

HAVE HARD TIME FINDING CHARITY IN GARRETT WILL

It Still Has Officers, but Fades from View.

When Mrs. Ada Sawyer Garrett, for many years a recluse, died on June 18 she willed $500,000 of her 24 million dollar estate to the Home for Self Supporting Women for a new building.

When the will was probated a week ago, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, a trustee of the estate, looked around for the home and couldn't find it, either by its original name or the Indiana house, its latter designation.

But They Find It.

Yesterday, however, it appeared that the proper recipient of the $500,000 had been found when Mrs. William S. Monroe, prominent in Chicago charitable work, explained what had become of the home.

Mrs. Monroe explained that the home during its long life, occupied a building on Indiana street, now Grand avenue. It had since been modeled for use as the Chicago College of Commerce plant.

The Home for Self Supporting Women became the Indiana house before the change in the street name, but later ceased to function, she said. Its activities were merged with the School of Domestic Arts and Science, 350 Belden avenue, in which Mrs. Monroe is interested also.

She said that the corporate charter of the Indiana house has been retained. She is the president. Gerhardt S. Jorjens, president of the South La Salle street, is the secretary.

Bequest Still in Doubt.

Trust company officials said that, with supporting proof, they would turn the money over to the Indiana house directors. There was still the question, however, of whether the latter were willing to revive the institution and build the new home mentioned in the will.

At her home, White Gates farm, near Wayne, Mrs. Monroe said that the Indiana house organization had not yet held a meeting on what is to be done with the Garrett bequest. It came, about unexpectedly, she pointed out.

HOLDS COMPANY LIABLE FOR COST OF JOB HUNTING

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—The national labor relations board, in a precedent setting ruling, held today that a company discharging workers for union activities was liable for expenses they incurred in hunting new work.

The ruling was made in an order against the Crossett Lumber company, Crossett, Ark. The order directed the company to reimburse with back pay thirty-four workers who, the board said, were discharged for union activity—some as long ago as April, 1935.

The order called for the payment of back pay less net earnings during the period of discharge.

Two Sues Harold Lloyd for $75,000 Over New Film

New York, July 23.—(U. P.)—Harold Lloyd, film comedian, was sued for $75,000 today for breach of contract. The suit was filed in federal court by William Jordan Rapp and Lovell Brentano of New York. It named the Harold Lloyd Moving Picture corporation as co-defendant. Court attaches said papers were incomplete, but that the suit was based on services rendered in the production of Lloyd's newest picture, "Professor Beware."

COL. BOURNIQUE, DANCING MASTER 50 YEARS, DEAD

Taught Chicago Society Ballroom Grace.

Col. Alvar L. Bournique, Chicago's dancing master for the last half century, died yesterday at Leland, Mich., after an illness of three months, according to word received here.

A graceful, courtly little man whose nobleness belied his 72 years, Col. Bournique had taught ballroom dance to society's children since 1880. Before him, in the academy started by his father in 1867, early Chicago had learned to dance.

With his passing the name of Bournique, always associated with dignity and tradition, leaves the Chicago dance floor, for he had no sons to carry on. He retired on March 18, leaving the academy in the hands of Lester Mayhew Jr.

Father Taught Pioneers.

Col. Bournique was born in 1866, a year before his father, Augustus Eugene, and his mother, both renowned for their dancing ability, opened an academy and ballroom in Michigan. Many Chicago pioneers, including Marshall Field and Gen. Phil Sheridan, attended.

From then on Bournique meant correctness in the ballroom. Old Mr. Bournique died in 1926. Eight years before he had turned over active teaching duties to his son Alvar, who had served with the 11th Illinois cavalry in the Spanish-American war and as colonel, adjutant, and chief of staff of the Illinois reserve forces during the world war.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ilo Miller Lorenz, a daughter, Ilo Miller, and his mother, Mrs. Frederick A. Lorenz. The family home is at 7000 South Shore drive.

Masquerade Balls Famous.

Despite the preciseness of his academy which moved to 23d street and Indiana avenue and thence to 1134 North Dearborn street, its present location, the masquerade ball which closed each of his fifty-eight seasons, ended in a tissue paper snowball fight. For this the Bourniques always retired.

Besides his widow, Col. Bournique is survived by two daughters, Mrs. M. D. Ballard of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. W. C. Munneke of Chicago, a brother, Eugene A., and a sister, Miss Elizabeth M. Bournique, both of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held privately at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow at the North Shore cemetery.

F. A. LORENZ JR., STEEL COMPANY EXECUTIVE, DIES

Funeral Tomorrow for Head of Founders.

Frederick Ayres Lorenz Jr., a steel executive, died yesterday after a long illness in Passavant Memorial hospital. He was 52 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in the chapel at 77th street and Jeffery boulevard.

Mr. Lorenz was vice president of the American Steel Foundries, and for four years had been president of the Steel Founders Society of America. He was a director and a member of the advisory committee of the steel division of the American Foundrymen's association. Three months ago he was awarded the Seaman gold medal for outstanding contributions to steel founding operating methods and a life membership in the association.

Rise in Industry Is Rapid.

After he was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1905, Mr. Lorenz received his master's degree in engineering from the University of Illinois. He served as inspection engineer and later superintendent of the East Chicago rolling mill of Republic Iron and Steel company, joining the American Steel Foundries in 1911 as a wheel engineer.

He rose rapidly in the latter organization, being made manager of the Indiana Harbor works, general manager of the industrial division, and then vice president of the company.

Active in Ordnance Body.

Mr. Lorenz was a past director of the Chicago post, Army Ordnance association, and the American Management association. He was a member of Kenwood Masonic lodge, Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the University of Illinois Alumni association. His clubs were the South Shore Country and Tavern.
