

STOP FIDDLING! C. I. O. CHIEFTAINS TELL ROOSEVELT

Gov. Townsend Replies to Troop Request Today.

The steel strike situation in the South Chicago and East Chicago districts took an active turn last night after a full week of the holiday weekend. These were the developments:

1. Committee for Industrial Organization strike chiefs sent President Roosevelt a sharp telegram, accusing him of fiddling while Rome burns, and calling upon him to call a national conference to end the strike they began on May 26.

2. A small crowd of strikers and strike sympathizers gathered in front of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company plant in South Chicago to hear Nicholas Tentacchio, Steel Workers' Organizing committee leader, try to revive interest in the strike.

3. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana announced that he would reply to the appeal of East Chicago ministers for a peaceful and just settlement of the strike.

Gov. Townsend announced that he would reply to the ministers' appeal after representatives of the workers had also asked him to protect those who wished to return to their jobs in the Youngstown plant in East Chicago, which is in Indiana.

The back to work movement there has been given added impetus by the knowledge that the Inland Steel company employees are now working and drawing pay under a strike truce. The Youngstown company has refused the truce, insisting that the governor enforce the law and safeguard workers in their right to their jobs. Until protection is given, company officials say they will not reopen the plant. The South Chicago plant, guarded by police, has already been reopened.

FORCED HEALTH TESTS ARE NEAR, SAYS SENATOR

Compulsory public health examinations are more than a probability under the administration of the social security act, Senator Robert D. Thomas (D., Utah) told 2,500 delegates yesterday at the opening of the American Osteopathic association convention at the Stevens hotel.

"All professions are regulated," Senator Thomas said. "Schools today have school nurses and physical examinations."

"Do you think the government would go into social security for the benefit of the people without considering the matter of medical examinations on a scientific footing? Public examinations of the people are coming because the social security act is actually a big insurance deal."

The Hyde Park police yesterday were searching for Alice Griffio, 13 years old, who disappeared after she had left her home at 4717 Kenwood avenue Sunday to attend church services at St. Ambrose's Catholic church, 47th street and Ellis avenue. Mrs. Gertrude Whitton, her mother, told the police that she feared that her daughter may have met with violence. The girl recently graduated from the Holy Angel's parochial school.

"Post Early," Slogan Says; Card Arrives 35 Years Late

LEEDS, England, July 5.—(P)—A postcard bearing the stamped slogan of the postoffice "post early" has just been delivered here after taking more than 35 years to travel from a town just 70 miles away. The writer was 6 years old when he posted the letter to his mother Jan. 12, 1902. Now his mother is dead and he is married and the father of two children.

"They will continue to do so as long as you continue to play the fiddle while Rome burns, the same as old Nero did. The time is at hand and a national emergency is here. We still have faith in you. Please act at once, call a national conference of representatives of the steel industry and the Steel Workers' Organizing committee to make a peaceful and just settlement of the strike."

ROPER DEMANDS REASON BY BOTH IN LABOR UNREST

Urges Workers Maintain
Public's Regard.

Washington, D. C., July 5.—(P)—Secretary of Commerce Roper asked tonight that workers be protected from exploitation both by "misguided labor spokesmen and by selfish leaders of industry."

Following up President Roosevelt's recent expression of opinion that the public is impatient with extremists on both sides of the industrial strife, Roper added to the usual administration criticisms of some employers this advice to labor:

"Labor has achieved great power for good. In doing so it has necessarily been placed in a corresponding position of responsibility to itself and to the general community."

"It should develop a policy which will safeguard the continued faith of all citizens in the rectitude and justice of its purposes and in the justice of its methods."

"The employer is not alone an employer and the employee is not alone an employee. They are first of all American citizens with responsibilities to the consumers and to society at large. They must justify the good will of each other and the public by observing these obligations imposed by law or agreement as well as those suggested by good morals."

The cabinet member also hinted of amendments to the Wagner labor relations act to satisfy employers who think it one-sided.

"When fair administration reveals defects or inadequacies in statutory requirements, then prompt correction should be made in the interest of all," he said in this connection.

Urges Reason in Disputes.

Concluding his plea for industrial peace, Roper said:

American ideals preclude hate and willful animosities. These ideals have long been expressed through understanding and cooperation among all segments of our people during periods of adjustment.

"Now the component parts of the national community demand that the disturbed segments adjust their differences, equitably and peaceably, so that the system under which we have achieved mutual progress shall be maintained inviolate."

C. I. O. ASKS ROOSEVELT TO TRY TO END STRIKE IN N. Y. SHIPYARDS

New York, July 5.—(Special.)—Intervention by President Roosevelt and three members of the federal cabinet to "reestablish industrial peace" in New York and New Jersey shipyards, now closed by a strike, was urged today by local 13 of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate. The strike has been in effect since the middle of last month.

Identical telegrams sent by the union to the President, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of the Navy Claude E. Swanson, and to all representatives and senators from the affected area said:

"Obstinate refusal of New York and New Jersey Drydock association to comply with national labor relation board terms, causing shipowners to violate safety at sea measures, retarding completion of naval work and merchant marine expansion act. Imperative use your good offices in behalf of 15,000 shipyard workers by taking action to reestablish industrial peace."

Urges Reason in Disputes.

The service, known as the benediction of an abbot, was held in St. Procopius church, 18th and Allport streets.

GERMAN AND ITALIAN LABOR ORGANIZATIONS FORM AN ALLIANCE

ROME, July 5.—(P)—Formation of a sweeping alliance between the government controlled labor organizations of Italy and Germany was announced today.

The pact, signed by Tullio Cianetti, president of the Fascist Confederation of Industrial Workers, and Robert Ley, leader of the German Labor Front, was approved by the Italian and German governments.

The text of the accord, which consists of eight articles, declared it was not intended to "create a new international organization"—referring to the international organizations of Socialists and communists. Nevertheless, the two labor fronts agreed to consult each other before taking any international action; to recognize labor organizations affiliated with the other; to exchange information and data on experiences.
