

SAILING COLUMBUS' OCEAN TRAIL in a 15 ton Viking ship, Capt. Gerhard Folgero and four Norse companions reach Havana, Cuba, aboard the Roald Amundsen after a stormy 42 day cruise from Palos, Spain. Capt. Folgero, a friend of Amundsen, will visit ports of the new world to collect funds for a memorial to the memory of the Norwegian explorer. Two hurricanes marked the voyage of the Roald Amundsen, here shown beneath the walls of historic Morro Castle. (Associated Press.)

MEET PROF. AL THOMAS, faculty member of The Tribune's University of Baseball, Sox twirler de luxe and No. 1 in the series of instructors in sphereology. He opened the 1930 classes at Sox park last week. Roto portraits of all the "professors" are to be published so that the students may have an opportunity to preserve in albums, as well as in memory, remembrance of their teachers. A CHICAGO PHILANTHROPIST HONORED IN SCULPTURE—A bust of Jacob M. Loeb, executed by Numa Patlagean of France, is presented to the Jewish People's institute by its directors in tribute to Mr. Loeb's election as president for the nineteenth consecutive time. Between the bust and its subject is James Davis. (Tribune photo.)

THE LAND OF UPSIDE-DOWN—A crystal sphere at the national museum permits a Washington photographer to stand a guard on his head. The world's largest flawless ball of its kind, it is more than a foot in diameter and more than 106 pounds in weight. (Underwood & Underwood photo.)
