The very same day that Richard Nixon flew off to renew the delights of his association with the most systematic freedom suppressors in history, the Chinese Communists.

If Senator Kennedy wants to stop sending arms to any country that suppresses human rights — indeed, that is one of the grander purposes of the Senate bill — he had better quickly telephone Massachusetts and find out how many jobs are going to be lost this time around. It would spare him the embarrassment he sustained a few years ago when he was forced to recommend the closing of military bases everywhere except in Massachusetts, where the climate is so propitious for military bases. Senator McGovern had the same problem in South Dakota.

Congress is shuffling its doctrines so fast, it's hard to mulet any coherence out of them. First we have the Fulbright Doctrine, which announces that the United States has no proper quarrel against any country, no matter how obnoxious its internal policies, so long as it does not seek to export them. Now we make an exception of Chile, as we did of South Africa a while back. Then we announce that other countries will have to look after their own frontiers: we'll supply the arms. But now we won't supply the arms, if we disapprove of the pedigree of the government. Then we encourage friendly countries to buy our stuff, not theirs. But increasingly, our hardware is subject to interdiction, at the wheezing of Senator Kennedy's conscience.

It is an odd admixture, what we are getting into. Half moralism, half realpolitik, and, increasingly, all of it bombast.

Plenty of sex, booze and gore make 'Wild Turkey' a vintage potboiler

By MARTY SOMMERNESS
State News Reviewer

"Wild Turkey" is better by far than anything of its kind produced in the fields, vineyards and presses of Europe. It is an altogether refreshing product that should grace every connoisseur's shelf and cellar.

"Wild Turkey" has a rugged bouquet, plenty of body, an unmistakable aroma and a brilliant blood-red color. Despite its recent vintage, "Wild Turkey" is an item developed with the care of a craftsman who has studied the work of the masters.

Published in paperback form by Pocket Books, "Wild Turkey" is the new detective novel by Roger Simon.

What America needs is a story about a Jewish, marijuana-smoking, rock and roll-loving, repentant but erring male chauvinist pig, aging hippie private detective separated from his wife and beleaguered by his two children, strong-arming goons and a herd of sex clinic crazies.

Such is the story of Moses Wine, the protagonist of "Wild Turkey."

Wine is the oppressed California private eye whose mirthful exploits are filled with satires of American popular culture and more than a passing resemblance to the adventures of "The Big Sleep" and "The Maltese Falcon."

While trying to solve the "Wine is no 'open the door and put on some clothes' gumshoe. Instead, he gets involved with sexual liberation institutes where he closes the door and sheds his clothes. The only dysfunction he suffers from is a weary soul — the same malady that afflicted Sam Spade and the Continental Op."

"In 'Wild Turkey,' as in pulp detective novels, the cops are dumb, the women are sex objects and life in general is rotten."

murder of a beautiful woman, Wine is harassed by Ph.D. guerilla journalist Gunther Thomas, a maniacal character who resembles Rolling Stone writer Hunter S. Thompson.

Thomas introduces Wine to Jock Hecht, a Norman Mailerish participant journalist who is soon found dead in a Hemingway. Before Wine solves the two deaths, he has to fend off a rich but decrepit Jewish gangster, a corrupt attorney general and an army of Watergate-type Bay of Pigs invasion Cubans.

It is a potboiler, but it is an extremely well-written, entertaining and illuminating potboiler.

dysfunction he suffers from is a weary soul — the same malady that afflicted Sam Spade and the Continental Op.

In "Wild Turkey," as in pulp detective novels, the cops are dumb, the women are sex objects and life in general is rotten.

Wine perseveres against the baddies and the reader is the winner.

"Wild Turkey" is no turkey. Wine is no chicken. Simon is no vulture. If the book is any kind of a bird, it is a phoenix of spoof and spellbinding thrills.

The hard-boiled detective was born, bred and disillusioned in the United States and Simon proves that the American brand of hard-guy is still the most formidable and realistic in the world.

A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and "Wild Turkey," such are the elements that compose an exquisite weekend. A sip of "Wild Turkey" is nice, a glass of it is better and a drunk on it is Nirvana.

Company to give dance presentation

By JEROME MCGUIRE
State News Reviewer

The MSU Repertory Dance Company will present a concert for children of all ages on March 6 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the East Lansing High School Auditorium. The school is located on Burcham Drive, one half mile north of Grand River Avenue.

The concert is an introduction to the art of dance.

"Dancers love to dance for people who readily respond to the joy of movement," the repertory literature states.

The repertory company is composed of dancers and choreographers from the dance division of the HPR Dept. The children's dance concert is an extension of a lecture-demonstration program that the company takes to area schools.

The concert on Saturday will last for one hour without interruption. Twelve dances will be presented by the company choreographed by a variety of people associated with the group.

Six of the dances are directed primarily at children while the rest are not. They range from "Folk Song," a touching tale about a lamb and her encounters with such endearing characters as Flutterby and BeBe the Bee, choreographed by MaryLou Duschl with original music and choreographic assistance by Dan Baloghkas; to "Shakes," a jazz piece, choreographed by Carolyn Webb.

Other pieces include "Junk-yard Octet," "Folk Song," "Lunar Muse" and an original dance which introduces movements of the ballet. These works are choreographed by Angela Tama Herick and Diana Man, director of the company.

The repertory company attempts to display a wide range of dance styles in an accessible form in this concert. The dances are light and humorous most part, but the troupe worked diligently on the

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION OF THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF EAST LANSING INGHAM AND CLINTON COUNTIES, MICHIGAN TO BE HELD MARCH 15, 1976

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Please Take Notice that a special election of the qualified electors of the School District of the City of East Lansing, Ingham and Clinton Counties, Michigan, will be held in said School District on Monday, March 15, 1976.

THE POLLS OF ELECTION WILL OPEN AT 7:00 O'CLOCK, A.M. AND CLOSE AT 8:00 O'CLOCK, P.M.

The following propositions will be submitted to the vote of the electors qualified to vote thereon at said special election:

PROPOSITION A SCHOOL MILLAGE PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in the School District of the City of East Lansing, Ingham and Clinton Counties, Michigan, be increased for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes as follows:

27.3 mills ($27.30 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1976 (this being a renewal of 27.3 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1975 tax levy).

29 mills ($29.00 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1977, and

30.6 mills ($30.60 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1978.

PROPOSITION B SCHOOL MILLAGE PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in the School District of the City of East Lansing, Ingham and Clinton Counties, Michigan, be increased as follows:

1.30 mills ($1.30 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1976.

1.20 mills ($1.20 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1977, and

1.20 mills ($1.20 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1978.

to provide additional funds for operating purposes? (This is a separate proposition and is in addition to the increase submitted in Proposition A at this same election. If Propositions A and B are approved this will authorize the following total voted increases to be levied: 28.60 mills for 1976, 30.20 mills for 1977 and 31.80 mills for 1978.)

PROPOSITION C SCHOOL MILLAGE PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in the School District of the City of East Lansing, Ingham and Clinton Counties, Michigan, be increased as follows:

1.20 mills ($1.20 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1976.

1.40 mills ($1.40 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1977, and

1.40 mills ($1.40 on each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) for the year 1978.

to provide additional funds for operating purposes? (This proposition is in addition to the increases submitted in Propositions A and B at this same election. If Propositions A, B and C are approved this will authorize the following total voted increases to be levied: 29.80 mills for 1976, 31.60 mills for 1977 and 33.20 mills for 1978.)

full-reflectorization issue.

"Unless the report tells you something new, there's no need to do the thing and charge the public one dime," Anderson said.

Anderson added that to have another review of all the literature on auto safety just because one more report has been done would be wasteful also.

Also, while both Post and Cook reviewed the same reports, the disagreement over methodology in those reports caused the different conclusions.

Cook said that his report, done through the Centry Research Corp., was funded by 3M.

"Our favorability towards the fully reflective license plates was known to them (3M)," Cook said. "We were funded because I had an opinion that was already favorable to their position."

When asked if the funding by Carter, who won Tuesday's Vermont primary but saw that and his initial New Hampshire victory quickly overtaken by the Massachusetts verdict, was

"You think I've been paid off," he said. "That's sheer bullshit."

Post questioned the validity of Cook's conclusions because of his strong position on the issue.

campaigning in Florida.

The Massachusetts returns left him badly in need of a win there, if he is to re-establish his ranking at the top of the field.

He was beginning a swing through 24 Florida cities, saying that campaigns centered on opposition to busing are basically negative with "connotations of racism."

"... I'm not in favor of mandatory busing, but to run my campaign on an anti-busing issue is contrary to my basic nature," Carter said in Orlando.

For all of that, Jackson and Carter identified themselves in Massachusetts as foes of busing, less stridently than did Wallace, but nonetheless clearly.

one (from SWU) is saying wages will go up. Second, room and board wouldn't have to go up even if wages do," Stranathan said.

Since Skowron is directly responsible to ASMSU President Brian Raymond and not to the board, Stranathan and others who may object to the mailing have no formal recourse if Raymond approves it.

"We could impeach Raymond," Stranathan said, "but that wouldn't be worth it since there's only a couple of weeks left in his term. Outside of ASMSU I don't know what could be done. But we (SWU) have filed unfair labor practices in the past."

A bill which may be acted on during next week's ASMSU Board meeting would make all cabinets answerable to the board rather than to the president. But such a bill, if passed, would probably not affect the situation at hand.

Raymond said he wanted to consider the mailings "very carefully." If he approves the reworked version of the mailings they will go out Friday.

THE HIGHLAND APPLIANCE SOUND SHOPS; EVERYTHING
YOU NEVER EXPECTED FROM AN APPLIANCE STORE!

Listen: It's a jungle out there.

And according to our competitors, we're the cause of it.

It's true. We have created complete havoc in the audio field. We have taken our 43-year expertise in high-volume buying, low-discount pricing and high-volume selling that we're famous for in TV's and major appliances, and applied it to the world of audio. We're one of very few dealers (and we mean so few, that you could probably count the number on one hand) in Michigan and Ohio who has enough capital to be in the business. This allows us to pay every one of our bills ahead of the time they're due. The manufacturers give us extra discounts to do this. We then own the merchandise for less — and we can sell it for less. That is in addition to the special price consideration we receive from the manufacturers because of the huge quantities we buy every month. Plus; every one of our customers gets our famous 30-day written low-price guarantee which states that if you see the same item at any of our competitors anywhere in the area for less, within 30 days of purchase, we'll refund the difference, plus 10% of the difference. You just can't go wrong with a Highland price!

Our suppliers love us. Our customers love us. Our competitors hate us.

Listen: It's a jungle out there. Note to our competitors: If you can't stand the heat — get out of the kitchen

The Rabbit is Amazing. But don't take our word for it.

Road & Track This car does it all, it's small, light, easy to drive, with nimble and responsive steering, ride and handling. Best performance $3,500.

Road Test Magazine It is the most comprehensive guide to the latest in car technology. Volkswagen's Rabbit is the best value for 1976.

Car & Driver While evaluations of cars will differ, years with this car strongly impressed by its generally high performance and its general feeble maintenance. The steering wheel and gear shift are perfect.

Esquire In the specific case of car that Detroit will be building in the 1980's.

The car is a transmission Rabbit got a 4-cylinder 1600 cc. 115 hp. gas engine. The highway is 24 mpg. City is 28 mpg. And it's a 5-speed manual. It's a very good car, very dependable, very economical. It's a very good car, very dependable, very economical.

'NEW' TEAM DEBUTS TONIGHT

Women cagers compete

By MIKE JENKINS
 State News Sports Writer

Armed with a revamped varsity squad, Spartan basketball coach Dominic Marino will take his women cagers into the state championships today at Kalamazoo's Western Michigan University.

Scheduled to run through Saturday, the meet will see the varsity debut of seven ex-JV squad members who were moved up to varsity positions

Feb. 23.

The juggling of personnel, which was protested by several team members including Regina Goldschmidt, who quit the team because of it, was done to give the Spartan squad more strength shooting and under the boards, Marino said.

Starting for MSU will be Kathy Eritano, Lori Hyman, Jill Prudden, Karen Santoni and Mary Ann Thompson. The remainder of the Spartan varsity includes Sue Ertl, Pam Gibbons, Carol Hutchin, Mariann Mankowski, Mary Newton, K.J. Schwartz and Kathy Strahan.

The Spartans hosted the championships last year and placed third to Western Michigan and Calvin College. Western Michigan, U-M, Wayne State and Eastern Michigan are the top four teams at present, followed by Calvin College, Grand Valley State and Central Michigan.

"I think we'll surprise a lot of people at the championships who are looking at our 2-13 record," Marino said. "We'll do better than our record suggests."

The Spartan cagers go into action today at 2:30 p.m. against Northern Michigan. The winner of that matchup will then face Wayne State at 10 a.m. Friday.

In addition to the larger schools, seven small college division teams will also compete, including Albion, Hope, Kalamazoo, Olivet, Saginaw Valley, Shaw College of Detroit and Spring Arbor.

Though it is a single-elimination format, Chris Hoyle, WMU director of intramurals for women and the tournament director, said that all teams will play at least two games but there will not be a consolation bracket.

The top two teams in each division will advance to the regional competition March 11-13.

The Intramural and Gary Central Gymnasiums will be the site of the state championships, with games scheduled for 2:30, 5:30 and 8 p.m. Thursday; 10 a.m., 12:30, 3 and 6:30 p.m. Friday and 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets will go on sale at the door for 50 cents during preliminary action, $2 for semi-final and final competition and $4 for the entire tournament.

Blue jeans interest Russian wrestlers

What movie would you show a Russian wrestling team whose members spoke little or no English? Maybe a Chaplin epic or a Fairbanks swashbuckler would fill the bill.

What sights would you show the contingency from the Soviet Union? Perhaps an art gallery or a museum of natural history would illustrate the Western world best.

If your answers to these problems were close to the ones given above, well, suffice it to say that you are dead wrong.

The U.S.S.R. wrestling team flew into East Lansing from Toledo, Ohio, Tuesday after taking the World Cup in that city.

They were then taken to the state capital where they toured and were given a resolution of tribute by Bobby Crim, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Tuesday night, the Soviets were guests at a dinner sponsored by the Take Down Club at the Lion's Den in Lansing. The dinner followed an hour-and-a-half workout in the Men's IM Building. The dinner followed an hour-and-a-half workout in the Men's IM Building.

Now comes the choice. Where to take them on Wednesday? This problem is actually not as difficult to solve as it first seems. Merely walk down the street with the team members and watch as they see the countless number of blue jean-clad people walk by. Blue jeans in the Soviet Union are reported to cost at least $35 a pair. The Russians went shopping at the Meridian Mall.

Another workout at 5 p.m. in the Men's IM Building and dinner, then an open evening. The wrestlers, however, wanted to see an American film. Again the problem. What can you show them that they would understand? There are no silent films in town.

"They wanted to see a western," said MSU asst. wrestling coach Stan Dziedzic, who will wrestle in tonight's U.S.-U.S.S.R. meet. "So, we looked around and found the only western in town. It's one that I'm sure they'll understand. After all, you don't have to speak English to get 'Blazing Saddles.'"

Today coach Yuri Shakhmuradov's team will weigh in at 8:30 a.m., then rest up for the entire day before going into the meet tonight. The Russian team contains eight world class champions including 1972 Olympic gold medalist Ivan Yarygin and 1975 World gold medalist Soslan Andiyev.

The meet is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. and will be preceded by a clinic that will explain the differences between NCAA-type wrestling and the Olympic or freestyle type.

Women cancel trip for weekend meet

There are two reasons why the MSU women's swim team isn't going to this weekend's Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) Midwest Championships at Macomb, Ill.

The main reason is that the meet really would not mean much to the Spartans, either in competition or in having any effect on their already scheduled trip to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., for the AIAW National Championships March 18 through 20.

To qualify for the nationals, according to MSU standards, a swimmer must match or better the eighth-place time which was set in last year's national meet. MSU sets these standards to insure that only the best MSU women athletes enter national competition. Since what the Spartan swimmers do at the AIAW Midwest meet has nothing to do with qualifying for the nationals, there really wasn't much interest expressed by the team in making the trip.

Besides that, MSU's women's athletics department is on a tight budget for championship meets. Because money is tight, Parks and the Spartans weighted the priorities and decided to cancel their trip to Macomb this weekend.

"We felt that the more important meet was the national championships," Parks explained. "We also heard at the Big Ten Championships several weeks ago that U-M, Indiana, Ohio State and Minnesota wouldn't be going to the Midwest meet either, so our swimmers wondered why we had to go."

Club Sports

The MSU Sailing Club, in association with the Crystal Sailing Club, will sponsor a Flying Dutchman and Flying Junior sailing seminar and boat swap. The event will take place Saturday in the turf arena of the Men's IM Building from 1 to 5 p.m. All interested persons should contact the sailing club.
