Smoke and gas and a fall of rock and earth delayed the progress of the force which is trying to penetrate the tunnel. They penetrated to the baggage car from the south entrance and removed much debris.

DEMOCRATIC FOES ASSAIL SULLIVAN

politics. It logically follows that the political boss—the walking delegate of big business—must go. Such a one is Boss Murphy of New York; such a one is Roger Sullivan of Illinois.

"For years the Democratic minority in the Illinois legislature has been relentlessly in the clutches of Sullivanism. Sullivan has had his personal lobby at Springfield each session.

Asks Sullivan Pointed Questions. "Why the lobby, Mr. Sullivan? Who paid the bills? Please give the public the names of the men who have been your lieutenants in Springfield during the sessions of the legislature. Did one of them go to Europe with an undivided jackpot as his traveling companion? Is he still your friend and supporter?"

"I am not opposed to Mr. Sullivan because he is a millionaire. I am opposed to the way he got the money. Mr. Sullivan has been successful, but I distinguish between the man who earns his money in legitimate business and the politician for profit who collects millions. The size of the fortune tells the story.

"Roger Sullivan, you say you are for President Wilson. He has said that he can distinguish between a good boss and a bad boss, but that, for his part, does not believe in any boss for a free American people.

"Poverty is the great problem of our time. To its solution progressive Democracy is dedicated. Mr. Wilson's program has accomplished this in part. The abolition of industrial discontent and the maintenance of the solvency of the average man is the future program to vote. I, as a progressive Democrat, commit myself."

Piercy Silent on Candidacy. State Senator W. Duff Piercy of Mount Vernon did not make formal announcement of his candidacy. His friends present were given to understand, however, that they might consider him in the going. He had marked criticism to make of the Sullivan boom and joined with Postmaster Sikes in putting it down as a blot on the fair name of Illinois Democracy.

Carl Vrooman of Bloomington approached the subject from the standpoint of the presence of a real awakening of the people of Illinois to the progressive spirit of the times. John Z. White of Chicago, recognized as the avowed exponent of the single tax, made this issue the chief feature of his address.

Two Committees Are Named. The banquet was preceded by a meeting of the legislative committee, at which two temporary committees were named on campaign and organization. The first consists of Walter C. Niebur of Lincoln, Representative H. A. Foster of Fairbury, and Vincent Y. Dallman of the Illinois State Register, Springfield, and four others, each of the senatorial candidates present to name one.

The organization committee, which is to handle the finances, is composed of Woodruff Saul, 7035 Greenwood avenue, Chicago, State Senator Kent E. Keller of Ava, and State's Attorney A. T. Lucas of Virginia, Cass county, with four others to be named by the four candidates.

There will be a general organization meeting tomorrow morning.

Sullivanite Calls It Fiasco. Representatives of the Sullivan campaign organization and scouts in plenty were on hand, scurrying through the ranks of the gathering anti-Sullivan people.

Joseph M. Page, in charge of the preliminary organization work downstate of the Sullivan forces, said: "Were I in charge of this I should have to admit that it is a fiasco. There is no general representation from the downstate counties. Many of those at the tables have been recruited from Springfield, and there are few faces which have been seen in state politics, regardless of old factional lines. I have seen but very few of the members of the last legislature who were openly aligned as anti-Sullivan men."

Dunne and Aids Absent. Notables among the absentees were Gov. Dunne and all of the Democratic state officers. No word came from the executive. James C. McShane, one of the announced candidates for senator, sent the letter which was given to the press on Saturday. Wiley W. Mills sent a telegram of regret from Chicago.

TICE GOOD ROADS LAW VALID. JUDGE J. A. CREIGHTON HOLDS.

Sustains Demurrer of State, Which Defended Suit Brought by Jacob Martens of McLean County.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—Judge James A. Creighton, in the Sangamon Circuit court, today handed down a decision declaring valid the good roads law enacted by the general assembly at its last session. The law was attacked in a case brought by Jacob Martens, McLean county, to enjoin Auditor of Public Accounts Brady and State Treasurer Ryan from paying out state funds under the act. The court today sustained the demurrer of state officials. Martens will take an appeal.

House Debates Good Roads Bill. Washington, D.C., Feb. 9.—Detailed consideration of the good roads bill kept the house busy today. Scores of amendments were offered to the measure, but only one change of importance was made. An amendment by Representative Keating which would give each state in the union a minimum of $68,000 from the $25,000,000 to be appropriated for federal aid to the state construction of roads was adopted.

State Superintendent Receiver. An application for the appointment of J. L. Hutton, state superintendent of banks, as receiver for the Mercantile bank was granted today by Chancellor Pentress. Mr. Hutton arrived from Nashville and took charge of the bank's affairs.

The bill filed in the Chancery court by the board of directors sets forth that the bank's insolvency was directly caused by the bank's president. It sets forth further that the bank's liabilities approximate $2,196,888, with assets of $1,408,088. The bank was capitalized at $300,000; its annual statement, issued Jan. 6, showed a surplus of $100,000, and the total deposits were given at $1,861,000.

A large per cent of the depositors were persons of small means who were attracted to the bank by its plan of quarterly compound interest. Just how much will be realized to the depositors is unknown.

Efforts are being made by several directors to make up a fund to repay the smaller depositors in advance of a final adjustment of the bank's affairs.

May Not Be Able to Hold Directors. Opinions differ as to whether the directors can be held personally accountable by the depositors under the terms of the banking act of Tennessee, which went into effect on Jan. 1. Some officials hold this does not apply to the Mercantile, as it was chartered before the first of the year.

By applying to the Chancery court for a receiver and the granting of the application, litigation by creditors was prevented. State Bank Superintendent Hutton, under the banking laws of the state, automatically assumes charge of a banking institution at the moment that its insolvency becomes known.

A squadron of police guarded the bank's doors all day. A crowd of several hundred depositors formed just before the opening hour. When it was learned the bank would not open following the discovery of the shortage on Sunday angry mutterings were heard.

THIS is a time of money-saving for men in all sorts of things to wear; it's a time when the more a man spends the more he saves.

You notice that financial circles are busy with advice to investors, giving suggestions as to the right sort of securities to buy. It's the same way in our store; this is the time to make your clothes investments.

When we consider the goods we have here, and figure what their real value for the wearer is, and then look at the prices at which we're selling them, we see savings for our customers of 40 and 50 per cent.

That's a pretty big return on an investment when you consider returns; especially when you think that the goods we're selling will be just as good next fall as if you bought them then at regular prices.

We notice this, as business goes along: It isn't so much the prices that count as it is the quality of the merchandise; our customers seem to prefer the higher priced stuff; more money saved on it. We suggest that you look over the things here; suits, overcoats, trousers.

The new spring 1914 styles in hats, shirts, suits, boys' clothes, etc., are now in and ready to show.
