HERE GOES A RECORD-Aubrey Bracey of Rice institute races to a place among the globe's fleetest sprinters as he ties world time of :09 3-5 for the 100 yard dash and smashes the meet record at the outdoor track and field championships of the National Collegiate A. A. on Soldiers' field. Stanford of California galloped away with team honors.

In 353 B. C. The Tomb of Mausolus at Halicarnassus was erected by an ancient queen as evi-dence of her love for her eminent Greek architects, artists and sculptors were employed for its construction, and from Mausolus' Tomb we have derived the word "Mausoleum." To speak of Mausoleums is to picture the most beautiful and artistic that mankind can conceive for the last rest-ing place of his departed loved ones.

HROUGH the ages a tomb has stood for aristocratic burial. Only a favored few were allowed the privilege of over-ground entombment; they were always the renowned of the race.

Today Oakridge Abbey affords this great community the advantage of placing their hallowed dead in the most magnificent mausoleum in all the world. This beautiful structure is built to endure, as endlessly as do the famed pyramids of Egypt, as faultlessly as does the Taj Mahal. Oakridge Abbey is built throughout -interior and exterior-of Georgia Crystalline marble which is more durable than granite.

Although dedicated to the dead there is nevertheless peace and satisfaction for the living, in visiting this edifice in the heart of lovely Oakridge Cemetery, in the midst of mighty oaks. Such a permanent home softens grief when death finally takes our loved ones.
