ployed of any business concern, city, county, state or federal government.

In order that the medals will be distributed among a greater number of old settlers the committee this year has passed a rule limiting one medal to a person. All interested in the competitions must register with the committee in the tent set aside for that purpose on the picnic grounds between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock that afternoon.

The old fashioned dances, the waltzes, polkas, and mazurkas, will be featured at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The committee in charge of the arrangements will be governed by an executive board assisted by 200 members of the Chicago Turn Gemeinde.

S. WEST SIDERS HEAR 2 VESPER CONCERTS TODAY

Palos Hills and Ryan Woods the Sites.

Songs and the open road are part of the summer. Southwest sliders who follow the highways on a Sunday afternoon will find the ideal spot for an outing today at two choral concerts in forest preserves.

Seventy young men who make music their fun, the Division Street Y. M. C. A. Gleemen, will sing on the bank of Maple lake in Argonne Forest (Palos Hills), 95th street and 104th avenue, and 24 Negro choristers, known as the Armour Jubilee Singers, will chant spirituals in Dan Ryan woods, 87th street and Western avenue. The concerts will be held from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Both groups will sing under the sponsorship of The Tribune in co-operation with the board of commissioners of Cook county. This will be the fourth of a series of nine weekly choral concerts.

Three Other Concerts.

Three other choral twilight hours will be conducted in forest preserves at the same hour this afternoon. In Harms woods, Golf road (Simpson street) and Harms road, the Century Male chorus will present the program, and in Thatcher's woods, Chicago and Thatcher avenues, the Eolian Choral association will sing. At Whelan pool in Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, the concert will be sung by St. Sebastian's choir.

Last year the boys sang at all the Wieboldt stores during the Christmas holidays, gave programs for the "Y" sang in competition with other "Y" glee clubs in the city, winning several victories; presented a concert for the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall last May, and staged their own concert for a packed house this spring.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, July 25.
Attention again is called to the value of summer mulching of all beds out of doors. It consists of spreading two or three inches of well decayed organic manures over the beds between the plants; peat or similar material is excellent and may be more easily obtained by city gardeners. Mulching tends to keep the soil cool, prevents too rapid evaporation, and conserves the moisture. Watering should be done through the material.

Tuesday, July 26.
Most perennials are benefited by applications of liquid manure or commercial foods. Iris may be divided now. Use good divisions for strong plants. Keep phlox well watered. Spray with Bordeaux to combat rust.

Wednesday, July 27.
Dust phlox frequently with dusting sulphur to control mildew. After the phlox has flowered cut back and feed to obtain a second blooming period. Roses will be benefited if fed with a complete plant food at this time, but later feeding may encourage soft fall growths which may winter kill. Spray roses for black spot and mildew.

Thursday, July 28.
Cultivation and watering, keeping every bed or border in the highest state of culture, is of prime importance during this season. Watch for insects, and spray as soon as any are seen. Use stomach poisons for eating insects and contact sprays for sucking insects. Borers attack maple trees, oaks, locusts, and some comifers. No insecticide has yet been invented that will enter the channels, seek out the borers and kill them. Inserting slender wires in the holes and working them up and into the channels will destroy some of the borers.

Friday, July 29.
Keep the geranium plants that were propagated in June for winter flowering pinched back, and shift when necessary. Watch the house plants that are plunged in the garden and keep well watered and fed. The amaryllis will stand applications of plant food to increase the vigor of the bulbs. If any plants are burning from the too dense rays of the sun remove to partial shade. Remove the suckers from the base of the dahlias plants. Sow short season annuals for fall bloom.

Saturday, July 30.
Spray potatoes with arsenate of lead to kill the bugs. Spray tomatoes, potatoes, and cucumbers for blight, using Bordeaux mixture. Divide Japanese iris this month. Keep withered blooms removed from the annuals to obtain a long season of bloom. Order the Dutch bulbs for fall planting.

(Prepared in cooperation with Garfield park conservatory.)

"Po' Oi' Lazurus," led by Napoleon Reed and Walter Webb; "Goin' to Shout All over God's Heaven," led by George Adams; "O, Southland," led by Mr. Reed; "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jericho," led by Mr. Webb; "Home on the Range," led by Mr. Adams, and "Old Man River," led by Mr. Reed.

The tenors of the chorus are Lonnie Vaughn, Mr. Reed, John Nettles, J. H. Lee, Litholion Johnson, Albert Johnson, Roscoe P. Burton, James Browder, John Brown, Dan Edwards, Burford Gordon Jr., L. H. McLamore, and Charles Nettes. Among the baritone and basses are George Adams, John Campbell, Frank Moore, Henry Watson, and J. A. Vinyard. The basses number Eugene are James Miller, George W. Randies, D. R. Roberts, James Verner, and Mr. Webb.

COLONIAL HOME HAS SIMPLE PLAN FOR EXPANSION

Walled Up Doorways May Be Used in Future.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
We build a home intending to live in it for a good many years to come. But we often find that conditions change, new needs arise, and if our house does not possess a certain degree of adaptability we have some real problems on our hands.

An insurance against possible future need for change, today's four room colonial cottage home, with its attached garage and basement recreation area, has been given a floor layout which is unusually flexible.

The owner of this new home at 1030 Sherman avenue, Joliet, is Edward N. Riley. He wanted a little four room cottage in the $5,000 class which could later be expanded into a six room home with two baths at minimum cost.

Floor Plan Flexible.
The novel flexibility of the first floor plan as it now stands will contribute considerably to the ease of future change. So, too, will the upstairs space, which can be easily completed to include two bedrooms and an extra bath.

One sees a glimpse of a white doorway, walls of gleaming white, a roof of heavy asphalt shingles, and shutters painted a rich green shade. It is as serene and unpretentious a cottage as you can find on Cape Cod. It is built of lightweight concrete masonry units with a concrete first floor and precast concrete joists. Its overall is 25 by 30 feet, and to save money the exterior walls were left exposed except for a buff colored cement sprayed finish.

Interior Walls Unpainted.

Again, to cut costs, the interior walls have not been painted. Instead, a cream color was added to the plaster, which is sand finished. As it stands the present floor plan consists of a living room at the front, 11 by 18 feet; a front bedroom, 10 by 11 feet; a second bedroom at the back, 9 by 12 feet, and next to it is the kitchen, 9 feet by 9 feet 6 inches.

There is also a bathroom which is larger than the average and includes a linen closet, recessed tub, and a shower and a floor of asphalt tile. At the left of the house is the attached garage, entered from the kitchen, and in the basement a large recreation room with walls of exposed concrete.

As the floor plan suggests, the bedroom at the back, adjacent to the kitchen, is in reality a dining room. An arch which corresponds to the one in the living room is now sealed and plastered, and so is a doorway in the wall next the kitchen which will one day open into the kitchen in conventional fashion. All that is needed in this room is to be converted into a dining room is to remove plaster, finish arch and doorways, and redecorate.

Wood trim has been used in the doorways and window sills, and hardwood floor has been laid on the concrete in all rooms excepting the bath and kitchen, where asphalt tile has been used. The windows are of steel casement, and in the basement concrete window wells afford ample daylight.

A breakfast set of tables and chairs has been included in the kitchen, and built-in cabinets extend from floor almost to ceiling on either side of the sink.

For summer coolness and all year comfort, added insulation of four inches of fibrous material has been provided in the attic. When the final landscaping is completed there will be a stone and concrete terrace in the small corner between house and garage.

This house cost the owner $5,300 to build. It is obviously a house for a small family.
