Worked Hard; Talked Little.

Mr. Weyerhaeuser was a man who worked quietly. "He talked with his hands and his brain by doing things, but rarely with his mouth," says one authority. Before he became a tremendous figure he had the reputation of being a witty man and easy of approach. In his later years he became more difficult of approach, though still democratic in his habits.

At a social gathering in St. Paul his silence became so heavy that it was noticeable, and one of the women present reproached him.

"Why don't you ever take part in the conversation, Mr. Weyerhaeuser?" she asked. "Why, it's this way," he replied. "I have two eyes to see with and two ears to hear with, but I have only one mouth and that is to eat with."

Protests 'Tassels' on Lath.

What few comments he ever made were usually epigrammatic. This was as true in his business dealings as in his private life. On one occasion he visited a sawmill at Cloquet and listened, but said little while his manager showed him about the plant, pointed out the excellent output and the economy of the operations. Finally he noticed some laths with strings tied about them. The strings were a foot or more longer than was necessary. Mr. Weyerhaeuser broke his silence.

"The laths are all right," he said, "but let them bring any better price on account of the tassels?"

Besides being democratic he was pleasant in his manner, kind of heart, and charitably inclined. He gave money to church and charitable organizations from time to time. During the latter years of his life he spent much time and money promoting the work of reforestation of the waste lands he had helped to denude.

Mode of Life Simple.

Mr. Weyerhaeuser was always thrifty, and his method of life was characterized by simplicity. He often said he made his way by paying more attention "to his credit than to his clothes."

When the story about his fabulous wealth started he denied it strenuously. "That's all wrong and foolish," he said. "I have enough to pay my debts, with sufficient left over to keep my family and myself comfortable for the rest of my days."

Mr. Weyerhaeuser's only real rage came over the kidnapping story which was given wide publicity in March, 1907. Frederick E. Weyerhaeuser, his son, was in California and failed to appear on time at an important appointment. Immediately it was rumored that he had been kidnapped. At the same time a confusion arose that it was Weyerhaeuser senior and not his son. Mr. Weyerhaeuser was at his home in St. Paul and spent several days in trying to convince the world that the story was, in the words of Mark Twain, "grossly exaggerated."

HE TELLS OF ACID THROWING.

Mrs. Mary Karant, Victim, Gives Details at Inquest of Husband's Jealousy.

Mrs. Mary Karant, a nurse at the county hospital, told a coroner's jury yesterday how she incurred a scar under her left eye. Her husband, she said, was so jealous of her he threw acid at her and then killed himself. The jury decided Karant had committed suicide while temporarily insane. Mrs. Karant will retain her sight.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

SECRETARY BRYAN, suffering from a severe cold, is improved. Although still confined to his Washington home he is giving personal attention to state department affairs.

MRS. LILLIAN M. N. STEVENS, president of the National Women's Christian Temperance union, is seriously ill at her home in Portland, Me., with kidney trouble. Since December she has been under a physician's care.

COUNT MICHAEL KAROLYI, leader of the Independent party in the Hungarian parliament and one of the wealthiest men in Hungary, arrived at New York. He will tour the eastern section of the United States.

GOV. J. F. A. STRONG of Alaska arrived at Seattle, Wash., from Juneau. Gov. Strong will take part in an Alaska railroad celebration at Tacoma. Then he will go to Denver to attend the conference of western governors and finally to Washington, to confer with President Wilson.

JOSEPH G. CANNON, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, sailed for Bermuda from New York. He is going, he said, to see if Bermuda is as much like heaven as Mark Twain said it was.

VILLA CLEANS UP WRECKED TORREON

who were enraged by rumors that a large number of Americans were in Villa's army. As a matter of fact, there were but nine. None of them was killed or wounded.

American Surgeon Helps Rebels.

Dr. A. N. Carr, an American resident of Torreon, was the only physician on duty when the rebels took the town. He transferred his services to Villa, and the latter instructed him to continue his work in the hospital.

The formal entry into the city was without ceremony. The victory has greatly raised the spirits of the soldiers, who have come through a trying campaign and who now talk confidently of the taking of the national capital itself.

Deny Fall of Torreon.

Mexico City, April 4.—The federal government still obstinately denied today the capture of Torreon by the rebels. It was assumed in many quarters, however, that Gen. Huerta and his ministers were not in ignorance of the fate of that city.

It was suggested that the withholding of the news from the public was based on psychological rather than on military grounds. It was pointed out by serious minded people here that the temperament of the Mexican populace was such that news of a disaster like the fall of Torreon might easily start an avalanche of public opinion against the administration, which would thus find itself seriously embarrassed at a most critical moment of its career.

Gives Rebels Half of Republic.

The taking of Torreon gives the Constitutionalists control of practically half the republic, with the exception of the cities of Saltillo and Monterrey, the capitals of the states of Coahuila and Nuevo Leon.

Military men regard the retreat of Gen. Velasco from Torreon as a most dangerous undertaking, and they consider the position of Gen. Javier de Mouri and Gen. Joaquin Maas at San Pedro as precarious.

ARGUE MEXICAN POLICY.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 4.—President Wilson's Mexican policy was criticized and defended at today's session of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, at which the situation in the neighboring republic, its problems and obligations were discussed. There was, however, a general agreement among the speakers that there will be no permanent peace in that war-torn country until the land problem is settled.

OBITUARY.

MRS. AGATHA BAUER, widow of Andrew Bauer, who was one of Chicago's pioneer musicians, died on Thursday in Muskegon, Mich. Mrs. Bauer was born in Bavaria in 1836 and came to Chicago in 1852. Her husband was a member of John Hand's Great Western Light Guard band. She was three times forced to give up her homestead because of the growth of Chicago, twice from a location in old Third avenue, near Twelfth and Taylor streets, and the last time from 17 Harmon court. During the last year she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Pratt, on a farm near Muskegon. Funeral services will be held from 4026 South State street at noon today. Burial at St. Boniface.

MRS. MARK NEUMAN, founder of the Mothers' Aid society of the Chicago Lying-in hospital in Isiah temple, East Forty-fifth street and Vincennes avenue, who died on Friday, will be given memorial services at 2:30 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Rabbi Joseph Stolz will deliver a sermon on the life of Mrs. Neuman.

PAUL LINCOLN ANDERSON, artist, designer and athlete, died yesterday at the residence of his parents, 7018 Rhodes avenue. He was graduated at the Art Institute and was 34 years old.

POLITICAL NOTES BY WIRE.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Representative Maples Connolly of Dubuque, Ia., formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination, to run against Senator Cummins.

TOPEKA, Kas.—An active interest in the political campaign this year is to be taken by the Kansas Women's Christian Temperance union. More than 700 meetings will be held, at which members of the W. C. T. U. will discuss legislation, platforms and candidates.

CAMPAIGN KEEPS KENOSHA LIVELY

Farr and Scholey Both Warn Voters Against Believing Each Other's 'Roorbacks.'

EACH HAS BEEN MAYOR.

Saloon Regulation Candidate Holds Many Liquor Dealers Against His Opponent.

Kenosha, Wis., April 4.—[Special.]—Campaign odds have accumulated so rapidly in this city's mayoralty race, which will be decided at next Tuesday's election, that voters show signs of overlooking the merits of the contest in their eager watch for features. In consequence of the rapid play, leaders on both sides (for there can be only two candidates for municipal office under the Wisconsin law) today issued warnings against "roorbacks."

The two candidates for mayor have unusual records. Each has served the city as its executive more than once.

Dr. W. M. Farr, who has been mayor three times, the last time twenty years ago, is the nominee of the "good government" element that elected a lumberman, Dan O. Head, mayor two years ago. Farr's first election was as a Republican; the next two times he went in on the Democratic ticket. Back again on the Republican ticket, he was defeated on his fourth try. Since then he has wiped out the party labels and, like his opponent, he is a "nonpartisan" and thinks his record proves it.

Opponent a Saloonkeeper.

Against Farr the candidate is M. J. Scholey, a saloonkeeper and brewery agent, who served two terms until retired by Lumberman Head. Since his defeat in 1912 by some forty votes Scholey has been campaigning daily on a half allowance of sleep and believes he has "made up" those forty votes. He is a Democrat in national politics.

Under Mayor Head the saloons have been open five days a week until 11 p. m. and until midnight on Saturday and Sunday. In return the saloon men are on "good behavior," and the two years of experience have been so satisfactory that Dr. Farr has announced he will continue the policy. On a "law and order" lineup it is said

Kenosha is about equally divided. The Civic federation, however, after two years of quiescence, foresees "something doing" if Scholey can "come back" and has reorganized with new officers, whose names have been kept secret.

Saloon Men Against Scholey.

One peculiarity of the campaign is that, although Scholey is a saloonkeeper, many of the saloon men are against him. This is because he is a brewery agent and it is charged that when he was mayor the saloons using his concern's lager enjoyed more than their share of privileges.

Scholey objects to paying $5,000 a year for a health department and would return to the $500 a year system.

A document, signed by Scholey as mayor but dated after his successor had been sworn in, has been found, showing an acceptance of a trunk sewer and "all materials" with a bill for "extras" of $72,000. This writing, photographed, is running wild.

Some $30,000 proceeds from the sale of $100,000 of sewer bonds were transferred from the special fund and used for current expenses in the Scholey administration. Consequently there wasn't enough money in the "sewer fund" to pay for the sewer.

Scholey complains of high taxes. Mayor Head retorts that this was because Scholey grabbed the sewer fund.

Only on one point do the Farr and Scholey camps agree. The Farr leaders admit Scholey's assertion that he wrote his own platform and do not dispute his boast: "I am the same old Matt as ever."

GOING TO MOVE? LOCATE NEAR THE ELEVATED

Artistic Interior Decoration

on a

Strictly Business Basis

For a generation the W. Scott Thurber Art Galleries have occupied an enviable position in Chicago. Consistent, intelligent effort has been directed to the building up of an institution that might satisfy the demands of those appreciative of artistic merit, whether in the humble print at a few dollars or in the original painting valued in five figures.

In course of time this institution has built up an organization of specialists, men of high caliber, of high character, and of reputation in the world of art. Many of our patrons have come to appreciate and rely upon the artistic judgment of these men—have sought their advice in the hanging of paintings in their homes—then in the artistic arrangement of the rooms containing the paintings—then in the redecoration of their residences.

Some time ago we realized that we were performing the services of decorators to some of the very best people in Chicago. The work had come to us unsolicited, and the enthusiastic approval of our efforts encouraged us to go further with it.

We therefore founded a department to specialize in interior decorating and are conducting it on a basis that is truly unique, both on the artistic side and on the business side.

As to BUSINESS

We will handle work only on a straight commission basis. Furniture, hangings, upholstery, wallpaper, etc., will be furnished to patrons at their wholesale cost to us plus our commission.

Labor will be hired and the proper execution of all work supervised for the exact sums paid out by us in wages plus our commission.

Changes and alterations in schemes may be made freely without any resultant bills for "extras."

As our decorating department is operated as an adjunct to the growing business of our art galleries, there are no overhead charges to be considered in fixing our compensation.

You are thus insured results at a minimum of expense. You pay for exactly what you get in labor and materials plus a commission, for which you receive our services in the thorough, conscientious, artistic planning and execution of the work.

As to ART

At the head of our department of interior decorating we have placed Mr. A. de Severinus, an artist who executed for many years the principal decorations of the late Stanford White and many other renowned architects of both the old world and the new. His reputation is such that we often have in a single consignment $200,000 to $300,000 worth of old masters sent here from New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, as well as European cities, to be restored under his supervision. And he knows as much about interior decoration as he does about old masters.

In handling every problem he has the assistance of a staff of "men who know"; a staff on which the high standing of the Thurber Art Galleries is built. He also has the active co-operation of Mrs. Thurber, a woman peculiarly fitted to see that everything is both artistically right and practical from the standpoint of a housewife.

If you are contemplating any work in interior decorating it will be much to your monetary benefit to engage us.

We are prepared to do work anywhere in the United States, and in consulting us as to your plans you incur no obligation, but rather place us under obligation to you.

Drop us a note or call and meet Mr. de Severinus.
