

Come Aboard Boys! I Built Them For You

"Here are my ships. Will you be my men?" asks Uncle Sam with this recruiting poster by William C. Both. With the output of the Emergency Fleet corporation reaching almost 100 ships a day, the call for men to man those ships must be so loud that it can be heard simultaneously in Madawaska, Maine, and Watts, California. Such a call Uncle Sam is making in the posters which the representative artists of our country are making.

Mr. Both is a well known Chicago artist. He was born here in 1880 and received most of his art education here at the famous old Smith academy. For one year he studied in Paris under John Paul Laurens. Although Mr. Both has made several drawings for the government, this is the first recruiting poster from his hand. It is a call to men, not only to serve their country by enlisting in the navy, but to accept the blessings of education and the chances for advancement in life which Uncle Sam generously offers his serving sons.
