

A GUATEMALAN FILLING STATION—The ox cart age gave first aid to the age of the airplane when an American mapping machine ran out of gas at San Jeronimo. Civilization creeps in Guatemala; there's many and many a farm without an oil-torium.

ABOVE THE CLOUDS—An exploring squadron of navy amphibians, bound from Seattle for southeastern Alaska, cruises above billows of vapor. In the golden northwest the planes will map 12,000 square miles of trackless forest, completing work begun by a similar expedition three years ago.

A PLEASANT BREAKFAST is enjoyed by Sir Gilbert Parker. The Duncan sisters, Vivian and Rosetta, produced this off-stage act for the British writer on a morning when the three were guests at the Los Angeles Breakfast club.

YOUR FLAG AND MY FLAG, theme of Francis Scott Key, will have its day next Friday. Old Fort McHenry, the British bombardment of which inspired "The Star Spangled Banner" in 1814, has this aspect today. The guns which frown from emplacements are those which defended the fort.
